LOVE FOR HUMBERT

Shown by Messages of Condolence From All Over Europe.

Bressi Claims That Slaying Was Act of Justice.

Was Once Deported, but Liberated In a Short Time Under Amnesty.

Rome, Aug. 1.—There is no longer any fear of revolution. The people are strong and self-reliant. Anarchy is hiding its head. From all over Europe come messages of sympathy and condolence. The popularity of King Humbert was never better shown.

All the Italian troops yesterday took the oath of allegiance to the new king amid the applause of the people. Perfect tranquility reigns throughout the country.

A deputation of senators and deputies had arranged to meet King Victor Emanuel, but, as in conformity with court etiquette, the journey of his majesty to Monza was strictly private, the idea was abandoned. For a similar reason the ministers decided not to go to Naples.

It is reported that the body of King Humbert will be brought here on Sunday. Queen Margherita desires to accompany the remains.

Emperor William has notified the government of his intention to attend the funeral.

A dispatch of condolence has been received from Li Hung Chang.

A magistrate examined Bressi, who was sullen and defiant, replying: "I didn't kill Humbert. I killed the king." He admitted that he was in Monza park the previous day with a woman, and angrily protested that what he had done was not a crime, but an act of justice. Among the persons arrested at Prato is a woman named Teresa Brugnoli, said to have been the mistress of the assassin.

Bressi was born in Prato in 1869. He was denounced in 1895 as a dangerous rioter and deported to the island of Pantellaria. In 1896 he was liberated under the amnesty after the battle of Adowa; and in 1897 he went to the United States.

As the facts develop it is seen that warnings of the crime had been given, and much indignation is felt at the failure of the police to take greater precautions. Signor Saracco questioned a number of witnesses of the crime. General Ponzio-Vaglia, King Humbert's premier aide-de-camp, testified that the shots were fired in such quick succession that he had not time to protect the king.

Hospital Attendant Under Arrest.

Providence, Aug. 1.—John N. Drape, for 14 years an inmate of the state hospital for the insane at Cranston, was found in his room Tuesday morning unconscious, his face a mass of cuts and bruises, and he died at 6 o'clock Tuesday evening from the shock. Patients say that Charles T. McLaughlin, head attendant in the ward, went into the man's room early in the morning, after which they heard considerable noise, and Drape did not come out again until he was carried to the hospital. McLaughlin was put under arrest, pending an autopsy and investigation.

Sad Fatality at Seaside Resort.

New York, Aug. 1.—At Ocean City Tuesday, Virginia and Elsie Lowe and Jennie and Bertie Lonsdale, all under 20 years old, were bathing in the breakers and were carried out by a heavy undertow. Their screams for help attracted the attention of the life guard, who succeeded in bringing them ashore. The Lowe sisters were dead when placed on the beach. The Lonsdale girls showed signs of life and physicians were summoned as speedily as possible, but to no purpose. They both died while the doctors were trying to restore them.

Oil Soldiers Are Fast Dying.

Washington, Aug. 1.—The forthcoming annual report of the commissioner of pensions, Mr. Evans, will show that during the year 40,645 original pensions were granted and 4699 names were restored to the rolls, while 43,334 names were dropped from the rolls during the year, including 35,809 by reason of deaths, 909 by remarriages of pensioners and 6616 for other causes, leaving a total number on the roll July 1 of 993,529. This is an increase of 2010 pensioners for the year.

Brockton Loses a Leading Citizen.

Brockton, Mass., Aug. 1.—David S. Packard died Tuesday at the age of 74. He was president of the Brockton National bank. Mr. Packard represented Brockton in the lower branch of the state legislature. He is said to have been the original shoe finding manufacturer of New England. He was an active member of the society of Masons.

Doesn't Want to Go to Vermont.

Boston, Aug. 1.—John F. Kimball, held here for Vermont officers to answer to a complaint there charging him with having committed bigamy, has brought a petition for the writ of habeas corpus for his release from custody of the police authorities, with a view to preventing his extradition to Vermont.

ELECTION IN SEPTEMBER.

Cubans Will Then Choose Delegates to Frame and Adopt a Constitution.

Washington, Aug. 1.—The war department yesterday promulgated the following order fixing the time of holding the Cuban elections for the selection of delegates to the constitutional convention:

Whereas, the congress of the United States, by its resolution of April 20, 1898, declared: That the people of the island of Cuba are, and of right ought to be, free and independent; that the United States hereby disclaims any disposition or intention to exercise sovereignty, jurisdiction or control over said island except for the pacification thereof, and asserts its determination, when that is accomplished, to leave the government and control of the island to its people.

And, whereas, the people of Cuba have established municipal governments, deriving their authority from the suffrages of the people given under just and equal laws, and are now ready, in like manner, to proceed to the establishment of a general government which shall assume and exercise sovereignty, jurisdiction and control over the island.

Therefore, it is ordered that a general election be held in the island of Cuba on the third Saturday of September, in the year 1900, to elect delegates to a convention to meet in the city of Havana on the first Monday of November, 1900, to frame and adopt a constitution for the people of Cuba and as a part thereof, to provide for and agree with the government of the United States upon the relations to exist between that government and the government of Cuba and to provide for the election by the people of officers under such constitution and the transfer of government to the officers so elected.

The people of the several provinces will elect delegates in number proportioned to their populations as determined by the census, viz:

The people of the province of Pinar Del Rio will elect three delegates; province of Havana, eight delegates; province of Matanzas, four delegates; province of Santa Clara, seven delegates; province of Puerto Principe, two delegates; province of Santiago, seven delegates.

Nelson Led the Way.

Boston, Aug. 1.—With 18,000 people for the moment crazy with excitement, Johnnie Nelson, the Chicago wonder, defeated Jimmie Michael, the Welsh midget, by a bare 15 yards in the 20-mile motor paced race for the championship

JOHNNY NELSON.

Tuesday night. The finish was spectacular enough to satisfy everybody, and it seemed surprising that not an existing record fell. The time was 23:03 3-5, and Michael continues to hold the record for the distance of 31:41 1-5. Nelson showed the way from the start, the midget following about 10 yards behind, only once or twice lessening the distance by a few feet.

Revolt of Laboring Classes.

New Orleans, Aug. 1.—News has reached here of a general riot at Belize, British Honduras. The tax on the necessaries of life was increased, and the laboring classes revolted. A man named Huer led the mob, which stormed the palace of Governor General Wilson, demanding an audience. The colonial guards dispersed the mob at the point of the bayonet. Governor Wilson is now on a visit to President Diaz of Mexico, and will visit London before returning to Honduras.

Case of Playwright Hoyt.

Hartford, Aug. 1.—There was a hearing before Judge of Probate Freeman Tuesday on the application for a revocation of the order committing Charles H. Hoyt to the retreat for the insane. No one appeared in opposition to the petition, the allegation being made that Mr. Hoyt was induced to come to Hartford under a misapprehension. Judge Freeman reserved his decision.

Second Death From Glanders.

Fitchburg, Mass., Aug. 1.—The second death in the Albee family here from glanders, contracted in treating a horse that was suffering from that disease, occurred Tuesday, when Wallace Albee, 17 years old, succumbed, after an illness of over two weeks. Lyman C. Albee, the father, died two weeks ago from glanders.

But Few In Attendance.

Indianapolis, Aug. 1.—The American Protective League of Colored Men began its annual convention here Tuesday with but 18 delegates in attendance and only two from outside points. The purpose is to enlist the colored people of the country in industrial enterprises and productive, self-sustaining vocations.

Rather Late Offer of Assistance.

Kingston, Jam., Aug. 1.—Advices have been received here from Martinique to the effect that a large number of young Martiniquans have memorialized the president of the French republic, M. Loubert, asking him to furnish arms and passage to enable them to proceed to South Africa to help the Boers.

CHAFFEE HAS FULL POWER.

Will Meet Situation in China As It Arises.

United States Troops Will Participate in Advance on Pekin.

A Feeling in Washington That Legations and Marines Are Still Alive.

Washington, Aug. 1.—Doubt has given way to a feeling akin to certainty that the legationers at Pekin and the gallant marines who managed to reach the Chinese capital just in the nick of time were not only alive on July 22, but in all probability, are still alive and likely to remain so until they are released from their stage of siege.

The officials here feel certain that the attack by the Chinese on the legations will not be renewed. They are convinced that the counsels of the viceroys in the great southern and central provinces and the advice of Li Hung Chang have had effect, and that those in power in Pekin now have been made to see the necessity for the preservation of the legations.

A rather startling proposition has been advanced, which, if adopted, might put at once to the test the Chinese profession that the Boxers, and not the Chinese government, are responsible for what has happened in Pekin. This is to the effect that the international forces are prepared to take the government at its word and to join forces with it in crushing out the insurrection. The kernel of just such a proposition is to be found in the last condition laid down by the president in his reply to the appeal of the emperor, Kwang Su, and there may be a development in that direction speedily.

Secretary Root says that nothing has been received from China, either officially or unofficially, that necessitates any change in the instructions given Major General Chaffee. If there is an advance on Pekin, it is presumed that such of the United States forces as are now ready will participate in the movement. If dispatches are received at Tien Tsin from Minister Conger, or others in the legations at Pekin, which change the existing conditions, Major General Chaffee will act in accordance with such information. The secretary says General Chaffee has full power, and has been entrusted with the command of the United States forces because of the confidence the government has in his ability to meet any situation that may arise.

Adjutant General Corbin yesterday received a dispatch from Lieutenant Colonel Coolidge, commanding the Ninth infantry at Tien Tsin. It came by way of Che Foo, and is as follows:

"Tien Tsin, July 27.—Following letter of Lieutenant Colonel Shiba, military attache at the legation of Pekin, dated July 23, arrived Tien Tsin 25th at 9 o'clock in the evening:

"'We are all awaiting impatiently arrival of reinforcing army. When are you coming? All legations have been blocked since 13th last month and since the 20th we have been attacked continually night and day by the Chinese soldiers from more than 10 encampments. By a supreme effort we are still defending. We are daily awaiting with the greatest anxiety arrival of reinforcing army, and if you cannot reach here in less than a week's time it is probable that we will be unable to hold out any longer. Emperor and empress dowager appear to be still at Pekin. Were our reinforcements to arrive very probable that they would flee to Wan Shoshan. Killed and wounded up to date, eight killed, one a captain of infantry and an ambassador's attache; seven seriously wounded, the first secretary of the legation being one of 20 slightly wounded. The number of Europeans killed is 60 in all.'"

The war department last evening received two cablegrams from China. The first read:

"Tien Tsin, 27th.—Message just received from Conger says since 16th, by agreement, no firing. Have provisions several weeks, little ammunition, all safe, well.

"I (Daggett) report allied forces soon advance. Practically no looting by Americans, no unnecessary killing. Indiana arrived 26th. Order MacCann, Sladen, both Allens, Mitchell, Bryce join regiment here. Daggett."

The second read: "Tien Tsin, 30th.—Flintshire arrived 27th. Two hundred and fifty-seven Ninth infantry sick, 10 doctors, 100 hospital corps men, 20 signal men needed. Unavoidable delay unloading transports. Foreign troops arriving. Daggett."

The official confirmation of the news that Minister Conger is safe and well, coupled with the statement that he has provisions for several weeks and that the firing on the legation has ceased, was wholesome intelligence, though not unexpected, in view of the recent news. The information was promptly telegraphed to President McKinley.

The last message which came from Minister Conger was that which was obtained through the intermediary of Mr. Wu, and was supposed to be dated the 18th instant, before which time nothing had come since June 12, almost two months.

Serious Damage to Naval Dry Dock.

New York, Aug. 1.—Dry dock No. 2 at the Brooklyn navy yard, which is being repaired at an estimated expenditure of $1,000,000, sprang aleak Tuesday. In a few hours there was 10 feet of water in the dock, covering all the tools and machinery used in the work of reconstruction. If the water continues to run into the uncompleted dock the repair work of six months will need to be done over. The damage is already large.

Swam Twenty-Seven Miles.

St. Louis, Aug. 1.—Athlete John C. Meyers swam from Alton, Ills., to St. Louis, Tuesday, a distance of 27 miles, in six hours, and was not greatly fatigued at the finish.

Towne's Mind Not Made Up.

Lincoln, Neb., Aug. 1.—The withdrawal of Charles A. Towne from the Populist ticket, as vice presidential candidate, is still an undetermined question. Mr. Towne spent nearly all of Tuesday in Lincoln. Just before leaving for Chicago, he declared that he was not prepared to say whether he will remain on the ticket or withdraw. Neither Mr. Bryan or Mr. Towne would discuss the subject of their conference.

Slain From Ambush.

Johnson City, Tenn., Aug. 1.—Michael Byrd, living near Magnetic City, N. C., was assassinated from ambush. He had many political enemies. It is said he was assassinated within 20 feet of the place where he killed a man four years ago.

NEWS IN BRIEF.

Steamer Mariposa, reported totally lost by fire at Algoa Bay, has been pumped out, and her engines and boilers are found to be undamaged.

The cruiser Boston will be placed in the Mare Island dry dock for the completion of repairs on her hull below the water line. Structurally she is in good condition.

At Fort Mill, S. C., a monument was dedicated to the 17 Catawba Indians who served in the Seventh South Carolina regiment, Confederate states. Several of these braves were killed in battle.

Governor Beckham has decided to call an extra session of the Kentucky legislature to amend the Goebel election law.

Harry Caldwell of Boston defeated Charles Miller of Chicago by four laps in a 15-mile motor paced race at Springfield, Mass.

Steamer Havana arrived at New York from Havana in the record time of 2 days, 15 hours and 30 minutes actual time.

Alfred Shephard, aged 17 yeyars, while bathing at Milford, Mass., was seized with cramps and drowned.

GIVEN AWAY
This Week—a Sample of TEA.

We have never had much to say about Tea, because we have always been very particular in selecting Teas and almost all our regular ustomers buy their Tea of us, besides some others, now we are confident that if you will take one of our samples of Oolong Tea that we sell at 50 cents per pound you will find a nice flavored tea, one that is actually good enough for anybody to use.

Our English Breakfast that we sell for 50 cents per pound has a particular flavor that we find pleases and we always select that flavor.

We know that most Grocers have a habit of saying that the Tea they sell for 50 cents is worth 60 or 75 cents a pound. We will not say exactly that but if you are paying the high price compare our samples, if you will, we shall look for an order for a pound.

Other prices, 40c., 60c., 75c. a pound.

Good Afternoon.

The Ledger extends congratulations to Superintendent-elect Parlin and a welcome to his family. We trust his administration of our public schools may be successful, popular and progressive, as have characterized his predecessors.

If the Metropolitan Parks are to cost Quincy $9,000 to $10,00 a year and perhaps twice as much soon, we are wondering if the city could not have expended the money directly herself and obtained more satisfactory results.

The bankers who passed on the Copeland street order evidently did not consider that they were called upon to rule relative to rules of the City Council. Had it been a section of the Public Statutes or of the City charter it might have been different, but the City Council rules are different. Had the question been raised in the City Council before the vote was taken, the President might have excused Councilman Elcock from voting.

Drift of Opinion.

☞ No doubt some of the opposition to men appearing on the street in an outing shirt in full bloom is due to an apprehension that they, too, might soon be found affecting the openwork garment.—Lynn Item.

☞ Brockton wants the best, but even admitting that to be the fact the tax rate of late years has been altogether too high, and has undoubtedly at times been a hindrance to the establishment of new industries here and to the building of homes within the city limits. Mayor Coulter's administration has been successful in removing a little of the burden that a high tax rate is to any city. It is a move in the right direction, and it is to be hoped that it will be continued from now on by the various administrations to come.—Brockton Enterprise.

☞ The newspaper reader is likely to put his paper aside nowadays with the exclamation that "if the papers print anything; there is no truth in anything." But the bewilderment and the false stories are not due to the trustworthy journals. It a person cares to peruse the yarns of sheets that are known to manufacture their news, he must be permitted his choice. It's not the press alone that is bewildered in this Chinese crisis; the greatest nations on earth are perplexed and unable to learn the truth. Everything the world knows about the situation in Asia it gains from the newspapers. The liars are individuals, not newspapers, and it is the press that every day punctures the shams and holds the false up to the light. A man who cannot get his money's worth from his two-cent paper in these days has little idea of what news getting costs, or of the tremendous undercurrents of racial and international strife that are flowing beneath the surface of events that may seem to him trivial. — Providence Journal.

Gentlemen:—Our family realize so much from the use of GRAIN-O that I feel I must say a word to induce others to use it. If people are interested in their health and the welfare of their children they will use no other beverage. I have used them all, but GRAIN-O I have found superior to any, for the reason that it is solid grain.

MR. F. E. PARLIN ELECTED.

Will Become Quincy Superintendent of Schools Sept. 1.

He Is at Present Superintendent of Schools at Natick.

He Is a Graduate of Bates College and Highly Recommended.

An important meeting of the School Committee was held Tuesday evening, the main object of which was to fill the vacancy in the Superintendent of Schools, caused by the resignation of Herbert W. Lull who goes to Newport, R. I.

At the last meetng of the board, Messrs. Merrick, Record and Miss Adams were appointed a sub-committee to consider the matter of filling the vacancy. A large number of applications for the position were received, which the sub-committee considered. Their report was submitted at Tuesday night's meeting of the board which was held in executive session.

After some discussion the board elected F. E. Parlin of Natick as superintendent.

Mr. Parlin was born in Maine and is a graduate of Bates college of the class of 1886. After graduating he taught at Brigham Academy four years. He then accepted the superintendency of the schools at Stockbridge, where he remained until 1893, resigning that year to accept the position as superintendent of schools for Needham and Natick. He later gave up the Needham schools to engage in literary work, but continued to hold the position of superintendent of schools at Natick where he is at present. He has high recommendations from all the places where he has been employed, as well as from the State Board of Education. He is a man about 40 years of age and has a family.

Mr. Parlin will be notified today of his election, and as he was a candidate, there is not much question as to his acceptance.

The financial report of the department to July 21, was as follows:

Salaries,	$47,039.31
Fuel,	5,616.06
Janitors,	3,697.15
Transportation,	557.70
Books, Supplies, Sundries,	4,214.38
Evening Schools,	440.64
Rents,	521.08
	$62,086.32
Appropriation,	$98,000.00
Expended,	62,086.32
	$35,913.68

Pastor of Berkeley Temple.

As already noted in the Ledger, Rev. Edward Anderson of this city has accepted a call to become associate pastor of Berkeley Temple, and he will assume his duties Oct. 1. Mr. Anderson will assist the Rev. Charles A. Dickinson, D. D., who has been pastor of Berkeley Temple for many years.

The latter has been granted an indefinite leave of absence by the church, and he will go to California in the fall. Dr. Dickinson will probably remain on the Pacific coast all winter. The active duties of pastor will therefore be performed by Mr. Anderson, who has made an excellent impression on the congregation at this South end church, having preached there often in the absence of Mr. Dickinson.

The Herald publishes the following sketch of the reverend gentleman:

Mr. Anderson is a native of Boston, where he was born Nov. 19, 1833. He was a son of the Rev. Dr. Rufus and Eliza Hill Anderson, and was educated at the Roxbury Latin school and Philips Academy, Andover. He was also instructed under the direction of his father and mother.

In 1855 Mr. Anderson went to Kansas and became one of the Free State force with John Brown and others. Here he remained until the advent of Gov. Henry Geary as provincial governor.

Mr. Anderson next went to South Bend, Ind., where he became a professor in a collegiate institution. He was licensed to preach on Aug. 7, 1858, and on Oct. 13 of the same year he was ordained as pastor of the Calvary Presbyterian church of Chicago.

At the breaking out of the war of the rebellion, Mr. Anderson was appointed chaplain of the 35th Illinois regiment. Later he was appointed and commissioned as colonel of the 12th Indiana cavalry, and served until the close of the war.

At the close of the war, Mr. Anderson resumed the work of the ministry. For a short time he was pastor of a church at Ashtabula, O., and later he became pastor of a Congregational church at Jamestown, N. Y. While there he was editor of the Chautauqua Democrat. His next pastorate was at Quincy, Ill., where he remained eight years. His subsequent pastorates were at Toledo and Columbus, O., and at Norwalk and Danielsonville, Ct. While at Danielsonville Mr. Anderson's wife died, and then he resigned his pastorate and returned to Quincy, Ill.

During his Norwalk pastorate he served as chaplain of the Loyal Legion of New York. When Judge Rhea was elected commander of the national department, G. A. R., Mr. Anderson was appointed national chaplain-in-chief.

He went to Quincy Mass., in 1898, taking up his residence with his daughter the wife of Dexter E. Wadsworth. At the time the pastorate of the Washington street Congregational church was vacant, and he was invited to fill the same. He accepted the invitation, although it is stated that it was not his intention to take up the active work of the ministry when he came to that city. His pastorate, although a brief one, has been a successful one. When he assumed the duties, the church was in a weak and struggling condition but under his ministry it has gained much strength and the outlook for its future is very promising.

Mr. Anderson suppied the pulpit of Berkeley Temple from Jan. 1 to May 1 this year while the Rev. Dr. Dickinson was in California and is a man of ripe scholarship, of broad and liberal views and an eloquent preacher.

NEW ROAD ROLLER.

Seriously Damaged Saturday or Sunday Night.

Sometime between Saturday night and Monday morning, some evil-minded person attempted to ruin the new steam roller belonging to the city. The roller was being used on Independence avenue, and it was left in that vicinity Saturday night. Monday morning it was found that someone had opened the valves and drawn off all the water from the boiler and had then started a fire in the fire box, the result of this was to start the tubing, making it impossible to use the machine until extensive repairs have been made.

Two years ago the same kind of a contemptible trick was practiced upon the old steam roller. It is hoped that the parties who would stoop so low as to do a thing of this kind can be brought to justice, and the punishment they deserve meted out to them. Here is an opportunity for Officer Ferguson to get to work and show his detective ability.

THE METROPOLITAN PARKS

Expected to Increase Quincy's Tax Rate Fifty Cents.

Roughly Estimated That Our Assessment Will be $9,472.

Hearings, However, Will be Given Beginning Next Week in Boston.

Having spent eight full years in buying, planning and sometimes enjoying the public park system in the metropolitan district in and around Boston, this year the 38 cities and towns concerned have to begin their 40 years' term of service to pay for it all. The first loan they have to meet is for $521,805.

The Boston Advertiser comments as follows:

It is a very neat and tidy sum, and those in charge of the parks themselves, and those of the park finances, frankly admit that a sudden curtailment of the expansion policy is the least they expect.

The cities and towns partners in the debt are Boston, Cambridge, Chelsea, Everett, Lynn, Malden, Medford, Newton, Quincy, Somerville, Waltham, Woburn, Arlington, Belmont, Braintree, Brookline, Canton, Dedham, Dover, Cohasset, Hingham, Hull, Hyde Park, Melrose, Milton, Nahant, Needham, Revere, Saugus, Stoneham, Swampscott, Wakefield, Watertown, Welesley, Weston, Weymouth, Westford, Winchester and Winthrop.

Since 1892, when the park commissioners was organized, up to date an indebtedness of $8,317,500 has been accumulated against these breathing spaces, and that represents their cost to date.

But that far from represents what they will cost again when they are cleared.

The yearly maintenance account is now over $100,000, it is $117,500 for this year, while the interest on this indebtedness amounts to $283,775 and the sinking fund requirement are $120,530.17.

But all these facts are to be brought home sharp and clear to the taxpayers this year when they get their bill.

In fact, it is roughly estimated that the towns will have to make an increase of about fifty cents a thousand to meet this.

Although the general public is wholly unaware of this new financial burden, the financial officers of the cities and towns have been informed of it for some time.

Away back in 1896 it was first provided that the collection of the tax should begin. Clerks and accounters were set to work and the levy was all made up.

It was never declared known. That year was hardly a good year for extra taxes, and the legislature was besought to withhold it and they did it in a good whole-souled manner. But deferring the payment did not discharge the piper and he is now waiting for his dole.

What has brought this home to the tax officials in the various towns is the fact that they have all received notice this week to be ready and appear before a special commission appointed by the court which is to fix the bill for each little municipality.

This commission will begin to sit August 6, and when its labors will be completed nobody knows.

The work of the commission will be to fix the amount to be collected from each town, but this fixing will only mark the beginning of the litigation.

It is expected because human nature is human nature, that each and every town in small order will protest against the size of its bills. Some towns will decry the benefits, others may claim damages.

These appeals will have to be heard by the court. Then will be arguments and counter arguments and the winter it is expected will witness simply the heat of the contest over the levy.

The slow thinking may imagine that if the matter is tied up in the courts that they will have another year of grace, but that is far from true.

The tax officials in the cities and towns have been notified that they will be expected by August to make their usual returns to the tax commissioner.

As they do not know exactly what their assessment will be, they have been told that the only way they can be sure of having the money in hand to meet the tax warrant if by any chance it should be dropped on them by availing themselves of their right under the law to collect a 5 p. c. overlay and that is what will appear on the bills.

Thus the tax payers will have to meet the expense this year anyway.

In view of the extraordinary interest which the whole matter will arouse a recapitulate of some figures cannot but be worthy of attention.

As already stated the charges against the metropolitan park system today aggregate $8,317,500, and to take care of this and the parks the charges are as here given:—

Yearly Interest,	$283,775
Maintenance, 1900,	117,500
Sinking fund, 1900,	120,530
Total,	$521,805

This total represents the sum which the court commissioners will have to divide among the cities and towns.

Now, as the law expressly provides that the city of Boston shall pay 50 per cent.—one-half of this total, $260,402, can be charged off at once to Mayor Hart's strong box.

There are 154,654 assessed polls in Boston and this means a tax of $2 a poll or over. As the population of Boston is 550,000 about, it means almost 75 cents for every man, woman and child.

Fortunately, however, it has already practically been decided that the assessments will be made on valuation.

Boston's valuation is $1,069,723,585, and as in this case, $260,042 will have to be raised, it makes a necessary increase in the tax rate of, roughly speaking, 35 cts. a thousand.

A similar line of figuring has been carried out in the attempt to approximate what share the other cities and towns will have to pay.

It is understood that the basis will be about 50 cts. a thousand, and the table below it is cast on that understanding.

It gives the levy on each town at a possible 50 ct. rate, which it should be said will be found ample.

Cambridge,	$46,395	Hingham,	$2,375
Chelsea,	11,836	Hull,	1,833

Dedham,	4,308	Westford,	728
Dover,	555	Winchester,	3,984
Cohasset,	3,133	Winthrop,	3,071

This aggregates to over $300,000, but apart from the park charges it should be remembered there are also boulevard loans.

The total of that is $3,025,000. The state pays 50 p. c. of that however.

The sinking fund charges are,	$18,081
Maintenance,	29,500
Interest,	50,875
	$91,456

The division of this will call for any balance left.

Church Social.

The Ladies' Aid society of the First Presbyterian Church, Water street, held an entertainment and sale Tuesday evening in the vestry of the church. The affair was very largely attended and proved to be very enjoyable. The entertainment consisted of recitations by Miss Joss and Miss McKenzie, and vocal solos by Mrs. Birnie, Mr. Warmington and Mr. McIntosh. Many articles of a useful and fancy nature were offered for sale, as well as ice cream, cake and tonics. Mr. Alez. Clark presided at the entertainment.

Gentlemen:—I must say in regard to GRAIN-O that there is nothing better or healthier. We have used it for years. My brother was a great coffee drinker. He was taken sick and the doctor said coffee was the cause of it, and told us to use GRAIN-O. We got a package but did not like it at first, but now would not be without it. My brother has been well ever since we started to use it.

MOTHERS' MEETING.

Entertained at the John Hancock Kindergarten School.

On Thursday afternoon of last week, the mothers of the children now attending the summer kindergarden in the John Hancock district, met the teachers and the ladies in charge of the kindergarden, and spent a pleasant and profitable hour and a half.

The school room presented a delightfully cool appearance with its touches of green leaves here and there and the refreshments table spread with a snowy cloth on which glittered cut glass, added a homelikeness to the affair.

Miss Bertha Jameson, the teacher in charge, was assisted in receiving the mothers by the following named ladies of the John Hancock committee:—Mrs. F. H. Smith, Mrs. A. F. Schenkelberger and Miss Emily Wilde. Miss Kincaide and Miss Grace E. Perry, who have been Miss Jameson's assistants were also present.

The first pleasure of the afternoon was that of listening to singing by Mrs. Paul Blackmur, who was in splendid voice and sang beautifully. The mothers and members of the committee seemed to enjoy every note.

Then followed an informal talk by Miss Jameson. She took for her subject, "Punishment." She showed how much better it is to govern by love than fear. Taking the fable of "The Wind and the Sun," she illustrated the power of the sunshine of kindness as compared with roughness and sharp words She also touched upon the importance of mothers always keeping their word to children and commented upon the lack of wisdom in idle threats which are never carried out.

She called attention to the need of sending the children to school every day, because each day's work is preparatory for the next and she pleaded with the mothers to form the habit of punctuality early, as it means so much to children in after life.

She spoke of co-operation between the school and the home, and showed how the school and home should be a unit. She invited the mothers to visit the schools often and in that way keep in touch with the work of the children.

After Miss Jameson's talk, followed a time for sociability and refreshments, and during that time Miss Alice M. Perry furnished instrumental music, which added greatly to the enjoyment of all.

Miss Kincaide then spoke briefly to the mothers, seconding what Miss Jameson had said, and showing how it is possible to govern all children by love. She spoke of the school with which she is connected, and told the mothers how the principal of that school, (the Horace Mann School for deaf children,) Miss Sarah Fuller, had never been heard to speak a cross or hasty word in over twenty years, and yet had been most successful as a disciplinarian.

Miss Kincaide congratulated the mothers on the fact that their children were well and strong, and appealed to them to give their children the best of care during illness, so that they might escape the suffering which so often follows neglect to carry out the doctor's directions or the lack of careful nursing.

Mrs. Blackmur then sang some popular songs, which were enthusiastically received. As goodbyes were exchange, all those present expressed themselves as delighted with the afternoon.

—The camps of the Sons of Veterans in this vicinity will not hold a field day this year, but a joint outing is proposed.

Men who are always in a hurry, and most men are, want a soap for the toilet that will lather quickly and freely in hot or cold water. Other soaps than Ivory may have this quality, but will likely contain alkali, which is injurious to the skin. Ivory Soap is made of pure vegetable oils, no alkali, produces a white, foamy lather, that cleanses thoroughly and rinses easily and quickly. Money cannot buy a better soap for the toilet.

Brockton Fair Races.

The track committee of the Brockton Agricultural Society held two meetings Monday, one in the forenoon and the second in the afternoon, for the purpose of arranging the cards of races for the four days of the fair the coming fall. It was decided to offer $8000 in purses, which is the same amount given last year.

Some changes have been made in the make-up of the list, however. Prominence has been given to pacing races, in view of the rapid development of pacers this season, and in many cases the races have been quickened materially. Friday has been made an additionally attractive day by the addition of a race transferred from Tuesday. It should be borne in mind that at the fair will be run from Tuesday to Friday, inclusive, this year, instead of Wednesday to Saturday, as in former years.

A 2:10 pacing race on Thursday is one of the innovations. Another change has been made in one of the running races. Owing to the big card of racing on Thursday, the running race on that day will be a one-mile dash instead of a half-mile, best two in three heats, although the latter form will be continued in the Wednesday running race. A glimpse at the arrangements of the races would impress one with the belief that the eventual result will be to make the last day of more interest than heretofore, without in the least detracting from the other days.

The conditions are to be the same as last year, and in the double team race, which is to be run Thursday, there will be no distancing excepting for foul driving. Entries will be made to Mr. William B. Cross. Following is the complete list of purses and classes as planned.

Will Appeal to Gold Democrats.

New York, Aug. 1.—Mr. McGuire, chairman of the state executive committee, says: "We have invited Mr. Bryan to come here in October, when he will stay for five or six days. Mr. Bryan's speech of acceptance will lay great emphasis on imperialism as the leading issue. He will undoubtedly declare for the income tax. But first of all he will deliver himself in a way to reassure all Gold Democrats."

Troops to Preserve Order.

Montreal, Aug. 1.—Two companies of the Eighty-fifth regiment of Sherbrooke have been ordered to Magog to prevent rioting among 1000 mill hands who have been locked out by the management of the mills there because they could not afford to pay the wages asked.

WHY GENERAL DRAPER RESIGNED.

Ambassador Desired to Return to Activity in the Business World.

South Framingham, Mass., Aug. 1.—General W. F. Draper, who has just resigned as ambassador to Italy, in a letter which he sent because he could not attend the outing of the Milford board of trade, explained the reason for his retirement from public life. In the letter General Draper said: "I have tendered my resignation as ambassador to Italy. I have not yet heard from the resignation. It was offered in good faith, and, if accepted, well and good. It has been stated that I resigned because I did not receive the nomination for the vice presidency. Such was not the case. When I was home a year ago my friends broached the subject and mentioned my name in connection with the office, and latter while I was at Rome I received letters from friends regarding the subject. I did not wish it. I preferred an ambassadorship to Italy rather than the vice presidency of the United States. I was not a candidate for the place, and my name was not presented to the convention. Others have said that it was my ambition to become governor of Massachusetts, and still others, to become a candidate for the senate in the place of George F. Hoar.

"Of course I feel greatly honored by these sugestions, but it seems that my denials have not found their way into print as readily as have the reports concerning my resignation. The real reason for my resignation must, however, be clear to residents of Hopedale and Milford, who realize the increased industry at Hopedale. It is my intention to put my shoulder to the wheel. I am out of public life, for the present at least, and I know not but for the future."

The letter then referred to the assassination of the King of Italy, with whom General Draper had the very friendliest of relations.

Thrown From Horse and Killed.

New York, Aug. 1.—Miss Theresa Blake, daughter of Hoffman Blake, a retired banker of Boston, was killed at New Rochelle Tuesday afternoon. She went there to purchase a horse for cross country riding. Miss Blake picked out a magnificent bay and took several turns upon the field. She then ran him to a hurdle and the horse rose to it, but as he went over his hind hoofs struck the top rail and Miss Blake was thrown. She was dead when picked up. Her spine, jaw and collar bone were broken.

Fires In the Bay State.

Boston, Aug. 1.—The sixth annual report of Fire Marshal Whitcomb to the insurance commissioner shows that the total number of fires occurring throughout the state was 5325, causing a loss of $6,783,084. Of the total number of fires, 279, or 5 2-5 percent of the total number, were of incendiary origin. The total valuation of property damaged by incendiary fires was $1,527,341; total insurance covering the same, $1,505,225. There were 436 fires of unknown origin.

Fishermen Lost in Storm.

Sydney, C. B., Aug. 1.—In a storm which arose suddenly on the coast, a number of boats engaged in in-shore fishing disappeared. Two brothers named Burke and a man named Boushay are missing. There are no new reports of disasters to shipping.

A Cold-Blooded Murder.

Victoria, Aug. 1.—Herbert Davenport was murdered on the Yukon river, near Dawson. He was the master of a scow and because it ran on bars the man in charge of the cargo, Alexander King, shot him to death. King is under arrest at Dawson City.

DOUBT IS VANISHING.

Strong Evidence That the Recent Dispatches From Pekin Were Genuine.

Advance of Allies May Make It Bad For Foreigners.

Newspapers, However, Urge That Troops Reach Pekin as Soon as Possible.

London, Aug. 1.—Important additional information of the safety of the legations was received in London last night by Duncan Campbell, representative in Europe of the Chinese customs service, from the commissioner of customs at Che Foo, in the shape of a Pekin dispatch ,not dated, but believed to have been written on July 21, signed by both Sir Robert Hart, inspector general of customs, and Robert Beredon, deputy inspector general, to the following effect: "Staff and family still safe."

This has been confirmed by the commissioner of customs in Shanghai, who telegraphed last evening: "Authentic inspector general safe twenty-second."

A sensational Shanghai correspondent still hints that the Chinese are juggling with dates, but, in face of the constantly accumulating evidence that the ministers were safe on July 22, and despite the omission from all the dispatches of anxiously-desired information regarding the real situation, political or otherwise, at Pekin, there are very few in London who do not believe the dispatches genuine and reliable.

The allies now confront a most difficult and dangerous problem. Without doubt the ministers are held by the Chinese as hostages; and the outcome of the advance on Pekin, which, in all probability, has already begun, will be awaited with anxiety.

Today's dispatches show that the allies, notably the Japanese, have been pushing their preparations with feverish haste, organizing a service of pack carts, trains and junks. It is reported from Berlin that Lieutenant General Von Lessel, commanding the German forces in China, whom Emperor William has just promoted to the rank of general commanding an army corps, has been selected as commander-in-chief of the allied forces.

The Chinese are strongly entrenched at Wang Tsun, from which position, however, it is believed they can be ejected without great difficulty. The danger is that, if defeated there, the Chinese will retire on Pekin and put the remainder of the Europeans to death.

It is also possible that the advance of the allies will be the signal for the Chinese authorities to compel all foreigners to quit the capital, in which event they might become the prey of the fanatical Boxers.

The feeling of the newspapers here is that nothing whatever should now delay the advance, and that no negotiations of any kind should be countenanced until the allied troops reach Pekin and assure themselves regarding the fate of the foreigners.

The latest advices from Tien Tsin announce that the Russians and Japanese are scouting in the direction of Pietang. The Japanese commander, Yamachuchi, expects Yang Tsun to be taken within three days.

A special dispatch from Tien Tsin says the missionaries report that all the Americans in Pekin and Tung Chau are safe, but their property has been destroyed.

The Shanghai correspondent of The Times says: The general aspect of the situation confirms the opinion that the Manchu party, fearing the effect of further violent measures, rely on Li Hung Chang's negotiations to prevail upon the powers to forego vengeance in return for the release of the survivors.

It is reported from an unofficial, but usually reliable source, that the Chinese minister at St. Petersburg wired to Li Hung Chang, intimating the possibility of obtaining favorable terms of settlement from Russia if China would adopt a conciliatory attitude and compel a cessation of the attacks on the legations. Thereupon, according to this informant, Li Hung Chang memorialized the throne, representing that he was ill and unable to come to Pekin, but urging that every endeavor be made to send the ministers to Tien Tsin, and to insure the safety of foreigners and missionaries.

Tien Tsin wires that General Sir Alfred Gaselee and staff, together with large foreign reinforcements, arrived there on July 28.

The governor of Shan Tung has telegraphed to United States Consul Fowler that the tsung li yamen directs him to notify the consuls that "as the military operations at Pekin and Tien Tsin are unsettled," only messages in plain language, without cipher or reference to military affairs, will be delivered to the ministers.

Old Champion Goes Down.

New York, Aug. 1.—The one time invincible George Dixon succumbed to Tommy Sullivan of Brooklyn Tuesday night in their battle at 122 pounds. The end came as the men shaped for the seventh round, when Tom O'Rourke admitted defeat for his man, and refused to permit him to continue. The betting was 2 to 1 on Dixon, and considerable money changed hands. Dixon's left arm was broken during the fight.

American Got the Prize.

Berlin, Aug. 1.—Dr. S. A. Knopf of New York has been awarded the prize of 4000 marks offered by the tuberculosis congress for the best essay on the subject: "How to fight tuberculosis as a disease of the masses." Eighty-one essays were offered in competition.

Charles Killed Seven Men.

New Orleans, Aug. 1.—M. H. Batte, aged 65, who was shot by the negro desperado, Charles, on Friday, died Tuesday, making a total of seven white men killed by the negro.

NOTED WRITER DEAD.

John Clark Ridpath Was an Authority on Matters Pertaining to History.

New York, Aug. 1.—John Clark Ridpath died in the Presbyterian hospital last night from a complication of diseases. He had been a patient in the hospital since April 26. At the time of his death his wife and son were at the bedside.

John Clark Ridpath, LL. D., was born in Indiana in April, 1841. There was not at that time a wagon road within three miles of the log cabin in which he was born. His parents were from Christianburg, Va.

He was graduated from Asbury (now De Pauw) university in 1863. After serving as principal of an academy at Thorntown, Ind., and as superintendent of public schools at Lawenceburg, he was called, in 1869, to De Pauw. His career as a professor in the university was distinguished.

In 1875 he published his first book, an "Academic History of the United States." It still holds its place as a text book in many schools. In 1876 he published his "Popular History of the United States," of which more than 400,000 copies have been sold. He wrote the "Life and Work of Garfield," of which 85,000 copies were sold. His "Cyclopaedia of Universal History" was published in 1885. More than 150,000 sets of this history have been sold.

In 1885 he resigned his professorship in De Pauw and the vice presidency of the university in order that he might devote his whole time to the profession of authorship. In 1893 he published his "Life and Work of James G. Blaine," and in 1894 his most comprehensive and philosophical work entitled "Great Races of Mankind." In 1898 he published his "Life and Times of Gladstone," and a supplement to the "History of All Nations" for Webster's dictionary. He was for a time editor of the Arena Magazine of Boston. His monographs are numerous. In 1896 he ran for congress on the Democratic ticket in his home district in Indiana. Though he ran ahead of his ticket he was defeated by a small majority. In recent years he had been engaged in the preparation of a complete and elaborate history of the United States.

Father and Son at Odds.

New York, Aug. 1.—Raphael Greco of Fall River, Mass., appeared in court Tuesday against his son, James, 18 years old, whom he claimed had run away from home and refused to go back. The boy said that he left home because his father constantly made trouble for him, and charged him with stealing when it was not true. The father denied the son's statements and said that he owed him $21 for board. Magistrate Keller discharged the boy.

Guns In Powers' Office.

Georgetown, Ky., Aug. 1.—In the trial of Caleb Powers, charged with complicity in the Goebel shooting, the defendant completed his testimony Tuesday. In regard to the guns in his office, the witness said he did not know how they came there, but understood that one or two were left there at the end of Governor Bradley's administration. The others were put there later, he supposed, by some of the mountaineers.

Burglars Got Away.

Chicago, Aug. 1.—The vault of the Bank of Armstrong, Ills., was blown with dynamite early Tuesday, the entire building being wrecked. The burglars nearly lost their lives in the ruins. Villagers hastened to the scene armed with guns and revolvers and engaged in a pitched battle with the burglars, who finally succeeded in escaping.

Was Fond of Showing His Money.

Rochester, N. Y., Aug. 1.—The police are investigating a possible robbery and murder, evidence of which was brought to light in the finding of the body of Leo Moll, 53 years oldl, in the canal. Moll was in the habit of carrying considerable money, which he was inclined to exhibit.

Blind Woman the Complainant.

Manchester, Mass., Aug. 1.—John J. White, 22 years old, is charged with attempted criminal assault upon Mary L. McClintock, 20 years old, at a lawn party. Miss McClintock, who has been blind for a number of years, preferred the charge. White was bound over in $2000 to the grand jury.

Objected to Reduction of Wages.

Lebanon, Pa., Aug. 1.—Over 1200 iron workers employed at the local works of the American Iron and Steel Manufacturing company went on strike Tuesday in consequence of notices stating that from Aug. 1 the wages of puddlers would be reduced from $4 to $3 per ton.

Miners Are Weakening.

Cumberland, Md., Aug. 1.—A break in the strike in the George's Creek coal region, which has prevailed for nearly four months, seems certain, over 1000 men having applied for tools.

Weather Conditions and Forecast.

Almanac, Thursday, Aug. 2.

Moon sets—10:02 p. m.

High water—3:30 a. m.; 4 p. m.

The temperatures east of the Mississippi river, except in portions of the gulf and south Atlantic states, are above the seasonal average. Generally fair weather is indicated for New England. The temperature will fall. On the coast fresh southwesterly winds will prevail.

Mrs. Pinkham

The one thing that qualifies a person to give advice on any subject is experience — experience creates knowledge.

No other person has so wide an experience with female ills nor such a record of success as Mrs. Pinkham has had.

Over a hundred thousand cases come before her each year. Some personally, others by mail. And this has been going on for 20 years, day after day and day after day.

Twenty years of constant success — think of the knowledge thus gained! Surely women are wise in seeking advice from a woman with such an experience, especially when it is free.

CHIFFONIERES.

There's a world of comfort in owning a Chiffoniere, especially one of the Kincaide sort.

Not an article of furniture in your whole house adds more to the convenience of living, and nothing is so pleasant as to possess the "know where to find things" The Chiffoniere was a happy thought, in it you have plenty of drawer room, with a place for everything, and everything in its place. To own a Chiffoniere makes one wonder how they ever lived without one. In beautiful Golden Oak, Mahogany, Bird's Eye Maple and White Enamel, we have over sixty different designs.

WITHOUT GLASS, $5.00 AND UP.
WITH GLASS, $7.69 to $35.00.

THE TREACHERY OF CHINA

Chinese Government Urged Boxers to Exterminate All the Christians.

Change Was Wrought by Victory of Allies at Tien Tsin.

To That Was Due Appeals For Intervention and Protestations of Friendship.

London, Aug. 2.—At last Dr. George E. Morrison, the famous Pekin correspondent of The Times has been heard from directly. The Times this morning prints the following dispatch from him, dated July 21:

"There has been a cessation of hostilities here (Pekin) since July 18, but for fear of treachery there has been no relaxation of vigilance.

"The Chinese soldiers continue to strengthen the barricades around the besieged area, and also the batteries on top of the imperial city wall, but in the meantime they have discontinued firing, probably because they are short of ammunition.

"The main bodies of the imperial soldiers have left Pekin in order to meet the relief forces.

"Supplies are beginning to come in, and the condition of the besieged is improving. The wounded are doing well. Our hospital arrangements are admirable, and 150 cases have passed through the hospital.

"The tsung li yamen forwerded to Sir Claude MacDonald a copy of a dispatch telegraphed by the emperor to Queen Victoria, attributing all deeds of violence to bandits, and requesting her majesty's assistance to extricate the Chinese government from its difficulties.

"The queen's reply is not stated, but the Chinese minister in Washington telegraphs that the United States government would gladly assist the Chinese authorities.

"This dispatch to the queen was sent to the tsung li yamen by the grand council on July 3, yet the day before an imperial edict had issued, calling on the Boxers to continue to render loyal and patriotic services in exterminating the Christians. The edict also commanded viceroys and governors to expel all missionaries from China and to arrest all Christians and compel them to renounce their faith. Other decrees applauding the Boxers speak approvingly of their burning out and slaying converts. Their leaders are stated in a decree to be princes and ministers.

"On July 18 another decree made a complete volte face, due to the victories of the foreign troops at Tien Tsin. In this decree, for the first time, and one month after the occurrence, an allusion was made to the death of Baron Von Ketteler, the German minister, which was attributed to the action of local brigands, although there is no doubt that it was premeditated and that the assassination was committed by an imperial officer, as the survivor, Herr Cordes, can testify.

"The force besieging the legations consist of the imperial troops under General Tung Lu and General Tung Fuh Siang, whose gallantry is applauded in imperial decrees, although it has consisted in bombarding for one month defenseless women and children, cooped up in the legation compound, using shell, shrapnel, round shot and expanding bullets. The Chinese throughout, with characteristic treachery, posted proclamations assuring us of protection, and, the same night, they made a general attack in the hope of surprising us.

"There is still no news of Pei Tang cathedral. The wounded number 138, including the American surgeon, Lippitt, severely wounded, and Captain Myers, who is doing well. Seven Americans have been killed.

"All of the ministers and members of the legations and their families are in good health. The general health of the community is excellent, and we are contentedly awaiting relief."

Dr. Morrison holds up the Chinese government before the world as guilty, and to a degree of infamy and duplicity that exceeds the surmise of its worst detractors. He also gives a more hopeful view of the prospects of the besieged than has been expressed by any of the others who have been heard from.

Another letter has been received at Tien Tsin from the British minister, Sir Claude MacDonald, dated July 24: "We are surrounded by imperial troops," he writes, "who are firing on us continually. The enemy is enterprising, but cowardly. We have provisions for about a fortnight and are eating our ponies. The Chinese government, if there is one, has done nothing whatever to help us. If the Chinese do not press the attack we can hold out for say 10 days. No time should be lost or a terrible massacre is to be avoided."

Sir Claude MacDonald's latest letter, while a strong indictment of the Chinese government, is not nearly so much so as Dr. Morrison's dispatch. That correspondent, with the imperial edicts as authority, declares that as late as July 2 the imperial government urged the Boxers to continue their "loyal and patriotic services in exterminating the Christians."

When it is remembered how great reliance is placed upon Dr. Morrison in England, the importance of his exposure of the Chinese government can scarcely be over estimated. It seems to banish all hopes entertained by Lord Salisbury that the Chinese government might yet be proved not directly responsible for the outrage, and it may result in an entire cessation of the negotiations with Chinese diplomatists, if not in an open declaration of war on the part of the powers.

KILLED BY HIS SISTER.

David McNamara Said to Have Attempted Assault and Was Shot.

Witnesses Declare That the Woman Was Justified.

Victim Had Served Time In Prison For Assault Upon His Slayer.

Worcester, Mass., Aug. 2.—Mrs. Nora Phillips, a widow, was on her way to Worcester with her sister, Miss Carrie McNamara, when David McNamara, brother of both women, rushed from his house, near Leicester, Mass., and struck Carrie. Mrs. Phillips interfered, and David, seizing a rock, made for her. She pulled a 32-calibre revolver from a handbag and shot him over the heart. He dropped the rock, and seizing her by both shoulders attempted to get the revolver, but was unable to, and rolled over dead.

His relatives allowed the body to lie where it had fallen for more than seven hours. It was finally removed by the order of Medical Examiner Baker.

Mrs. Phillips, after washing the blood from her hands, changed her clothing and came to Worcester. She walked into the office of Chief of Police Stone, and after handing him the revolver told her story. She was booked for manslaughter.

Mrs. Phillips said that she left her house at 11 o'clock Wednesday morning with her sister, Carrie, to go to a Chinese laundry. McNamara followed and grabbing Carrie by the shoulders told her to go back to the house, and that she could not go down town. Carrie tried to explain matters, but her brother refused to listen and struck her on the head, knocking her hat off. They then went back to the house, her brother still telling her that they must not go to town.

Upon Mrs. Phillips' insisting that she must go her brother went into the kitchen, where he got a stone and a piece of kindling wood, and returning told Carrie that if she left the yard he would kill her. Mrs. Phillips stepped between them when he made a rush for her, and lifting the stone told her that he would also kill her. He said: "I've been planning to kill you for five months and now I'm going to do it."

She told him not to come near her, but as he paid no attention to her warning she drew a revolver from her handbag and fired, the bullet entering his breast, and passing downward severed a blood vessel. He attempted to take the weapon from her, and fearing for her life she kept firing.

McNamara was arrested in August, 1899, for an assault upon Mrs. Phillips, and was sentenced to a year's imprisonment, but by good conduct his term was shortened, and he was set free about a month ago. Since that time he has made several threats to kill her. Last Friday he was arrested in Worcester for drunkenness and fined $5, which he paid.

Mrs. Phillips says that she has been carrying a revolver lately to protect herself on her walks through the lonely roads about her house. It was not to protect herself from her brother that she carried the weapon.

Mrs. Phillips is the widow of a son of Judge Phillips of Putnam, Conn. She is 26 years old and a very attractive woman. Her husband left her considerable money, with a portion of which she had bought the farm where they lived. In the yard, at the time of the shooting, was John McNamara, another brother, Mrs. Annie Lathrop, a married sister; Miss Elizabeth McNamara, another sister, and Jeremiah Griffin, the hired man. These witnesses all agree that if she had not killed McNamara, McNamara would have killed her.

Boers Continue to Surrender.

London, Aug. 2.—A correspondent with General Hunter's force, at Slapkranz, says: The Winburg and Senekal commandoes are now arriving, about 600 men. General Roux has arrived, and also the commandant of the Wepener commando. It will take days to get all in. There is a continuous stream of wagons for seven miles up the valley road. All the leaders have surrendered. The prisoners include foreign artillerists.

Missionaries Are Blamed For It.

Lima, Aug. 2.—The celebrated convent of Ocopa, which had been partially ruined by two fires, believed to be incendiary, was completely destroyed Wednesday by a third. All three fires are attributed by the ignorant peasantry to the work of the American missionaries. The more fanatical are quite beyond the control of the local authorities, Government troops have been sent to the scene of disturbance to maintain order.

Sensational Testimony In Goebel Trial.

Georgetown, Ky., Aug. 2.—Rev. John Stamper, brother-in-law of Wharton Golden, and whose testimony the defense in the Goebel murder trial hopes to contradict, created something of a sensation on cross examination Wednesday, by admitting that he sought to get Golden to leave the state, and indirectly offered $5000.

Kansas City Platform Endorsed.

Toledo, Aug. 2.—The Association of Ohio Democratic Clubs adopted resolutions along the line of the Kansas City platform, but no specific mention of free silver was made, although demanded by some of the members.

PLEASED TO BE HOME.

Playwright Hoyt's Fellow Citizens Show Their Esteem For the Unfortunate Man.

Charlestown, N. H., Aug. 2.—The townspeople of Charles H. Hoyt rejoiced last night in having the playwright at home after his release from a Hartford asylum.

He was received by the whole town on his arrival here from Hartford. Only the sick and those who could not walk were left at home when the train bringing Mr. Hoyt arrived. The square in front of the depot was crowded.

All day the town had been worked up to a great pitch of excitement for such an easy-going community over the expected arrival of Mr. Hoyt. It was planned to give him a rousing reception, and only a telegram from George H. Dickinson, who was accompanying Mr. Hoyt, asking that no demonstration be made, kept the townspeople from cutting loose with a merry greeting.

The train bringing Mr. Hoyt and the party accompanying him was about half an hour late. The party had a stateroom in a parlor car, and Mr. Hoyt attracted no unpleasant attention on the way. In fact there is nothing in the appearance of the playwright to suggest a man being brought from a hospital for the insane.

As soon as it was learned that Mr. Hoyt had started for his house, which is but three minutes' walk from the station, the crowd fell in and turned toward the Hoyt place.

He was moved to tears as he spoke and thanked his fellow citizens for their welcome home. He said he was glad to be with them again in his beloved Charlestown.

There were tears in the eyes of many in the crowd when he finished his brief speech, and all crowded forward to shake the hand of their illustrious townsman. He shook hands with 100 or more, until Dr. Young suggested that he would tire himself too much by continuing.

Belief That Crime Was Carefully Planned.

Paris, Aug. 2.—The detective department finds that Gaetano Bresci arrived at Havre from the United States in May. This name appears in the list of passengers among 63 other Italian workmen.

GAETANO BRESCI.

A complete list has been handed to the Italian ambassador, with the object of discovering if any well-known anarchists were among them. In the opinion of the detective department the crime was carefully planned.

Will Make Speeches in Bay State.

New York, Aug. 2.—Senator Scott has received a letter at Republican national headquarters from Senator Hoar in reply to an invitation extended to the Massachusetts senator to take an active part in the campaign. Mr. Hoar wrote that he had never made an exception to his rule never to make campaign speeches outside of his own state, although he would do all he could to aid the committee in that way, as well as by correspondence and by the publication of his views.

Shooting and Slugging.

Charlotte, N. C., Aug. 2.—After a Democratic rally at Caeser, Bob Brackett got into a fight and was cut badly. He is reported to be dying. Orange Latimere was also cut. During the fight Frank Queen fired into the crowd, wounding John B. Lattimere in the thigh. Queen is being pursued. If caught he may never get to jail. At Concord numerous Democrats and Populists fought with their fists and one Populist was severely cut.

Colored Men Waded Razors.

Providence, Aug. 2.—In a free fight at Rocky Point Wednesday a number of colored men were cut about the head with razors and Constable Eldridge was badly injured as a result of a deep gash in the head, caused by a blow with a bottle. The fight was only stopped after the combined efforts of about 20 police and constables. Five men were arrested.

Wind and Hail Caused Damage.

Halifax, Aug. 2.—A storm of hail and wind swept over sections of Kings county. Throughout the county fences were blown down and in some potato fields the leaves were stripped from the tops. The wind overturned a buggy in which Mr. and Mrs. N. Randall were seated, and Mrs. Randall suffered concussion of the brain.

Increase In Public Debt.

Washington, Aug. 2.—The monthly statement of the public debt shows that at the close of business, July 31, 1900, the debt, less cash in the treasury, amounted to $1,109,346,710, an increase for the month of $1,635,452. This is accounted for by the increased disbursements of cash incident to the beginning of the new fiscal year.

Not Due to Epidemic.

Washington, Aug. 2.—Surgeon General Sternburg says that the large sick list of the Ninth infantry, reported by Colonel Daggett, is probably due to severe service and exposure, together with the change of climate, and water which may be bad. The surgeon general says that such illness would not be unusual under the circumstances.

Drift of Opinion.

☞ Taking into consideration present corditions is it to be wondered at that the southern planters cannot obtain enough negro help? How would it answer to stop lynching these blacks, to afford them better school facilities and not steal from them the ballot?—Haverhill Gazette.

☞ The arrest of a six-year-old child in Stuyvesant park by a New York policeman for plucking three or four ivy leaves, is a very marked tribute to that officer's discrimination and valor. Ten to one he would have run if the child had been a year or two older.—Watham Free Press.

☞ "How weary the world is growing of rebellions, murder, slaughter, assassination, and all this horrible outbreak among peoples credited with the possession of souls, if not with intelligence! What does it all mean? Why, in the name of humanity, must this epidemic of ungovernable passions continue?" exclaims The Chatterer in the Boston Herald. That question is as great a poser as the problem that suggests it. Things are woefully twisted and no mistake.—Lynn Item.

☞ A man who did not appreciate his mercies, but is looking out for heavy damages to be paid by some one, is a visitor in Chicago, who strayed into a refrigerating plant and was shut up there in the delicious coolness for 40 hours, while all the rest of the people suffered from the intense and sickening heat of last week. If he wishes to impress a jury as to the criminality of the man who carelessly locked him in, he would better wait until winter comes.—Newport News.

☞ Business employes would vastly prefer boys of ordinary natural ability and a great deal of industry, than boys of marked genius, but lazy. It is the worker who wins, whether in business, in law, in medicine, in mechanics, or on the farm. Success is more than half won by him who knows how to think and act, and utilize time. If this quality of industry is shown in the school boy, it is one of his strongest recommendations for a business position. Merchants are finding it to their advantage to seek graduates of the high school when in need of boys to learn the mercantile business.—T. B. Fitzpatrick, in Donahoe's Magazine for July.

☞ Entertaining conversation is not alone dependent upon a well stored mind, a ready wit or broad culture. It lays under contribution qualities of heart as well as head, and should reveal sincerity, sympathy and simplicity We must feel an interest in our subject before we can inspire it, and enthusiasm is contagious when it is sincere. It gives animation to the face, vivacity to the manner, and has a thought compelling power that adds fluency of expression. — August Ladies' Home Journal.

E. H. SPRAGUE FOR SENATE.

The Popular Representative and Ex-Councilman Enters the Field.

At the earnest solicitation of several influential Quincy friends, and promises of hearty support from Braintree, Weymouth and other parts of the First Norfolk district, Representative Eugene F. Sprague has reluctantly decided to allow the use of his name at the Senatorial convention next month. As a Quincy Representative to the Legislature for the past two years, he has made a brilliant record, and those who have watched his votes have seldom been disappointed. He is fearless and outspoken, and one admires his independence even if they disagree with him. The voters of Quincy at the last election showed their approval of his service in the Legislature of 1899, by reelecting him by a flattering vote. In 1898 he stood second in the double district, but in 1899 he was the leading candidate. The same hearty support would undoubtedly be given him in Quincy this year.

Before his election to the Legislature, Mr. Sprague had a wide acquaintance in the Senatorial district, which includes Braintree, Canton, Holbrook, Hyde Park, Milton, Randolph, Weymouth and Quincy, and he has made many influential friends, during the two years, in these towns.

Mr. Sprague is an exceptionally successful business man, and it is greatly to the credit of his firm that they were able to weather the crisis in the affairs of John P. Squire & Co., with whom they had large dealings. While Representative, Mr. Sprague has not neglected his private business, and it was because of the demands of his business that he reluctantly consented to be a candidate for Senator. Some time ago he decided not to be a candidate for a third term in the House for this reason. The district will have a worthy senator in the election of Eugene F. Sprague.

Ladies Auxiliary No. 8.

A more complete report of the third annual installation and anniversary of the Ladies Auxillary, No. 8, A. O. H., Quincy at Doble's hall, Tuesday evening is given below: Some 300 ladies and gentlemen were in the hall when County President, Eliza C. Sheahan, called the meeting to order, and installed the following officers:

President, Mrs. William E. Brown.
Vice President, Mrs. George Golar.
Recording Secretary, Miss Nellie McCarthy.
Financial Secretary, Miss Helen M. Sweeney.
Treasurer, Mrs. D. C. McCarthy.
Sargeant-at-Arms, Miss Annie Keegan.
Sentinel, Miss Maria Moran.

The Chairmen of the following committees were also installed:—

Standing Committee, Mrs. M. J. Burns.
Sick Committee, Mrs. John Lyons.
Financial Committee, Mrs. Emily Garbarino.
Employment Committee, Miss Mary Sullivan.
Literary Committee, Miss Cecelia Keegan.

Addresses on the good and welfare of the order throughout the State, as well as throughout Norfolk County, were made by State President, Miss Katherine E. Sheridan; County President, Miss Eliza C. Sheahan; County Secretary, Miss Margaret Donovan, and President of the Auxiliary, Mrs. William E. Brown.

In behalf of the members of Division No 8, Mrs. Brown presented State President, Miss Sheridan, with a beautiful brooch with opal setting, and Miss Annie Keegan presented County President, Miss Sheahan, Past President, Miss Julia Duffy, and President, Mrs. Brown, with bouquets.

After installation, a short entertainment followed, after which refreshments were served. Dancing followed until midnight. The committee who had charge of the affair were: Miss Mary E. McCarthy, Miss Mary Burns, Mrs. Golar, Mrs. Taylor, Mrs. Connor, Miss Annie Keegan, Miss Mary Sullivan, Miss Margaret Keegan, Miss Alice Faircloth, Miss Nettie Sweeney, Miss Katie Faircloth, Miss Annie McKenna, Miss Julia O'Brien, Miss Eva Blair, Miss Agnes Kenny, Miss Mary Igo.

Old Stoughton Musical Society.

The one day of all the season to the musically inclined the best is the day of the annual summer reunion of the Old Stoughton Musical Society. This year the Committee appointed at the annual meeting have set the date for the reunion for Tuesday, Aug. 14th, and that day is sure to witness a great outpouring of the members and friends of the ancient society. The committee are preparing several new and interesting features for this year's reunion, among which is an address on the celebrated pioneer of New England musical composers, William Billings, by his own grandson, Captain Frank Scott of Boston. Much interest will attach to this address by the older members. Further details in regard to the musical programme and business will be given in our next issue. One thing is important now; set down the date, Tuesday, Aug. 14th, at Highland Park.

On Deck Again.

It seemed like old times at the district court this morning, to see Judge Humphrey occuping his seat upon the bench and Probation Officer Francis A. Spear occupying his desk. Judge Humphrey had just returned from a month's vacation and Mr. Spear returned to court for the first time for eight weeks, having been confined to his home during that time by illness. Frank has had quite a seige of it but his many friends will be glad to hear that he is better now than he has been for a long time.

Boy Drowned.

Joseph O'Rouke, aged 11 years, was drowned Tuesday afternoon while in swiming in Cow pond, East Braintree. The O'Rouke boy with others was learning to swim and got out beyond his depth and sank. Before aid could reach him he was drowned. The body was recovered.

The people on Letter Carrier Thomas' route are glad to see him back again on his route, after his severe illness. He is not looking very strong yet but they hope soon to see him stepping along as sprightly as of yore.

Henry H. Faxon says the Boulevard chickens are coming home to roost. That people who think Metropolitan parks and boulevards when purchased by the State cost the city nothing, will soon discover their mistake.

William Harkins of Goffe street met with quite a painful accident at Wollaston this morning. He was at work building a vault when a loose brick at the top fell and struck him on the head, cutting quite a deep gash. The blow was such as to render him unconscious for a few minutes.

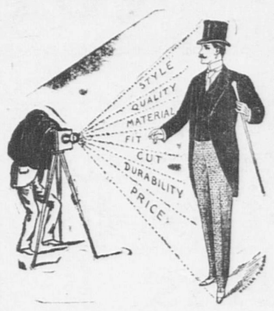

The funeral of Mrs. Ruth S. Doane was held Wednesday afternoon from the residence of her daughter, Mrs. T. E. Furnald on Edwards street. Rev. Silas B. Duffield officiated, assisted by the Mendelssohn quartette of Boston, which rendered several selections. There were many beautiful flowers. The interment was at Mt. Wollaston cemetery.

Mr. William Sadlier and Mr. Thomas Hasting of Atlantic have nearly finished the painting of the Atlantic Music Hall. There was quite a good deal of talk when the contract was let out to Mr. Sadlier and Mr. Hastings, as one of the residents said, "they have got more than they can handle, two men will never do it." But the skilful painters soon showed what they could do, and by tonight the building will be completed. It looks grand too.

Mrs. J. B. Sylvester, Miss Grace Sylvester, her daughter, and Mrs. J. N. Kelley of Centre street, who have been sojourning at the former's summer residence, Riverside cottage, Surry, Me., since July 4, are having a highly enjoyable time. What with bathing, boating and fishing, there is no opportunity for time to hang heavily on their hands. We are informed on reliable authority that Mrs. Kelley is so captivated by the surroundings that she is seriously contemplating making it her permanent residence.

FREE TRANSFERS

Are a Boon for Houghs Neck Hotels.

A Marked Increase in Number of Transients.

Good Parade of Antiques Expected Next Week.

A marked increase in the transient visitors at the beach is noticed this week. Doubtless this is due to the issuing of free transfers by the street railway, for people can now make the trip from Neponset, East Milton or any part of Quincy for five cents. When one stops to think it is quite a change from what it was when the line was first operated. Then if hourly cars were run people thought it was doing well and even then the fare was ten cents, and no reduction no matter how many tickets were purchased. Of course people kicked, but it did no good.

The Quincy & Boston took it and for a time retained the ten-cent fare, but issued a book of fifty rides which could be purchased at the rate of five cents a ride. Still the people kicked, although cars were run more frequently and with some regularity. The next move was a five-cent fare straight and half hour service, yet the people continued to kick, for the more they got the more they wanted.

This year after much debate in the City Council, the railroad was given a new location, the tracks reconstructed and long turnouts put in, so that there are now no tedious waits upon turnouts and on holidays and Sundays fifteen minute service is given. And now we have free transfers, and it seems as though the people of Houghs Neck have got about all they can reasonably ask from the railroad, unless it be more cars on a few of the trips.

All these changes have taken place within five years. What will the next five years bring forth?

Guests at the Fensmere this week: J. B., and C. J. Gayner, Mary Swift, Lena Selterell, Ina Hunt, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Nute, Brockton; Marian Blacson, New Haven; Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Crocker, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Howard, Mrs. M. E. Rhodes, Miss Mollie Crocker, Miss Bertha Pierce, Mrs. A. F. Macey, Brockton; W. Prouty, Milton; L. E. Coe, Natick; G. H. Blethen, Rockland, Me.; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hall, Boston; H. S. Byam, Miss E. L. McPherson, Canton; Nellie V. Pope, Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Steward, Mr. and Mrs. James Beaty, John J. Waltham, Fred A.J. Cochran, Boston; H. A. Locke, Watertown; H. E. Reynolds, Brockton; G. H. Poor, Boston; James H. Sherman, D. Valentine, Brockton.

The boys are on the war path, making collections for the antique and horrible parade for next Thursday morning, and some good local hits may be expected.

There is considerable sickness at the beach just at present although generally it is of a mild form.

Misses Jennie and Nellie Griffin, Miss Annie McGinty, Miss Darling, Miss Annie Feeley, Miss Kelley and Miss Catherine Meany, all of Quincy are at the Bostonian cottage.

Mrs. Margaret Walsh and daughters of Quincy, are at the Takeiteasy cottage on Island avenue for the balance of the season.

A trolley party of seventy from South Braintree visited the beach Tuesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Penniman, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Penniman and children of Quincy, and Mrs. James Pollock of New York were the guests at the Perry cottage on Wednesday.

Mrs. Bussell and family of Malden are in the Hillhurst cottage.

Herbert Beals and family of Boston are in a cottage on Centre road.

The several committees having in charge the mid-summer festival are hard at work and everything points toward a successful festival.

Mrs. Frank Kidder and family of Boston are in the Pleasant View cottage on Manet avenue.

Patrick Donahue and family of Hyde Park are in the French cottage on Great Hill.

Hon. A. Washburne of Hyde Park, well known in connection with the inauguration of Memorial day, with Mrs. Washburne and Miss Marion Washburne, were guests at the Fensmere hotel Wednesday.

ANARCHISTS HERE

And Count Malatesha Was Also Here Last Winter.

It will doubtless be news to many in Quincy to learn that Count Enrico Malasesta, who is said to have originated the plot to murder King Humbert made a visit to Quincy last winter, seeking converts to the American Anarchist society. Several meetings was held at St. Mary's hall, and it is reported that a number of converts were made, some of whom are said to be in Quincy at present.

Malatesta is about 50 years of age, and has been concerned in every uprising of consequence in Spain and Italy during the past 30 years. He was active in the Baecelona bread riots, the Milan riots and the peasants riots in Sicily last year.

He is a pupil of Michael Bakounine, founder of the school of anarchy, and three years ago invited the American Anarchist leaders to join him in organzing a society for the assassination of rulers, and it is said that it was for this purpose he made Quincy a visit. He has been expelled from every country in Europe except England, and has been imprisoned in France, Italy and Spain. He is said to be a member of one of the noblest families of Italy.

Dr. Trafton 90 Years Old.

Rev. Mark Trafton, D. D., who observed his 90th birthday anniversary Wednesday at Somerville, was formerly pastor of the Wollaston Methodist church. It was while residing in this city in 1882, that his wife died. He now resides with his only daughter, Mrs. Knox, who is well known as the author of "An American Girl Abroad," issued in 1874, "Katherine Earl," and "His Inheritance."

During the day Dr. Trafton received several congratulatory letters, and in the afternoon entertained a number of old-time intimate friends. His general vitality is really remarkable. He has a good appetite, sleeps well, and spends a large part of the pleasant days in sitting upon the veranda and walking about the lawn. He goes up and down stairs 40 times a day without assistance, but for several years has not ventured far away from the house without an escort. For reading purposes his eyesight has, within the past two years, failed him entirely, and his hearing has become somewhat defective. He stands as erect as was his custom in the pulpit nearly half a century ago. His eyes still retain that brightness for which he has been noted, and his brain is as active and fertile as ever. Each morning he watches for the arrival of the daily paper, and it has hardly been left at the front door before he is down stairs inquiring of Mrs. Knox, "What's the latest news?"

Whist Club Entertained.

One of the prettiest dinners of the summer season was given Wednesday afternoon at the residence of Mrs. John Ramsdall of Billings street for the North End whist club of Walpole, of which Mrs. Ramsdall is a member.

The house and grounds were artistically decorated with flags and red, white and blue bunting, folds of the patriotic color extending from tree to tree across the front lawn.

Mrs. Ramsdall has been identified with many successful dinners, as well as triumphs at the Woodward Institute and numerous other receptions, but never before has such heartfelt praise been showered upon her as when the guests seated themselves around the long table in the shady hammock house on Wednesday afternoon. At each end of the table was a great half watermelon cut in points, and plates of steaming chowder sent a savory order into the air. The coffee and ices were from the Squantum Inn, and were served opportunely with cakes, fruits, and dainties.

Being out of doors a great deal of hilarity was indulged in during the meal, and full justice was done to Mrs. Ramsdall's effort in cooking. There were were thirteen members present besides the hostess.

Later in the afternoon the merry party took a car ride to Squantum.

TODAY'S COURT.

The continued case of Havelock and Carey Keith, for larceny of hay at Quincy, was called and they were discharged.

The case of Henry A. Beard of Quincy for non-support was also called, and he was discharged.

Joseph A. Gillard case was called and he paid a fine of $5.

The case of John J. Cunniff of Weymouth was placed on file.

Hosea Hyland was arraigned for assault on F. W. Bryant at Weymouth. Case continued until next Thursday.

Jeseph Kelley, Frank George and John Dillon were arraigned for defacing a building of A. H. Small at Weymouth. Cases continued until next Thursday.

GOLDEN WEDDING.

Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Sanborn of Wollaston Celebrate.

An event of more than local interest occurred at Wollaston Wednesday evening,—the observance of the golden wedding of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Sanborn at their home on Warren avenue.

At dusk the grounds were brilliantly illuminated with scores of Japanese lanterns and an orchestra, located on the lawn, under a cluster of trees, discoursed some excellent music. From eight until half after nine o'clock the house was thronged with visitors.

Mr. George F. Pinkham delivered the historical address, and at the same time presented Mr. and Mrs. Sanborn, upon behalf of many friends, with a purse well filled with gold.

The Rev. Frederick E. Dewhurst, for a number of years the pastor of the First Baptist society of Wollaston, made a few felicitous remarks.

Mr. Sanborn was born at Strafford, Vt., in 1820.

At the age of seventeen he came to this State and found employment in the then famous Ames Manufacturing Co. of Chicopee. This concern was engaged in the manufacture of government work, such as sword hilts and fine metal work. It was here that the two great bronze doors for the Capitol at Washington were cast. Young Sanborn, through his marked ability and adaptedness for this kind of work, was soon advanced to be foreman of one of the most important departments. He remained with this company nine years, when he accepted a position at the foundry of Henry W. Hooper and was placed in charge of the moulding room. After being with this concern a year, he went with Gleason & Co. of Dorchester, in the same line of work, with whom he remained four years.

The confinement of this class of work telling upon his health, he sought out door employment. He became a conductor upon the original N. Y., N. H., & H. R.R., and for seventeen years ran between New Haven and New York. Mr. Sanborn was conductor of the first "Shore Line" train which ran into New York city. There were but five Boston passengers on this train. In September, 1863, the commutors on the train which he had run for many years, in recognition of his faithful services, presented to him a solid silver service valued at $300. This service was on exhibition last evening.

Mr. Sanborn retired from railroading in 1868 and settled on a farm in Dorchester, where he lived until 1872, when he came to Wollaston.

Wollaston people are familar with the grand row of elm trees which add so much to the attractiveness of Warren avenue. These trees were set out by Mr. Sanborn in 1873 and 1874. They will stand for generations as a monument to his foresightedness.

In 1850, Mr. Sanborn was married to Mary Elizabeth Robinson of Petersham, Mass., at Boston, by the Rev. Sylvanus Streeter, a prominent Universalist divine.

At Wednesday evening's anniversary there were present all five children,—Eben Pitman Sanborn, Mrs. Charles A. Pinkham and Frederick Charles Sanborn of Wollaston; Frank Battles Sanborn of New York; and Henry Baxter Sanborn of Ronoake, Va.

Madame Yale's HAIR TONIC

Ladies and Gentlemen.—It has gone on record that Madame Yale's Excelsior Hair Tonic is the first and only remedy known to chemical science found to be a genuine hair specific. It has an affinity for the human hair for nourishing and invigorating its entire structure. It is antiseptic in character, as well as stimulating; its action upon the scalp and hair is truly wonderful, inasmuch as it has never been known in a single instance to fail to cure scalp diseases and to create a luxuriant growth of healthy, beautiful hair. It stops hair falling within twenty-four hours and brings back the natural color to gray hair in nearly every instance. It is not a dye; it is not sticky or greasy; on the contrary it makes the hair soft, youthful, beautiful and glossy; keeps it in curl. It is a perfect hair dressing, and can be used by ladies, gentlemen or children as a daily toilet requisite. Its influence is delightfully soothing.

All Dealers sell it, $1 per bottle. Mail orders may be sent direct to the manufacturer,

There came the peremptory command, "Shet that winder!"

It was a window of a Pullman special car occupied by a railroad president and a party of friends. The command was given by the leader of a gang of western outlaws. The window was "shet." This and many other exciting incidents are told in Frederic Reddall's interesting story

EXULTANT OVER KING'S MURDER.

Anarchists In Pennsylvania Send Cablegram to That Effect to an Italian Minister.

Pittsburg, Aug. 2.—A special to The Commercial Gazette says: Near Shaner station, on the Baltimore and Ohio road, quite a large group of anarchists gathered to exult over the killing of King Humbert. The meeting was in charge of G. Ciancabilla, editor of L'Aurora, the anarchist newspaper of Hoboken, N. J., who spoke for an hour, rousing his hearers to a high pitch of rejoicing. Ciancabilla claims it was not a plot in which anarchists were concerned. The following cablegram was ordered by the group to be sent:

"To Minister Saracco, Rome: We are exultant over the death of the king who massacred the people. Hurrah for our comrade, Bresci. (Signed) The Anarchist Group, Yohoghany."

The men composing this group are for the most part miners of the Pittsburg Coal company, and Wednesday was a holiday for jubilation. The membership in this region became so numerous that Ciancabilla has most finished removing his paper plant to Yohoghany.

Grumbling In Porto Rico.

San Juan, P. R., Aug. 2.—Owing to the condition of currency exchange, rents and the prices of food, labor and the necessities of life, have advanced here 66 2-3 percent. Apparently there is a concerted effort on the part of merchants and shopkeepers to hold prices to the gold basis. Houses that formerly rented for $5 now rent for $25. Articles that formerly cost 20 cents now cost $1.

Coler Changes His Mind.

New York, Aug. 2.—The Times says: Controller Coler qualified yesterday his oft-repeated assurances of late that, under no circumstances, would he run for governor this fall. He said that he could be induced to accept a nomination if he should see the Ramapo project looming up in such shape as to endanger the interests of the city and state.

Assassin After King Alexander.

London, Aug. 2.—The Vienna correspondent of The Daily Chronicle, wiring yesterday, says: "A rumor has reached here from Belgrade that an attempt was made to assassinate King Alexander this afternoon while he was driving through the town. It is said he was shot at, but was not injured. The rumor is unconfirmed."

White Element Defeated.

Denison, Tex., Aug. 2.—Incomplete returns from the general election just held in the Choctaw nation indicate the election of G. W. Dukes as governor. E. N. Wright of Atoka and G. W. Dukes of Tallhuna were the rival candidates. Wright represents the white element, while Dukes represents the full blood Indians

He Didn't Kill Gates.

New London, Mo., Aug. 2.—Alex Jester, the octogenarian, who has been on trial here for the past four weeks, on the charge of killing Gilbert Gates, brother of J. W. Gates, the wire magnate, in 1871, was acquitted last night. Three ballots were taken.

Inducements to German Volunteers.

AN IMPORTANT INJUNCTION

Which Prevents Boston Labor Unions From Carrying Out Various Forms of Boycott.

Boston, Aug. 2.—Chief Justice Albert Mason of the Massachusetts superior court issued an injunction Wednesday in the case of John Miller & Co. vs. F. J. Kneeland, F. B. Maguire, F. A. Monahan and a number of others, including five labor unions, restraining the defendants from carrying on an extensive system of boycott against the company and particularly against a certain brand of their product.

The suit was the result of trouble which occurred with various labor organizations because of the refusal of the firm to comply with the demand of the unions that only union help should be employed in their establishment.

The bill of the plaintiff set forth that since June 1, 1900, there had been a combination among the defendant organizations to injure the business and standing of the company; that they had used threats and abusive language toward employes and customers; that they had established a patrol of pickets about the property of the company; had caused to be posted and circulated various placards and posters giving information in regard to the company and its products which was false, and had employed a team which was driven, through the streets, bearing large signs on which was painted false information.

The injunction which Justice Mason issued is very sweeping and prevents the unions interested from carrying out any of the various forms of "boycott" which they have put into effect.

It is expected that this injunction will have a considerable effect upon boycotts of a similar nature against other companies or interests, which are in operation in the city at present.

Kentucky Populists' Views.

Louisville, Aug. 2.—The Kentucky state Populist convention (Middle-of-the-Road) nominated for governor, O. H. Cardin of Crittenden county, and also nominated presidential electors for the 11 congressional districts and for the state-at-large. The platform endorses the Omaha and Cincinnati declarations, endorses Barker and Donnelly, denounces the Republican party for "cruel capitalism" and the Democrats as the "servile imitators of the Republicans in all villainous legislation of the past 29 years."

Undertaker Lost a Job.

Syracuse, Aug. 2.—A Herkimer special says: A child of Mr. and Mrs. Val Alstine of this village died Tuesday night. Physicians signed the death certificate and the undertaker was summoned. Until the latter arrived, the mother, who is a very religious woman, was on her knees praying that the child's life might even yet be restored to her. The undertaker came, and just as he was preparing to embalm the remains the child opened its eyes. There is every prospect that the child will recover.

Fire Did $20,000 Damage.

Henniker, N. H., Aug. 2.—A fire which for a time overwhelmed the citizens of this town and which, before it finally was conquered, destroyed property valued at more than $20,000, broke out Wednesday in the Henniker steam laundry. The fire was caused by the ignition of gas in the laundry. When it was driven from further devastation among the houses it continued to burn in the woods and brush for several hours.

Boers Had Friends In England.

London, Aug. 2.—The Daily Telegraph, on the authority of its Cape Town correspondent, asserts that documents of the highest importance, emanating from England, have been discovered in Pretoria, implicating members of the house of commons and other prominent persons in England, who have agitated in favor of the Boers. It says that startling developments may be expected shortly.

Call For Bids For Building Cruisers.

Washington, Aug. 2.—Secretary of the Navy Long has issued to shipbuilders a circular calling for bids for the construction of six armored cruisers. The bids are to be opened Dec. 7. The limit of cost of each of the three ships authorized by the act of 1899 is $4,000,000, and that of each of those authorized by this year's naval bill, $4,250,000.

Textile Workmen May Amalgamate.

Fall River, Mass., Aug. 2.—Representatives of unions affiliated with the National Textile organization will meet in session next Sunday for the purpose of considering a project for the amalgamation of all textile bodies. Fall River labor leaders are interested in the project.

Three Youths Drowned.

Canso, N. S., Aug. 2.—Arthur Hurst, John Horn and Clyde Roberts, aged from 16 to 18, went out in the bay in a small sailboat for the purpose of digging squid, and while returning home the boat was struck by a squall and sank with all hands, within a mile of the shore.

Light rains and thunder storms have occurred in eastern Texas and along the south Atlantic coast. Generally fair weather is indicated for New England. On the coast the winds will be light to fresh northerly.

EARL LI'S PROPOSAL,

Would Have Americans Endeavor to Halt the International Column.

Much Will Be Left to the Discretion of Conger.

No Change In Situation Which Will Delay the Advance Upon Pekin.

Washington, Aug. 2.—Cablegrams received at the state department from Li Hung Chang all tend to demonstrate his desire to secure the succor of the ministers at Pekin, and their delivery at Tien Tsin, if this can be safely effected, trusting that in return the international column can be halted.

Unquestionably a proper assurance of the safe delivery of the ministers would have some effect upon the temper of the powers, and it is possible that the United States government would give ear to overtures in that direction were not the attempt made by the Chinese to impose conditions upon the delivery that are altogether objectionable.

Such, for instance, is a stipulation that the Chinese imperial authorities shall be absolved in advance from the consequences of the attempt and for liability for what has taken place in Pekin. The first stipulation might be regarded as a direct invitation to the Boxers to murder the ministers on their way to the coast, and therefore our government will leave it to Mr. Conger himself whether or not he regards it as safe to leave Pekin when the opportunity is held out.

Meanwhile, there has been no change as to the military program, so far as our government is advised. The senior United States naval officer at Taku is under the most positive instructions to urge a forward movement, these having been sent by Secretary Long just after the receipt of the original Conger message, and he was advised also of the intention of the government to add to his force. These matters are referred to in the belated dispatch from Tien Tsin which touches upon the military situation, and the prospects of a speedy forward movement.

But no additional instructions on this point were sent to the United States army officers yesterday, and the government is allowing its officers on the spot to shape their own campaign, relying particularly upon the very full and comprehensive instructions previously given to General Chaffee both in person and by cable upon his arrival at Nagasaki.

Secretary Root says that there have been no developments in the diplomatic situation which would delay the advance on Pekin, and that General Chaffee has orders to cover any contingency which might arise.

A statement has been made in the dispatches from Europe to the effect that the United States is pushing General Chaffee for chief commander. It is said at the war department that such is not the case, though it is recognized that the situation might be such as to make it necessary for him to accept command, if tendered him by the other powers.

Gathered In Over Two Hundred.

New York, Aug. 2.—A raid on the Tivoli concert hall was made by the police at 11 o'clock Wednesday night, and more than 200 men and women were taken prisoners. It was one of the biggest raids ever made in New York. Fifty policemen in plain clothes and the reserves from the Tenderloin precinct descended upon the place in a body and closed every avenue of escape. Seven patrol wagons were employed to cart the prisoners to police stations. Charles E. Ackron, who runs the Tivoli, was not caught, but John O'Connor, who acts as his manager, was arrested.

"Prepared For Emergency."

Charlotte, N. C., Aug. 2.—The indications are that the Democrats will carry the state at today's election by more than 40,000 majority for both the state ticket and the constitutional amendment. The legislature, it is claimed, will also be Democratic by a good majority. It is the opinion of conservative men that the election will pass off peacefully, but both sides are said to be prepared for any emergency.

Ten Thousand Men at Work.

Cumberland, Md., Aug. 2.—The strike of the miners of Georges Creek, in operation since April, was broken Wednesday, work being resumed by miners of every company. The number of men reported at work is about 10,000. At each mine the force is being increased. Over $1,000,000 has been lost to the region in wages since the strike began.

Riot of Poles at Lowell.

Lowell, Mass., Aug. 2.—As an incident of an ante-nuptial celebration last night, the whole Polish colony in William street was in a state of riot for over half an hour this morning. Bricks, beer glasses and other missiles figured in the melee. Joseph Cristy came into contact with a beer glass and was badly cut up. Several arrests have been made.

Gordon Accepts Grand Army Invitation.

Atlanta, Aug. 2.—General Gordon, commander-in-chief of the United Confederate veterans, will be a guest at the encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic at Chicago, Aug. 27. General Gordon was extended an invitation at the request of General Shaw, commander-in-chief of the Grand Army.

Will Have 150,000 Members.

Indianapolis, Aug. 2.—Representatives of metal workers from many large cities met here Wednesday for the purpose of organizing a national society. The strength of the proposed organization in the United States will be about 150,000 members.

For Service In China.

San Francisco, Aug. 2.—The transport Meade sailed for Taku Wednesday with 1000 soldiers aboard. The Meade carries $1,700,000 for the payment of war expenses in China.

One Man Saved

From a wreck will attract the world's attention to the life-saver. Yet let the life-saving be continued every day, and very soon it attracts no public attention. If the scene of the saving of one life by that life-saving remedy, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, could be made to stand out alone, like a picture on a screen, it would attract the notice of the whole nation. By a curious contradiction the very frequency with which the "Discovery" saves life, robs the fact of general interest. For obstinate coughs, bronchitis, weak lungs, and other diseases of the respiratory organs, "Golden Medical Discovery" is the one medicine which offers certain help, and almost certain cure. It contains neither alcohol nor narcotics.

"Only for Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery I think I would be in my grave to-day," writes Mr. Moses Miles, of Hilliard, Uinta Co., Wyoming. "I had asthma so bad I could not sleep and was compelled to give up work. It affected my lungs so that I coughed all the time, both day and night. My friends all thought I had consumption. My wife insisted on my trying 'Golden Medical Discovery.' I have taken four bottles and am now a well man, weighing 185 pounds—thanks to Dr. Pierce."

The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser in paper covers, is sent free on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps to pay the cost of mailing only. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

CHIFFONIERES.

There's a world of comfort in owning a Chiffoniere, especially one of the Kincaide sort.

Not an article of furniture in your whole house adds more to the convenience of living, and nothing is so pleasant as to possess the "know where to find things" The Chiffoniere was a happy thought, in it you have plenty of drawer room, with a place for everything, and everything in its place To own a Chiffoniere makes one wonder how they ever lived without one. In beautiful Golden Oak, Mahogany, Bird's Eye Maple and White Enamel, we have over sixty different designs.

CHINA WILL ACCEPT TERMS.

That is the Belief of Authorities at Washington.

If Accepted the United States Will Have a Delicate Task.

Plans Not Changed for an Advance on Pekin as Soon as Possible.

Washington, Aug. 3.—Secretary Root says there have been no developments which would necessitate any changes in the instructions to General Chaffee, or which would change the intentions of the government in the least.

A cipher cable message was sent to General Chaffee by Secretary Root Thursday which contained additional information and facts which have developed since the last message was sent him at Nagasaki. The message contained no additional instructions, but merely information, which he may use as a guide to his actions.

It is not believed at the war department that an advance has been made as yet from Tien Tsin. It is explained that the last dispatches indicated a great deal of delay in unloading the transports, and before any advance can be made the troops must have all their equipments and transportation for them. The indications are that the plans being matured at Tien Tsin contemplate a rapid advance when the movement begins, for it seems to be understood that there will be carried with the army a sufficient quantity of supplies to maintain the troops on the march to Pekin and return, if a return should be advisable.

The fact that no reports were received from General Chaffee during Thursday was not surprising to the war department officials, who said that the general was busy preparing for the campaign and moreover communication between Taku and Che Foo is uncertain.

Secretary Hay's reply to Li Hung Chang has closed the negotiations with China unless the old viceroy is able to secure the full acceptance of our terms relative to the foreign ministers and that at once.

No orders, therefore, looking to a relaxation of the preparations for the advance on Pekin have gone out from Washington, for, as the situation is described by one of the leading officials here, "there will be no bargaining on our part in advance of the concession by the Chinese authorities of full and free communication with the foreign ministers." There is, moreover, a note ominously close to actual declaration of war in Secretary Hay's assertion that the Chinese government is "unfriendly." That kind of language is extreme diplomacy, and is only a narrow step between it and formal war.

The impression prevails here that the Chinese government, if it is not absolutely bereft of powers to act in defiance of the Boxers, will accept our terms, and some such action is looked for very soon. Possibly a battle, not more, it is believed, than one at the most, will be required to bring the imperial government to the point of acceptance, though in that case it is questionable whether the original conditions would be regarded as still open to acceptance.

If the Chinese government now accepts, however, the United States government will be face to face with one of the most delicate and momentous diplomatic tasks ever undertaken. It must attempt to redeem its promise to use its good offices in favor of China, and in the present temper of some of the European powers the greatest difficulty may be expected to arise in the prosecution of the attempt. It is the confident expectation of the officials here, however, that if the Chinese government actually and in good faith meets all of the four conditions laid down by the president in his reply to the Chinese emperor's appeal for aid, that at least a majority of the powers now represented in China will accept that as a proper base upon which to cease present hostilities, and open negotiations for a settlement. The decision of the majority in such a case without doubt would receive the acquiescence of the minority, else an interminable entanglement might arise.

Duke's Death Regarded With Suspicion.

London, Aug. 3.—A coroner's inquest held on the body of Carl Schurz, Jr., the second son of Carl Schurz of New York, who died alone in his boarding house on July 26, resulted in a verdict that death was caused by heart disease. Schurz recently returned from a walking tour of Germany.

NEWS IN BRIEF.

County Democratic primaries held throughout Tennessee practically insure the election of Congressman E. W. Carmack to the United States senate.

The census office announces the population of Louisville as 204,731, an increase of 43,602 over the census of 1890.

Secretary McGarr of the New York state commission in lunacy has been awarded the first prize at the Paris exposition for the best exhibit showing the progress made during the past 100 years in the care of the insane.

The war department has been informed that three companies of the First infantry have left Havana on the transport Rawlins. This shows that the yellow fever outbreak in that regiment has not been serious enough to prevent sending the troops home.

The Sultan of Turkey has conferred the Order of the Medjedie upon Charles Steinway of New York for excellence in science and art.

Intense heat has prevailed over South Dakota for five days. The temperature has ranged from 98 to 104.

Only 35 cases of yellow fever are reported in Havana, and the mortality is very low.

DEMOCRATS CARRIED EVERYTHING.

Practical Elimination of the Negro From North Carolina Politics.

Charlotte, N. C., Aug. 3.—The elections in North Carolina Thursday were for governor and state officers, members of the legislature and county officers, and an amendment to the state constitution, the adoption of which will disfranchise the bulk of the negro vote. By far the greatest interest centered in the fight over the amendment. A great many negroes voted for it. It was opposed by the fusion forces, consisting of Populists and Republicans, headed by Senators Butler and Pritchard. The campaign was the bitterest in the state since reconstruction days. There was a full poll of the Democratic strength, aided by a small negro vote and some Populist and Republican votes.

Returns indicate that the amendment was carried by over 40,000 majority. Spencer B. Adams, fusion nominee for governor, is defeated by Charles B. Aycock, Democratic nominee, by fully 40,000 majority. All the other Democratic state nominees were elected by equal majorities. The legislature is Democratic in both branches.

The election throughout the state was generally quiet, the negroes generally remaining away from the polls.

Anarchists Disclaim Existence of Plot.

New York, Aug. 3.—Several hundred anarchists held a meeting in Paterson, N. J., Thursday, for the purpose of discussing the situation in Italy. Pasquale Frank presided. He denounced the newspapers for misrepresenting the anarchists, and denied they are bad men. Pedro Esteve, a Spanish leader and editor of a Paterson anarchist publication, was the principal speaker. He discussed the situation in Italy from his own standpoint, averring that Italy's only hope is in the anarchists. He ended his speech with the exclamation "I am not sure what you people think over the death of the king, but for me, I don't care that," snapping his fingers as he said so. Other speakers disclaimed the existence of any plot to kill the king.

Variag Damaged to Extent of $20,000.

Philadelphia, Aug. 3.—It has developed that the accident to the Russian cruiser Variag during her trial trip last week was more serious than at first supposed. It will be fully five weeks before she can be completely repaired. Three of her crew were scalded at the time by escaping steam. It appears that while she was under very high pressure and sailing 24 knots an hour, the cylinder head on the port engine and the flange to which it was attached, both cracked, rendering the engine useless. The amount of the damage is roughly estimated at $20,000.

Mexicans Still Fighting Indians.

Oaxaca, Mex., Aug. 3.—The military authorities here have received information that there has been continued fighting between the Maya Indians and the government troops in Yucutan for the last five days, and that the rebels have been forced to abandon several of their strongest positions. It is charged that there are several English speaking men in command of the Maya forces.

To Celebrate Old Home Week.

Portland, Me., Aug. 3.—The North Atlantic squadron, ordered here to take part in Portland's Old Home week celebration, arrived Thursday, and is now anchored for a visit which will extend to the latter part of next week. The vessels are the battleships Kearsarge, Kentucky, Massachusetts, Indiana and Texas and the cruiser New York.

Strikers' Ranks Depleted.

Cumberland, Md., Aug. 3.—There were more desertions from the ranks of the striking coal miners in the George's Creek district Thursday, about 200 men having returned to work in the various mines. Several minor disturbances have taken place. The temper of the miners who are still out is growing steadily uglier.

Encouraging Emigration to Hawaii.

San Juan, P. R., Aug. 3.—S. T. Alexander, the representative of the Hawaiian Planters' association, who has been here for some time, has traveled all over the island and persuaded many Porto Ricans to emigrate to the Hawaiian islands. He left local agents with power to contract with would-be emigrants.

Strikers Disclaim Responsibility.

Dallas, Aug. 3.—There was an explosion under the tracks of the Dallas Consolidated Electric Street Railway company on South Harwood street Thursday, as one of its cars passed. No one was injured. The union workmen, who have been on strike for several weeks, repudiate the act.

Another Seminary For St. Paul.

St. Paul, Aug. 3.—The Norwegian Lutheran seminary has decided to locate at St. Anthony Park, a suburb of this city, making 11 colleges and seminaries having homes in St. Paul.

Objections to Non-Union Man.

Montpelier, Mass., Aug. 3.—Forty-five stone cutters struck Thursday at the shops of C. H. Moore & Co., claiming that the firm was employing one non-union man.

Burglar May Be a Murderer.

New York, Aug. 3.—Thomas McGuire, a policeman of the South Orange, N. J., police force, was shot and perhaps fatally wounded Thursday while trying to capture a burglar coming out of a house. The man opened fire on McGuire, and shot him in several places. The burglar made his escape.

Cause of Young Shurz's Death.

London, Aug. 3.—A coroner's inquest held on the body of Carl Schurz, Jr., the second son of Carl Schurz of New York, who died alone in his boarding house on July 26, resulted in a verdict that death was caused by heart disease. Schurz recently returned from a walking tour of Germany.

Not Caused by Anarchists.

New York, Aug. 3.—A bomb exploded Thursday in a vault of the old city hall in Paterson, N. J. The loud report caused a rumor that anarchists had attempted to wreck the city court. City Counsel Dunn and Clerk Rainey had a narrow escape. A small dynamite bomb which was recently seized from an Italian bomb maker and placed in the vault for safe keeping, was accidently kicked by one of the city officials, and the explosion followed.

Thinks He Sold Revolver to Bresci.

New York, Aug. 3.—C. E. Florum, proprietor of a store in Paterson, N. J., thinks he sold to Bresci the revolver with which he killed King Humbert. Bresci said he wanted a good revolver "to shoot a dog with," and picked out a five-chambered, 32-caliber, double acting weapon, made in Worcester, Mass.

Maritime Company Loses Concession.

Managua, Aug. 3.—The Nicaraguan congress convened and was personally addressed by President Zelaya, who declared that the condition of the country showed distinct improvement. He announced the termination of the concession to the Maritime Canal company and formally proclaimed the existence of the Eyre-Cragin canal concession.

HE HAD BEEN WARNED.

Shah of Persia Notified That He Would Share King Humbert's Fate.

Would-Be Assassin Endeavored to Carry Out Plans.

A Moment's Hesitation on His Part Caused Monarch's Life to Be Spared.

Paris, Aug. 3.—It had been arranged that the Shah of Persia, who has been a visitor to the exposition as the guest of France, should visit Sevres and see the national pottery works Thursday, going afterwards to Versailles. It was just after he had left the sovereign's palace and on his way to the Seine to go on board a yacht, placed at his disposal for the trip, that he narrowly escaped an assassin's bullet.

SHAH OF PERSIA.

Only five minutes before the pistol was presented at his breast he was the recipient of a letter which warned him that his life was in danger. No serious thought, however, was given to its contents, so numerous had been former warnings of the same character. As he was seated in the landau, before leaving the court of the palace, his secretary brought him a letter dated Naples, but posted in Paris Wednesday night, signed with a name bearing an Italian termination. It said: "Today you shall meet the same fate as Humbert."

In no wise disconcerted, the shah handed the letter to the officer on guard and gave orders for the carriage to start. The gates of the palace were thrown open and as the monarch emerged a large crowd of curious onlookers broke into cries of "Vive le shah" and "Vive la Perse."

Hardly had these acclamations died away, when a man dressed in the ordinary clothing of a Paris workman, darted forward from between two automobiles where he was hidden and rushed toward the imperial carriage, overthrowing a bicycle policeman, who rolled under the feet of the horses.

In an instant he was on the carriage step. Holding the door with his left hand, with his right he pushed a revolver toward the breast of the shah. He seemed to hesitate for a moment, as though undecided where to aim. This hesitation saved the shah's life, for before the would-be assassin could pull the trigger a strong hand grasped his wrist and wrenched it so that the weapon dropped harmlessly to the bottom of the landau.

"I'd like to have a photograph of that man," nonchalantly exclaimed the shah. Then addressing a few words in his native tongue to his companions in the carriage he told the coachman to drive on.

Seated in the landau with the shah at the time the assault was made were the grand vizier, the personal physician of the monarch, and General Parent, his personal aide. General Parent, in the course of an interview, subsequently said:

"It was the court physician who met the first criminal advance. It was he who seized the individual by the wrist and arrested the movement of aggression for a sufficient time to allow the pistol to be knocked from the assailant's hand. I am inclined to the belief that the man is an Italian."

Yellow Fever Precautions.

Montgomery, Ala., Aug. 3.—The governor of Alabama, having received authentic information of the existence of yellow fever in Tampa, Fla., has issued a quarantine proclamation against that place, covering persons, personal baggage and household furniture.

Jockey Killed by a Fall.

Detroit, Aug. 3.—Jockey Fenimore received a fall here Thursday, when his mount, Juggiery, fell soon after the start. The horse rolled over him and he received injuries which caused his death.

Will Be Governor Dukes.

South McAlester, I. T., Aug. 3.—Returns of the election for governor, held in the Choctaw nation, show that Judge J. W. Dukes was elected. Dukes ran on the full blood ticket.

Good Afternoon.

Jealous Quincy objects to the street cars running through that city with the name "Brockton Street Railway Co. upon them, and the Ledger of that thriving municipality asserts that it is a misnomer. Well, what of it? Isn't the same true of the New York, New Haven & Hartford steam cars which runs through the same city? What does the Ledger propose to do about those? —Brockton Enterprise.

With the help of the Enterprise we will endeavor to change that also. Would the Enterprise like to call it the Boston, Brockton & New York?

Excellent reports of Mr. F. E. Parlin, the new Superintendent of Schools, reach the Ledger from various sources. A teacher who formerly taught nuder him, has a kind word for him, and Mr. C.F. Harper of the Quincy High knows him personally and speaks highly of him. At Natick, the business men as well as the school authorities recommend him. He is of superb physique and modest. He has met with success in all towns where he has been superintendent, and has also been prominent in summer institute work. For some time he has been engaged in compiling a genealogy of the Parlin family. He has made several visits to Quincy, and will very soon take up his residence here.

With a young and popular candidate Representative Sprague, in the field for Senator, the Republicans of Quincy have a standard bearer around whom they can rally with enthusiasm.

He will probably be the only aspirant from Quincy, and should command solid support. Outside of Quincy there promises to be candidates galore. Senator Woodsum of Braintree would like to be returned, Judge Grover of Canton thinks his turn has come, Hyde Park may push Wilbur H. Powers, and Milton may present Albert A. Brackett, an ex-Selectman and ex-Representative. Allowing all these towns solid delegation for their "favorite sons" would still leave a majority for Eugene H. Sprague: for Quincy will have 21 delegates, Weymouth 8, Holbrook 3, and Randolph 3. The First Norfolk Senatorial district will be entitled to 57 delegates and 29 will be a majority. The successful candidate must receive some votes from either Weymouth or Quincy, as the two towns have a majority of the delegates.

Drift of Opinion.

☞Census experts are of the opinion that there is disappointment in store for most of the big cities of the country in the census returns as to population, in that the increase will not be as great as has been expected. This has been the experience of Washington, the only city whose population by the new count has been officially reported. While its citizens had an idea that their numbers were being constantly added to the census returns show that half the numerical growth of the districts is in the region outside the city limits, in the general range of country two miles out from Pennsylvania avenue. The census experts believe that the increase of population generally will be found to be in the outskirts, and that when the outskirts lie beyond the city limits the growth of the city is more apparent than real. This opinion, based on figures, but confirms the observation of thinking people who used their eyes intelligently. Ten years ago the rural population was moving in toward the towns and the cities. Today the movement is in the other direction, and the electric cars are responsible for the change.—New Bedford Standard.

CUBAN TEACHERS.

Invited by Mayor Hall to Visit Quincy Next Tuesday.

Although Mayor Hall has not succeeded in raising as large an amount as desired for the entertainment of the Cuban teachers, he has decided to invite them to come. He has written Supt. Frye inviting a party of 150 to visit Quincy, and suggesting next Tuesday as the day for them to come.

Mayor Hall will do what he can with the money at his disposal and if sufficient funds are raised to give them a shore dinner, it will be done.

The plan for their entertainment has not been fully planned as yet, all details will not be arranged until a reply is received from Mr. Frye. As outlined however, the party will leave Boston about 1.30, and will go direct to West Quincy where the Quarry railroad, and quarries, and cutting plants along its line will be inspected.

As invitations has been extended the teachers to visit the Fore River Engine works at Braintree it is possible that the train will take the party from West Quincy to Weymouth Landing and after a visit to the Fore River Engine Works, street cars will be taken for a trip about Quincy, including the birthplaces of the Presidents.

As soon as Mayor Hall receives a reply from Mr. Frye he will go ahead with his arrangements.

Electric Trains.

According to the statement of officials of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad, no definite time can be named when the new electric suburban trains of the road will go into use. The basement of the South Station is prepared for their reception, except for a few finishing touches which would take only a very short time to complete. Outside the yards of the station, however, there are changes in progress in the arrangement of tracks which will not be finished for some time, and until these arrangements are completed no attention will be given to preparing the electric system. A year ago it was believed that these trains wolud be in use before this time, and suburban residents have watched for them with interest. The road, however, has made considerable structural change about the yards in the city, but as yet has been absolutely unable to operate the electric system.—Transcript.

Scholarly and Able.

An unusually large audience attended service at Centenary M. E. church at Provincetown, Sunday. A most attentive audience listened as the pastor, Rev. E. J. Ayres presented his morning discourse in an able and deeply interesting manner. The desk in the evening was occupied by the Rev. Charles H. Wilder of West Quincy, who is spending a few days in town at the west end. Rev. Mr. Wilder delivered a scholarly and able sermon upon "Waiting upon God." The vocal solo by Mrs. Martha Swift was highly appreciated and Miss Emmie Dearborn sang in her usual pleasing and attractive manner.—Provincetown advocate.

SUDDEN DEATH.

Herald Real Estate Editor Passes Away at Post Island.

Delos E. Goldsmith, head of the real estate news department of the Herald, and one of the best known and most highly esteemed of the younger newspaper men of Boston, died Thursday afternoon at his summer home on Post Island, Adams shore, Quincy.

The Herald says:

Mr. Goldsmith's death came as a great shock to his co-workers and friends. Less than three weeks ago he was engaged at his accustomed duties, and no one seemed less likely to be cut off by death than he. He had suffered from an attack of illness several months ago, but returned to his work and was cheerful and energetic as usual. The brief illness which caused his death was not known to be of a dangerous nature until the news of its sad termination was received.

Mr. Goldsmith was of a peculiarily bright and genial disposition. Although a young man, his experience in life had been large and varied, and in every sphere which he entered he made many warm frends. He was born in Plainesville, O., Oct. 8, 1871. A portion of his earlier years was spent in San Francisco. He received his education in the public schools, and after a brief experience in commercial life entered upon newspaper work in Boston.

His first position in journalism was a reportership on the Traveler. Subsequently he became connected with the City Press Association. His intelligence and fidelity led to his being made night city edlitor of that organization. When the City Press was dissolved, Mr. Goldsmith became a member of The Herald's local staff. His varied tastes and aptitudes made his services valuable in a large range of work, and when a vacancy occurred in the real estate news department, he was selected to handle that important branch of The Herald's work.

Probably the most thrilling incident in Mr. Goldsmith's life happened on July 4, 1892, when he narrowly escaped death from a balloon accident. The balloon ascension was made from Boston Common as a feature of the city of Boston's Independence day celebration. Aeronaut George A. Rogers was in charge of the balloon, assisted by Thomas Fenton, an engineer. Mr. M. D. Cressy, a member of the common council was to have been the third member of the party, but failing to appear, Mr. Goldsmith, who was then in the employ of the City Press Association, took his place. It was thought the balloon would take an inland course, but a strong westerly wind sprang up which swept it toward the harbor. Aeronaut Rogers determined to descend on Thompson's island, in order to escape being carried out to sea. The cord regulating the escape valve refused to work. Becoming slightly nervous, Rogers applied too much force and caused a slight rent in the balloon. The gas, rushing out, increased this rent till it was a yard long.

The baloon descended rapidly, and when it struck the water, the ropes became entangled about Fenton's neck, and he was drowned. Aeronaut Rogers and Mr. Goldsmith managed to clear themselves from the wreck, but before the former could be rescued, he was either overcome by the escaping gas or by weakness, and sank. Mr. Goldsmith was rescued just as his strength was about gone. Although so nearly exhausted that he had to be taken to a hospital, with characteristic pluck he wrote a long and interesting story describing his perilous adventure for the next morning's papers.

Mr. Goldsmith was married nearly three years ago to a daughter of Mr. Charles H. Bond of 128 Commonwealth avenue, who survives him.

Joseph Clark of Walker street is enjoying a week's vacation.

E. H. Doble has been confined to the house this week with neuralgia.

Miss Nellie B. Hughes of Furnace avenue has taken a trip to Concord, N. H.

Mrs. James M. Cook of Provincetown is a guest of Mrs. Wallace W. Cook.

Charles H. Hall of Walker street, will spend Sunday with his family in Portland.

Miss Beatrice W. Silver of Braintree is visiting her grand parents of Furnace avenue.

Mr. Frank E. Lonergan of Weymouth is spending a fortnight's vacation at West Harbor, R. I.

The West Quincy Epworth League will hold a lawn party next Wednesday evening with Edward Trask on Willard street.

Mr. Robert McKenzie, first tenor of the Metropolitan quartette of Boston is the guest of Mr. John Lawry, 1 Bennington street.

The first boats in the race of the Misery Island club on Thursday were Cartoon, Jolly Roger, Theresa, Lobster, and Raggy Lugg.

The band concert at Lorings corner this evening will be especially attractive. The program is one of the finest of the season.

Rev. C. W. Wilder will take a trolley trip on Saturday, to Hudson, N. H., to spend a few days with his brother, Rev. R. H. Wilder.

Mr. Albert Smith of Howard avenue, who is employed by the Eastern Dock and Construction Company, was taken ill on Thursday and carried to his home.

The Atlantic postal station will be open on Sundays from 9 to 10 A. M. and 4.30 to 4.30 P. M. Sunday mails will also be added, arriving from Boston at 9.15, and closing for Boston at 5.15.

A great many pretty equipages are seen daily going toward the Squantum Inn, it being the only hotel anywhere in the vicinity of Boston that one can reach by driving. The Inn has a good established reputation by this time.

A company of the parishioners of Rev. C. W. Wilder, paid a surprise visit to the parsonage on Thursday evening, enjoying a pleasant social time with the pastor's family and leaving behind them cash, groceries and a barrel of flour.

An Indian relic was unearthed at Squantum Wednesday by Dennis O'Neil, foreman of streets. It is supposed to be an idol as it is of stone neatly cut, and a face is plainly visible. It is on exhibition at Branscheid & Marten's, newsdealers. Some skeletons were found near the relic.

An outing of Capt. R. B. Grover Ladies' Aid society of Brockton will be held next Sunday. A trolley trip will be made to North Weymouth, and the day passed in pleasant fashion. A communication to that effect was received by Capt. R. B. Grover Camp, Sons of Veterans, at its meeting last evening.

Miss Frances Talbot entertained a number of her friends at her home on Bennington street Thursday evening. There were vocal selections by Mr. Warren Mitchell and Miss Mabel Hunter, while Miss Murphy, Miss Worby and Miss Chubback presided at the piano. During the evening ice cream, cake and frappe were served. A very enjoyable evening was passed by all.

Mrs. Hannah, wife of Mr. Francis E. Kimball of Crescent street, passed away Thursday at the City Hospital. Mrs. Kimball had been a sufferer from rheumatism for some months, and a few weeks ago was taken to the City Hospital. Her ailments were of such a natureas to be incurable, but everything possible was done for her comfort and to prolong her life. She was 54 years of age and leaves one daughter, Mrs. Arthur E. Roberts.

NEW MUSIC HALL

Many Improvements Which Will Be Appreciated.

Work rebuilding Music Hall is progressing rapidly, and by Sept 1, it will be ready for use. It is an old saying that it is an ill wind that does no one good, and so it proves in this case. While the loss of the hall was severely felt at the time of the fire, the fire showed the managers where improvements could be made.

The need of a larger stage was often felt and this has been remedied by building it five feet deeper which is accomplished by bringing the front into the hall. The height has also been increased three feet. In the original hall there was an entrance to the rear of the stage from either side. Now there is but one and that is on the West side.

The removal of the stage entrance on the left has been utilized by this and other minor changes and three additional dressing rooms have been obtained. The entrance to the stage is used as a means of exit from the rear of the hall.

In addition to this the second window from the stage on the west side has been made into a door which opens to an iron landing and stairway leading to the rear of the building, affording an extra exit.

Near the entrance to the hall, the gentlemen's dressing room has been enlarged to twice its former size by reducing the size of the cloak room. Improvements have also been made in the gentlemen's toilet room.

Lack of proper ventilation was also a frequent complaint in the original hall. This has been remedied in the remodelling. The top sashes of the windows which were formerly fast and unmovable are now hung so as so swing, allowing the entrance of fresh air.

In the ceiling where there was originally but one ventilator, there are now seven. In the roof there are also two scuttles now, which can be readily opened or closed by the janitor from hall, so that the foul air in the attic can be let out readily.

The electric lights for the stage and main hall are controlled from a switch board on the stage, and those in the rear of the hall are controlled by a switch board there. The wiring is so arranged that when the main switch in the rear of the hall is thrown there will not be a live wire in the building.

The floor of the original hall was of hard pine and was also the cause of some complaint. The defect has also been remedied, as the new floor is of maple.

All the exits are wired for lights and piped for gas, so that whenever the hall is in use, the exits will be lighted.

The frescoing of the walls and ceiling is similar to that in the old hall but is an improvement if anything.

The new scenery for the stage has arrived, and as stated above the hall will be ready sor use Sept. 1.

CONQUERORS FIRST.

Wins $300 at Firemen's Muster at Combination Park.

Big plays were the rule at the Firemen's muster at Combination Park on Thursday. When the Union of Braintree, the first to try, succeeded in playing over 200 feet, there was reason for congratulations among the members of the company, but the Eureka of Arlington went them 12 feet better, and as the playing continued the Unions dropped from first place almost a la toboggan. The two Brockton tubs played well and within three feet of each other, but the Hancock took a prize, and the Protectors did not. The Conquerors of South Weymouth were easy winners of the first prize of $300, playing 229 feet and 11 inches to the surprise of many.

The plays were as follows:

Houghs Neck Gang.

William Hamilton, the boy arrested by Officer McKay last Saturday morning after a long chase, in which he and Officer Goodhue participated, was arraigned in court this morning for the larceny of two graphophones from Andrew A. Meyer at Houghs Neck. The boy was in company with three others who got away by scattering, but who were later arrested in Cambridge. When searched at the police station a chisel was found upon his person, which Officer Ferguson carried to Houghs Neck and found it fitted the marks on the slot machines broken open. The boy is said to have confessed later to being one of the gang who did the job.

The boy was turned over to Cambridge officers and was brought to Quincy this morning. As the boy is a juvenile, his case was continued until next Thursday.

You Should Visit Them.

Of the resort sections of the country few of them are more widely known than the White Mountains region of Northern New England. The main features that have brought this section to the foreground are its magnificent scenery, its exhiliarating atmosphere and its local qualities. Of the first mentioned, some of the more widely known features, outside the Presidential Range and Mount Washington are in the Crawford, Franconia and Dixville Notches. Each contributes far differing attractions, any single one of which is well worth seeing, though taken together they present a series of nature's workings unlike those to be found any where else. There are wonderful rock formations like Table Rock in Dixville, and the "Old Man of the Mountain," and the Flume; then there is White Horse Ledge and Elephant's Head and Crystal Cascade and "The Basin" and Echo and Profile Lakes and Lake of the Clouds. These are but a few of the interesting sights to see.

As you know, the Boston and Maine Railroad traverses this great Mountain Vacation Region, and the mountain literature issued by its Passenger Department comprises an enchiridion of New Hampshire's mountains which you can obtain by sending a two-cent stamp to the General Passenger Department of the Boston, and Maine Railroad, Boston, and with it will be sent you a book of tours, which you will find to be replete with the information you are looking for regarding a vacation. Send for them.

Gentlemen:—I must say in regard to GRAIN-O that there is nothing better or healthier. We have used it for years. My brother was a great coffee drinker. He was taken sick and the doctor said coffee was the cause of it, and told us to use GRAIN-O. We got a package but did not like it at first, but now would not be without it. My brother has beenwell ever since we started to use it.

KILLED HER BABY.

Charge Upon Which a Young Woman of Machiasport, Me., Is Held.

Machias, Me., Aug. 3.—Miss Pearl Seavy of Machiasport was placed under arrest Thursday, charged with causing the death of her infant child. On June 25, while a domestic in the family of W. J. Cooper, Miss Seavy gave birth to a child without medical assistance, and at first refused to give any information as to what disposition had been made of the infant. On July 6 the body was found on the beach. A coroner's jury rendered the verdict that the child came to its death through the criminal neglect of its mother. Miss Seavy was bound over to the October term of the supreme court, being sent to jail in default of bail.

Miss Seavy, who is about 18 years of age, came to the house of W. J. Cooper in February, and has since been employed there as a domestic. On the night of June 25, she complained of a toothache, and, upon Mrs. Cooper's advice, went to bed early. During the night she was heard moving about down stairs, and when Mrs. Cooper inquired what she was after the girl made replies that apparently satisfied the former.

In the morning, Mrs. Cooper's suspicions were aroused, but, when questioned, Miss Seavy denied that she had given birth to a child, although, when a physician was summoned, and further denial was useless, she acknowledged the fact. The infant was nowhere to be found. A butcher knife, having blood stains upon it, was found in the basement by Mrs. Cooper, and the girl's room was found in a disordered condition. Later in the day, Miss Seavy told the physician that she wrapped the child in her apron and buried it under a tree, digging its grave with an earthen plate. A search was made for the body in the place designated by the girl, without success, and it was not until 11 days later that it was discovered upon the beach.

President May Visit Portsmouth.

Washington, Aug. 3.—Assistant Secretary of the Navy Hackett has invited the president to attend the ceremonies at Portsmouth, N. H., Sept. 18, in connection with the presentation of a tablet to the battleship Kearsarge commemorative of the famous fight off Cherbourg, when the old Kearsarge defeated and sunk the Confederate privateer Alabama. The president promised to be present if his engagements at the time permitted.

Chinese Slaves in Chicago.

Chicago, Aug. 3.—It was reported to the city authorities that four Chinese women had been purchased by Chicago Chinamen and were being held as slaves. The women were said to have been exhibited at the Omaha exposition. It was claimed that $500 was the price of each, and that they had been held in captivity nearly two years. The police officials were instructed to liberate the women.

Plans Not Carried Out.

New York, Aug. 3.—The conference of the joint committees from the Local and the Traveling Vaudeville and Burlesque Managers' associations of America, which has been in session here, adjourned without accomplishing the object for which it met, that of forming a syndicate so that special individual attractions could make the journey from city to city without making long trips.

Jury Had Periods of Rest.

Georgetown, Ky., Aug. 3.—Much of the time of Thursday's session in the trial of former Secretary of State Powers, charged with complicity in the Goebel shooting, was taken up by the wrangling of attorneys for both sides, the jury being sent out a half dozen times while points were being argued.

SHE LOVED ANOTHER.

Syrian Bride Figures In an Elopement Which Ultimately Led to a Lively Riot.

Lawrence, Mass., Aug. 3.—An elopement caused a riot in the Syrian colony here Thursday evening. Martha Milkan and Said Cantur were married about six weeks ago. Shortly after the marriage Mrs. Cantur became infatuated with Azoof Adiaman, and eloped with him a few days ago.

They went to Salem, N. H., where a marriage ceremony was performed. They returned Thursday night and Cantur has his wife arrested. A number of Mrs. Cantur's relatives found Adiaman in a store on Elm street, and an animated discussion led to blows. Hundreds of Syrians were attracted to the scene, and a riot ensued. Sticks, stones, knives and fists were freely used, resulting in battered heads and ruined clothing.

Adiaman's clothes were torn from his body. Some of the combatants retreated to a store and locked the door and continued the fight. Policemen Johnson and Wadlin forced the door and arrested three of the fight parties. Adiaman has requested that warrants be issued for several of his assailants.

A charge of bigamy will probably be preferred against Mrs. Cantur. No complaint has been made against Adiaman.

Threatened by the Mafia.

New York, Aug. 3.—Charles N. Petrie of Paterson, N. J., has received a number of letters from local anarchists, or what he calls the Mafia, in which his life is threatened. He is a prominent silk finisher and has charge of nearly 100 men in a silk mill. Petrie is a prominent member of many societies that have for their object the restriction of immigration and disfranchisement of certain sections of the Italians. Six prominent citizens who share his belief have also received threatening letters. Petrie has turned his house into a veritable arsenal.

Brother's Slayer Not Held.

Worcester, Mass., Aug. 3.—Mrs. Nora Phillips, who shot and killed her brother, David McNamara, at their home in Leicester, was in the police court Thursday, charged with manslaughter. On the recommendation of District Attorney Hoar Mrs. Phillips was allowed to go a free woman. Mrs. Phillips freely admitted that she caused her brother's death, but claimed that it was done in self-defense. McNamara's body will be buried by the town of Leicester, the members of the family having refused to have anything to do with it.

A Boston Man's Serious Error.

Boston, Aug. 3.—Rather than take a few steps to awaken his partner in a bicycle shop, John H. McCarthy, 23 years old, fired five shots through a partition behind which Thomas E. Haynes was sleeping, and three of the bullets took effect in the body of the latter, inflicting dangerous wounds. The man, it is said, had been celebrating, and McCarthy, when he thought his partner had had sleep enough, proceeded to make noise enough to arouse him. McCarthy has been arrested.

Peculiar Accident Results Fatally.

Springfield, Mass., Aug. 3.—A case of machinery was being moved in the Ludlow mills Thursday and a piece of scantling had been placed on a truck to aid in the moving. The case was let down rather suddenly on the projecting end of the scantling. The scantling shot across the room with great violence, striking Louis Pette on the top of his head, killing him instantly.

Race Awarded to Nelson.

Bridgeport, Conn., Aug. 3.—John A. Nelson is now the champion middle distance rider of America, having been awarded his second race of the series with Jimmy Michael by Referee R. F. Kelsey of the N. C. A., board of control. Michael refused to meet the Swede, claiming that he was ill. Both Michael and his manager, J. C. Kennedy, are under indefinite suspension.

Wanted by Amesbury Police.

Lawrence, Mass., Aug. 3.—Fred Hervin was arrested here for Amesbury officers. A charge of arson will probably be preferred against him. A house in Amesbury occupied by Hervin was destroyed by fire. Hervin had some furniture which was heavily insured in the house. Hervin denies any connection with the fire.

Botha Said to Be Weakening.

London, Aug. 3.—The Pretoria correspondent of The Daily Mail says: Commandant General Botha is weakening. He has sent a messenger to Lord Roberts for confirmation of the report of the surrender of General Prinsloo, and requesting permission to communicate with General Christian De Wet.

Death Overtook Love.

Poplar Bluffs, Mo., Aug. 3.—Martha Hendricks, 17 years old, and Paul Varner, an eloping couple, were drowned Thursday in the Currant river while attempting to escape from the angry father of the girl. They embarked in a skiff, which capsized midway in the stream and overturned.

Broom Corn Crop Spoiled.

Arcola, Ills., Aug. 3.—Reports received in this city from the broom corn district indicate that Wednesday's storm did over $1,000,000 damage to the growing crop. From one end of the district to the other the corn is lying on the ground as flat as though a heavy roller had passed over it.

Old-Timers at a Playout.

Providence, Aug. 3.—The fifth annual tournament of the New England Veteran Firemen's association was held at Crescent park. Twelve engines competed. Engine Mechanics of Warren gained first prize, with a record of 197 feet, 4 inches.

Weather Conditions and Forecast.

Almanac, Saturday, Aug. 4.
Sun rises—4:39; sets, 7:01.
Moon sets—11:16 p. m.
High water—5 a. m.; 5:30 p. m.

Local rains and thunderstorms have occurred in portions of the lake region and Ohio valley, in Florida and along the middle gulf coast. Local rains and thunderstorms are indicated for New England. The temperature changes will be unimportant. On the coast the winds will be fresh south to west.

OTHERS WILL FOLLOW.

Hope In Germany That Anglo-American Troops Will Assume Defensive.

Chinese Say Ministers Are Being Well Treated.

Striking Sentences Attributed to the Kaiser In a Sermon Aboard Ship.

London, Aug. 3.—The Vienna correspondent of The Times says: The Neue Freie Presse greets the decision of the British and American governments to advance to Pekin independently with the greatest satisfaction. It believes that the resolution of these two powers will put an end to the paralysis occasioned by the unsolved question of the chief command and will inspire the combined forces with fresh life and vigor. It says that, when once the Anglo-American troops assume the offensive the others will follow suit.

No word comes this morning regarding the fortunes of the comparatively small body of troops believed to be forging their way toward Pekin. The silence is probably due to diligent censorship rather than to any lack of developments.

According to The Daily Express, cablegrams from Che Foo announce that the imperial troops, advancing to oppose the relief force, have wiped out a Christian town near Pekin, killing fixe foreign priests and 10,000 native Christians. General Gaselee, so says this correspondent, was strongly opposed to an immediate advance, but he was overruled by the other commanders and influenced by Washington's order to General Chaffee to proceed without an instant's delay.

A Shanghai special announces the receipt of an official telegram from the tsung li yamen, asserting that the ministers were all well on July 30, and that vegetables, fruits and other supplies had been sent to the legations on several occasions. "Friendly intercourse," the official telegram says, "is now being carried on between the ministers and the imperial government."

From Shanghai, The Daily Express has received confirmation of the reported murder of 50 missionaries in the province of Shan Si, with the additional information that eight English women were dragged out of the mission buildings by a Chinese mob, who beheaded them in the streets of Chu Chou.

French troops are reported to have occupied Meng Tsze, in the province of Yun Nan.

Mr. Broderick's statement in the house of commons yesterday, placing Great Britain on record as unalterably opposed to the partition of China, is well received by all the morning papers, which, for lack of other news, chiefly devote their comments on Dr. Morrison's remarkable message to The Times, cabled yesterday to the United States.

The Berlin correspondent of The Daily Chronicle, who reports Emperor William's extraordinary sermon on board the Hohenzollern, says that some of the most striking sentences attributed to the kaiser are the following:

"Once again has the heathen spirit of the Amalekites been raised in distant Asia, with great power and much cunning. With destruction and murder it will dispute the way to European trade and European culture. It will dispute the victorious march of Christian customs and Christian faith. And again is heard God's command, 'Choose us out men and go out to fight with Amalek.' A hot and sanguinary struggle has begun. Already a number of our brethren are over there under fire. Many more are traveling along hostile coasts.

"You have seen them—the thousands who to the call of volunteers to the front will guard the empire have assembled themselves to battle with victorious banners. We, who remain at home, are bound by other sacred duties. Woe unto us if we remain slothful and sluggish while they are engaged in their difficult and bloody work, and if, from our place of security, we only curiously look on while they wrestle in battle.

"Not only should we mobilize battalions of troops, but we should also, and shall, set in motion an army of trained people to beg and entreat for our brethren that they may strike into the wild chaos with sword in hand. May they strike for our most sacred possessions. We would pray that God, the Lord, may make heroes of our men and lead those heroes to victory, and that then, with laurels on their helmets and orders on their breast, he may lead them home to the land of their fathers.

"Our fight will not be finished in one day; but let not our hands grow weary or sink until victory is secured. Let our prayers be as a wall of fire around the camp of our brethren. Eternity will reveal the fulfilment of an old promise. "'Call upon me in trouble and I will deliver thee.' Therefore, pray continuously."

To Map Out the Campaign.

Chicago, Aug. 3.—It is announced at Democratic national headquarters that an important conference will be held here on the return of Mr. Bryan from Indianapolis. The whole political situation, it is said, will be discussed, and before Mr. Bryan departs for Lincoln it is believed the whole Democratic plan of campaign will have been agreed upon.

Dust Explosion Causes a Death.

New York, Aug. 3.—One man was killed and another seriously injured by an explosion of dust in the grinding mill of the Alpha Cement works at Phillipsburg, N. J. Both are Hungarians and their names were unknown, as the men in the mill are known by numbers.

Dividend For Mussey's Victims.

Rutland, Vt., Aug. 3.—Receiver Muir of the Merchants' National bank, this city, which was wrecked by Cashier Mussey last March, has received an order from the comptroller of currency to declare a 50 percent dividend to depositors.

The Social Realm.

But, friends,
Truth is within ourselves; It takes no rise
From outward things, whate'er you may believe.
There is an inmost centre in us all,
Where truth abides in fullness; and around,
Wall upon wall, the gross flesh hems it in,
This perfect clear preception—which is truth.
A baffling and perverting carnal mesh
Blinds it, and makes all error; and, to know
Rather consists in opening out a way
Whence the imprisoned splendor may escape
Than in effecting entry for a light
Supposed to be without.—Browning.

FOURTH DAY.

THE DALLON GANG.

While the Denver express was breasting the long rising plateau of the great plain which forms the eastern part of Colorado and leads up to the foothills of the Rockies foes in ambush were preparing a rare surprise for John Draper and his party.

Hounded from camp to camp, their hands against every man's, a band of choice and congenial spirits known as "the Dallon gang" had taken a last refuge in the broken country lying between Colorado Springs and Denver, but back from the railroad. Under the lead of the notorious Jim Dallon, who was "wanted" by the sheriffs of half a dozen counties, these desperadoes herded together and made a final stand, for months defying every attempt at capture.

Horse stealing, highway robbery, murder, the rifling of express messengers and on occasions "holding up" stagecoaches and railroad trains were among the crimes chalked up against this particular gang, with the result that the governor of Colorado had offered a reward of $5,000 for the capture of Dallon himself and $200 a head for the arrest of the subordinate members of the band.

This proclamation had for a time a deterrent effect, and for some weeks the country was quiet. But it was merely a lull. Jim Dallon, like Reuben Filley, was meditating and planning a grand coup, one that if successful would land him in comparative affluence for the rest of his days and yield a rich "divvy" for each of the minor rogues.

The scheme was ingenuity personified and one that could be put through with little or no bloodshed, for Dallon was growing cautious and crafty. He had his paid and secret agents in Denver and the surrounding towns and consequently was early apprised of the coming gathering of railroad magnates from all parts of the Union. Then it was that his darling and daring plan was conceived. He had heard or read of the deeds of Italian and Sicilian bandits, so for a change he determined to take a leaf out of their book and do a little kidnaping on his own account, holding his prisoners for a rich ransom.

Calling the leading spirits of the gang around him, Dallon divulged the main points of the scheme, which was received with gross chuckles and hoarse grunts of satisfaction. It only remained to select the victims; the rest Dallon believed would be easy.

"Beats the express business all holler!" exclaimed Leather Jack, the second in command, flinging his sombrero on the ground in an ecstasy of delight.

"Right you are, my boy," echoed Bill Root. "Best of it is there'll be no shootin to bring Shurff Ramsey smellin round. The hull job can be done in a nice, genteel style so as nobody's feelin's 'll be hurted."

Trusty emissaries rode off in different directions, one toward Denver and a second to Colorado Springs, less than 30 miles away, with orders to pick up any news that might be stirring. By midday of Friday, May 14, they were all back in camp with the necessary information, and then Dallon's plans were rapidly matured.

The robbers' retreat was in the foothills midway between Colorado Springs and Denver. Here the whole face of the country is seamed and cut up as though in some past age the rival giants Fire and Water waged mighty battle with Mother Earth. To heighten the havoc and confusion the hand of man has still further marred and scarred the surface in a mad quest for the precious metals. But mining in this locality was soon "played out," and nothing but abandoned claims, rusting machinery and rotting cabins remained to mark where once a thousand picks had rung and dug and delved.

Leading to one of these worked out camps a few miles back from the railroad a spur of track had been built on which cars had been loaded with ore for the smelters at Denver. This side track, after leaving the main line, made a gradual descent to the bed of a dry canyon, along which it led for a couple of miles until it ended abruptly where the solid cliffs of granite quartz narrowed so as to almost touch each other. The empty cars used to run down this gentle incline by gravity and when loaded were drawn up again by a locomotive sent down for the purpose. Of course there had been a switch at the point where the spur left the main track, but when the workings were abandoned the railroad men had not gone to the trouble of taking it out, but had simply withdrawn the lever and spiked the switch.

The locality was perfectly well known to Dallon, and the scheme he had hatched was certainly an ingenious one. The whole force of the band moved over to Bone gulch, as the dry torrential ravine was named, and proceeded to make themselves as snug as circumstances would permit.

"There's nothing to do, boys, till nightfall 'cept to lie low," said Dallon. "But remember—no fires and no shootin." These preparations had occupied the latter half of Friday and the forenoon of Saturday.

The Denver express was due in Colorado Springs at 7 o'clock p. m. on Saturday, May 15, but she was nearly two hours late. However, a fresh engine, ready coaled and watered, with a full head of steam, was ready and waiting. The mail bags and newspaper bundles were flung out before the train fairly stopped, the half dozen invalids for the famous sanitarium disembarked, and in five minutes the "Thunderbolt" was once more on its way, the dying fires of day lingering on the summit of Pike's peak away to the westward in full view of our friends in the Miranda as the express cleared the town and once more breasted the desolate ribbon of track on the last lap for Denver, 75 miles away.

Just before the train pulled out a dark and stealthy figure stole from the shadow of a freight train on the side farthest from the well lighted platform, crept under the trucks of the Miranda and disappeared. This was Jim Dallon himself.

Gradually the speed increased. There were no stops for passengers to be made, and the only stations passed were mere hamlets or watering tanks, showing only one or two dim lights. The conductor went through the cars for the last time and then proceeded to make himself snug in the smoker. Eighty-nine would be in Denver by 11 o'clock.

In the Miranda the following was the situation: Mrs. Hurst was dozing in a wicker chair, John Draper and Florence were playing a desultory game of chess, while Madge and Chester were simply doing nothing but making love, and that without any attempt at concealment. If Madge had told the truth now she might have written back to her "dearest Fan" that two weddings were in prospect. Reuben Filley had retired to the Pullman after dinner to smoke and think and swear—"unwept, unhonored and unsung."

Six miles north of a little place called Greenland the track makes a sudden bend to the west, and then just before Palmer Lake is reached as quickly turns nearly due east and begins the long ascent of one of the steepest places on this part of the road. The great engine puffed and pulled, and every coupler and pin told of the sagging strain of the heavy train composed mainly of Pullman coaches. Slower and slower became the speed until at length the head of the grade was reached, the track for a mile being then quite level before commencing the descent of a down grade nearly if not quite as steep as the one just surmounted.

Here was situated a watering tank, and here No. 89 paused for a drink.

At this instant a man, all dusty and begrimed, crept from under the trucks of the Mranda. A half dozen human figures appeared as if by magic from the desert shadows at the side of the track. Dallon himself leaped noiselessly on the platform of the private car and with one stroke of his keen knife severed the bellrope, deftly knotting the two ends to prevent their sagging in either car. In an instant the air couplings were disconnected, so that the Miranda was held to the rest of the train by the coupling pin only. Two of the gang then ran to the rear platform of the Pullman, two more stowed themselves away on the rear steps of the Miranda, while Dallon and the rest remained on the front platform, guns in hand, ready to menace any one who might appear from the cars ahead.

But the stop was such a slight one and the station such an insignificant affair that no one troubled to get out. Two short blasts of the whistle, and the express was in motion again. Scarcely had the lights of the station faded from sight when Dallon yanked the chain of the coupling pin, and the engine and cars shot into the blackness away from the Miranda and her escort. As a result the two coaches soon slackened speed and came almost to a standstill. Then there was a sudden jolt as the Miranda took the disused switch, and immediately the speed increased again. But the hoarse cough of the locomotive was gradually dying away in the distance, and the motion of the cars became of a gentle sliding nature.

Chester sprang to his feet and peered out of the window. "Uncle John" looked up from his game, while Madge and Florence excitedly exclaimed, "What is it?"

Then Mrs. Hurst awoke and added her questions and ejaculations to the rest of the clamor. By this time it was plain to all that something out of the ordinary was going on. Chester ran to the forward door, but found it fastened.

Meanwhile the cars were moving at a fair speed over a rough and uneven track, being evidently controlled by means of the hand brakes. After perhaps 20 minutes of this suspense the pace slowly slackened, and the windows reflected the uncertain flickering light of a torch flashing back and forth. Then there was a sudden grinding of the brakes, the sound of rough voices giving quick commands, a jolt, and all was quiet!

In vain the ladies implored to know what had happened. Neither John Draper nor Chester Ives could satisfy them, being themselves utterly mystified and puzzled. They were far from imagining the real situation.

[TO BE CONTINUED.]

Killed by Poisonous Insect.

Chicago, Aug. 4.—It was developed at the inquest upon the members of the Norris family, three of whom died at Harvey, supposedly from eating toadstools, that they were, in fact, poisoned by mushrooms of the finest quality, and not toadstools at all. A mushroom expert testified that the poisoning was caused by a small black bug which makes its home in the top of mushrooms.

Lumber Fell Upon Him.

Providence, Aug. 4.—A body, supposed to be that of Arthur McCleary of Atlantic City, was found in a car load of lumber that was on a siding in a freight yard in this city. It is supposed that the man was stealing a ride, and that the load of lumber shifted, pinning the man against the end of the car, inflicting injuries which resulted fatally.

Newspaper Suspects Flim-Flam Game.

Berlin, Aug. 4.—The Deutsche Tageszeitung urges the government to publish the terms of the recent tariff agreement between the United States and Germany, claiming that Germany was severely beaten by the United States, and that the German foreign office is afraid to let the German public know the facts of the situation.

Innocent Man Was Slain.

New Orleans, Aug. 4.—A week ago, when the mob riots were at their height, a negro supposed to be Burke Jackson was taken away from officers and shot dead. It has developed that the negro was not Jackson at all, for he was captured at Magnolia yesterday.

President Returns to Canton.

Washington, Aug. 4.—President McKinley left the city Friday afternoon on his return to Canton to resume his vacation. The usual guard of police officers and detectives were on hand to see that nothing befell the president.

Shah's Trip to England Abandoned.

London, Aug. 4.—It is officially announced that in consequence of the death of the Duke of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha the shah has abandoned his visit to England.

Weather Conditions and Forecast.

Almanac, Sunday, Aug. 5.
Sun rises—4:40; sets, 6:59.
Moon sets—morn.
High water—6 a. m.; 6:30 p. m.

Scattered showers and thunder storms have occurred on the south Atlantic and gulf coasts. Generally fair weather and moderate temperatures are indicated for New England. On the coast the winds will be fresh northerly.

Busy Nich For Burglars.

Salem, Mass., Aug. 4.—Burglars operated in South Salem last night, for early this morning the police had found two places where breaks had been made, and a valuable ladies' pin found in one house, that belonged in neither of the houses robbed, was evidence, apparently, of a break at a third house.

Pitiful Case of Mrs. Benedict.

Troy, N. Y., Aug. 4.—Mrs. Mary F. Benedict, wife of the famous negro minstrel, Lew Benedict, was taken into custody here last night. She is homeless and insane. At one time she was a Saratoga social belle, but in recent years has supported herself by dressmaking.

Imperialism the Paramount Topic.

Lincoln, Neb., Aug. 4.—Mr. Bryan has concluded writing his speech to be made at Indianapolis next Wednesday in accepting the nomination for the presidency. The speech is about 8000 words in length. He has adhered to his original intention of devoting the document almost entirely to the question of "Imperialism."

Kruger and Botha Haven't Given Up.

Pretoria, Aug. 4.—President Kruger and Commandant General Botha have issued a proclamation promising to pay all damages done to the farms by the British, provided the burghers remain with the commandoes.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Aug. 5—Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

Topic.—The evil of envy.—Luke xv, 25-32.

THE PARABLE.

The parable of the elder brother is so overshadowed by that of the prodigal son, with which it is connected, that it is little studied. Yet in most Bible students the spirit of the elder brother is more often found than that of the prodigal son. Many of us may not be prodigals in the sense of the younger brother. Few of us can say that we have nothing of the spirit of the elder brother. The elder son, in the parable, comes in from the field to hear merrymaking over the return of his brother. When told what it meant by a servant, who seemed to know more about the household affairs than the son, he was angry and would not go in. His father, as loving and tender with him as with the other, came out and entreated him, showing him that his course was fitting, and that it did no injustice to him. Whether he was convinced or not we do not know. Let us hope that we, as elder brothers, may be.

THE INTERPRETATION.

Whom does the elder brother represent? This has ever been a perplexing question, to which various answers have been given, ranging from the angels down to the opinion that he represents no particular class, but a spirit that characterizes men of all classes. Bearing in mind that a parable cannot be significant in all its details, there is no difficulty in seeing in the elder brother the scribes and Pharisees, whom Jesus undoubtedly had in mind. They certainly did possess the spirit of the elder brother, and it was this envious spirit in them that Christ wanted to condemn. It is difficult to explain how Christ could make God say to them, "All that I have is thine," but this is only a secondary feature of the parable and may be understood conditionally. Christ for the moment may have been willing to grant their claim that they were the true children of God, that he might condemn in them the spirit that took offense when God was gentle and forgiving toward others than themselves.

The elder brother is the personification of envy. 1. We can see in him the root of envy. Envy has its root in a false self esteem. It was self conceit in the Pharisees that made them complain when Jesus associated with sinners. It was egotism in the elder brother that made him criticise the merrymaking in honor of his brother's return. They looked upon these actions toward others as an affront toward themselves, and they did so because they had a false estimate of themselves. Praise of another is not condemnation of us. Appreciation of another is not a depreciation of us. If we learn, in honor, to prefer another to ourselves, envy will be destroyed at its root. 2. We see the evil and injustice of envy. It was wrong and unjust for the elder son to condemn his father. The father was not robbing him to feast his brother. Even if the Pharisees had been as faithful to God as they professed to be, God meant no offense to them in welcoming sinners and in being willing to forgive them. Envy is always unjust—unjust to the envious and unjust to the envied. It makes thousands of lives miserable that should be happy. Let us, in the mind of Jesus, learn to think less of ourselves and more of others, and we will be less sensitive to our own merits and less likely to have our lives made miserable because of envy.

THE PRAYER MEETING.

Let the leader explain the parable, and then have a voluntary discussion of the topic.

BIBLE READINGS.

Job v. 2; Ps. xxxvii, 1-11; Prov. xxiv, 1-17, 18; xxvii, 4; Eccl. iv, 4; Math. xxvii, 15-18; Acts vii, 9, 10; I Cor. xiii, 1-13; Jas. iii, 16; I Pet. ii, 1-3.

What Is Christian Life?

It is doing faithfully every day what the Lord wants us to do. Some think if they attend to the more important duties the little duties can be neglected and it doesn't matter when Sunday is past if they deal unjustly, deviate from truth, lose their temper, speak the unkind word and join the world in pursuit of pleasure. Such are in error. Christian life is serving God in every daily act, and it is our everyday life that reveals exactly what kind of Christians we are. To grow strong in Christian character and experience we should do everything heartily as unto the Lord. The Master whom we serve does not want lukewarm servants. Such will exert no influence for His cause. "Up and doing" should be the Christian motto, through Christ, who strengtheneth us. The Christian life is not only one of working and exemplifying, but of waiting and hoping and looking for better things and running with patience the race that is set before you.—H. L. Jackson.

The Need of Prayer.

A prayer that does not benefit you in offering it will not be very helpful to others. The reflexive effect of prayer of an intercessory character more than compensates the party making it, aside from the benefit that may accrue to others. The plea is made that God does not need the services of any one of us; but, while this in a qualified sense is true, there is a sense in which He not only desires, but demands, them, and to refuse is to dishonor Him and disgrace ourselves.—Philadelphia Methodist.

Work Joyously.

When we work joyously, we win other workers to the same service. As men are always seeking employment in the best workshops, because of the praises of the workmen already there, so men will be led into the work of God by seeing our joy in it. We may witness for God by the way in which we work.—William T. Ellis.

QUINCY DAILY LEDGER.

Vol. 12. No. 181. QUINCY, MASS., SATURDAY, AUGUST 4, 1900. PRICE 2 CENTS.

"A TRIP TO THE MOON," PAN-AMERICAN EXPOSITION.

The Midway at the Pan-American Exposition in Buffalo, in 1901, will be over half a mile long, giving a mile or more of frontage for the wonderful variety of novel entertainments there to be presented. It will outrival in interest and extent anything ever created in this line. It will include some of the best of standard attractions, vastly improved, and a strong array of new ones fresh from the fertile brain of the inventor and artificer. It will be a display of ingenuity impossible to anticipate by any process of extravagant reasoning or guessing. Who but a professional of ripe experience could have planned "A Trip to the Moon?" The voyager is directed to go aboard the airship "Luna," moored at a convenient landing. It is night, and the heavens sparkle with a myriad of stars. When all is ready the cables are thrown off and the ship rises steadily to a height of about two miles. The air is clear, and you can see the many lights on earth below. We now pass eastward over Rochester, Albany and then southward over New Copyrighted 1900 by the Pan American Exposition Co.

York. The earth now falls rapidly behind. We are going at a terrific velocity, as noted by the resistance of the air, which seems to blow hard in our faces. The earth becomes a mere ball and the moon grows larger. We are fast nearing the satellite, and soon find the ship moored to a landing in the moon. Guides meet us and show us to the palace of the Man in the Moon. His majesty receives the party, bidding them welcome and accords them the freedom of his domains. We are then shown about the splendid palace and through the streets of the City of the Moon. The ladies are especially interested in the show windows of the Moon shops. The trip may be made with entire safety, and the return to earth leaves one with the remembrance of having passed through a wonderful experience.

CHIFFONIERES.

There's a world of comfort in owning a Chiffoniere, especially one of the Kincaide sort.

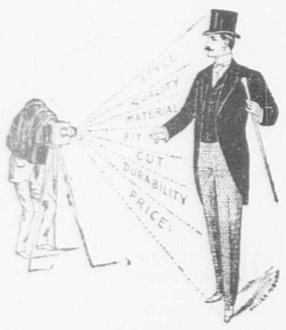

Not an article of furniture in your whole house adds more to the convenience of living, and nothing is so pleasant as to possess the "know where to find things" The Chiffoniere was a happy thought, in it you have plenty of drawer room, with a place for everything, and everything in its place. To own a Chiffoniere makes one wonder how they ever lived without one. In beautiful Golden Oak, Mahogany, Bird's Eye Maple and White Enamel, we have over sixty different designs.

WITHOUT GLASS, $5.00 AND UP.

BUSINESS AGENT OR GUARDIAN

Likely to Be Appointed to Look After the Interests of Charles H. Hoyt.

Charlestown, N. H., Aug. 4.—In all probability, Charles H. Hoyt, the playwright, whose commitment to a retreat in Hartford was revoked by Judge Freeman last Tuesday through the intercession of George H. Dickinson of Atlanta and other of his intimate friends, will apply to Judge Tenney for the appointment of a business agent or guardian. It is further probable that he will suggest the name of James O. Lyford of Concord for the position, and this appointment would meet with the unqualified approval of all who are interested in Mr. Hoyt's behalf.

When Mr. Hoyt's release had become an actual fact, on Tuesday, he was asked if there was any lawyer from New Hampshire whom he would like to see, and he at once named Mr. Lyford. Upon his arrival at his home in Charlestown, Mr. Dickinson communicated with Mr. Lyford, who came here and carefully went over the situation with Mr. Dickinson and the counsel present, after which he communicated with Allen Hollis of the firm of Streeter, Walker & Hollis of Concord, who are retained by Mr. Hoyt's partner, Frank McKee, to act with Howe & Hummel of New York relative to Mr. McKee's interests in New Hampshire. In the application for a guardian, Mr. Hoyt will be represented by Herbert Holt of Claremont, Mr. Dickinson, Judge Kenney of Hartford, Harry McManus of Hartford and a committee of Charlestown citizens.

Miss Platt Again Heard From.

Washington, Aug. 4.—Miss Ella M. Platt, an artist of this city, has instituted suit at law in the district supreme court for $50,000 damages for breach of promise against Major George A. Armes, a retired United States army officer. Miss Platt gained some national notoriety once by tweaking the nose of General Beaver, then governor of Pennsylvania, and another time by a controversy with war department officials. The suit alleges breach of promise to marry, practice of deception and assault on the plaintiff.

Failed to Cheat the Gallows.

Richmond, Aug. 4.—Grand Reed, colored, was hanged at Madison Court House Friday. Reed took his wife to Pittsburg. She left him and returned to her father. Reed followed her, and upon her refusal to live with him, killed her most brutally, and also killed her father for interfering. About 3 o'clock yesterday morning Reed attempted suicide by taking nitric acid. His throat was horribly burned, and only by hard work did physicians arouse him so that he could walk to the scaffold.

Steamship Employes Decorated.

Bremerhaven, Aug. 4.—Emperor William has conferred decorations upon the employes of the North German Lloyd and Hamburg-American Steamship lines, thanking them for the devotion and self-sacrifice they exhibited in loading the transports for China, in which service, the emperor declared, they had proved themselves men of honor. "Devoid of honor," said his majesty, "is the man who does not stretch out a helping hand to his country in her hour of need."

Buncoed Out of $1500.

Portland, Me., Aug. 4.—A resident of a country town has made complaint to the county attorney that he has lately been swindled out of $1500 by a confidence game. He answered a letter from Boston in which the writer professed to have a big money-making scheme. A meeting in a Portland hotel was arranged, and as a result of the conference the farmer finds himself poorer, but wiser.

Defenseless Converts Massacred by the Chinese Imperial Troops.

Americans In Pekin Were Safe Up to Last Wednesday.

Report That Allies Have Reached a Point Thirty-Five Miles Beyond Tientsin.

London, Aug. 4.—Nearly all the correspondents confirm the reports of a wholesale massacre of Christians outside of Pekin, a correspondent of The Daily News giving the number of killed as between 10,000 and 15,000, all defenseless converts. Imperial troops, so it is stated, did the ghastly work.

According to the Shanghai correspondent of The Times one of the members of the tsung li yamen, mentioned by United States Consul Goodnow as having been beheaded for pro-foreign tendencies, was Hsu Ching Cheng, former minister to Russia. The correspondent says the empress dowager ordered his execution on the advice of Li Ping Heng.

A Chefoo dispatch, dated Aug. 1, announces the safety of all the Americans in Pekin, and the reception of a letter from Dr. Cheltman, dated Pekin, July 20, saying that on the previous day Sir Claude MacDonald, the British minister, had agreed to a truce, provided the Chinese came no closer, and adding: "We hope this means relief, but, having defeated the Chinese, we are fearful now of treachery. All are exhausted with constant watching, fighting and digging trenches. The greatest credit is due to Mr. Squires, secretary of the United States legation, whose military experience and energy are invaluable."

The Shanghai correspondent of The Daily News says the consuls there regret the independent action taken by the American association and the China association on the ground that it is injudicious. He says: "The settlements being international, petty jealousies must disappear. The China association is of little local influence." Presumably he refers to the American Asiatic association.

The Hong Kong correspondent of The Daily Express announces the arrival there from San Francisco of Homer Lea, for some time secret agent in the United States of the society for the Reformation of the Chinese Empire, with £60,000 sterling, which will presumably be utilized in connection with the revolutionary movement against the empress dowager, a movement quiescent since 1898 until within the last few weeks.

According to a special dispatch from Shanghai, dated Aug. 4, the advancing column of the allies was reported there yesterday to have reached a point 35 miles beyond Tientsin. Nothing from any other point corroborates this statement. In fact The Standard goes so far as to say that it fears the real advance, apart from preliminary measures, has not yet begun.

Tientsin dispatches, dated July 30, tell of an action which is termed a reconnaisance between the Japanese and Chinese, two miles beyond the Hsiku arsenal, in which the Japanese withdrew after suffering 30 casualties.

The Tientsin correspondent of The Standard, under date of July 27, declares that the Americans and Germans have been ordered to move forward without waiting for the British.

Li Hung Chang has been informed from Pekin that Prince Ching's only prominent supporters in his peace policy are General Yung Lu Wang Wen Shao, president of the board of revenue, whose influence is small.

Li Hung Chang is preparing a proclamation granting virtual amnesty to Boxers on condition that they cease creating disturbances.

Electric Car Struck Wagon.

Lawrence, Mass., Aug. 4.—Curt Hoesler, aged 13, and a son of Contractor Dicks, were riding down Ferry street Friday, and just as they had driven onto the electric car tracks a car came along. The wagon was struck and both boys were thrown out. The left side of Hoesler's face and head was horribly cut and bruised. The injuries resulted in his death before medical aid could be summoned. Young Dick was not badly hurt.

A Record-Breaking Apple Crop.

Cleveland, Aug. 4.—The sixth annual meeting of the National Apple Shippers' association came to an end Friday evening. Letters and telegrams have been received from every fruit growing section of the country, and from these it is estimated that the apple crop this year will be the largest in the history of the when 60,000,000 barrels were gathered. hen 60,000,000 barrels ere gathered.

Boy Mangled by Freight Car.

Worcester, Mass., Aug. 4.—Joseph Berthlaume, 8 years old, was fatally injured by a freight car Friday while running across the track. Death ensued while surgeons were trying to operate on his mangled limbs.

Cream City Is Growing Big.

Washington, Aug. 4.—The population of Milwaukee, according to the count just completed at the census office, is 285,315. In 1890 the population was 204,468. The increase is 39.54 percent.

SHAH'S ASSAILANT HAD A BAD RECORD.

The Monarch's Coolness Attributed to the Fact That He Is a Fatalist.

Paris, Aug. 4.—The name of the shah's assailant is Francois Salson. He is a Frenchman, and was born in 1876. He was regarded as a dangerous anarchist, and in October, 1898, was condemned to three months' imprisonment for preaching anarchy. In June, 1899, he was condemned to eight months' imprisonment for a like offense.

The Echo De Paris says that Salson, although condemned to eight months' imprisonment last year, never went to prison. The police knew his address and he never hid himself. The paper says: "To what powerful protection did this anarchist owe such a favor?"

The Shah of Persia is a fatalist, and hence he takes matters coolly, even when an assassin's weapon is pointed at him. He says if he was to die by the assassin's hand nothing could have prevented it, while if he was fated to escape such an attack something was bound to happen to frustrate the assassin.

Mirza Mezam De Gaffary, Persian minister of public works, gives, in an interview, the personal impression of the shah on the outrage against his majesty.

"Like all Mohamedans," said the minister, "the shah is a fatalist, hence the remarkable coolness with which he treated the whole affair. He is simply astonished. 'If the assassin has not succeeded in killing me,' said the shah, 'it is that my hour has not yet come God is great.'"

To another personage the shah said "Why do criminals trouble me? I am a traveler and entirely irresponsible for the politics of the state through which I pass." After a moment's reflection, he added:

"This, undoubtedly, is a kind of plot against chiefs of state. After the assassination of the King of Italy they threatened to kill the kaiser and then attempted to kill me. However, I know that a large majority of the French people love me.

"I had proof of my affection at Contrexeville, as well as at Paris, and only just now the crowd would have torn my aggressor to pieces without the intervention of the police."

Sunday Sales Prohibited.

Boston, Aug. 4.—To secure more rigid enforcement of the Sunday closing law the board of police has ordered the police captains to compel numerous stores which are not specifically licensed to do business to close on Sundays hereafter. Primarily the order was aimed at Chinese laundries. In pursuance of the general order many stores kept by Orthodox Hebrews have been told to close Sunday, although Saturday is observed as the seventh day by them. It is likely that test cases will be made, as many Hebrews threaten to continue business in defiance of the order.

To Check Importation of Immigrants.

New York, Aug. 4.—Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Taylor has taken the initial step in a general campaign by the government to stop the importation into the United States from Canada of undesirable immigrants. He will go to Boston next week and from there will proceed to his destination, accompanied by Commissioner General of Immigration Powderly. Charges that the violation of the immigration laws have become flagrant has led this government to take steps to have the source investigated.

Conspiracy Theory Strengthened.

Georgetown, Ky., Aug. 4.—An alleged confession of Dick Combs, one of the men under indictment in connection with the Goebel shooting, which was exhibited here Friday, was at first denied by him, but later he admitted that it is partially correct. The confession, if true, throws no further light on the case than to connect Henry Youtsey more closely with the murder, and to bear out the idea of conspiracy.

Challenger Was the Loser.

Montreal, Aug. 4.—The first day's international race for the Seawanhaka cup between the American challenger, Minnesota of the White Bear club, St. Paul, and the Canadian defender, Red Coat, came off on Lake St. Louis and resulted in an easy win for the Canadian boat by six minutes and 20 seconds, over a triangular course, the distance being 12 miles, three times round.

For Rural Free Mail Delivery.

Concord, N. H., Aug. 4.—A conference of great importance for the rural districts of New Hampshire was held here Friday between postmasters of Concord, Plymouth, Lebanon and West Lebanon and agents in charge of the eastern rural mail delivery. Extensions of the rural free mail delivery system in Merrimack and Grafton counties are expected to result from this conference.

Movement For Minority Representation.

Havana, Aug. 4.—A joint committee of the Republican, Nationalist and Union Democratic parties was in consultation with Governor General Wood Friday regarding minority representation at the forthcoming constitutional convention. The idea was to take steps to avoid gerrymandering, and General Wood approved the principle of the minority representation.

Additions to Trappist Community.

Pawtucket, R. I., Aug. 4.—The Trappist community at Cumberland, where a monastery of the order is being built, has been increased by eight monks, making 12 in all. About 50 head of cattle have been brought and 10 acres of land is under cultivation. The Trappists will enter upon their customary routine in their retreat.

State Authorities Will Investigate.

New York, Aug. 4.—Governor Voorhees of New Jersey says that steps have been taken to investigate the allegations that the plot to kill King Humbert and other monarchs had been hatched in New Jersey. If the evidence can be procured and there are still some of those concerned living in the state they will be prosecuted.

SITUATION REALIZED.

Chinese Ministers Abroad Act In Behalf of Pekin Legationers.

Earl Li's Reply Not Satisfactory to Administration.

Chinese Troops Will Furnish Material For Big Fight on the Road to Pekin.

Washington, Aug. 4.—It appears that some misunderstanding exists as to a St. Petersburg dispatch saying that the Chinese minister there and his colleagues in Europe had cabled the governor of Shan Tung demanding that free communication be opened between the Pekin ministers and their respective governments.

This communication was in fact a joint memorial to the throne concurred in by all Chinese ministers abroad, including Minister Wu in Washington. It was forwarded by Minister Yeng Lu at St. Petersburg because the latter is the dean of the Chinese diplomatic service. It was transmitted through the governor of Shan Tung to be forwarded to Pekin. This action is considered very important, as indicating that the Chinese ministers abroad have at last reached a unanimous conclusion that the situation is no longer to be trifled with. Their action may be regarded as a final effort on their part to influence the home government and its outcome is awaited with great interest.

Meanwhile the government of the United States, like the governments of Europe, has not abandoned its efforts to establish communication with its ministers at Pekin by independent means, and the state department has instructed its consuls at Shanghai, Chefoo and Tientsin to spare no effort or expense to open up direct communication with Minister Conger.

In addition to a short message relative to the Japanese check, transmitted through Admiral Remey, General Chaffee made another and a direct cable report Friday afternoon. The message was withheld from publication by Secretary Root. It was presumably devoted to a recital of General Chaffee's needs in a military way. In view of the London statement that the advance on Pekin actually began with the present week, there is also a possibility that General Chaffee's message has some bearing on that subject, though it is evident from his report of yesterday morning that the advance, if started, could not have progressed far beyond Tientsin, as the outpost affair described by him took place only 10 miles out of town.

Another move was made yesterday in the diplomatic situation by the return of an evasive answer by Li Hung Chang to Secretary Hay's peremptory demand of Aug. 1 to be put in communication with the foreign ministers at Pekin. Li's answer is not final and leaves the matter open diplomatically.

But Li's actions, as reported by Consul General Goodnow, are unquestionably sinister, and will amount to a final rejection of the American proposition if persisted in. Mr. Goodnow's dispatch contains some further information bearing on the question of responsibility for Pekin conditions in the statement that the commander of the Chinese troops, by inference answerable to the Chinese government, ordered the Paoting massacre. It is learned here that Li Ping Heng, the commander referred to, is a civil official, and well known to all the Chinese officials abroad as one of the most rabid anti-foreign leaders in China. He is a close friend of Prince Tuan, and the association of these two in Pekin affairs, with power enough behind them to cause the ignominous death of two high officials, is regarded here as a bad sign.

Simultaneously with Mr. Goodnow's dispatch came a characteristically diplomatic message from Yuan Shih Kai, governor of Shan Tung, repeating the story of two days ago that the Chinese government was arranging to deliver the ministers in safety at Tientsin. No effort is made to reconcile that statement with Earl Li's refusal to allow communication with the ministers.

General Chaffee's message as to the unexpected resistance offered to the Japanese reconnaissance is regarded by military men here as forecasting a greater degree of opposition to the international advance than had been anticipated, and they are now satisfied that the Chinese troops will furnish material for at least one severe battle before the way is clear to Pekin.

The navy department has issued an order for the co-operation of its officers abroad with the officers of the army in landing and transporting troops destined for Chinese service. This revives the situation that existed in Cuba when Shafter's army corps was landed largely through the efforts of the navy.

It is thought in the department that the navy can lend considerable assistance to General Chaffee's troops, not only aiding their debarkation, but possibly in furnishing them boat transportation if a move is made along the Pei Ho.

Drift of Opinion.

☞It is now denied that Emperor William told his soldiers to show no mercy when they came in contact with Chinese troops. It was a blood-thirsty speech, to be sure, and the world has become so accustomed to strange utterances from the German war lord that it was not thought improbable. The words were silly, of course, for his men could not kill Chinamen until they had reached them, and even then there might be reasons why it was not possible to carry out the instructions. The extermination of an enemy is not now recognized as a part of civilized warfare, and the effort to correct the impression made by the Kaiser's speech shows that Germany has not wholly gone over to barbarism.—Lynn Item.

☞On all questions of propriety we are disposed to respect the opinion of Massachusetts, the people of that State making a specialty of such problems and not having much else to occupy their attention. Naturally, therefore, when we get from Massachusetts two opinions diametrically opposite in response to our recent inquiry as to whether there is anything improper about a pair of suspenders, we are left in a condition of painfully confusing uncertainty. The Boston Herald presumably after mature deliberation says: "Confining ourselves strictly to the question before the meeting, we would reply that a pair of suspenders is as proper as a pair of garters, but both articles of costume should be worn out of sight." Were that all we should regard the matter as settled, and deeply regret our own declaration that, on days when waistcoats are burdensome and for people built on lines with which the belt is incompatible, the frank display of a pair of neat, but not gaudy suspenders is permissible everywhere except at functions of a distinctly solemn or stately character. But, alas! The West Gardner (Mass.) Journal, as good an authority, so far as we know, as The Herald, states our inquiry and replies with what it says is an unhesitating "No." There is impropriety, it adds, only in a contingency that we had not considered—which shows how much more thorough is the Massachusetts than the New York mind. "We think," remarks The Journal judicially, "that there might be some objection to a single suspender, if they were worn that way. In that case there would be lack of symmetry and balance and a feeling of insecurity that would impress people unpleasantly." Thus does the problem broaden and deepen. We almost wish it had never been raised, for soon Chicago or Brookyn will speak, and then the hope of a conclusive decision will be gone forever.—New York Times.

A woman's congress will be held at Onset Bay next Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Addresses and lectures will be given every day by prominent women. Music by a ladies' banjo, mandolin and guitar club.

THE NEW PASTOR.

Rev. James Todd. D. D. Comes to Quincy Highly Recommended.

Seldom does a church adopt such ngthy and complimentary resolutions as did the Presbyterian church at Escanaba, Mich., on the resignation of Dr. Todd who comes to Quincy Sept. 1. The Journal of that town under date of July 27, says:

A meeting of the Presbyterian church and congregation to consider the resignation of the Rev. Dr. Todd as pastor of the church was held on Wednesday evening.

Dr. C.H. Long was called to preside, and H. H. Allyn was elected secretary of the meeting. Dr. Todd made a statement setting forth his reaons for desiring to accept the call from the church in Quincy, Mass.

Messrs A. J. Hughitt, W. D. Morgan and Dr. C.H. Long all spoke of the loss which the church and town would sustain in the acceptance of this resignation, and the feeling of all present was one of sincere regret.

However, in view of the circumstances they felt it would be unjust to their pastor not to unite with him in asking the Presbytery to release him from his present charge.

The following resolutions descriptive of the feeling of the church were adopted.

Whereas: Our pastor, the Rev. James Todd, D. D., has received a call to First Presbyterian church of Quincy, Mass., and seems desirous of accepting.

Whereas: He urges us to unite with him in requesting the Presbytery of Lake Superior to accept his resignation, that he may accept said call.

Whereas: Our pastor has ministered to us ably, faithfully and effectively for the period of nearly eight years, and under God his work has been greatly blessed to the ingathering of many into the church and the upbuilding of it in all the departments of its work, in members and strength. Amid many special difficulties and obstacles the church has doubled in membership and finances, during his mnistry, though the population has not greatly increased, and it is largely due to his ability as a preacher, his faithfulness as a pastor and his judgment in organizing plan and the constant energy with which he labored. Our handsome new church building, which is an honor to our people and an ornament to our city, is a monument to his high qualities, and the harmony of his church and people for these years has been gratifying to us all.

We, therefore, as a church and congregation desire to express our high appreciation of his labors among us, our thanks to the great head of the church for the great blessing which has attended them, and our sincere, regret that he has decided to leave us.

But our ministers are servants of the whole church and as we all believe the field to which he is called offers greater advantages for himself and family, and a larger sphere of usefulness for the exercise of his gifts. We though reluctantly, resolve:

First: That we, the congregation of the First Presbyterian church, here assembled unite in requesting the Presbytery to accept the resignation of our pastor, to take effect on the last Sabbath in August.

Second: That Messrs. A.J. Hughett, W. D. Morgan and C. H. Long be appointed a deputation to attend the meeting of the Presbytery at 3. P M. and represent this church and congregation.

Third: That a copy of these resolutions be read the Presbytery as the expression of our feelings and our decision as a church in this important matter and that a copy be sent to our local papers, and to the Michigan Presbyterian.

Fourth: That the session of this church be allowed to secure the supply of our pulpit during the vacancy, and Rev. J. S. Jewell of Gladstone be appointed moderator of the session during that time.

Attended by Christain Scientist.

The death of Delos E. Goldsmith at Post Island is another case where Christian Science failed to cure. Lead poisoning was the primary cause of his illness, and for this it is said the Christian Scientist treatment was had until the arrival of Dr. Herbert E. Warren of Denver, Col., a relative who immediately discharged the Christian Science doctors. It was then too late to save the poor man's life, for internal hemorrhage set in and death resulted in three hours.

Funeral services were held at Post Island this morning and were largely attended. Many of his co-workers on the Boston Herald being present.

The slaters are at work on the roof of the new depot.

The congregation at the Point church is growing larger.

A. A. Hirtle is building a house for T. F. Smith on Prospect avenue, Wollaston.

C. C. Hearn, the druggist, has found it necessary to employ an additional clerk, Mr. A. T. McLeod.

The cool wind Friday evening made it seem fallish and spring overcoats were not out of place or uncomfortable.

It is reported that the Kendall Farm and Amory estate have been purchased by the Fore River Engine Works.

The Quincy Yacht club's annual concert will probably be held on Wednesday evening, Sept. 5. A moon and high tide add to the gayety of the occasion.

A heavily loaded team containing a boiler, got stuck on Saville street crossing of the N. Y., N. H. and H. railroad at 11.0 this morning and delayed the traffic somewhat.

John Herbert, son of Mr. and Mrs. away this morning after an illness of C. J. H. Totman of Quincy avenue, passed three weeks, aged 10 months and 1 day.

The vacation of Miss Alice S. Hatch, a teacher at the Washington school, has been saddened by the death of a brother, Mr. Tracy W. Hatch, at Providence, R. I., on Tuesday. He was 29 years of age.

The new concrete sidewalk on Water street was quite badly cut up by a stone team Tuesday. The team drove onto the sidewalk in front of McDonnell Bros. sheds and was then loaded with granite. The concrete had not become thoroughly hardened and as a result the team became stuck. When it was finally pulled off, the wheels left their mark on the walk.

A few nights ago, Frank Badger of Botolph street met with an accident while wheeling up from Nantasket. Where the bicycle path was narrow, Mr. Badger got hemmed in between a ditch and a team, one of which fate destined he should collide with. Mr. Badger chose the ditch as the lesser of the two evils, and in falling from his wheel injured his arm badly. He is still suffering from the fall.

The Challenge Cup.

The Quincy Yacht challenge cup will be transferred to the Manchester yacht club on Monday next. It was the intention of the Quincy club to have a formal trannsfer take place at the club house, with speeches, music and a general good time, having in attendance the crews of the Lookout and the Hostess. This arrangement could not be put through as the Manchester club has asked to have the papers passed on Monday, so that they can put the cup on exhibition at their club house the day of their annual open race, which takes place on Tuesday.

QUINCY'S POPULATION.

The City Stood No. 137 in the Country in 1890.

And Her Per Cent. of Increase Was Higher Than Many.

Expected to Move Up Higher by the Census of 1900 Just Taken.

It was noted in the Ledger a few days ago that Quincy stood 22 in population in the State in 1895 and 33 in New England. There was no National census that year but it will be of interest to learn Quincy's rank in 1890 in the country, and how the percentage of increase from 1880 to 1890 compared with larger cities.

The National census of 1890 showed that the following 28 cities had over 100,000 population: Allegheny, Pa.; Baltimore, Md.; Boston, Mass.; Brooklyn, N. Y.; Buffalo, N. Y.; Chicago, Ill.; Cincinnati, O.; Cleveland, O.; Denver, Col.; Detriot, Mich.; Indianapolis, Ind.; Jersey City, N. J.; Kansas City, Mo.; Louisville, Ky.; Milwaukee, Wis.; Minneapolis, Minn.; Newark, N. J.; New Orleans, La.; New York, N. Y.; Omaha, Neb.; Philadelphia, Penn.; Pittsburg, Penn.; Providence, R. I.; Rochester, N. Y.; St. Louis, Mo.; St. Paul, Minn.; San Francisco, Cal.; Washington, D. C.

Including the above 28 there were in 1890 but 136 cities in the country larger than Quincy, and but 104 outside of New England.

Quincy's percentage of increase was 58 plus. But 9 of the cities of over 100,000 population had a larger percentage of gain, and only 67 that are given in the list following:

The list includes a few boom towns like Duluth, Spokane, Tacoma, and Seattle, but cities that doubled in ten years were an exception. During the ten years from 1890 to 1900 a few boom towns may have jumped in ahead of Quincy, but it is probable that Quincy will more than hold its own, as above lists includes 84 cities with less than 30,000 population some of which are not making rapid gains. In 1890 Quincy had a population of 20,712, and the new census of 1900 will show from 25,000 to 30,000.

—The Revere tax rate will be at least $20.

Goshen, Ill.

Genesee Pure Food Co., Le Roy, N. Y.:

Dear Sirs:—Some days since a package of your GRAIN-O preparation was left at my office. I took it home and gave it a trial, and I have to say I was very much pleased with it, as a substitute for coffee. We have always used the best Java and Mocha in our family, but I am free to say I like the GRAIN-O as well as the best coffee I ever drank.

Respectfully yours, A. C. JACKSON, M. D.

Extra Inducements.

I HAVE a nice office, well furnished, rent reasonable, near Boston Post Office, and would like to correspond with an Agent thoroughly posted in the Monumental Business, as I can offer extra inducements to such a man. Must have some knowledge of Book-keeping and Business rules. Best of references given and required. Address W. C., Ledger office.

HERE AND THERE.

Local Brevities of the City of Presidents.

Fair and warmer Sunday.

The mercury was in the 50s last night.

The new South Quincy B. B. C., is playing this afternoon at Hyde Park.

Cornelius Kelliher is no longer on the permanent force at the central fire station.

The funeral of Delos E. Goldsmith was held at Post Island at 11.15 this morning.

It was predicted that today would be the hottest on record. The weather man made a delightful mistake.

The band concert at Wollaston drew a large and enthusiastic crowd last evening. It was the best one given this season.

The several dwelling houses of Barnabus Clark on Clark avenue and Garfield street are to be connected with the public sewer.

They are catching on to the free transfers. A Hyde Park item reads: Trolley rides to the beaches are becoming very popular with Hyde Parkers. By looking sharply after the transfers, one can now get from Hyde Park to Houghs Neck for 15 cents.

Today is Granite Manufactrers' day and the granite mens' are all at the Pacific House, Nantasket, where dinners will be served. One of the features of the outing will be a game called base ball, but it is an open question how much it will resemble the real article.

FUNDS COME SLOW.

More Money Necessary for Entertainment of Cubans.

As has been noted, Supt. Frye is very anxious to have the Cuban teachers visit Quincy, not only from an educational point of view, but as Quincy's granite has a world wide reputation, he desires them to see the quarrying, cutting and polishing of stone. Mayor Hall is working hard to make their visit a success and he should be given all the encouragement possible.

Mrs. Slade, who is soliciting subscriptions finds a lack of interest in the movement, and has thus far met with but a limited success is raising funds.

There is time yet, however, for those who have not contributed to do so, and it is hoped that a generous response will be made to the Mayor's appeal, that the Cubans may depart from their visit with a good impression of Quincy, the city of Presidents, schools and granite.

A Modest Hero.

Joseph Clark of Walker street is receiving the praise and congratulations of his friends and neighbors very modestly for his heroic act this week at the Atlantic beach. Since the raft has been in the water, it has lured many out beyond their depth, some of whom are as yet novices in swimming. Mr. Clark is an expert swimmer, and was out some distance beyond the raft, when the cries of a young woman attracted his attention. She was helplessly throwing her arms about, having become nervous and had entirely lost her head. Mrs. Ware, one of the best swimmers among the women of Atlantic, caught the struggling girl and kept her head above water until Mr. Clark reached her, which he did in a very few seconds, and took her safely ashore. As a reward of his action, Mr. Clark was presented with a large gold medal, which he will prize very highly, he says, but which he still thinks he scarcely deserves. Heroes are always modest. The young woman whom he rescurd was Miss Gertrude Warren of Boston.

Madame Yale's
HAIR TONIC

Ladies and Gentlemen,—It has gone on record that Madame Yale's Excelsior Hair Tonic is the first and only remedy known to chemical science found to be a genuine hair specific. It has an affinity for the human hair for nourishing and invigorating its entire structure. It is antiseptic in character, as well as stimulating; its action upon the scalp and hair is truly wonderful, inasmuch as it has never been known in a single instance to fail to cure scalp diseases and to create a luxuriant growth of healthy, beautiful hair. It stops hair falling within twenty-four hours and brings back the natural color to gray hair in nearly every instance. It is not a dye; it is not sticky or greasy; on the contrary it makes the hair soft, youthful, beautiful and glossy; keeps it in curl. It is a perfect hair dressing, and can be used by ladies, gentlemen or children as a daily toilet requisite. Its influence is delightfully soothing.

All Dealers sell it. $1 per bottle. Mail orders may be sent direct to the manufacturer,

HIS GREAT AMBITION.

King of Italy Would Preserve Unity and Independence of His Country.

Trust Imposed by His Father and Grandfather.

Their Example and Affection of the People the Bulwark of His Reign.

Rome, Aug. 4.—Numerous workmen have begun to decorate the chamber where the remains of King Humbert will finally lie, and they will continue night and day until the work is completed. The municipality of Monza has purchased the ground on which the crime was committed, in order to erect a monument or a charitable institution.

King Victor Emmanuel III has addressed the following proclamation to the Italian people:

The second king of Italy is dead. Escaping, thanks to his valor as a soldier, the danger of battle, and departing unharmed, thanks to providence, from the risks he confronted so courageously to end public calamities, this good and virtuous king fell a victim to atrocious crime, while, with easy conscience and without fear of danger, he was participating in the joys of his people in their fetes.

It was not permitted me to be present at the last breath of my father, but I understand my first duty to be to follow the counsel he left me, and to imitate the virtues of the king and first citizen of Italy.

In this moment of profound sadness, I have to aid me the strength that comes from the examples of my august father and of that great king who deserves to be called the father of his country. I have also as a support the strength which comes from the love and devotion of the Italian people for the king whom they venerated and weep for.

There remain to us the institutions which he loyally preserved, and which he attempted to render permanent during the 22 years of his reign. These institutions are given to me as the sacred traditions of my house and the warm love which Italians have for them, protected with a firm and energetic hand from assault or any violence from whatever source it comes, assures me. I am certain of the prosperity and grandeur of the country. It was the glory of my grandfather to have given Italy its unity and independence. It was the glory of my father to have jealously guarded this unity and this independence to the end.

My reign shall be outlined by these imperishable remembrances. May God aid me, and may the love of my people fortify me, so that I may consecrate all my cares as a king to the guardianship of liberty and the defense of the monarchy, united by indissoluble bonds for the supreme interest of the country.

Italians! Render your tribute of tears and honor to the secred memory of Humbert of Savoy. You, in the bitter sorrow which has struck my house, have shown that you consider this sorrow as though it were that of each individual among you.

This solidity of thought and affection will always be the most certain bulwark of my reign, and the best guarantee of the unity of the country, which unites in the august name of intangible Rome, symbol of grandeur and pledge of integrity for Italy. Such are my hopes; such is my ambition as citizen and as king.

Sudden Change In Plans.

Dover, Del., Aug. 4.—The Union Republicans (the Addicks faction) have posted notices throughout the state calling for primary elections to elect delegates to a state convention to be held in this city on Aug. 6. This convention had previously been called to meet on Aug. 23, two days after the date fixed for the state convention of the regular Republicans (Dupont faction).

Victim on the Dangerous List.

Boston, Aug. 4.—John M. McCarthy, who shot his partner, Thomas E. J. Hayde, at 811 Columbus avenue Thursday, was arraigned in court Friday. He pleaded not guilty to the charge of assault and battery with a loaded revolver on Hayde, and was ordered to furnish bonds of $1000 for his appearance Aug. 13. Hayde is on the dangerous list at the city hospital.

St. John's, Aug. 4.—A forest fire at Sopps' Arm, White Bay, has destroyed a large sawmill, several million feet of lumber, and a settlement of 120 houses. The whole place was wiped out. A schooner that happened to be landing coal for the use of mail steamers took the residents to a place of safety.

Germans After Malayan Territory.

Berlin, Aug. 4.—Captain Rust of the German navy has published a pamphlet in which he asserts that two German financial groups are negotiating with local Malay potentates for the purchase of the fertile island of Poolo Lontar of the west coast of the peninsula of Malacco.

Thought Satan Was After Her.

Lowell, Mass., Aug. 4.—A women named Katherine McLeon, claiming to hail from New Bedford, was arrested here Friday after making three successive attempts to jump into the canal. She said the devil was after her, and she wanted to die.

Press Reports Were Correct.

Washington, Aug. 4.—Surgeon General Wyman of the marine hospital service has received a dispatch from Surgeon White at Key West confirming the press reports of yellow fever in Hillsboro county, Fla.

Tug Sunk In Collision.

New York, Aug. 4.—The tug Leonard J. Busby was sunk in the East river near the Brooklyn bridge by the tug Phenix. The crew of the Busby, eight men in all, escaped uninjured.

TRADE CONDITIONS FAVOR BUYER.

Prospects of an Enormously Large Corn Crop. Textile Demand Is Still Uncertain.

New York, Aug. 4.—Bradstreet's says: Trade conditions still favor the buyer; general fall demand, though fair, in view of midsummer conditions, is still below expectations and below a year ago; bank clearings are at the lowest for two years past, and failures are slightly more numerous, though no marked tendencies are perceptible. On the other hand, gross railway earnings hold the percentage of gain previously shown, and where prices are made low enough to satisfy buyers a heavy business is uncovered and readily booked, pointing to demand being still present and awaiting disposal. The industrial situation is a fairly encouraging one, and wage-scale arrangements, where made, are on an equitable basis, some important settlements awaiting events in iron and steel. The crop situation, as a whole, is better; the outlook as to corn is for a 2,100,000,000 bushels crop, spring wheat is turning out better in quality and quantity than expected, and there has been an unquestionable improvement in cotton crop conditions. The yield of apples will be the largest for many years, and fruits generally are yielding liberally and realizing good prices.

The iron and steel industry furnishes the most notable example of reduced prices, inducing a heavy business, and, while the outlook is still a confused one, the volume of trade in finished material, notably bars and plates, is very large.

Textile demand is still uncertain, the future of prices not being clearly outlined. Manufacturers are somewhat freer buyers of wool, though low prices have been necessary to clinch business. In cotton goods some irregularity is noted. The raw material is lower on fuller realizing that the crop outlook has improved and that high prices are a check to demand.

The cereals are all lower this week, partly on better crop reports, partly on lower cables, but largely on the growth of bearish feeling after the late reaction. Pork products are, as a rule, strongly held, and lard is higher on small visible supplies. Beef products are generally higher on army demand.

Business failures for the week number 29, as against only 13 last week, 26 in this week a year ago and 23 in 1898.

Involves Expenditure of About $130.00.000.

New York, Aug. 4.—John D. Crimmins of the syndicate formed to construct an inter-oceanic canal through Nicaragua under the concession given by the government of Nicaragua to Edward Eyre and Edward F. Cragin, the existence of which was proclaimed Thursday by President Zelaya, says the company will proceed to carry out the terms of its contract without delay. The capital needed has been secured, and if the estimate of cost made for this government is correct the canal can be built for the same money and probably less. This estimate is about $130,000,000.

Big Batch of Army Appointments.

Washington, Aug. 4.—The president yesterday appointed 48 enlisted men in the regular army as second lieutenants in that organization and assigned them to various arms of the service. All the men have excellent service records and were promoted strictly on merit. Under the law these appointments will follow this year's graduates of the military academy and will leave but 11 vacancies in the army to be filled by appointment from civil service.

Tarheel State Democrats Are Happy.

Raleigh, Aug. 4.—The Democrats rejoiced quietly all over North Carolina yesterday. The returns show that Democratic majorities aggregate 64,678, and fusion majorties 5125, making the net Democratic majority 59,553. There will be contests in several counties.

Archbishop Was a Millionaire.

St. Paul, Aug. 4.—The will of the late Archbishop John Hennessy of Dubuque has been filed for probate. The estate amounts to about $1,000,000. Two-fifths is divided among nine relatives and the remainder between other relatives and sisterhoods of the church.

Lynch Wins Sculling Match.

Halifax, Aug. 4.—Mark Lynch of Halifax defeated Ras Rogers of Worcester, Mass., yesterday in a three-mile sculling race for $300 a side. The Halifax sculler struck the water first and got away with a half boat length advantage. He was never headed.

Baptists Safe In Shanghai.

New York, Aug. 4.—Rev. Dr. C. L. Rhodes of the Baptist Publication society has received word that all the Baptist missionaries of eastern central China are safe in Shanghai.

NEWS IN BRIEF.

The reports of the illness of Bishop Ignatius F. Horstman of the Roman Catholic diocese of Ohio appear to have been exaggerated. Chancellor Houck says that the bishop has only been sightly ill.

The police throughout Germany are arresting anarchist suspects. Among them is Professor Stahly, an Italian, who has recently lectured on the subject of the Mafia in south Germany.

First Lieutenant Edward O. Flaherty, Twenty-seventh volunteer infantry, having been found by a board of officers disqualified to properly perform the duties of his rank, has been honorably discharged from the service of the United States.

Subscriptions will be taken in this country for a new issue of £10,000,000 in 3-percent exchequer bonds, issued through the Bank of England.

The directors of the Narragansett Pier railway chose Rowland G. Hazard as president to fill the vacancy caused by the death of John N. Hazard.

A blaze in the lumber dryhouse of Perkins, Mellish & Co., Boston, caused damage estimated at $6000.

The North Atlantic Squadron will visit Rockland, Me., during old home week.

A fire in the O'Gorman company's department store at Providence resulted in a loss estimated at $50.000.

ONLY A SONG.

Love says not much, but says it, oh, so well
We cannot tell
What is the meaning of its secret spell.
Its charm divine
Is like the murmur of a sounding shell
Heard in the pauses of the ocean's swell,
In beauty's oft recurring parallel.
Its feeling line,
Artless of rule, yet more than rules of art
Unconscious pierces; probes, with inward smart,
The lover's breast, the patriot's swelling heart.
Its music fine
Is such that if the singer break his song
And stop the very spheres seem all a-wrong;
We bid him take his lute and sweet and strong
Renew his strain.
Oh, singer, sing once more the old refrain
And echo faint its burden still prolong
In memory's chain!
And lest it perish, being only song,
Sing it again,
Again, again! —Spectator.

THE REHEARSAL

BY RICHARD O'MONROY.

"Well, what luck?" I asked Mme. Bourrimel, my "concierge," as I came in the other evening. Her daughter Leona, you must know, had presented herself for examination at the Conservatoire that day, and I always make a point of appearing interested in my "concierge's" family affairs. I find it pays to do so.

"Ah, M. Richard, you come at just the right moment. I was longing for somebody to talk to about it. Sit down there in my armchair by the latch-string, and I will tell you the whole story.

"Well, as you know, Leona had learned the role of Blanche in 'Le Roi s'Amuse.'

"My husband—you know his political opinions—chose the piece. He thought it would be a good thing to show the people the goings on of the kings in the old days before we had this blessed republic. Besides, it is by Victor Hugo, you know, and it seems to be fairly well written. Leona's teacher—that fat little M. Guillemot with the red cheeks, you know, and a very nice man he is, too, I must say, and always very polite to me—well, the teacher made no objection, and so Leona studied up the part of Blanche.

"'She seems to have been created expressly for the role,' M. Guillemot often said to me. 'She is Blanche herself.'

"She selected for the examination the scene in the second act in which Blanche confesses to Dame Berarde her love for the king. We went through it several times at home after supper.

"The prince, ever kind and attentive, held the book, and I took the part of Dame Berarde, which was quite suited to my years. There's a ring at the bell, M. Richard. Please pull the cord. Thanks. Where was I? Oh, yes; I remember.

"Leona knew her lines so well that she could have spoken them backward.

"The prince had ordered her costume and had even been good enough to go with her when she went to try it on.

"'You need not leave your post, Mme. Bourrimel,' he said. 'I will attend to everything.'

"Ah, but that costume was superb! Imagine a foulard with honeysuckles and humming birds on a white ground, the skirt trimmed with three bands of purple velvet, square cut bodice, point lace sleeves—but I forget. You are a man, and you can't imagine it.

"But when I saw that dress my maternal heart leaped for joy, and I threw my arms around the prince's neck and exclaimed, 'With such a dress as that Leona cannot help making a success, and it will be all owing to your generosity.'

"Indeed, M. Richard, I was deeply moved, I assure you, and the prince himself was much affected. I even thought I saw tears behind his eyeglasses. Well, the great day came at last, and we all set out for the Conservatoire, accompanied by our neighbor, Mme. Frimard, and her daughter, who has tried the examination in comedy for the last six years and failed every time.

"But, M. Richard, the bell has rung three times. Please open."

"I beg pardon, Mme. Bourrimel, I am a green 'concierge,' remember."

"Where was I? Oh, to be sure, at the Conservatoire. Leona went to the stage door with Mlle. Frimard, who was to take the part of Dame Berarde, and Mme. Frimard and I got seats together in the little red theater. They call it 'Etruscan,' I believe, but it is quite pretty for all that.

"Of course the prince, being connected with the Russian embassy, could not be with us. He sat in a proscenium box, right behind the president's wife. Ah, there's a lady who knows how to dress! I couldn't keep my eyes off the bright yellow capote perched on top of her shiny black hair.

"Of course Mme. Frimard, whose daughter had been going through the mill so long, knew all the critics and the members of the jury, and she pointed them out to me while we were waiting for Leona to appear.

"That fat man, sound asleep, was Maurice Tourcey. He always slept at these exhibitions.

"The dark, shabby man was Victor Fessard, who had left politics for literature at the age of 50 and now slashed right and left to make people think he knew all about it, just as people hiss bullfights to pretend they are Spaniards.

"The gentleman with the long hair and the big mustache was La Puiseraye, who was kindness itself, and the man who looked like a general was Auguste Destu, an honest man and a scholar.

"Then, in the jury box, there was Dumas, the smiling Jules Claretie, the amiable Halevy. The shriveled looking person was Camille Doucet.

"The old man in the middle, with a head like a grand priest's, was the president, Ambroise Thomas, and the merry, mocking silhouette in the last row was Cadet, of the Comedie Francaise. It was great fun for me. Mme. Frimard knew them all very well, she had been to see them so often on her daughter's account.

"Now and then the prince leaned forward from his seat in the official box and gave me a little confidential smile with a sort of wink, which meant, 'I cannot be with you in person on account of my official position, but I am with you in spirit.'

"Wasn't it nice of him?

"At last, after several other debutantes had appeared, Leona's turn came. There was a moment of silence, and the master of ceremonies announced:

"'Mlle. Leona Bourrimel, aged 20 years, appeared last year and the year before without success'—Why did the wretch have to say that?—'assumes the role of Blanche in "Le Roi s'Amuse," assisted by Mlle. Frimard.'

"Ah, M. Richard, you don't know how I felt! You are not a mother. My heart was in my— Oh, the second floor is waiting for his candle! Please hand it to him through the window. Thanks.

"About Leona's scene. I must say that the management was very mean about the stage setting. A table with a green cloth, two plush chairs—that was all. What would they say if we should come to their theater in rags, I should like to know?

"But, ah, how pretty Leona looked when she came on, with her flowered gown and her old fashioned cape with steel clasps. A murmur of admiration ran through the theater. M. Dumas twirled his mustache, and M. Halevy adjusted his opera glass—both good signs. As for M. Tourcey, he kept on sleeping, but it seems that this never interferes with his ability to criticise—not in the least. When Leona, as Blanche, confessed her love for the king, she looked straight at Prince Tapaloff.

"Ah, M. Richard, if you had seen and heard her! She was the living, loving Blanche, and one could feel the force of the passion that consumed her. The jury felt it evidently, for they became intensely absorbed and excited, the little dried up man especially. And at his age!

"My daughter went on with her lines, which described the noble appearance of the king, his graceful bearing in the saddle and so forth, and still she kept her eyes fixed on the prince. She surely could do no less after what he had done for her—the gown, the cape, the jewels and all the rest.

"Of course the lines referred to King Francis I, but the prince no doubt saw in them a delicate allusion to himself, and he smiled in a way that showed he was much gratified. And indeed he, too, is a tall, handsome gentleman and a splendid horseman. One might have fancied that Victor Hugo had him in mind when he wrote the lines.

"The president's wife smiled also. Perhaps she was thinking of the present ruler of France. But all of a sudden some crank cried, 'Face the audience!'

"The cry was taken up and repeated from all parts of the room.

"'Yes; face the audience! Never mind the fine people in the boxes!'

"The fools! Just imagine, they thought that Leona was looking at and playing at the president's wife, and so they were jealous.

"I rose in my place and said in a loud voice, but with great dignity:

"'But she is not looking at Mme. la Presidente. She does not care that (I snapped my fingers) for Mme. la Presidente. She is looking at Prince Tapaloff.'

"At this the disturbance increased. In the midst of laughter, yells and hisses I turned to the jury and added:

"'I should think I ought to know. I am her mother.'

"Then there was a fearful row. Leona could not go on, the jury retired and presently, by M. Thomas' orders, I was thrust out of doors in company with Mme. Frimard, who, as her daughter's lines had been thus cut off, protested as angrily as I did.

"And that's the way that Leona, through a silly mistake of the audience, has again failed to get the 'prix.' For my part, as soon as I saw the prince, I said, with great dignity:

"'My daughter's career is ruined and through you. If you have the instincts of a gentleman, you will know your duty and perform it.'

"The prince's conduct, I must admit, was perfect.

"'Mme. Bourrimel,' he said, 'I am a gentleman, and I know my duty, which will also be my pleasure.

"'I will marry Leona at once. We will leave for Dieppe tonight, and you and your husband shall join us within a month.'

"And, in fact, he did marry her, and they went off on the 8 o'clock express. Ah, M. Richard, I begin to think there is a future in store for us."

"All's well that ends well," I said. "Allow me to return you your armchair and latchstring. Good evening, Mme. Bourrimel."—Translated From the French For Short Stories.

Bolivia's Inhospitable Climate.

Agriculture makes slow progress in Bolivia. In the lands of the upper plateau, surrounding La Paz and Oruro, barley is grown and potatoes sown to a considerable extent, but the yield is poor on account of the very inhospitable nature of the climate and the constant frosts which occur at night during the summer season. The grain produced is utilized for food purposes and the straw for fodder.—Indianapolis News.

With all their superstition and disdain for the Christian religion the Chinese people have great faith in the "foreigners'" knowledge of medicine and their powers for healing.

Miss Maud Kenyon,

Of 1533 Orange Street, Los Angeles, Cal., writes: "I had been afflicted with my eyes for over a year with such a dreadful itching and inflammation that I could not use them for anything. Physicians had given me many different remedies which were like using so much water; they measured my eyes for glasses, which I got and wore for some time, but they did not benefit me in the least. My mother desired me to write to Dr. R. V. Pierce and explain the condition of my eyes. I did so, and after following your advice, and using eight bottles of the 'Favorite Prescription' and eight of the 'Golden Medical Discovery,' can say my trouble is entirely cured. I would advise any one so afflicted to try these wonderful medicines. My health was never so good as it is now, and I shall never tire of praising Dr. Pierce's medicines."

Sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce by letter and secure a specialist's advice free of charge.

Miss Maud Kenyon,

Of 1533 Orange Street, Los Angeles, Cal., writes: "I had been afflicted with my eyes for over a year with such a dreadful itching and inflammation that I could not use them for anything. Physicians had given me many different remedies which were like using so much water; they measured my eyes for glasses, which I got and wore for some time, but they did not benefit me in the least. My mother desired me to write to Dr. R. V. Pierce and explain the condition of my eyes. I did so, and after following your advice, and using eight bottles of the 'Favorite Prescription' and eight of the Golden Medical Discovery,' can say my trouble is entirely cured. I would advise any one so afflicted to try these wonderful medicines. My health was never so good as it is now, and I shall never tire of praising Dr. Pierce's medicines."

CHINA'S NOTED CRŒSUS

How Li Hung Chang Acquired His Money.

MILITARY GENIUS OF THE EMPIRE.

Remarkable Career of the Bismarck of China, Who Began Life as a Humble Worker In the Ricefields. His Strange Method of Semimoral Squeezing.

As Li Hung Chang is one of the principal characters in the Chinese situation it is of timely interest to know how China's greatest statesman acquired his great wealth.

Li Hung Chang, the "old fox with the gray goatee," as Vizevona, the Italian freebooter, once called him, says John R. Rathon in the Chicago Times-Herald, is a man whose wealth is reputed to be on a level with that of the Rockefellers, Rothschilds and Vanderbilts, though students of Chinese history will tell you that he could buy up any two of them. In 1840 this representative of a "dead" nation was a puny orphan boy, working on a riceboat in the marshes of Hwei-Ling, where he was born. His life was bounded on all sides by the ricefields.

In 1844 Li Hung Chang, by some freak of fortune that nobody has been able to discover the truth about, reached Canton, and a year later, thanks to the way in which a ragged, friendless beggar-lad can seek and obtain an education while the state feeds and clothes him in that "effete" and "barbarous" land, he was admitted to the famous study cells. In 1849, after five years of hard work, he had outstripped all competitors and become secretary to the viceroy of Kowloon province. In the following year this viceroy led 50,000 men against a rebel uprising. He was killed in action, and Li Hung Chang took his place, pursued the enemy and won a great victory.

In 1851 he was called to Peking and became secretary of war, and in the ten years following he studied and mastered the whole intricate system of his country's government. The year 1865 saw him still a poor young man, but when he was appointed governor of Kiang-Su he began to accumulate money.

In Kiang-Su are the great salt mines of China, and the governor of the district has the privilege of "farming" the monopoly. Then, too, he began to round up the mandarins in his province. They tried to tell this young, quiet mannered governor that they were only earning a bare living out of their fees, but he astonished them by exhibiting complete knowledge of their methods, and soon 50 per cent of their emoluments went into his capacious pockets.

In 1863 came the great rebellion, and General Gordon began his triumphal march against the insurgents. Li Hung Chang, the war genius of the empire, became his right hand man, and after four years of marvelous success on the field his emperor loaded him down with more honors and emoluments. In 1865 he was appointed governor general of the Liang-King provinces, with four viceroys and 1,800 mandarins under his orders, and in absolute control of the salt tax, the rice tax, the sampan tax and the house tax—all infinitesimal charges on the individual, but when one directs the mulcting of 190,000 people it is the fractions that count.

In 1868 his wealth was estimated by foreigners who knew him intimately to be $75,000,000. Still he remained in imperial favor, and in 1872 came his culminating triumph, when he was made viceroy of Pe-chi-li, the imperial province, with a palace in the royal city and practically the collection of all the national funds under his control.

Here he devolved a peculiar method of semimoral squeezing. His emissaries visited every province regularly and took good care to guard the mass of the people from extortion at the hands of the mandarins. An officer found guilty of demanding or accepting more than the set amount of taxation was promptly dismissed from his office in disgrace. Li Hung Chang saw that with such an immense population there was no necessity to crush the individual with heavy taxes. He insisted on one-half of every tax being turned into his hands, and one-half of these receipts he handed over, in turn, to the imperial treasury, keeping the balance for himself.

There was no false pretense about it. The emperor, happy in the fact that never before had he found a man who could drag such enormous sums out of the hands of the mandarins, was more than satisfied with the share that came to him, and he knew very well that his minister was dividing equally with him. As viceroy of Pe-chi-li, Li Hung Chang started to build a navy. He let contracts for ships, armament and dockyards, and, beginning to mingle with Europeans in his way, soon came to see a vista of new possibilities for the acquiring of wealth. He was chief promoter and is today principal owner of the China Merchant Steam Navigation company, the only native steamship line in existence, with a monopoly of all internal and most of the coast traffic.

The fluctuations in the value of silver gave him a chance for the accumulation of more millions by skillful manipulation of deposits in the great Hongkong and Shanghai bank, of which he is now one of the largest shareholders. In 1877 the members of the diplomatic corps at Peking presented a memorandum to the emperor begging for the establishment of an exact system of coinage. The viceroy told them blandly that he would see about it. He has been seeing about it ever since.

The sale of titles and honors, a recognized perquisite of the viceroy of Pe-chi-li, was in his hands for several years, and his policy was to charge "all the traffic would bear" to merchants who were able and willing to pay for handles to their names or the right to wear gold buttons. As commander in chief of the Chinese forces he was "visited" by contractors, but it may be said to his credit that he listened to none of their advances, possibly because their "offers" were so small in comparison with his vast wealth that he chose to overlook them; possibly, too, because he wished to give them the idea that he was not a man who could be bought.

In addition to the many sources of revenue mentioned, he has had percentages of very large customs duties, the export silk tax, the jade mines and municipal earnings of many cities. No one in the empire can approach Li Hung Chang in the hold he has on the common people of China. They know of his great riches, but they also know that for 40 years he has stood between them and the extortions of petty mandarins. His fortune is an accumulation of mites and atoms.

SPARROWS FOR MILLINERY.

They Are Made Over Into All Sorts of Birds For Hats.

John Rodman, head of a wholesale millinery firm, referring to the great restrictions that have been thrown about the traffic in hat trimmings by the passage of the Hallock bill, which recently became a law, says it may possibly result in the extinction of the English sparrow. This the majority of people seem to regard as entirely desirable. The fact is, Mr. Rodman says, that to prohibit a thing is to create a demand for it in excess of that existing before its prohibition. It is already evident to wholesale millinery houses that the fashion in hats for the coming fall and winter season will require that they be decorated with birds of all sorts, says the Minneapolis Journal. The law now in force in New York, however, makes it a misdemeanor to appear on the street wearing as millinery the whole or parts of quail, partridge, pheasant, wild duck, pigeon, meadow lark, ruffed grouse, oriole, robin, bluebird or woodpecker. Said Mr. Rodman:

"You may take my word for it that there will be just as many birds seen on the hats of womankind as ever. You see, the law permits to be used for millinery purposes such birds as sparrows, crows, hawks, gulls, blackbirds, cranes, ravens and kingfishers. The resource of the wholesale milliner, who perforce must follow the demands of the trade, is the English sparrow and the common blackbird. These birds are treated in a variety of ways and made to represent pretty nearly any sort of bird you can imagine except the ostrich.

"The experts employed in mounting these birds for the trade can put a false bill on a sparrow and make a kingfisher of him in very short order. The plumage is colored with such skill and the beaks of the birds are so artistically doctored that I would defy even the best authorities to pick out the species to which these gaily plumaged birds originally belonged. A high price is being paid for the brilliantly plumaged specimens of the blackbird family seen during the fall migrations of these birds. Some of them are scarlet, others yellow and still others piebald black and yellow or black and red. They look very swagger in a hat and are sufficiently rare to command a good figure. The imitation article in this case is much cheaper, as the tints in the real plumage are difficult to imitate."

BELGIAN HARES IMPORTED.

Mr. Finley of Macon, Mo., Brought Over Some Fine Specimens.

Mr. R. J. Finley, editor of the Macon (Mo.) Record, a fancy stock journal, arrived from England recently, where he had been in the interest of the Belgian hare breeders of the United States. He brought with him a consignment of 75 pedigreed hares for parties in Texas, California, Minnesota, Iowa, Pennsylvania, Illinois and Massachusetts, who commissioned Mr. Finley to make the purchases for them. The stock was selected at Boston, Cleathrop, Grimsby, Leeds, Idle, Bradford and Thackney and represents some of the best known grades, says the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. The highest priced hare of the lot cost $300 and was purchased in Boston. It goes to a Quincy (Ills.) breeder. The prices range from that figure down to $25. All were brought over in separate coops and, with the exception of one female that died, stood the voyage remarkably well. The ocean freightage was $65; duty at the custom house, $80; express from New York to Macon, $80. This is probably the largest importation of pedigreed hares made at one time. "In spite of the intense interest in foreign affairs in England," Mr. Finley says, "they find time to have many big agricultural and fine stock exhibitions, fairs, etc., and they have a pleasant way over there of uniting patriotism and business. The people showed me every possible courtesy, and in some of the cities quite elaborate receptions were held in my honor, which I took more as a compliment to my country than to myself."

Sunflower Fifteen Feet High.

William A. Swain of Cincinnati has a remarkable sunflower growing in his back yard. The plant is nearly 15 feet high and the stem about four inches in diameter. The leaves are so heavy and thick that Mr. Swain and wife can sit in the shade cast by the plant with comfort and ease, says the Cincinnati Enquirer. The mammoth floral specimen is just beginning to bloom.

BOWSER ON HIS FARM

THE OLD MAN HAS SOME ADVENTURES AT NIGHT.

Each One of Which Is Calculated to Put the Worthy Gentleman In Anything but a Pleasant Frame of Mind.

[Copyright, 1900, by C. B. Lewis.]

In the last sketch it was related how Mr. Bowser had leased a summer farm for the benefit of his health and rushed Mrs. Bowser and the cook out there at an hour's notice. The house was found in such a state of dilapidation that when night came the cook was weeping, Mrs. Bowser was homesick and Mr. Bowser was doing his best to make out that things would be all right next day. Amid the songs of tree toads and whippoorwills and the hoots of owls they went to bed. Mr. Bowser had just fallen asleep and was dreaming that he was a farmer 11 feet high, cutting grass seven feet tall with a scythe 14 feet long, when Mrs. Bowser awoke him to say:

"Get up this minute! I can hear some one prowling around outside the house!"

"My dear woman," he answered as he slowly got out of bed, "I am getting tired of this nonsense. If you are going to keep it up, I'll send you home the first thing in the morning. I came out here for rest and quiet, but you"—

"Don't you hear footsteps?" she interrupted.

"It's probably a rabbit hopping around, and I'll open the door and scare the legs off him."

He walked out into the sitting room and unlocked the door and threw it open, and was just on the point of uttering a "Shoo!" when a man appeared before him and said:

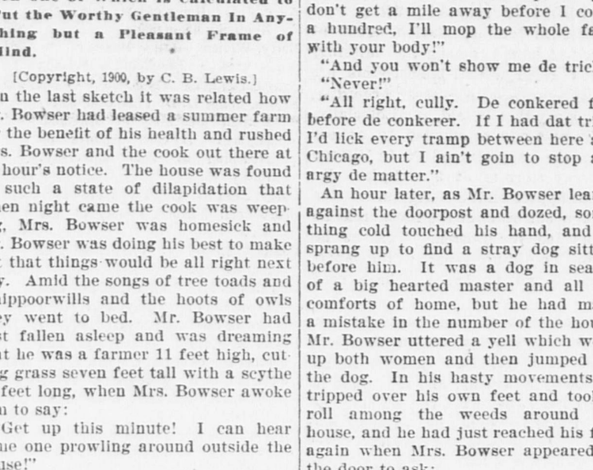

"Hello, cully, but what you doin in my nest?"

"Who—who are you?" demanded Mr. Bowser in considerable confusion.

"Dusty Jim, of course, and you want to vacate de crib right away. It's my claim, and de man who tries to jump it has got a job on hand."

"Look here, you old tramp, but what are you doing around this house!" shouted Mr. Bowser as he recovered from his surprise and began to get mad.

"And what are you doin?" shouted Dusty Jim in reply. "I've bin sleepin in dis crib fur de last three months.

HE TOOK A ROLL AMONG THE WEEDS.

and I don't propose to let no man bounce me out. Come out, or I'll make you tired!"

Mrs. Bowser and the cook were now calling to know what was the matter, and as Mr. Bowser fell back from the door to answer them the tramp slipped inside the room. He was a big man and a bad man, but he had made a mistake. Mr. Bowser turned and tackled him at once, and in five minutes he was a licked man and being dragged off the doorstep by the heels. Mrs. Bowser was crying, and the cook was on her knees, praying as Mr. Bowser shut the door and demanded:

"Now, then, what have you broken loose about? You two women seem determined to act like idiots. I leased this summer farm for the benefit of my health, but no sooner do we get out here than you try to upset things. I tell you I want it to stop!"

"You—you call this a vacation!" sobbed Mrs. Bowser as Dusty Jim was heard moving off for the highway.

"Of course it is! I never saw such an inconsistent woman. We are out in the country. We are getting the benefit of the pine air and the songs of the night birds, and yet because a few things are not to your liking you raise a great row. You may weep and sob and howl and kick, but we shall stay right here just the same! Now you two go to bed again, and I'll sit up the rest of the night and keep things straight."

As the night was warm, Mr. Bowser opened the door and sat down on the steps. The house had hardly become quiet when Dusty Jim reappeared. He had come in peace to make inquiries. He was willing to acknowledge that he was a licked man, but he wanted to ask:

"How did you do it, cully? You's a fat man and a baldheaded man, and I thought I could do you in two minits. If you'll show me dat little trick you used, I'll give you $2."

"If you don't hump yourself," replied Mr. Bowser as he rose up—"if you don't get a mile away before I count a hundred, I'll mop the whole farm with your body!"

"And you won't show me de trick?"

"Never!"

"All right, cully. De conkered flies before de conkerer. If I had dat trick, I'd lick every tramp between here and Chicago, but I ain't goin to stop and argy de matter."

An hour later, as Mr. Bowser leaned against the doorpost and dozed, something cold touched his hand, and he sprang up to find a stray dog sitting before him. It was a dog in search of a big hearted master and all the comforts of home, but he had made a mistake in the number of the house. Mr. Bowser uttered a yell which woke up both women and then jumped for the dog. In his hasty movements he tripped over his own feet and took a roll among the weeds around the house, and he had just reached his feet again when Mrs. Bowser appeared at the door to ask:

"Is it murder or robbery or what?"

"And if it ain't, then what is it?" added the cook from behind.

"Oh, you are prancing around again!" he replied as he came forward. "It beats all creation how you women act. Why in thunder can't you go to bed and stay there like sensible people!"

"But when you screamed out I thought"—

"I never screamed out. I was simply yelling at the dog. I have tried to be a patient man since we arrived here yesterday, but I warn you that the limit has been reached."

"What a vacation!" murmured Mrs. Bowser, with tears in her eyes.

"I know I shall never see home again!" sobbed the cook as she turned away.

"There you go!" shouted Mr. Bowser as he combed the weeds out of his hair. "What has happened to spoil this vacation? Nothing whatever. I have simply licked a tramp and frightened away a stray dog. Now, don't let me hear again from you till morning!"

He resumed his place on the step, and the house grew quiet again. Dusty Jim and the stray dog were far away, and there could be nothing more to disturb the remainder of the night. Mr. Bowser had dozed again for half an hour when the owl which had hooted in the evening and gone off to see a friend now returned to have another try at it. He alighted in a tree across the road and, drawing a long breath, uttered a "hoo-o-o-o!" that would have lifted a bag of potatoes a foot high. It lifted Mr. Bowser off the doorstep, and it lifted Mrs. Bowser and the cook out of bed, and for two minutes there was wild alarm. Day was breaking, and when the women declared they would not go to bed again Mr. Bowser did not oppose them. The thought was in his mind to start for home at sunrise and to seek out the man who had leased him the farm and kill him as quickly as possible, but Mrs. Bowser spoiled it all by saying:

"If you will only take me home today, I won't ask for a new thing for the next year."

"Go to all this trouble for a 12 hours' vacation?" he replied, with his obstinacy aroused in a second. "Never, Mrs. Bowser! We came out here to find rest and peace. It's just the place for it. Do you suppose we are to be driven back home by a tramp, an owl and a dog? Not much! We stay right here for the summer."

"Then I'm afraid you'll have to bury me out among the pigweeds."

"There'll be no burials. I am already feeling better for the pure air, and in a week you won't know yourself. Look at that sunrise and tell me if you ever saw anything to beat it! Italy never furnished a sunrise like that. I'll go down to the road to have a better look at it while cook is getting breakfast."

When Mr. Bowser reached the gate, he found Dusty Jim seated on a log opposite. The tramp rose up and removed his hat and bowed.

"Do you want another thumping?" was shouted at him across the gate.

"No, kind sir," he humbly replied. "I'm a licked man, and a licked man don't want any more of it. But I came back to see if you wouldn't really tell me how it was done. I'm wantin to lick Highway Bill, and if you'll show me de trick I'll run him out of de state."

Mr. Bowser spat on his hands and opened the gate, and Dusty Jim fled for the third time.

Nervous Women

are ailing women. When a woman has some female trouble she is certain to be nervous and wretched.

With many women the monthly suffering is so great that they are for days positively insane, and the most diligent efforts of ordinary treatment are unavailing.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

comes promptly to the relief of these women. The letters from women cured by it proves this. This paper is constantly printing them.

The advice of Mrs. Pinkham should also be secured by every nervous woman. This costs nothing. Her address is Lynn, Mass.

Automobiles are becoming quite common in Quincy, and it is an off day when several are not seen flying through the streets.

Buchanan, Mich., May 22.

Genesee Pure Food Co., Le Roy, N. Y.:

Gentlemen: My mamma has been a great coffee drinker and has found it very injurious. Having used several packages of your GRAIN-O, the drink that takes the place of coffee, she finds it much better for herself and for us children to drink. She has given up coffee drinking entirely. We use a package of Grain-O every week. I am ten years old.

Yours respectfully, FANNIE WILLIAMS.

BRAINTREE.

Hello! Hello!! Hello!!! The town of Braintree is to have three telephones, one in the Selectmen's room and one at the Pumping station and the other at the Electric light station. After these have been in use a while they will become known to the public, and will be considered a necessity and not a luxury.

The Braintree Band will give an open air concert at Stevens park tomorrow afternoon, from 2.30 to 4. The band will give a concert in the South Braintree square at some future date. An excellent program has been arranged. The park is on the borders of Little pond and is a fine place to enjoy a Sunday afternoon. All are welcome.

Mr. Herbert C. Keith, a former superintendent of the Sunday school, connected with the First church, now superintendent of a Sunday school in New Haven, Conn., visited the school with his two boys on Sunday morning. Mr. Keith left town with his family the first of the week for a trip to Canada. Next Sunday morning Rev. Thomas Simms of South Manchester, Conn., will preach morning and evening. As Mr. Simms has the reputation of being a very interesting speaker, it is hoped that their will be a good attendance at both services.

Miss Kate Scollard has been quite ill again and Dr. Tinkham has been in attendance. She is convalescnet at present.

The Universalists of this town and Weymouth Landing, about 100 in number, went on their annual picnic by a special car to Highland Park last Tuesday. They had great sport.

The committee chosen to investigate the strength and support of a Liberal church would receive in Braintree, met Thursday evening and steps were taken for the organization of such a society. An open meeting will be held next Thursday evening for all interested in the movement.

Friday of last week George W. Clapp killed a rattle snake which was about four feet long, had eight rattles and was about eleven years old. It was near the bulkhead of Mr. Clapp's house.

The Greenough-Gardner 100 yard foot race takes place this afternoon in front of the Town Hall.

Mr. F. T. Lewis and family of Boston have moved to their new home on Town street recently purchased of Mr. P. C. Spring.

Nelson Hayden, Chester Hollis and Frank Walker will play with the Quincy A. A's, in their game with the Norfolks of Weymouth at the latter place this afternoon.

The South Congregational church held its last service Sunday, and will remain closed till September.

Conductors Mack and F. F. Stoddard have exchanged runs. The change was made so as the former could get to his home in Holbrook at the end of his day's work.

Edward Shay and H. A. Thayer were appointed delegates of Hose 2 to attend the annual meeting of the Mass. Firemen's Relief Association which is to be held at North Adams the middle of this month.

The Kenwoods A. A., and the Braintree, Jrs. will cross bats on the Common this afternoon.

The Braintree veteran firemen held a special meeting Wednesday and made arrangements to attend the league muster at Waltham the 16th of this month. Everybody is invited to join them.

On the grounds of the Braintree Golf club at 2.30 this afternoon the Wollaston's will bag with the Braintrees.

Miss Ellen Cobb, assistant in the Braintree post office, returned Sunday from her vacation. She visited Cape Cod and Cape Ann.

Several gentlemen of Braintree have been keeping house alone for several days. They do enjoy getting their own breakfasts and entertaining callers.

The Y. P. C. U. will give a lawn party August 4, this Saturday afternoon and evening, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Arnold on Middle street.

The Universalist church through August closes its morning services of church and Sunday school. The evening service of the Y. P. C. U. continues throughout the month.

Miss Abbie Feltis and mother of Quincy spent Friday with friends on Middle street.

It is rumored that the building committee and residents of the Penniman school district are to have a rousing dedication of their new building. They certainly ought to, as it is a beautiful building and those occasions only come once in a life-time. All that is necessary is for some one to start the ball rolling, raise a subscription, and have a deication that Braintree will be proud of. Monday, Sept. 3, Labor day will be a good date for the opening of the building to the public.

AGENT MISSING.

Quincy Adams Man Reported Short in His Accounts.

Ernest Du Temple, station agent at Quincy Adams is among the missing, and it is reported that his accounts are in a badly mixed up mess. According to the story that is told, semi-officially, Du Temple was summoned to appear before the superintendent in Boston Thursday morning at 9 o'clock. He did not appear and a telegram to the ticket agent brought the reply that he had started for Boston. Perhaps he did, but he did not report to the superintendent and he has not been seen since.

Yesterday an auditor was sent out and he spent the day on Du Temple's books. It is reported that he found them badly mixed up, and that there is a shortage. Just what the amount of the shortage is, cannot be learned, but report places it from $58 to $800.

Du Temple has been in the employ of the railroad for several years. He was first located at the West Quincy station, clerk in the freight department. A year ago when George K. Carter resigned as station agent at Quincy Adams, Du Temple was appointed to the position.

He had entire charge of the station and freight office. He had a clerk who took care of the ticket office, while he gave his personal attention to the freight department.

Just how he could defraud the railroad of $800 without being detected before, is a mystery, as the most of the firms doing business at this station pay by check.

Thieves at South Quincy.

For some time the residents of South Quincy, especially in the neighborhood of Liberty street, Brooks avenue and Trafford street have been troubled by boys stealing flowers, destroying the flower beds and stealing everything within their reach, even chickens. Thursday at noon time Mr. John Benzie who runs a store and pool room in Malnati's block locked his store and went to dinner. When he returned at one o'clock he found that the back window which he left open a few inches for ventilation was closed but the back door open. Mr. Benzie's cash box containing about $3 had disappeared.

This is undoubtedly the work of the boys in the vicinity, as the better half of the candy case had also disappeared the tobaccos being untouched.

With the Ninth in China.

"The only New England newspaper that has a special correspondent with the American troops in China"—that is the interesting announcement which the Boston Journal is making. Its representative, who has been with the Ninth Regiment since the departure from the Philippines, through the landing on Chinese soil and through the battle of Tien-Tsin, in which the regiment lost so heavily, is Mr. A. G. Eames. He is a New England man with years of experience in practical newspaper work in the cities of Chicago, New York and Boston. He went with the Forty-sixth Regiment to the Philippines as the correspondent of the Boston Journal, and his letters in the Journal descriptive of the campaigning in the islands prove him an acute observer as well as a most entertaining writer.

The Boston Journal's designation as "The Paper with the Photographs" has become familiar all over New England.

Keith's Theatre.

The patronage of Keith's Boston theatre during the hot weather has been very large, especially when the countless outside attractions are taken into consideration, but it must be admitted that the first class character of the entertainment which has been maintained has been fully deserving encouragement. No such programmes are furnished in the majority of other vaudeville houses as Mr. Keith provides for his summer patrons. For the week commencing Monday, August 6, the following performers are to appear; George C. Davis, a famous story-teller and impersonator; the Eldridges, "real coon" singers, dancers and comedians; William H. Maxwell and Daisy Dudley, in a singing and comedy sketch; Bobby Gaylor, Irish comedian and singer; Zeno, Carl and Zeno, the greatest trio of horizontal bar performers ever seen in this country; Mudge and Morton, musical comedians and the Zrenyis, equilibrists. The biograph, which is still the leader among a motion picture devices, will have several new subjects of interest.

New Downer Landing Park.

The minstrel show the past week has proved a great drawing card and the attendance has been larger than any week this season. Another great programme is offered for next week when the Chicago specialty stars will appear every afternoon and evening This troupe has been touring the summer resorts and has met with popular favor everywhere. Free transfers in Quincy to the Park

A SERIOUS PROBLEM.

Debarkation of Troops at Taku Surrounded With Innumerable Obstacles.

Another Message From Conger Is Received at Washington.

Latest Dispatch From Chinese Foreign Office Not an Answer to Hay's Dispatch of Aug. 1.

Washington, Aug. 6.—Neither the war nor navy departments made public any Chinese dispatches during Sunday, officials of both departments announcing that no dispatches of public interest had been received. That General Chaffee is encountering difficulties that are proving serious there is little attempt to conceal. The debarkation of troops and cavalry horses is being accomplished with the utmost difficulty.

It is said that the big transports can approach the landing at Taku no nearer than 12 or 14 miles. Vessels drawing more than 15 feet of water are forced to lie far out in the gulf. This necessitates the use of lighters for the transportation to the shore of both men and horses, making the debarkation of a considerable force a task surrounded with innumerable obstacles. Added to the actual difficulties are the discomforts and inconveniences placed upon the troops. Rains are almost incessant, heavy fogs are prevalent, and the water of the gulf is exceedingly rough.

Mr. Adee, acting secretary of state, has issued the following statement concerning a message from Minister Conger, which was received at the state department yesterday:

"Consul General Goodnow, in a cablegram dated Shanghai, Aug. 5, which was received at the department of state at 4 o'clock Sunday morning, reports the receipt by Consul Ragsdale at Tientsin of messages from Minister Conger and the secretary of the legation, Mr. Squires, dated July 21, to the following effect: "'All well. No fighting since the 16th by agreement. Enough provisions. Hope for speedy relief.'

"Mr. Goodnow adds that the director of posts, Sheng, had on the 5th communicated to him an imperial edict, dated July 30, ordering Jung Lu to provide an escort for the ministers to Tientsin. The edict says the ministers can receive messages not in cipher; but notwithstanding this plain messages were returned to some consuls on Aug. 4."

While the messages from Minister Conger and Secretary Squires bear date of July 21, the belief, founded not only upon them, but also upon collateral and later information, is that the legationers are yet safe from at least immediate harm. At present there is no means of knowing whether the ministers will accept the offer of the Chinese imperial government to provide an escort for them to Tientsin; but it is surmised they will prefer to remain within the British legation at Pekin until the arrival of the allied forces. Should they leave for Tientsin in all probability it would be because they regarded it the safer course to pursue. It is thought to be not unlikely that the Chinese government may be very insistent upon the departure of the ministers, in the hope, if they can be gotten to Tientsin in safety, the storming of Pekin may be averted.

The inhibition of cipher dispatches to the ministers, while a serious breach of diplomatic usage, is not regarded here with apprehension. The Chinese government, it is pointed out, is suspicious of the actions and intent of the powers and probably has adopted this precaution to prevent communication to the ministers of details of military movements. It is evident from the adoption of this measure that the imperial government regards itself as antagonistic to, if not actually at war with, the powers. Thus far no inhibition has been placed upon cipher dispatches passing between the various governments and their consular representatives in China outside of Pekin.

The state department has taken the ground that the dispatch from the tsung li yamen, delivered at the department Saturday by Minister Wu, is not an answer to the dispatch of Secretary Hay sent on Aug. 1. In that dispatch Secretary Hay finally and decisively insisted that free communication with the ministers must be established before any steps would be taken by this government toward a peaceful solution of the present trouble.

That dispatch was sent to Consul General Goodnow, to be by him transmitted to Li Hung Chang. The message delivered by Minister Wu to the state department Saturday, relative to the inhibition of cipher dispatches, was sent by the tsung li yamen on July 30. As of that date it already had been communicated to the department by Consul Fowler. Obviously, therefore, it could not be a reply to the dispatch sent to Mr. Goodnow by Secretary Hay on Aug. 1. A definite reply to the secretary's dispatch of the 1st instant is awaited with some concern, not to say anxiety. It is the final word of the United States government in the pending negotiations. The demand must be acceded to, if trouble of a serious character is to be averted.

CATHOLICS LOSE A LEADER.

Death of Bishop Healy, For Many Years at the Head of the Diocese of Maine.

Portland, Me., Aug. 6.—On Saturday Bishop Healy complained of indigestion and suffered for about two hours, finally getting relief through the attendance of doctors. He slept well during the night and tried to get up Sunday morning to say mass, but was unable to do so. The depression returned, from which he was temporarily relieved, but at 12 o'clock he began to grow weaker, so much so that at 12:30 he called for Father O'Brien, who administered the last sacraments. Bishop Healy continued in good spirits and was conscious to 1 o'clock Sunday afternoon, when he died.

Right Rev. James Augustine Healy, Roman Catholic bishop of Maine, was born at Macon, Ga., Aug. 6, 1830. In early life he studied civil engineering. He was led to turn his attention to the church, and in 1844 entered Holy Cross college at Worcester, Mass., graduating in 1849 at the head of his class. His degree was taken under the Georgetown charter. He studied theology at the Grand seminary at Montreal for three years and then went to Paris and continued his studies. June 10, 1854, he was ordained a priest in the Cathedral of Notre Dame. Prior to his ordination he had been designated by Bishop Fitzpatrick of Boston as his secretary, and he assumed the duties of that office as soon as he returned to America.

He was soon after appointed chancellor of the diocese of Boston, being the first to hold that office. He was also for some time rector of the cathedral, and was given extraordinary power as an administrator. His great executive and business ability was recognized even then. For 12 years he discharged the duties of two and at times three important positions.

From his first field of labor he passed, on the elevation of Bishop Williams to the episcopate, to the rectorship of St. James church, Boston, termed "the mother of bishops." He held this position nine years. Bishop Healy was instrumental in the establishment of many institutions connected with the church while he was the rector of St. James.

Bishop Bacon, the first bishop of Maine, died in 1874, and Bishop Healy was selected as his successor Feb. 12, 1875. He was consecrated June 2, 1875. The 25th anniversary of this consecration was observed here on June 5, 1900, and was made an occasion of rejoicing by the Catholics in Maine.

Contributions For Cigar Makers.

New York, Aug. 6.—The striking and locked out cigarmakers have been notified that the American Federation of Labor has levied a tax of 5 cents per capita on its 1,000,000 members for their support. The first instalment, $2000 or the $50,000 to be thus raised, has been paid. The Cigarmakers' International union has also voted an assessment of $1 on each of its 30,000 members for the New York strikers. About $10,000 a week is required for the support of the strikers, who have been idle 22 weeks.

She Used a Revolver.

Boston, Aug. 6.—Mrs. Minnie Janfol is under arrest, charged with assault with a loaded revolver with intent to kill. Representatives of an ejection company went to the tenement where she made her home with her husband and five children. Rather than undergo the humiliation of being put out, Mrs. Janfol, it is charged, shot Edward F. Quinn, the leader of the men. The man will probably recover.

Succumbed to Heart Failure.

Magnolia, Mass., Aug. 6.—Former Governor Jacob D. Cox of Ohio died here of heart failure. General Cox was born at Montreal in 1828. At the outbreak of the Civil war he was made a brigadier general, serving with credit until 1865, when he was elected governor of Ohio, serving for one term. General Cox lived at Oberlin, O., and he came to New England only a few weeks since.

In Memory of King Humbert.

Lawrence, Mass., Aug. 6.—The Italian residents of this city held a parade Sunday in memory of King Humbert. In the parade was a barouche, containing a picture of the king, surmounted by American and Italian flags and flowers. Following was a hearse, and then came a horse without a rider, representing the king's charger, minus his master. A mass meeting was held after the parade, at which addresses were made.

Won by Swimmer From Abroad.

Eastport, Me., Aug. 6.—In his first race in this country, Percy F. Cavill, the champion swimmer of England and Australia, defeated Will H. Smith of Calais, over the Ponnamaquan lake course Sunday, having a lead of an eighth of a mile at the end of the mile.

NEWS IN BRIEF.

A $10,000 fire occurred at Williamsett, Mass. The fire started in a barn belonging to J. B. Stratton.

Luke Prior, former United States senator and representative in congress, died at his home at Athens, Ala.

The American fishing fleet on the Grand Banks is doing poorly of late. The weather has been bad, the codfish scarce and bait difficult to obtain.

The secretary of the navy has extended the contract time on the battleships Kentucky and Kearsarge to the time of their delivery by the builders, the Newport News Shipbuilding company. The effect is to remove the penalty which had accrued on both vessels.

Richard S. Wiley, 22 years old, was struck by a train at Somerville, Mass., and received injuries from which he died later.

The waterproof paper department of the F. W. Bird & Son's mill at East Walpole, Mass., was burned by the explosion of a fire kettle. Loss, $10,000.

Rev. C. W. Biddle, one of the oldest Universalist ministers in Massachusetts, died at his home in Brookline.

A large barn in the center of Lexington, Mass., was burned, and a shed adjoining, occupied as a blacksmith's shop, was gutted. The total loss will be $5000.

UNDER A GOOD ESCORT.

Sheng Has Ordered the Departure of Ministers From Pekin to Tientsin.

Main Body of the Allies Advanced Toward Pekin on July 30.

Li Ping Heng Appears to Be a Serious Obstacle in the Way of Peace.

London, Aug. 6.—Sheng, director general of railways and telegraphs, has just communicated to the consuls at Shanghai, according to a special dispatch to the Paris Temps, dated Aug. 5, an imperial decree, dated Aug. 2, authorizing the foreign ministers in Pekin to communicate without restriction with their governments, and ordering their departure for Tientsin under a good escort.

The Shanghai correspondent of The Daily Mail announces the reception of the imperial edict, dated Aug. 2, ordering General Yung Lu to select high military and civil dignitaries, together with a sufficient number of picked troops to escort the foreign ministers to Tientsin as soon as they decide to leave Pekin. By the terms of the edict General Yung Lu will be held personally responsible for their safety, and he is given full authority to deal summarily with those opposing the peaceful passage of the escort. "By such acts," concludes the edict, "do we show our good intentions to people from afar and open our bosoms to them."

Chinese messages assert, in addition to causing the execution of high functionaries of pro-foreign tendency, Li Ping Heng has impeached Li Hung Chang, Liu Kun Yi, viceroy of Nankin, and others on the charge of maintaining relations with foreigners.

A Tientsin dispatch, dated Aug. 1, to Berlin gives a report of an imperial edict issued July 27, ordering the recapture of Taku and Tientsin by troops from Shan Tung and the south.

The American and British forces began the advance on Pekin last Thursday, according to a dispatch dated Aug. 2 from Tientsin to The Daily Express. "The main body of the allies," continues the correspondent, "marched July 30. General Chaffee was delayed by difficulties of disembarkation. General Dorward, the British commander, had no such obstacles, and his delay is inexplicable.

"The other foreign troops are now half way to Lofa. The force includes 20,000 Japanese under General Yamuchuchi and 10,000 Russians. The British force totals 9000 and the other foreign troops about 7000. We are weak in artillery.

"On Aug. 1 a strong force of Chinese from the native city attacked Tientsin. By a series of brilliant charges our troops drove the enemy from their positions. The native city is still defiant and the allies are unwilling to march troops through its streets, as this would mean an immense slaughter. When the Chinese saw so large a body of troops marching westward they apparently believed they would have an easy victory over those who were left."

A message to the same paper from a correspondent in Pekin, dated July 22, says: "The women have borne all the horrors with marvelous fortitude and even with cheerfulness. The Chinese wanted peace when the arsenals at Tientsin were captured, and the negotiations bade fair to be successful. Unfortunately Li Ping Heng and Kang Yu (?) arrived here at the critical moment and overthrew the peace party. Food has been short, but not terribly so, though we have had to be very careful."

Filipinos Not Yet Pacified.

Manila, Aug. 6.—There has been an increase of insurgent activity during the last three weeks. First Lieutenant Alstaetter of the engineer corps, with an escort of 15 men, was taken in ambush. The Americans fought until their ammunition was gone, and there was nothing to do but surrender. One man was killed and three were wounded. Lieutenant Hulesberg was ambushed and killed near Santa Cruz. Five men of the Twenty-fourth infantry were captured in Nueva Ecija, but Sergeant Schmidt, with seven men, trailed the captors and killed five.

Held For Alleged Embezzlement.

New York, Aug. 6.—Joseph Virtel, formerly a bookkeeper in the Occidental hotel, was held without bail for further examination on the charge of embezzlement. Samuel Kahn, proprietor of the hotel, claims that Virtel is, so far as known, $11,000 short in his accounts. Virtel was arrested Sunday, after having eluded the authorities for a month.

Quarrelled Over Price of Drink.

Worcester, Mass., Aug. 6.—Loratio Demarzio was stabbed 10 times with a stiletto by Paro Lino in Boylston late Saturday night and died in 10 minutes. They are workmen on the metropolitan water basin and quarreled over payment for a drink of cider. The murderer escaped in the direction of Clinton.

Trial Won't Be Necessary.

New Orleans, Aug. 6.—George Williams, one of the negroes arrested in connection with the killing of Sergeant Porteous and Corporal Lally and citizens on July 27 by Robert Charles, committed suicide in his cell in the parish prison by hanging himself with two handkerchiefs.

Death Caused by a Fall.

Lowell, Mass., Aug. 6.—Early Sunday morning Annie O'Brien, a mill operative, aged about 40 years, fell from a third-story window of a block on King street. Her injuries were so severe that she died later. The woman arrived here on Friday last.

Alexander Takes a Bride.

Belgrade, Aug. 6.—King Alexander yesterday wedded Mme. Draga Maschin, the ceremony being performed with great pomp. In honor of the event the king granted an amnesty, together with numerous political pardons.

To Erect a Memorial Chapel.

Rome, Aug. 6.—The city council of Monza has ceded the plot of ground, including the spot where King Humbert was assassinated, to the royal family, who will erect a chapel there. King Victor Emmanuel and Queen Helena will arrive in Rome Wednesday. The remains of King Humbert will leave Monza the same day.

Shooting on a Steamer.

Fall River, Mass., Aug. 6.—A row occurred on the steamer King Phillip, from Mount Hope, shortly before she reached her dock late Sunday evening. It is alleged that Engineer Ford shot one of the rioters, Joseph Roch, in the leg. No arrests have been made.

Eleven Weeks' Idleness For Nothing.

Oil City, Pa., Aug. 6.—The union machinists of this city, who have been on strike for 11 weeks, decided Sunday to return to work at the old scale of wages and without any concessions from the employers. About 250 men were involved.

Cuban Teachers.

It is now expected that the Cuban teachers will visit Quincy tomorrow and arrangements are being made to make their visit a pleasant one. As now planned the teachers will take a special train for West Quincy about 1.30. Arriving there a trip will be made over the Quarry railroad, where all branches of the stone business will be inspected. The special train will then take them to Quincy Adams or Braintree where special electric cars will bring them to Quincy. The Adams houses will be visited and the works of the Fore River Engine Co. at Braintree. From there the party will be taken to the Shelton at Adams shore where they will be given a shore dinner.

The matter of a dinner has been in doubt, but Mayor Hall informs the Ledger that he has been successful in raising funds enough to give the teachers a dinner. Up to this morning Mayor Hall had received no definite reply from Supt. Frye as to whether the teachers would come Tuesday, but he expects to hear today.

Another Raid.

There was quite a little excitement on Temple street shortly before 10 o'clock Saturday night, which was caused by the police making a raid upon the restaurant kept by William W. Weightman. In the raiding party were Chief Ripley, Officers Ferguson P. Bradley, J. Bradley, Morrissey O'Brien and Curtin, the officers were well repaid for their visit for they seized 101 bottles of beer and a bottle of wine.

The raid was at the time when the band concert was about ended and the crowd were soon made aware that something unusual was going on and lost no time in gathering in front of Weightman's place.

The yacht Tomahawk started at 1 o'clock Sunday morning for a week's cruise along the South Shore. In the party were the Capt. Frank Freeman, G. Hallowell, Winthrop Baker and Frank Munson.

WOLLASTON BEACH OUTING.

Ladies' Day of the Squantum and Wollaston Yacht Clubs.

Perfect Weather and Arrangements Make the Affairs a Success.

Yachts and the Fair Guests Who Participated in the Review and Sail.

Wollaston beach presented a merry scene Saturday afternoon. It was the occasion of the annual ladies' day celebration of the Squantum and Wollaston Yacht clubs.

Both clubs make their headquarters in this vicinity. In fact they are within a stones throw of each other. Bright skies and a calm sea was enough to bring out a large attendance of the fair sex and the jolly tars of the two clubs attired in their immaculate white ducks made a pretty sight.

SQUANTUM CLUB.

At the Squantum club the programme included a sail about the bay for those who like the water while those who remained ashore watched the fleet from the club piazza and enjoyed the music.

Upon the return from the sail lunch was served and in the evening the club house was illuminated with many Chinese lanterns making a very pretty effect. The evening programme included dancing.

The yachts to participate in the review and sail with their guests were as follows:

WOLLASTON CLUB.

At the Wollaston club the programme also included a review and sail. Many of the yachts of the fleet were away on a cruise so that the number to participate in the review was not as large as usual.

After the sail lunch was served in the new club house and an opportunity was had to inspect and admire the new quarters of the club. The house is very nicely arranged and the club is very pleasantly situated. In the evening a social dance was enjoyed.

The yachts to participate in the sail with their guests were as follows:

Thelma II, Vice Com. E. A. Merrill—Miss Elizabeth E. Ray, Mr. Frank W. Reeve, Miss Lillian G. Smith, Miss Ella A. Horton, Miss Susie G. Dorety, Miss Mabel R. Tanner, Miss Alice L. Dorety, Mr. Joseph T. Goodwin, Capt. Hey.

Genesee Pure Food Co., Le Roy, N. Y.:

Gentlemen:—I must say in regard to GRAIN-O that there is nothing better or healthier. We have used it for years. My brother was a great coffee drinker. He was taken sick and the doctor said coffee was the cause of it, and told us to use GRAIN-O. We got a package but did not like it at first, but now would not be without it. My brother has been well ever since we started to use it.

Yours truly, LILLIE SOCHOR.

21st ANNUAL DINNER

Granite Manufacturers' Association of Quincy at Nantasket.

The annual outing of the Granite Manufacturers' Association of this city was held at Nantasket beach on Saturday. It was a lovely day and a large gathering of the Manufacturers and their friends assembled at the Pacific House, kept by Nat. G. Robinson, where they were received in the most hospitable manner.

One of the most interesting and pleasing events of the day was a base ball game, played between 12 and 2 o'clock, by nines composed of members of the Association, for a box of cigars. There was more real fun and pleasure in the sport, than has been seen in any game for years. Some were quite expert, while others lacked practice. The nines were composed as follows:

First Nine.

Richard Prout, pitcher.
Frank Duran, catcher.
M. Shaw, first base.
T. Galvin, second base.
C. Theo. Hardwick, left centre field.
Lewis Shawtzel, right centre field.
N. Nicoll, centre field.
C. Hayes, short stop.

Second Nine.

William Spargo, pitcher.
Richard Masson, catcher.
C. Barnicoat, first base.
Alfred Diack, second base.
Joseph Malnati, third base.
John Lawry, centre field.
John Gallivan, right centre field.
P. W. Mannex, left centre field.
Charles Spargo, shot stop.

Innings	1	2	3	4
First Nine,	6	4	5	7—22
Second Nine,	6	0	8	5—19

Umpires, J. H. Elcock and F. R. Condrey.
Scorer, M. F. O'Brien.
Capt. Prout's team won and was presented with a box of cigars. Score, 22 to 19.

At 2 o'clock the dinner was ready, but the party was so large that the dining hall would not accommodate all, and some thirty or more were given seats on the broad piazza in front of the house, where there is a delightful view of the ocean.

President Alexander Marnock called the assembly to order and invited them to partake, which they did with a hearty good will, as the morning ride and the cool ocean breeze gave them a good appetite. On the left of the president were Representative E. H. Sprague, Hon. John Shaw, and on the right His Honor, John O. Hall, and other guests.

During the serving of the following excellent menu, there was music by an orchestra and some very fine singing, which was greatly enjoyed and heartily applauded. The menu:

Clam Chowder. Fish Chowder.
Steamed Duxbury Clams, Drawn Butter.
Fried Native Perch, Tartar Sauce.
Broiled Fresh Bluefish, Maitre d'Hotel.
Sliced Tomatoes. Fresh Radishes.
Clam Fritters, Country Style.
Salmon Cutlets with Grean Peas.
Sliced Cucumbers. Lettuce. Queen Olives.
Punch.
Turkey, Cranberry Sauce.
Sucking Pig, Cider Jelly.
Chicken Salad. Lobster Salad.
New Peas. Green Corn.
Chocolate and Vanilla Ice Cream.
Assorted Fruit. Assorted Cake.
Chilled Watermelon.
Toasted Crackers and Cheese.
Tea. Coffee. Rolls.

After the many courses, so nicely prepared by Capt. Robinson, had been disposed of, and the cigars passed, the company adjourned to the yard, where on the steps on the hotel annex, a few short speechs were made. But the granite men were not out for speech making, and this part of the program was cut short.

President Marnock first called His Honor, Mayor Hall, who made a short pleasing address, thanking them for their invitation. He praised the Association and the work they were engaged in. He had enjoyed immensely the ball game, and said recreation was a good thing, and he was glad the hours of labor with them had been reduced. At the conclusion of his remarks he was given three cheers.

The president then called Mr. Thomas Burke, one of the past presidents who said that there was one man present who had worked early and late for the interest of the granite manufacturers. He should not be forgotten. Alluding to Mr. John Shaw by name, he said he hoped to see him represent them in Congress from the tenth district. Mr. Shaw had been made an honorary member because it was through his influence at Washington very laregly that the present high tariff of 50 per cent. was placed upon foreign granite, thus preventing foreign competition. And the manufacturers of Quincy had since been able to do business at a profit. The increase in the tariff had been regained and should be still further retailed. It was a good thing. Loud applause followed Mr. Burke's speech.

Mr. John Shaw was then called upon, and when he stepped forward to respond there was vociferous handclapping. Mr. Shaw said he was very glad indeed to be present. The title of honorary member, conferred upon him, had given him great gratification. "To be selected as your standard-bearer at Washington is indeed a very high honor," said Mr. Shaw "If elected to represent you I shall do all I can for the granite industry, as I have in the past. From my heart let me thank you for being mentioned as possibly your standard-bearer in the Tenth Congressional District. Protection, sound money and "progress—that " is what I shall stand for." (Great applause.)

Rupert F. Claflin, cashier of the Granite bank, made a brief speech, in which he praised Mayor Quincy of Boston for his establishment of free baths, band concerts and additional parks. He thought he should always be remembered for what he had done in that line

After a few remarks from Peter Fallon and "George Harvey Field, the assembly adjourned to the beach, where running races and other sports were enjoyed.

KILLED BY A FALL.

Capt. Geo. A. Devlin Formerly of Quincy Dies at Lawrence.

The Sunday papers report the accidental death at Lawrence of Capt. George A. Devlin, formerly of Quincy. Capt. Devlin has been employed for some time as military editor of the Boston Post. Saturday he was at Lawrence and in company with a friend was passing through an alley near the livery stable of Daniel O'Leary. A large carriage elevator abuts the alley and as he passed it was ascending. In a spirit of fun apparently he took hold of the edge of the elevator platform and was carried up some feet in the air. Then either his hands slipped or involuntary dropping to the ground he landed in an uncertain way, for on touching the ground he fell over, his head crashing on the concrete space.

He lay there with blood gushing from his nose but to all other appearance dead. A surgeon was immediately called, and he said life still existed. The injured man was taken immediately to the General Hospital, but he died in a short time.

The fall had caused hemorrhage of the brain, and as far as his physical knowledge was concerned, Captain Devlin's death was almost instantaneous with the fall.

Capt. Devlin was well known in Quincy where he resided for many years. He was born in Louisiana, thirty-three years ago, but removed to Quincy with his parents when at the age of three years. He graduated from the grammar schools and later entered West Point, but left that school in a short time and enlisted in the regular army serving in the Indian campaigns of the West.

Later he came home and engaged in engineering work. He became interested in military matters and soon became affiliated with Co. K of the 5th Mass. Infantry, where he rose to a lieutenancy. Some years ago he removed to Marlboro to engage in engineering work and while there was made captain of Co. K of the 6th regiment.

His profession was that of a civil engineer and for eight years he was employed in the sewer department of the City of Boston, but resigned during the Mayor Hart's first administration.

Of late years he has lived at Dorchester. He leaves a wife and a brother and two sisters in Quincy.

Base Ball

NORFOLK 11, QUINCY A. A. 3.

The Norfolks defeated the Quincy A. A. at Garfield park on Saturday. The features were the playing of Moralis, Drayton, Kelley and Hall for the locals and J. Coughlin and Walker excelled for Quincy. C. Mullane struck out 11 men. The score was 11 to 3.

WEST QUINCY 10, OLYMPIA, 2.

The West Quincy nine won from the Olympias of South Boston on Saturday by a score of 10 to 2. This makes one game each that these teams have won, and the final game will be played Aug. 25. The feature of the game was the one-handed catch of Mullen, who caught the ball after a long run, and assisted in a double play. The West Quincys excelled in batting, and the fielding of both nines was excellent.

Mr. Goldsmith.

The funeral Delos E. Goldsmith was held Saturday morning from his summer home at Post Island. Rev. Benjamin R. Buckley of the Beverley Unitarian church conducted the services, after wihch the body was placed in the receiving tomb at Mt. Wollaston cemetery. The casket was covered with beautiful flowers among which was a standing wreath of lilies, roses, maidenhair fern and palm leaves from the reptororial staff of the Boston Herald and a standing column of white and red roses, lilies, maidenhair fern and palm leaves from the Herald Company.

Gentlemen:—Our family realize so much from the use of GRAIN-O that I feel I must say a word to induce others to use it. If people are interested in their health and the welfare of their children they will use no other beverage I have used them all, but GRAIN-O I have found superior to any, for the reason that it is solid grain.

Yours for health, C. F. MYERS.

Surprise Party.

A pleasant surprise was given last Saturday night to Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Erickson, Everett street, Norfolk Downs, in remembrance of their nineteenth wedding day.

Their friends came in different kinds of carriages, but all had a happy smile to greet the astonishedcouple with and the surprise was a perfect success.

As a token of love and esteem a fine hall rack was presented to them.

The program consisted of speeches, vocal solos, and piano selections.

Several of the ladies had charge of the refreshments, which were very acceptable.

As the evening was much enjoyed, Mr. Andrew Olson is worthy of special praise for his efforts, which the "fifty" very gladly extend.

A BRUSH WITH ANARCHISTS.

Chicago Police Were Finally Victorious, After Vigorously Using Their Clubs.

Chicago, Aug. 6.—An anarchist riot occurred Sunday afternoon at the corner of Twelfth and Halstead streets, in which 25 people were bruised in a struggle with 45 policemen, summoned to quell the disturbance. Five persons were arrested, among them being Mrs. Lucy Parsons, widow of Albert R. Parsons, who was executed Nov. 11, 1887, in Chicago for aiding and abetting the bomb throwing in the Haymarket riot. She was charged with disorderly conduct, obstructing the street and resisting an officer. Her bail was fixed at $1000.

A mass meeting had been called at West Side Turner hall, at which speeches were to be made by Mrs. Parsons and others on the topic: "The Execution of the King of Italy." The call concluded: "Workmen, come in crowds and show that the feeling of brotherhood is strong among you."

Mrs. Parsons was on her way to the hall, but finding it had been closed by the police she stepped into a doorway across the street. Soon a crowd formed, and a police officer, pushing the throng aside, caught a glimpse of Mrs. Parsons. Thinking she was making an anarchistic speech he endeavored to disperse the crowd. His efforts were in vain and the officer sent in a call for reinforcements. Additional officers arrived and immediately a general fight was precipitated. Fists and clubs were used, and the officers, finding themselves being worsted, sent in a riot call. The number of police was increased to 45, and they rushed into the throng. Mrs. Parsons was seized. It is claimed she resisted arrest and her associates fought for her. Bricks were thrown, clubs were wielded and a fierce struggle ensued before the crowd was finally dispersed.

Clement Puetzer, one of those arrested, was badly cut in the hand. A number of children in the crowd were knocked down in the melee and trampled upon, but none were injured seriously. In all 25 persons were badly beaten and bruised.

After the affray numerous small cards were found on the street and in the vicinity, containing two verses of poetry, urging the workingmen to be free, to throw off the yoke of bondage and fight for liberty and to lay down their lives if necessary to overthrow the government and attain freedom. The card bore the heading: "Workingmen, emancipate yourselves."

Tornado Sweeps a Large District.

Grand Forks, N. D., Aug. 6.—A tornado, accompanied by a terrific hail and rain storm, started near Thompson, N. D., and swept to the northwest through a rich farming country and many thriving settlements across into Minnesota. A strip of country varying from 8 to 10 miles in width and 100 in length was torn by the furious winds. No persons were killed outright, although many probably received fatal injuries. The financial loss is very heavy.

From a Boer Source.

London, Aug. 6.—The Lourenzo Marques correspondent of The Daily Express, wiring Saturday, says: Transvaal advices declare that General Baden-Powell was wounded during a recent engagement at Rustenburg, when the Boers, according to their account, took some prisoners and captured 324 wagons.

Murdered His Father.

Pineville, Ky., Aug. 6.—Daniel Howard was killed by his son, George Howard. Daniel had been to town and secured a jug of whisky. He became intoxicated and had words with George, whom, it is said, he threatened to shoot. The son secured a Winchester and fired, killing his father instantly.

Boston Child of Eight Years Lured Into Woods and Brutally Assaulted.

Covered With Leaves and Brush and Left For Dead.

Teamster In the Employ of the Victim's Father Charged With Committing Crime.

Boston, Aug. 6.—In making an arrest of Hugh Maguire, a teamster, aged 45, last night, the police charge that he assaulted the 8-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dennie Sullivan, and further, moreover, tried to murder her. The alleged crime caused no little excitement in Dorchester district. Many of the neighbors of the Sullivans would have done bodily harm to Maguire had he been within their reach, so wrought up were they on learning of the affair.

The little one was lured away from her home into the woods. Her assailant attempted criminal assault, and failing, he then either beat or kicked her until he supposed she was dead. Then, covering the body with leaves and brush, he left her.

West Selden street is comparatively new, and has not yet been graded. There are but few houses upon it, and in the vicinity in which the Sullivan family lives there are thick woods on one side. This enabled the perpetrator of the outrage to easily lure his victim away without attracting attention.

McGuire has been employed by Sullivan for about a month, and was boarded at his home.

Sunday morning the family went to church leaving little Lizzie and an older sister at home. McGuire was about, and, it is said, tried to get the older girl to go out with him "after berries." She declined, but in some way, it is said, he got Lizzie to go with him. They were seen together as they went into the woods.

At noon McGuire presented himself at the house and ate his dinner. It was not much more than an hour before that he had gone away. He was asked where Lizzie was, the parents understanding that he was with her, but he stated that he had not seen her. The parents did not persist in questioning him, and he again went away. He was not seen again until arrested.

The child not putting in an appearance the parents became alarmed and the aid of the police was asked. It was not until after 6 o'clock that the brother and sister of the child and Patrolman Williams came upon her almost at the same time. She rose up out of the bushes, where she had been left, having but just recovered consciousness.

Covered with blood, dazed and racked by pain, the little one was scarcely recognized. In addition to the other marks of violence upon her, she had an ugly-looking cut over one eye and a bruised and cut place on the side of her head.

Tenderly she was taken home and a doctor was speedily in attendance.

From the time the little one lay in a semi-comatose condition, now and then rousing in a fever of delirium, broken by occasional moments of seeming consciousness.

The physician was at her side for about two hours at the time of his first call, and during this time she was able to repeat that "Hughey did it."

Dr. Johnson found not only the marks of assault, but body bruises and evidences of serious internal injuries, in addition to a probable fracture of the skull. Failing to accomplish his purpose, the man who attacked the child had evidently taken a stone or club or used his boot heel and thought he had ended Lizzie's life. It was the opinion of the surgeon that the little one's recovery was doubtful.

McGuire was arrested between 8 and 9 o'clock at Egleston square. He was locked up on a charge of assault with intent to kill. When questioned at the station McGuire denied that he had been with the child at all.

Lizzie is a rather frail, delicate child, and it is feared that the shock to her system, aside from the injuries inflicted upon her, will prevent her recovery.

City Employe Goes Wrong.

New York, Aug. 6.—John Clark, 60 years old, a deputy collector in the bureau of collection of rents in city markets, who was arrested in Chicago, was held in $5000 bail for further examination on the technical charge of the larceny of $174. An investigation of Clark's accounts showed, it is alleged, that the accused embezzled over $10,000 of the city's money.

Suffering From Over Work.

Boston, Aug. 6.—A special to The Journal from Sunapee, N. H., says that Secretary of State Hay is ill, though not seriously. He contracted a cold on the way from Washington. A physician found Mr. Hay suffering from nervous exhaustion, due to his arduous labors at Washington, but enforced quiet will tone up his system in a short time.

Nelson Wins Another Race.

Boston, Aug. 6.—The last day of the Elks' carnival was devoted chiefly to cycle racing, the 15-mile motor paced race, professional, with Nelson, McEachern, Starbuck and Stinson as participants, being the star event. This fell an easy prey to Nelson, in 28:10 3-5.

Miners Profit by Arbitration.

Kansas City, Aug. 6.—Union coal miners in Missouri outside the mines controlled by the "Big Four" companies will, beginning Sept. 1, receive an advance in wages of 10 percent. Several thousand men will be effected. This has been gained by arbitration.

Strike of Paris Cab Drivers.

Paris, Aug. 6.—Four thousand cab drivers have gone on strike, demanding a lower rate for renting vehicles. There have been no disturbances, but the republican guards protect the stables.

DEBS' LETTER OF ACCEPTANCE.

Appeals to Americans Who Believe In International Class-Conscious Socialism.

Springfield, Mass., Aug. 6.—William Butscher, national secretary of the Social Democratic party, has received the following letter from Eugene V. Debs, presidential nominee of the party, under date of July 31:

EUGENE V. DEBS.

"Having responded to the call of my comdares in accepting the nomination their confidence and partiality bestowed upon me, I am deeply sensible to the responsibilities which rest upon me as a Socialist candidate for the office of President of the United States. Fully imbued with the philosophy of socialism, I seek no personal preferment, and I claim consideration only as a representative of the principles of international class-conscious socialism. In that capacity, and that alone, I appeal to the working class and my countrymen for their support. The confidence implied by the unanimous action of my comrades moves me to regret my limitations and to wish myself a worthier representative of the principles so sacred to them because fraught with such grave import to the countless victims struggling in grasp of economic bondage.

"But all the strength and ability I have are at their service. Long since I consecrated myself to the cause, and all I have laid with joy on the altar of socialism. As we look abroad we behold the steady and stately march of transformation. Capitalism, which has written its record in the tears and blood of the human race, is staggering to its doom, while socialism, herald of light and freedom, quickened by the spirit of the new revolution, is sweeping over the world.

"Here in the United States of America we are on the eve of our first great battle. Let us gird on our armor and press forward to meet the enemies of freedom, the oppressors of the people, the exploiters of the working class and the foes of all humanity. Let us dismiss all minor considerations and unite in every state and territory, from end to end of the land, in one mighty effort to hasten the end of capitalism, and the inauguration of the co-operative commonwealth."

Dropped From an Elevator.

Lawrence, Mass., Aug. 6.—Captain George A. Devlin, military editor of the Boston Post, in company with Captain Edward F. O'Sullivan, was passing through an alley which is beside a livery stable. A large carriage elevator belonging to the stable abuts on the alley, and this elevator was ascending. Captain Devlin, in a spirit of fun, apparently, took hold of the edge of the elevator platform and was carried up some distance in the air. Then he dropped to the ground, his head crashing on the concrete space. Death was almost instantaneous.

Textile Workers to Amalgamate.

Boston, Aug. 6.—Thirty representatives of the various independent unions of textile workers of the United States met here Sunday for the purpose of forming a united organization, which will embrace all the unions of industry. These unions have a total membership of 80,000. It was unanimously voted to name the proposed organization the "American Federation of Textile Operatives." A committee of three was appointed to draw up bylaws to be submitted at the next convention, which will be called later.

Confidence In Nation's Defenders.

Monza, Aug. 6.—King Victor Emmanuel III has issued an order to the land and sea forces, in which he says: "My thoughts go out to all of you with confidence in this sad moment. I am certain that you will show me the same affection which you have shown my father, an affection which, following the paternal example, I return to all my soldiers with all my heart."

Boy Enters Into a Career of Crime.

Boston, Aug. 6.—In the arrest of Albert White, 14 years old, while attempting to break into a store at the North end, the police found evidences of another break by articles in the boy's pockets. Then it was learned that an East Boston store was entered. The boy confessed.

Sultan Gets Another Reminder.

Constantinople, Aug. 6.—Lloyd Griscom, United States charge of affairs, Monday renewed his demands upon the Ottoman government for compensation for the losses of American citizens during the Armenian massacres. He insisted upon a prompt decision.

Washington, Aug. 7.—The following cablegrams have been received at the navy department:

Chefoo, Aug. 6.—Bureau navigation, Washington—British Fame reports, unofficial, engagement at Peitsang, Sunday morning, three to ten-thirty. Allied loss killed and wounded 1200, chiefly Russians and Japanese. Chinese retreating. Tausig.

Chefoo, Aug. 6.—Bureau navigation, Washington—Unofficial report believed reliable. About 16,000 allies heavily engaged Chinese at Peitsang daylight of the 5th. Remey.

The announcement received through Admiral Remey and Commander Tausig of reported heavy fighting on the road beyond Tientsin was the news of interest in the Chinese situation Monday. Little doubt was expressed at the navy department that the news was substantially correct.

It is probable that a later report may reduce the list of casualties among the international forces, but it is evident that the move on Pekin is at last fairly under way, and that strong opposition has been encountered. The war department officials, who have been exceedingly reticent for several days as to news from the seat of war, admitted when the naval dispatches were received that the announcement of trouble was not unexpected.

Opinion among the various officials now in Washington is somewhat divided as to just what is presaged by Monday's events. The more optimistic are inclined to think that such a severe blow as the Chinese must have received at Pei Tsang will result in the speedy disintegration of the forces now opposing the international column. In line with this prediction it was prophecied that the Chinese government would find means to send the ministers from Pekin under escort and thus stave off the advance upon the capital.

On the other hand there are a number of officers in a position to judge equally well who held that the fight at Pei Tsang was only the beginning of a strenuous resistance that would be continued to the gates of Pekin or beyond. It was urged in support of this view that the Chinese had a hundred men to lose against one of the allies; that they were well armed with modern guns and had apparently an abundance of ammunition.

It is stated that considerable apprehension exists among those conversant with Oriental affairs at the reappearance in Pekin politics of that rabid anti-foreign fanatic, Li Ping Hung. It is understood that his appearance in Pekin affairs may have had something to do with the Shanghai rumors of Li Hung Chang's suicide. It is certain that with Li Ping Hung and Prince Tuan in control of the de facto government in China a religious war of dervish like fanaticism probably will be waged against all foreigners, and friends of the more liberal Chinese statesmen are exceedingly anxious as to their fate under the Tuan-Li regime.

The war department is in receipt of a dispatch from General MacArthur announcing that he has shipped additional artillery supplies to Taku for use in the Chinese campaign. These supplies include several gatling guns, and the remainder of the rifle and Howitzer siege train at Manila which up to date had remained useless in that country on account of the bad roads. How much better General Chaffee may be able to handle these monster guns through the almost impassable rice swamps of China no one at the war department was willing to guess, but his recent dispatch contained an urgent appeal for more artillery, and he is getting it. The ordnance experts at the war department say that if it comes to a bombardment of Pekin these five-inch rifles and seven-inch Howitzers, with their enormous bursting charges of high explosives, will be the most effective battering weapon in the international column.

Minister Wu left Washington on Saturday for Cape May and remained away from Washington Monday, although he had been expected to return on Sunday night. The Chinese legation wore an air of desolation and desertion throughout the day, and all interrogations of the Chinese charge were met with the response that there was no news nor expectation of any.

After Recruits From the Inland.

New York, Aug. 7.—Under orders from Washington the steam tug Fortune left the navy yard Monday for Albany, fully equipped and provisioned for a two weeks' stay. Advertisements have been inserted in the upstate papers for men for the navy and the Fortune will bring back the recruits. The Fortune will then go to New Haven, where the same effort will be repeated.

IN GREAT NEED OF RAIN.

Crops, Wells and Streams in New England Are Suffering From Drought.

Boston, Aug. 7.—Following is a statement of the weather and crop conditions of New England, compiled from the reports of correspondents throughout the section, for the week ending Aug. 6:

Crop conditions are not so favorable as they were a week ago. The absence of precipitation has been extremely detrimental in portions of Maine, Massachusetts and Connecticut. In a few instances the severity of the drought is almost unprecedented; wells and streams are becoming quite low, pastures are turning brown, and crops are irreparably injured. One correspondent states that spraying has become useless; others state that nothing but an excessively heavy rain will revive the crops. These reports, though coming from almost every state in New England, represent only limited areas. In general, however, the crops, though not injured excessively by the dry weather, are now needing rain.

Haying has been protracted in Maine and Vermont, owing to the showers of the two preceding weeks. On late mown fields there is yet no second growth. Pastures are everywhere poor, and in some instances furnish no feed. Dairying interests are suffering greatly Corn is withstanding the unfavorable conditions better than any other crop. Grasshoppers are doing much damage in Maine. Fall plowing is impossible until rain falls.

The fruit crop has been greatly modified this season by local conditions. From the same localities correspondents do not agree as to the outlook. Winter apples continue to fall, and this crop does not now promise more than an average yield. There has been a full yield of raspberries and blackberries in southern New England, and both crops are reported to be in abundance in northern New England.

One report from Connecticut estimates the early potato crop below the average. In a few instances rust has injured the crop, and in many cases potato beetles have wrought damage. The pea louse completely destroyed some pea beds. Rhode Island has a large crop of tomatoes. Onions are suffering from both blee and dry weather. One report from Vermont states that the gardens are in excellent condition.

Some tobacco in Connecticut is now matured, but none has been cut. In Massachusetts the plant is said to be short, but heavy, and is maturing rapidly. This crop is exceptionally good.

Co cerning Anarchists In America.

London, Aug. 7.—Discussing editorially the methods of stamping out anarchy, The Daily Mail says this morning: Such a headquarters for outrage as exists at Paterson, N. J., ought to be closely watched by the European secret police, and full powers of extradition should be granted everywhere. It is impossible to note without regret that the United States have found themselves unable to surrender certain men charged by the Italian police with complicity in Bresci's deed.

Hoyt Relieved of Business Cares.

Charlestown, N. H., Aug. 7.—J. O. Lyford was on Monday appointed guardian of Mr. Hoyt, and when Mr. Lyford, accompanied by George H. Dickinson of Atlanta, returned here they were cordially greeted by Mr. Hoyt. Mr. Dickinson left for Atlanta during the afternoon. Mr. Hoyt is already showing improvement in health and a marked change for the better is expected, now that all business cares have been shifted to other shoulders.

A Terrible Leap to Death.

Boston, Aug. 7.—Jacob Harris, a Hebrew, aged 45, killed himself Monday by jumping from a seventh-story window of the Winthrop building. His body was terribly mangled. Harris' suicide was prompted by his pecuniary straits. Harris had been well-to-do, but became interested in stock speculation and lost thousands of dollars in that way. His mother and sisters are well-to-do and live in the Back Bay.

Aunt "Talked About Him."

Brandenburg, Ky., Aug. 7.—The horribly mutilated body of Mrs. Annie Brunton, a widow, 55 years old, was found on the Cedar road Monday. Blood on the fingers of her nephew, Jesse Durham, caused his arrest, and he later confessed the murder. He recently left an insane asylum. He declares that Mrs. Brunton has been talking about him.

Hawaiians Are Prospering.

Washington, Aug. 7.—W. S. Chance, chief of the special agents division of the treasury department, has returned from a three months' trip to Hawaii, where he inaugurated the new customs regulations of the island. He states that the customs receipts at Honolulu are increasing, and that the affairs of the Islands are in a prosperous condition.

His Leg Torn Off.

St. Peters, C. B., Aug. 7.—While the schooner Henry G. Ives was passing through the canal here Captain Thomas Patten had his left leg torn off in attempting to fend off the vessel. He is in a precarious condition.

Five Men Killed In a Smashup.

Pine Bluff, Ark., Aug. 7.—In a collision between a passenger and a freight train at Aurich, five men were killed and two seriously injured.

HIS WORD IS DOUBTED.

Li Hung Chang Reports That Ministers Have Departed From Pekin.

May Be Held as Hostages to Stop March to Capital.

Now Considered Certain That the Advance Will Be No Walkover.

London, Aug. 7.—A Shanghai special, dated Aug. 6, says: Li Hung Chang has officially informed the consuls that the ministers left Pekin for Tientsin last Friday, Aug. 3, with General Yung Lu in command of the escort. The consuls are by no means disposed to credit Earl Li's statement.

All other reports that have reached London up to this hour indicate that the ministers have not left Pekin.

In a cablegram which was read in the house of commons yesterday the consul at Tientsin says: News from the Japanese legation has been received up to Aug. 1. Therefore the edicts announcing the safety of the ministers on that date are confirmed.

Yesterday the Chinese minister, Chih Chen Lo Feng Lu, communicated to Lord Salisbury a message from the tsung li yamen, dated July 30, reiterating the statement that the ministers were safe on that day, and recounting the friendly relations existing between them and the yamen, as well as reporting the sending of supplies to the legations by the yamen. The message contains this important statement: "A successful termination of the conference with the ministers for their conveyance under escort to Tientsin is expected, but on account of the recommencement of hostilities at Tientsin code telegrams for transmission to the representatives are considered undesirable."

This appears to confirm the statement that the Chinese government will endeavor to stop the march to Pekin by using the ministers as hostages.

The Lokal Anzeiger of Berlin, publishing an interview with Li Hung Chang, quotes him as declaring that China must not, in any circumstances, cede any more territory to any power. In reply to a question why the rebellion was not put down, Earl Li is represented as having said: "I blame Prince Tuan, the empress dowager and the whole government. But for their lack of energy the situation would never have become so serious."

The St. Petersburg correspondent of The Daily Mail says: Active negotiations are proceeding between Russia and the United States, the probable outcome of which will be a resolution to uphold the integrity of China unconditionally.

A Shanghai correspondent of the same paper says that the Americans there are urging the appointment of General MacArthur as commander-in-chief of the allied forces.

The Standard's Shanghai representative, wiring Sunday, says: It is clear that the march to the relief of Pekin will be anything but a walkover. Japanese scouts have discovered a large force of Chinese to the southwest of Tientsin and another large force in the vicinity of Lu Tai, to the eastward.

It is learned now that the members of the tsung li yamen who were put to death for their alleged pro-foreign proclivities were not beheaded, but were put in twain, this being the severest penalty under the Manchu code. Sheng declares that the grand council at Pekin was ignorant of the orders for the execution.

"The advance of the allied forces commenced today," cables the British consul at Tientsin, under date of Aug. 4. This is the first official information received here that the attempt to relieve Pekin has begun. It is accepted as correct.

The British consul does not mention any fighting, but the Shanghai correspondent of The Daily Mail, telegraphing Sunday says: The Pekin relief column is reported to have suffered a check. The Chinese are said to have adopted Tugela tactics, and after several hours' fighting to have retreated.

This is the only message received in London this morning bearing out the reports of Admiral Remey and Commander Taussig regarding an engagement at Peitsang. The fact that the advance did not begin until Saturday is taken to strengthen the accounts of a battle Sunday, especially when it is said to have occurred so near Pekin as Peitsang.

A $600,000 Cargo of Hemp.

Boston, Aug. 7.—The British steamship Emir, Captain Godwin, arrived in port Monday from the Philippines with the largest cargo of hemp ever brought to a port in the United States. She had stowed away in her holds 23,212 bales of hemp, valued at $600,000. Captain Godwin was not vary favorably impressed with the conduct of the customs affairs under the United States army officers.

Baltimore Stevedores on Strike.

Baltimore, Aug. 7.—All the union stevedores in Baltimore, numbering about 2500, went on strike Monday because the steamship agents refused to agree to employ no more non-union men. A large number of non-union men are at work. There have been no attempts on the part of the strikers to interfere with them.

Red Coat Defeats the Minnesota.

Montreal, Aug. 7.—The Canadian yacht Red Coat won from the American Minnesota Monday in the international series for the Seawanhaka cup. The race was concluded within the four hours' time limit by 11 minutes and 22 seconds. The Minnesota finished two minutes and 58 seconds later.

Order For 2,000,000 Pounds of Meat.

Chicago, Aug. 7.—Chicago packers have been asked by the government to furnish 2,000,000 pounds of meat within 30 days for the American soldiers in the Orient. This is said to be the largest requisition ever issued by the United States government.

What Will Be Done With Michael?

Boston, Aug. 7.—As an outcome of the recent fiascos in which Jimmy Michael and his manager figured on race tracks, it is claimed that there is a strong possibility of a cycling revolt from the N. C. A. An attempt to punish riders who fail to keep their agreements is likely to precipitate the trouble. Accordingly, the interest is chiefly in what the N. C. A. will do with Michael.

Heat Causes Many Deaths.

Chicago, Aug. 7.—Nine persons dead and a score of prostrations is the result of the heat here Monday.

New Advertisements Today.

Auction Sale of Household Furniture and Grocery Stock.

Mortgagee's Sale of Real Estate.

Good Afternoon.

A newspaper has been started in Weymouth by Vining & Mathews, called the Weymouth Enterprise. There is probably no real demand for another newspaper on the South Shore, as there are now more than can earn a living.

We are enjoying a light rain today, which is much needed. There was a shower last night accompanied with some thunder and lightning, but not very severe. In New Hampshire and Vermont it was terrific; the lightning striking numerous buildings, and the tornado demolished buildings and uprooted trees.

In view of the strong and aggressive attitude this government has taken in demanding its treaty rights in China, it becomes important for everybody to know just what those rights are. First and foremost, of course, comes the obligation of the signatory powers to protect the person of each others ministers, diplomatic and consular agents. This all the world now knows, notwithstanding many conflicting statements, the Chinese government failed to do, and there is grave doubts as to whether it even made the attempt to do until after it imagined it heard the tramp of the allied army on its way to Pekin. Next in importance is that section of the treaty dealing with citizens of either country residing in the other. That promised the broadest protection, in the exact words of the treaty, promising to "assure to citizens of the U. S. in China, and to Chinese in the U.S. entire liberty of conscience and exemption from disability or persecution on account of their religious faith or worship in either country."

The time is not far distant when the building of the new City Hall will have to be formally discussed, both by the Council and the general public. The charter requires that before the City Hall can be built it must first receive the sanction of the voters at our annual municipal election.

It is conceded upon all sides that our City Hall is discreditable to the city. In our opinion the Committee on Public Buildings wisely decided that it was inexpedient to attempt to remodel the present structure. If this had been attempted, at say an expense of $30,000, after the work was completed we would still have an old building wholly inadequate for our needs a few years hence.

It would seem as though the new City Hall should be not less than fifty per cent. too large for our present needs, to allow for the growth of the city; that it should be built of granite; that it should be placed in a sightly location near the Thomas Crane Public library; and that, from an artistic point of view it should be above criticism and in keeping with the library.

A building and land to meet these requirements would cost about $125,000, —say $100,000, for the building and $25,000 or thereabouts for the site.

The present City Hall is in such a filthy condition that action seems almost imperative to the coming municipal election.

Drift of Opinion.

☞"The world wags on." A monarch is stricken, and scarcely have the lamentations of his subjects who loved him ecohed through the land than resounding cheers for the new king break in upon them. Such is life. —Fall River Globe.

☞In Switzerland they are working out a scheme by which every man and woman over 65 years of age, and of Swiss nationality, can have from the government the sum of two francs, about 40 cents a day. Orders for the amounts are to be sent four times a year, and those who do not wish to take advantage of them, being beyond the necessity, will be supposed to tear up the voucher. The sums saved by the abolishment of military expenses, and those gained from inheritance taxes, will furnish the capital for these old-age annuities. There is a large majority against change in the national insurance policy, and they have been defeated this year, but the advocates are persistent. What effect the certainty of a humble support in old age will have on the thrifty peasant is uncertain, and there is a division as to whether it will make him happier in the long run or take away the chief incentive to industry.—Newport News.

☞Such an overhauling should be made of the anarchistic nest in Paterson, N. J., as will make it difficult for these people to cast discredit on other American communities in a similar way.—Brockton Times.

☞All railroad conductors, brakemen and baggage men are now members of the state police and as such have considerable authority. It is hoped that they will make a few arrests on the late trains which sometimes are unpleasant to ride upon.

☞Gen. Roberts reports that many of the Boers in South Africa are longing for peace. It wouldn't be surprising if they were. And there are probably as many Englishmen in South Africa who are also longing for it as there are Boers.—Gardiner (Me.) Reporter-Journal.

☞In Buffalo, Monday night, George Fred Williams wanted his listeners to "stand arrayed, a solid phalanx, against the kings of transportation, of industry, and of finance, and join in the organized effort to defeat the industrial empire." He must have thought he was speaking to a horde of Weary Willies, for those are the hobo doctrines.—Old Colony Memorial.

☞The Natick Bulletin alluding to Mr. Parlin, the newly elected Superintendent of the Quincy schools, says: "His work in Natick has been satisfactory to all classes and the schools have been greatly improved since coming under his charge. He has made many friends in Natick who, while regretting his departure, will rejoice in his good fortune. Mr. Parlin, with his family, as absent in Vermont, but there can be little doubt but that he will accept the position tendered by Quincy.

☞The first step toward Boston harbor's improvement have now been taken, and from this time until far along in the fall a party of surveyors will be at work in the channel, getting facts and figures to present to the next Congress, to show how much work and how much money will be needed to give Boston a channel two thousand feet wide and thirty-five feet deep. So a good beginning has been made toward the realization of the hopes of all persons interested in Boston's commercial life. The next thing will be to push the bill through Congress.—Mass. Ploughman.

Carnival Notes.

The residents of Houghs Neck are making preparations for the midsummer carnival on Thursday and Friday.

The Quincy Yacht club having refused the use of its float the sailing parties will use Harvey's float.

A dozen or more valuable prizes have been contributed by the business firm at the beach for the Horrible parade.

The Working Boys' Home band will leave Neponset early Thursday morning in a special car. Follow them down in the next car and see the parade.

Every business man on the beach with two exceptions has contributed to the fund for the expense of the carnival. If it ever comes out who they are they will probably have to build an addition to their places of business.

Those who want tickets for the sailing parties should consult W. W. Wilcox, or B. C. Leonard, at the Hillside and Oregon cottages.

The Houghs Neck branch of the street railway with its free transfers will probably be taxed to its utmost to handle the crowds Thursday and Friday.

There is building at the shipyard of C. F. Cook a large Chinese junk which will be blown up sky high during Thursday evening. It is figured out that some parts of it will go one hundred feet or more in the air. It will be a sight worth seeing.

Want Him Back.

A petition is being circulated among the business firms at South Quincy asking the railroad to appoint George K. Carter as agent at the Quincy Adams station. Mr. Carter was agent at this station for some time and by his courteous treatment of the business men at that section won their good will. He was always pleasant and accommodating and it is hoped he may be sent back. Mr. Carter is at present night clerk in the Boston office of the road.

CUBAN TEACHERS.

Will Visit Quincy Wednesday—the Programme.

The visit of the Cuban teachers to Quincy announced for today has been postponed until Wednesday. From the arrangements made the visit will be a memorial one for these teachers who have been selected. The number to come must be limited to one hundred and twenty-five.

The special train will leave Boston at 1.38 and will run direct to West Quincy. The train will be met there by Mayor Hall and others from Quincy who will compose the party.

The train will be run over the Quincy Quarry railroad to where the work of quarrying, cutting and polishing of granite is done.

From West Quincy the train will run to Quincy where special cars of the street railway will be taken for a trip to the works of the Fore River Engine Co., where the two torpedo boat destroyers will be inspected.

It is possible that on the return from the Fore River Engine Works that the Adams birthplaces and First church will be visited. This of course depends on how much time the party has.

The party is expected to arrive at the Hotel Shelton, at Adams beach, at 6.30 and dinner will be served at 7 o'clock.

At the request of Mr. Frye, Mr. George I. Aldrich of Springfield, formerly superintendent of schools at Quincy, will address the Cuban teachers, through an interpreter in a ten-minute talk on the educational movement in Quincy. This talk will take the form of an after dinner speech.

Railroad Monopoly.

Editors Daily Ledger:

Is it possible that the street railway will not be compelled to pay any portion of the expense of widening Copeland street? Is it possible that in an intelligent community another march can be stolen on the taxpayer as was done in the Houghs Neck boulevard affair by the railway? Are the taxpayers of Quincy willing to construct a free roadbed for double tracks along Copeland street for the exclusive use of the railway as was done in the boulevard case? Should the overburdened tax-payers of Quincy thus be compelled to subsidize this wealthy out-of-town corporation, when so many needed municipal improvements are held back through want of funds? It is really "touching" for the railway to win the affections of the Council by trolley trips and tempting suppers. We all realize that the street railway vote is an important factor in local politics, but this knowledge could affect only those whose desire for continuance in office is greater than their desire to serve the public in a manly and faithful manner, so perhaps there is nothing serious to apprehend from this source. The fact is the railway should be made to realize that the privilege and concessions they obtain from the city is a monopoly of extraordinary value, for which they pay nothing, and for which in the future they must pay their just proportion of the municipal expenses.

Yours truly,

Citizen.

Schoolhouse Repairs.

More or less repairs are being made on all the school buildings.

At the Wollaston school the new system of heating and ventilation is being put in and will be ready when school opens.

At the Adams school a new office is being built.

At the Willard new furnaces are being put in, and the brick work is being pointed up, and some painting is being done on the inside.

These are all the special jobs that are being done to the school buildings, although more or less work in the way of painting, etc., is being done in all the buildings.

Boys Lost.

Officer Barry found two young boys wondering about City Square, Monday afternoon. Upon questioning them he learned that they lived at 36 Marshfield street, Roxbury, and that they left home in the morning and had been walking ever since. They gave their names as John and Edward J. Lawler, and their ages as 7 and 8 years. The boys were nearly famished with hunger. They were given something to eat and their parents notified.

Great Increase.

Revere's tax rate this year is $19.80 an increase of $2.40 over 1899. The increase is said to be due to the provision made for the assessment for park improvements.

Melrose tax rate for 1900 is $18 an increase of $1 over 1900. The valuation is real estate $11,980,675; personal $797,490; total, $12,778,365. An increase of $112,930 over 1899.

Fourth Handicap Race.

The Quincy Yacht club's fourth handicap race of the season was sailed over the small triangle on Saturday afternoon. Classes A and B participated. The wind was light from the east, finally dropping to a calm, when the last boat had barely crossed the line. The first leg was to the Sheep Island buoy, thence to Jacknife and home, around twice.

Eight boats started in class A. The Eclipse had the best of the start. On the first leg around the Harbor Light, with Capt. Joe Johnson at the wheel, led the fleet After starting on the second round the Harbor Light stood into the channel near Pig Rocks, where the tide runs strong. The other boats headed for Grape Island where the current was not so strong and left the Harbor Light. The C. C. soon took the lead and held it to the finish. The standing of this class is as follows: C. C., 300; Hustler, 280; Harbor Light, 140; Eclipse, 120; Beatrice, 100; Goblin, 80; Caucium, 60; Moondyne, 60; Yseule, 40; Medora, 20; Elaine, 20.

Class B there were four starters, but only two finished, the others withdrawing for lack of wind. The Whisper came in first. The standing in that class is as follows: Tautog, 300; Whisper, 240; Yum Yum, 40; Supero, 120.

Dear Sirs:—Some days since a package of your GRAIN-O preparation was left at my office. I took it home and gave it a trial, and I have to say I was very much pleased with it, as a substitute for coffee. We have always used the best Java and Mocha in our family, but I am free to say I like the GRAIN-O as well as the best coffee I ever drank.

Respectfully yours, A. C. JACKSON, M. D.

CITY BREVITIES.

A Local Budget with the News in a Nut Shel.

Miss Ruth Keegan has returned from a two weeks' vacation.

Plenty of thunder and lightning Monday night but no rain.

Miss Eliza Martin of Walnut street is visiting in East Boston for a few days.

Music Hall, Atlantic, has been greatly improved in looks by a coat of paint.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter P. Hill have returned from an extended visit in Maine.

Miss May Gavin, clerk in the water department at City Hall, is enjoying a brief vacation.

Misses Alice and Annie Foley of Willard street have gone to New Hampshire.

Rev. Frank Bristol and son of Uxbridge are visiting George Hill of Walker street.

It is expected that the corner stone of the new St. Mary's church will be laid about September first.

Constable Furnald killed a horse of Charles Herbert on Filbert street Monday as agent of the cruelty to animals society.

William C. Robidou freight agent at the West Quincy station, has accepted a position as travelling agent for the Granite Railway Co.

The West Quincy Epworth League holds a lawn party at the residence of Edward Trask on Willard street, Wednesday evening.

Miss Gertrude E. Hanson, clerk at the office of G. H. Field, is enjoying a two weeks' vacation, which she will pass at Cottage City.

J.P. Tiery of Quincy avenue passed away yesterday, after an illness of several years. A widow and seven children survive him.

The silver cups to be given for prizes at Houghs Neck Thursday and Friday are on exhibition in the show window of Hearn's drug store.

The existence of the old Atlantic station is limited to a short time. The progress of the new building is growing more apparent every day.

Mrs. Turner is visiting her friend, Miss Little, on Spear street, in the same house where she formerly lived for over a quarter of a century.

B. E. Gilson had his hand cut at New Downer Landing Park Monday night by the breaking of a tonic bottle which he was opening. Dr. Garey took four stitches in the wound.

Charles Croker has moved into one of the vacant houses at the corner of Walker and Squantum streets. The other house is also soon to be occupied.

Bishop James A. Healey of the Maine Diocese, who died Sunday at Cleveland, was to have delivered the sermon at the laying of the corner stone of the new St. Mary's church at West Quincy.

Eugene McCormick, bookkeeper, and Archie Rogers clerk, at the store of E. H. Doble & Co. are on their vacation. The former has gone to the White Mountains and the latter to New Hampshire.

—It is not surprising to learn the arrangements for the coming Brockton fair prove that the showing this year will eclipse all previous records. It has ever been the rule with the Agricultural society, and has been the thing that has placed the Brockton fair in the front rank of such great entertainment enterprises.—Times

Injured at Houghs Neck.

The 3-year old daughter of Aaron Downs was run over on Centre road, Houghs Neck, Monday afternoon, by a horse and carriage owned by B. F. Hunt. The horse was being unharnessed and the bridle had been taken off when the horse became frightened and ran. The Downs child was near by and was knocked down. It is not known that the wheels passed over her but she received a bad bruise in the back of the head. Dr. Garey who was summoned dressed the injuries. Examination showed no bones to be broken.

Boat Recovered.

Someone took a boat of Alexander Fryer from its moorings at Quincy Point last week. Officer Larkin was notified and Saturday he recovered the boat off the Weymouth shore where it had been anchored.

TODAY'S COURT.

Arthur McDonald, Frank McDonald, Henry Beard and Francis McNeil of Quincy were arraigned for assault on Kattie E. Hayes at Randolph. Case continued until Wednesday.

The continued case of Thomas Sullivan was called and he paid a fine of $5.

Albert Metzer and Adolph Gebhardt were fined $3 each for violation of the Sunday gam law.

VISIT TO SQUANTUM.

Interesting Cuban Teachers' Excursion to this Noted Place.

Maj. A. W. Lowe gives in the Lynn Item the following interesting account of the Cuban teachers' visit to Squantum:

The teachers on this excursion were the men who are school directors. Of about 40 names called out, 36 were present when we boarded the car at Harvard square, Monday, July 30. We left the square at 1.30 P. M. and went by special car to City Point, and from there to Squantum by a small steamer. On the way down from City Point the teachers were requested to make sketches of the coast line of Thompson's island and show the slope of the land. They were also told to note the inclination of a grove of pine trees located near the water. This inclination of trees is caused by the creeping of the earth. As the bases, or roots, incline, the top straightens. From the boat there did not appear to be a tree not affected by this creeping of the earth.

Upon arrival at Squantum a few minutes were spent, while on the boat, in explanation of the shore line. The party then landed and remained for about an hour and a half, using the time in the study of the sea cliffs. The explanation was on the stratification of the rock, its cause, and the action of the sea upon the same. On the south side of the point there is a deposit of the rock that is slaty in appearance. At this place the teachers were instructed to make sketches showing the inclination of the strata and their sections. In some instances the teachers made very good sketches. These were not intended to be pictorial. After the explanation, the lecturer, Prof. M. S. W. Jefferson, asked the teachers what they had learned from his explanation. The answers came from the older members of the party. The discussion was interesting and the answers indicated close observation on the part of the one answering.

The teachers saw the Myles Standish monument erected to the Indian chief Squantum. Here, as in other places, the teachers copied the inscription on the monument, and not being satisfied with that they questioned Prof. Jefferson about the reason of the monument being erected. The questions were answered briefly and to the point, and notes were made of the general appearance of the monument, and the explanation given of its history.

Women and Chinese Voters.

Native-born Chinamen can now vote, and three thousand of them availed themselves of this right in 1896 to cast their ballots against the suffrage being given to the women of California. Think of Mrs. Leland Stanford and Mrs. Phoebe Hearst, the wives of United States Senators, and the two citizens of California who have done most for the educational interests of the State, giving their millions to help the young to help themselves, from the kindergartens of San Francisco to the great universities; think of the wife of the United States minister plenipotentiary to the cost of Berlin, and of the wife of the United States minister to Japan, with all the other hundreds of thousands of noble women in the State who asked to vote—think of the question of the political freedom and equality of these women being brought to the tribunal of the ballot-box, and of Sam Lee and Wog Ho in their pigtails gravely deciding that women didn't know enough to vote. Now the only disfranchised class in this so-called Republic are the women. To this complexion has it come at last! The negros and the Chinamen have in their turn been enfranchised, women alone are left, the millstone around the neck of the enfrachised labor of all races. Susan B. Anthony.

Big Fire In Yellowstone Park.

Helena, Aug. 7.—A forest fire is sweeping the magnificent timber belt between the Upper Geyser basin and the lake in the Yellowstone National park. The line of fire is about 10 miles long, and spreading rapidly. Many hotel buildings are threatened with destruction.

Disturber Got Bullet In His Leg.

Fall River, Mass., Aug. 7.—Joseph Rock is charged with assault and battery upon Engineer William Ford of the steamer King Philip. It is alleged that Rock was the ringleader of a crowd of toughs who were on the steamer Sunday night who made things so unpleasant for the engineer that he shot in self-defense, wounding Rock in the leg. Rock is confined in the central police station.

Rainbow Came In First.

New York, Aug. 7.—The 70-foot sloop Rainbow, owned by Cornelius Vanderbilt, won the commodore's cup for sloops of that class in the New York Yacht club's race, sailing over a 21-mile course on Long Island sound. She defeated Augustus Belmont's Mineola by 3m. 39s. and Harry Whitney's Yankee by 6m. 7s. The Quisetta won the commodore's cup for schooners.

WAS IT A BURGLAR?

Two West Quincy Women Badly Frightened.

The residents of Crescent street were aroused from their peaceful slumbers about 11 o'clock Monday night by cries of murder. The voices were women and they screamed as only women know how. A crowd, including Chief Ripley, soon gathered and the cries were found to come from the Misses Callahan, who reside near the St. Mary's church.

From them it was learned that they heard a noise in the basement of the house and taking a lamp they proceeded to investigate. In order to reach the basement it is necessary to raise a trap door which covers the stairway. They opened this trap door and there stood a man. Letting out an unearthly scream they threw the lamp at his head, slammed the trap door and rushed into the street crying murder.

The crowd that gathered made a thorough investigation but could find no trace of any man. The outer door leading to the cellar was unlocked and it is possible that the party may have entered and departed from the house by this entrance.

It is thought that the man may have been a drunk and that he got into this house by mistake. It was a wonder that the lighted lamp thrown had not set fire to the house.

Weymouth Landing Signs.

A writer in the Gazette kicks because the Quincy avenue line of electrics puts Weymouth Landing on its signs. He don't seem to like the later part and writes: Now that the consolidation of street railways is an assured fact, it may be well to ask if there is any reason why it is necessary for the convenience of their patrons that Weymouth should be designated as Weymouth Landing upon street cars and in time tables? It is not the name of the locality; the post office and railroad station both have the simple title Weymouth. Passengers, freight and letters arrive and have always arrived safely with the legal address of station and post office, Weymouth. Years ago Ward 3 had the name of Weymouth Landing given her by the other villages in the town on account of wharf privileges, presumably, but it has never found serious acceptance any more than "Quincy Center" which we sometimes say but never expect to see upon the signs at Quincy station or at the post office or on street cars.

152,773 Posts Per Day.

The average daily circulation of the Boston Post during the month of July, 1900, was precisely 152,773 copies.

The publishers claim that never before in the history of New England newspapers has any morning or evening newspaper in New England ever passed or approached the daily average of 150,000 copies.

That no evening newspaper in New England sells within 50,000 copies per day of the Post's daily average.

That no two other morning newspapers in New England combined sell as many copies as the Post sold in July and is selling today.

And, as to local sales, all the other Boston morning papers combined do not equal one-half the Post's circulation in Boston and vicinity.

The Post's present position in the New England newspaper field is absolutely unparalled in the history of New England journalism, and still the cry is "EXCELSIOR."

☞The book publishers' combination expects to prevent the sale of books at cut rates by department stores. If they succeed in doing it, perhaps they will be willing to tell the druggists how it is done. Attempts to prevent the selling of patent medicines below stipulated prices have been numerous but never effective.—Dedham Transcript.

Successful Bidders for New Cruisers Will be Known.

The Secretary of the Navy issued Wednesday to shipbuilders a circular calling for bids for the construction of six armoured cruisers, three authorized by the Act of March 3, 1899, and three by the Act of June 7, 1900. Those authorized by the former Act are to be sheathed and coppered. By the terms of the circular issued today, two classes of bids are called for regarding the first three, one for sheathing and coppering and the other without it, the department reserving the right to adopt either form of construction. The specifications for the latter three vessels call for unsheathed vessels. The bids are to be opened Dec. 7.

The plans will be ready for distribution to the bidders Nov. 8. No bids will be considered which propose to furnish vessels of less than 13,400 tons trial displacement for unsheathed vessels and of less than 13,800 tons trial displacement for sheathed or of less than 22 knots speed and a bunker capacity of 2,000 tons. The maximum time allowed for completion is thirty-six months for each vessel, with penalties of $300 per day for each day in excess of that time for the first month and $600 for each subsequent day. For deficiency of speed not below 20 knots, the vessels will be accepted at a reduced compensation of $50,000 for each quarter knot to 21 1-2 knots and $100,000 per quarter knot down to 20 knot.

The vessels will have twin screws and will be fitted throughout with the most modern machinery. The main batteries will consist of four eight-inch breech-loading rifles of 45 calibre length and fourteen six-inch breech-loading rapid-fire rifles of 50 calibre length. The secondary batteries will consist of eighteen three-inch breech-loading rifles, twelve three-pounder guns, four one-pounder automatic guns, four one-pounder single shot guns, two three-inch field guns, two machine guns, six automatic guns, and two submerged torpedo tubes.

The limit of cost of each of the three ships authorized by the Act of 1899 is $4,000,000 and of each of those authorized by this year's naval bill $4,200,000 a total of about $24,750,000 for cruisers.

Madame Yale's
HAIR TONIC
Ladies and Gentlemen.—It has gone on record that Madame Yale's Excelsior Hair Tonic is the first and only remedy known to chemical science found to be a genuine hair specific. It has an affinity for the human hair for nourishing and invigorating its entire structure. It is antiseptic in character, as well as stimulating; its action upon the scalp and hair is truly wonderful, inasmuch as it has never been known in a single instance to fail to cure scalp diseases and to create a luxuriant growth of healthy, beautiful hair. It stops hair falling within twenty-four hours and brings back the natural color to gray hair in nearly every instance. It is not a dye; it is not sticky or greasy; on the contrary it makes the hair soft, youthful, beautiful and glossy; keeps it in curl. It is a perfect hair dressing, and can be used by ladies, gentlemen or children as a daily toilet requisite. Its influence is delightfully soothing.

CONCERT AND WARSHIP DISPLAY.

Thousands of Visitors Are Flocking Into Portland to Celebrate Old Home Week.

Portland, Me., Aug. 7.—Old home week was auspiciously opened in Portland last night by a concert at the city hall by Maine artists, many of them now residents of other states. Only local residents, accompanied by friends from abroad, were admitted, and the hall was crowded.

The searchlight drill by the warships attracted thousands of spectators.

Three carloads of former Maine people arrived from Minneapolis yesterday, and one car from Seattle, Wash. A special train will bring 1000 from Massachusetts today, including Secretary Long.

This evening there will be a parade of men from the warships, the First regiment of Maine militia and visiting firemen. In the afternoon occurs the firemen's muster and a public meeting at city hall, to be addressed by distinguished sons of Maine.

Tried on Government's Coins.

London, Aug. 7.—One of the stormiest scenes of the present session of the commons occurred last evening when Mr. Burdett-Coutts demanded greater powers for the hospital commission to investigate the management of the military hospitals in South Africa. He declared that the truth would not be learned under the present plan of investigation, as the soldiers would be afraid to testify. Mr. Balfour accused Burdett-Coutts of "maligning the character of the British army," and sneered at what he called "the honorable member's evident nervousness as to the result of the inquiry." He poured out a veritable lava tide of scorn and attack.

Brooke's Order Revoked.

Havana, Aug. 7.—The new ecclesiastical marriage law, revoking the decree issued in May of last year by General Brooke, will go into effect next Monday. The Brooke edict prohibited ecclesiastical marriages, recognizing only the civil ceremony. Governor General Wood directs that the ecclesiastical ceremony be recognized as on a basis of legality like that upon which it rests in the United States. From Monday next, therefore, parties wishing to marry may go through the ecclesiastical or civil ceremony, or both, at their option. This decision restores to the church the privileges it enjoyed prior to the American occupation.

Testimony Didn't Excite Interest.

Georgetown, Ky., Aug. 7.—New testimony was brought out at the beginning of the fifth week in the Powers' trial. E. R. Bullock swore that he was in the adjutant general's office when the fatal shots were fired. He stepped out and saw a man in a stooping position behind the public fountain nearby. Bullock could not tell what became of the man. Bullock declared that he saw Jack Chinn walk rapidly into the state house as he stepped from the adjutant general's office. Apparently, Bullock's statements did not excite much interest.

Became a Bigamist For Spite.

Boston, Aug. 7.—James T. McGarry, aged 25, is held for the grand jury on a charge of bigamy. He married Annie Travers at Lynn, Aug. 20, 1895, and wedded Catherine E. Browne at Boston on July 1 of this year. The first Mrs. McGarry made trouble for her spouse, and this led up to his arrest. McGarry says that he married a second time to spite his first wife.

Launch Destroyed by Fire.

Stonington, Conn., Aug. 7.—The naphtha launch Gladys, owned by C. L. Alvord of New York, was destroyed by fire in the harbor here Monday evening. There was no one on board when the fire started, and the cause is not known. The loss is about $11,000.

Alleged Assailant Identified.

Boston, Aug. 7.—Lizzie Sullivan, the 8-year-old girl who was so brutally assaulted Sunday, is resting easily at her home. Her alleged assailant, Hugh Mcguire, was taken before the child at her home yesterday morning and fully identified by her.

"RISE IN HIS MIGHT."

Boston Colored Preacher's Prediction as to What the Negro May Do.

He Declares That Slaughter Will Be the Watchword.

Communication With South Will Be Broken and No White Man Will Be Spared.

Boston, Aug. 7.—"One of these mornings you will wake up to learn that telegraphic communication with the south has been broken; that wires are down; that railroads have been torn up; that the south has ceased to be a part of the rest of the world, so far as knowledge of what is going on there is concerned.

"Such news as does come, little by little, will tell of terrible conditions. Blood will flow everywhere; slaughter will be the watchword. Each message will tell of horrors greater than related in those preceding it.

"The negro will have risen in his might. No white man will be spared."

Thus did Rev. B. W. Farris, president of the Lillian Clayton Jewett Anti-Lynching league, prophesy last evening a great uprising of the negroes of the south. This statement was made by President Farris to a reporter immediately prior to a meeting of the league held in St. Paul's Baptist church.

Continuing, President Farris said: "Mind you, I do not say that we advocate these things. We are preaching peace and patience. But the negro is becoming tired of those doctrines. We have advocated adjusting these evils by peaceable and conservative means, and still advocate them. But the negro is beginning to believe that the desired results can never be obtained in that way.

"We try to discourage this sentiment by telling them that they are not strong enough; that the struggle would soon become an unequal one, and that they would lose.

"But they are becoming blind to good counsel. Their sufferings are goading them on to stronger measures. All this, I say, is inevitable if the treatment of the negroes of the south continues along the lines it has started on."

When asked to set a time when, in his judgment, his prophesy would be realized, President Farris said: "That I would not dare do. It cannot be at a very distant day, however."

The league convened behind closed doors last evening. President Farris consented to outline the work which the meeting would undertake. The chief thing, he stated, would be the drafting of resolutions which should show the sentiment of the league on the negro problem as a whole. These resolutions, Mr. Farris asserted, would not be confined to the lynching issue, but would deal with other phases of the negro question, especially that of the disfranchisement of the black man in several of the southern states.

Miss Jewett will leave the city in a few days. She will go upon a mission undertaken in behalf of the Anti-Lynching league. Her destination and errand are known by the officers of the league, but they refuse, with one exception, to talk upon the subject.

This exception is President Farris, and he declines to say more than that Miss Jewett's mission is one of considerable importance; of so great importance, indeed, that it has been decided by the league that nothing is to be said about it to the public until she returns.

Barrett Talks to Vermonters.

Bellows Falls, Vt., Aug. 7.—The Republican rally and flag-raising here Monday had for speakers L. H. Read of this place and John Barrett, former minister to Siam. Mr. Barrett said that he felt sure that many Vermont Democrats would vote for McKinley. While over 9 percent of the Kansas City convention were opposed to inserting the 16 to 1 plank in the platform, it went in. Mr. Barrett classed this fact as the greatest exhibition of one man power in the history of American politics.

Alleged Insulter In a Peck of Trouble.

Havana, Aug. 7.—Count De Das of Uruguay and his wife are staying at the Hotel Telegrafo. While in the restaurant the lady complained that she had been insulted by Sueyras Miralles of Havana. The secretary of the count remonstrated with Miralles and broke his cane over the latter's head. The count sent a challenge to a duel to Miralles, and General Wood has been appealed to to place both men under arrest.

Heavy Damage by Storm.

Burlington, Vt., Aug. 7.—A terrific thunder storm, accompanied by a gale, passed over this section of the state Monday night, the wind uprooting hundreds of shade trees, unroofing buildings and rendering useless for a while the telephone, telegraph and electric light systems. Even the street cars were abandoned. No lives are known to have been lost.

Postponement of Large Enterprise.

Chattanooga, Aug. 7.—The half-million dollar cotton mill company which contemplated locating a plant here has announced that, owing to the Chinese war and the uncertainty of the cotton markets, the erection of the buildings and the operations of the plant will be postponed for the present.

Bryan Starts For Indianapolis.

Lincoln, Neb., Aug. 7.—W. J. Bryan started last night for Indianapolis, where he and Adlai E. Stevenson will be notified of their nominations at Kansas City. Mr. Bryan's wishes were fulfilled in an entire absence of demonstration on the part of the Lincoln people when he started.

Trio of Robbers Escaped.

Lewiston, Me., Aug. 7.—A Chinese laundry was entered Monday evening by three young men, who knocked down Chin You, one of the employes, robbed the money drawer and escaped. It is thought they got about $60 in cash. Chin You was badly hurt.

CAMPAIGN WORK OUTLINED.

Roosevelt Will Begin In the West In September. Hanna May Take the Stump.

New York, Aug. 7.—Messrs. Roosevelt, Heath, Manley and Hanna were in conference at the Republican national headquarters yesterday. Governor Roosevelt said that it was decided that his first speech would be in Chicago on Labor day, Sept. 3. This speech was not to be political, but of a general character. From there he will go west until Oct. 15, when he will return to New York. From that time on he will speak only in New York state. He said that he was assigned to cover every county in New York state, and part of the object of the conference had been to see if he could not get back east earlier.

After the conference Mr. Heath said: "I told Senator Hanna that there is a great call in several parts of the country for Senator Hanna to come and talk to the people. It is very probable that he will do this towards the end of the campaign. I think I have induced him to do so. He regarded the call as a joke at first, but he has taken it seriously." Mr. Heath further said: "We have great calls for literature on all other issues of the campaign except that of imperialism. Most of it is in regard to the general prosperity of the country and 16 to 1." He also said that speakers would probably not be sent out for mass meetings held till Sept. 1.

Chairman Hanna expects to go to Boston Wednesday and will remain until the end of the week.

On the Diamond.

Cincinnati, Aug. 7.—Boston won both games by timely batting rallies in the final inning. Sensational fielding was plentiful in both games.

Negroes Shut Out In Alabama.

Birmingham, Ala., Aug. 7.—A general state election for state and county officials and members of the general assembly was held in Alabama Monday, and a large majority was returned for the Democratic ticket, headed by William J. Sanford, for governor. The Republicans, Populists and Prohibitionists had tickets in the field, but returns so far indicate victory for the Democrats by an overwhelming majority. The only issue was the question of having a constitutional convention, which will eliminate the negro from politics. It was carried by a large vote, the Democrats being almost solidly in favor of the convention. The legislature will elect Senator Morgan to succeed himself.

Conditions at Cape Nome.

Washington, Aug. 7.—A letter, dated July 2, has been received at the treasury from a former employe of the department, now at Cape Nome, Alaska. The writer says: "The reports of disease and death that have been taken back to the states are untrue. The smallpox scare is all over. There were 20 cases in all. As yet there has been no typhoid. There have been 12 violent deaths here since July 10. Four men have been drowned, three have committed suicide and five have been shot.

Serious Affair at Hartford.

Hartford, Aug. 7.—James Balfour, a steam fitter, is charged with causing the death of Dennis Fenton, foreman of the gang in which Balfour was employed. Balfour was discharged by Fenton upon his refusal to do some work assigned to him, and when he returned for his tools, it is claimed, he directed insulting remarks to Fenton. The foreman objected, and it is said a fight followed. The men were separated by bystanders. Fenton appeared to be in distress, and he died two hours later.

Cyclists Practicable For Army Defense.

London, Aug. 7.—Major General Maurice, who superintended the experiment in connection with the volunteer maneuvers of holding 40 roads in the north of Sussex with several thousand cyclists—the idea being to check an invading army until British troops of all arms could collect in large numbers nearer London—reports that the cyclist defenders have successfully repelled the suppositious invaders. The result is regarded as establishing the superior mobility of cycle forces.

Druggist's Trunks Seized.

New York, Aug. 7.—Collector Bidwell reports that upon the arrival of the Hamburg-American liner Deutschland, four trunks belonging to Hugo Rosenthal, a New York city druggist, were seized. There was no clothing of any kind in the trunks, which were filled with druggist sundries. Rosenthal was held in $3000 bail.

Teutons Have a Good Record.

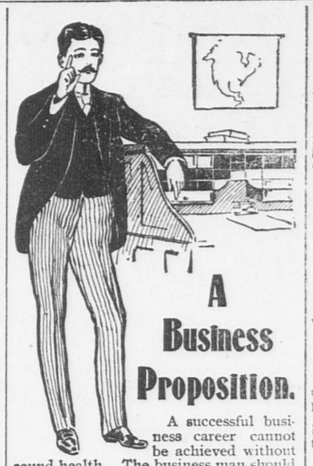

Berlin, Aug. 7.—Theodore Wolf wires to the Berliner Tageblatt from Paris that Germany will get more first prizes at the exposition than any other foreign nation. He estimates the number at 250. Germany will be first in industrial arts, with 20 grand prizes and 100 gold medals.

United Kingdom Swept by a Cyclone.

London, Aug. 7.—A regular cyclone has prevailed throughout the United Kingdom since early last evening. Loss of life on land and sea, and the destruction of shipping and other property is reported.

The Bison City's Growth.

Washington, Aug. 7.—The count of the population of Buffalo, just completed at the census office, is 352,219. The population in 1890 was 255,664. The increase is 37.77 percent.

A Business Proposition.

A successful business career cannot be achieved without sound health. The business man should guard his health as he guards his capital; for health is part of his capital and the impairment of that capital affects every business interest. A sedentary occupation and quick lunches, soon show their effects in a sluggish liver. The use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will cure "liver trouble" as well as indigestion and other diseases of the organs of digestion and nutrition.

The "Discovery" strengthens the body by supplying Nature with strength making materials. It contains no whisky, alcohol or other intoxicant.

"After three years of suffering with liver trouble and malaria," writes Mr. Edward Jacobs, of Marengo, Crawford Co., Indiana, "I gave up all hopes of ever getting stout again, and the last chance was to try your medicine. I had tried all the home doctors and received but little relief. After taking three bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and one vial of his 'Pleasant Pellets' I am stout and hearty. It is due entirely to your wonderful medicines."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets assist the action of "Golden Medical Discovery."

IN A BAD SITUATION.

Conger Cables That the Legationers at Pekin Are Still Besieged by Troops.

Ministers Are Told to Leave, Which Means Certain Death.

News of a Most Discouraging Character Is Received at the State Department.

Washington, Aug. 8.—The following cablegram from Minister Conger was received last night by the state department:

Tsi-Nan Yamen, Aug. 7.
Secretary of State:
Still besieged. Situation more precarious. Chinese government insisting upon our leaving Pekin, which would be certain death. Rifle firing upon us daily by imperial troops. Have abundant courage, but little ammunition or provisions. Two progressive yamen ministers beheaded. All connected with legation of United States well at the present moment. CONGER.

The above cablegram came to the state department late Tuesday afternoon, it being the second that has been received direct from him since June 12. It is the first which has come direct from the minister since the above date, the other having been received through the intermediary of the Chinese minister here, Mr. Wu. So important were the statements contained in the dispatch that a conference was held by wire between several of the officials here and the president at Canton, lasting for several hours.

The cablegram came in the official cipher of the department. State department officials say it may be a date not earlier than July 20, and perhaps not later than Aug. 2. It is checked by the telegraph company as having been put on the wires at Tsi-Nan, a large city about 80 miles southeast of Pekin, on Aug. 7.

Those who were at the White House in conference with the president included Acting Secretary Adee of the state department, Secretary Root and Adjutant General Corbin.

What the result of the conference was the officials declined to say. Secretary Root did not care to make any statement.

The officials had been led to believe from the more recent dispatches that the condition of the legationers was much improved, but Tuesday's advices show a very different aspect of affairs.

Secretary Root stated, late last night, that so far as he was aware there would be no change in the president's intentions to return to Washington on the 18th inst.

The word "Yamen" following the name of the city Tsi Nan, at which the cablegram from Mr. Conger was put on the wires, as understood here, probably refers to the official building or residence from which it was transmitted or at which it was received by courier from Pekin.

Retains Management of His Property.

Salem, Mass., Aug. 8.—The petition of the heirs of John W. Hutchinson of Lynn, the aged abolitionist worker and head of the musical family of that name, for the appointment of a guardian for him, was heard before Judge Harmon of the probate court here Tuesday. Considerable testimony as to the mental incapacity of the aged man was introduced. Judge Harmon refused to grant the petition, on the ground that nothing had been introduced to prove that the old man was incapable of properly managing his property. It is said that Mr. Hutchinson possesses an estate worth $100,000.

Home Review Purse Goes to Maebel.

Buffalo, Aug. 8.—The Horse Review $5000 purse for 3-year-old trotters, foals of 1897, was the feature of the grand circuit card at Fort Erie, Ont., Tuesday. The race resulted in a straight heat victory for Maebel, a big bay horse sent out by the Walnut Hall farm of Donerail, Ky. Many horsemen thought the heavy gaited Maebel would tire in the last brush, but he came away with ease.

Protest Against Compulsory Vaccination.

Rockland, Mass., Aug. 8.—The citizens of Rockland, thoroughly aroused over a recent order of the school board requiring the vaccination of all school children before entering upon the fall term of school, gave expression of their opposition thereto in a public meeting held Tuesday night in the Opera House. Several speakers addressed the meeting and resolutions of protest were adopted, the vote being 206 to 0.

One Hundred and Six Years Old.

Peabody, Mass., Aug. 8.—Mrs. Sally Batchelder of this town is today celebrating the 106th anniversary of her birth, which occurred in Chichester, N. H., Aug. 8, 1794. She has failed considerably during the past year and is confined to her bed nearly all the time, her faculties of sight and hearing having become much impaired.

Inherited Troubles of Previous Ministry.

Lima, Aug. 8.—The cabinet of Dr. Rivaguero tendered its resignation Tuesday. The retiring cabinet came into existence Dec. 15 last, and was partly reorganized in March of this year. Rivaguero inherited the difficulties with the Peruvian congress which brought the Galvez ministry to grief.

TO BE NOTIFIED TODAY.

Democratic Nominees and a Large Party of Friends Are at Indianapolis.

Indianapolis, Aug. 8.—Messrs. Bryan and Stevenson reached this city at 7:30 o'clock last evening. They came on a special train filled with enthusiastic Democrats. This afternoon the two candidates will be duly notified of their nomination by the Democratic convention at Kansas City.

Conferences between leaders of the party on the train filled Tuesday afternoon. The tone of these conferences was generally very hopeful. Webster Davis announced his intention to speak during the campaign in several states, including New York. He said he accepted the Democratic platform in toto, but that he would devote himself especially in his speeches to the subject of imperialism.

The principal stops were made at Kankakee, Ills., and Lafayette, Ind. At each of these places the candidates were given a reception which was a reminder of the campaign of 1896. At Kankakee the first speaking of the tour was indulged in. Mayor Harrison introduced Mr. Bryan, who spoke briefly.

The fact that the train was an hour behind schedule time in reaching Indianapolis did not seem to dampen the enthusiasm of the crowds that waited.

When Mr. Bryan's well-known figure was recognized in the marching column a great shout was sent up and cheers followed him constantly until he arrived at the Grand hotel.

After dinner Messrs. Bryan and Stevenson were given a general reception at the Grand hotel. Mrs. Bryan and Mrs. Stevenson were entertained by a committee of ladies.

Machine Power to Be Swept Away.

Philadelphia, Aug. 8.—The Press says: At last the state of Pennsylvania is in no further danger of the re-election of Mr. Quay and the power of the machine which has held control of the state for a generation is to be broken. It has been a long, hard fight, but the people have come to understand the situation, and they have made it impossible to repeat the record of the legislatures that have proved agencies for the perpetuation of the machine power that is now to be swept away.

Greene May Be Gubernatorial Candidate.

New York, Aug. 8.—Secretary of the Interior Hitchcock was at the Republican national headquarters Tuesday, and had a long conference with Chairman Hanna. A delegation from West Virginia also called at headquarters. The announcement at the Republican state headquarters that Mr. Odell was out of the race for governor was the principal topic in the committee rooms, and there was a revival of talk of general Francis V. Green for governor.

Dynamiters Again at Work.

St. Louis, Aug. 8.—After a pause of five days dynamiters commenced Tuesday again to place explosives on the tracks of the St. Louis Transit company. A Bellefontaine car was blown up in North St. Louis. All of the windows in the car were shattered, the forward trucks were broken, and a large hole was blown through the floor. There were no passengers on the car and neither the conductor nor the motorman was injured.

Many Store Cellars Flooded.

Boston, Aug. 8.—A 36-inch water main on Boylston street burst this morning, and owing to delay in getting the water gates shut the surrounding streets were badly flooded. The water poured into store cellars in the vicinity. The damage will amount to many thousands of dollars.

Fisheries Handicapped by Ice.

St. John's, Aug. 8.—The fishery outlook is the most unfavorable known here in recent years. Owing to the ice blockade off the Labrador coast the catch of cod there shows a decided decrease, which it will not be possible to offset during the remainder of the season.

Were Given Up For Lost.

Halifax, Aug. 8.—Two fishermen who strayed from the American schooner Crittenden in a fog, and who were supposed to have been drowned, arrived here Tuesday in a dory in an exhausted condition. They rowed many miles to land. They were 60 hours adrift.

Yellow Fever Is Spreading.

Havana, Aug. 8.—Fifty cases of yellow fever are now under treatment in Havana, and the disease is on the increase in Pinar Del Rio. These conditions are said to be largely due to the advent of non-immune Spanish immigrants, now amounting to some 20,000.

More Evidence of Rathbone's Wrongdoing.

Havana, Aug. 8.—Deputy Auditor Lawshe, who has investigated Rathbone's accounts, disallows items aggregating more than $25,000. These include unauthorized personal expenditures and stuffed payrolls, together with a number of questionable contracts.

Enforced Vacation For Thousands.

Cleveland, Aug. 8.—The Bessemer association has determined to shut down its furnaces here and elsewhere Sept. 1, to restrict the production, to stop the downward tendency of prices. Thousands of men will be thrown out of employment.

Another Bicycle Record Lowered.

Brockton, Mass., Aug. 8.—The 2-mile professional unpaced bicycle record was lowered Tuesday by John R. Dubois, who placed the world's figures for the distance at 4:12. His machine was geared at 140.

IN PEKIN ON AUGUST 2.

Earl Li's Statement That Ministers Had Left Was Probably Untrue.

Edict That Chinese Must Fight In Case Allies Advance.

But Little Additional News Concerning the Sunday Fight at Peitsang.

London, Aug. 8.—A message from the Belgian minister, dated Pekin, Aug. 2, seems effectually to dispose of the rumors that the ministers have either left or are intending to leave Pekin.

The Chinese minister in London, Sir Chi Chen Lo Feng Luh, says he has received a telegram from China, announcing that a long imperial edict, issued on Aug. 2, authorized the immediate and safe conveyance of all Europeans in Pekin to Tientsin.

"In case the troops advance the Chinese must fight. The suggestion that the allies should be allowed to enter Pekin in order to escort the ministers to Tientsin is absolutely impossible."

This is the dictum of Li Hung Chang. It was transmitted last evening to William P. Morgan, member of parliament, by his agent at Shanghai. The agent had carried to Earl Li a message from Mr. Morgan, urging that the allied troops be allowed to enter the capital and stating that a settlement could be made at Tientsin whereby a war of the world against China would be averted, but even the optimistic Li failed to hold out the slightest hope of its feasibility, although he reiterated to Mr. Morgan's agent his declaration that the ministers had left Pekin, fixing the date of their departure as Aug. 2. The agent makes this statement: "The consuls are without confirmation."

These messages have been sent to Lord Salisbury, accompanied by a statement by Mr. Morgan, urging that the allies should take no step to endanger the lives of the ministers.

Several dispatches are printed giving hearsay accounts of Sunday's battle. The Daily Mail's correspondent at Chefoo, telegraphing Monday, says: "The fighting lasted seven hours, and the allies, when my report left, were pursuing the Chinese; but, owing to the floods, progress was difficult. Thus the Chinese will have time to reform and to recover from the effects of battle. Only a small garrison, with 14 guns, remains at Tientsin, where some anxiety is felt because of a report that 15,000 Chinese are said to be moving two days' march to the southeast."

All the correspondents agree in praising the bravery and organization of the Japanese; but none of them brings the story much beyond General Chaffee's report.

Li Ping Heng, according to the Shanghai correspondent of The Standard, has been appointed generalissimo of the Chinese forces, and has left Pekin to command the troops outside the city.

A Shanghai special says that official advices from Tokio announce that armed collisions have occurred between parties of Russians and Japanese outside Taku. This, however, as it comes by way of Shanghai, must await confirmation before being credited.

The Shanghai correspondent of The Daily Mail, confirming the massacre of missionaries at Chu Chow Fu, says that two American women were among the victims.

The Sebastopol correspondent of The Daily Graphic asserts that the Russian government will send 125,000 additional troops from Odessa to the far east before the end of the year.

Berlin dispatches say it is rumored there that an agreement has been reached between Emperor Nicholas and Emperor William whereby the German troops will be permitted to proceed to China by way of Siberia.

The royal arsenal at Woolwich has been ordered to send 30,000,000 pounds of small arm ammunition to China.

Kimball Still In Custody.

Boston, Aug. 8.—John F. Kimball, who is wanted in Vermont to answer to a charge of bigamy, had a hearing in the supreme court Tuesday and was discharged on the ground that no copy of the indictment was attached to the requisition papers. As soon as he stepped outside the courtroom he was seized by Inspector Robinson, the necessary copy of the indictment having been forwarded to the authorities here. The prisoner will be sent to Vermont.

Trip of Courtesy and Business.

Boston, Aug. 8.—The U. S. S. Dolphin sailed for Castine, Me., today, to participate in the Old Home Week celebration. The visit of the vessel is a matter of courtesy, but while in those waters Commander Southerland will survey about eight square miles of water at East Lamoine, Frenchman's bay, where the navy department is to establish an important coaling station. The government will build wharves and coal sheds at East Lamoine.

To Perpetuate Memory of Stark.

Peru, Vt., Aug. 8.—The 123rd anniversary of General John Stark's camp and march through Peru, on his way to Bennington, was celebrated Tuesday by the dedication of a granite monument erected in honor of the hero of the Revolution. The presentation of the monument was made by Dr. P. B. Barton, and the acceptance was by M. J. Hapgood. The dedicatory exercises were attended by a very large number of spectators.

Fire Takes Possession of Island.

Boothbay, Me., Aug. 8. — Captain Humphrey of the sailing packet Effort, from Monhegan, reports that a bad fire is burning on the island and is sweeping down on the cluster of houses on Manana Cove. The settlement, which numbers about 50 families, has no provision against fire, as there is little water on the island except where wells have been dug.

Mean Idleness For Three Hundred.

Somersworth, N. H., Aug. 8.—A curtailment of production is announced by the Great Falls Manufacturing company, and 300 operatives will thus be idle. The high price of cotton, the condition of the market on account of disturbances abroad and the approach of a presidential election are the reasons given for the curtailment.

Three Killed In a Collision.

Lafayette, Ind., Aug. 8.—At South Raub a passenger train collided with a freight engine and caboose, standing on a side track. Charles King, the brakeman who operated the switch, is missing, but whether his body is under the debris, or whether he has fled, is not known. Three persons were killed, and four seriously injured.

NEWS IN BRIEF.

Peter L. Bouchard, 47 years old, a brakeman, was struck by an overhead bridge at Providence and almost instantly killed, his neck being broken.

One death and seven prostrations from heat occurred at Pittsburg.

The tour of duty of the Massachusetts naval brigade will be performed this year at Fort Rodman, New Bedford, from Aug. 11 to 18, inclusive.

A fire started in the sawmill of Alfred Seeley at Spencer, N. Y., and before it was placed under control it caused damage of $150,000.

The president and the secretary of the navy have decided to locate at the Pensacola navy yard the immense floating dry dock, bought at Havana from the Spanish government.

The death of Dr. Augustine Healey, bishop of Portland, Me., creates another vacancy in the ranks of the American hierarchy which recently have been depleted by the deaths of Archbishop Hennessy of Dubuque and Bishop Rademacher of Fort Wayne, Ind.

Miss Margaret Astor Chanler of New York, having forwarded from Manila to the secretary of war a severe criticism of the army's medical system in the Philippines, the records of the war department have been brought forward to show that many of her specific charges lack ground.

Joke Cost a Man's Life.

Boston, Aug. 8.—Thomas E. Hayde, 24 years old, died Tuesday night from wounds in the neck and shoulders inflicted by a revolver in the hands of John H. McCarthy, in a bicycle shop on Aug. 2, after the men had been out celebrating. Hayde fell asleep on a sofa in the rear room of the shop, and McCarthy, telling a friend who had come into the shop that he wished to have some fun with Hayde, fired five shots through the partition. Two of the bullets struck the sleeping man.

Bancroft to Be Fitted Out.

Washington, Aug. 8.—The gunboat Bancroft, which is at the Charlestown navy yard, Boston, is to be put in commission as soon as she can be fitted out, which will be about Aug. 20. The Bancroft is a light gunboat of 850 tons displacement, and is especially well fitted for service in the shallow rivers of China if any necessity for sending her to the Asiatic station should arise.

Red Coat Gets Seawanhaka Cup.

Montreal, Aug. 8.—The international yacht races for the Seawanhaka cup were decided on Lake St. Louis Tuesday when the Red Coat, the Canadian defender, won by 2m. 17s over the American challenger, Minnesota, of the White Bear Yacht club of St. Paul, Red Coat having won the first race on Friday, and another Monday.

Drift of Opinion.

☞ The Haverhill Gazette says Minister Wu at Washington will save time by packing his trunk. It will come to that sooner or later.

☞ John Bull will float a $5,000,000 war loan in the United States, a portion of which will be placed by Boston bankers. Our British cousins evidently have some use for Uncle Sam after all.—Haverhill Gazette.

☞ On Sept. 13 a continued hearing on the approval of plans for construction of the Cape Cod canal will be given before the Harbor and Land Commissioners. If the plans as filed are approved the company will be obliged to build or forfeit the $200,000 deposited as a guarantee fund. — Old Colony Memorial.

☞ Anarchism made an exceedingly bad move for itself when its Italian organization selected King Humbert as a victim of its murderous machinations. The Italian nation is furious against the society and it is not impossible that Europe and America may take stern measures to repress the further spread of such a lawless crew. King Humbert was one of the best beloved rulers in Europe, and in his reign accomplished much in the progress of his country, and the deed of the assassin Bressi has called down the condemnation of all civilized countries.—Old Colony Memorial.

☞ When Supt. Charles H. Bradley of the Farm School of Thompson's Island visited Cuba last spring, he made the acquaintance of several of the Cuban teachers who are now at Cambridge. A small party of Cuban teachers visited the Farm School a few days ago, and were so much impressed with the opportunities afforded there for studying not only methods of teaching, including practical manual training, but also American crops and farming, that arrangements have been made to have 150 of the leading teachers at Cambridge visit Thompson's Island on Wednesday afternoon, Aug. 8.—Journal.

☞ How will the next century start? Are the wars and rumors of wars that have marked the last of the nineteenth century merely a sample of what is to come in the twentieth, or have we been doing house cleaning on an extensive scale in preparation for a fresh, clean start on our next hundred years? What do the great disturbances that have taken place portend? Are they merely fore-runners of a vaster conflict, a world war, which shall suck all nations into its vortex and cast them out mere wreckage? The nations of Europe have for years sat eyeing each other, growling and showing their teeth. It has been an armed peace. The last years of the dying century have certainly been crowded to overflowing—New Britain News.

Mr. Alvah Polk, and wife, of Wollaston Park have been spending a few weeks at Wiscassett, Maine, on the Sheepseat river. Mrs. Polk's sister, Mrs. W. L. Lowell, and family of Jamaica Plains, are also spending the summer at the same place, their native town.

GRAND CARNIVAL.

A Big Time at Houghs Neck Thursday and Friday.

Tomorrow is the opening of the two days' mid-summer carnival at Houghs Neck. From the general enthusiasm shown on the part of the business men and residents it will be a grand success.

A parade of antiques and horribles tomorrow morning, will usher in the carnival for Thursday. Many striking and unique features will be shown and there will be some local hits that can not fail to be understood and appreciated.

The parade will form on Sea street between the Eventide cottage and Hodgkinson's willows. It will form at 7 o'clock sharp, and those from Quincy who desire to see it must be on hand in good season. The first car for Houghs Neck leaves Quincy at 6.20 and the next advertised car is at 6.50. It is probable however that extra cars will be run to accommodate the crowd.

The parade over, the attractions in the morning will be the serving of ice cream and cake to children between 11 and 2 o'clock. There will also be a kite flying contest at 10 o'clock.

In the afternoon at 2 o'clock there will be a series of field sports consisting of a 100 yard dash, three-legged race, potato race, egg, barrel, shell and sack races, pie eating contest, jumping, etc.

Entries for these sports must be made to A. H. Taber, Perley Glass or Henry P. Furnald.

In the evening there will be a display of fireworks and the blowing up of a Chinese Junk.

The Working Boys Home band of fifty pieces will be present both days and furnish music for the concerts which will be given afternoon and evenings.

The Cubans Here.

The Cuban teachers are in town today and Mayor Hall in behalf of the city is giving them a warm welcome. Quincy has long been a city of historic interest and there is much that would be of interest to the visitors, but time will not permit of their visiting all of the places of interest.

The program of their trip about the city is practically as published in Tuesday's Ledger. Several from Quincy are with the party. They left Quincy on the 1.25 car for East Milton where they joined the Cubans on the special train at 1.55.

The first stop after leaving East Milton was at the quarries on the line of the Quarry railroad.

Many would like to get a look at the visitors, but as the time they will pass through City Square is indefinite, they will be disappointed, unless they want to hang about, which would be rather tiresome.

Severely Punished.

Judge Humphrey imposed severe punishment on Frank McDonald of Quincy this morning, and imposed substantial fines upon two of his companions. According to the testimony Frank and Arthur McDonald, Henry Beard, and Francis McNeil were driving through Randolph Sunday. More or less liquor had been drunk by the party, and as a natural result trouble was forthcoming. A stop was made near the residence of Katie Hayes, and a cushion was the cause of a dispute, during which the Hayes woman was called some hard names.

The party then drove off, but soon returned and Beard attempted to apologize. Helen Manning, a woman well along in years, then came out of the house, and during the talk that followed Frank McDonald threw a bottle which struck her in the face.

The party then drove off. Warrants were issued against the four and they appeared in court this morning. The court record, in another column, tells how the cases were disposed of.

Unfortunate Visit.

The visit Sunday of R. J. McConnell of Whitensville to his brother, James McConnell of this city, proved rather unfortunate. In the afternoon the two took a trip to Nantasket and started for home on the 7 o'clock car. R. J. McConnell had quite a sum of money in his pocketbook which he is sure was all right when the car passed through Hingham. When Quincy Point was reached he felt for his pocketbook and it was gone.

He does not know whether it dropped from his pocket or whether some light fingered person picked his pocket.

—There seems to be a feeling that the successful working of the refunding law will prove one of the administration's strong cards in the present campaign. Briefly, the net results up to last Saturday were exchanges of bonds amounting to $320,412,050, the reduction of the surplus funds in the treasury by $31,962,422, a net saving to the people of about $8,000,000, and the increase of the national bank note circulation during the present year by nearly $75,000,000. — Jamaica Plain News.

The Famous Old Warship.

The Massachusetts State society, U. S. Daughters of 1812, has issued a call to all patriotic men and women of the country to unite in the work of raising the money necessary for the rebuilding of the famous old warship Constitution, now lying at the Charlestown navy yard.

They expect that at least $100,000 will be raised in Massachusetts for the purpose. Messrs. Kidder, Peabody & Co., Boston have consented to act as treasurers of the fund, and the president of the society, Mrs. Nelson V. Titus of Atlantic, Mass., will give any information necessary for those who intend to aid in its accomplishment.

The famous old frigate had been lying for years at the navy yard, Portsmouth, gradually going to decay. At a patriotic meeting, held in Faneuil hall, Feb. 22, 1897, Mrs. Titus of this city offered a resolution that steps be taken to have the vessel brought to Boston for the celebration of the 100th anniversary of her being built.

Secretary of the Navy Long speedily assented, and the anniversary celebration on Oct 21, 1897, awakened considerable interest, and made more pronounced the desire for the preservation of the ship. Mrs. Titus then petitioned congress regarding the matter urging an appropriation for the preservation of the vessel. Senator Lodge presented the petition, which was voted "inexpedient."

Not discouraged by this vote the work was then undertaken by the Massachusetts state society, Daughters of 1812. A bill for this purpose was therefore passed by both houses of congress, and approved by President McKinley on Feb. 14 last. It provides that before the work is commenced a sufficient sum of money to complete it shall be raised by the Massachusetts state society, Daughters of 1812, and placed at the disposal of the secretary of the navy for that purpose.

According to the estimates made by the Washington authorities, the sum needed will be $400,000, of which one-fourth is expected to be raised in Massachusetts. The society is sending out letters to the governors of the various states reciting the facts, and asking for the cooperation of the respective state authorities in the work.

It has been suggested that Oct. 21 next be made "Constitution day" in every public school thoughout the land, when every child may contribute somthing toward the project. The governors are requested to present the matter to the boards of education of their states.

The members of the society feel confident that the necessary amount can be raised, and the grand old man-of-war, upon the decks of which Hull, Stewart and other heroes stood, may be saved from decay as a lesson of patriotism to the nation.

As Big as a Sea.

Perhaps no lake can lay so great claim upon the tourist and pleasure seeker as can Lake Winnipesaukee. Its every environment leads to health and pleasure, and that these are the salient qualities which have made the lake famous, is shown by the great and ever increasing number who seek annually the resorts with which the shores of Winnipesaukee abound. The shore line of the lake measures more than a hundred and eighty miles, and its surface, of nearly three billion square feet, is dotted with islands numbering not far from three hundred, some of which are mere specks, while others in area cover several hundred acres. The rugged shore line, with its innumerable bays, inlets, harbors and the many islands furnish thousands of admirable sights for camps and summer homes.

To reach the resorts on Winnipesaukee is an easy matter inasmuch as the train service to Weirs at one end and Alton Bay at the opposite end, is so arranged as to enable the Steamer Mt. Washington to make two round trips of the lake daily. The trip over the lake is a delightful one, and in making the tour, landings are made at Weirs, Alton Bay, Centre Harbor, Wolfeboro and Bear and Long Islands. The Mt. Washington is a staunch craft, and sufficiently large to accommodate a thousand or more people. The boat is famed for the dinner it serves, and a most delectable one it is, too.

The Passenger department of the Boston & Maine Railroad has issued a brochure named "Lakes and Streams," which is sent to any address upon receipt of a two-cent stamp, and the Winnipesaukee Tourist Folder, together with an Excursion Book, is sent free upon application.

FUNERAL SERVICES

Of Capt. Devlin Largely Attended—Burial at Quincy.

The funeral of Capt. George Devlin formerly of Quincy took place Tuesday morning at St. Peter's Roman Catholic church, Meeting House Hill, Dorchester, at 10 o'clock. A solemn requiem mass was said by the Rev. Father Clayton. Relatives and friends of the deceased representatives of the Boston Press club, the various local newspapers, the city government, the Knights of Pythias and other oragnizations of which Captain Devlin was a member attended the services.

The beautiful Krawustchke mass was the one selected for the occasion. Special music was sung by a choir composed of Mr. Harry B. Coffin, tenor; Miss Doyle, soprano; Mrs. T. F. Keenan, contralto; Mr. Arthur White and Mr. J. McLoughlin, bassos.

"Nearer My God to Thee" was sung by Mr. G. A. McLoughlin.

Prior to the services at the church, friends of the deceased assembled at his late residence, 62 Sawyer avenue, Dorchester. The room in which the casket rested was banked high on every side with floral tributes from membesr of the family and Captain Devlin's associates.

Among the more notable of these offerings were: Mrs. G. A. Devlin, broken column of roses, asters, pinks and fern, inscribed "Husband"; Mr. James Devlin and sisters, large pillow of roses, inscribed "Brother"; Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Pennycinch, piece of asters and fern; Mr. Daniel Ring, wreath of pinks and asters Mr. and Mrs. John Ring, piece of roses; Mr. and Mrs. Pumphret, broken wreath on a mound, inscribed "George"; Miss May Devlin, wreath of white roses; Mrs. J. E. Morse, pillow of roses; Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Kennedy, piece of roses and fern; Miss Susan Clarke, piece of pinks and fern; Dorchester Yacht club, anchor of roses and asters on a mound of lilies; Post Publishing Company, closed book of immortelles, inscribed "Finis"; the Cadets, large wreath of ivy; Mrs. Mary Aldrich, basket of roses and asters; H. A. McCurdy, bouquet of pinks, asters and roses; Mr. and Mrs. James Cheney White, thirty-three white roses, representing age of the deceased; Mr. and Mrs. Farrar, shattered harp of white roses, Mr. and Mrs. James Morse and family, cross of asters, roses and lilies; Mr. Paul F. Brown and Mr. Frank Bell, large piece of asters and fern; Boston Post staff, a crescent of roses and ferns supported on a mound of asters, inscribed "At Rest"; Knights of Pythias, Monatiquot lodge 83, Braintree, shield of immortelles and ivy.

Race for a Cup.

Cleverly Brothers, owners of the yacht Isadora, have accepted a challenge of Charles W. King of the yacht Rita for series of three races for a cup donated by the summer residents of Hull. The dates of the races have not been fixed as yet.

—Attention is directed by Chief Austin of the bureau of statistics to the fact that the phenomenal commercial record of the year has been accompanied by an equally striking record with reference to gold production. The gold mined in the United States during the year ending Dec. 31, 1899, exceeds that of any year in our history, and for the first time surpasses the record established in 1853, when the mines of California made their highest record of $65,000,000.

CURIOUS CULLINGS.

Polish women in Pennsylvania celebrate the close of the Lenten period by switching their husbands and deluging them with water. It is a custom imported from Poland.

The Chinese think they occupy the middle of the earth and that all other nations are merely dwelling on the edges. Their most respectful term to designate a foreigner is "the ocean men."

In some parts of Europe even at this day flint arrowheads are considered as potent spells against witchcraft and the evil eye. This ancient superstition exists in certain localities in Scotland and Ireland.

After the battle of Spion Kop a British soldier was found dead with his finger on the trigger of his rifle. A Boer who attempted to take the rifle out of his hands was shot dead by a slip of the dead man's finger.

KITCHEN HELPS.

To cleanse a frying pan, pour in a little vinegar, heat it over the fire, and all odors will be removed from the utensil.

To clean iron sinks, rub them well with a cloth wet with kerosene oil, or clean the sink with potash and hot water.

Wooden spoons should be found in a variety of sizes in every kitchen. They are superior to all others for everything except measuring.

When tin plates and dishes are very dirty, it is a good plan to boil them in strong soda and water before scouring and polishing them.

A yard of cheesecloth will make two dishcloths. Cut in two lengthwise and fold so as to make it the required size. Turn the raw edges under and stitch. They are easily kept clean and white.

—As the spawning place of trusts and arnachy, New Jersey appears to be in no danger of losing any of its unenviable notoriety.—Boston Herald.

A Vacation.

From the Register and News.

Raccoon Island, Quincy shore, July 22d, found us safely anchored off the rocky point at the end of the island.

We had come to stay a while at least. Bags and boxes packed solid, jugs of fresh water, and baskets filled full of all kinds of such things as nourish one under the influence of salient airs.

We ascended the long path leading up to the house on the top of a high ledge, which is observable a long distance. It is a delightful retreat, large and roomy, amply furnshed and affords many excellent conveniences.

The wide veranda of the four sides is altogether a charming feature. One regales in high breezes, which come and go, while if too breezy on one side, we retreat to the other.

The scenery is charming from all points. There is hardly a choice. Far to our right lies Nantasket, where the hotels emit a brilliant electric flash all night scarcely surpassed in splendor; the sunlight gleams over Hull of an afternoon; white sails glide over the bay, especially on a ladies' yachting day; nothing can exceed the grace and beauty.

Back of the hills we see the long streams of black smoke rising from the water against the horizon, and in a few minutes by the aid of a glass, sight an ocean steamer going to Boston from Europe, the Provinces, or from the South.

Close by is Houghs Neck, now densely peopled. We can well remember of going there when young, and only or nearly so were the Littlefield farms. We camped under a willow beside a cornfield, acres large it seemed to be, and dined on boiled clams and the contents of a basket, and cold coffee, where now are many houses. Beyond the orchards and the willows across a strip of flats shoot the electrics.

Above is Quincy town, its church spire rising over all. Far on we see the Heights of Arlington against the sky.

Cool airs drift over to us from the Milton hills; back of us rear the sumacs on their island home, through which hills, gleam the white houses of North Weymouth shore, and Fort Point lies snugly down between the hills, which are freshly green notwithstanding the summer's early drought.

Across from the boat-house is wafted sweet music from the band,

"After the race is over,
After the race is done."

The red topped houses close by the phosphate works send out their signals, like many another place, of which there are many. "Our Flag," is everywhere, floating. If old Morpheus does not embrace us too early we go to the windows and look out on the water. Here and there a white sail lingers till midnight, loath to drop at its moorings, and what have we gained? say our friends, "Plenty of good vitality from hill and seaside, with an earnest desire to repeat this stay another season" M. M. B.

For Representatives.

Three persons are already talked of as candidates for representative to the General Court. Naturally Representative Sheppard's name heads the list. As he has been advanced by his colleague to a commanding position in the House his value to our city is unquestioned. His renomination by acclamation would not be surprising. The other two names mentioned are Lawyers, Walter S. Pinkham and John J. McKnight. Both are able men. Mr. Pinkham has had considerable experience in public life as Councilman and President of the Council.

Earth Caved In Upon Him.

Franklin Falls, N. H., Aug. 8.—Albert Bailey was killed Tuesday by the caving in of the earth around a ditch in which he was at work. He was an Englishman, and came here 10 years ago.

ARIZONA KICKLETS.

Breezy Items of News Gleaned by an Active Editor.

[Copyright, 1900, by C. B. Lewis.]

In announcing that the Arizona Kicker has the largest circulation of any daily or weekly publication on the face of the globe and that its weekly purchase of white paper keeps 14 factories running day and night the year round we have no intention of indulging in falsehood. We are simply copying the style of certain eastern journals and giving civilization a push upward.

Last week we had men working in our private graveyard for several days, and now the graveled walks are in good shape, the grass cut and benches provided for all who wish to enter and sit down. The number of graves and tombstones is the same as last year—14—and we sincerely hope we shall not have to add to it during the next 12 months.

Tuesday afternoon last Mr. Peter Martin and Captain Dale had an argument on Apache avenue as to what a negligee shirt was. One contended that it was a shirt that hadn't been washed for two months and the other that it was a shirt with four or five holes in it. Hot words had passed and pistols had been drawn when we happened along and settled the question, and both men shook hands and became the best of friends again. Negligee means neglected, and we had neglected to sew on half a dozen buttons and mend three or four bad rips in our outfit of shirts.

Our esteemed contemporary is out with an item this week in which he says our jealousy of him has put him in fear of his life and that he may apply to have us put under bonds. Ye gods! Jealous of a man who tried running a sawmill in Nebraska before he became editor and made a failure of it! Afraid of his life! Why, there isn't a coyote in Arizona that'd harm an old man with his head twisted to one side, his back humped up and his knees rubbing each other as he wabbles along!

We should like to say again for the benefit of certain people that the postoffice at Giveadam Gulch closes at 9 o'clock p. m. Up to midnight we are willing to hand out mail to any one in a rush, but after that hour we don't propose to get out of bed for any one in the United States. Throwing stones through the windows or shooting bullets through the front door won't expedite mail delivery, but may bring a shot or two in return. We are a public servant right enough, and this postoffice belongs to the people, but we have figured it out that we have a few rights, and one of 'em is to sleep between midnight and 6 o'clock a. m.

M. QUAD.

May Be the Reason.

"Did you ever stop to think how unsatisfactorily things are arranged in this world?" asked the "sporty" young man.

"In what way?" inquired the prosaic old gentleman.

"Why, I was thinking of appetites especially," answered the youth. "Here am I, a comparatively poor man, with a seven course dinner appetite all the time, while most of the rich men I know have just a plain 10 cent bread and milk appetite."

"Possibly," returned the old gentleman thoughtfully, "that may at least partially explain why you are poor and they are rich."—Chicago Post.

Decidedly Not.

"You don't happen to have change fur a quarter, do ye?" asked Eaton Shabbelong, who had an unexpected stroke of luck.

"Change fur a quarter!" echoed Tuffold Knutt, with infinite disgust. "If I had, do ye reckon I'd be carryin the thirst I've got with me this minute?"—Chicago Tribune.

What's His Address?

Borrows—Easy, is he?

Grabiter—Well, I should say. I wrote to him once and asked him to lend me $2. It seems I spelled "two" t double o and forgot to cross the t. He sent me $100.—Philadelphia Press.

No, Have You?

Have you ever noticed that the small sized man always smokes the largest sized cigar he can purchase, while the man of large stature invariably smokes a small perfecto?—Boston Journal.

Taking No Chances.

Mr. Stubb—Maria, what has become of the clock cuckoo?

Mrs. Stubb—I sent him away, John. You know the paper said birds hold microbes.—Chicago News.

Whither?

Marine Person—Yes, we're goin to drag the river.

Simon Milkweed—So! Where are they dragging it to?

MONDAY.

IT all depends upon what you want in a soap. If you require simply a dirt remover, almost any soap will do. But if you care at all about the thing which is to be washed, you must think twice before you act. Any soap will clean linens and muslins, but Ivory Soap leaves them as white as snow. Any soap will clean sheets and table cloths, but Ivory Soap leaves no coarse, strong odor. Try it once!

Bravery Rewarded.

First Sargent Harry L. Hathaway of Weymouth, a member of the United States signal corps stationed at Manila, has been promoted to a lieutenantcy for bravery.

Lieut. Hathaway was born in Weymouth, July 6, 1872, and is a son of Dr. and Mrs. W. F. Hathaway. At the breaking out of the Spanish-American war he was one of the first to enlist in the volunteer signal corps organized by Capt. Clark of East Boston, and served with distinction.

A year ago he enlisted in the United States signal corps, and was immediately ordered to Manila, where he has been stationed ever since. During his service in the Philippines he has been in several battles, and has also had charge of the United States cable station at Manila. He was an electrician before entering the service. He expects to be ordered to China at once.

TODAY'S COURT.

Matthew A. Silva and George E. Ainsley were arraigned for mutual assault at Braintree. Case continued until Saturday.

Eugene T. Ferrin was fined $3 for violation of the Sunday fish and game law at Quincy.

HOT WAVE CAUSES SUFFERING.

Numerous Deaths and Postrations Reported From Various Cities.

New York, Aug. 8.—Three million of New Yorkers were gasping for breath yesterday. The hot wave from the west arrived, and the most distressing day of the year resulted. The air was heavy with humidity, even in the early morning hours, and the breeze was so hot and scorching that it only emphasized the unbearable conditions. Several deaths and prostrations occurred during the day.

Chicago, Aug. 8.—Four deaths and several prostrations were reported up to 1 p. m. yesterday as the result of the excessive heat.

Pittsburg, Aug. 8.—One dead and several prostrations from the heat is the record for the past 24 hours. The intense heat caused great suffering in the mills and factories.

Watertown, N. Y., Aug. 8.—Northern New York is in the grasp of a hot wave, the most severe in years. Many prostrations are reported.

Milwaukee, Aug. 8.—Three dead and four prostrated resulted from intense heat in the past 24 hours.

Says Shot Was Not Fired From Powers' Office.

Georgetown, Ky., Aug. 8.—At Tuesday's session of the trial of Caleb Powers the most important testimony was given by Corporal Thasper of the Barboursville company, of which John Powers was captain. He testified that the shot which killed Goebel was fired from the third story of the executive building, and not from the secretary of state's office, which is on the first floor. Trasper declared he saw the window raised and saw the smoke from the explosion, but did not see the gun or the person who fired it.

Opportune Advance of Monsoon.

London, Aug. 8.—The viceroy of India cables that a very decided improvement in the crop prospects has taken place during the last 10 days through the renewed advance of the monsoon. Ample rain has fallen for the present agricultural requirements and sowings are being actively prosecuted. If the present favorable conditions continue considerable autumn crops will be secured and the tension will relax. There are now about 6,356,000 persons receiving relief.

Gentlemen:—Our family realize so much from the use of GRAIN-O that I feel I must say a word to induce others to use it. If people are interested in their health and the welfare of their children they will use no other beverage I have used them all, but GRAIN-O I have found superior to any, for the reason that it is solid grain.

Yours for health, C. F. MYERS.

TOWNE IS OUT OF IT.

Consistency Compels Him to Refuse the Vice Presidential Nomination.

Will Advocate Election of Bryan and Stevenson.

Contemplates Present Attitude of Democratic Party With Profound Satisfaction.

Duluth, Aug. 8.—In a letter to P. M. Ringdahl, chairman, and the members of the committee of notification of candidate for vice president of the People's party, Charles A. Towne has declined the nomination tendered him by the Populist national convention at Sioux Falls. The letter is of considerable length and sets forth fully Mr. Towne's views in regard to the nomination..

It is believed the Populist committee, empowered to fill the vacancy caused by Mr. Towne's withdrawal, will immediately endorse Adlai E. Stevenson for vice president, on the ticket with W. J. Bryan.

After reviewing the movements and the various conventions and the causes leading up to the present situation in a historical way, Mr. Towne says:

"It was, of course, the expectation of your convention that its nomination for the vice presidency would prove acceptable to parties called to meet in Kansas City on July 4. The Silver Republicans were indeed eager to name the ticket chosen at Sioux Falls; but to the great Democratic convention another course commended itself. The name of your nominee was presented to that convention and was received with remarkable demonstrations of approval by the enormous number of citizen spectators and with the utmost respect by the delegates.

"But geographical considerations, and the fact that in certain parts of the country it was deemed wise to defer to a sentiment demanding that the candidate should be a man already identified with the Democratic organization, determined the selection of Adlai E. Stevenson, a man of unimpeachable character and of ripe political experience who, as a member of congress, was a close associate and co-laborer of General J. B. Weaver and other great leaders in the reform political movements of that day, and who, as vice president, distinguished himself by rebelling against the betrayal of Democratic principles by President Cleveland.

"When Mr. Stevenson had been nominated what was it my duty to do? My name had gone before the convention along with his and I had been beaten. The nomination had been made decisively and with absolute fairness. Manifestly it was my duty to support that nomination. Acting upon this conviction, I went before the Silver Republican convention and succeeded in persuading it not to nominate me, and the vice presidential matter was finally referred to the Silver Republican national committee with full powers. Later this committee placed the name of Mr. Stevenson on its ticket as candidate for vice president.

"This recital clearly develops the situation as it now is. Everybody knows that either Mr. Stevenson or Mr. Roosevelt is to be the next vice president of the United States. I am expected to take a laborious part in the campaign. I shall advocate the election of Bryan and Stevenson. The Democratic convention, before which I was a candidate, nominated Bryan and Stevenson. The Silver Republican party, of which organization I was the official head for nearly four years, has nominated Bryan and Stevenson. In what light should I appear before the American people if, while advocating the election of one ticket, I should be going through the form of running on another?

"I know the People's party to be composed of men most exceptionally keen and expert in political judgment. So obvious a shame could not elude them. Either they would resent my implied uncomplimentary estimate of them or they would be justified in forming one of me which could result only in injuring the cause which it has been the professed object of my mistaken folly to advance.

"Consistency and candor in politics, therefore, my own self respect, a proper deference to the People's party, and a sincere regard for the welfare of the cause of political reform in the United States, all counsel that I now respectfully replace in your hands the honorable trust which your great party committed to me, in contemplation of a different complexion of affairs than that which has resulted.

"In conclusion I may be permitted to express the profound satisfaction which I feel in contemplating the present attitude of the Democratic party. In 1896 I was one of those, who, keenly feeling the recreancy of the Republican party, was much in doubt whether the memorable Democratic convention at Chicago, in adopting its splendid platform and nominating W. J. Bryan for the presidency, was actuated by an impulse or by a purpose. The magnificent achievements at Kansas City have settled all possible doubt on that subject.

"The platform adopted not only reenacts the principles of 1896, but responds to the new issues presented in the growth of the trust monopoly and the imperial policy of the administration, by an appropriate enunciation of those sublime doctrines of human rights and liberties whose profession and observance have been the peculiar glory of our country, and are now the sure basis of the ultimate happiness of mankind. And again the duty of carrying the banner of the cause has been committed to that tried and trusted hand, whose grasp has never weakened, which no fear can make to falter, and no burden dismay. The leadership of Bryan, which could have redeemed a bad platform, sanctifies a good one. It made memorable an unsuccessful contest. It will crown a victory with imperishable splendor."

FOREST CITY'S OLD HOME DAY.

Ex-Speaker Reed, Jackies From Warships and Fireworks Furnish Ample Entertainment.

Portland, Me., Aug. 8.—Portland's day in the Old Home Week celebration was a succession of notable events, carried out on generous lines and all resulting in one grand success. The fireworks in the evening were witnessed by nearly 100,000 people ashore and afloat, and the great electric illumination of the fleet of warships in the harbor closed the ceremonies of a rather spectacular day.

Altogether it was one of the most successful celebrations ever held in the Forest City. Everything went off without a hitch, and from one end of Portland to the other there was a display of hospitality and good fellowship.

The warships were a great feature of the celebration, and in the parade their sailors called forth the most cordial applause. This procession, together with the public meeting at city hall in the afternoon, constituted the most important ceremonies of the day.

The really great ovation of the city hall meeting awaited former Speaker Thomas B. Reed. Mr. Reed said that were he permitted to give a toast he should say, "Here is to the state of Maine, settled mostly by the blood of old England, but always preferring liberty to ancestry; a strong old democratic state, yet the first to help to give liberty to the slave—may her future be as noble as her past. Here is to the state of Maine, the land of the bluest skins, the greenest earth, the richest air, the strongest, and, what is better, the sturdiest men, the fairest, and, what is best of all, the truest women under the sun."

The celebration of the day in Portland was closed by a reception late in the evening at city hall tendered by Governor Powers and Mayor Robinson. Admiral Farquhar and officers of the fleet assisted.

On the Diamond.

Cincinnati, Aug. 8.—Breitenstein was in rare form, particularly with the men on the bases. Cuppy had his hand split with a liner from Barrett's bat in the third inning, and retired in favor of Nichols. The locals bunched hits in the eighth.

There Was No Assault.

Boston, Aug. 8.—Letter Carrier John P. Sampson, charged with criminally assaulting Miss Ethel M. Pierce, a stenographer in the Winthrop building, was discharged yesterday in the municipal criminal court. Judge Dewey ruled that their previous conduct had prevented the case from being an assault. This was Sampson's defense, and the judge allowed it. Testimony showed that previous arrangements had been made, and that the meeting was not by chance.

Consolidated Breweries Begin Work.

Boston, Aug. 8.—The Massachusetts Breweries company filed yesterday in the registry of deeds convayances transferring to it the complete properties of the 10 following breweries: American Brewing company, Alley Brewing company, H. & J. Pfaff Brewing company, Hanley & Casey Brewing company, Continental Brewing company, Norfolk Brewery, Elmwood Spring Brewery, Revere Brewery, Franklin Brewery and the Robinson company. The new company began business yesterday.

Alleged Green Goods Man Caught.

New York, Aug. 8.—Daniel Creel, who, Anthony Comstock says, is a prince of greengoods men, was held for the grand jury by Commissioner Merle in the United States court in Brooklyn Tuesday. One of the persons in court, Louis Papas of Haverhill, Mass., said he had been swindled out of $500 by Creel and his associates. B. C. Young, a telegraph operator, is held for the grand jury on a charge of being an accomplice.

An Unfortunate Fellow.

Salem, Mass., Aug. 8.—The death of Thomas Murray, aged 45, at the Salem hospital Tuesday night, was due to starvation, the man, by his own account, affirming that he had taken nothing for seven days. Murray was found in a field near Castle Hill, where he had lain for two days. He had looked for work and being unable to find employment he went without food until exhausted, when he found a resting place in the field.

Awaiting Result of Powers' Trial.

Knoxville, Aug. 8.—A Middlesboro special says: John L. Powers, brother of Caleb Powers, announces that the result of Caleb's trial will decide whether he will give himself up. He says if Caleb is acquitted or has a mistrial all those under indictment, including Governor Taylor, will go to Frankfort.

To Combine Against Anarchists.

Berlin, Aug. 8.—Although no plan has yet been adopted for international protection against anarchists, the German foreign office is authority for the statement that it is quite likely a scheme will be devised, and that the preliminary steps have already been taken.

ALLIES' HEAVY LOSS.

Russians Alone Had Five Hundred Men Killed In Sunday's Fighting.

London Takes a More Hopeful View of the Situation.

Speculation as to Whether Ministers Will Leave Pekin Under Escort.

London, Aug. 9.—A dispatch from Chefoo says that during the engagement on Sunday which preceded the occupation of Peitsang by the allies, the Russians lost 500 killed and the British 50. The Germans and Japanese also lost heavily. The road to Pekin is supposed to be open.

[Route of the allied forces in their march to Pekin. Cross shows where the battle of last Sunday occurred.]

Beyond the official news given out yesterday, the morning papers contain no direct information of importance from China, but there is a general disposition to take a more hopeful view of the situation.

The report of the appointment of Field Marshal Count Von Waldersee as commander-in-chief of the international forces meets with general approval.

The text of the edict of Aug. 2 authorizing the escort of the ministers from Pekin to Tientsin is given out at the Chinese legation, and says in part:

"In view of the existence of hostilities between certain Chinese rebels and foreign powers, caused by the Christian feeling of the Chinese people, we have afforded reasonable protection to the foreign representatives in Pekin; and the tsung li yamen has sent to the legations letters of inquiry and proposals for their safe conveyance under escort to Tientsin, in order to avoid apprehension of further attack from the rebels before the complete restoration of peace and order in the capital.

"We have now, on the advice of Li Hung Chang and Li Kun Yi, to authorize Yung Lu to escort them to Tientsin. If there be any rebels en route trying to endanger the safety of the party the officials have orders to destroy the rebels at once."

The Chinese legation believes that the members of the foreign legations have not yet left Pekin, but that they will do so, and declares that the edict would not have issued had not the foreign ministers signified a willingness to accept the escort.

The Shanghai correspondent of The Daily News, wiring yesterday, says: "United States Consul Goodnow strongly opposes Admiral Seymour's intention to land 3000 troops, on the ground that such an act would not be warranted by the circumstances and would be likely to create trouble. M. Bozaure, the French consul, agrees to the arrangement, but says that, if the British land forces, the French will do likewise. The Austrians also will land men. My personal opinion is that the landing of troops here at the present moment would be a grave mistake."

The Daily Chronicle, commenting upon American criticism of the character of Chinese "news" printed in some London dailies, admits that the charges are only too true, and that the practices of certain papers in this respect are opposed to the best traditions of British journalism. It joins in the American protest against trashy sensationalism. Almost all the news in this morning's papers upon which credence is placed comes either from Washington or direct from British officials.

BRITISH AFFAIRS OF STATE.

South African War and Chinese Insurrection Dealt With In the Queen's Speech.

London, Aug. 9.—The queen's speech to parliament, which adjourned yesterday, after relating that the relations with the powers of Europe and America continue friendly, and a reference to the establishment of the commonwealth of Australia, refers to the war in South Africa, "which has placed in the strongest light the heroism and high military qualities of the troops brought together under my banner from this country, from Canada, Australia and my South African possessions."

The speech then says: "Believing the continued independence of the republics to be a constant danger to the peace of South Africa, I authorized the annexation of the Free State as a first step to the union of the races under an institution which may in time be developed so as to secure equal rights and privileges in South Africa."

Referring to China, the speech says: "The British and other legations at Pekin have been unexpectedly attacked by an insurgent mob, and it is feared that many of their inmates have been murdered. How far the Chinese authorities are accomplices in this atrocious crime, and whether the British minister and his family are among the victims, are matters still in some uncertainty. The utmost efforts will be made by myself and my allies to visit with punishment the authors of this unexampled crime."

After a reference to the Ashanti rising, the speech devotes a few words to the distress caused by the famine and plague in India, and thanks the commons for their liberality wherewith they responded to the unusual financial demands due to the war.

An innovation in the queen's speech, which caused some comment, was the mentioning of America specifically. The speeches from the throne usually allude to the powers generally, or to the European powers.

Reduction of Hours In Big Mills.

Pawtucket, R. I., Aug. 9.—The notice posted in the mills of the Conant Thread company of this city and Central Falls, to the effect that the mills will shut down Thursday at 6:15, and will remain closed until the Monday morning following, appears to be uncertain in its tone. While the notice does not state whether or not the reduction of hours will be for more than one week, the majority of the 3000 operatives believe that the reduction will be each week for an infinite length of time. This will be the first time for 18 years that the mill has been run wholly on short time. The payroll of the concern is not far from $20,000 a week.

Virginia Took the Race.

New London, Conn., Aug. 9.—Steered by her owner, William K. Vanderbilt, Jr., the 70-foot sloop yacht Virginia, close hauled on the starboard tack, and travelling at a 10-knot rate, was the first yacht to cross the finishing line in the 39-mile race, from New Haven to this port. It was her first victory over her classmates since she was launched.

Testimony as to Course of Bullet.

Georgetown, Ky., Aug. 9.—In the trial of former Secretary of State Powers, the defense produced one of its star witnesses yesterday in Surveyor Coolman, who was produced to prove that the bullet which killed Goebel could not have been fired from the window of the secretary of state's office if it took the course contended by the prosecution.

Thought to Be an Anarchist.

Richmond, Aug. 9.—Alex Brasce, an Italian, about 30 years of gae, is a prisoner on the charge of being a suspicious character. Detectives arrested him on the complaint of prominent Italians, who declare that he is an anarchist, and that he threatened to throw a bomb into the cathedral when the services in King Humbert's memory are being held.

Narrowly Escaped Death.

Milford, N. H., Aug. 9.—After having been imprisoned 20 feet down in a well by a cavein, Wednesday, for 5½ hours, Albert Lowe was released by a large number of rescuers, not much the worse for his experience. Lowe was coming out of the well, which was 40 feet deep, when the walls collapsed.

Explosion Killed Eighty Persons.

Yokohama, Aug. 9.—Azuma Yama was the scene of an awful explosion. A sulphur factory employing about 100 hands was suddenly annihilated by a subterranean explosion. Only 20 of the hands escaped. The fall of debris covered them two feet deep.

Delirious For More Than a Fortnight.

Pawtucket, R. I., Aug. 9.—William Minchin, aged 24, died Wednesday, as a result of sunstroke. He fell, overcome by the heat, on the sidewalk, and was delirious for more than two weeks, the result of a fractured skull.

Fifteen Rounds to a Draw.

Lynn, Mass., Aug. 9.—The drawing card of the boxing exhibition given by the Kirtland club, Wednesday, was a 15-round match between Mike Sears of Lynn and Billy Gardner of Lowell, the result being a draw.

Weather Conditions and Forecast.

Almanac, Friday, Aug. 10.
Sun rises—4:45; sets, 6:53.
High water—10:30 a. m.; 11 p. m.

The temperature continues high in the Ohio, Mississippi and Missouri valleys, and in the middle and south Atlantic states. Scattered showers are indicated for northern New England. Elsewhere the weather will be fair. There is no immediate prospect of lower temperature over the heated area, except such as may be caused by local showers. On the coast the wind will be light to fresh southwesterly.

THE DEMOCRATIC CAMPAIGN.

Bryan and Stevenson Notified of Their Nominations.

Both the Candidates Address a Large Concourse of People,

Preceded by Mayor Taggart, Representative Richardson and Governor Thomas.

Indianapolis, Aug. 9.—In the center of a level 30-acre park, under the rays of a blazing sun, amid intense heat and general discomfort, William Jennings Bryan and Adlai Ewing Stevenson were yesterday afternoon officially notified of their selection by the Kansas City convention as candidates of the Democratic party for the presidency and vice presidency respectively.

The ceremony was preceded by a parade through the principal streets, participated in by a number of visiting and local Democratic clubs. These acted as an escort to the notification party and the cavalcade was an imposing one. The meeting began a few minutes after 3 o'clock and concluded at 5:40 p. m. Five speechs were made, Mayor Taggart of Indianapolis adding a welcoming address to the notification speeches of Representative Richardson and Governor Thomas and responses made by Mr. Bryan and Mr. Stevenson.

Mr. Bryan spoke a few words extemporaneously in introducing his speech, all of which, except the peroration, was read from manuscript. The closing sentences were repeated from memory in a most effective manner. The extemporaneous introduction was as follows:

"I feel that I owe an apology or explanation to the people who are to listen for the fact that I must read what I am going to say. It would be more pleasant to me and more agreeable to you to speak without notes, but I want to address that larger constituency which we reach through the newspapers, for it is a thousand times as numerous as any crowd that could assemble here; and, therefore, in order that I may speak to all throughout the land, I have committed to writing what I desire to say, and will ask for your indulgence while I read my speech. He then read his address.

Mr. Bryan finished at 4:40, and was followed by Governor C. S. Thomas of Colorado, who introduced Mr. Stevenson. Mr. Thomas received very general attention, and was given frequent and generous applause.

Mr. Stevenson was apparently slightly nervous as the time approached for him to take the stand, but he soon gained confidence as he proceeded. Mr. Bryan led the liberal applause which greeted the appearance of his fellow candidate as he advanced to the front, and many points of the speech were liberally punctuated by a repetition of applause as the speech proceeded. He read from his manuscript, but held the majority of his audence to the end.

Mr. Stevenson closed, amid liberal applause, at 5:40 o'clock. Senator Jones then declared the meeting adjourned sine die.

Last night a mass meeting was held at Tomlinson hall, presided over by Mayor Harrison of Chicago, and addressed by Mr. Bryan and Webster Davis. Mr. Bryan's speech was important because it outlined his ideas of the advantages enjoyed by the Democrats in the present campaign over those of 1896. Mr. Bryan said in part:

"We have control of the city governments of New York city and Buffalo, two of the largest cities in the state of New York. We have control of the city government of Jersey City, we have Baltimore; we have Cleveland and Toledo, we have control of Louisville, we have control of Kansas City, we have control of Denver, and we have control of San Francisco. It is a great advantage to have control of the machinery in these great cities. We have with us this year all we had in 1896; we have with us a large majority of the Gold Democrats who were not in our favor in 1896.

"The Republican party today does not defend its policy in the Philippine islands. There never was any occasion for war in the Philippine islands. There would have never been war in the Philippine islands if the Republican party had dealt with the Filipinos according to American principles."

Mr. Davis confined himself largely to an attack upon the attitude of the administration towards the Boer war. He repeated his charge that there was a secret alliance between the government of Great Britain and the United States, and announced his willingness to accept the Democratic platform entire.

Mr. Davis said that the only safe course for the American citizen to pursue was to elect the Democratic ticket from top to bottom. With the conclusion of Mr. Davis' speech the meeting adjourned.

GONE TO HIS REWARD.

Death of Dr. Cyrus Hamlin, Long Identified With Missionary Work In Turkey.

Portland, Me., Aug. 9.—Rev. Dr. Cyrus Hamlin, the veteran missionary to Turkey and the founder of Robert college at Harpoot, died here suddenly last night at the residence of D. H. Farley. Dr. Hamlin and his wife arrived here Tuesday from Lexington, Mass., and last evening he attended an Old Home Week reception at the Second Parish church. Soon after he returned to the Farley residence he complained of feeling a pain and dropped to the floor dead.

Dr. Hamlin was born Jan. 5, 1811, at Waterford, Me. He served an apprenticeship in the silverware business in Portland from 1827 to 1829, becoming during these years a member of the Second Parish Congregational church. He graduated from Bowdoin college in 1834, and three years later from the Bangor theological seminary.

In 1839 he was appointed by the American board to do educational work in Constantinople, where he spent 34 years in successful and heroic Christian service, founding Beebe seminary and Robert college. He was president of the latter institution from 1860 to 1867.

He was professor in the Bangor theological seminary from 1877 to 1820, and president of Middlebury college from 1880 to 1885. Since then he has been agent of the American board. He was the author of several works.

Bicyclists Have a Bad Shakeup.

Boston, Aug. 9.—The 25-mile motor-paced race between Nelson, Stinson and Pierce at Charles River park, Cambridge, Wednesday night, ended in a mixup in the second lap of the fifth mile, when all three pacing machines and riders went down at the turn onto the stretch, a result of a mishap to the tandem ridden by Gateley and Marks, due to a slippery track. Nelson was in the lead at the time of the accident, which caused the race to be declared off. Kent, who, with Captain Ruel, was pacing Nelson, had his shoulder dislocated, but the other pacemakers and the riders escaped uninjured. A light rain which commenced to fall during the race was responsible for the slippery condition of the track.

Percentage of Sickness Not Large.

Washington, Aug. 9.—Secretary Root says that the latest reports from General MacArthur show that the sickness in the army in the Philippines is 8 percent, which is considered a remarkably good showing. Owing to the lack of surgeons, due to separation of commands, there are some small detachments without a surgeon, but this defect is being remedied with all due diligence.

Still Hoping For Independence.

Berlin, Aug. 9.—The Boer delegation and Dr. Leyds arrived here yesterday. It is understood that the purpose of their visit to Berlin and also to St. Petersburg, where they will go next, is to induce Germany and Russia, when peace comes, to try to get some measure of independence for the Boers.

Will Be Furnished With Work.

Montreal, Aug. 9.—The 347 Roumanian emigrants who have been detained by the Dominion emigration bureau for several days on the steamer Lake Champlain have been allowed to land after a promise on the part of the Baron Hirsch institute that it would obtain employment for them.

Good Afternoon.

No postponement of the Houghs Neck carnival is necessary because of the weather. After the rain everything is bright and cheerful, and the celebration was auspiciously opened.

All the big men of the past evidently came from Quincy; Gam. Bradford says: "If the names of Hancock and Adams give way to those of McKinley and Roosevelt, I shall turn my face to the west."

Good for Secretary Long! He would not plunge this county into a great war with China unless absolutely necessary. He says: I believe, if the Ministers and missionaries were in our hands the United States army would be withdrawn. The point around which we are circling is this: The Ministers must be rescued. In no way can any one circumvent that. If it can be done without bloodshed, so much the better."

Are the taxpayers ready for a $20 tax rate? With the increase in city taxes, and the addition of the assessments for Metropolitan sewers, parks and boulevards many expect the rate may be as large as that. But there was considerable building in Quincy between May 1, 1899 and May 1, 1900, and the quarries increased wonderfully in value when there was a purchaser. Perhaps the rate may not be as high as many expect.

Drift of Opinion.

☞ President Harper is going to have his silver wedding anniversary this week, and after that he is going to find out if it is possible to live on fifteen cents a day. Of course it is possible, if a man likes that kind of living—or if he is forced to it—New Bedford Standard.

Many Floral Tributes.

The home on Penn street was inadequate to hold the vast throngs of relatives, neighbors, friends and playmates that turned out Wednesday afternoon to attend the funeral of little Emma Marnock, which took place from her father's residence at 3 P. M.

Her smiling, gentle and generous disposition endeared her to the hearts of all with whom she associated.

The service was of the Episcopal form and was conducted by the Rev. Silas Duffield. The floral offerings were profuse and elegant and the white brocaded casket was completely covered including a pillow with the words "Our Emma, gone home;" a wreath, with "Our sister;" a pillow, with the word "Playmate," from Lottie Flowers; wreath from South Quincy Social club; flat bouquet from the Reapers circle King's Daughters; standing anchor and a star from the employes of Mr. Marnock; and bouquets at white and pink china asters, roses, pinks, sweet peas and cut flowers, from Flossie Flowers, Mrs. Drummond, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Spargo, Mrs. and Miss Dyer, Mrs. Sulu, Paul Revere W. R. C., Mrs. Kirtland, Mrs. Stronock, Jennie O'Hara, Mrs. Williams, Sadie Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Milne, Velma Curtis, W. C. Whitney, Mary McCabe, Lizzie Austin, Nellie and Willie Spargo, Polly McConnell, Mrs. Howard, Cousin Sadie, E. Johnson and family, Mr. and Mrs. Bisson, Aunt Maggie, and W. A. Smith.

The interment was at Mt. Wollaston.

—The lodges of the Knights of Pythias of Braintree, Weymouth, Hingham and Randolph will have a union field day on Labor day.

VISIT OF CUBAN TEACHERS.

Quincy will Long be Pleasantly Remembered by Them.

Interested in Granite Quarrying and Work on Torpedo Boats.

A Clam Chowder and Shore Dinner Went to the Right Spot.

One hundred and twenty-five of the Cuban teachers were the guests of the City, on Wednesday afternoon. Everything possible to make their visit a pleasant and memorable one was done, and it was certainly appreciated if anything could be judged from appearances. The teachers are very light hearted and happy and those who could speak English at all could not say enough about Mr. Frye, and how much he had done for them. As one young lady expressed it, he had been more than a father to them.

The party was made up largely of ladies although a few of the men teachers were also present. Some of the young ladies are but 14 years of age yet Mr. Frye says they are among the best of teachers. Another fact about them he told was that he did not know of one of those present who had not lost some relative in the war. He also said that it was a hard fight to get the Cuban people to allow them to come to America, as in Cuba they were not permitted to go about unless accompanied by a chaperon.

It was a grand thing for the teachers to visit America and mingle with the American people and untold benefits would result from their visit. The party was due to leave Boston on a special train at 1.23, but part of them were carried to Rowe's wharf by mistake and that made a delay. It was 2.30 when the train pulled into East Milton. Here they were joined by the Quincy party among whom were: Mrs. John O. Hall, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Nowland, Miss Mabel E. Adams, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Slade, Mrs. H. M. Willard, Miss Kate A. Raycroft, Miss Masters, Miss Alice L. White, Miss E. M. Freeman, Miss Bumpus, Mr. and Mrs. James Thompson, Miss Charlotte Burgess, Miss Marcean, Mrs. Emily White, Miss Georgiana Lane, Mrs. Geo. W. Morton, George Wendall, W. J. Parker, B. J. Weeks, George T. Magee and William Glennon. Mayor Hall and Luther S. Anderson accompanied the party from Boston.

The train ran onto the switch at the Granite Railway yard where another engine was coupled on, two being necessary to pull the train of three cars over the steep grade.

Arriving at the top of the hill the first place visited was the quarry of the Granite Railway Co. Quite a number of West Quincy people were present to get a look at the teachers including a hundred or more boys.

After inspecting the quarry the train was taken for the works of the Lyons Granite Co. Here the teachers saw the granite being polished and all were anxious for specimens, and before they left the small chips that showed any polished surface were reposing in the hands of the teachers.

Leaving the hill a stop was made at West Quincy to take on several teachers who had got left in Boston and had come to Quincy. From here the train run to Braintree and thence to Quincy Adams. The hour was too late to inspect the birthplaces of the Presidents Adams but they were explained to the teachers by the interpreter and Mr. Frye who also speaks Spanish.

Street cars were taken here and a quick run made to the Fore River Engine Works where they were divided into three parties for a tour of inspection. Each party had its interpreter and an hour was spent in going through the works. They were very much interested in the torpedo boat destroyers and several asked if they were going to Havana. Everything in the way of a souvenir was gathered and taken away.

By this time the ladies had begun to feel the pangs of hunger. In answer to queries if they were tired, they would reply in broken English "no tired but hungry."

From Weymouth the special cars took them to Quincy thence to the Shelton at Adams shore where a dinner was served. As they entered the hotel and got the odor of the clam chowder their faces were seen to light up with pleasure. Before entering the dining hall they sang the Cuban National Hymn and the Star Spangled Banner; the latter being in English.

At the close of the dinner Mayor Hall in a few brief remarks presented Mr. Frye with a handsome bouquet of flowers. The teachers could not understand what was said but they got the purport of it and when George W. Morton who had joined the party here called for cheers, they were given with a will. Music during the dinner was furnished by the Lord family.

The cars were taken for the depot at 8.30 and when they arrived in City Square there was quite a crowd present. It was an orderly crowd however, and although composed largely of men the ladies were treated with the utmost politeness. Henry Kittredge burned a few red lights in their honor, and while they were waiting for their train they sang their National Hymn several times, led by Mr. Frye and also America, both of which were loudly applauded by the crowd of bystanders. The special train left for Boston at 9.30 and as it pulled out of the depot three rousing cheers were given them.

The visit as a whole was certainly a great success and they will carry away with them a good impression of Quincy. Much credit is due Mayor Hall for the manner in which the affair was managed.

Superintendent Aldrich was expected to be present at the Shelton and say a word for Quincy, but was unable.

It was a great day for William Glennon and he stood head and shoulders over all his neighbors. William could speak Spanish and they could not, and while he was having a pleasant talk with the Cubans they had to look on in quietness.

Base Ball Gossip.

The South Quincy Base Ball team were to have played the Hyde Parks on Saturday last, but on Friday evening the management was notified that the Hyde Parks had cancelled the game. This was a severe blow to South Quincy, as it is now very late in the season, and the loss of even one game counts.

The Olympia A. A. of South Boston, will be the attraction at South Quincy on Aug. 11; Codman A. A. on Aug. 18; Dorchester, Aug. 25; South Shore, Sept. 1; North Attleboro, Sept. 8; Arlington B. C., Sept. 15; North Shore, Sept. 22

The South Quincys have an offer to play Pittsfields at Pittsfield on Labor day, but have not decided whether they will take it or not.

West Quincy and Quincy will soon fight it out for the championship of West Quincy and Quincy Point but that is all. If either team is looking for the championship of Quincy, they must not pass South Quincy by. South Quincy does not claim the championship of the city, but still there is "a little show for them."

Kramer, Foley and McManus have been signed by the South Quincy's to do the twirling. Lyons, formerly Boston college third baseman, has been secured by the Ward Three team, and they now have nineteen men on the list.

Everybody is welcome on their ground, and you are not "obliged to" neither are you "forced" to pay 10 cents for a ticket. The management wish to have you come to the games and guarantee that they will be both interesting and exciting.

At Thompson Island.

While Quincy was entertaining a party of Cuban teachers Wednesday, another hundred visited Thompson island off Squantum. The trip was made by electrics to City Point and by the school launch Pilgrim and a barge to the island. The manual training at the school interested the teachers, also the beautiful flower gardens. The band played and the teachers danced on the lawn. A lunch was served.

The band concert Wednesday evening attracted a large crowd to the field opposite Music Hall, Atlantic. The music began shortly after eight and the scene became lively, red lights being set off along Clive street, and even remnants of fire works blazed into the air. The untimely rain put an abrupt end to everything and the band stopped playing before ten.

HORRIBLES AT HOUGHS NECK.

The Two Days' Carnival Opened Auspiciously Today.

The Parade Makes a Circuit of the Entire Peninsular.

The Features and Prize Winners---Also Other Attractions.

The grand two days' mid-summer carnival at Houghs Neck opened this morning, and a better day for it could not have been wished. The heavy rain during the night laid the dust and the streets were in perfect condition for the parade which was to open the carnival.

The village was astir early, if the people slept at all and everybody was out to witness the parade. Some busied themselves, while waiting, in decorating their cottages, and by night there will be but few that do not bear some mark of decoration.

The parade was advertised to form at 7 o'clock, on Sea street near the Hodgkinson farm, and at that hour several of the features were on hand Others drew into line later so that at 8 o'clock, when the parade started, there was a large gathering.

The parade started down Sea street to the Willows thence over Manet avenue to Sea street and from there it went through every street at the beach. This lengthened the parade out so that it was nearly noon before it finished and the prizes were awarded.

There were several good features the two best being the automobile and the patrol wagon. The latter really made the hit of the day.

THE PARADE.

The line-up of the parade was as as follows:

Chief Marshal, C. F. Cook, Representing a cow boy.

Working Boys' Home Band,

The only square white man. An Indian chief.

A caravan drawn by four horses, representing a Frankfurt factory.

A carriage decorated with vegetables, and old clothing labeled: R. H. White, free delivery, goods delivered free of charge within 50 miles. Wholesale, retail, shirt tail.

A coon and his wife and child.

A boy on a wheel with a baby on behind.

A carriage containing two dudes.

An old team driven by a tough with another riding the horse. The team was decorated with bottles, jugs, etc., and a number of labels, some of which were: McKinley's babies—Welcome to Houghs Neck—5 cts. fare. In the team were eight boys with large masked faces. Trailing behind, was a baby carriage labeled "Boxer."

Uncle Sam, leading a captive Filipino and Spaniard. The sign read: "Uncle Sam has captured the Filipino and Spaniard. He is now after the Chinaman."

Boy riding a horse.

Team loaded with boxes and hard looking toughs, labelled: "Lookout for the auto"—"Houghs Neck Reform Club"—"We don't want watering carts"—"Steamer for Boston, $5 round trip"—"We don't want a Chief of Police."

An up-to-date tramp.

An Indian, his wife and child.

A patrol wagon drawn by a goat. In the wagon was a drunk. The outfit was escorted by a squad of police. The labels on this were: "How does this hit Meyers?" "Can you play checkers?" "Police by day, not by night." "Take a snake." "The only horseless patrol."

A clown drawing a toy cart.

Lady on horseback, the horse and rider was covered with spots of white, and the rider carried a banner reading—"Pilgrim in a snow storm."

A wagon lead by coons, driven by a clown, labelled, "Mayor of Houghs Neck."

Clown in a gig with a monkey on behind.

Carryall drawn by horse led by a coon, with a lady riding astride. The wheels were hung with tin cans. The label read—"We are the only Pebbles on the beach."

An admiral leading a captive.

A coon and his best girl.

Wagon trimmed with sunflowers and neor labelled "Botein an Fishen."

Team advertising the Boston Cash store.

A wagon-o-bile with cheese boxes for wheels.

Girl leading a lame dog.

Team labelled "Free today. Everybody invited to take a pail of water at the fountain."

The first six prizes were awarded as follows:

First—Police patrol.
Second—Automobile.
Third—Bicycle boy with baby.
Fourth—Frankfurt man.
Fifth—Horse and gig.
Sixth—Pilgrim in a snow storm.

The balance of the prizes were awarded so that nearly every feature in the parade received a prize of some description.

The judges for the parade were: P. R. Glass, Walter Tuell, L. Muther, H. P. Furnald and W. J. Tilley.

The prizes were twenty-five in number and consisted of $5 in gold, three fish dinners, row boat for a day, orders for groceries, dinners, shaves and hair cuts, ice cream, cigars, tintypes, your mug on a button, etc.

OTHER ATTRACTIONS.

The program for the balance of the day included the serving of ice cream to the children from 11 to 2 P. M., and this afternoon field sports, bean bag, ring contest and kite flying.

Chief Ripley has several special officers on duty to preserve order, and Chief Williams has the chemical from the central station, ladders and a force of firemen to handle any fire that may start.

Tomorrow the attractions will be: Sailing parties in the morning, water sports in afternoon, free entertainments and fireworks.

Corinthian Race.

In Wednesday's race the Lookout again outsailed the Hostess both on actual and corrected time, although by only 5 seconds by corrected time. The actual time was: Lookout, 1-11-52; Hostess, 1-13-56. The order in the H-O class was: Hanley, Empress, Al Kyris and Cartoon. First honors were taken by the Hanley, Flirt, Fantasy, Jolly Roger, Opitisah, Lookout, Sally IV, Agnes, and Gee Whiz.

TODAY'S COURT.

William Snow was arraigned for drunkenness at Quincy. Case continued until Friday.

Frank S. White was fined $5 for violating the Metropolitan Park rules.

Thomas Sullivan was fined $7 for drunkenness at Quincy.

W. W. Weightman was arraigned for keeping a liquor nuisance at Quincy, and Elizabeth W. Weightman was arraigned for the illegal sale of liquor. Both cases continued until Aug. 17.

Edward Kain and Gussie Avery were arraigned for larceny at Quincy. Cases placed on file.

B. F. Keith is to erect a $600,000 continuous performance house in London.

Melba is to take the role of Marie Antoinette in Puccini's new opera of that name.

"The County Fair" is to be revived, with Neil Burgess in his original role of Abigail Prue.

There will be 40 women beneficiaries in the home for indigent musicians built by Verdi in Milan at an expense of $100,000.

Mrs. Le Moyne is planning to give readings of Browning's poetical dramas the coming year, in addition to appearing in "The Greatest Thing In the World."

A herd of stampeded cattle is the latest thing in stage realism. The scene will close the first act of Augustus Thomas' new play, "The Gentleman From Texas."

The composer, Goldmark, is at work on a new opera, dealing with the life of the famous German, Goetz von Berlichingen, of the Iron Hand. Goldmark is 70 years old.

Mrs. Langtry will produce in London in the autumn a version of "The Queen's "Necklace" by Robert Buchanan. She will act the role of Marie Antoinette and of her double, Olivia.

Three plays dealing with the life of Benvenuto Cellini are to be presented soon in London. Luigi Lablache, who was here one season with Olga Nethersole, is to be the first in the field with a version of the old French play on this theme.

Mrs. Annie Yeamans was once a circus rider in Australia, and her husband was a clown. Their daughter, Jennie, made her first appearance as a little tot in the circus ring, giving imitations of her father and others.

THE DRESS MODEL.

Pliable black satin is used for some of the newest bathing costumes.

Transparent effects in every possible guise now stand at the head of the list of prevailing fashions both here and abroad.

All white dresses are quite as much the vogue as ever, despite the popularity of pale plue, pink and mauve. White liberty gauze makes the daintiest sort of a gown for summer afternoon wear.

Closely fitted waists of very sheer india mull or French lawn, made with graceful, softly folded surplice fronts, accompany many of the cool, dainty mourning dresses worn this summer.

Soft, delicate tints are greatly favored among elegant evening toilets, notwithstanding the fact that the most intense and striking colors have been much used by Parisian ateliers in the preparation of summer gowns.

Many dainty morning dresses are made of soft finished French zephyr and fancy madras, French gingham and mercerized muslin. Cream and green, pink and white, mauve and white and other delicate colors that look light and cool are often seen in these gowns.

Some of the new cloth and light wool costumes for early autumn wear will be made with a princess skirt, with a corselet top reaching about six inches above the waist line front and back. The pointed ends of the bolero en suite will just meet the girdlelike curve of the upper edge of the skirt.

Gold braid, small gold buttons and strappings and vests of Persian brocaded panne satin or oriental embroidery garnish the last new costumes of white vicuna, drap royal or English serge received from Paris designers. The distinctive tailor finish is a marked feature of all these gowns.—New York Post.

THE ROYAL BOX.

The czar of Russia said not long ago that his happiest moments were those passed in the library among the books at the Winter palace.

The Prince of Wales still pursues his law studies most systematically. He was chosen a member of the Middle Temple a number of years ago.

King Menelek of Abyssinia receives Europeans at his court on Sundays. His state posture on such occasions is to sit cross legged under a canopy of drapery.

The king of Bavaria was kept very short of money when he was a boy. One day he heard some one say that sound teeth were salable, and off he went to a dentist and offered to have his own extracted for a monetary consideration.

One of the favorite amusements of the empress of Russia is in drawing caricatures. Freed from the fear of the censor, she indulges with her pen and pencil in a way which makes even Russian ministers tremble, drawing them in caricature which would mean death or Siberia to any other artist.

Amateur Tied Professional.

Manchester, Vt., Aug. 9.—Walter J. Both men played brilliant golf, the features being Travis' long play and splendid approaches.

Forgiven by Divorced Spouse.

Muncie, Ind., Aug. 9.—Amos Rusie, the baseball pitcher, has married the wife who divorced him several months ago. The nuptial knot was tied secretly by a justice of the peace of this city a week ago. The $1000 alimony Mrs. Rusie was granted by the court in her suit was spent in providing a home for herself here. It will in the future be Amos' home, too. Both have forgotten —The illiteracy of Russia exceeds that of any other country claiming to have a civilized government. In 10,000 villages of the vast empire there is not a school, and it is estimated that not 20 per cent. of the population of the empire has acquired even the rudiments of a common school education.

Madame Yale's

HAIR TONIC

Ladies and Gentlemen.—It has gone on record that Madame Yale's Excelsior Hair Tonic is the first and only remedy known to chemical science found to be a genuine hair specific. It has an affinity for the human hair for nourishing and invigorating its entire structure. It is antiseptic in character, as well as stimulating; its action upon the scalp and hair is truly wonderful, inasmuch as it has never been known in a single instance to fail to cure scalp diseases and to create a luxuriant growth of healthy, beautiful hair. It stops hair falling within twenty-four hours and brings back the natural color to gray hair in nearly every instance. It is not a dye; it is not sticky or greasy; on the contrary it makes the hair soft, youthful, beautiful and glossy; keeps it in curl. It is a perfect hair dressing, and can be used by ladies, gentlemen or children as a daily toilet requisite. Its influence is delightfully soothing.

All Dealers sell it, $1 per bottle. Mail orders may be sent direct to the manufacturer,

A Lack of Cordiality.

Boston, Aug. 9.—The annual convention of the National Association of Boot and Shoe Manufacturers came to an abrupt ending Wednesday. The association was formed last year and was almost entirely made up of southern and western manufacturers. This was its first annual gathering, and to the surprise of the delegates there was scarcely any evidence of cordiality shown to them by the manufacturers in whose neighborhood they met. The gathering also was unfortunate in the absence of its president, Mr. James, and the departure of Vice President Drew.

Eland's River Garrison Captured.

London, Aug. 9.—The war office has received from Lord Roberts the following dispatch, dated Pretoria, Aug. 7: "Delarey, hearing of Ian Hamilton's approach toward Rustenberg, and seeing that he had no chance of capturing Baden-Powell, hurried off to Eland's river. Hamilton reported that firing in the Eland's river direction ceased yesterday, and that Lieutenant Colonel Hoare's garrison had evidently been captured. Hamilton left Rustenberg this morning, bringing Baden-Powell's force with him."

Escaped With Slight Hurts.

Boston, Aug. 9.—Two children fell from windows in Boston yesterday, but escaped practically unhurt. They were Viola Holliday, 7 years old, and Ize Zelmmon, 5 years. Viola fell 15 feet to the sidewalk. She was considerably shaken up but otherwise was uninjured, save that she was somewhat bruised. Ize escaped with a badly cut cheek.

Prize Fight Ended With Death.

New York, Aug. 9.—Victor Baldwin, 23 years old, was arrested last night on the charge of being an active participant in the prize fight which a few hours earlier ended in the death of his opponent, Ralph Miller, aged 19. Miller received a blow behind the right ear which sent him down and out, and he died while a doctor was tending him.

Looking Into Anarchists' Doings.

New York, Aug. 9.—Governor Voorhees was in Paterson, N. J., yesterday making an investigation in regard to the anarchist group there. The governor said that he did not believe that the plot to assassinate King Humbert was hatched in New Jersey. In his opinion the conspiracy had its origin in New York.

The continued brilliant work of the Japanese, who seem to have borne the brunt of the fighting at Peitsang, as well as at Tientsin, attracts unstinted praise for the doughty warriors of the Mikado's realm.

PARTIAL COMPLIANCE

With Demands of President In Reply to the Appeal For Mediation.

Hope That China May Make Complete Acquiescence.

Americans Escaped Without Casualties In the Fighting at Pietsang.

Washington, Aug. 9.—If Minister Wu's advices, that on Aug. 5 the Chinese government issued an edict allowing free and unrestricted communication between the imprisoned diplomats in Pekin and their home governments, be true, then China has in a measure forestalled vigorous American action called out by the receipt of Minister Conger's undated dispatch. Only in a measure, however, for while the Pekin authorities thus profess to comply with Secretary Hay's second demand, their sincerity will soon be put to test and the third condition remains to be fulfilled, namely, Chinese co-operation with the advance of the allies to Pekin.

The state department has sent a cipher message to Minister Conger, responsive to his message made public Tuesday night, and intended to test the assertion of the Chinese edict that free cipher communication would be allowed.

The message sent to the Chinese government through Mr. Wu, according to the best information obtainable, informs that government that the removal of the restrictions upon communication with our ministers, evidenced both by the receipt of Mr. Conger's message and the transmission of the edict of the 5th, is very gratifying, but is not an entire compliance with the original demands of the president in his reply to the appeal for mediation. The president, in his own original communication to the Emperor of China, laid down three conditions precedent to any action looking to negotiations for the settlement of the difficulties between China and the powers. These conditions, in the president's own words, were as follows:

"I most solemnly urge upon your majesty's government to give public assurance whether the foreign ministers are alive, and if so in what condition.

"2—To put the diplomatic representatives of the powers in immediate and free communication with their respective governments, and to remove all dangers to their lives and liberty.

"3—To place the imperial authorities of China in communication with the relief expedition so that co-operation may be secured between them for the liberation of the legation and the protection of foreigners and the restoration of order."

These three demands practically were reiterated in the dispatch which Secretary Hay sent to Consul General Goodnow at Shanghai, Aug. 1, for submission to Earl Li Hung Chang. The authorities consider that the opening of communication with Minister Conger, therefore, only partially complies with the president's demand. With the legationers still under fire, the Chinese government cannot be said to have removed "all dangers to their lives and liberty," and, moreover, so far as known here, the imperial authorities of China have made no efforts to communicate and cooperate with the relief expedition.

The demand upon the Chinese government is for square-toed compliance with these conditions. There is hope, growing out of the fact that the Chinese government has yielded partially, that when confronted with the firm position taken by the United States it will be sufficiently impressed to make complete acquiescence. This government's determination, it is hoped, will show the Chinese government that the United States is not to be trifled with, and will bring the shifting, evasive authorities in Pekin to a full realization of the situation and the consequences of refusal.

Minister Wu yesterday brought to the state department the imperial edict removing the restrictions from free communication with the ministers. He was plainly perturbed over Minister Conger's report that the legationers were under fire, but still contended that his government was acting in good faith and protested against a misinterpretation of the situation. He pointed out the fact that the absence of artillery fire might indicate that there were no regular troops engaged in the assault, and that the rifle fire spoken of by Mr. Conger simply might be the sniping of disgruntled irregulars, who were engaged in guerilla tactics.

Two dispatches were received yesterday, one from Admiral Remey and the other from General Chaffee. Both related to the fighting at Peitsang. Admiral Remey's dispatch stated specifically that the Americans were not engaged, and General Chaffee's dispatch explains how it was that they practically were out of it. They occupied the rear of the turning column. Owing to the limited ground of operations, which he mentions, it is probable that the Americans could not be brought into the thick of the fighting and they thus escaped without casualties. The fact that the American troops did not have an opportunity to distinguish themselves was something of a disappointment to the officials at the war department, but knowing General Chaffee as they do, they are confident if his men were not engaged it was because it was physically impossible to bring them into action. General Chaffee's dispatch follows:

"Chefoo, Adjutant General, Washington, Aug. 5.—Peitsang handsomely taken early this morning by Japanese troops, supported by English and Americans. Japanese loss considerable; English slight; Americans none. Ground very limited. In morning American troops occupied rear position, which was to form turning movement, but were unable to form in line. We will cross Pei Ho to left bank tomorrow morning and move to Yangtsun. Consul at Chefoo furnished copy of dispatch from tsung li yamen on July 30, which he has cabled. Chaffee."

THE SIEGE OF TIENTSIN.

Returning Soldiers Tell of Horrible Atrocities Committed by Chinese Fanatics.

Victoria, B. C., Aug. 9.—On the Empress of Japan, which arrived from the Orient yesterday, were 29 missionaries from north China. One, Miss Hawes, was in the compound at Wein Shan when it was rushed by the Boxers. She and several others escaped over a rear wall by means of a ladder.

Corporal Kennedy and Private Scott, who were at the siege of Tientsin, relate shocking stories of atrocities, among them one about the slaughter of 200 helpless coolies who were going up the Pei-Ho on a lighter under an engagement to do transporting for British parties. Another harrowing story is about a party of British, under command of Captain Bates, which was cut off from Admiral Seymour's column. According to the account they were hacked in pieces and the flesh of those first slain forced into the mouths of those not yet put to the sword.

The passengers report the suicide of Mrs. Westwater, a missionary and wife of Dr. Westwater, who killed herself while suffering from mental depression caused by her experiences at New Chwang.

Rev. Jonathan Lee and Mrs. Lee are among the passengers. The latter suffered a wound during the siege of Tientsin.

Italians' Devotion to King Humbert.

Rome, Aug. 9.—The widowed queen and Princess Maria Pia arrived here last evening. The royal party proceeded to the Quirinal, escorted by culrassiers, the spectators along the route baring their heads. Telegrams from the various cities and towns through which the funeral train passed say that the authorities and populace displayed signs of the deepests sorrow and of loyalty. Nine hundred municipalities have sent delegations to attend the funeral ceremonies. No fewer than 150,000 foreigners have arrived. Funeral wreaths are so numerous that it is impossible to find room for more on the ground floor of the Quirinal.

Death Attributed to a Scuffle.

Providence, Aug. 9.—Reuben Britton, about 40 years old, met his death Wednesday night after a scuffle with Thomas Moran on Fountain street. Both men have families in Olneyville, but recently have led vagrant lives apart from their families. They quarrelled over the possession of a pipe, and in the course of the quarrel exchanged blows. Britton fell to the sidewalk and never moved afterward. No marks of violence were found externally when the body was taken to the morgue. Moran was arrested. He claims the fall occurred several minutes after the altercation, and that one was not connected with the other.

Newsboys' Knockdown Argument.

New York, Aug. 9.—About 60 newsboys in the eastern district of Brooklyn are waging a war against two New York evening papers. The rates given them by the papers have been 60 cents per 100. The boys want the papers at 50 cents. A man who arrived from New York yesterday with a bundle of papers was knocked down and the papers torn into shreds. Another man, a little later, was treated likewise. Half a dozen newsboys were arrested.

A Murder Mystery.

New York, Aug. 9.—The man found bleeding and unconscious Monday morning on the meadows between Coney Island and Ulmer park, and who died of his injuries, was identified yesterday as William Kerrigan, better known as "Liverpool Jack," who was employed until recently at a concert hall on Coney Island's Bowery. Kerrigan came here from Boston. Detectives are looking for a clue to the murderer.

Two Reasons Given For Shutdown.

Pawtucket, R. I., Aug. 9.—Two sections of looms of the Manville mill have shut down. The statement is made at the mill office that low water is the cause. The striking loom fixers say the shutting down is because of the lack of loom fixers. If the fixers' claim is correct this is the first result of the strike, which was begun July 30.

Consumptive Becomes a Murderer.

New York, Aug. 9.—Despondent over his inability to live as he wished on the sum allowed him by his father, Joseph Rabiner, a consumptive patient, shot and instantly killed Isaac Stein, his brother-in-law; badly wounded his father, Jacob Rabiner, and then turned the weapon upon himself, with what is said to be fatal effect.

Ice Trust Has a Rival.

Albany, Aug. 9.—Articles of incorporation of the Peoples' Co-operative Ice company of New York city were filed with the secretary of state yesterday. It is proposed to harvest and deal in ice, to manufacture the artificial commodity and to do everything connected with a general ice business. The company has a capital of $200,000.

Will Get 100 Cents on the Dollar.

Boston, Aug. 9.—Receiver Stevens of the Commonwealth Mutual Fire Insurance company has filed his fourth account, showing additional receipts and disbursements since the third report. He is authorized to pay another 25 percent dividend, which will settle claims at 100 cents on the dollar.

To Look Over New England Ground.

New York, Aug. 9.—Senator Hanna and Mr. Bliss left the city last night for Boston. Chairman Hanna will remain there for two or three days to organize New England and confer with leaders. An effort to counteract the work of the anti-imperialists in that section will be especially put forth.

Concurred Not to Sail.

Seattle, Aug. 9.—The transport Pakling, which started Tuesday for China with cargo and animals, put back yesterday. It is said the boat is top-heavy. It will await government orders.

Anarchist Propaganda Not Dead.

Antwerp, Aug. 9.—Autographic anarchist placards have been found posted on the walls of public edifices here, announcing that the anarchist propaganda continues.

House Work

Seems easy to a man, but there is a great deal of lifting and reaching to do; a great many trips up and down stairs to make in the course of day's house work. It's hard where a woman is well. For a woman suffering with some form of "female trouble" it is daily torment. There are thousands of such women struggling along, day by day, in increasing misery. There are other thousands who have found a complete cure of their disease in the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It stops debilitating drains, cures irregularity, heals inflammation and ulceration, nourishes the nerves, and gives vitality and vigor. It makes weak women strong and sick women well. It contains no opium, cocaine nor other narcotic.

"For a number of months I suffered with female trouble," writes Miss Agnes McGowne, of 1212 Bank St., Washington, D. C. "I tried various remedies, but none seemed to do me any permanent good. The doctors said it was the worst case of internal trouble they ever had. I decided to write to you for help. I received a very encouraging reply, and commenced treatment at once. I had not used your 'Favorite Prescription' a week before I began to feel better, and, as I continued, my health gradually improved. It is improving every day."

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay cost of mailing only. Send 21 one-cent stamps for a book in paper covers, or 31 stamps in cloth, to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

PROGRESS IS SPLENDID

But London Papers Think That Allies Cannot Keep Up Present Rapid Rate.

Steady Application of Force May Make Pekin Understand.

But Little News Outside of Chaffee's Report of the Capture of Yang Tsun.

London, Aug. 10.—The editorials in this morning's papers generally incline to view the progress toward Pekin as thus far splendid, but one which cannot be maintained at the present rapid rate, as the concentration of supplies and the establishment of bases will cause inevitable delays.

The commissioner of customs at Shanghai has received a routine message from Sir Robert Hart, director general of imperial customs, showing that the latter is still conducting the business of imperial customs—a rather curious condition of affairs when it is taken in conjunction with the word "happily still alive," which he included in a dispatch which was dated Pekin, July 27.

Commenting upon Washington's latest communication to the Chinese government, The Daily Chronicle describes it as "idyllic diplomacy," and it declares the Chinese attempts to get the ministers to leave Pekin have convinced everybody, except Washington officials, that a steady application of force is the only argument Pekin can understand.

In the capture of Yang Tsun the losses of the allies, according to a dispatch to The Daily Express from Chefoo, dated Aug. 8, purporting to give an account of that engagement, were 200, the majority of these being killed.

"The allies marched on Yang Tsun," says this report, " at dawn Monday. The position held by 1500 Chinese was well entrenched to the east of the river. After four hours' heavy fighting the Chinese were driven from their defense works."

Another dispatch to the same paper, dated Tientsin, Aug. 6, recounts a reconnaissance that morning by the Japanese beyond Haiku, the result being that the enemy was developed in strong force, well fortified, at Wei Ho. The Chinese were superior in numbers, and, after facing the fire of seven guns, the Japanese retired on Haiku, with three killed and 27 wounded, but having captured 200 horses.

With the exception of these messages, General Chaffee's report is the only account published by the London morning papers telling of the capture of Yang Tsun.

To Pass Through United States.

Berlin, Aug. 10.—Field Marshal Von Waldersee, recently appointed to the supreme command of the German forces in China and looked upon in some quarters as likely to be chosen as commander-in-chief of the international troops, was interviewed last evening. "My appointment," said the general, "is due entirely to the initiative of Emperor William. I shall start for China, going probably by way of San Francisco, in a short time. I am fully aware of the great difficulties I shall have to meet in China and of the extreme delicacy of my position there, but I can only say that I shall do my best to prove myself worthy of the honor and of the confidence placed in me by the kaiser. Countess Von Waldersee will accompany me to the United States."

Neglected by the Authorities.

London, Aug. 10.—The Morning Leader says: The Canadian invalids, who sailed from Liverpool for Montreal yesterday on the Parisian, expressed their disappointment at the neglect of the military authorities in Liverpool. They said that, having experienced the life of the British soldier, under British officers, they had resolved to stay at home and to mind their own business in the future. Moreover, they promised to lay the facts before the Canadian ministers.

Iron Pool to Maintain Prices.

New York, Aug. 10.—It is learned that the representatives of the structural iron and steel companies met in secret session here Wednesday and, contrary to expectation, agreed to maintain prices. Trade prospects are reported to be excellent, some of the companies having booked orders for the first six months of next year.

Tennis Trophy Will Stay With Us.

Boston, Aug. 10.—The Davis tennis trophy is to remain here for at least one more year, the victory of Ward and Davis over Black and Barrett of England in doubles on the Longwood courts Thursday giving the Americans a majority of wins even if they should lose the two remaining matches.

ADMIRAL DEWEY GIVES HIS VIEWS.

Thinks Filipinos' Resistance Will Cease After November—State of War In China.

New York, Aug. 10.—In a Washington dispatch to the Brooklyn Eagle, Admiral Dewey is quoted as saying to The Eagle correspondent: "I regard the news from the Philippines as particularly encouraging. Aguinaldo's lieutenants are surrendering one after another. Whatever show of resistance to our authority there is at the present time in the Philippines will be kept alive by the leaders, who hold out to the soldiers the hope of Bryan's election.

"I regard the situation in China as exceedingly grave. The difficulties that our soldiers will have to contend against are many and various. The conditions that exist there are very much the same as those in the Philippine islands."

When asked whether, in his opinion, there was really a condition of war now existing between this country and China, he said: "I should say most assuredly yes. They are killing our people and our soldiers are fighting hard for their lives. It is very significant, the sending for Li Hung Chang by the Dowager Empress. In this day of dire distress it is not surprising that such government as there is at Pekin should turn to the only really great man of the country. I think that the allies are doing well to keep Li Hung Chang where he is. It is better for our people to have him under their eyes than at Pekin."

Returns to First Love.

St. Paul, Aug. 10.—A Butte, Mont., special to The Pioneer Press says: Ex-United States Senator Lee Mantle, chairman of the state committee of the Silver Republicans, has written a letter formally renouncing his allegiance to that party and going back to the Republican party. Mr. Mantle says: "To my mind the paramount issue today is the issue of maintaining the honor and dignity of the nation and the supremacy of its flag wherever it is rightfully floating."

SENATOR MANTLE.

Jeffries Ready to Tackle Winner.

New York, Aug. 10.—Everything is in readiness for the fight between Fitzsimmons and Ruhlin tonight. Fitzsimmons weighs 165 and Ruhlin 195. The fighters are to receive 50 percent of the receipts, the winner taking 75 percent. Charles White will referee. Jeffries, the present heavyweight champion, has issued a statement that he is ready to take on the winner of the contest before Sept. 1. The betting is in Fitzsimmons' favor.

Failed to "Raise the Wind."

Managua, Aug. 10.—The representatives of the Inter-Oceanic Canal company have been unsuccessful in their efforts to get an extension of time for depositing with the government of Nicaragua $400,000 in gold and beginning the construction of a railroad and canal across the country.

Charleston Made a Cotton Port.

Charleston, Aug. 10.—The Southern railway has allowed the announcement to be made that Charleston is to be made a port of "concentration and substitution for cotton." This change will affect the season about to open by putting this place on an equal footing with other Atlantic ports.

A Sailor's Terrible Fate.

St. John's, Aug. 10.—While the British cruiser Charybdis, flagship of the fishery squadron, was preparing to cast anchor in the straits of Belle Isle, Boatswain's Mate Inglis was caught in a coil of the anchor chain and literally torn to fragments.

Death of Captain Welby.

London, Aug. 10.—Sir Redvers Buller reports the death from wounds of Captain Welby of the Eighteenth Hussars, well known for his explorations in China and Thibet. Last year he explored parts of Abyssinia.

Pierce Beaten In Twenty-Mile Race.

Springfield, Mass., Aug. 10.—Harry Caldwell defeated Burns Pierce in a 20-mile motor paced race on the Coliseum track Thursday evening in 34:50 3-5, winning by 240 yards.

Best Horse Came In Second.

Saratoga, Aug. 10.—Kinley Mack won the Beverwyck handicap for 3-year-olds and upwards, value to winner $3500, to the second $1500, to the third $500, from a good field Thursday afternoon, but the victory was in a sense a fluke, for Ethelbert was almost left standing at the post, and at the end was only beaten by a head. Mortimas secured third money, a length away. The mile was run in 1:41.

Fears of a Lynching.

Atlanta, Aug. 10.—One hundred picked men from the Georgia national guard have been selected by Governor Candler to accompany Sam Robinson, a negro, charged with criminal assault upon Mrs. Inzer, from this city to Marietta today, where he is to be tried for the crime. A lynching is feared.

WITH THE POLITICIANS.

HANNA
AT THE HUB.

SAYS MASSACHUSETTS
Is Hot Bed of Imperialism.

Boston, Aug. 10.—Boston was visited on Thursday by Chairman Hanna and Treasurer Bliss of the Republican national committee for the purpose of conferring with party leaders in this state regarding the conduct of the approaching presidential campaign. One of their earliest visitors was Mr. Meyer, the Massachusetts member of the national committee, and the party was driven from the Touraine to the Exchange club, where, with 20 or more gentlemen prominent in Republican political circles, they lunched and discussed matters of deep concern to the party.

The conference between Senator Hanna and the Republican leaders lasted for nearly three hours. It was not the policy of Senator Hanna to have the detailed discussion given publicity. It was said, however, that the senator spoke strongly in warning the members of the party present to head off the anti-imperialist movement in this state. "Outside of this state," said the senator, "the movement has little weight, but in Massachusetts it has found a hot bed."

In discussing Bryan's speech, the senator declared that Bryan is attempting to disguise the real issue, which is 16 to 1. He urged a vigorous campaign and told those present that if a victory is to be won they must get out and fight.

Mr. Meyer, in a hurried interview, said that the meeting had been only for the purpose of affording Senator Hanna an opportunity to discuss the conduct of the campaign with prominent business men of the party. Mr. Meyer was empowered to appoint an auxiliary committee for campaign work, and will announce its personnel later.

Speakers at the meeting besides Senator Hanna and Cornelius J. Bliss were Senators Hoar and Lodge, Mr. Meyer and Mr. Gostting, chairman of the Republican state committee. It was said that the question of raising campaign funds was not discussed at length, but that that matter will be left to Mr. Meyer's committee.

After the other gentlemen had left, Senator Lodge remained to talk over the situation with Messrs. Hanna and Bliss, and shortly after 4 all left the building, Senator Hanna and Mr. Bliss returned to New York last night.

Pugnacious Sailors In Irons.

Pensacola, Fla., Aug. 10.—Eight of the crew of the British ship Kings County are in irons aboard the ship at the quarantine station. It is said they became unruly, and in defiance of the health laws went ashore at the quarantine station and threatened the life of Port Physician White, and began to terrorize the employes of the station. They will be kept in irons until the ship is released from quarantine, and then tried before the British vice consul.

Jackies Were an Atraction.

Belfast, Me., Aug. 10.—The local celebration in connection with Old Home Week Thursday, which included a parade, in which 150 blueJackets from the battleship Texas formed the most prominent feature, yacht races and band concerts, was the most elaborate demonstration held in this city for years, and attracted large numbers of people from miles around. The illuminations and decorations throughout the city were profuse.

Boy Charged With Serious Crime.

Rockland, Me., Aug. 10.—George Niles, aged 16, is under arrest, charged with kicking his mother in the side, inflicting injuries which are liable to prove fatal. Young Niles, it is alleged, was under the influence of liquor, and demanded money of his mother. This she refused to give him, and then, it is said, he proceeded to beat and kick her unmercifully. The woman was found in an unconscious condition by neighbors.

Defense About Ready to Rest.

Georgetown, Ky., Aug. 10.—It is believed the defense will complete its testimony on behalf of former Secretary of State Powers today. In Thursday's session of the case the business of impeaching and contradicting witnesses continued. The proceedings were again interrupted by a spat between Mr. Owens of the defense and the court, which resulted in a $10 fine.

BRYAN
AT CHICAGO.

URGES FORMATION
Of Clubs.

Chicago, Aug. 10.—Messrs. Bryan, and Stevenson arrived in this city yesterday afternoon from Indianapolis. Mr. Bryan and party were driven to the Auditorium, where Mr. Bryan will remain for several days for the purpose of consultation with Chairman Jones and members of the national committee regarding the conduct of the campaign. When he leaves here he will go to his home in Lincoln, where he will remain during the balance of the month.

Today Mr. Stevenson will proceed to Lake Minnetonka, where he will remain for some weeks. The following address was issued last night:

"To the Democrats of the United States: The Democratic party and its friends must meet the forces of corruption and intimidation in politics this year by thorough organization. A Democratic club or society should be organized in every city, town, village and precinct in the United States. Democrats and all who are in sympathy with the principles set forth by the Kansas City platform are urgently requested to join Democratic clubs, or if none exists, to assist in organizing them. This work of uniting the forces of law and liberty into one great systemized civic army should be carried on simultaneously in every part of the country and without delay.

"The friends of government, according to the hitherto unchallenged American theory of political equality everywhere under our flag, cannot afford to be less zealous or less active than the advocates of an American colonial empire supported by rifles.

"No patriotic children can ignore the attacks which are being made upon the very foundations of our present irreproachable form of government. This year every citizen should be a politician. Clubs and societies should at once communicate with the 'secretary of the National Association of Democratic clubs, 1370 Broadway, New York city,' so that the united membership may work systematically in defense of the republic as the fathers made it. All Democratic committees are requested to aid the National Association of Democratic clubs in this work."

The address is signed by W. J. Bryan, Adlai E. Stevenson, James K. Jones and William R. Hearst.

Republican Split In Tennessee.

Nashville, Aug. 10.—After numerous meetings and conferences lasting three days the two Republican factions in Tennessee, led by Congressman Brownlow and Pension Commissioner Evans, split wide open yesterday on the harmony negotiations, and at present the gulf between the two wings of the party is wider than ever. The fight will continue through the campaign.

The Customary Warning.

Washington, Aug. 10.—The civil service commission has requested various heads of departments to issue an order warning against political assessments in order that employes may be fully informed of their rights in making or withholding political contributions, and also warning officials against violating the penal provisions of the law.

Anarchists Creating Trouble.

Pittsburg, Aug. 10.—About 150 Italians have been rioting near Zollersville for two days. The men are laying the pipe line for the Wheeling Natural Gas company. Half are said to be anarchists, who have been celebrating the assassination of King Humbert, and refusing to allow the others to work. Those loyal to the dead king's memory have been contesting for their rights. Many of the rioters have been wounded, but none are dead.

Six Murder Suspects.

New York, Aug. 10.—The Brooklyn detectives believe they have a tangible clew to the mysterious murder of James Kerrigan, formerly of Boston, who was found on the West End trolley tracks near the bridge over Coney Island creek. Six men have been arrested on suspicion of being concerned in the death of Kerrigan, and they were held in $2000 bail each.

Jumped From State House Dome.

Columbus, O., Aug. 10.—F. M. Rennick of Falling Springs, W. Va., leaped from the roof of the state house yesterday and was dashed to death on the stone pavement of a court, 50 feet below. He had climbed out on the roof through a window in the dome. Rennick, it is said, was a victim of the opium habit.

Railway Employes May Start a New Line.

St. Louis, Aug. 10.—At a meeting of the executive committee of the Railway Employe's union Thursday a committee was appointed to organize a company and enter the street railway business for the union in St. Louis. It is stated the committee will proceed to the work at once.

Bullet In His Abdomen.

New York, Aug. 10.—John Marble, a theatrical manager, was shot in the abdomen last night by Harry Collins, a bandman in Marble's theatrical company, during a quarrel. The shooting occurred in a saloon. Marble is dangerously wounded. Collins was arrested.

Mortgagee's Sale.

Good Afternoon.

Pleasant weather, moonlight evening, numerous attractions, good car service and an efficient committee are all cooperating to make the Houghs Neck carnival a perfect success.

Quincy Point was loyal to Supt. Frye, who was educated at the Washington school and personally known to many. But for the interest of Misses Freeman, White and Raycroft, Mr. and Mrs. Slade and others of Ward Two, the visit would not have been the success that it was.

The tax rate of $18.20 is indeed a happy disappointment. Scarcely anyone expected so large a reduction, and many were sure there would be an increase, but for the Metropolitan assessments the rate would be $17 or less. We congratulate the administration of Mayor Hall for what it has accomplished for the tax payers. It is but the beginning of a reduction in the tax rates, as the maturing city debt will hereafter be much smaller, especially after 1901. For a few years the city has been paying its debt very rapidly.

Drift of Opinion.

☞ Boston people who amuse themselves in hot weather by taking long rides on trolley cars to Providence, Nashua and Newburyport, are called "trolliacs" in local parlance.—New Britian News.

☞ Judgment, vitality and mental and physical activity and poise—not to speak of the inexplicable quality known as "personal magnetism" which is the almost exclusive property of men physically strong and which is so conducive to success—every man must have who succeeds in American politics. And they are qualities which are seldom found combined in persons who have not well developed muscles as well as cultivated minds.—Meriden Journal.

☞ The Sugar Trust believes in the law of compensation. It lost a lot of money by a big fire the other day, and now has advanced the price of refined sugar another 10 cents on the hundred pounds. This makes an increase of 40 cents within a few weeks. The price of raw sugar has remained the same, so that this increase in price is all clear profit to the Trust. It need not carry any policies on its property, for it can make the people insure all property and pay all its fire losses. There isn't a slicker condition than this on the face of mother earth.—Milford Journal.

☞ The statistical report of the interstate commerce commission shows, for the year ending June 30, 1899, the total single track mileage in the United States was 189,294, an increase for the year of 2,898. This increase is greater than for any year since 1893. The aggregate length of mileage including tracks of all sorts, was 252,364. There were 36,703 locomotives in service at the end of the year, or 469 more than for the year ended June 30, 1898. The total number of cars of all classes in the service was 1,375,916, an increase of 49,742. The number of persons employed on railroads was 928,924, an increase for the year of 54,366. All these improvements are a part of the existing prosperity under this administration.—Haverhill Gazette.

REDUCTION IN TAX RATE.

Unexpected Good News from the Assessors of Quincy.

Made Possible by a Reduction of the City Tax Levy.

Various Comparisons of the Tax Rate, Valuation Levy and Polls.

Although the new Metropolitan sewer assessment and the increase in the Metropolitan water assessment amount to $18,711.49 and requires nearly 90 cents of the tax rate, the Assessors have good news to report to the taxpayers this year. The rate will not be 90 cents larger, or as large as last year, but instead it will be $18.20, or $1 lower than last year, and 15 cents below the average for four years. This makes the average tax rate for Quincy for seven years just $18 per $1,000.

The tax rates of Quincy for 36 years have been:

The reduction in the tax was not accomplished by any extravagant increase in the valuation of the city, as the increase has been only $499,517, which is below the average, either for two, five or ten years. The total valuation is now over twenty millions, which is more than double what it was in 1888 when Quincy became a city. The Assessors figures of 1900 are:

Personal estate,	$2,303,065
Real estate,	17,700,860
Resident bank tax,	179,901
Total valuation,	$20,183,836

Tax rate of 1900, $18.20 per $1,000.
Number of polls, 6,337.

FIGURES OF 1899.

The Assessors' totals of last year are given for comparison:

Personal estate,	$2,316,025
Real estate,	17,202,050
Resident bank tax,	166,044
Total,	$19,684,319

Tax rate for 1899, $19.20 per $1,000.
Number of polls, 6,502.

THE TOTAL LEVY.

The reduction in tax rate was possible because of a decrease of over $10,000 in the total levy. This was accomplished in face of the increased appropriations for current city expenses by the large increase in city receipts. The State tax is the same as last year, but the county is more. Metropolitan work is beginning to cut considerable figure, which will be even larger when the assessment for parks and boulevards is included. A comparison of the two years is given herewith:

THE LEVY OF 1900.

State tax,	$10,005.00

LOSS IN POLLS.

The number of polls shows a loss of nearly 200, which is accounted for because of the absence of so many granite cutters from the city on May 1. This loss will probably be fully made up before the Presidential election in November. A comparison of the number of polls since Quincy became a city is given. The figures by wards for 1900 are not at hand:

CITY BREVITIES.

A Local Budget with the News in a Nut Shell.

Beautiful moonlight evenings.

Less than four weeks more of the school vacation.

Another rousing hot day for the Houghs Neck carnival.

Miss Susie Page of Wollaston Park is visiting at Somerville.

Miss Maud Briggs of Appleton street has left Atlantic for a few weeks.

Grand "Snip" party at the Wollaston Yacht club house next Tuesday evening.

Miss Hattie May Page of West Somerville is visiting relatives at Wollaston Park.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Pratt and Mr. and Mrs. Amos Damon spent Sunday very pleasantly at Highland Park.

Auctioneer Johnson will sell furniture of Mrs. A. S. Bryant of Upland road at auction next Tuesday.

Mrs. Stephen Bennett of Newbury avenue has been ill for a few days, being threatened with appendicitis.

A. E. Linnell, with a party on his yacht Neptune, sailed Thursday for Portland, Me., on a two weeks' cruise.

People will begin to figure now that the tax rate has been announced to see what the size of their tax bill will be.

The Ladies' Council, auxiliary to the Wollaston Yacht club, will give a hop, the first of a series of six, tomorrow night at the club house.

The moonlight sail given by the Wollaston Yacht club on Wednesday, evening was generously attended, after which a social time, including dancing and singing at the club house, was enjoyed.

Chief of Police Ripley, Liquor Officer Ferguson and Officers Morrissey, Nicol, John Bradley, and Daveron raided the premises of Cataldo Coleti on Willard street Thursday night and seized fourteen bottles of beer.

The many friends of Master Fred Litchfield were well pleased at the success he and his companions met with at Houghs Neck on Thursday, in securing the first prize in the "horrible procession." "Fred is all right."

Vice Commodore E. A. Merrill of the Wollaston Yacht club took a party to Houghs Neck Thursday evening on his yacht Thema II, to witness the carnival events, "Gene" says, "its a long way from Houghs Neck to Wollaston in the night, with hardly a breath of air."

It was reported to the police early this morning that the 11-year old son of William Meuse had gone to Houghs Neck Thursday night and had not turned up. The officers found the boy at Houghs Neck all right. He returned home this morning and said he got tired and had laid down for a nap.

The members of the Houghs Neck police department, Leo and Tom Elcock, Fred Litchfield and Martin Heaney arrived in City Square last evening with their horseless patrol. They were met by Chief Ripley and various members of the Quincy police force. Officer Barry kindly held the goat while the chief invited the boys to a treat of ice cream and soda.

Revere's Great Carnival Week.

The big free out-door carnival arranged to take place at Revere beach next week will be one of the biggest events in the history of the town.

It will open next Sunday and will continue for the entire week. The plans include free band concerts each day and evening at different points along the beach front, two different bands having been engaged for this purpose. Every afternoon at high tide there will be a grand balloon ascension and parachute jump into the ocean. There will also be swimming and rowing races and other special features in the afternoons and each evening there will be a grand display of water fire works.

Two horses, King and Queen, will dive from a tower, 40 feet high, into a tank of water each afternoon.

Political Potpourri.

The First Norfolk Republican Senatorial committee has organized with Frank F. Prescott of Quincy as chairman, Frederick M. French of Randolph as secretary, and C. C. Mellen of Braintree as treasurer. The convention will be held in Boston probably Oct. 1.

The Dorchester Beacon is enthusiastic for Dr. Pierce of Milton as the Republican candidate for Congress in the Tenth district, and says he would redeem the district.

Enjoyable Field Sports at Houghs Neck Carnival.

Fireworks, Band Concerts, and Other Attractions in the Evening.

Sailing Parties Today and Fireworks and Illumination Tonight.

Today is the second and final day of the mid-summer carnival at Houghs Neck, and the indications this morning were that the day would be fully as pleasant and hot, if not hotter than Thursday.

The attendance Thursday was all that could be desired. During the early forenoon the street railway finding that the crowds were commencing to move in the direction of Houghs Neck put on fifteen-minute time and along toward 1 o'clock it was found that even this was hardly sufficient and two and three cars were sent out every fifteen minutes. Along toward night even this was not enough and on some of the trips five and six cars were sent down at a time. The double track and additional turnouts proved a blessing and the passengers experienced none of those tiresome waits at turnouts, or the going ahead and then backing that has characterized illumination day in previous years.

Practically schedule time was kept up until late at night, and never were the crowds handled with so little grumbling as Thursday night. To estimate just how many were present would be impossible, for they scattered all over the beach. Everybody who had a cottage kept open house and entertained guests and a grand good time was the result. Fakirs were there by the score and it was possible to purchase anything from a bag of pop corn to a ham sandwich. There was the African dodger, the cane ring, peaches five cents a dozen, bananas all ripe, good cigars, etc., with a question mark after the cigar.

It was on the whole an orderly crowd, and the squad of police had but little to do, other than to watch the games and for this they had reserved positions. After the morning parade was over, and the hundreds of children had filled up with ice cream, there was a little rest until 2 o'clock at which hour the field sports were held.

THE FIELD SPORTS.

The field sports took place near the junction of Sea and Bell streets and Centre road and were under the direction of A. H. Taber, Perley Glass and Henry P. Furnald. While the sports were in progress the Working Boys' Home band gave an excellent concert.

The several sports resulted as follows:

100-yard dash—William Jones first, John Gardner second, Chester Rich third.

Three-legged race—Gillrane and Foy first, Littlewood and Thomas second, Esson and McLaughlin third.

Potato race—George Esson first, Bert Brown second, Edward Delaney third.

Egg race—Eddie Taber first, Willie Delaney second, William Galvin third.

Barrel roll—Leslie Rich first, Edward Delaney second, Walter Dolan third.

Shoe race—Walter Dolan first, Edward Delaney second, George Kelley third.

Sack race—James Burns first, William McCarthy second, Walter Bavin third.

Pie eating contest—Wm. McCarthy first, Walter Luther second, Edward Berry third.

Running broad jump—F. Beal first, Thomas Ferguson second, Lawrence Oxley third.

Special jumping match—won by E. McCarthy.

Kite flying contest—Robert Hardwick first, Edward Regan, second, Edward Taber third.

IN THE EVENING.

Then came another rest until night, meanwhile cottagers were busy decorating for the evening. As a whole the illumination was not as general as in previous years, but perhaps tonight will make up for it. Several cottages however were very handsomely decorated, while over toward Rock Island the Harbor Light with its many lanterns stood forth like a bacon.

A cool easterly breeze prevailed for the greater part of the day and evening and many of the young people took in the dances. These were held at the Casino and at the Fensmere.

The fireworks this year were set off from a float anchored in the water off the Great Hill house. This was an admirable idea, and the man who suggested it deserves a vote of thanks It was possible to sit on the lawn in front of the house and enjoy the display without danger from flying sparks and stamping horses. Quite a display was given including one set piece with the word "welcome."

Directly in front of the Great Hill House there was anchored a Chinese junk, and the crowd waited anxiously to see it blown up. Along about 9 o'clock one of the allied force was seen to silently approach the junk in a torpedo boat destroyer propelled by one oar. Evidently the crew of the junk were asleep for, the crew of the destroyer boarded the junk, and after lighting a fuse quickly and silently stole away.

The lighted fuse evidently awakened the crew of the junk, for their port guns boomed forth a shower of colored shells which fell harmlessly into the water. Then there came a deafening report and when the smoke cleared away it was seen that the sides of the junk had been blown out and that she was filling rapidly. If any of the crew of the junk escaped destruction they did not show themselves.

This wound up the display of fireworks, but the band concert continued, and the crowd wandered about the beach.

Many took the cars for home as quickly as possible, but others remained down to take the last car, and it was therefore late, or rather early in the morning before they got home.

Those who drove to the beach in carriages or made the trip on their bicycles feel grateful to Commissioner Knowlton who saw to it that lanterns were hung on the telephone poles through the dark places, this doubtless preventing the usual number of collisions.

ATTRACTIONS TODAY.

Today there was a band concert and other attractions at Fensmere beach, and sailing parties for the ladies and children.

This afternoon at 1 o'clock there were water sports and tonight there will be more fireworks and a band concert.

There will also be a more general illumination of the cottages.

At Gridley Bryant School.

The second "Mothers' Afternoon" in connection with the Summer Kindergarten at the Gridley Bryant school, was held Wednesday; seventeen mothers being present. At the first meeting, July 19th, Miss Dickey the teacher in charge, spoke briefly of Froebel, his scheme of education, the aim of Kindergarten training and how the mother by intelligent cooperation could aid in their attainment.

All were given an opportunity to make suggestion or inquiries and cordially invited to observe the practical working of the method as demontrated in the daily work of the school.

On Wednesday punctuality and discipline were among the points discussed. On both occasions the last hour was devoted to social enjoyment, during which lemonade and biscuit were served by a committee from the Home Science Association.

It would be impossible to over estimate the value of these "Mother Afternoons. Not only do they establish those personal relations between the parents and teachers, which are so indispensable to kindergarten work, but they also bring in contact the parents and a very considerable number of those through whose efforts the schools have been established and mantained, that which can hardly fail to have valuable results in directing the future work of the Association.

While the work owing to the brief period during which it its carried on, is and necessarily must be incomplete and unsatisfactory, no one who listens to the universal expression of appreciation and gratitude on the part of the mothers whose children come under its influence, can doubt that even these few weeks of traning in gentleness, industry and order are of permanent and exceeding value to the community.

That Hay Case.

Editcrs of the Quincy Daily Ledger:

The account of the case brought against us by James P. Landers, published in your paper, from its incompleteness, does us much injustice, though this result was unintentional on your part. The case and facts are as follows: We hired from Mr. Cochrane, agent for the owners, certain lots of land in Wollaston Park for 1899, and paid Mr. Cochrane, for the use of such lots. We occupied then openly, cut the hay, cultivated part for a vegetable garden and all this was known by all of our neighbors. We also hired the same lots of Mr. Cochrane for the year 1900, and paid him for the use of the lots for that year, and this included our right to cut the hay as in the year before.

After this last letting to us the owner sold these lots to Mrs. Fallhauber and said Cochrane in equal shares. The two latter made an agreement —that no contract should be made in reference to these lots without Mr. Cochrane's consent, and Mr. Cochrane permitted and authorized us to go on and use these lots as if no sale had been made.

One day in June, Mr. Landers sent a man in our absence to cut the grass on these lots. On coming home we notified the man to stop, as the grass was ours, which he did. We gathered this hay to put in our barn, as we had bought it and paid for it. Thereupon Mr. Landers swore out a warrant against us and caused us both to be arrested for larceny. This was not all. Although Officer Goodhue had the warrant on Friday he did not serve it until Sunday afternoon, when one of us, Haverlock Keith, was coming home from church with a lady and the arrest was made at that time, although we live here permanently with our families and do not have the remotest idea of going away So that the arrest on Sunday was not only useless, but reprehensible we believe.

The next day we appeared in court with our witnesses ready for a trial, but Mr. Landers was not ready, and got a continuance till Aug. 2d. On Aug. 2d we were again ready for trial with our witnesses, but Mr. Landers sent word he was not able to come. Mr. Cochrane testified to letting the lots to us as above stated, and to our payment for the use of the lots and for the grass. The judge found both not guilty.

The above facts can be verified easily, and we ask all fair-minded men if an outrage has not been committed in our arrest. If persons can be arrested and locked up under such circumstances no one is safe.

Stoughton Musical Society.

The committee having in charge the annual reunion of the Old Stoughton musical society to be held at Highland Park, Tuesday, Aug. 14th announce the following as the final arrangements:

Members of the Society are expected to be in their seats at 1 o'clock, P. M., and are requested to bring the "Centennial Collection" and the Peace Jubilee Book of 1872.

The Chorus will as usual be under the direction of Mr. Nelson Mann, of Randolph, and will have special seats provided for them. The orchestra will be under the direction of Mr. E. A. Jones of Stoughton.

The programme will begin at 1 P. M. and after the address and choruses, interspersed with a few solo numbers in which will appear Fred S. Sprague, Brockton, with Mrs. E. P. Blake, accompanist, will come the usual entertainment at 3 P. M.

After the entertainment there will be a social hour when old friends can meet and talk over old times.

Supper can be had by private basket or at the Park restaurant.

After supper will come the beautiful display of the electric fountain followed by the band concert by Martland's Band, making a day full of enjoyment for the members and all their friends.

The John F. Merrill Co.

The certificate of incorporation of the John F. Merrill Co. of Quincy was filed July 30, 1900. The capital stock is $5,000 the number of shares 50 and the value of each share $100. Thomas Swithin is president of the board of directors, John F. Merrill treasurer, and the third member is Timothy O'Connell. In the certificate the purpose of the organization is given as follows:

Buying and selling, at wholesale and retail, of groceies, meats, provisions, confectionery, drugs, novelties, dry goods, household furnishings, gentlemen's furnishings, tinware, hardware, wooden ware, etc., beverages, soda, boots, shoes, rubbers and shoe findings. It is a Massachusetts corporation.

TODAY'S COURT.

James E. Powers was fined $5 for drunkeness at Randolph.

William B. Star was arraigned for the larceny of stockings, suspenders, cologne and collar buttons from Louis Skoler at Quincy. He pleaded nolo contendere and was fined $3.

The liquors seized from Joseph Pedasola at Quincy were forfeitted.

Eli F. Gaby was arraignod for adultery at Weymouth. He was discharged for want of probable cause.

FATAL ECONOMY.

A VERY old maxim declares that it isn't economy to pick up pins; the time is worth more than the pins. Similarly it is not true economy to do without Ivory Soap; your health requires the daily removal of the bodily excretions which are discharged through the pores of the skin. These tiny mouths must be kept open, and they should be opened only with a pure soap.

CHAMPION FULLY IDENTIFIED

As the Man Who Murderously Assaulted Young Poole at Boston.

Alfred, Me., Aug. 10.—Without the least assistance from any of the officers present, and with every precaution taken to give the suspected a fair chance to clear himself from any conection with the affair, Harold Poole, the 15-year-old sailor lad, who was cruelly assaulted and robbed in Boston, where he lay unconscious for some days, positively identified his assailant from among over 50 other prisoners in the York county jail, as George H. Champion, the man accused of the quadruple tragedy at West Newfields on the night of June 10 last.

Poole, whose skull had been fractured, lay in the hospital hovering between life and death for many weeks. Champion was suspected of knowing something of the assault, and he stoutly denied any connection. No way remained but to await the recovery of the lad.

Champion, who is awaiting the action of the grand jury when it convenes at the September term of the supreme judicial court, has been an inmate of the jail since June 14, when he was arrested after a somewhat exciting pursuit by officers. He was not told of the proposed visit of Poole, and he has asserted all along that the boy would clear him of all suspicion. That the result has been decidedly the opposite was shown when Poole, from among a large number of prisoners who had been given the freedom of the corridors, at the request of Captain Dugan to pick out the man who tried to murder him, walked directly to Champion, and, placing his hand on the prisoner's breast, turned to the officer and said: "This is the man." The accusation nearly felled Champion for an instant, but he soon regained his composure.

TAKING THE REINS.

It took 13 heats to decide a matinee race at Milwaukee recently.

According to an expert, The Bondsman is pretty nearly the kingpin unmarked trotter on the turf today.

J. W. Colt has purchased for $1,500 the 6-year-old chestnut horse Three Bars, by Wagner out of Voltic. The horse will be devoted to the jumping game.

Sweitzer, a son of Secretary, was the first horse to get a record below 2:15 in California this year. He won the first heat of the first race at Santa Rosa in 2:13½.

When Dione trotted in 2:07¼ at Santa Rosa, Cal., A. P. Spreckels had the satisfaction of knowing that two mares he bred have records of better than 2:09. The other is Hulda, 2:08½.

Captain Tuttle, a Goshen horseman, has had great success in Austria. He has sold most of the horses which he took over there with him last winter, besides winning several important races.

A statistician has computed that American harness horses will this year race for stakes and purses representing an amount something over $2,000,000, $55,000 of which comes from New York.

Bet Madison, by James Madison, 2:17¾, took a record of 2:30 as a 2-year-old in 1893 and never got below that mark until a few days ago when she started at the San Jose (Cal.) meeting 2:14½, cutting the mark down to 2:13¼ 2:15½ and 2:17½.

In a recent work out, Hal B. 2:04½; Free Bond, 2:08; Fanny Dillard, 2:08¾; Laralie, 2:12¼, and Sidney Pointer, 2:14¼, started from the wire in a bunch. At the half mile pole Sidney stepped away from the bunch and finished in 2:08¼, last quarter at a 2:01 gait.

Battlesign, the bay gelding which appeared to have a sure thing in the M. and M. at Detroit and pulled up with a cut tendon, started in the 2:25 trot at Windsor, Ont., without a public record and trotted his first winning mile in 2:14¾, cutting the mark down to 2:13¾ in the third heat.

Vanderbilt's Sloop Won.

Newport, R. I., Aug. 10.—Cornelius Vanderbilt's 70-foot sloop, Rainbow, led the cruising fleet of the New York Yacht club across the finishing line in the 40-mile race from New London. She won by a handsome margin, August Belmont's sloop, Mineola, being the second boat, and the schooner Quissetta third.

SITUATION IMPROVED.

Belief That Chinese Resistance Will Not Be as Great as Anticipated.

Capture of Yang Tsun a Matter of Great Importance.

Ministers to Have Secret Telegraphic Communication With Their Governments.

Washington, Aug. 10.—Secretary Root regards the Chinese situation, from military and diplomatic point of view, as much improved. The promise of cipher communication with the ministers in Pekin, together with the advance of the international forces toward Pekin, is believed to be relatively significant. It is believed that the resistance by the Chinese has not been and will not be as great as anticipated by some authorities, who said that the Chinese force consisted of the best of their army. The movement on Yang Tsun is in accordance with information contained in the dispatch from General Chaffee, which was not made public, and also in a dispatch made public after Peitsang had been taken. It is the expectation of the officials of the war department that the present reconnaissance in force will continue, although nothing is said as coming from General Chaffee to that effect.

The capture of Yang Tsun, the first objective point of the international forces, was the supreme news of importance received Thursday on the Chinese situation. The first word of this capture, effected last Monday, came in a brief dispatch to the signal office at the war department from Colonel Schriven, the signal officer at Chefoo.

Half an hour after this message a cablegram came from General Chaffee, giving additional details of the capture and showing that it had been at the cost of 60 casualties among the American troops. General Chaffee's dispatch is as follows:

Yang Tsun, Aug. 6.—Yang Tsun occupied today.

Wounded—Second lieutenant Frank B. Lang, Ninth infantry, moderate.

Casualties about 60 men, divided among Ninth United States infantry, Fourteenth United States infantry, and battery F, Fifth United States artillery.

Nearly all from Fourtenth infantry; names later.

Many men prostrated by heat and fatigue. Chaffee.

Hardly less important was a dispatch from General Terauchi, second in command on the Japanese staff, sent to the war office of Japan and transmitted to the legation here, stating that the international army would total 70,000 men on Aug. 15, at which time the real advance on Pekin would begin.

The present movement of some 16,000 men doubtless is viewed in the light of a reconnaissance in force, the main movement of the army of 50,000 to follow on the 15th. This makes clear the meaning of General Chaffee's dispatch that Yang Tsun was the objective point. The war department here has been considerably puzzled over this statement of an objective point—far short of Pekin.

It would appear, however, that the first force of 16,000 men, having opened up communications to Yang Tsun, brought forward supplies and established this advance base, the way would then be clear for the advance of the larger force on the 15th.

The capture of Yang Tsun is, therefore, an important startegic branch of the fast maturing military plans. The place is about 18 miles beyond Tientsin and a little less than a quarter of the way to Pekin. Colonel Scriven's statement, "Wire up," is accepted as showing that there is direct telegraphic communication with the army in the field. Aside from the assurance this gives of speedy transmission of news from the front it gives the additional assurance that the line of communication is intact back to the first base of operations.

The capture of Yang Tsun on the day following the battle of Pietsang is regarded as a highly successful military achievement, especially in view of the fact that it was looked upon as a stronghold whose capture might have given the foreigners considerable trouble.

Late in the day the state department received an important dispatch from Consul General Goodnow at Shanghai, announcing the landing of British troops at that point. The consul general did not state that he had protested against this action, and the state department judged from this that no protest would have been made by him in the absence of instructions. He states, however, that the merchants of the city strongly disapproved the landing of the British troops, fearing that it would incite the anti-foreign Chinese to hostilities. The government at Washington has taken no action in the nature of a protest.

Acting Secretary Adee of the state department made public the following cablegram from Consul Fowler at Chefoo, which reached the department at 11 o'clock last night: "From Chefoo, Aug. 9.—Secretary of State, Washington: Morning, 8th. Telegraphed governor yesterday protesting against limiting correspondence with Conger and requesting governor to forward Pekin. Governor telegraphs following: 'Received note from tsung li yamen, dated 5th. Yamen just received edict permitting ministers to have peaceful secret telegraphic communications with their countries. All ministers at Pekin have telegrams for transmission to their governments. It is proposed after dispatching same to send originals to consuls for verification.' Fowler."

Carriage Dropped Into a Creek.

Watertown, N. Y., Aug. 10.—A special from Alexandria Bay tells of the collapse of a bridge over Larue creek, in which six occupants of a carriage were carried down. All except one were injured internally, and one may die. Edna Poole, who was uninjured, showed heroism by rescuing a man who was drowning.

KING HUMBERT LAID AT REST.

Sudden Movement In a Crowd Caused a Panic in Which Many Persons Were Injured.

Rome, Aug. 10.—It is almost literally true that Rome did not sleep Thursday night. People from the provinces poured into the capital to witness King Humbert's funeral until the sidewalks were crowded so that circulation was practically impossible. The remains of the late king received their last honors and tributes from his loving country yesterday.

The casket containing his body, borne on a gun carriage, preceded by his general aide-de-camp carrying his sword, followed by his favorite war horse, and surrounded by those who were closest to him in the councils of state, was deposited, after an imposing ceremony, in the Pantheon here.

The city was a mass of sombre decorations, giving Rome the appearance of being weighted down by deep grief and sorrow.

During the march of the procession, several crushes occurred. Among those in the crowd on the via del Serpenti 20 persons received slight wounds and 30 others were badly injured.

A sudden movement in the crowd in the via Nazionale, as the king's carriage passed, resulted in a panic, during which 30 persons were injured and several badly crushed.

It was at first thought by the officers that it was the new king's life that was in danger, and the Duke of Aosta and the Count of Turin drew their swords, while the cavalry drove back the crowd and inclosed the king's carriage in a square. Women fainted and shrieked, and a number were knocked down and trampled under foot, but the disaster, which was seemingly inevitable, was averted.

King Victor Emmanuel III, who was on foot, bore himself with dignity. The group of officers in full uniform gave great brilliancy to the cortege. No less than 650 senators and deputies took part in the procession, many Radicals and Republicans being among the number.

During the march flowers were thrown from the windows on the passing casket.

Boers' Plans Miscarried.

London, Aug. 10.—The Daily News has the following dispatch from Pretoria, dated Aug. 9: A plot to shoot all the British officers and to make Lord Roberts a prisoner has been opportunely discovered. Ten of the ringleaders were arrested and are now in jail. Probably the plot was part of a conspiracy of which the attempted rising at Johannesburg was the first indication.

Will Wage Guerilla Warfare.

Berlin, Aug. 10.—Abram Fischer of the Boer delegation declares that the burghers of the South African republic "do not intend to give up the fight. They will continue guerilla warfare, splitting up into small bands; and they will ceaselessly disturb the British bases, inflicting in the aggregate more damage in this way than they could inflict in a big war."

Not Admitted to Bail.

Philadelphia, Aug. 10.—M. H. Kuhn was held without bail Thursday on the charge of throwing his wife out of a window of their home on April 25. Mrs. Kuhn died from the injuries received from her fall. The couple had been quarreling, and it is charged that Kuhn threw his wife out of the window and then leaped out himself. The husband has recovered.

Threw Up the Sponge.

New York, Aug. 10.—At the Broadway Athletic club last night George McFadden whipped Kid McPartland so badly that McPartland's seconds threw up the sponge in the 16th round to prevent their man from being knocked out. The men were matched to fight 25 rounds at 138 pounds.

Considers McKinley's Re-election Certain.

London, Aug. 10.—The Daily Express publishes this morning an interview with William K. Vanderbilt, and represents the American millionarie as saying that Mr. McKinley's re-election to the presidency is a moral certainty.

Drummers In Politics.

New York, Aug. 10.—The executive committee of the Commercial Travelers' Sound Money league held an executive session here Thursday. It was decided to carry out the campaign on the same lines as in 1896 and '97.

Syrians Must Go Back.

Montreal, Aug. 10.—Twenty immigrants from Syria who came on the steamship Louisiana were refused a landing Thursday because they did not have the requirements of desirable immigrants.

Denies That He Committed Crime.

Marlboro, Mass., Aug. 10.—Francisco Furzone, suspected of being one of the murderers of Di Marzio, at West Boylston, on Aug. 5, was arrested here this morning. He denies all connection with the crime.

Traffic Not Delayed by Strike.

Vancouver, B. C., Aug. 10.—The strike of the Canadian Pacific shopmen has made no difference as yet in the operation of trains. Yesterday the tinsmiths, pipe fitters and helpers here went out.

Many Homes Wiped Out.

Marinette, Wis., Aug. 10.—Fire which started in the lumber yard of the Polskai company yesterday caused a loss of $150,000. A hundred Poles were made homeless.

NEWS IN BRIEF.

George H. Marston, a railway mail clerk, was drowned at Nantasket beach, Hull, Mass.

Jack McClelland and Kid Broad fought a 20-round draw at Millvale, Pa.

One hundred deputies, representing all parties, have decided to establish charitable institutions for consumptives in all parts of Italy, under the patronage of Humbert I.

Two young girls, Ann Donnelly and Bertha Wight, were drowned in the Androscoggin river at Lewiston, Me.

Mrs. Mary Holden, 70 years old, was drowned at Saylesville, R. I. Mrs. Holden sat down upon an embankment to bathe her feet and in some way fell off into a reservoir.

When She Goes Away.

At times the thoughtless person is led to indulge in a smile at the idea that getting ready to leave town for the summer means any work on the woman's part. The man who intends going away may leave the preparations till the last minute and simply bundle his clothing into a gripsack or a suit case, and what is the sense of any one's doing more? It is a totally different proposition, however, when there is the arranging of the household supplies so that the milkman, the iceman and the baker will deliver their wares up to the last day and no longer and when the larder is to be left clean and empty and yet so nicely managed that it will yield enough for the final meal. Leaving the house or the flat in proper shape means something too. The silverware, for instance, must be properly cared for. Few housekeepers know the value of camphor gum in this connection. The silver should be put into bags as nearly airtight as possible, and into each bag should go a good sized lump of gum camphor. The bag may be made of chamois skin or of cotton flannel. If the latter is used, get the unbleached variety, since the sulphur used in the bleaching process has a tendency toward darkening the silver. Green baize is also good as a covering for silver. But never put the silver away in any material that attracts the moisture.—New York Sun.

The Daughters' Pupil.

The New York city chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, have graduated their first pupil from Barnard college. In addition to paying the entire expenses of her education for the full term in that school, they have in their treasury about one-third of the sum necessary to found a scholarship in perpetuity in the same school, to be known as the Mrs. Donald McLean scholarship, in honor of the regent of the chapter, who originated the plan. In the early autumn, as soon as the chapter resumes its meetings, arrangements for an elaborate and unique entertainment or fete, of not settled form as yet, will be made, the proceeds to go to the scholarship fund. In the meantime the chapter will decide upon who the new beneficiary shall be, and pending the completion of the fund her current expenses will be met. The girl just graduated comes from New Jersey, and it is most likely that a New Yorker—who is already practically decided upon—will be given the opportunity of going through college without cost to her. The only stipulation exacted from one of these scholars put through college by the Daughters of the American Revolution of this city is that they make American history their special study while attending.

New Ideas In Hairdressing.

There is a perfect fad in Paris at present for having the hair waved from the forehead clear back to the crown of the head. This softens the features and makes any plain face beautiful when the waves are well made. This new style of waving the hair produces also a pompadour effect. The hair is parted in the middle or a little to one side and is all so fluffy that one would think great cushions of false hair had been laid beneath. When properly waved, the hair has a fluted appearance not unlike the fluting of a beautiful ruffle, only these waves extend in graceful curves from the tip of ear to the very crown of the head, and the mass of the hair may be coiled or knotted rather high or low, as best suits the shape of the head, says the Pittsburg Press. The ornaments for the hair at present consist of outstretched wings of batlike shape in tulle sparkling with silver or diamonds. Aigrets sparkling with diamonds are very fashionable, also a double bunch of flowers. This last style is very becoming. Small pink roses or forgetmenots are mounted flat and are used on either side of a fancy comb.

Care of Patent Leathers.

Patent leather shoes may, it is said, be beautifully cleaned and also preserved from cracking by the use of a French harness polish which may be bought at any harness maker's. Most shoe dealers will admit that there is a great deal of luck in buying these shoes, and that their durability depends largely on the care with which they are treated. Cold or dryness cracks them. It seems a pity that this leather should have achieved the vogue that it has in the dress wardrobe of both men and women, for its effect upon the feet is both harmful and uncomfortable. With it should always be worn thin and fine hosiery, and never should shoes be made from it to be put on for any sustained walking service.

Orange Shirts.

The suggestion of a long time resident of India that orange colored shirts are one of the best protections against the sun's rays might be taken advantage of here in the dog days. The statement is founded upon a fact known to every photographer, amateur or professional, who has covered the cracks of his dark room with orange paper or linen. The rope sandals of the orientals are another excellent hot weather belonging. They are, of course, not intended for city street wear, but are gratefully cool for house use.—New York Post.

In New Fields.

Miss Eleanor Ormerod has been for many years the greatest authority in Great Britain on insect life and has given special attention to parasites mischievous to vegetables and fruit. She is the regularly appointed consulting entomologist to the Royal Agricultural society. The University of Edinburgh will confer an honorary degree on Miss Ormerod at the coming commencement. Mrs. Shute, as secretary of the Colorado state board of horticulture, has made herself a similar authority among the farmers.

The Social Realm.

Thou that are born in this favored age,
So fertile in all enterprise of thought,
Bound in fresh mental conflicts to engage
The liberties for which your fathers fought—
Be not thy spirit contemplation fraught,
Musing and mourning! Thou must act and move,
Must teach thy children more than thou wast taught,
Brighten intelligence, disseminate love,
And, through the world around, make way to worlds above.

Lineman Receives Shock.

Henry DeCoste, a lineman in the employ of the Electric Light & Power Co., received a severe electric shock Friday afternoon on Elm street.

DeCoste was at work on a pole with other men, including David DeCoste, the foreman, who it is said warned the men that the current was on. In some way Henry got hold of a live wire, and received a severe shock, and would have fallen to the ground had not the foreman caught him and carried him to the ground. DeCoste hands were quite badly burned, in some places almost to the bone. He was taken home and a doctor called to attend his wounds.

While DeCoste was at home, it is said that a well known citizen of Elm street called upon him and gave some unsolicited advice, which was that he employ a certain doctor and then get a certain lawyer and sue the company.

Sporting Life in South Quincy.

Two young and enthusiastic sports of the South Quincy Social club have promised to give the residents of Ward Three sport enough this evening to last the average man, woman or child a life time. Mr. Joseph Fay is an earnest supporter of Fitzsimmons, while Mr. "Tom" O'Neil (one of the boys) is as strong in his talk for Ruhlin. The two got together and made a bet. If Fitzsimmons lost "Joe" would carry "Tom" from Chick's store to Quincy Adams and return. If Ruhlin lost, it would be vice versa. As Fitz won, Tom will wheel Joe and furnish amusement for the crowd. Each time "Tom" stops for a rest he will have to climb the flag pole in front of the club room. The performance takes place at 7.30 sharp, this evening.

The Wompatuck club of Hingham voted this week to make important improvements in the estate on South street recently acquired, and renewed life is expected.

THE WATER SPORTS

Were Full of Interest at the Houghs Neck Carnival.

But the Big Crowd Was Present in the Evening.

Illumination Not as General as Usual---Street Railway Severely Taxed.

The grand two days' mid-summer carnival at Houghs Neck came to a successful end early this morning. Large crowds have been in attendance both days. Everything went off smoothly. No accidents were reported and no fires. These with the beautiful weather was all that could be asked.

As far as an illumination was concerned it was in a way a failure, for but comparatively few decorated with Chinese lanterns. Perhaps the present trouble with China had somehing to do with their lanterns not being used more profusely.

In point of attendance the crowd of Friday exceeded that of the first day.

It seemed as though everybody was there. In the evening the beach along Sea street and about Silver Lake was black with people. They began coming down early in the afternoon and while the return cars carried some back the crowd continued to grow. During the early evening it was hard work for the railway to find cars enough. Every car was overloaded and as late as 9.45 six large cars were sent down, every available space being taken. Of course, coming home was a job, as everybody wanted to come at the same time, and as noted at the beginning of this article it was early this morning before the last car load pulled into City Square.

The first attraction Friday was sailing parties, which were taken out between 9 and 1 o'clock. All the ladies and children wanted a sail, so that the skippers were kept busy. High water was at 10.30 so that the tide could not have been better for the sailing parties.

The band also gave a concert in front of the Great Hill house.

THE WATER SPORTS.

The water sports in the afternoon were held in Silver Lake. It was an admirable place for them, and the shore was lined with men, women and children, who stood in the boiling sun and applauded the winners. In the centre of the lake in the band stand was the Working Boys' Home band, which furnished a concert during the events.

These were in charge of Andrew A. Meyer, James Cavanagh and George Wales. They resulted as follows:

Swimming race for boys between 16 and 18 years,—Won by Charles Rich; second, Patrick Kilraine.

Swimming race for boys between 18 and 22 years—Won by Lester Rich; second, F. Miller.

Tub race—Won by Harry Lewis; second, Eddie Taber.

This is the fourth year that Lewis has won the tub race.

Greasy pole walk—Won by Edward Barry; second, John Esson.

Prettiest dive—Won by Patrick Gilraine; second, Walter Louther.

Blindfolded dory race—Won by May and Beales; second, Hoey and Mann.

Clown race—Won by Lester Rich; second, Eddie Taber.

Back dive—Won by Joseph McNally; second, Albert May.

Water Base ball. This was an exciting game between two teams captained by Eddie Taber and Albert May. Two innings were played. Neither side scored and it was called a draw.

OTHER ATTRACTIONS.

The other attraction was at the Fensmer theatre where vaudeville shows were given during the afternoon and evening.

The crowd of fakirs also seemed to have increased, and if anything, more were present than on the first day.

Between 5 and 7 o'clock the eating houses and peddlers of grub of all kinds did a rushing business.

In the evening the display of fireworks and the band concert were at the Fensmere.

Open house was the order of the evening and many private parties were held. At the Clam Shell the Lalapaloosa club of Quincy established headquarters, and served a lunch to their friends.

Dances were also held at the Casino and Fensmere.

The Central station Combination wagon, and the John W. Hall Hook and Ladder which have been located at the beach since Thursday morning have returned to Quincy. They were all ready had their services been needed, but fortunately they were not.

To sum up the two days' affair it can be said, that while many were opposed to holding a two days' affair and predicted a failure, everything was a success, and the chances are that next year the two days' carnival will be repeated. It involves an immense amount of work on the committee, and while this committee was large the work as usual devolved upon a few.

Boats Over 21 Feet.

The 21-foot rivals, Hostess and Lookout, sailed an inside course in the Corinthian race on Wednesday, by agreement, neither skipper being willing to take his craft out to Half Way rock. The Lookout got the start, and on the first reach made a telling gain. Then came windward work, and the Hostess pulled her back a little, but on the reach home the bigger sled again went faster, and finished 2 minutes 4 seconds ahead, but on allowance being figured was found to have won by only five seconds.

It may be interesting to yachtsmen to know that neither of these boats measured under 21 feet when the Corinthian measure stretched the tape on them. The Hostess was some six inches over, while the Lookout was 1 1-2 feet longer than she was designed to be. The first time either of these boats wins a prize in the 21-foot class there is sure to be a measurement protest.—Herald.

Real Estate.

C. A. Mackintosh, manager of the Metropolitan Land Co., reports the sale of three lots on Blue Hill park to Boston parties, who buy for building purposes. They have also sold a lot on Hancock park containing 8,832 square feet.

John Chamberlin has sold his homestead on Hancock street, through the Metropolitan Land Company to Mrs. Mary W. McIntosh. Property contains about 13,000 square feet. Price not given. Mrs. McIntosh buys for a home.

Metropolitan Land Co. have sold for John V. Scott a house lot at Houghs Neck to Mr. Geo. W. Phinney.

FIFTH DAY.

SIDE TRACKED.

This is what had happened. The Dallon gang had stolen the Miranda and the Pullman!

When No. 89 pulled out from the water tank, the two cars, as we have seen, were held to the rest of the train by a single coupling pin only. Just before reaching the old switch they were disconnected, when the main body of the train shot away on the down grade, which was the reason that the engineer did not immediately discover the loss of part of his load.

The instant the last car of the main train passed the switch to the spur track the spike was picked up, having previously been loosened, so that when the Miranda came along she and her consort, propelled by their own momentum, the switch was pushed over, and they went creaking and sliding down the gentle incline toward the gulch. A half dozen blows of a hammer in the hands of one of the gang served to spike the switch back in its old position, and then a few handfuls of loose dirt were cast on the frogs and dusted off again with a sombrero so as to hide the marks of the tools. It would have needed a practiced eye after that to detect that the switch had been tampered with.

Of course the two coaches would be missed as soon as the "Thunderbolt" reached Denver, but this Jim Dallon had foreseen. Before any effective search could be made his captives would be safely hidden where he could make his terms with them at leisure. The railroad people might find the coaches and welcome, though this was doubtful, but the birds would have flown.

Talk of consummate daring! Engines have been stolen again and again, train robberies there have been without number where a handful of armed desperadoes "held up" and held at bay an entire train crew and a hundred passengers, the latter being stripped of their valuables, but robbers had never before been known to attempt to get away with a train itself or part of a train.

Dallon slapped his leg and chuckled with glee at the success of his plan so far. The rest, he thought, would be comparatively plain sailing.

When the Miranda and the Pullman came to a standstill, guards were posted all around the cars, two on each platform, five or six on each side, some 18 or 20 in all, with strict orders to prevent any one getting away. As the doors were securely barricaded from without the only possible chance for escape was through the windows.

Within the Miranda all was dismay. The brightly lighted interior—the car had its own gas tank—only served to make the darkness outside more palpable and intense. After the car came to a final stop and it was discovered that the doors were fast Draper and Chester both rushed to a window, but on opposite sides of the car. Scarcely had the sashes been flung up than there came the peremptory command:

"Shet that winder!" accompanied by the ominous click of a Winchester. Draper obeyed, but Chester tried to parley. The only answer he received was the reiterated command:

"Shet that winder and shet it derned quick!"

Though his blood boiled with indignation at being thus caught like rats in a trap, Chester was compelled to obey out of regard for the feelings of the ladies huddled together in the middle of the car, who begged him to come away before he was shot.

There came the peremptory command, "Shet that winder!"

"Well, Mr. Draper," said Ives, "this is exciting. What scheme do you suppose is afoot?"

"It seems to me that we have been stolen—kidnaped—abducted!" was the grim reply. "But just how it has been done or who the villains are I can't say. You may rest assured, however, that we shall be missed the instant No. 89 gets into Denver, and there'll be a search party out long before daylight."

"But what motive can there be for such an outrage?" queried Florence.

"Ah, girl, that's the question I've been asking myself, and I'm frank to say I don't know."

"Do you suppose we are the victims of train robbers?" asked Mrs. Hurst.

"It certainly looks that way," replied Uncle John, smiling in order to allay her fears. But there was a serious undertone in his voice which belied the laugh as he turned an anxious glance toward the windows, where the glint of gun barrels could be seen in the gleam of the lamps as the sentries paced to and fro.

"Well, if they're train robbers," said Madge, "I don't see why they don't begin to rob and be done with it."

From the farthest corner of the ladies' boudoir, where as yet there was no lamplight, Miss Granniss called to Mr. Draper in a low tone. Going to her side, she drew him to the window, and there, peering out, the forms of five or six men could be seen standing and lounging about, while to and fro paced those on guard. The cars were completely invested. There was evidently an animated colloquy going on, and voices could be heard in excited argument. One of the men raised his arm and pointed overhead and around. Then another of the gang came to the side of the car and tapped on one of the saloon windows with his gun barrel.

"Open th' winder!" he shouted. Chester obeyed and then demanded:

"What do you want?"

"Them lights has got to be put out!"

Every ear in the Miranda was on the alert, and a chorus of protests came from the ladies.

"Keep us in the dark! What a perfect shame!" said Mrs. Hurst.

"Whoever you are," said Chester, "remember that there are ladies on board. They are already terrified beyond endurance, and darkness will only increase their alarm."

"Carnt help it, boss. Them lights is too bright!" A confirmatory murmur came from half a dozen throats in the darkness. Chester tried one more appeal.

"We can pull down the shades. Won't that do?"

The figure turned round and addressed some words to his unseen confederates, and an earnest discussion ensued, during which Chester caught such fragments as:

"Too much bloomin gaslight!"

"Reg'lar Fourth o' July illumination!"

"See it from one end o' the gulch to th' other!"

"Put 'em out, I says!"

At length the leader of the gang—for it was Jim Dallon who spoke—came under the window again and said:

"Only one light'll be allowed, and you'll pull down them shades!"

Ives was about to parley again, hoping to gain some explanation as to the meaning of the strange events of the past couple of hours, when John Draper thrust his head into the narrow opening and began:

"You impudent rascals"—

"Shet that winder!" came the curt command, emphasized as before, and feeling two soft hands on his shoulder dragging him away, he turned to behold Florence, who had followed him into the saloon.

"Do not expose yourself," she said, as she drew him into the interior, and for her sake he desisted.

Ives let the sash fall with an angry snap, saying with a grim laugh, "There's no use arguing with a man when he's at the trigger end of a gun and you are looking into the business end!" and then went about the car lowering all the lights but one and drawing down the heavy damask shades.

"Why, where's Mr. Filley?" suddenly exclaimed Madge. Sure enough, where was he? They looked in each other's faces as if to recall when he had previously been seen. Then it was remembered that his last appearance was at dinner.

"And Henry and Aleck, too," added Uncle John.

"Doubtless they are as snugly trapped in the other car as we are," laughed Chester.

To make certain Chester went to the rear door of the Miranda and peered through the glass. Yes; the Pullman was there sure enough, shrouded in gloom, but with their backs to the doors stood a couple of guards, motionless as statues, with the butts of their rifles resting on the platforms.

"No chance to communicate, that's certain," thought Chester. "Hope the fellow's all safe, though."

At least there was nothing to prevent the prisoners from moving about in the car with perfect freedom. Naturally enough, no one cared to sleep, much less to think of going to bed. All conventional disguises were thrown aside in this hour of peril. Draper and Florence strolled from one end to the other arm in arm, he stroking and patting the little hand that lay on his sleeve as he strove to reassure her and quiet her alarms.

In their wake came Madge and Chester, likewise linked closely, he talking hopefully and consolingly, while Mrs. Hurst sat by and said never a word.

Luckily Annette, the maid, and Gustave, the cook, were with the party in the Miranda, and when the latter had been dragged out of his buffet, the door of which, with Gallic prudence, he had shut and locked at the first intimation of danger, he was prevailed upon to set about preparing some refreshments, for it was now past midnight.

For the tenth time at least Florence voiced the question:

"What do you suppose they mean to do with us?" and for the tenth time John Draper made answer:

"I can't imagine. But," he continued after a pause, "it's my opinion that we shall not be kept in doubt. They will show their hands at dawn." Nor was he mistaken. Faint tinges of grayness began to outline the gaps between the shades and the glass when there was a sudden bustle outside and the sound of commands delivered in strident tones.

Then came the tramping of feet on the steps of the Pullman. Draper and Ives sprang each to a window and flung up the curtains. Yes, the dawn was all abroad, though as yet no clear idea of their whereabouts could be gleaned. But the light was sufficient to enable them to perceive Filley, Henry and Alec standing by the track side by side, their arms pinioned behind them and blindfolded. This, then, was what they, too, might expect.

In a few moments a noise was heard at the front door of the Miranda, and almost immediately it was flung open with a crash that shook the car, and then the command was given:

"Step out here, John Draper, and pretty dum quick!"

"Don't go! Oh, don't go!" begged Florence, grasping his arm, to which plaint Mrs. Hurst added her plea. Draper stood irresolute. Then a quick footfall was heard, and Jim Dallon appeared in the curtained doorway, carbine in hand.

"Did you hear me call?" he thundered. "John Draper, I want you! No one's goin to hurt you, man! Onless you want to be carried out you'll walk out!"

Gently releasing Flo's grasp he led her to Mrs. Hurst and with a nod all around stepped out ahead of the robber leader. On the platform he was seized by two of the gang, who rapidly searched him for concealed weapons, taking away even a small penknife, and then proceeded to pinion his arms and blindfold him. This done he was led to a place alongside Filley and told to "keep his mouth shet!"

Chester was subjected to the same treatment, and then came Gustave's turn. The poor Frenchman made lots of sport for the band, falling on his knees and begging for his life, beseeching them not to "coot troat," until at last he was forced to rise by a well placed kick in the nether regions and ranged alongside the five other unhappy masculines.

Sullen despair sat on Filley's countenance. He saw all his plans dashed to flinders by this untoward break in their journey. At this instant he had hoped to have been bound eastward on the fastest express, and he cursed John Draper by all his gods for having dragged him out west at such a time. Consequently he felt none of the indignation experienced by Draper and Ives when they were forced to stand by and know that rough hands were being laid on the women they loved, while they were powerless for help or defense. Chester ground his teeth and strained at his bonds until they cut into his coat sleeve. The veins in Draper's neck and forehead swelled, and he grew purple in the face with suppressed rage.

"You infernal villains!" he roared, and then could have bitten his tongue in half, for at that instant the voice of Florence Granniss became audible as she appeared at the car door leading the little procession of four.

Their captors had forborne to pinion the ladies' arms, but they were blindfolded like the rest, nor were they suffered to come near their natural protectors.

"I can't stand this," exclaimed Chester, as he started to run after the women, the bandage having dropped from his eyes during his contortions. But he was speedily yanked backward and downward by one of the desperadoes, who proceeded to sit on his chest until Dallon himself came up an inquired:

"What's the row?"

"Gettin a little obstropolus, that's all!" was the response.

"Set him up," was the command. And then, addressing himself to Draper and Chester, the captain of the gang thus spoke:

"You needn't be afeared that we're goin to harm them ladies o' yourn—leastways, not yet! We've got a little matter o' business to settle with you men first, and we're goin where we kin talk quiet and confidential like."

"If you harm a hair of their heads you shall pay dearly," exclaimed Chester hotly, and in the same breath John Draper uttered the words:

"As sure as there's a God in heaven you shall suffer for this, you hound!"

A sneering laugh was the only response as the chief rascal gave the signal to march. The bandages were carefully looked to, and then the entire party set out in single file, a prisoner between every two robbers, the ladies and the maid heading the column, with Jim Dallon in front.

They proceeded thus in silence and by a devious way for more than an hour, though it seemed like four. The road was rugged, and its general trend was upward. In fact, they were ascending the bed of a dried up water course. The pace was necessarily slow, for the ladies being ahead they could not proceed very fast and frequently had to be helped and half carried over the rougher places. Both Florence and Madge at first indignantly spurned all such assistance, but when Dallon turned and said, "If they kick, boys, just carry 'em!" they decided to accept the lesser of the two evils. As for Mrs. Hurst, she was too dazed and dispirited to offer any resistance.

At length a halt was called. Each captive was half lifted, hauled or boosted up what seemed like a steep bank, and then, moving forward again, their tired and weary feet sank into a carpet of soft sand. A few paces more and the bandages were removed from their eyes, and, looking about them, our friends discovered that they were all reunited and that they were standing in a large and airy cavern down whose side meandered a little brook and dimly lighted from the entrance, which was fringed with bushes around its upper edges.

Both Florence and Madge sprang toward their natural protectors with exclamations of sympathy. Mrs. Hurst sank wearily down on the dry sand, while Reuben Filley looked grimly and sulkily about him. The game was up, he thought, so far as he was concerned. It mattered not to him what became of the rest. So he leaned moodily against the rocky wall of the cave, biting his mustache.

Soon a fire was kindled, and sundry tin cups of wretched coffee were handed around, together with some half baked "flapjacks," from which, however, the ladies turned in disgust, while Gustave muttered French invectives on the rough and barbarous cookery. This apology for a meal being ended, the men were bidden to take their places in line again and were marched to the upper end of the grotto, the ladies being kept strongly guarded near the entrance.

When they were well out of earshot, Jim Dallon proceeded to unfold his "little matter o' business."

THE TEMPLE OF MUSIC, PAN-AMERICAN EXPOSITION.

Copyright, 1900, by the Pan-American Exposition Co.

The Temple of Music, designed by Esenwein & Johnson of Buffalo for the Pan-American Exposition, will cover a plot of ground 150 feet square and will be located on the northwest corner of the Esplanade and the Court of Fountains. The exterior of this handsome building will be treated architecturally after the style of the Spanish Renaissance. It will be octagonal in shape, with octagonal pavilions at each corner. The main entrance will be through the pavilion on the corner of the Esplanade and Court of Fountains. The chief features of the drum of the dome will be star shaped windows resembling those seen in the ancient Spanish mission buildings. These windows will light the interior of the auditorium. The dome and the roofs of the pavilions will be richly gilded. The crown of the dome will be 136 feet above the grade of the Court of Fountains, and the Temple and its pavilions will form a very attractive part of the landscape scheme of the entire group of Exposition buildings. The auditorium, which will seat 1,200 persons, will be a few steps up from the grade of the building, and in addition the restaurants and balconies will give further seating accommodation to 1,600 people. The other pavilions in addition to the one used for the main entrance will be occupied by the stage and for a fully equipped restaurant with the necessary kitchen adjuncts, serving room, etc. In the Temple of Music will be erected one of the largest and finest organs in the United States. It will be an exceedingly beautiful and complete instrument, with all the latest improvements in organ building. It will have four manuals and about 50 speaking stops and will be voiced on three different wind pressures. The action will be the most complete style of tubular pneumatic.

A SOLAR PLEXUS BLOW

Puts Gus Ruhlin Down and Out In His Contest With Bob Fitzsimmons.

Fierce and Bloody Battle Ended In Sixth Round.

Fitz Demonstrates That He Is Not to Be Classed Among the Has-Beens.

New York, Aug. 11.—It took less than six rounds of furious fighting for Robert Fitzsimmons, the "decrepit and aged" ex-champion heavyweight pugilist of the world, to thoroughly whip Gus Ruhlin, the Akron giant, in Madison Square Garden before a crowd that packed every seat in the vast amphitheatre. For five rounds the battle raged, with Fitzsimmons shining in star points. The same arm that delivered the awful blow upon James J. Corbett's solar plexus at Carson City, and won for the same man behind it a fortune and the championship, worked like a powerful piston rod geared to swiftness and agility.

FITZSIMMONS AS HE LOOKS IN HIS FAVORITE PICTURE.

Fitzsimmons did the trick cleanly and cleverly. It was a fierce and bloody battle, and at times it looked as if Ruhlin would get the better of the older man, but Fitzsimmons at the proper time would cut loose with his fearful body blow, which finally snuffed out the Ohio boxer's light.

Fitzsimmons conceded about 32 pounds to Ruhlin, and this in itself was a serious handicap. But, as the result showed, Fitz was equal to the task, and won with that terrible solar plexus blow, which shook Ruhlin from head to foot.

From the word "go" the men started in with hurricane-like force. Both men were wild at times, but Fitzsimmons was always the quicker to steady himself. Ruhlin clinched a good deal, and for three or four rounds was the aggressor. He landed some hard, straight lefts on Fitzsimmons' face, and swung his right to the body and head with fearful force. Several of these blows staggered Fitz, but none of them landed on the mark, as Fitz was too shifty. At times both missed swings with either hand, but many of Ruhlin's were dodged in the cleverest manner by wily Bob.

Fitz' handlers kept urging him to play for the solar plexus, but Fitz only tried it occasionally. Evidently he was awaiting an opportunity for a right swing to the mark. In the fourth and fifth rounds both men showed plainly the effects of the rapid work they had done in the preceding rounds. Both were tired and leg weary, but Ruhlin showed up much the worse of the two. Fitz was always the quicker on his feet at the call of time, but now and then during the rounds he seemed to stand still and glare at his opponent. Ruhlin at these times also stood still, being evidently grateful for the chance of breathing which Fitz afforded him. Just once Fitz touched the floor, when he slipped down from a clinch at the end of a round.

In the sixth round Ruhlin was slow in coming to time, while Fitz jumped at his man. It was then a question of who would land a telling punch, as both men were very much fatigued. Fitz, always the quicker on his feet, was able to get around Ruhlin, and while the latter sent straight lefts for Fitz' head Bob sidestepped safely and landed lefts on the body and right to the head. With a volley of lefts and rights to the head and neck and a fearful left on the solar plexus Fitz sent Ruhlin in a heap to the floor.

This was the beginning of the end. Ruhlin, after taking nine seconds of the count, arose to his feet, groggy from the effects of the solar plexus blow. As soon as Ruhlin got up Fitz rushed, sending two lefts to the face and then shot his right with fearful force to the point of Ruhlin's jaw. Gus pitched forward as if struck with an ax and fell on his face to the floor, where he was counted out and had to be carried to his corner.

Ruhlin, when he reached his room, was in a sort of a trance and it was a long time before he fully understood that he had been defeated. He was badly bruised about the head and both eyes were almost closed. He said: "I did the best I could, and no man can do more. Fitz whipped me, and that's all I can say about it."

Victim of Old Sol's Fierce Rays.

Bridgeport, Conn., Aug. 11.—James Dugan, 35 years old, was found in the rear of Rockwell's coal yard Friday roasted to death from the heat of the sun. When taken to the morgue the flesh on the body peeled off. It is supposed Dugan wandered into the coal yard while intoxicated and went to sleep.

Suspicion of Poisoning.

Chicago, Aug. 11.—The sudden death of Edward P. Herrick, at first attributed to heart disease, superinduced by the heat, has become the center of a mystery. His death calls to memory two other deaths that had occurred suddenly in his household, within little more than a year. Based on suspicions, examinations will be made for traces of poison.

Bonnibert Took Big Purse.

Saratoga, Aug. 11.—The Pepper stakes for 2-year-olds, value to the winner $3500, to the second $1000, to the third $500, 5½ furlongs, was won by Charles Fleishmann's Bonnibert by half a length from Alard Scheck, while the Parader, the favorite, the last horse to leave the post in the field of six, was third, beaten a length for second money.

Mrs. Craven Is Not Fair's Widow.

San Francisco, Aug. 11.—A decision rendered by Judge Troutt holds that Mrs. Nettie R. Craven is not the widow of the late Senator Fair and is not entitled to any allowance from his estate. Judge Troutt declared the pencil deeds and the alleged will, conveying to Mrs. Craven much of the late senator's estate, were forgeries.

A Petrified Child.

Lowell, Mass., Aug. 11.—The petrified body of a child was found Friday in the woods near Billerica Centre by two Lowell men. The arms are missing and the legs below the knees and the hair are gone. Otherwise the body is perfect in its outlines.

Eighteen Americans Stricken.

Havana, Aug. 11.—Fifty-two cases of yellow fever are now under treatment in Havana. Of the victims 18 are Americans. Thus far the mortality rate has been about 25 percent of those attacked.

Message from Conger Confirms Allegations of False Statements.

The Relief of the Legations Is the Main Object Still.

Comparatively Small Hope of Delivery of Messages to Our Minister in Pekin.

Washington, Aug. 11.—The department of state has made public the following telegram from Minister Conger, which was contained in a telegram sent to Minister Wu by the taotai of Shanghai:

Secretary of State, Washington: The tsung li yamen states to the diplomatic body that the various foreign governments have repeatedly asked, through the respective Chinese ministers, that we immediately depart from Pekin under suitable escort. The yamen asks us to fix a date for our departure and to make the necessary arrangements to do so. Our reply is that we will seek instructions from our governments, and that in the absence of such instructions we cannot quit our posts. I must inform you that in order to insure our safe departure foreign troops only can safely escort us, and they must be in sufficient force to safely guard 800 foreigners, including 200 women and children, as well as 3000 native Christians, who cannot be abandoned to certain massacre. We cannot accept a Chinese escort under any circumstances. All my colleagues are dispatching the foregoing to their respective governments. Of the American marines, seven have been killed and 16 wounded, among the latter Captain Myers and Dr. Lippett, who are getting along well. Conger.

In the light of the above dispatch from Minister Conger, received by the state department through Minister Wu, the attitude of the administration is that there is but one thing to be done in the present circumstance, namely, to press on to the relief of the besieged garrison at Pekin.

This was made known after extended communications between Washington and the president, at Canton, O. The Conger dispatch was accepted as showing conclusive justification for the imperative demand of the United States, sent to the Chinese government on Wednesday night, insisting that the imperial troops co-operate with the international forces in the rescue of the ministers, and until this condition, as well as that for the cessation of bombardment, is fully conceded by China, there is no other course open but to press steadily onward in the mission of relief.

The discussion with the president led to the determination to reply to the Conger message at once, and, accordingly, Secretary Root and Acting Secretary Adee conferred on the terms of this reply. The text was forwarded late in the day. It was announced officially and positively that this message would not be made public either in whole or in substance. It was made plain, however, that the message was sufficiently guarded as not to further increase the jeopardy of our minister in case the Chinese have access to our cipher.

As to the terms of the message, they are believed to make plain that this government will not advise, much less direct, that Mr. Conger leave Pekin under Chinese escort, when the minister has advised Washington that this would mean certain death. Moreover, the reply doubtless lets the minister know that there is an unaccountable error in the statement of the Chinese government, as conveyed to him through the tsung li yamen, that the foreign governments had urged repeatedly that the ministers be sent out of Pekin under suitable escort. This clause, contained in Mr. Conger's latest dispatch, clearly shows that the Chinese government is leading him to believe that it is the wish of Washington that he leave under a Chinese escort, whereas, the United States government never has entertained for a moment the idea of having the minister set out on the dangerous pilgrimage from Pekin to the coast, under Chinese protection.

There is no probability that the attention of the Chinese government will be directed to its apparent double dealing, as indicated in the Conger dispatch. This government has transmitted to the other powers interested the note to the Chinese government entrusted to Minister Wu on the night of the 8th. It has assurance from the other powers that they have not advised their representatives to accept Chinese escort from Pekin.

It was officially stated at the close of the day that no further representations have been made to the Chinese government since the Adee note of the 8th, and that none will be made until the Chinese government has given some indication of the attitude it will assume in complying with or denying the demands of the United States.

While the state department is continuing to dispatch messages to Minister Conger upon the assurances of the Chinese government that communication is uninterrupted, it is doing so with comparatively small hope of their delivery.

This assertion was borne out last night when Secretary Root said that there was no convincing evidence in possession of this government that any of our dispatches really had reached Minister Conger. This indicates that the minister has not given a direct and satisfactory answer to any of the queries that have been addressed to him by the department of state.

No additional dispatches were received bearing on the military situation either from General Chaffee or Admiral Remey, and the last information leaves the international forces at Yangtsun last Monday night.

SENSATIONAL SCENE IN COURT.

Brese, an Alleged Anarchist, Becomes Infuriated and Assaults a Witness.

Richmond, Aug. 11.—Alexander Brese, the alleged anarchist, arrested here for threatening to throw bombs in a memorial parade to King Humbert, and to blow up the cathedral where services were held, created a wild and exciting scene in the police court here yesterday. Mr. Jacobini, an Italian saloon keeper, was witness, and told of Brese and his threats. He made the statement that Brese told him that he (Brese) had two barrels of dynamite secreted, and with the cries of "liar, liar!" Brese sprang across the space in front of the bar, about seven feet, with the fury and agility of a tiger, and grabbed Jacobini by the throat.

The man's face was distorted with passion, and his ferocity was terrible. It took three powerful policemen to break his hold on Jacobini and subdue the anarchist. It was plain that if Brese had had any weapon but his bare hands Jacobini would have been killed.

On charge of being a suspicious character Brese was placed under $1000 bond and sent to jail for one year in default.

Railroad Disaster in New Brunswick.

St. John, Aug. 11.—A mixed train on the Central railroad went through a bridge 10 miles from Norton Friday, and was dashed to a great heap of debris on the rocks, 100 feet below. The bridge was of trestle structure, and the whole affair seemed to have collapsed as the train was passing over it, the locomotive and tender, baggage, one passenger, and several freight lumber cars taking the descent. John Duncan, the engineer, was killed; William Morrison, the fireman, was fatally hurt, and Frank Campbell, brakeman, was probably fatally hurt. The number of passengers was, fortunately, small. Not one escaped serious injurd.

Dowie Leaves For Europe.

New York, Aug. 11.—John A. Dowie, who calls himself "overseer on earth of the Christian Catholic church,' and who by his followers is worshipped as the messiah, arrived from Chicago last night, and with his party sailed for Europe today. Dowie held a reception on the steamship, where 50 disciples of his faith from New England gathered to bid him and his party Godspeed. As they left he shook hands with each. Then, placing two fingers of his right hand on te follower's forehead, he blessed each disciple.

Mineola Adjuged the Winner.

Cottage City, Mass., Aug. 11.—The squadron run of the New York Yacht club, from Newport, was an interesting test of the yachts in a strong wind and run of sea. The Virginia, sailed by her owner, W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr., finished first in her class, but was disqualified for violation of the instructions governing the race. She beat the Mineola, the second boat to reach the finish line, nearly two minutes, but the Mineola is adjudged the winner. The Rainbow takes second place, and the Yankee the third.

Not Wanted at Fall River.

Fall River, Mass., Aug. 11.—In reply to a letter from the Hebrew Charitable society of New York, which asked that this city find employment for 500 of the 7000 Russian Hebrews whose expenses were paid from the Baron Hirsch fund, the local representative of the society recommended that these foreigners should not be sent to this city, on account of the present industrial conditions.

Suicide's Body Found In Woods.

Woburn, Mass., Aug. 11.—Berry pickers found a man's body near the railroad tracks in East Woburn Friday. A revolver with an empty shell in it was on the ground, and under a tree was a handbag. Medical Examiner Blake said it was a case of suicide, as there was a hole in the skull. The man apparently died early in July. He was probably 42 years old.

Good Afternoon.

How would you like to live in Weymouth, where the tax rate is $20.50. Last year it was $20.20.

The tax rate of last year was a record breaker, and it should stand as a high water mark for many years. With any financiering at all the tax rate of Quincy should never again reach $19.00.

The census of 1900 shows an increase of less than ten per cent. in Cincinnati, 20 plus in Washington, 32 plus in Providence, 37 plus in Buffalo, 27 plus in Louisville and 39 plus in Milwaukee. If it shows a population of 25,085 in Quincy, the increase will be 50 per cent., which is a more rapid gain than any of the above.

Drift of Opinion.

☞ There is no richer soil for sins against one's self than the mood of discouragement. It is in times of depression that men and women, whose instincts are good, whose impulses are sound, and who mean to do right, fall before temptation. Moods of spiritual depression are precisely like moods of physical depression; when the tone of the system is lowered, germs of disease which are readily thrown off in health find a foothold and set in motion the most dangerous disorders.—The Outlook.

Revere's Great Carnival Week.

The big free out-door carnival arranged to take place at Revere beach next week will be one of the biggest events in the history of the town.

It will open next Sunday and will continue for the entire week. The plans include free band concerts each day and evening at different points along the beach front, two different bands having been engaged for this purpose. Every afternoon at high tide there will be a grand balloon ascension and parachute jump into the ocean. There will also be swimming and rowing races and other special features in the afternoons and each evening there will be a grand display of water fire works.

Two horses, King and Queen, will dive from a tower, 40 feet high, into a tank of water each afternoon.

CITY VALUATION.

No More Ward Comparisons Possible.

Ward One, However, Pays One-Third.

Wollaston and Atlantic Also Gaining Fast.

Because of the new card system introduced into the Assessors'department the tax payers of the city are not divided into wards, and therefore the interesting comparisons of wards as in the past cannot be given. In 1899 the increase of valuation was divided as follows: Ward One, $181,425; Ward Two, $64,000; Ward Three, $35,325; Ward Five, $122,600; and Ward Six, $71,250. Ward Four lost $24,725.

The figures of 1899 show Ward One to pay nearly one-third the total tax, and Ward Five about one-fifth; the other wards being closely bunched in this order: Six, Three, Four and Two.

The figures for eleven years, showing real and personal property and total valuation will make an interesting study:

Political Calendar.

The Republican State Committee has issued its useful political calendar for the Massachusetts campaign of 1900, which with the omission of Boston dates is as follows:

July 22—Registration open in all cities and towns in the Commonwealth.

Sept. 24, 25—On one of these two dates the Republicans of every city and town must hold caucuses for choice of delegates to the State, congressional, councillor, senatorial and county conventions, and except as hereinafter provided, for delegates to representative conventions, and for nomination of candidates for the General Court.

Sept. 30—Last day for appointing election officers in cities.

Oct. 1,2—On one of these two dates, except in Boston, caucuses for choice of delegates to a Republican representative district convention or for nomination of candidates for the General Court may be held.

Oct. 4—10 A. M.—Republican State convention in the Boston Theatre, Boston.

Oct. 6—Last day for holding conventions for nominating candidates to be voted for at large throughout the Commonwealth. Must be held before 5 P. M.

Oct. 6—7—Last day for designating polling places.

Oct. 7—Last day for registrars of voters in every city and town, except Boston, to post in each voting precinct preliminary alphabetical list of voters.

Oct. 8—Certificates of nomination of candidates to be voted for at large throughout the Commonwealth must be filed at the office of the secretary of the Commonwealth before 5 P. M.*

Oct. 10—Earlist day for holding Republican representative conventions.

Oct. 15—Last day for appointing election officers in towns.

Oct. 15 — Nomination papers for candidates to be voted for at large throughout the Commonwealth must be filed at the office of the Secretary of the Commonwealth before 5 P. M.*

Nov. 2—Last day for filng complaint against incorrect and illegal registration in towns.

Nov. 6—State election.

Nov. 7—Registration reopens in all the cities and towns in the Commonwealth.

*Objections to or withdrawals from nominations must be made within the seventy-two hours succeeding five o'clock of the last day fixed for the filing of nomination papers for such offices.

Electric Men Here.

The annual meeting of the Massachusetts Electric Light Association was held Friday at the Squantum Inn. After dinner, upon invitation of John R. Graham, the plant of the Quincy company was visited. Special cars were then taken for a trip through Randolph and the Blue Hills Reservation.

The new constant current transformer for enclosed arc lights has arrived at the Quincy Electric Light plant and is being set up. As soon as it is ready for work, the street arc lights will be changed to the enclosed arc lamps.

Mayor Hall Alert for Quincy's Interest.

With City Solicitor Has Attended Hearings.

A Brief Will Be Submitted Before Next Meeting.

Mayor Hall and City Solicitor Sears are watchful for the interests of Quincy at the hearings before the commissioners to apportion the cost, and have been in attendance at all the meetings held. As yet no opportunity has been offered to present Quincy's case as the commission have not got down to that. On Monday there were arguments for a delay until fall, as the weather was now too hot. Tuesday Westwood occupied considerable of the time, on the ground that it should not be included in the district not being named as it was at the time the act passed, a part of Dedham.

There has been some informal talk as to whether the assessments should be by valuation or population, and some have advocated betterments. It was ordered at the last meeting that the City Solicitor of each city and counsel for towns should present on or before Aug. 14 a brief of what they wished to present in evidence, and that the same should be put into print before the adjourned meeting of Aug. 21.

Quincy will argue that as it has already contributed several thousand acres of its taxable property for the Blue Hills reservation, it should not be expected to pay as large an aseessment as other towns which are equally benefited but which have lost no taxable property. As all taxes are levid on the valuation, Quincy will argue that the parks should be paid for in the same way. That the rich towns, where valuations and tax rates are low, should not be favored at the expense of cities like Quincy, which happen to have a large population, but a much smaller per capita valuation.

The benefits to Quincy are small compared to the cities on the north of Boston which have the Middlesex Fells, Revere beach reservation, and elegant boulevards easily accessible.

Three Wards Gain.

While the polls by the Asssessors returns show a loss of 165 it was wholly in Wards Two, Three and Four as Ward One gained 63, Ward Five, 28, and Ward Six 65. The figures for the two wards are:

	1900.	1899.
Ward One,	1,183	1,120
Ward Two,	745	801
Ward Three, Pre. 1,	594	646
Ward Three, Pre. 2,	671	761
Ward Four, Pre. 1,	601	643
Ward Four, Pre. 2,	727	808

Death of an Aged Resident.

Mr. John Doherty passed a way on Friday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Alex McCabe, 16 Penn street, after a lingering illness. He was one of the oldest voters of this city, being a resident for 52 years. He had seen it grow from a small village to a city and could tell many pleasing anecdotes of olden times. The deceased leaves one daughter.

CITY BREVITIES.

A Local Budget with the News in a Nut Shell.

Muggy weather.

Somewhat cooler Sunday.

The physicians report considerable sickness among children.

The City Treasurer's office has been supplied with a new roll top desk.

An unusually large number of deaths are reported for this week in Quincy.

John P. S. Churchill, clerk of the District court, is enjoying a brief vacation.

Maurice McGrath of Hull, father of Daniel McGrath of Atlantic, died last evening, aged 75 years.

John T. Lawry of Granite street died this morning after a long illness. He was in his 51st year.

Thomas R. Donovan of this city has accepted a position as telegrapher at the Adams House, Boston.

A barge party of fifteen young ladies of Atlantic took in the illumination at Houghs Neck, Friday evening.

Today will be general clearing up day at Houghs Neck for the beach was literally covered with old papers, bags, etc.

Charles C. Foster is among the new building contractors of the city. He is now erecting a 2-flat house on North street.

Mr. William P. Tanner has returned to his duties in New York and on September first starts west on a long business trip.

If there are any tired men today. It is the conductors of the street railway. For the past two days the men have had to work day and night.

Dr. George A. Collier, formerly of Quincy, was the guests of the Ramblers Friday night, and visited Houghs Neck for the first time for twenty years.

At Marblehead yesterday the Hostess defeated the Lookout both on actual and corrected time. The Al Kyris outsailed the Empress and Cartoon in the H. O. class.

The only arrests made at the Houghs Neck carnival were two young fellows in a carriage Friday night, who were insulting people. They were arrested for disturbing the peace.

Amid all the dryness and dust of the summer, Col. A. B. Packard's yard has kept fresh and green and never looked more attractive. Its beauty gives pleasure to hundreds of people every day.

The desk at the First Baptist church will be occupied Sunday, the 12th, by Rev. Frankllin W. Swift of Chicago. His many Wollaston friends will be glad to welcome him to his former home.

The Greenleaf Private school from which many of Quincy's prominent men and women have graduated begins the new term September 12. Pupils are given individual instruction at this school if required.

Mr. Frank Page of Wollaston, Mr. Warren Page and Mrs. Schumacher of Colorado, have the sympathy of a host of Quincy relatives and friends in the loss this week Thursday of their mother, Mrs. Emeline Faxon Page.

The Dr. Underwood house seems to be a favored dwelling place for doctors and no sooner does one move out than another moves in. Dr. Ellsworth is to move shortly having purchased the residence of the late Dr. Gilbert, and rumor has it that Dr. Hayford is to be married and begin housekeeping in the Underwood house when vacated by Dr. Ellsworth.

A lawn party under the auspices of the West Quincy Epworth league was held on Wednesday evening, August 8, on the grounds of Mr. and Mrs. E. V. Trask, No. 2 Willard street. Notwithstanding the threatening weather during the day, the attendance was large and the financial results satisfactory. Ice cream for the party was furnished by M. A. Philip, of the Caledonian bakery, Copeland street.

Miss Eva Brown who recently announced her engagement to Mr. Bertram Busteed of Boston, is quite ill at her home on Spear street. The marriage was to be solemnized the last of the month and it is hoped her illness will not cause a postponement as they have a restful trip planned, which would be of much benefit to Miss Brown who has not been well the past year and needs a change from business cares.

The Thomas Crane Public library receives considerable favorable comment from people riding on the Houghs Neck cars. Since the widening of Coddington street and the removal of the house on the corner, the back of the library shows up better and its red tiled roof, stained glass windows and green covered sides make a beautiful picture. What a pity the Coddington street land could not be thrown into the library grounds, thus getting rid of an unsightly corner and still further improving the looks of the library.

POINTS TO PIERCE.
The Leading Candidate in the Tenth District.
In a resume of the Republican candidates for Congress in the Tenth district, the Dorchester Beacon says Mr. Atwood cannot be elected and that a nomination and thereby "vindication" is all that is hoped.
Continuing the Beacon says: "From the first all signs have pointed to Dr. George B. Pierce of Milton. He is a man of the broadest and most liberal education, the ground work at school and college being enriched by special study, by wide travel here and abroad and by contact with men of all classes. He is man of means, of frugal, modest habits, and those who know him can in no way conceive of the association of his name with sordid motives—with selfish interest in legislation or lack of patriotism. Honesty, integrity and ability are in the blood and marrow of the man.

"The principal objection urged against Dr. Pierce is that he is 'unknown.' How gladly would some of the other candidates welcome this attribute! It is true that Dr. Pierce has not held—for one thing because he has not sought—high political office. He has attended to his studies, to his classes, to the care of the family estate and to the culture of his mind. Through campaigns with his father, whose reputation as a politician was wide, and as a scholar and historian was world wide, he knows the machinery of politics with ample sufficiency for the needs of the office he may be called upon to fill. He is a man of pronounced views and convictions formed by observation and study. He is a man, in a word, representative of the best blood, brains and traditions of Massachusetts.
"It has been said with too much truth that representative men in the Tenth district are not brought forward and that the district's influence in congress is decadent. The nomination of a man of the calibre and standing of Mr. Pierce will make this stricture no longer possible.
"These are troublous and dangerous times and men of the highest character are needed to meet the problems daily presented. The nation is at war, with perhaps the greatest war in history stare it in the face. It has never been called upon to meet such delicate and difficult diplomatic propositions as seem to be impending. Even Democrats distrust the ability of their party to meet them and look to the grand old Republican party for salvation.
"In this crisis more than at any other period for a generation that congress be substantially, overwhelmingly, if possible, Republican.
"The Beacon tenders Dr. George B. Pierce its most cordial support and calls on the Republicans of the Tenth district to sink personal and factional feeling in love for country, and to nominate a man whose candidacy will restore the tenth congressional district to the Republican column, where it belongs."

New Downer Landing Park.
Large crowds have been in attendance at the park every day this week which shows that it is growing in favor. A fine entertainment was given in the rustic theatre last week but a better one is coming next week, when the Ten Merrymakers, a troup of high class vaudeville artists will appear every afternoon and evening. There is also dancing in the pavilion. Free transfers to the park from any part of Quincy.

THE COMPO'S FAULT.
And the Compositor Knew When It Was Time to Vanish.
"Say, I want you to stop my paper from today on," said the prominent citizen as he entered the editorial office and put his fist down hard on the 98 cent table at which the editor was busy molding public opinion.
"Wh-why," gasped the editor, "what's the matter? Didn't you see that column editorial I printed this morning saying you would be the next logical candidate for congress from this district?"
"No, I didn't read it, and I don't care to now. All that you can say after this will never undo the wrong you have done my family. Look at that!"
Then he spread out a copy of the Pendleton Palladium, and, tapping fiercely with the handle of his cane upon a long article that had the best position on the first page, continued:
"That is the essay my daughter read at the commencement exercises night before last—or, at least, that's what it purports to be!"
"Yes, sir, it's verbatim—printed right from her own copy, and a very"—
"Oh, it is, is it! Then, demme, sir, explain this—where is it?—here! 'Let me when I have launched myself upon the sea of life be not as a shirt without a ruffle!' There, sir! There it is in plain black and white! Who changed that from 'ship without a rudder?' I have bought this cane on purpose to"—
There was a sound as of falling glass from the composing room. But when the editor and the prominent citizen looked in the place was empty.—Chicago Times-Herald.

The Conditions Were Favorable.
"I suppose," began the man on the rear platform who wanted to chaff the conductor a bit, "I suppose that one standing out here runs more or less risk from the electric current overhead?"
"Yes, sir," was the reply. "Under certain conditions a man may close the circuit and receive the whole force of the current."
"And what would be the conditions?"
"Just after he had soaked his head!"

Fly Paper.
"After all your talk about sensational journalism!" exclaimed the fly on the edge of the sugar bowl. "I'm surprised at you!"
"What about?" gasped the captured fly, vainly endeavoring to extricate himself from the sticky trap.
"Well, I notice that paper you're stuck on now is decidedly yellow."—Philadelphia Press.

A Joke on Offenbach.
M. Ernest Blum told a joke which he and some friends played on Offenbach when "La Belle Helene" was about to be produced. The composer was most anxious that his airs should not get about before the first night and had asked all his company to be most careful not to let any one hear them, but his tunes were so catchy that it was impossible to help singing them.
One day Blum and his friends were sitting opposite Offenbach in a cafe when one of them began to hum a leading air of "La Belle Helene."
"Who taught you that?" cried Offenbach in a rage.
"No one," replied Blum. "I have known it for ages," and they all agreed that their nurses used to sing it to them when they were children. Presently Albert Wolff, who was one of the party, began to sing another of the airs.
"What!" cried Offenbach, "you know that too?"
"I composed it myself," said Wolff.
Offenbach then saw that they were playing a practical joke on him and demanded the name of the singer who had sung them the opera. They refused, and so the composer threatened that he would fine every one in the theater unless they told him. So Blum and his friends stood up and began the first chorus of the first act and declared they would sing the finale before the whole cafe unless Offenbach relented. The composer, in terror for his music, gave in, beaten by his own facility in writing music.

A Gastronomic Cyclone.
All men and women eat. If they don't, they won't last long, and no one need worry as to whether they count for much or not. But good eaters are usually very depend-on-able. By good eaters I do not mean large eaters or greedy eaters, though I may include some of both, but I mean the men and women who enjoy what they eat and show no disposition, either from dyspepsia or other form of indigestion, to quarrel with their food.
Gluttons, however, are not very lovely. I sat at table once with a woman at a summer resort who every day for dinner ate 12 ears of corn from the cob. That is more than the regulation midday feed for a horse. And in the operation she greased her hands and her cheeks, and every now and again her nose was decorated with the well buttered grains. She was a sight, and at the end of the table she bred a famine that it took waiters to relieve. And she was in repose not by any means a bad looking woman, but in action—In action at the table—she was a kind of human cyclone, leaving desolation in her path. She had had three husbands and is a widow again. What became of the poor men I never knew. Maybe she ate them.—John Gilmer Speed in Criterion.

When Bees Beat Troops.
It is on record that a swarm of bees as weapons of war were used not once, but twice, and with the best possible effect.
When Themiseyra, in Pontus, was besieged by Lucullus, the Romans employed turrets, built mounds and made huge mines beneath the city. While they were creating the mines the people of Themiseyra dug down through the earth to the mines and then cast in upon the Roman workers bears and other wild animals, together with a swarm of bees.
History repeated itself in England when the Danes and Norwegians made their attack upon Chester, about ten centuries since. The town was held by the Saxons and some Gallic allies, who tried stones and boiling water upon the besiegers without effect. As a last resource they collected all the beehives and upset them into the enemy's camp beneath the city wall.
This had the effect of making things "hum," so to speak, and it is recorded that the enemy were so badly stung that they could move neither arms nor legs.

A Good Lincoln Story.
Mr. Lincoln said once that the best story he ever read in the papers of himself was this:
"Two Quakeresses were traveling on the railroad and were heard discussing the probable termination of the war.
"'I think,' said the first, 'that Jefferson will succeed.'
"'Why does thee think so?' asked the other.
"'Because Jefferson is a praying man.'
"'And so is Abraham a praying man,' objected the second.
"'Yes, but the Lord will think Abraham is joking,' the first replied conclusively."

She Was the One.
Bridegroom (after the ceremony)—Maud, you and I are now one. It only remains to be decided which is the one. I tried to win you, didn't I?
Bride—Yes, Harold.
"And I won. That seems to settle it."
"Not quite, Harold. You tried to win me. You succeeded. Then you are the winner, are you not?"
"Yes, dear."
"And I am the won."

The Patient Chinese.
An example of patient industry is the sorting of hogs' bristles as it is carried on at Tien-tsin, China. Each bristle of the 600,000 kilograms exported from that place last year had to be picked out, measured and placed in the bundle of hairs of corresponding length, and the different lengths by which the hairs are sorted are numerous.

Senoras and Senoritas.
The married and unmarried women of the United States of Colombia, South America, are designated by the manner in which they wear flowers in their hair, the senoras wearing them on the right side and the senoritas on the left.

A NATURAL MEDIATOR.

United States Should Remain Friendly and Await Events In China.

Should Not Join Hands With the European Powers.

Andrew Carnegie Gives His Opinion of the Disturbances in the Orient.

London, Aug. 11.—Andrew Carnegie sends to the Associated Press the following statement regarding the situation in the far east and the relation of the United States to future developments there:

ANDREW CARNEGIE.

"The refusal of the United States to participate in the attack on the Taku forts makes the Washington government the natural mediator between China and the European powers in Japan, but America's position may easily be forfeited by agreeing to joint action. The release of Minister Conger and a demand for compensation for injuries incurred are duties incumbent on the government, but the United States, in my opinion, should take no steps in conjunction with the European powers. I take this view because each of those powers has separate interests at heart.

"Great Britain is going to land troops to protect Shanghai because she looks upon the Yang Tse valley as her special province. Russia keeps her chief forces in Manchuria. France is in another region and Germany in a fourth. The first aim of each of these powers is to safeguard her prospective domains, and, if the United States should be drawn into joint action with them, the Washington government may even find itself pledged to go forward into a campaign against China, which would be hopeless, or may ultimately see the powers at war with each other. To enter upon a contest with 400,000,000 Chinamen might prove as disastrous to the United States as a war against a combination of European powers.

"Washington has been the only government which has been right with regard to the safety of the legations. From every point of view President McKinley and Secretary Hay must be credited with having placed our country in a higher and better position than that occupied by any other.

"Probably Great Britain is committing a serious error in taking care of its special department at Shanghai.

"President McKinley has only to continue in the course upon which he has started to give the United States a most commanding position, as the only nation disposed to give the government of China a fair trial and not to condemn it until proved guilty.

"Our policy is clear. European nations attack China and quarrel about the division of Chinese territory. We remain friendly and await events. We have quite enough foreign territory already."

An edict emanating from Pekin and authorizing Li Hung Chang to negotiate with the powers for peace has, it is reported from Shanghai, been received there.

The Belgian foreign office has received the following message, signed "De Cartier," first secretary of the Belgian legation at Pekin. "An imperial decree names Li Hung Chang as minister plenipotentiary to negotiate peace."

The Belgian foreign office has also received from the Belgian minister at Pekin a dispatch identical with that received at Washington and by the French foreign office, telling of the attempts made by the Chinese to secure the foreign ministers' acceptance of a Chinese escort to Tientsin.

Alabama's Trial Postponed.

Washington, Aug. 11.—Owing to the defective condition of dry dock No. 3 at the New York navy yard it will be necessary to postpone the preliminary official trial of the battleship Alabama, which had been set for Aug. 20, over the government course off the coast of New England. The big ship is to be docked at New York preparatory to the trial, and it has been found that the dock must undergo certain repairs before it can be used for the purpose.

Will Re-employ Old Hands.

Winchester, Mass., Aug. 11.—The lockout existing between the American Shoe Machinery company and its employes has at last been settled, as President Winslow of the company has given notice that the old employes will be taken back. It is understood, however, that the union has been broken up.

Cruisers Won't Be Built in America.

Constantinople, Aug. 11.—As a result of the recent trip to the United States of Rear Admiral Ahmed Pasha of the Turkish navy, the sultan has issued an irade ordering the minister of marine, Hassan Pasha, to negotiate for the construction of six cruisers at the Germania works, Kiel.

Worcester Man For President.

Philadelphia, Aug. 11.—The Catholic Total Abstinance union of America has elected Rev. D. F. McGillicuddy of Worcester, Mass., as president, and selected Hartford for the next annual meeting.

WAS LEADER OF BRITISH BAR.

Death of Charles Russell, For Many Years Chief Justice of England.

London, Aug. 11.—Baron Russell of Killowen, lord chief justice of England, died Friday as the result of an operation. Baron Russell, who had ben ill for about a fortnight, is variously reported to have suffered from a gastric disorder and from a tumor in the stomach. Charles Russell, Lord of Killowen, lord chief justice of England, G. C. M. G., LL. D., D. L., Q. C. and M. P., was born in Newry, Ire., in 1830. He was educated first at Castle Knock college, and then at Trinity college, Dublin. In 1872 he "took silk," and, taken in all, Sir Charles Russell may easily be said to have stood first at the English bar.

In March, 1893, he was one of the counsel of the English government on the Behring sea international tribunal of arbitration which met at Paris. The commission consisted of seven arbitrators, two being chosen on behalf of the United States by President Harrison, two by the British government and three by the President of France, the King of Italy and the King of Norway and Sweden.

Upon the death of Lord Chief Justice Coleridge, in June, 1894, Sir Charles Russell was appointed to that position, the selection being approved throughout all England.

He visited America in 1883 with Lord Coleridge, Sir James Hannen, Patrick Martin, Q. C., Mr. Bryce, M. P., and Sir Horace Davey. He visited his sister, Mother Baptist, in San Francisco, and made many friends.

In 1896 he again visited America to attend the meeting of the American Bar association in Saratoga.

Anti-Imperialists May Declare For Bryan.

New York, Aug. 11.—Referring to Mr. Bryan's declarations against imperialism in his speech at Indianapolis, E. M. Ordway, secretary of the Anti-Imperialist league of New York, says: "Of course the anti-imperialists of this state cannot speak for all their brethren who are to gather at Indianapolis on the 15th, but the position taken by anti-imperialists generally has been so clear that I should think, in view of Mr. Bryan's sweeping pronouncement against imperialism, there should be no doubt as to the attitude and action of the convention."

Turkey Loses a Statesman.

Constantinople, Aug. 11.—Djevad Pasha, the former grand vizier, is dead. Djevad Pasha was promoted in 1891 from the governorship of Crete to the position of grand vizier, or chief adviser of the sultan, holding the position until 1895. He first distinguished himself as adjutant to Osman Pasha during the war between Russia and Turkey, after which he served on the Balkan states and railway commission, and was diplomatic agent at Belgrade and Montenegro. He was the author of a "military history of the Ottoman empire."

Charged With Killing a Pensioner.

Brattleboro, Vt., Aug. 11.—William Odell, a farmer; Elizabeth Odell, said to be his wife, and Della Colson, who has been living with them, are under arrest at Whitingham on a complaint charging them with the murder of Luke Risley. Risley bought a farm last February, and the Odells and the girl lived with him. In July, soon after drawing his pension, when Risley had $70, he disappeared, and no satisfactory explanation of his absence has been given.

Three Victims of Accidents.

Sydney, N. S., Aug. 11.—As a tub weighing 900 pounds and containing 2500 pounds of iron ore was being hoisted on the steamer Ceylon the cable broke, precipitating the tub and contents into the hold, striking James Mercer and Anderson Dyer, who were standing below, bruising them so seriously that they both died. At Glace Bay, Nathaniel Carneym was killed instantly by a fall of coal in the Caledonia pit.

To Be Hanged For Rape.

Marietta, Ga., Aug. 11.—Sam Robinson, a negro, charged with criminal assault on Mrs. George Inzer, was yesterday convicted and sentenced to hang Sept. 1. He confessed after conviction. Two companies of Georgia militia guarded him from mob violence on the trip to and from this place. He is now at Atlanta for safe keeping.

Someone Evidently Contemplated Crime.

Bennington, Vt., Aug. 11.—A dynamite mine, containing six large cartridges and fuses 18 feet long, with a cap for firing, has been discovered under an old house in the rear of the residence of L. E. Holden. The mine was evidently placed under the house years ago, but no satisfactory explanation of its presence there can be obtained.

Colombian Revolution Not Ended.

Colon, Aug. 11.—The Columbia government forces, it is semi-officially announced, have occupied Ocana. General Uribe of the insurgent forces is surrounded at Negra Grande by Generals Tobar, Hoyos and Mastine. The prospect of peace is not distant.

Defense Rests In Powers Case.

Georgetown, Ky., Aug. 11.—In the Powers case the defense rested its testimony Friday afternoon. Several witnesses in rebuttal were introduced by the prosecution. The jury will be taken to Frankfort next week to view the scene of the tragedy.

Summary of Crop Averages.

Washington, Aug. 11.—The August report of the statistician of the department of agriculture shows the following averages of condition on Aug. 1. Corn, 87.5; spring wheat, 56.4; oats, 85; barley, 71.6; spring rye, 76; buckwheat, 87.9; potatoes, 88.2; timothy hay, 79.9.

Over Thirty-Two Thousand Letters Returned.

Boston, Aug. 11.—Postmaster Hibbard announces that the last piece of mail directed to Francis Truth, the "divine healer," has been sent back to the writers. The total number of letters was 32,000.

Steyn Said to Have Killed Himself.

London, Aug. 11.—It is persistently rumored in Lourenzo Marquez, according to a dispatch to The Daily Telegraph, dated yesterday, that Mr. Steyn has committed suicide.

WEEKLY TRADE REVIEW.

Bradstreet's Reports That a More Cheerful Feeling Is Perceptible.

New York, Aug. 11.—Bradstreet's says: Trade conditions still exhibit many of the irregularities incident to the transition period between midsummer and early fall trade.

The hot wave has easily held the center of the stage this week, because of its effect on the growing distributive demand, and also because of the reports of damage to the corn crop, which it has incited. Despite this fact, however, a more cheerful feeling is perceptible in general trade.

Prices are not showing the precipitate decline noted some time ago, and among the really encouraging features are the advance in wheat, mainly based on improved export inquiry.

Wool is rather firmer than of late, because of the better inquiry, though it must be admitted this steadiness is somewhat at the expense of new business. Cotton goods partake of the strength of the raw material, due to talk of a possible bullish crop report, and where weaknes is perceptible, as in brown cottons, print cloths and wide sheetings, the natural corrective of reduced production is being increasingly sought.

An immense business in steel products is reported booked at Pittsburg and Chicago, and steel bars are really firmer.

A significant feature of the trade is the strength of structural material. The other metals are dull and tin is weak.

Business failures number 172 for the week, against 170 last week, 156 in this week a year ago, 157 in 1898.

Hot Wave Causes Many Deaths.

New York, Aug. 11.—There were 11 deaths yesterday from the excessive heat which has been torturing humanity in this locality for some days. The infant mortality is appaling. Horses are perishing all over the city.

Professor Arthur L. Clark and Professor Arthur C. Nutt of Worcester, Mass., have been chosen instructors in physics and English in Bates college.

Chicago, Aug. 11.—Nine deaths and 15 prostrations resulted from the excessive heat here yesterday.

Philadalphia, Aug. 11.—The intense heat yesterday resulted in five deaths and 20 prostrations.

Milwaukee, Aug. 11.—Two deaths due to the heat were reported yesterday.

Kruger Doesn't Intend to Surrender.

London, Aug. 11.—According to the Lourenzo Marquez correspondent of The Daily Express, President Kruger, in the course of an interview, said that the report that he intended to surrender was without foundation. He declared that the war would last a long time yet. A Boer bulletin, continues the correspondent, announces a big battle between Lydenburg and Middleburg, in which the British had 500 killed and wounded. It also announced the recapture by the burghers of Heilbron, Devilliersdorp and Frankfort.

Speeches Only on Special Occasions.

Chicago, Aug. 11.—Mr. Bryan will make no such extended speech-making tour of the country this campaign as he did four years ago. He will make a number of speeches, but they will be all in connection with some special occasion and not a part of a general swinging around the circle. That much was determined during the talks which Mr. Bryan had with the members of the executive committee of the Democratic national committee yesterday.

An Expensive Undertaking.

New York, Aug. 11.—The laying of the first telegraph cable to connect the United States directly with Germany was started at 6 a. m. today from the Commercial Cable company's station on Coney Island. It will be the most direct telegraphic line to the European continent. The cost of the cable will be £935,000, and it is aproximately 2400 miles in length.

Plenty of Work Mapped Out.

New York, Aug. 11.—The tentative campaign itinerary for Governor Roosevelt covers 43 days in 16 states, as follows: Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin, North Dakota, Montana, Idaho, Wyoming, Utah, Colorado, Kansas, Nebraska, Missouri, Kentucky, Indiana, Ohio and West Virginia. The governor will put in the rest of the campaign in this state.

Pelestro a Hopeless Wreck.

Norfolk, Aug. 11.—Steamer Palestro, which went on the outer Diamond shoals, off Cape Hatteras, Thursday, lies a hopeless wreck. The Palestro was bound from Pensacola to Liverpool with lumber, and, with her cargo, was valued at about $200,000. The crew will come to Norfolk.

To Run on Short Time.

Willimantic, Conn., Aug. 11.—It is announced that on Monday next the mills of the Willimantic Linen company will begin running on a five days a week schedule. This short running time is attributed to lack of orders. About 1800 hands are employed.

NEWS IN BRIEF.

Late advices from the north assert that a single shipment of $1,000,000 in treasure will soon be made from Dawson.

A seat on the New York stock exchange was sold yesterday for $35,000, which is unchanged from the last price, but is at a decline of $6000 from last year's high level.

According to the will of John M. Loomis of Chicago, the greater part of his estate, of more than $1,000,000, will be devoted to founding the Loomis Institute at Windsor, Conn., as a memorial for the family.

Lester Boyden, a farmer, aged 69, while driving over railroad tracks at Northboro, Mass., was run into and instantly killed.

The hotel Des Terrasses, at Dinard, France, was destroyed by fire. Many Americans were among the sufferers, although no one was injured.

Apprehension is felt for the safety of Messrs. Robinson and Coffin, the census supervisors for Alaska, who, with several others, left Rampart City, Alaska, in small boats on June 9 for St. Michaels, and have not since been heard from.

Herbert Putnam, librarian of the United States congress, is in Berlin arranging for an exchange of books with European libraries.

The Tulip Craze.

About the middle of the seventeenth century the tulip became known in Germany, and a scientist named Gesner gives the first description of this flower. First only the yellow variety was known, and then other colors were produced by crossing. The Dutch, particularly the citizens of Haarlem, produced the most wonderful varieties of this flower and obtained enormous prices for them.

In 1634 the trade in tulips assumed a peculiar turn. It degenerated into a sort of a game of chance, so that in 1673 the authorities felt called upon to interfere and to issue edicts against extravagance in tulips, as they formerly had against trains and laces. This interference would seem to be justified if one reads that in 1606 a single flower of this sort, called the Viceori, was paid for with two cargoes of wheat, four cargoes of rye, four fat oxen, eight fat hogs, 12 fat sheep, two casks of wine, four barrels of beer, two tons of butter, 1,000 pounds of cheese, a complete bed, a suit of clothing and a silver tankard.

Another bulb, the Semper Augustus, was paid for with 4,600 gold guilders and a coach with a double team of horses. In Haarlem the tulip craze reached its height in the decade from 1630 to 1640, when a price of 12,000 gold guilders (about $9,000 American money) is recorded for a single bulb.

A Joke of Sydney Smith's.

On the occasion of a dinner Sydney Smith was the guest, and when the evening was over the host thanked the wit heartily for the entertainment he had afforded. "I shall not forget you, Mr. Smith," he added. "Thank you. Take care you don't forget yourself tomorrow (it was Saturday) in church," rejoined Smith, whereat the host, Kershaw by name, rather bridled up.

"I hope, sir, I know how to behave myself in church!" "Well," said Smith good temperedly, "if I catch you smiling I will call you by name." "You may," rejoined the visitor. "The thing is absurd. I will give you a donation to the York hospital if it happens."

On the ensuing morning Smith read the prayers reverently, as he always did, then ascended the pulpit, looked around the church and rested his eye on the visitor whose name was Kershaw. That gentleman said afterward that he did not know what possessed him, but so it was he gave a broad smile. Thereupon the preacher was seized with a violent inclination to sneeze, and, applying his handkerchief with suitable action, he sounded "kerker k-ker-shaw" three times over.—From "The Reminiscences of Half a Century," by R. W. Hiley.

Bright's Threat to His Wife.

Two characteristic anecdotes of John Bright are given in Sir Edward Russell's memoirs, which he has published under the title "That Reminds Me—"

Bright was supposed to be a total abstainer, but once when Edward Miall was very nervous at the prospect of having to make an important speech in the house, Bright said:

"Well, Miall, if I were you, I'd for once go and have a pint of champagne."

Mr. Miall did as he was told, and the result may be judged from the narrator's comment that "champagne on an unaccustomed interior is not always a curative or a tonic."

Bright "rarely had any difference with his wife," but occasionally they were not at one about the children. When they came to a point of absolute disagreement, he used to say:

"Now, I tell thee, if thou doesn't do what I wish, I'll go straight to Mr. Gladstone and ask him to make me a knight," to which the answer invariably was:

"Oh, anything rather than that."

Late Hours In St. Petersburg.

Personally I know of no other town where such late hours are the vogue as in St. Petersburg. But your St. Petersburger does not get up early in the morning. At St. Petersburg the music halls, which it is the fashionable thing to attend after the theater—a drive to them taking half an hour in a swift sleigh—do not practically begin till 12. Through the Neva at 4 o'clock in the morning you have to literally push your way, and the favorite trains for travelers are those starting about 5 o'clock in the morning. These trains save the Russian the trouble of getting up early. He wishes his friends "good night" and drives down to the station comfortably after supper without putting the house to any inconvenience.—Jerome K. Jerome in Saturday Evening Post.

No Deformity There.

Tommy (allowed to sit up)—Why, Sister Clara, Mr. Tadwell's feet are both alike. (Embarrassment of Tommy's sister.)

Mr. Tadwell (coming gallantly to the rescue)—Of course, Tommy, what did you think?

Tommy—I didn't think nothin, only I heard Sister Clara say you're always puttin your best foot backward and I wanted to see which one it was.—Exchange.

The Passion Play Town.

"Oberammergau is a quaint place," says a traveler. "The whole town is practically controlled by the Lang family. They are the leading spirits in the production of the play. They have more or less charge of the various taverns, inns or hotels for the accommodation of the travelers and in a general way supervise everything."

A man born with a silver spoon in his mouth may be the offspring of a family that stole the spoons.—New Orleans Picayune.

PILGRIM JOE AGAIN.

HE TELLS OF HIS ADVENTURES IN COLD CHUCK.

And, Judging From His Narration, He Had a Decidedly Lively Time In That Town, Taking All Things Into Consideration.

[Copyright, 1900, by C. B. Lewis.]

Hevin arrived at the town of Cold Chuck with my tintype outfit in good condition and my fightin dog under the wagin, I was fain to look around me at the meetin house, the town hall and the tavern and say to myself:

"He who hath a feelin of complacency hath riches."

And also:

"A man who doth not fear to shake hands with a sheriff hath no call to sigh fur fame."

And ag'in:

"Benevolence not only maketh a man friends, but if worked in connection with other things can be made to pay a clean hundred per cent profit."

Then I opened my wagin fur bizness, and when I hung out the sign of "Ten Cents a Take" thar was a rush of enlightened and liberal minded citizens to secure their tintypes. In doin my work I sought to preserve a nateral expreshun of countenance in each and every case, and it was tharfore easy fur the owners of faces to recognize themselves. Their satisfaction was unbounded except in one single case. It was that of an old critter who had accumulated much worldly wealth by the raisin of cattle and the playin of poker. He wanted his tintype to represent a man of innercent and benign appearance, that the same might deceive, but it was not to be, and he was wroth. I saw the wrothness in his face, and yet he cunnin'ly dissembled and said:

"Pilgrim, it is not by the looks of a man that we should size him up, but by his deeds and actions."

"'Tis true," said I. "I have known a knockkneed, cross eyed man to turn his feller critters from the broad road of destruction. If the heart is without guile, the face is nuthin to us."

"I like to hear you say that," said the old deceiver as he tried to smile clear around to the back of his neck. "I ain't purty, and I don't look innercent, but my heart knoweth no more wickedness than that of a babe. It is positively amazin how green and guileless I am."

"The innercent and confidin man may lose a leetle on the first few hands out," said I, "but he ginerally scoops in the pot in due time. As a pilgrim travelin threw this vale and givin good advice and speakin words of consolashun, lemme hope that the wickedness of men will not prevail ag'in you."

The old reprobate sought to look soft and gentle and silly, and bimeby he seemed to notice the dog under the wagin fur the fust time, and he blandly asked:

"May I take it that that is a Missouri rabbit tied to a wheel of your vehicle?"

"You may," said I, "but don't you go and bet on it. That's my fightin dog. When I meet up with a wicked and vainglorious man who can't be moved by argyment, I git up a dogfight and humble his speerits by removin his wealth."

"I'm not vainglorious, and I'm ready to listen to argyments, but at the same time I do love to see a struggle between two dogs. Bein as you are a benevolent pilgrim and bein as I am a guileless citizen of Cold Chuck, could not we arrange fur a leetle scrap?"

"If it's fur the gineral benefit of mankind," said I.

"It is," said he. "And that the orphans and the heathen may profit by it financially I'll bet $50 on my dog."

He went away and returned with his canine, and when I had looked the animal over I blithely covered his stake, and the eminent citizens of Cold Chuck assembled to behold the contest. Many of them expressed their sorrow that I had been roped in by the guileless old reprobate, but I squeezed their hands with the grip of a trustin man and remained.

"He who walketh ag'in a mighty wind with a lighted candle in his hand shall be blown out."

The scrap lasted only five minits. Then the guileless man of cattle and poker acknowledged that his dog was licked and took him away into mournin and seclusion. In an hour, however, he returned to say:

"Integrity is a shinin jewel on a hilltop, and some of us in strivin to gather it in slip up and slide down."

"That's true," said I, "and mebbe you want another chance at the jewel?"

"That's what I've come fur. I notice the letters 'G. R.' on your hoss blanket. Kin I take it that they stand fur 'Great Rapidity?'"

"You kin, and you will be knect. Make no mistake, however. It's 'Great Rapidity' of eatin up his oats which them letters stand fur. As the servant of a humble pilgrim the hoss is slow and dignified of gait. Hast thou also a slow and dignified equine?"

"Yea, I hev," said he, with a balmy grin.

"And wouldst match him ag'in mine fur rapidity of gait, owners to ride?"

"Yea, even fur rapidity of gait."

Then we put up $50 apiece and invited the eminent citizens of Cold Chuck to reassemble. The hoss of the guileless man sized up well, and ag'in the citizens come to me with words of despondency on their lips and the statement that it was a cold deal in which I would git left. To comfort them and myself, while at the same time I was preparin my old hoss fur the contest before him, I replied:

"The wind bloweth whar she listeth, and who kin tell how she will bloweth?"

And also:

"An honest conscience is good fur three lengths on a race track."

And ag'in:

"He who plotteth the downfall of his feller man the same shall be made to wonder if a house fell upon him."

And then we was ready fur the race. It was straight away fur half a mile, and, although the balmy old reprobate jockeyed me out of two lengths at the start, I preserved my serenity of countenance and my faith in integrity and beat him by a rod. Great was the rejoicin among the eminent citizens of Cold Chuck at the conclusion, but I maintained my placidity of countenance and shoved 50 more plunks down into my pocket. I was ready to pursue my way toward the town of Busted-Twice-and-Hard-Up-Ag'in when the balmy reprobate appeared fur the third time and said:

"This performance is not yit over. You've walloped my dog and beat my hoss, but I'll tackle you fur another fifty."

I would have him understand that as a humble and weary pilgrim travelin from afur I knew not how to scrap, but when he had reviled me I kivered his money and toyed and dallied with him and put him to sleep. He still slept and the summer sun was sinkin to his virtuous couch and the Cold Chuck brass band was playin "Hail Columbia" as I driv away over the medders, and as I driv I felt the wad of greenbacks in my pocket and exclaimed to myself:

"Who hath virtue? Who hath integrity? Who hath charity? What man hath a weapon to prevail over these?"

And the sun went down, and the shadders of night fell upon my race hoss and fightin dog, and a beautiful sereneness of speerit stole over me and clasped me in its tender arms.

It was on an open Pittsburg car. A man of years and sedateness sat next to a young man who was consulting a pocket dictionary. By and by and without any premonitory symptoms the sedate man said:

"It's in there. I was looking over one of them books yesterday, and I picked out the very words."

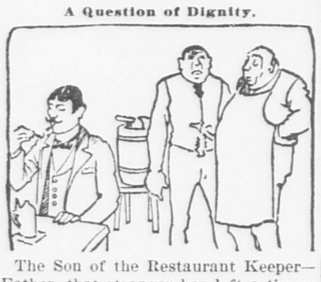

"What do you refer to?" asked the young man.

"To what a woman up my way called me when I asked her to marry me."

"And what was it?"

"A concave cataleptic semiannual old idiot. At first I didn't exactly know whether she meant to say yes or turn me down, but after looking in the dictionary I made up my mind that she was not for me. Mighty handy these dictionaries are when you get stuck on a hard word, eh?"

Quackery.

[If chicks seek shelter, it will be wet. When ducks bathe and quack, there will be rain; when they are quiet, there will be a thunderstorm.—Science Siftings.]

If a man would sift his science
With the requisite appliance
And would separate the fiction from the fact,
Let him shake a common riddle
Till there's nothing in the middle
But the reason for some ordinary act.

Thus a duck's vociferation
To the ear of education
Is portentous with a prophecy of rain,
And the preference of chickens
For a shelter is the dickens
Of an omen to a cultivated brain.

Of the maiden in The Graphic
May be eloquent of weather "settled fair,"
But they take umbrellas, chuckling,

And so science is uplifted
On the rubbish it has sifted,
While our ignorance, despairing of the knack,
Can but pen a panegyric
On a method so empiric
That it gives a new importance to a quack.

The Deadliest Poisons.

The discoverer of prussic acid was instantly killed by inhaling one whiff of his own handiwork.

Pure prussic acid is never sold or handled. The smell of it is always fatal. It kills not in three minutes or half an hour, but the instant it enters the lungs as a gas. The mixture ordinarily sold as prussic acid is 98 parts water to two parts of the drug. Even in this form it is very deadly. A 20 per cent mixture of the acid would kill nearly as quickly as if pure.

Atropine, though it has no harmful odor, is so deadly that as much of it as would adhere to the end of a moistened forefinger would instantly cause death.

Cyanide of potassium has a pleasant smell, which is not injurious, but a small quantity swallowed kills at once.

Pure ammonia, if inhaled, would cause death almost as quickly as prussic acid.

When a carboy of nitric acid is broken, some one has to suffer. It will burn wood, eat through iron plates and destroy whatever it touches. Such an accident once happened in an acid factory. Every one ran away, leaving the acid to amuse itself by setting fire to things. Soon it was seen that the building would be destroyed and hundreds of people thrown out of work, and four men volunteered to put out the fire in the acid room. They succeeded and came out all right. Five hours later all were dead.

Mr. Campbell's Legal Adventure.

Robert J. Campbell of New York had an odd and even awkward experience one day which illustrates forcibly a peculiar phase in the practice of law in the metropolis. Returning home late at night, he was attacked and severely beaten by a drunken stranger. To allay the apprehension of his family Mr. Campbell explained that he had been struck by a street car. He was put to bed and a maid sent out for liniment and bandages. She returned with a strange doctor, who proceeded at once to make a minute examination.

The examination disclosed that the patient was suffering countless injuries, most of them incurable, to his spine, knees, thighs, shoulders and arms. Mr. Campbell, who knew how little he was hurt, was even alarmed by the result, and his family were thrown into almost senseless fear. The following day the doctor returned and announced that he was not a physician at all, but an "accident" lawyer—that is, one who sues corporations for damages resulting from physical injuries. He also brought with him several alleged witnesses to the street car accident, all of whom were willing to swear to anything for a consideration.—Saturday Evening Post.

Blue Jay Tree Planters.

An old time Arizona woodchopper says the blue jays have planted thousands of the trees now growing all over Arizona. He says these birds have a habit of burying small seed in the ground with their beaks and that they frequent pinyon trees and bury large numbers of the small pine nuts in the ground, many of which sprout and grow. He was walking through the pines with an eastern gentleman a short time ago when one of these birds flew from a tree to the ground, stuck his bill in the earth and quickly flew away. When told what had happened, the eastern man was skeptical, but the two went to the spot and with a knife blade dug out a sound pine nut from a depth of about 1½ inches. Thus it will be seen that nature has plans of her own for forest perpetuation.

The Register of the Voice.

The register of the voice is sometimes confounded with the range. There are two registers to the voice, whatever its quality. These are termed the register of the chest and the register of the head.

The chest notes are given in full, even tones and with the natural voice. The tones may be either open or closed. They are given from the chest and the back of the nose.

Head tones come from the bridge of the nose, and if untrained are apt to develop an unpleasant shrillness.

In a trained voice it is impossible to detect where the chest register ends.—New York World.

Plants That Bear Jewels.

One of the directors of Kew gardens, lecturing at the London institute on some curiosities of tropical plant life, said that among these were the pearls found occasionally in the cocoanut palm of the Philippine Islands—pearls which, like those of the ocean, are composed of carbonate of lime. The bamboo, too, yields another precious product in the shape of true opals, which are found in its joints.

Nature's Winter Storage.

As the result of 29 years of experiments at Rothamsted, England, it is shown that in the winter months more than half of the amount of rain that falls penetrates into the soil and becomes available for the supply of springs, while in the summer only one-quarter of the rainfall is absorbed by the soil. The maximum quantity of water in the soil is at a depth of about 40 inches.

Ancestors.

It would be much better for this world if many vain people who are running back into ancient history to find great ancestors to support them would turn in and support their ancestors who are now on earth and on the country.—Galveston News.

A Curiosity.

Wife—Look, Arthur, Melitta has not forgotten us on her wedding journey. She has sent this postal card and writes, simply, "We are in heaven!"

Husband—What! Have they postal cards there? Let me see it.—Heitere Welt.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Aug. 12—Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

Topic.—Zeal.—Luke xvi, 1-13.

THE PARABLE.

The lesson contains the parable of "the unjust steward." A certain rich man had a steward who proved false to his trust. He called him to account for his stewardship and declared his intention of depriving him of his position. The steward was in great perplexity as to how to provide for his future. He decided finally to reduce the indebtedness of his lord's debtors, that when he lost his position they would receive him into their homes. The debtors were probably merchants who had given their notes or bonds for the amounts of their indebtedness. The steward called them together and gave them the privilege of reducing what they owed. The lord—the lord of the steward, not the Lord Jesus Christ—commended him for his prudence, but undoubtedly not for his dishonesty. The transaction was a shrewd one and yet a dishonest one. In a better and nobler sense Jesus then urges the disciples to use money and, indeed, all worldly advantages to make friends not of God's debtors, but of God's people, so that they may help them to heaven and when death comes receive them into everlasting habitations.

THE INTERPRETATION.

This is one of the most difficult parables of Christ to interpret. The different views held are many and varied. To state them even would be impossible. The best interpretation seems to be that this parable is to teach the disciples of Christ prudence and zeal in their service of God, and the lesson is taught by an illustration of the prudence and zeal of a man of the world in furthering his worldly interests. No one can imagine for a moment that Christ meant to commend the dishonesty of the steward. He simply meant to say, If a worldling used so much zeal and prudence for furthering his temporal interests, how much more prudent and zealous Christians should be in advancing their heavenly interests! This is intelligible. We can emulate a man's method of action, while we denounce its character. Christ therefore simply teaches us to use the same prudence and zeal in serving God as the children of the world do in serving the world.

THE APPLICATION.

This parable emphasizes zeal in the service of God and in the advancement of our heavenly interests. It is, alas, too often the case that God's children display less wisdom and zeal in serving Him than the children of the devil do in serving their father. The children of the world are indeed wiser, more prudent, than the children of light. But they should not be. As our aims, our purposes, are nobler and loftier, as the results at issue are more tremendously important, so our wisdom and our zeal should be more pronounced. This parable places a premium neither on ignorance nor on laziness, though many Christians seem to do so. Let us be zealous and prudent in our service of our God.

THE PRAYER MEETING.

Have the parable explained, followed by voluntary participation on the topic.

BIBLE READINGS.

II Kings, x, 11-17; Neh. iv, 1-6; Ps. lxix, 9; Eccl. ix, 10; Luke xiii, 24; John ii, 13-17; I Cor. xv, 58; II Cor. ix, 1, 2; Gal. vi, 1-10; Phil. iii, 13, 14.

Aloofness to Other Christians.

Not the least valuable result of the ecumenical conference will be a lifting up or at least a lightening of the fog of complacent ignorance with which too many among us have regarded the great bodies of evangelical Christians so far as they have found occasion to regard them at all. This attitude is unfortunate. Its unconscious superciliousness no doubt attracts to our churches some social aspirants, but it is a source of widespread and not unjustified irritation and alienation from the church. The attitude of aloofness that it has fostered has been a great injury to the work that we have to do in the Christian world. No one could have attended the sessions of this conference, no one could even have read attentively the reports of them, and still believe that the solar system revolved around the weather vane on his parish spire. It was plain that here there was neither Greek, barbarian nor Scythian, but Christ was all and in all.—Churchman.

The Work That Is Being Done.

Though the love of some may have waxed cold and indifferentism and worldliness are undisguised obstructions to the progress of the cause of God, yet this reproach can by no means be a universal charge. On the same old God sanctioned and God honored lines there is earnest, honest effort. The old guards are vigilant and active, and new corps are mustering into line. Never in the history of the church was more being attempted and more being done. Babylon has not yet fallen, but angels are flying everywhere with the everlasting gospel, and sooner or later there can be but one result—the kingdoms of the earth must become our Lord's.—Christian Intelligencer.

God Will Attend to the Rest.

Wealth and scholarship are not passports into the kingdom of God. They may add a grace to the redeemed, but they are not a means of grace. The rich and cultured sinner is as vile before God as the poor woman of the streets. God is no respecter of persons. Jesus was not seeking respectable sinners to build up a respectable church. God pity the pastor who is doing that! He was seeking the lost. This is also our proper work. If we go for and bring in the lost, rich or poor, cultured or ignorant, God will attend to the rest.—Lutheran Observer.

FOR MIDDLE-AGED WOMEN.

Two Letters from Women Helped Through the "Change of Life" by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—When I first wrote to you I was in a very bad condition. I was passing through the change of life, and the doctors said I had bladder and liver trouble. I had suffered for nine years. Doctors failed to do me any good. Since I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, my health has improved very much. I will gladly recommend your medicine to others and am sure that it will prove as great a blessing to them as it has to me."—MRS. GEO. H. JUNE, 901 DeKalb Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Relief Came Promptly

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I had been under treatment with the doctors for four years, and seemed to get no better, I thought I would try your medicine. My trouble was change of life, and I must say that I never had anything help me so much as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Relief came almost immediately. I have better health now than I ever had. I feel like a new woman, perfectly strong. I give Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound all the credit, and would not do without her medicine for anything. I have recommended it to several of my friends. There is no need of women suffering so much for Mrs. Pinkham's remedies are a sure cure."—MAHALA BUTLER, Bridgewater, Ill.

BRAINTREE.

George Wales of Wakefield has been visiting his former home on Elm street.

John G. Minchin of River street went to Meriden, Conn., today to attend the funeral of his aunt.

There will be a grand union picnic of the Knights of Pythias on Labor day. Although the place is not definitely decided upon as yet, it is thought that Houghs Neck will be the place.

The chosen committees of the Universalist church and of the new Unitarian body will meet next Wednesday evening at the home of Mr. E. E. Abercrombie for the purpose of forming one strong liberal society.

Mr. and Mrs. Ellsworth Arnold's son, Fred, of Ash street had a fainting spell Tuesday afternoon which is thought to be the result of being hit accidentally on the head by a horse shoe while playing the game of quoits. He will visit a specialist today in Boston to see if an operation is necessary.

Last Monday a large party from First church, Y. P. S. C. E. society, attended the regular bi-monthly meeting of the East Norfolk C. E. Union, which was held at the Bethany church, Quincy. At this meeting the union voted to accept the invitation of the Randolph society to join them in holding a picnic at Randolph grove on Labor Day.

The Butcher Boy team will come out for practice Monday evening. A large attendance is requested.

The Braintree Jr.'s will cross bats with the Mt. Pleasant team of Weymouth on the common this afternoon.

Miss Lydia Whitcomb, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles G. Whitcomb has been seriously ill at her home on Washington street this week.

W. E. Wilde has been in New York for the past week. Mr. Wilde has accepted a position with a machine company and will start on the road at once.

Capt. Eugene Coy and Charles Reviere of Hook and Ladder Co. No. 2 were chosen delegates this week to attend the Firemen's Convention in North Adams the last of this month.

Amana Rebekah lodge installed officers Thursday evening. An entertainment was held, after which all adjourned to the banquet hall, where a collation was served. There was a very large attendance.

The second 100 yard foot race between Greenough and Gardner took place in front of the Town hall last Saturday afternoon and it was won by Greenough. He gave Gardner a start of five yards and caught him at the fifty yard mark. Greenough won by about three feet.

George E. Sampson is digging a cellar for C. W. Clapp on West street next to the "Golden Rule" store. W. S. Levangie has the contract for the stone work, and J. H. G. Robinson will build the house. When completed it will be occupied by Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Clark.

Last Tuesday evening Miss Mabel Perry was pleasantly surprised by her friends at her home on Union street, who had gathered in honor of her birthday. She was presented with a beautiful opal ring, a large bouquet of white pinks tied with white satin ribbon, and several other gifts.

There should have been a grand celebration in this town when the Quincy and Boston street railway was put under the management of the Brockton street railway company. Braintree, Quincy and Randolph now get free transfers. From the Holbrook or Randolph line you can ride to the Quincy line for five cents. Five cents more will take you to Houghs Neck, Neponset, East Milton, Quincy Point or Weymouth Landing.

The Braintree Veteran firemen have completed arrangements to attend the league muster at Waltham on Thursday of next week. The Braintree band will escort them to that city. The board of selectmen and the board of engineers have received invitations to be present and have made arrangements to attend.

It is hoped that a large delegation will go with the Vets and Butcher Boy, and that they will bring home a prize. Everybody is invited to join the veterans.

The committee and others interested in establishing a strong liberal church in Braintree met at the Cochato clubhouse Thursday evening. A code of by-laws were adopted, and a committee of five were chosen to confer with a committee from the Universalist church. The expenditures of this new church will be light, so that all interested people may join in its support.

Buchanan, Mich., May 22.

Genesee Pure Food Co., Le Roy, N. Y.:

Gentlemen: My mamma has been a great coffee drinker and has found it very injurious. Having used several packages of your GRAIN-O, the drink that takes the place of coffee, she finds it much better for herself and for us children to drink. She has given up coffee drinking entirely. We use a package of Grain-O every week. I am ten years old.

Yours respectfully, FANNIE WILLIAMS.

PICTURESQUE COTTAGE.

Design For a Comfortable Home to Cost but $2,200.

[Copyright, 1900, by George Hitchings, architect, 1099 Flatbush avenue, Brooklyn.]

This shows a simple but picturesque design for a comfortable home. The underpinning is of stone pointed up with cement and lampblack.

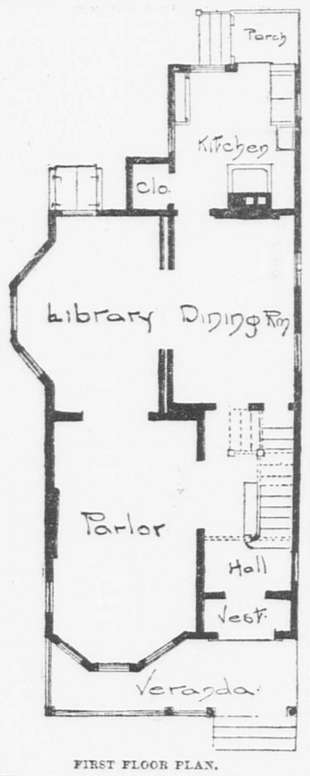

The superstructure is covered with sheathing paper and clapboards. The roof is shingled, left natural to become stained by weather. The body of the house is painted a colonial cream, with white trimmings and dark green blinds and sash.

FRONT ELEVATION.

The plan is nearly square, but is so arranged as to give all large, light rooms.

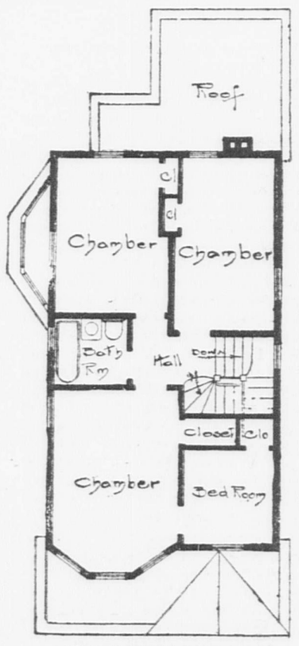

FIRST FLOOR PLAN.

The cellar is concreted and is provided with furnace and coal bins.

The first floor has four large rooms and a reception hall. The second floor also has four rooms and a bath.

The woodwork throughout is of cypress finished natural.

The plumbing fixtures are all set open with nickel trimmings. The attic has two finished rooms and an open attic for storage.

SECOND FLOOR PLAN.

Dimensions—front, 20 feet, not including bay; side, 44 feet, not including bay or front; height of ceilings—cellar, 7 feet; first story, 9 feet 6 inches; second story, 9 feet; attic, 8 feet. Cost to build complete, $2,200.

The Kitchen Table.

The cook's table is usually misplaced. It should be stood directly before the range so that the cook can turn from range to table without taking a single step. The table should be zinc and have a two barred rack in the center, running its entire length, from which all small cooking implements should be hung well within reach of the cook's hand. The condiments should stand on the table in distinctly different looking dredges.—Philadelphia Press.

Care of Bric-a-brac.

Bric-a-brac ought to be kept in a case and then it will not need dusting. Glass, china and articles which will, if necessary, stand washing should be [illegible] so that dust can settle on them. [illegible] exposed looks worse than a piece of [illegible]. Nothing that is too fragile to be washed [illegible] bric-a-brac nevertheless been exposed [illegible]ded and has surface will be bright, but [illegible] to dust. Its ices will be filled with dir[illegible] all the crev[illegible]t and dust.

HISTORIC QUINCY.

Pilgrimages Almost Daily to the City of Presidents.

Quincy will soon be as famous for pilgrimages as Plymouth and Concord, as parties come now almost daily. Surely there are many historic spots of National interest, and enterprises which are novel to many. A brief list is given below.

MYLES STANDISH CAIRN.

Squantum heights, erected in 1895 by the Daughters of the Revolution, of Massachusetts, in memory of Captain Myles Standish and his men of Plymouth Colony, who landed here in 1621 while exploring the coast.

SQUAW ROCK.

Pile of rock, on which is a perfect head of a squaw, frequently mentioned in early Squantum history. Near by is also Sachem's Knoll.

MYLES STANDISH SPRING.

On the beach to the left and back of Squantum Inn. Spring of fresh cold water, where Standish quenched his thirst, and carried a supply to the boat.

DOROTHY Q. HOUSE.

Hancock street, corner Butler road, Quincy. Old Quincy homestead in which Dorothy Q was born. Has quaint old paper on parlor put on for wedding of John Hancock and Dorothy Quincy; also secret chamber and other interesting features. Private house, not open to public.

PRESIDENTS ADAMS MANSION.

Adams street, corner Newport avenue, Quincy. Residence of President John Adams and contains many family relics. Occupied by descendants. Not open to public.

PRESIDENTS LANE.

Now Goffe street, leading from Adams street, near Mansion. Opened by John Adams to drive his cows to pasture.

JOHN HANCOCK BIRTHPLACE.

Adams street, junction of Dimmock and Hancock streets. A bronze tablet has been placed by the City of Quincy on Adams Academy to mark the place where the house stood in which the patriot John Hancock, the bold signer of the Declaration of Independence, was born.

BURIAL PLACE OF PRESIDENTS ADAMS.

First Congregational Church (Unitarian), Quincy centre. In auditorium each side of high pulpit, are mural monuments, to the memory of John Adams, the second president, and John Quincy Adams, the sixth president of the United States, and their wives. In cellar is old town hearse, also box in which was brought from Washington the body of John Quincy Adams. At extreme end, under front steps are the vaults of the presidents, a massive stone door closing the entrance. Janitor can be found at Savings Bank building or at his home Maple place. No fee charged, but janitor may be paid for his trouble.

HANCOCK CEMETERY.

Hancock street, across from First Church. Many old stones, among the oldest that of Rev. John Hancock, father of the Patriot who died May 7, 1744. Was fifth minister of First Church.

BIRTHPLACE JOHN ADAMS.

Franklin street, Quincy Adams, house built in 1681 and restored in 1897 by Adams Chapter, Daughters of the Revolution. Open to public. Patriotic societies admitted free, although contributions are welcome to defray expenses of keeping house open and in repair. Small fee asked the general public.

BIRTHPLACE JOHN QUINCY ADAMS.

Junction of Franklin street, Presidents road and Independence avenue. Built 1716, restored 1896 by the Quincy Historical Society. Open to public afternoons from 2 to 5. Admission charged.

ABIGAIL ADAMS CAIRN.

Penns hill, erected June 17, 1896, by Adams Chapter, Daughters of the Revolution, to the memory of Abigail Adams, who with her son, John Quincy, from the spot watched the smoke of battle at Bunker Hill. Cairn composed of many historic stones, the corner stone being part of old sleeper of first railroad in United States which ran from Quincy quarries to tide water, Neponset river.

Many other points of interest might be mentioned: Thomas Crane Memorial Hall which is the public library building; Merrymount, the home of Mrs. John Quincy Adams, where Morton erected his famous May pole in 1626; the soldiers' monument at Mount Wollaston cemetery with its tablets; the famous Quincy granite quarries, many of great depth the granite yards where monuments and statuary are being cut, and the polishing mills where granite is polished also the BIG ship yard now being established at Quincy Point.

☞Go to A. A. Linscott's jewelry store if you wish to get your eyes tested by an expert optician.

Castle Square Theatre.

For the coming week at the Castle Square Theatre the attraction will be the very laughable farce comedy "Incog" which held a well deserved popularity throughout the country for several seasons after its first production by Charles Dickson's company about ten years ago. It is a cleverly constructed bit of nonsense, well suited to the season, and undoubtedly will be finely presented by the following cast: Tom Stanhope, Tony Cummings; Gen. Rufus Stanhope, John T. Craven; Dick Winters, James A. Keane; Harry Winters, Stanley Kent; Dr. Hartman, Lindsay Morrison; Ned Moreland, Lowrey, John F. Beck; Kate Armitage, Leonora Gne[illegible]; Miss Molly Somers, Maud Odell; Mrs. Winters, Minerva Winters, Alice Davenport; Isabel Howard, Mabel Spencer. At the Monday matinee each patron will be given a box of choice chocolate bon bons.

What Shall We Have for Dessert?

This question arises in the family every day. Let us answer it today. Try Jell-O, a delicious and healthful dessert. Prepared in two minutes. No boiling! no baking! simply add boiling water and set to cool. Flavors:—Lemon, Orange, Raspberry and Strawberry. Get a package at your grocery today. 10 cents

PHYSICAL FACTS.

The bones of the arm are long cylinders because in this shape they have the great strength with the least expenditure of material.

The eyelashes are placed in front of the eyes to protect those delicate organs from the light and from the entrance of foreign objects.

Moderate cold is a stimulant because it drives blood from the surface of the body and induces exercise in order to restore circulation.

When an artery has been severed, the blood comes in jets because the heart throws it directly to the point where the artery has been cut.

A blow on the head seems to cause a flash of light in the eyes because light is the only impression the optical nerve is capable of receiving.

The bones never touch each other, but are separated by their membranes, because if they did touch there would be less elasticity of motion.

People perceive an odor because small particles of matter are detached from the odorous body and conveyed by the air to the nerves of the nose.

Coughing often increases a headache because in the act the heart's beating is augmented, and the flow of the blood to the head is thus increased.

Deaf people place their hands behind their ears because the hand thus placed acts as an ear trumpet and conveys a larger volume of sound to the ear.

The stomach has a churning motion, which during the process of digestion is continuous, in order that the food may be properly mixed with the gastric juice.

In passing from darkness into light the eye is pained because the pupil is widely extended and so much light enters as to cause pain to the optic nerve.

THE BLACK DRAGON.

Prince Tuan to Oom Paul: "How do you like my way of 'staggering humanity?'"—Louisville Times.

It is a "yellow peril" indeed, and civilized nations, in arming and drilling the Chinese hordes, are paving the way to their own destruction.—Indianapolis News.

The Chinese invented gunpowder, and we are strongly inclined to believe that they knew how to lie before the grandparents of Ananias were born.—Chicago Times-Herald.

"Revenge today, mourning tomorrow," is the cry in the European capitals, but there will be many mourning tomorrows before the day of revenge comes.—Boston Transcript.

At Peking 3,000 petitioned Prince Tuan not to kill the Americans. Tuan had the heads of the 3,000 cut off immediately. The right to petition is a little wabbly just now in China.—Wichita Eagle.

The time of peril is not now, nor is the danger from the Mongolians. The menace to the peace of the world will be felt when China shall have been conquered, when the division of the spoils begins.—Chicago Chronicle.

No army trusts its enemy for information, and we shall never get information respecting the situation from other than Chinese sources until we invade the enemy's country and establish our own means of communication.—Philadelphia Ledger.

PERT PERSONALS.

If Lord Roberts wants to see his name on the front page of newspapers again, the quicker he gets to China the better.—St. Louis Republic.

Margaret Sangster writes of a rose that was kissed into bloom by a star. Poetry is forever bidding good night to the truth.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

At the same time it might be well to be a little less sarcastic about William Waldorf Astor. He might feel revengeful enough to come back and have himself made an American citizen again.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

"There is not a man in the state nor in the Union nor in the whole world who has the nerve that I have," declared Mrs. Frances A. Meyer, self nominated candidate for governess of Illinois. And, being a woman, she is not contradicted.—Chicago Journal.

Admiral Kempff's splendid common sense again calls attention to the fact that in every crisis in our history our navy has exceeded expectations. We certainly do breed a race of cool headed, sane, equal-to-the-emergency sailormen.—New York World.

THE CYNIC.

If a thoughtful man is frank with himself when thinking of the past, he has great charity for young fools.

"O Promise Me!" is inappropriate for weddings. What is needed is a song entitled "Now Keep Your Promises."

A man is never too busy to stop his work to watch another man try to catch a street car and to laugh if he fails.

There is always some curiosity to know if the husband of the woman who keeps boarders kicks with the rest of the boarders.

Shortly after the wedding a woman discovers that "he" doesn't go to as great pains to make up a quarrel as he did before.

Every time a man engages a new clerk his wife's folks grumble because he gets all the help he wants, while his wife keeps no girl.—Atchison Globe.

CAPE NOME NUGGETS.

Cape Nome has reached that point where the gravediggers are making more money than the gold diggers.—Washington Post.

About the best chance that most of the adventurers at Nome have found there has been a chance to get home again.—San Francisco Call.

The Cape Nome victims are lining up behind the survivors of all those other mad rushes for wealth in glittering high latitudes.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Nome diggings are very rich for those who strike them in the right place, but a majority of the adventurers who go there would have done better to stay at home and dig potatoes.—San Francisco Call.

THE SHIRT WAIST MAN.

In St. Louis' summer resort weather an inscrutable providence seems to be opposing the crusade for the male shirt waist.—St. Louis Republic.

There is only one objection to the "shirt waist man." In case he establishes the fashion there is a type of masculinity that will insist on making it an excuse for wearing ruffles.—Washington Star.

It's Time Wasted

And strength wasted, to try to push back the rising tide with a broom. It's just as great a waste of time and a far more serious waste of strength to try to push back the rising tide of disease with the "nervines," "compounds" and "nerve foods" which simply drug the nerves into a drunken stupor. They make you feel good? So does whisky, while the feeling lasts, but the reaction is dangerous and deadly. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is a temperance medicine. It contains no alcohol, opium, cocaine or other narcotic. It strengthens the body by purifying the blood and increasing the supply of that vital fluid. It heals diseases of the stomach and organs of digestion and nutrition and thus removes the obstacles to a perfect nourishment of the whole body.

"Six years ago my stomach and heart troubled me so much I had to do something, as the doctors could not help me," writes Mrs. S. A. Knapp, of San Jose, California, Box 302. "I went to San Francisco and had treatment for catarrh of the stomach and was better for some time, then it came back. I then used Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and 'Pleasant Pellets.' These medicines cured my stomach. I do not have the pain and indigestion as I did. It is very hard for me to tell you what I suffered before I commenced taking your valuable medicine. I recommend it to all the sufferers whom I meet."

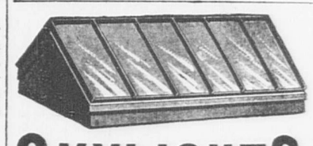

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets strengthen and stimulate the liver.

Madame Yale's HAIR TONIC

Ladies and Gentlemen.—It has gone on record that Madame Yale's Excelsior Hair Tonic is the first and only remedy known to chemical science found to be a genuine hair specific. It has an affinity for the human hair for nourishing and invigorating its entire structure. It is antiseptic in character, as well as stimulating; its action upon the scalp and hair is truly wonderful, inasmuch as it has never been known in a single instance to fail to cure scalp diseases and to create a luxuriant growth of healthy, beautiful hair. It stops hair falling within twenty-four hours and brings back the natural color to gray hair in nearly every instance. It is not a dye; it is not sticky or greasy; on the contrary it makes the hair soft, youthful, beautiful and glossy; keeps it in curl. It is a perfect hair dressing, and can be used by ladies, gentlemen or children as a daily toilet requisite. Its influence is delightfully soothing.

QUINCY DAILY LEDGER.

Vol. 12. No. 188. QUINCY, MASS., MONDAY, AUGUST 13, 1900. PRICE 2 CENTS.

WHY FURNITURE PRICES ARE LOWER HERE.

It's an easy question to answer, because facts prove it so. We buy our Furniture from the largest factories in the West, at the lowest market prices. Our expenses are about one-quarter as much as those of Boston Stores. Our customers do not help pay for expensive advertisements, high rents, enormous taxes and costly delivery. These few facts you should weigh well in your mind.

You can buy Furniture, Carpetings, Ranges, and Pianos, lower here than in any store in New England. We are saving money for thousands of families in Quincy and the surburban towns, we can do the same for you.

CONFESSES HIS CRIME.

Ferrell Committed Murder and Robbery to Secure Money For Wedding.

He Was to Have Been Married on Next Thursday.

Deliberate and Cold-Blooded Murder of a Friend to Accomplish His Object.

Columbus, O., Aug. 13.—R. H. Ferrel, a former employe of the Adams Express company, has been arrested here and he has confessed to the murder of Express Messenger Lane and the robbery of the safe on the Pennsylvania east-bound train Friday night. One thousand dollars of the stolen money has been recovered.

Ferrell was to have been married Thursday next to Miss Lillian Costlow, daughter of an engineer on the Pennsylvania lines. He had been discharged from the employ of the Adams Express company about three months ago and had not since been able to secure employment. He confessed that the motive of the robbery was to secure money, of which he felt in great need on account of his approaching marriage. The money recovered he had given to Miss Costlow to keep for him, saying that it was money he had saved from his earnings. He was at the home of his affianced and in her company when placed under arrest.

Ferrell is but 21 years of age and has a splendid physique, being six feet in height, with dark hair and an attractive face. When the officers took him into custody he assumed a careless demeanor, but when he found that he could no longer deceive the officers he made a full confession. After his statement had been taken by Chief of Police Tyler and he was led to a cell in the police station he was in a state of nervous collapse, and orders were given to watch him closely to prevent him doing himself bodily injury.

The confession of Ferrell disclosed a premeditated and blood-curdling crime that seemed almost impossible of belief. The robbery had been carefully planned, and it included the murder of Express Messenger Lane. He had no accomplices and no confidantes. He knew Lane well. In fact, they were friends, and he relied upon Lane's confidence in him to help him execute the crime. He knew that considerable money was always carried by the messenger on Pennsylvania train No. 8 between St. Louis and Columbus, and that he was certain to secure a large sum if he robbed the way safe on that train.

Having provided himself with a Smith & Wesson six-shooter, 38 caliber, he went to Urbana Friday morning and waited for No. 8. When the train arrived there Ferrell went at once to the express car and told Lane that he was out of money and asked permission to ride to Columbus with him. Lane consented, never for a moment suspecting the treachery of his pretended friend. For a short time after the train left Urbana they chatted pleasantly. Lane sat in a chair in the end of the car with his back slightly turned.

When Ferrell had finally nerved himself for the crime he drew his revolver and stepped up behind Lane unobserved and fired three shots in rapid succession into the messenger's back. Lane rolled off the chair on the floor on his face and Ferrell quickly fired the remaining shots at the prostrate body. Lane was unconscious, but Ferrell, fearing that the wounds already inflicted would not cause death, took Lane's revolver and fired two more bullets into the body. Ferrell then took he key to the way safe from the pocket of the dead messenger, opened the safe and put Lane's revolver inside his pocket, where he could reach it easily in case he was detected and needed it to defend himself.

After he had taken out all the sacks containing the money packages, money orders and way bills, he placed them in a small satchel and waited until the car arrived at Plain City, when he slipped from the train. He walked about for a few minutes to regain his composure and then inquired for the hotel, which he found after a short time, a belated citizen directing him to the place. He secured a room and retired for the night without registering, a fact of which the landlord took no notice at the time, as he was half asleep. In this way he was able to throw the authorities off the track for the time being.

The Christian Alliance Collection.

Old Orchard, Me. Aug. 13.—The sum of $42,058 was raised Sunday for foreign missions at the Christian alliance campmeeting. The two principal services of the day were given up, in part, to this collection. The largest pledge was $6000. There was another of $5000, one of $2000, one of $2500, two of $2000, and two of $1500 each. The only articles of jewelry contributed were a ring and locket. Of the $42,058 raised, $32,651 was pledged during the forenoon.

Pledged Allegiance to King.

Rome, Aug. 13.—King Victor Emmanuel III yesterday received 600 members of the senate and chamber of deputies, who desired to acknowledge their devotion to the throne, and to the person of the monarch. His majesty thanked them for the part they had taken in the funeral of King Humbert and in his own elevation to the throng.

USHERED IN WITH BONFIRES.

New Hampshire Starts Old Home Week Celebration on a Grand Scale.

Concord, N. H., Aug. 13.—Fully one-half the churches in this state were closed yesterday on account of the summer vacations of their pastors, but in those which were open, old home week Sunday was quite generally observed. In many towns union services were held, and a large number of individual pastors took cognizance of the occasion by preaching sermons appropriate to the day.

New Hampshire's skies were red Saturday night with the reflected light from a hundred bonfires on as many mountain peaks and hilltops. This unique manner of ushering in Old Home Week proved so popular and successful last year that it was repeated on an even larger scale. By agreement all the bonfires were lighted at just 8 o'clock.

The loftiest of all is that upon Mt. Washington, 6500 feet above the level of the sea. Other White Mountain peaks were illuminated. In this vicinity the chief blaze was that upon Mt. Kearsarge, which was visible for many miles. Other fires which could be seen from here were located on Stickney hill in Hopkinton, Pembroke hill, Lord hill in Dunbarton and Sugar hill in Bristol. Claremont celebrants had a big fire upon Ascutney mountain and smaller blazes upon lesser eminences, such as Green mountain, Flat rock and Twist Back.

The principal celebration of the opening day of Old Home Week was that at Rollinsford, attended by Governor Rollins.

A Georgia Tragedy.

Sylvania, Ga., Aug. 13.—R. F. Harrington and Milton Means, white, were driving home in their buggy Saturday night when they met two negroes named Alexander in a buggy. The wheels of the vehicles collided. A quarrel ensued, when the negroes shot Harrington and Means dead. Captain Jesse L. Wade, brother of Senator Wade, organized a posse to capture the murderers. As the posse approached the house of the Alexanders a number of shots were fired into it. Captain Wade fell mortally wounded. The posse then withdrew. Sheriff Thompson, with a reinforced posse, is now in pursuit.

A Peculiar Case of Assault.

Lynn, Mass., Aug. 13.—While Hugh Scollins and his wife were in bed at their home, 92 Federal street, Sunday morning, about 2 o'clock, James and Hugh Riley, while under the influence of liquor, kicked in the door and entered the house and are alleged to have made a savage assault upon Scollins. Hugh, it is said, struck Scollins over the head with a bottle, inflicting a serious scalp wound, while James is alleged to have cut him under the eye with a steel ring that he wore.

Many Victims of Lightning.

New York, Aug. 13.—Nine persons enjoying a picnic, who hurriedly sought shelter under some trees and bushes in the "woods" in the Bronx section during a storm Sunday, were struck by the same flash of lightning. Physicians say that Mrs. Lena Brown and her two children and Bertha Silverman cannot possibly live. The Silverman girl was the worst injured of all. Of Bertha Lescowitz the physicians say she will either die or she will probably become hopelessly insane.

Alleged Contribution From Boers.

London, Aug. 13.—John Stuart, Pretoria correspondent of The Morning Post, sends the following to that paper: The Boers say that President Kruger is contributing to the election expenses of Mr. Bryan between half and three-quarters of a million sterling. They also say that Webster Davis, former assistant secretary of the interior of the United States, has received £25,000 toward the expenses of the American campaign.

Halifax Man Murdered.

Halifax, Aug. 13.—John T. Curran, aged 53, was murdered Saturday night in the wealthiest quarter of the city, and William Cox, aged 22, is held for investigation. Curran was struck two blows on the head while sitting in front of his residence, on Queen street. Cox had been accused by Curran of improper relations with the latter's daughter-in-law. Cox was arrested while buying a ticket for Chicago.

Disease Germs Spread by Mosquitos.

Liverpool, Aug. 13.—Reports received from Nigera, where the scientific expedition recently sent out by the Liverpool school of tropical medicine is operating, show that the parasite which causes elephantiasis has been discovered in mosquitos. The leaders of the expedition believe that mosquito inoculation can be applied to elephantiasis, which is so prevalent among natives of tropical countries.

Two Hundred and Fifty Years Old.

Topsfield, Mass., Aug. 13.—The religious exercises in connection with the celebration of the 250th anniversary of the incorporation of the town of Topsfield were held at the Congregational church here yesterday, there being an immense crowd of townspeople, returning sons of the old town, and visitors from the surrounding country.

Eyre-Cragin Concess on Forfeited.

Chicago, Aug. 13.—A Times-Herald special from Managua, Nicaragua, says: The Eyre-Cragin syndicate's canal concession was forfeited Saturday because of the non-payment of money due. This leaves the Nicaraguan government free to deal independently with the United States in canal matters.

Gentlemen:—Our family realize so much from the use of GRAIN-O that I feel I must say a word to induce others to use it. If people are interested in their health and the welfare of their children they will use no other beverage. I have used them all, but GRAIN-O I have found superior to any, for the reason that it is solid grain.

IN RIGHT DIRECTION.

China Takes a Step Toward Peaceful Settlement of Her Troubles.

Earl Li Is Authorized to Negotiate With Powers

For Immediate Cessation of Hostilities Brought About by a "Misunderstanding."

Washington, Aug. 13.—Official evidence of China's desire for a peaceful settlement of the present difficulties was presented to the state department Sunday. It was in the form of an edict promulgated by Emperor Kwang Hsu, appointing Li Hung Chang as envoy plenipotentiary to negotiate with the powers for an "immediate cessation of hostilities," pending a solution of the problems which have grown out of the anti-foreign uprising in the empire.

Earl Li is to act directly for the emperor, and a fair inference is that whatever terms of settlement he may reach with the powers will be approved by the imperial government.

During the day only one dispatch that was made public reached any of the government departments from China. A belated message from Minister Conger was transmitted to the war department by General Chaffee. It expressed simply his ability to "hold on" until General Chaffee should come to his relief. All the power of this government will be exerted to get that relief to him and the other imprisoned legationers at the earliest possible moment.

Minister Wu was an early caller at the department of state. He presented to Mr. Adee a copy of the imperial edict which he had received Saturday night. Shortly before Minister Wu left the department Secretary of War Root joined the two diplomatists, but remained only long enough to obtain a copy of the edict and discuss it briefly with the Chinese minister.

Minister Wu expressed the belief that the edict presented a means of peaceful adjustment of the present trouble, and that the request of the Chinese government for a cessation of hostilities pending peace negotiations was entirely reasonable.

Late in the day Acting Secretary Adee made public the text of the imperial edict, as transmitted by the privy council, as follows:

"In the present conflict between Chinese and foreigners there has been some misunderstanding on the part of the foreign nations and also a want of proper management on the part of some of the local authorities. A clash of arms is followed by calamatous results and causes a rupture of friendly relations, which will ultimately do no good to the world. We hereby appoint Li Hung Chang as our envoy plenipotentiary, with instructions to propose at once by telegraph to the governments of the several powers concerned for the immediate cessation of hostile demonstrations pending negotiations, which he is hereby authorized to conduct for our part for the settlement of whatever questions may have to be dealt with. The questions are to be severally considered in a satisfactory manner and the result of the negotiations reported to us for our sanction. Respect this."

While it is conceded by the Washington officials that the conference of plenipotentiary authority upon Earl Li to negotiate with the powers for a settlement of existing trouble is a step in the right direction, it by no means is assured that the United States government will consent offhand to open negotiations with the distinguished viceroy. The demands of this government upon China have been made plainly and without equivocation. They cannot be misunderstood. Assuming that the Chinese government is acting in good faith, the demands are reasonable and can be complied with readily.

Last night Secretary Adee, by direction of President McKinley, presented to Minister Wu for transmission to his government the reply of the United States to the imperial edict appointing Li Hung Chang envoy to negotiate with the powers for a cessation of hostilities. The text of the reply was not made public. In effect, however, it is a reiteration of the demands previously made by the United States upon China, coupled with a vigorous intimation that no negotiations will be entered into until the Chinese government shall have complied with those demands.

This government, inspired by a determination to effect the rescue of the legationers besieged in Pekin, takes advantage in its reply to the edict to reiterate the demands previously made upon China. These demands first were made by the president on July 23 and subsequently were reiterated substantially by Acting Secretary Adee by direction of the president. The demands for the protection of the ministers, for free communication between them and their respective governments, and for the restoration of order in China form the keynote of the memorandum forwarded to the imperial government by the president yesterday. The iteration and reiteration of the demands must, it is thought, make it perfectly clear to the Chinese government that no negotiations will be entered into until a square-toed compliance with them has been made. Should the demands be acceded to there will be no obstacles, it is believed, in the way of a settlement of other questions which have arisen out of the pending troubles.

FIFTEEN PERSONS KILLED OUTRIGHT.

Eleven Others Seriously Injured in a Grade Crossing Accident in Pennsylvania.

Slatington, Pa., Aug. 13.—At a grade crossing three miles east of this city a passenger train on the Lehigh and New England railroad crashed into an omnibus containing 25 persons. Fifteen persons were killed and but three escaped uninjured.

The accident occurred about 5 o'clock. The omnibus, driven by a man named Peters, was returning to Slatington from a funeral the occupants had been attending at Cherryville. The coach belonged to Henry Bittner of Slatington, and the dead and injured were nearly all relatives of Sophia Schoeffer, at whose obsequies they had been present. The train was a special, and consisted of an engine and one car. At the point at which the collision occurred there is a sharp curve in the road, and the omnibus came along at a good rate of speed, the occupants unconscious of any impending danger. As the bus swung around the curve the engine and car came in sight. It was too late to stop either the omnibus or the train, and, as the driver of the former whipped up the four horses to cross the track ahead of the train, but failed, the occupants were thrown in all directions, bruised and bleeding. The dead were killed outright.

Touched a Match to Powder.

Saco, Me., Aug. 13.—George and William Trott, aged 6 and 8 years respectively, were terribly injured by an explosion of blasting powder. The younger lad cannot recover, and it is feared the life of the elder cannot be saved. A former tenant had left a box containing powder in the attic, and the youngsters, who were playing there Sunday, found the substance and touched a match to it. The explosion knocked the little fellows down, set their clothing afire, and filled their faces and bodies with powder.

Nelson Keep on Winning.

Philadelphia, Aug. 13.—Johnny Nelson of Chicago defeated Archie McEachern of Canada in a 30-mile motor paced bicycle race at the Woodside park track, the time being 48:04 2-5. Nelson broke every record from one to 30 miles, with the exception of those for 1, 2 and 25 miles. The previous record, held by Elkes, was 50:20 2-5. The saddle of McEachern's bicycle broke in the last lap of the second mile. In securing a new wheel he lost 1½ laps, and was able to recover only half a lap.

Horse Took Them to Death.

Binghamton, N. Y., Aug. 13.—Fred Hartwell and Frederick Edwards were drowned in the Delaware river at Hancock. The men had been drinking and quarreled. Hartwell struck Edwards with a whip. Edwards picked up a stick and in defending himself Hartwell dropped the lines and the horse ran, jumped over the bank and into the river, 15 feet deep. A third man in the wagon swam ashore. The other men were drowned.

Weather Conditions and Forecast.

Almanac, Tuesday, Aug. 14.

Sun rises—4:50; sets, 6:47.

Moon rises—8:38 p. m.

High water—1:30 a. m.; 2 p. m.

The hot weather of last week terminated Sunday evening over the middle Atlantic and New England states, the Ohio valley and eastern Tennessee. Over the greater part of this area, local rains and thunderstorms occurred during Sunday, with temperature falls of 10 to 20 degrees. Generally fair weather is indicated for northern New England, with local rains in the southern portion. Moderate temperatures will prevail. On the coast the winds will be light to fresh southeasterly.

Robbed a Freight Car.

South Berwick, Me., Aug. 13.—Two tramps were arrested by the police here for breaking and entering a freight car on the Boston and Maine railroad at Conway Junction. The tramps had a seven-pound box of plug tobacco, which was stolen from the car.

Crazed by Loss of Sleep.

Boston, Aug. 13.—Mrs. Mary N. Grundy, 32, was found dead in a chair in the kitchen of her home in East Boston Sunday night, having cut her throat with a razor. She gave birth to a child four days ago, and loss of sleep is believed to have made her insane.

Original Plans Changed.

Chicago, Aug. 13.—W. J. Bryan's visit to Chicago has practically resulted in an understanding that he will travel almost as much during the present campaign as he did in 1896. The first inclination on his part was to avoid the making of many speeches this year, but there has been such general pressure that it is understood that he is now inclined to yield and to visit many parts of the country.

Drift of Opinion.

☞ Cambridge will enjoy the presence of the Cuban teachers but a single week longer, as they sail from Boston for New York on the 16th, thence visiting Washington. What a happy idea of American hospitality they will bear away with them to Cuba.—Brockton Times.

☞ The newspapers seem to be holding an investigation as to whether golf is becoming "unpopular." It doesn't matter much whether it is or not. It requires about $5,000 a year or a mighty stiff bluff at being well-to-do to play it, and few of us have the money or check.—North Adams Transcript.

☞ Naturally enough the Chinese lay the trouble to the missionaries and to the bombardment of Taku. But the real cause has been the open talk in Europe for two years about the partition of China. Any people with a spark of patriotism left would resent that; and as the missionaries were foreigners on the spot, the resentment has struck them first.—The Protectionist.

As Good as Wild West Show.

The good people of South Quincy and Quincy Centre received a fine treat Saturday evening from two popular young fellows of the South Quincy Social club. As was stated in Saturday's Ledger the wheelbarrow ride took place. "Tom" O'Neil wheeled "Joe" Fay from Chick's store in South Quincy to City Hall and return, accompanied by a drum. Crowds congregated on every corner to watch the procession go by. Everyone had a word of encouragement for "Plucky Tom"; but he didn't need it, for he accomplished his task without a stop in the remarkable time of 23 minutes. Upon his return to Chick's, a crowd of 350 people gave three hearty cheers for Tom, which he well deserved. A condition was made before the start that if the wheelbarrow broke before the finish Tom would have to start all over. Strange to say the wheelbarrow broke and the ride was started again. The next bet will be on the Sharkey-Fitzsimmons fight when two other club members will bring a baby carriage into use accompanied by a fife and drum corps. Truly, sport is not dead in South Quincy. If Quincy only had two or three other clubs such as the Social club we would have a good time in Quincy once in a while.

Fined for Fishing.

It seems it is against the law now to fish on Sundays. Four Boston men found it out on Sunday off Squantum. When arraigned in the Quincy court, Niles Lindholm plead guilty and promptly paid a fine of $3 and departed. The other three were in another boat when overhauled. They claim that they only came to anchor to have a smoke, and flatly contradicted the State officers, who swore that each man had a line out. None of the three saw a line out and said they made no attempt at fishing. The court read the defendants a lesson on perjury, telling them it was a state prison offence, and finally fined Baker $5 and his companions $3 each.

Q. Y. C. GALA WEEK.

Annual Open Regatta With Liberal Prizes in Handicap Class.

The week beginning Sept. 1 will be a gala one for the Quincy Yacht club.

On Saturday, Sept. 1, the 27th annual open regetta will be sailed off club house. For the racers there will be three classes. The first class will be for the H. O. boats and other yachts measuring not over 25 feet racing length, deemed eligible by the Regatta Committee. Prizes $25, $15 and 10.

The second class will be for the 21 footers. Prizes $10 and $5.

The 18 footers will be in the third class. Prizes $10 and $5.

The fun and excitement of the whole regatta will probably centre in the open handicap classes, of which there are two, class A for those boats 21 feet and over, and class B for boats under 21 feet. In order to encourage this type of racing the club has been unusually liberal with prizes. Class A,—$12, $10, $8, $5, and $3. Class B,—$8, $5 and $3. In allowing entries for these two classes the club bars all boats which have sailed in more than one of the regular Y. R. A. M. classes or similar classes this season. Each boat will be allowed to carry six men for class A and four for Class B.

Time allowance for all boats will be figured on overall measurement according to the Herreshoff table, on a course of 12 nautical miles for class A and 7 nautical miles for class B.

On Labor Day, September 3, the last of the regular handicaps will be sailed and the championship prize awarded.

On Wednesday evening, September 5, the annual club concert will be given at the club house.

The last hop of the season will be on Friday evening, September 7.

On Saturday, September 8, the annual rendezvous of the Association will be held at Hull.

Di Bona—Di Bona.

The third time never fails they say, and so it was with the third attempt of Mr. Allisio Di Bona and Miss Maria Di Bona to have tied the matrimonial knot. Some weeks ago application was made for a license but the bride was under sixteen years of age. On Sunday, she reached this goal, and no time was lost this morning in applying for another license. One was secured this time, and City Clerk Cleaves was asked to officiate then and there. The bride was accompanied by her parents and Mr. Di Bona by two friends. The bridal tour will be short as the groom has an important engagement for tomorrow.

We are pleased to notice the following complimentary notice of one of our townsmen in the Boston Home Journal of last week: "I am glad to hear that Mr. Clifford Bradford has been chosen organist of one of the Episcopal churches at South Boston. Mr. Bradford was at one time organist of Bethany Congregational church at Quincy. For a few years past he has given considerable study to the Episcopal service and is well qualified for his new position. Mr. Bradford got his early musical training at East Greenwich Academy under Miss Greene, who is now the wife of Mr. John C. Packard, sub-master of the Brooklyn High school. There was no more popular man in school and I am often asked, "What's 'Brad' doing?" Mr. Bradford came to Quincy as organist for Bethany church, a position which he filled in a quiet unassuming way. Since severing his connection with that church a few years ago he has become better known and has many warm friends.

Inspector Ferguson did a clever piece of work last week. On Friday a pair of opera glsses were stolen from the house of prominent citizen who resides on Beach street, Wollaston Park. The matter was reported to Inspector Ferguson. On Saturday evening returned the glasses to their owner.

Rock Island Golf Club.

The new golf club recently formed in Quincy, says the Herald, has taken the name of the territory where the course is located. Back of the road between Quincy and the beach resort of Houghs Neck is a large open tract of country, where the course has been laid out. The shore from the head of Rock Island Point, on either side, for the distance of about a mile is, lined with cottages, the owners of which comprise the club. The course laid out Wednesday is of nine holes, and traverses all available space on the island. Between the third and fourth holes there is an admirable hazard in the form of a sluggish stream, that separates the island from the mainland. It is only about 20 feet wide, and the ground on either side of it is high and sandy. A fine natural bunker at the fourth hole is a high ledge of rocks, and a cave adjoining. The course starts at the top of the hill at the nearest point to Rock Island Head, and toward the first hole there is a gentle rise to the slope that is very difficult to judge. The second hole is at the foot of the hill on the Rock Island road. From 2 to 3 takes half the distance over to the cave, which is located on the Quincy Point shore, and is over the stream through a fearful tangle of blackberry vines and generally broken ground. Four is by the cave, and the bowlder just in the way of the straight drive to 5 about four feet high. The rest of the way home is through an easy course to open meadow and pasture land. The following officers have been elected by the club: Charles French, president; Miss Grace Edgecomb, secretary and treasurer; Mrs. Walter R. Wright of St. Louis, A. I. Pond and Miss Eda Lulette Nichols, committee on links.

The membership is now confined to cottagers at the settlement of Rock island, and about 35 players were on the improvised and temporary links last Sunday. Applications for membership are coming in from Adams shore, Post island and even from Quincy, and it is felt that an amendment will be made in the by-laws that will admit the applicants to eligibility.

NOT A "PHENOM."

McManus Did Not Meet Expectations as Pitcher.

The South Quincys began their game with the Olympias Saturday disastrously. McManus, the man who had such a reputation for pitching, gave the game to the Olympias in the first inning by forcing seven runs in by giving basses on balls. Manager Paterson was disgusted and put in Mullane to do the twirling in the second. He pitched fine ball, striking out the first three men, that faced him. As he was not in the best of condition, he did not pitch the rest of the game but gave way to Pirorvano, the plucky little short stop. His pitching was marvelous, as this was his first appearance in the box. He struck out eight men and gave but two bases on balls for the seven innings that he pitched. The heavy batters of the Olympias, such as Clancy, Wilcox and the Bresnahan brothers could not touch his delivery.

The South Quincy's played an errorless game in the field and gave Pirorvano perfect support. The South Quincy boys would have won hands down, if it had not been for the false pitching in the first inning. The Olympias were bound that they should not receive another defeat at the hands of a Quincy team, so brought out the strongest nine ever seen in Quincy. South Quincy stood a fine chance of winning out in the ninth inning; three men were on bases with no one out, and the star batsman of the city, Guston, was at the bat. Guston fouled and the Olympias claimed it was a strike. As the South Quincys had given everything to the Olympias during eight innings they did not propose to do the same thing in the ninth, so after the umpire gave his decision as a foul the Olympias left the field. Umpire Deasy then forfeited the game 9—0 to South Quincy.

Brown caught an excellent game. Sullivan, Smith and Harold played a perfect in field game.

Powers, the pitcher of the Olympias, was struck by a batted ball in the second and was severely injured. He gave way to Barry and Clancy. About 350 were in attendance.

The full score was not kept officially, but by innings it was as follows:

SNAKE HUNTING.

Experiences of George F. Elcock of West Quincy.

Those who are acquainted with Mr. George F. Elcock of West Quincy know of his success in hunting fox and rattle-snakes, but Arthur W. Brayley tells the story in an interesting manner in the Globe, and it is republished herewith:

Did you ever try the sport of hunting for rattlesnakes?

If you have never shared in the excitement of the hunt, go out to West Quincy and accompany one of the experienced snake hunters of that city during an expedition after "rattlers." There is enough danger in the sport to make it exciting and novelty enough to make it interesting.

When the story that rattlesnake parties were usual at West Quincy reached the ears of a Globe representative he was a bit incredulous. How any one could find pleasure in risking their lives catching these deadly monsters was quite beyond his comprehension, while his ideas in regard to the number of such snakes, so near Boston, was quite different from which it now is.

Recently Mr. George F. Elcock, a prominent granite dealer of West Quincy, was introduced to the writer as one of the most enthusiastic rattlesnake catchers in the country. When the newspaper man expressed an interest in the subject he was invited by Mr. Elcock to join him on a trip through Rattlesnake hill, now called Wauputuck, and vicinity, and help bag a few specimens of the crotalidae.

Now if there is any creature on top of this green earth of ours that the writer holds in utter horror it is a snake. No matter to what species it belongs, if it be a snake, it is sufficient to allow it go its own way without fear of crowding it, so the reporter asked Mr. Elcock what induced him to make his first trip after the reptiles.

"Sciatica," was the prompt reply. "I was sick with the disease a year or more, during which time I tried about every 'cure' recommended by sympathetic neighbors. 'Try rattlesnake oil,' said one old lady, and then she proceeded to tell of the wonderful virtue of that oil. Well, even rattlesnakes are preferable to sciatica, so I started out to get a few, and succeeded in capturing two good-sized ones, one with 10 rattles and a button and the other with 14. I killed them and cut out the small pieces of fat which lie near the kidneys, and brought them home, where I tried out the oil."

"Did it do you any good?"

"Blessed if I know. I was trying so many remedies that I really don't know what helped me the most. I guess it did me as much good as any other thing. The oil is very penetrating. So much so, that if you put some in the palm of your hand, in 10 minutes it will ooze out at the back."

"Was that your first snake?"

"Oh no; when a boy I have caught them. I remember several of us lads caught a good-sized snake with 13 rattles. We had a man pull its fangs, which rendered it harmless. Barnum, was then exhibiting in Boston at the time, and we fixed up our snake by attaching 11 more rattles to its tail, then sold it to the great showman, who advertised it as the greatest rattlesnake on earth. I guess it was," laughed the narrator, "for the British museum prizes the skeleton of one with 23 rattles, but ours went one better."

"How old would be a snake with 24 rattles?"

"A snake has one rattle the first three years of its life, and each subsequent year, or at least each time it sheds its skin it adds another rattle to its possession. That would make Mr. Barnum's snake about 27 years old."

"Did you ever get bitten?"

"No, but of course have had several close calls. My old dog Sailor was struck in the paw. He was a splendid quail dog. One day when out with me after birds he was bitten just as he 'jacked up' or pointed. I shot both quail and snake, and putting the dog in my wagon drove home as fast as I could. I buried Sailor up to his shoulders in black earth in my yard and kept him stupefied with whiskey for 10 days.

"He came out of it all right, but always remembered his experience, for when asked on what paw he was bitten he would hold up the afflicted member. The dog was a terror to snakes after he got well. Whenever he saw one he would rush for it and by a lightning like move would grab it in the middle of the back and jerk it over his head time and again until the snake broke in two. One day he nearly got bitten again. After he cut the 'rattler' in halves he got too close to the head, not knowing that the serpent, even in that condition can, for nearly half an hour, do as much damage as when whole."

"Were you ever chased by his snakeship?"

"Chased! A rattlesnake will not chase you. Even if it did, it could not catch a one-legged man. A 'rattler' is the slowest moving snake that crawls and is the easiest to catch. I have caught 150 or 200 snakes, but never have seen a 'rattler' over four feet long, the average size being two and one-half to three feet long, with from six to ten rattles. During the winter they sleep under the rocks in the hills, and on the first warm day of spring they crawl out and take a sun bath. After a few of these baths they move down to the grass and bushes, and when the weather grows warmer they leave the hills and seek the cool and shady swamps, where they feed upon frogs. During May days they are blind, or partly so, at which time they are easily caught."

We had now reached a farmhouse, at which Mr. Elcock pulled up, and in answer to his call a Mr. Pierce, the occupant came up to us. When asked if he had any rattlesnakes he replied that he had just sold the five he and his son caught the week previous. He thought he could find some in the meadow to the south of Rattlesnake hill.

It was but a few moment's drive to the meadow, where we left the horse and began our hunt. Into the long grass and thick bushes went the old snake hunter while the writer stepped softly and slowly after him. The rustle of a leaf or the breaking of a twig sent visions of rattlesnakes in various positions through the scribe's mind. It was all right to listen to stories of snake hunters, but another thing to take an active part in the sport (?) itself.

Coming up with Mr. Elcock, who had stopped to cut two long, stout poles forked and sharpened at one end, that gentleman explained how easy it was to stick the fork over the neck of a snake, in which position it would be perfectly harmless and could be easily killed.

After we had tramped around about 15 minutes we wandered down to the swamp and had hardly reached its edge when a sound resembling that made by a locust was heard.

"Stop! that's his rattle," said Mr. Elcock.

"Whew!" uttered the reporter.

Where did it come from? It was useless to run, as the snake might lay coiled in the path whatever direction was taken. At that particular moment the writer wondered if the man that stood by his side was as badly frightened as was he.

Bur-r-r-r-rr, sounded the alarm once more, and at that moment Mr. Elcock cried, "Looky, there it is," at the same time pointing a few feet ahead with his finger, where sat the first rattlesnake that it was ever the privilege of the writer to have seen in its native heath or swamp. Coiled and lapped over itself, with its tail almost perpendicular, and its head brought round to the right of the tail and raised on an incline of about seven inches from the ground, it faced us.

The "pit" by which the family is distinguished from the ordinary vipers, was deeply depressed in the integument of the sides of the snout between the nostrils and the eyes, and when its long, red, forked tongue shot in and out of its mouth, it presented a dreadful but fascinating picture. When the stick was pointed at it, the tail vibrated—yes, that is the word, the motion was so rapid and steady—and the sound produced will never be forgotten, while the writer will always be able to detect the presence of a rattlesnake so long as he has the sense of smell. The odor can never be duplicated, the nearest approach to it can be found in a busy morgue.

"Why don't you kill him?" exclaimed the reporter.

"I want you to see how far it can spring," saying which he hurriedly took off his hat and placed it on the writer's stick, telling him to hold it out slowly toward the snake to attract its attention while he walked to one side. Stepping back, the reporter poked the hat at the serpent, whose furious rattling clearly indicated its feelings. When within a few inches of its head the snake suddenly uncoiled perfectly straight, in doing which it struck the hat, but it had moved hardly a foot when Mr. Elcock secured it under the fork of his stick. It twisted, coiled and uncoiled itself so rapidly as to make one almost dizzy to watch it, so after a few seconds the scribe battered it over the head until it was past doing further harm.

It was then taken over to the wagon, where it was closely examined, especially by the writer. It measured 31 inches long and in the thickest part of its body was five and a half inches in circumference; it had seven rattles.

Although not a large snake, and was easily caught, the newspaper man was willing to rest upon his laurels and await some future time for further conquests in that line.

On our way home the snake catcher said that a "rattler" could bite but once, with that bite it would inject all its poison and would never regain it. They knew their deadly power, which was the cause of their readiness to fight.

Many people believe that a rattlesnake can spring in the air, but the performances of the snake we caught demonstrated their ability in that direction; the best they can do is to throw themselves their full length.

"In going through the grass and leaves," continued Mr. Elcock, "rattlesnakes hold their heads and tails slightly raised from the ground, but have to coil before they can strike. When crossing a road they are almost powerless, as they can make but little progress in the dust; they are unable to glide or wriggle, but must crawl in a perfectly straight line."

Do you know of any person in Quincy ever bitten by one of these creatures?"

"Yes, sir," was the reply. "A German resident of our town was picking grapes a few years ago, and in descending from the vine stepped on a 'rattler' that had gotten into the yard. Dr. Sheahan of this place attended him, and pulled him around all right in two weeks.

"I always carry on my trips a sharp knife, silk thread, a needle and some bandages. If bitten I should cut out the flesh surrounding the bite. I have been through these woods and meadows with my dog for miles, scores of times, and in all seasons, not alone for snakes, but for quail, foxes and other game. I guess I have shot more foxes than any man in the state. I will show you some skins when we reach home. At one time, soon after this section was taken by the Metropolitan park commissioners, I was appointed an officer of the state, whose duty it was to shoot foxes in the reservation. You can bet I didn't argue about the salary I was to receive. It was just my opportunity, as the foxes were so plentiful as to become a nuisance to farmers. I took advantage of that season's hunt."

When we reached Mr. Elcock's home he brought into the room two large bundles, in which the writer counted 61 fox skins and two 'possum skins, which the genial host said represented but a few of the number that he had shot.

HOUGHS NECK.

Sunday was not a great beach day, as the morning was threatening and it was very comfortable at home. Many visited Houghs Neck however.

Among the guests at the Great Hill House on Sunday was Mrs. James Mears, widow of the former proprietor, also W. H. Mears and Mrs. George Nash, her son and daughter.

Several hundred people witnessed the entertainment on Sunday at the Fensmere. It included vocal solos and duetts, instrumental music and repartee.

But few ventured into the water on Sunday.

At least two new houses and a stable are now being erected at Houghs Neck.

It is now possible to make the electric car trip from Weymouth Landing to Houghs Neck in from 30 to 35 minutes on Sundays.

More cars are needed on the Houghs Neck line, especially on Sundays, to accommodate the travel.

The generosity of the summer residents of Houghs eck made the carnival of last week a financial success as well as a grand good time. All the bills are being paid promptly, and the committee feels encouraged to work even harder next year.

Miss Lizzie Barnes of South Boston was thrown from a horse Sunday afternoon and had an arm broken. She is a guest at the Jefferson cottage.

GUMPTION.

"ONE does not have gumption till one has been properly cheated." Persons of gumption are using Ivory Soap, women who have trusted themselves too near the precipice of false economy and who can now appreciate the true economy in a soap made of pure vegetable oils and other high-class ingredients, but made in such quantity as to bring the price within the reach of the very poorest family. Indeed it is the very poor who most need it, for they can least afford the extravagance of common soap.

The City Council will be called upon at its next meeting to provide places for the caucuses of both parties.

A party of Quincy ladies and gentlemen were entertained by F. H. Mudge at the Pemberton, Hull, on Wednesday, Aug. 9.

The valuation of Ward One, Quincy, is equal to the total valuation of the town of Weymouth both real and personal estate.

Miss May O'Brien of East Boston was the guest of her cousin, Miss Josephine Nelson of Charles street Saturday and Sunday.

Thomas F. McGrail of Neponset, at one time proprietor of the Atlantic House at Atlantic, died on Friday. He left a widow and five children.

Mrs. John S. Maxwell accompanied by Mrs. J. Earle has been spending a few days with her daughter, Mrs. George D. Langley, the past week.

Mrs. Geo. H. Brown of Elm street was among those in attendance at the bal poudre at the Mt. Pleasant House, N. H., on Saturday evening. She wore blue and white silk, with black lace trimmings.

The Lookout gave the Hostess an allowance at Marblehead, Saturday morning and again outsailed her. In the afternoon race the Lookout withdrew and the Cartoon won in the special class.

The last car from Quincy to Neponset jumped the track on the bridge near the Atlantic station just at midnight Sunday. There were about ten people on the car and all received a bad shaking up. The conductor was thrown to the street.

The Brockton street railway company has made formal application to the selectmen of Randolph for double tracks on South Main street from Avon to Central square and thence on North Main street to the Quincy line; also for a relocation of tracks now used by them.

—The valuation of Weymouth is $6,597,787; including $5,558,914 real estate and $1,038,873 personal property. The increase in valuation was about $46,000, and the tax rate of $20.50 is thirty cents in excess of last year.

—A telephone exchange has been established at Marshfield, to include Duxbury, Brant Rock and neighboring villages.

Manufacturers Must Try Again.

Washington, Aug. 13.—The navy department has decided to reject all bids for armor plate presented to the department Friday. New advertisements will be issued and the contractors will be given another chance to put their bids into such shape as will be acceptable to the government. The reason assigned for the rejection of bids is the demand from all the bidders for too large a proportion of the entire amount of armor plate.

Beaten to Death With Revolvers.

Pittsburg, Aug. 13.—Jasper Houston, master mechanic for contractors on the new government dam near Swickley, was murdered in cold blood Sunday by William Fobbs and another negro called "Ragtime." Houston, who had charge of the plant, ordered a crowd of negro crap shooters to disperse. Fobbs and "Ragtime" beat Houston over the head with the butts of their revolvers until he died.

Forty Reported Injured and Several Killed.

Lake Charles, La., Aug. 13.—It is reported that several persons were killed and 40 injured by the wrecking last evening at Iowa station of a fast passenger train on the Southern Pacific road. The trucks of the engine left the track, and the entire train was ditched, except the sleepers. There is no telegraph office at Iowa and details are lacking.

Is Wanted In Worcester.

Leominster, Mass., Aug. 13.—Patriaca Sassio, of Worcester, an Italian, 33 years old, was arrested here for an alleged murderous assault on James Clifford, in a street row in Worcester, last Friday night. Clifford was stabbed in the abdomen, and is now in a critical condition. Sassio denies the cutting, but admits that he was in the crowd and says he knows the real offender.

NEWS IN BRIEF.

A cottage at Guilford, Conn., occupied by the family of J. C. Pease, was destroyed by fire while the members of the family were bathing in the ocean, and the contents of the cottage were destroyed.

Peter Peterson and Andrew Jensen, aged respectively 15 and 16 years, were drowned while bathing in he Quinnipac river at New Haven. A few hours later Christian Smith was drowned.

The barns and dairy buildings of Edward Jennings, in South Weston, Mass., were burned, and the loss is $35,000.

By the capsizing of a boat in Cook pond, Fall River, Mass., William King, 18 years old, was drowned.

Dwight L. Hill, aged 61, died at Bridgeport, Conn., after a long illness. Deceased was for many years an emigrant agent, and established many colonies in the west and southwest.

Alexander Dupre, 20 years old, was drowned at Lake Quinsigamond, Worcester.

Arrangements for the Republican campaign in eastern Maine have been completed and the first meeting will be held in Bangor on Aug. 25, when Senator Fairbanks of Indiana and others will speak.

Frank Fairbanks, aged 20, was drowned at Westbrook, Me., while bathing in the Presumpscot rover.

A MESSAGE FROM HART.

Declares That the Sooner Ministers Get Out of Pekin the Better.

Their Lives Jeopardized by Defeat of Chinese Troops.

France Will Give No Order to Minister to Leave While Route Remains Unsafe.

London, Aug. 13.—"The sooner we can be got out of this the better, for it is inconvenient for the Chinese government and unsafe for ourselves." This is a message received last evening from Sir Robert Hart, dated Pekin, Aug. 5, and sent in cipher to the Chinese maritime customs office in London.

Commenting upon it, The Morning Post says: It would seem to indicate that the Chinese government is anxious for the safety of the foreigners, or, at any rate, anxious to get them safely out of Pekin, while Sir Robert Hart evidently expects that they will get out sooner or later.

Sheng, the director general of railroads and telegraphs, according to a Shanghai dispatch to The Standard, expresses grave fears for the safety of the members of the legations when the defeated Chinese troops return to the capital.

The Austrian naval commander reports to Vienna that the allies decided to rest for three days after the taking of Yang Tsun.

According to a dispatch from Paris the tsung li yamen forwarded through the Chinese minister in Paris, Yu Keng, a message to the French government complaining of the "tardiness of the foreign ministers in Pekin in replying to the offer of the Chinese government to conduct them under escort."

The message proceeded to say that the tsung li yamen declined to be responsible for any casualties which might follow these delays, and insisted that the European governments order their representatives to leave Pekin.

To this communication, M. Delcasse, minister of foreign affairs, sent the following reply: "No order to depart from Pekin will be given to our ministers so long as the route is unsafe. If a casualty occurs the responsibility will be entirely with the Chinese government. Its strict duty is to protect the foreign ministers even more than its own.

"If it be true that the Chinese government has great difficulty in defending them, and in defending itself against rebels, it should order its troops to stand aside before the allied forces. This would render free the road from Tientsin to the capital, and would accomplish the work of protection which is encumbered.

"The Chinese government should understand that the only means of proving the sincerity of its designs and of limiting its responsibilities is a cessation in the placing of obstacles in the way of such an arrangement."

A dispatch to a news agency from Tientsin says: Junks and stones block the river beyond the advanced posts of the allies for a considerable distance, but the dryness continues and the country is in good marching order, subsidiary dykes having made the enemy's damming ineffective. It is believed that some 500 have been added to the expedition by the increase in the number of the British naval brigade.

Korea, according to a Seoul dispatch, consents to Japan sending troops to provide for emergencies.

It is reported here that Cheng Yin Humn, the Cantonese, who was the special ambassador of China at Queen Victoria's jubilee, and who is now in banishment at Ili, has been ordered to commit suicide, an Imperial edict having been issued to that effect.

Commenting upon the various propositions made by China to the powers, The Daily News well expresses in effect the predominating British opinion, as follows:

What the Chinese authorities say, in effect, is this: Stop your advance on Pekin and we will give your ministers a safe conduct to Tientsin. If you do not at once instruct them to leave Pekin, we cannot answer for the consequences. To this abominable and not very thickly veiled threat there can be only one answer, and M. Delcasse has given it in very cogent terms. The ministers cannot leave, except under absolutely convincing guarantees of safety. In the speedy advance of the allies lies the only real hope of saving the ministers.

The Daily Mail publishes an interview with the Chinese minister in London, Sir Chih Chen Lo Feng Luh, and quotes him as urging the foreign ministers to leave Pekin. "Some people say," remarked Sir Chih Chen, "that the Europeans are still besieged. It is not so. When you are besieged you are not allowed to communicate with the outside world, but here you are receiving messages, cipher messages, from Sir Claude MacDonald."

Savage Attack on a Patrolman.

New York, Aug. 13.—Patrolman Robert J. Thorpe lies at the point of death, the result of an assault made upon him early Sunday morning by a number of colored men. Thorpe was arresting a colored woman, when Arthur Harris interfered. A number of colored men joined in the dispute, and Thorpe received three stab wounds in the abdomen, one in the head and a broken arm.

Railroad Disaster In Italy.

Rome, Aug. 13.—A train bearing many notable persons, who had been attending the recent ceremonies here, collided with another, a few miles outside the city. Six persons were killed and several others fatally injured.

Crowd Wanted to Lynch Murderer.

Tiffin, O., Aug. 13.—Henry Cook was shot and killed by Edward Trout last evening at Green Springs. A crowd threatened to lynch Trout, who was hurried away to escape their vengeance. The men quarrelled over a trivial matter

TURNED IN WRONG DIRECTION.

French Torpedo Boat Destroyer Sunk in Collision and Many Lives Are Lost.

Paris, Aug. 13.—During the maneuvers of the French fleet, off Cape St. Vincent, Saturday night, a collision occurred between the first-class battleship Berennus, flying the flag of Vice Admiral Fournier, commander of the fleet, and the torpedo boat destroyer Framee.

The Framee sank immediately. The accident was due to the fact that the Framee turned to the right when ordered to the left.

Details thus far received are very meagre, but only a small portion of the crew, consisting of four officers and 58 men, were saved. It is believed that no fewer than 50 were lost, and great anxiety is felt here.

The Framee, which was of 313 tons displacement, was a recent addition to the French navy.

Captain Du Plessix, the second lieutenant and the chief engineer were lost. Admiral Fournier, in a dispatch from Cadiz, says that at the time of the accident the Brennus was steaming ahead of the Framee on the left. The flagship and the torpedo boat destroyer were exchanging luminous signals, when the latter approached too near the Brennus. The captain of the Framee ordered his helmsman to steer 20 degrees to the left, while he increased speed. The man misunderstood or badly executed the order, steering to the right, which brought the destroyer under the ram of the Brennus, her frame being cut in twain.

Ruhlin Was Severely Punished.

New York, Aug. 13.—With his face bruised and discolored, his right eye almost closed and his nose flattened, Gus Ruhlin is wondering how it happened. Although he is well enough to move about unassisted, it looked for a time early Saturday as if the punishment inflicted by Fitzsimmons would result fatally. After leaving the garden Ruhlin was taken to a Turkish bath establishment. While there he became unconscious. His condition for a time was critical and Dr. Lombard worked hard for several hours before he succeeded in reviving the injured pugilist. Barring a slight bruise over the left eye, Fitzsimmons looks none the worse for the blows placed on various parts of his anatomy.

Operations In South Africa.

London, Aug. 13.—The war office has received the following message from Lord Roberts, dated Pretoria, Aug. 11: "The enemy is fleeing in front of Kitchener's and Methuen's forces. Early this morning he was trying to cross the railway at Wolverdeen station, where he was engaged by Smith-Dorrien, Methuen, on Aug. 9, fought a rear-guard action near Buffolshock. He captured six wagons and two ambulances." In spite of the fact that General Christian De Wet is in full flight, South African telegrams announce a hurried exodus of civilians from Mafeking, and that Lord Edward Cecil is preparing to stand another siege.

Strikers' Demands Acceded To.

Springfield, Mass., Aug. 13.—The Boston and Albany railroad boilermakers at the West Springfield and Rennselaer shops, who struck 8 weeks ago for 10 percent increase and time and a half for overtime Sundays and holidays, have been granted the time and a half, with a 4 percent increase in wages. The request of the men that non-union men be removed from the shops was acceded to by the officials. The 62 strikers returned to work this morning.

Appropriations of Last Session of Congress.

Washington, Aug. 13.—The volume of appropriations, new offices, etc., required to be prepared and published at the end of each session of congress, under the direction of the committee on appropriations of the senate and house, has been completed for the first session of the Fifty-sixth congress. A summary of the appropriations shows the grand total of $710,150,862.88.

Smallpox Not Yet Stamped Out.

Lowell, Mass., Aug. 13.—Joseph and Paul Deguay, aged 13 and 8 years, respectfully, were removed to the smallpox hospital from 29 James street Sunday, suffering from varioloid. Later, the father, Andrew, joined them. Owing to illness and other causes, the remainder of the family were allowed to remain in the tenement, which has been quarantined.

Americans Captured Two Events.

London, Aug. 13.—At the annual sports of the Celtic Football club at Glasgow W. B. Tewksbury of the University of Pennsylvania won the 120 yards handicap in 12 seconds, and Maxwell E. Long of the New York Athletic club won the quarter mile handicap in 50 seconds, breaking the Scottish record.

Old Bridge Destroyed by Fire.

Natick, R. I., Aug. 13.—The covered bridge on the central division of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad, between Natick and Pontiac, caught fire Sunday, and was completely burned. The structure was of wood, about 300 feet long and had been in use nearly 50 years. The cause of the fire is not known. Loss, about $15,000.

Insurgent Commander Surrenders.

Washington, Aug. 13.—The war department has received the following dispatch from General MacArthur, dated Manila, Aug. 12: "Colonel Grassa, Aug. 12, in vicinity of Tayug, surrendered command to Colonel Freeman, Twenty fourth United States infantry, consisting of one major, six captains, six lieutenants, 162 man, 101 rifles and 50 bolos.

Coler a Candidate For Governor.

New York, Aug. 13.—The Brooklyn Eagle says: After a considerable period of uncertainty, Controller Bird S. Coler announces that he would accept a nomination for governor on the Democratic ticket. Not only did he make it clear that he would accept a nomination, but that he expected to fight for it.

One of Moody's Jokes.

D. L. Moody was always full of fun. He saw the comic side of things, and as a boy enjoyed putting practical jokes upon any one whom he well knew. In the rear of his Uncle Samuel's retail shoe store in Boston was a cobbler's repair kit—seat, tools, awls, etc., and the seat was, as usual, a piece of leather concavely shaped downward at its center.

One day the workman on this saucer shaped seat felt it becoming uncomfortably damp, then really moist. He rose and saw a damp spot on the seat. Supposing that a few drops of water had been accidentally dropped upon the seat before he sat down to his work, he folded an old newspaper and placed it and sat comfortably down to resume his work. But the moisture seemed strangely persistent. Rising again, he found the paper becoming soaked with water, and he stood perplexed, his hammer in one hand and the soft, wet paper in the other.

Looking this way and that in his perplexity, he soon heard a half chuckle, half snicker, which could no longer be repressed, and there behind the door was the country boy, learning how to be useful in a city shoe store, as he really and rapidly did, but taking his fun as he went along. He had placed a shallow dish of water close up to the underside of the center of the leather seat, which only touched the water when the weight of the occupant was upon it, so three or four small awl holes served his purpose for that time.—Congregationalist.

Our Endurance.

During life each member of the human body produces poison to itself. When this poison accumulates faster than it can be eliminated, which always occurs unless the muscle has an interval of rest, then will come fatigue, which is only another expression for toxic infection.

If the muscle is given an interval of rest, so that the cell can give off its waste product to keep pace with the new productions, the muscle will then liberate energy for a long time. This latter condition is what we call endurance.

Like any other ponderous and intricate machine, the body requires time to get in harmonious working order. The brain, nerves, heart and skeletal muscles must be given some warning of the work they are expected to perform. Ignorance of this fact has broken down many a young man who aspired to honors on the cinder path.

The necessity of getting all the parts of the body slowly in working order is well understood by trainers and jockeys on the race track, as is evinced by the preliminary "warming up" they give their horses, although it is doubtful if the trainers could give any physiologic reason for their custom.—Popular Science.

Witchcraft.

"The sixteenth and seventeenth centuries," said John Fiske, "were the flourishing ages of the witchcraft delusion. Witchcraft, in the early ages, was considered one of the greatest of crimes, as much so as murder, robbery or any other serious offense against the law, and the belief in it was shared by the whole human race until the latter part of the seventeenth century.

"In England, in 1664, two women were tried before Sir Matthew Hale, charged with bewitching several girls and a baby, and they were put to death, for at that time the evidence seemed perfectly rational. In 1615, in Genoa, 500 people were burned to death on the charge of witchcraft. It was the proud boast of a noted executioner in northern Italy, at this time, that in 15 years he had assisted in burning 900 persons charged with sorcery. In Scotland, between 1560 and 1600, 8,000 people were put to death, an average of 200 a year. The last execution for witchcraft in England took place in 1712, in Scotland in 1722, in Germany in 1749 and in Spain in 1781."

What He Waited For.

An inspector of Irish schools tells a good story, says the Newcastle (England) Chronicle. At a school where he made a surprise visit a little boy happened to come in for the first time and stepped up to the inspector at once.

"Sit there for the present," said the inspector, indicating the desired spot.

The boy obeyed readily, and when the inspector had finished his multitudinous inquiries into the knowledge of geography, grammar and arithmetic possessed by the children he found that the boy still sat in the same spot.

"What are you waiting for, my boy?"

"Please, sir, I am waiting for the present."

His Gin Rickey.

The Irishman who had never tasted a gin rickey ordered one so as to impress his friends. The bartender never had heard of a rickey, but he was ashamed to admit his ignorance, so he put a mixing glass under the bar and made a guess at it.

Then he leaned back to await results. The Irishman sipped at the beverage and shook his head approvingly.

"By gorry, 'tis a fine rickey," he said.

"It ought to be," said the bartender. "I put in everything except the license."—Chicago Record.

Brakes.

Hand brakes, to assist in the stopping of trains, were introduced as early as 1849. Twenty years later the air-brake was patented, which enabled power from the locomotive to be transmitted through hose simultaneously to the brakes of all the cars in a train—a wonderful invention. In 1863 the coaches were connected by patent couplers, another measure of strength and safety.

Metallic Terms.

Speech is silvern, silence is golden, giggling is brazen, and laughing is often ironical.—Columbian.

Parsons' Pills

Doctors recommend them for Biliousness, Sick Headache, Constipation, all Liver and Bowel Complaints. They cleanse the blood of all impurities. Mild in their action. Of great benefit to delicate women. One pill is a dose. Thirty pills in a bottle enclosed in wood—25 cents; six bottles, $1.00. Sold everywhere or sent post-paid.

THE NATIONAL PARTY

Opposed to Platforms and Candidates of Republicans and Democrats.

Hopes For the Endorsement of the Anti-Imperialists.

The Latter Body Divided as to the Putting Forth of a Third Ticket.

Indianapolis, Aug. 14.—Delegates to the convention of the national or third party ticket are about all here. This party originated at the time of the meeting of the Gold Democratic committee in this city. At that time there was a committee of 11 sent here to confer with the gold committee, and urge it to recommend the nomination of a third ticket. Failing in this they issued a call for a national convention, to be held in this city Aug. 14 and 15. The members of the national party hope that the Anti-Imperialists will endorse the ticket they nominate.

Louis R. Ehrich of Colorado Springs, Colo., is the presiding officer of the convention, and Isaac H. Klein of New York is secretary. Yesterday a conference was held and the following statement issued:

A mass convention is hereby called to meet at Indianapolis at 2 p. m. Aug. 14 to nominate or co-operate in the nomination of candidates for president and vice president upon a platform substantially as follows:

The Democratic party is conducting a direct attack upon the institutions of our country. It advocates dishonest money and threatens the integrity of the judiciary.

The Republican party is conducting an indirect attack upon the institutions of our country. At home it corrupts the morals by selling public offices and special privileges to the highest contributors to party assets; abroad it wages a wicked war of conquest in violation of the principles of the Declaration of Independence.

No man serves well his country who joins in either of these attacks. Party to neither, therefore, but opponents of both, we pledge our honest efforts to the following ends:

1.—Independence and protection to the inhabitants of Cuba, the Philippine islands, Porto Rico and Hawaii.

2.—A single gold standard and a sound banking system.

3.—The abolition of all special privileges.

4.—A public service based on merit only.

In pursuance of this call the mass convention will assemble in the hall on the seventh floor of the Commercial club building at 2 o'clock tomorrow (Tuesday) afternoon.

This call is addressed to all of those opposed to the candidates and the platforms of the Republican and Democratic parties. Delegates to the anti-imperialist convention and all citizens are cordially invited.

The congress of the Anti-Imperialist league will be called to order tomorrow in Tomlinson hall by Senator Henderson of Missouri, and he will introduce ex-Governor Boutwell of Massachusetts, who will preside over the meetings. A number of short speeches will be made relative to the determining what is the best course to pursue.

Governor Boutwell is opposed to placing a third ticket in the field, and will use all his influence to prevent the nomination of a third ticket, and likewise the endorsement of Bryan and Stevenson. He believes that strong resolutions denouncing imperialism should be adopted and then the meeting should adjourn.

Those who favor a third ticket have suggested the names of Thomas B. Reed, Richard Olney, ex-Governor Boutwell of Massachusetts and J. B. Henderson.

E. C. Howland of New York says that the impression in the east is that the Anti-Imperialists will join in the third ticket movement.

R. A. Widenman of New York says: "We are confronted with a peculiar condition. If McKinley, who seems to be training his guns against free silver, is elected, he will declare that his imperial policy has been endorsed. If Bryan, who is attacking the administration's imperialist policy, is elected, he will declare silver has been endorsed. Either would be contrary to our views."

Cold Comfort For Lilian.

New York, Aug. 14.—Perhaps the most interesting visitor at the Republican national headquarters yesterday was Lilian C. Jewett, the so-called "Joan of Arc" of the Anti-Lynching league of Boston. Miss Jewett had an audience with Chairman Hanna. When Mr. Hanna was asked about the matter, he replied: "Poor girl. She wanted the Republican national committee to endorse the Anti-Lynching league. Of course we could not do it. We all deprecate lynching. I told her that all moral persons and law-abiding ones are against lynching. This is not a party matter."

Marian Butler Said to Be For McKinley.

Lincoln, Neb., Aug. 14.—The Evening Post, a local Populist paper, says that Chairman Marion Butler will take the stump for McKinley. Vice Chairman Edmiston was asked about this matter last evening and declined to talk. "In the absence of definite information," said Mr. Edmiston, "I cannot say anything about Senator Butler's future course."

To Be Notified at Topeka.

Denver, Aug. 14.—William J. Bryan will receive notification of his nomination for president by the United States Monetary league on Aug. 23, at Topeka, the date of the People's Party notification exercises. Judge Rucker of this city, chairman of the notification committee, notified Mr. Bryan of this plan by wire yesterday, and Mr. Bryan assented to the arrangement.

British-Americans Organize.

Boston, Aug. 14.—The British-American citizens of Boston and vicinity, who have been endeavoring to form an organization for several weeks, finally succeeded Monday night in electing a permanent set of officers. In the statement of the principals, showing the purposes of the organization, the object is declared to be for the advancement of the cause of good government, the stimulation of sentiments of patriotism, and to promote harmony and friendly intercourse between the United States of America and all branches of the Anglo-Saxon race.

Immigrant Station For Boston.

Boston, Aug. 14.—Something definite is now in view in the proposed new immigration station and place of detention at this port, for Commissioner General Powderly visited this city Monday and conferred at length with the local commissioner, Colonel Billings, and agents of the steamship lines. The agents presented many strong reasons in favor of a station.

Saved From Possible Drowning.

Chatham, Mass., Aug. 14. — Light Keeper Hammond and Joseph W. Nickerson started to drive across Chatham Inlet crossing at high tide Monday, but the strong current took the horse off his feet, and horse, wagon and men were being rapidly swept down tream with the tide when Chatham life savers reached them.

Noted Men to Participate.

Portsmouth, N. H., Aug. 14.—The committee having in charge the arrangements for the presentation of the tablets to the battleships Kearsarge and Alabama, on Sept. 8, announces that Admirals Dewey and Sampson and President McKinley have accepted invitations to be present.

Thirteen Were Badly Hurt.

Tennille, Ga., Aug. 14.—A Southern railway passenger train from Augusta was wrecked here Monday, and 13 people were badly hurt, while others were less seriously injured, all of whom are doing well. The train broke in two on a steep grade, and the two sections collided.

ARE CLOSE TO PEKIN.

Expected Opposition to Allied Forces Has Failed to Materialize.

They Must Be Allowed to Enter the Capital Without Molestation.

Otherwise United States Will Ignore China's Overtures For Peace.

Washington, Aug. 14.—A thrill of exultation and expectancy was sent throughout the war department Monday by the announcement of General Chaffee's arrival at Ho Si Wu, only 33 miles from Pekin, last Thursday.

The last heard from him before this was at Yang Tsun, which had been captured after a hard fight, and word of his movements since then had been eagerly awaited. Thursday he was 18 miles beyond Yang Tsun. Lang Fang, the place where the ill-fated Seymour expedition met its fate and turned back, had been left behind. The battle of Yang Tsun was fought on the 6th, and the advance on Ho Si Wu was accomplished on the 9th, a march of 18 miles in three days. At the same rate of progress, Chaffee is even now fairly within striking distance of the walls of Pekin. It was a consummation which the war department had awaited calmly, and stirring as the news was that the American force was now nearing the gates of the imperial city, Secretary Root and Adjutant General Corbin evinced no surprise, as it accorded with calculations, although the advance has been much more rapid than was expected.

The dispatch from Chaffee, conveying so much in so few words, is as follows:

"Chefoo, Aug. 7.—Adjutant General, Washington: Tenth arrived Hospiwu (Ho Si Wu) yesterday. Chaffee."

Word of the advance soon spread throughout official quarters. In the enthusiasm of the moment, a report got about that this was the day for the actual arrival at Pekin. But the war department had not a word of the advance beyond Ho Si Wu. It was deemed hardly likely the march to Pekin should have been made since last Thursday. At the rate of progress, six miles a day, made from Yang Tsun to Ho Si Wu, it would still leave the international forces nine miles from Pekin up to yesterday. Viewed from any standpoint, the advance to Ho Si Wu was of the utmost importance, not only strategically, but also in showing that communication was open back to Chefoo, that the expected opposition from the Chinese hordes had not been sufficient to prevent the steady forward movement, and in the influence it would exert upon the Chinese government. Brief as the dispatch is, it conveys much information beyond that specifically contained in its few words.

As it has taken five days for General Chaffee to report the advance to Ho Si Wu, it is evident that wire communication is not open to the front. This was hardly to be expected, and the safe arrival of the message at least shows that a certain measure of communication is open. One of the chief sources of congratulation among officials is that the fancied hordes of Chinese have not materialized, or at least have not prevented the international column from drawing close to the gates of Pekin.

Shortly after this dispatch arrived another message from General Chaffee, far more lengthy, gave the melancholy result of the fight at Yang Tsun. The casualty list is given on the detail, with the additional information that the dead had been buried at Yang Tsun, and that the wounded had been sent back to the hospital at Tientsin.

The reply of the United States government to China's overtures of peace, which was made public yesterday, shows the firm and final position that has been taken. While expressing satisfaction at this pacific step, the reply states that it is evident that "there can be no general negotiation between China and the powers" so long as the ministers and legationers are restrained and in danger. Then follows a specific statement of what the United States expects as a condition precedent to a cessation of hostilities, viz.: that a body of the relief force be permitted to "enter Pekin unmolested" and escort the ministers back to Tientsin.

It developed that the reference to "the powers," employed in the American reply, was not without a distinct meaning. Exchanges between the various powers have been going on constantly, and as a result the officials had the satisfaction of knowing late in the day that the position of the United States had the approval and support of all the great powers. While this had not been expressed in any formal manner by all the parties, yet the exchanges in the chancelleries of Europe and through the foreign representatives in Washington had made it positive that the powers were acting unitedly in approval of the course of this government.

REQUEST PROMPTLY GRANTED.

Large Delegation of Hungry Porto Ricans Begged Governor Hunt For Work.

San Juan, P. R., Aug. 14.—More than 100 laborers with their wives and children reached this city yesterday morning, after two days of weary marching, without food, from San Lorenzo, a distance of 27 miles. The procession, made up of all shades and conditions, led by a colored woman with an American flag, and carrying banners on which were inscribed the words "Give Us Work," marched quietly through the city to the executive mansion, where a halt was made.

The spokesman then called upon Civil Governor Hunt and explained that the object of the visit was to ask the government to open a road between Caguas and San Lorenzo, thus enabling the laboring classes of the district to get a livlihood. He pointed out that at present there was no work of any kind in that district, and that the people, who were wholly dependent upon their daily earnings, were without bread and were suffering.

Mr. Hunt replied sympathetically, and promised that the government would do all in its power to relieve the situation.

Orders were promptly issued for work to be begun on the road today, and for the employment of as many persons as possible who might apply from the district. The spokesman of the deputation had said that there was no expectation of gratuitous government assistance but merely a desire for work. Official investigation shows that the district in question is very badly off, and that no work of any sort has been in operation there for some time.

It is pointed out that these conditions are partly due to the old system of government relief supplies, which had a tendency to pauperize the recipient, and to lead many to believe that the government would indefinitely support the poor in idleness.

Jury Visited Scene of Murder.

Georgetown, Ky., Aug. 14.—The hearing of testimony in the case of ex-Secretary of State Caleb Powers was concluded Monday and today the argument before the jury will begin. There will be five speeches on each side. The jury was taken to Frankfort yesterday afternoon and viewed the state capital grounds and buildings and other points in connection with the case. The defendant also went to Frankfort.

Ferns Defeats Connolly.

Buffalo, Aug. 14.—Rube Ferns of Kansas City clinched his title to the welterweight championship of America by defeating Eddie Connolly of New Brunswick Monday night at the Olympic club. The battle was evenly contested up to the middle of the 15th round, when the New Brunswick man backed to the ropes and dropped his hands, and one of his seconds threw up the sponge.

A Bold Abduction.

Kenosha, Wis., Aug. 14.—Lizzie Patterson, was last night stolen from the arms of her mother, Mrs. W. Maloney. Her abductors made their escape in a carriage. The abduction was the result of a family quarrel for the possession of the child. The little girl is the child of a former marriage. She is 11 years old.

Madame Yale's HAIR TONIC

Ladies and Gentlemen.—It has gone on record that Madame Yale's Excelsior Hair Tonic is the first and only remedy known to chemical science found to be a genuine hair specific. It has an affinity for the human hair for nourishing and invigorating its entire structure. It is antiseptic in character, as well as stimulating; its action upon the scalp and hair is truly wonderful, inasmuch as it has never been known in a single instance to fail to cure scalp diseases and to create a luxuriant growth of healthy, beautiful hair. It stops hair falling within twenty-four hours and brings back the natural color to gray hair in nearly every instance. It is not a dye; it is not sticky or greasy; on the contrary it makes the hair soft, youthful, beautiful and glossy; keeps it in curl. It is a perfect hair dressing, and can be used by ladies, gentlemen or children as a daily toilet requisite. Its influence is delightfully soothing.

All Dealers sell it, $1 per bottle. Mail orders may be sent direct to the manufacturer,

Good Afternoon.

Those who indulge in smelting every fall are wondering how they can escape the Sunday law this year. They fear that those State officers may interfere and secure a better string than they do.

It is doubtful if the snake stories from the Blue Hills will increase the popularity of the reservation. Even the assurance of Mr. Elcock that a rattler can bite but once, don't seem to satisfy everyone, as they are not sure whether the particular snakeship has had its innings.

It seems a pity that the money cannot be secured to have the dome of belfry of the Stone church regilded. It is understood that the cost will not exceed $350. Here is an edifice, one of the most historic and famous in the land, whose shabby genteel dome is to shame our people whenever they point out the tomb of the two Presidents Adams to visitors. It seems as if there must be enough public spirited citizens in the city who can subscribe the requisite amount of money. There is a manifest inconsistency in having this grand old structure surmounted by an old tin pail.

Drift of Opinion.

☞Mr. Bryan made the platform upon which he desired to stand. The gentlemen who are trying to twist its meaning by the "paramounting" process are acting wholly upon their own responsibilities.—Milford Journal.

☞An unusual number of golf accidents have been chronicled of late, and there will be more as the game spreads in popularity, unless players who are taking up the game learn to realize the force with which a golf ball flies and are careful. It can generally be observed that the longer a man has played the game the more careful he is to observe the rules that make for safety.—Springfield Republican.

☞As the Whitney-Lawson fight over gas will probably play an important part in the next Senate, it may be that their influence may have some thing to do with the selection of a president. Just how those two gas magnates stand regarding the candidates no one seems to know except themselves, and they haven't given the information to the newspapers for publication. It is a serious proposition, however, if it is true, that the gas fight is going to determine the presidency of the State Senate.—Exchange.

☞Every little while somebody discovers that "overinsurance" is causing all the fires. That theory is based on the assumption that there is very little honesty and decency in the human race. It is a wrong theory. A moderate proportion of incendiary fires is undoubtedly due to a desire to sell out to insurance companies, but only a moderate percentage. Fires originate in uninsured or underinsured premises very frequently. The most trustworthy statistics do not show a high ratio of incendiarism. And only a part of the incendiary fires have anything to do with insurance.—The Insurance Press.

☞The Quincy Ledger has been discussing a new name for the electric railroad system alleging that the present one is a misnomer for lines which do not run to Brockton, and states the fact applies as well to the Weymouth and Milton lines. The best suggestion the Ledger makes in the way of a new name is that of the Mayflower Street Railway, which is short enough, and descriptive, too, for it applies to the territory of the Old Colony with full force. Why not group the whole of the roads under the name of the Mayflower system? That is briefer and covers the ground completely. Old Colony & Boston wouldn't be bad, either.—Old Colony Memorial.

☞There must be no delay over this question of learning to read and write the English language in this country or its dependencies. The spirit of the times forbids yielding to any sentimental feeling about using compulsion to secure so desirable a result. In a country which is sustained in its vital parts by the vigor of individual approval there must be education in the language which makes citizens competent for self-government. We may as well fight this question out to a finish now as at any other time.—Haverhill Gazette.

☞Something besides the fear of yellow fever may keep New Orleans from growing into a great city and a first class power among cities. Until it proves that it has become a dignified, self-controlled, and self-respecting community. It will not be widely sought as a place of residence by citizens of the quality to help it to a first position. While Cuba is rooting out the yellow fever which New Orleans fears through contagion, New Orleans has a work to do in obliterating the impression of itself it has stamped upon the country in the past few weeks.—New Bedford Standard.

☞Gen. J. W. Kimball is out with a letter to the public, in which he states that he will again be a candidate for the office of State Auditor, a position which he has very ably, honestly and acceptably filled for a number of years past. There isn't any reason that he shouldn't be kept there indefinitely, except that some one else wants it, as always attaches to a good office. The General served his country splendidly in the Civil War, and deserves all the recognition he gets in return; so if he is kept at his present post it will be fair treatment of a brave soldier, and the State will be sure of getting as faithful service as did the Nation in its time of peril.—Old Colony Memorial.

Political Potpourri.

Commenting on the candidacy of Representative Sprague for the Senate, the Globe divulges a secret. It is said that Senator Woodsum called on Mr. Sprague and suggested that as between himself and Judge Grover of course there was only one thing for the Quincy man to do. "That's so," assented Mr. Sprague, "but you see I rather think I shall be a candidate for senatorial nomination myself."

Ward One of Quincy gave more votes to Gov. Crane last year than either the Norfolk county towns of Avon, Bellington, Canton, Cohasset, Dover, Foxborough, Franklin, Holbrook, Medfield, Medway, Millis, Needham, Norfolk, Randolph, Sharon, Stoughton, Walpole, Wellesley, Westwood or Wrentham.

It would be a good thing for Quincy if it could have at least one experienced Representative in the General Court each year. This could be accomplished by reelecting one who has served and one new candidate. This year Representative Sprague has withdrawn from the field, but for this reason it is not necessary to turn down Representative Sheppard. Of late Quincy has given three years to each Representative. Mr. Hammond of Ward Four served three years, and then Messrs. Newcomb of Ward Two and Thompson of Ward Three were twice reelected. Messrs. Sheppard of Ward One and Sprague of Ward Five have had but two terms.

Avon with 159 Republican voters has as many delegates in the convention as Ward Four of Quincy, which gave Gov. Crane 212 votes.

Quincy City Hospital.

The drills and rehearsals for the Carnival Pageant have now started in good earnest. This Pageant is under the direction and leadership of Prof. Wales of Brattleboro, Vt., and will be given Sept. 5-7 inclusive, the opening nights at the new Music hall.

It is participated in by young ladies, men and children all over the city and the proceeds are to be donated to the Quincy City Hospital.

The drills are held in the Universalist church vestry and a great deal of interest, and enthusiasm are already displayed in them.

It is given by from one to three hundred children and young people. It contains one plot. It is a spectacular performance, a display of loveliness and beauty, combining artistic and graceful movements of the body in marches, drills, groupings and dancing.

It presents unique and elaborate costumes with powerful calcium effects. It has been given in over one hundred cities.

There will be a grand snip party at the Wollaston Yacht club house this evening August 14, fun for all.

SNAKE WITH SWORD.

Tom Smith Has Thrilling Experiences in Blue Hills.

Snake stories are in order this week and George Elcock and Rufus Pierce will have to brace up to keep the record. The following was sent to the Traveller by Tom Smith, who says it is "positively true."

While berry hunting in the Blue Hills, Milton, yesterday, I had a thrilling and almost fatal encounter with a large reptile. Not many yards from the avenue, there is a large clear spring, surrounded by several large birch trees. While in the act of stooping to fill my glass with water I saw reflected in the pool the image of a large snake. Looking up I saw suspended from the branch of a tree a snake fully ten feet in length.

Having nothing to defend myself with except a club and tumbler I decided to leave.

With my hands trembling and my lips quivering, I turned to quit the place. Just as I was turning to go the snake make a dart for me. I turned and with great force hurled the glass at the snake's head, the glass forcing its way on and over the snake's head.

With the glass firmly wedged over its head it dropped into the pool. I stood staring into the pool, thinking the snake would turn up dead, but instead of doing so it appeared at my feet with the glass still on its head.

While running away, the cracking of the brush in my rear plainly told me that I was being followed. The reptile gained so rapidly on me that I was compelled to turn at bay.

Taking a firm grip on my club I waited to be attacked. The attack came in a most savage manner. The snake turned its tail toward me and tried to cut me down.

It had a white bone sword fully three feet in length on the end of its tail.

The sword was pointed and sharp on both its edges. Its sweeps and thrusts were terrific.

I parried its blows until my club was reduced to half its former size. I finally backed away from the attack until I came directly under the branches of a tree.

Taking hold of the branch I swung myself upon the tree. Looking down from the tree I could see what a ferocious antagonist I had to deal with.

Just as I thought I was safe from further attack, the snake deliberately started in to cut the tree down with its sword. The chips flew as though some wood chopper was at work with an axe.

There was a barbed wire fence several rods from where I was, and beyond that stood an old delapidated building.

I thought if I could make the wall of the building by leaping the wire fence I would be safe from further attack. So I made my way to the tree's top in order to have the tree's length for a start when the tree fell.

The tree finally fell with a crash. I made a bound and ran, leaping the wire fence, gaining the stone wall several yards in advance of the snake.

The only thing that saved me from capture was the time lost by the snake in cutting down the wire fence.

Securely perched upon the stone wall I annoyed the snake by throwing stones at it. The snake lingered around the wall for several hours.

Finally it sheathed its sword, and with the tumbler still wedged over its head disappeared into the forest.

Mr. Merrick's School.

The Lyman vacation school of East Boston, which is in general charge of Mr. Charles F. Merrick has six classes of 148 pupils—46 from 8 to 10 years of age and 102 from 10 to 14 years of age. He has as assistants, teachers of Sloyd, cooking, sewing, cardboard construction and nature study. The Herald says: Mr. Merrick's bent of teaching is toward keeping the children busy and teaching them something to do rather than to fill them with information. He has had a wide experience with boys' vacation camps and applies some of the conclusions warranted by his experience to the needs of the Lyman school. Science is not neglected, but Mr. Merrick, whose idea necessarily colors the general arrangement of the program, is less of a scientist than is Mr. Murphy or Mrs. Cutler, and makes relatively less of this feature in the curriculum.

Peabody and Mr. Winthrop Peabody of Waverley, Mr. Howard Viles of Waltham and Miss Margarete King. This hotel is under the management of Mr. Al Williams.

Lawson vs. Whitney.

The Post says: There is another district where Lawson's influence will no doubt be seen, and this relates to the first Norfolk district, which has been represented for the past two years by Senator B. Herbert Woodsum. He was the Senate chairman of the committee on manufactures, and was very much opposed to the Lawson end of the recent gas investigation, and was counted all along as a supporter of the Whitney side of the controversy. Opposed to his candidacy is Judge Thomas E. Grover of Canton, who wants the nomination because he thinks his section is entitled to it. Senator Woodsum says he is a candidate for the presidency of the Senate, so that both the Whitney and Lawson factions will be represented in that contest should Joy carry the Fifth Middlesex district and Woodsum be successful in his own bailiwick.

WHY FURNITURE PRICES ARE LOWER HERE.

It's an easy question to answer, because facts prove it so. We buy our Furniture from the largest factories in the West, at the lowest market prices. Our expenses are about one-quarter as much as those of Boston Stores. Our customers do not help pay for expensive advertisements, high rents, enormous taxes and costly delivery. These few facts you should weigh well in your mind.

You can buy Furniture, Carpetings, Ranges, and Pianos, lower here than in any store in New England. We are saving money for thousands of families in Quincy and the surburban towns, we can do the same for you.

Has Not Resigned.

A Natick item in the Globe says: The members of the school board since the appointment of superintendent F. E. Parlin to the head of the Quincy schools two weeks ago, have been frequently interviewed by candidates for the vacancy.

No successor to Mr. Parlin has been appointed, in fact he has not yet sent notice of his resignation. Mr. Parlin is in Vermont with his family, and the committee expect to hear from him daily. It is said to be his intention to remain here till September, so as to have the schools in readiness for his successor.

The tunnels of the world are estimated to number about 1142, with a total length of 514 miles. There are about 1000 railroad tunnels, 12 subaqueous tunnels, 90 canal tunnels, and 40 conduit tunnels, with aggregate lengths of about 350 miles.

Census figures recently published at Washington show the average longevity has made a perceptilbe advance even in the last 10 years, and as people live twice as fast as they used to, the sun total of life is very much longer and richer than formerly.

UNANOINTED ALTARS.

"Let it be," said he, "that the hounds shall win,
Let it come that I bow to the curs
And stand a fool in the eyes of the world,
But, oh, never a fool in hers!"

It was not for the sake of the things they sought,
Nor the foolish crowns they cried for,
Nor for any of all the ancient gods
Their fathers had fought and died for.

It was not, he knew, for the name of the land
Nor the pride of the loins that bore him;
Not, not for these did he die his deaths
And crush to the goals before him.

So the years that he wrought were empty years,
And the laurels he gathered—their laughter;
But, ah, not his were the lips that kissed
Her—her whom he hungered after.

"Let it be that the ancient jests holds good,
Let it come that I bow to the curs
And stand a fool in the eyes of the world,
But, oh, never a fool in hers!"

Aye, the years he wrought seemed wasted years,
And his goodly strength was broken,
And his shriveled heart lay dry as dust,
And the word was left unspoken.

Yet he stood, at the end, in their wondering eyes
(For all that he held them curs),
Far more of a god than a fool indeed,
But a fool to the end in hers!
—Arthur J. Stringer in Ainslee's.

His Excellency My Cousin

A Story of a Man Who Received a Legacy.

By Koloman Mikszath.

Copyright, 1900, by Erwin Wardman.

A rich and distinguished relative is by no means an unmixed blessing. When I wrote my name in the matriculation book at the university, the rector raised his eyebrows and said:

"Ah! A relative of his excellency, I suppose."

"Yes."

"And yet you wish to take advantage of the free scholarships?"

"It is necessary, unfortunately—for the present at least."

Thus I began under unfavorable auspices. I had all the notoriety attaching to distinguished connection, with none of its advantages, for I was poor as a church mouse. My comrades pointed me out to their friends, saying: "He's old Teleky's cousin, you know. He'll have a pile when the old boy pegs out."

This sort of thing worried me. There was one compensation, however. My name and presumptive wealth procured me the favor of young ladies and their mammas, and for several seasons I basked in the smiles of beauty.

My whole family, with all its branches—there must have been a score of persons all told—had, like myself, been waiting for the future dead man's shoes until they had become almost barefoot. My cousin in the beginning had been nearly as poor as the rest. He owed his advancement and his wealth to his rare political abilities. He had been a professional politician all his life. Now he was called a statesman.

He gave evidence of his talent in boyhood. The neighbors' boys used to rob his father's orchard. One day my cousin armed himself with a knife and a big medicine bottle with a poison label. He went to the orchard, where, in full view of some of the suspected pilferers, he made small incisions in a number of the most tempting apples and poured a few drops from the bottle into each incision. Some of the boys asked him what he was doing. He responded that whoever ate those apples wouldn't care for apples thereafter. Thenceforth the apples remained undisturbed.

The bulk of his wealth came to him through a lucky chance while he was private secretary to a certain high functionary.

A rich banker applied to the official for a concession, backing his application with arguments of the most weighty and convincing character.

But the law, unfortunately, stipulated that the holder of the concession must be a Hungarian, which the banker was not.

"It can be arranged," said the dispenser of patronage. "You have a daughter, I believe?"

"Yes."

"Well, all you have to do is to marry her to a Hungarian as soon as possible. Then you can take the concession in her name—that is, in her husband's."

At that moment my cousin entered.

"Here is the man for you," said his chief. "My secretary is a Hungarian of good family and amenable to reason. Teleky, allow me to present you to your future father-in-law."

The banker looked at the handsome young Hungarian, and the bargain was struck, the lady interposing no objection.

We never profited one stiver by my cousin's greatness. In late years indeed he had shown the greatest animosity toward the whole family. Some of the affiliated branches who were poorer and prouder than the Telekys themselves murmured loudly, and it was their complaints, the Telekys insisted, that had hardened the great man's heart. On the other hand, these relatives insisted that it was all our fault, and so a family dissension was added to our other mortifications.

But in Hungary everything can be converted into cash—even expectations. We had no legal claim on our cousin's estate, but we found plenty of usurers willing to take long chances.

This was carried on to such an extent that the wit of the family said he hoped "the old man" would never die, as things were going on most comfortably as they were, and when the crash should come it would take the assets of a Rothschild to meet the outstanding liabilities.

The old man did die, however, while I was still at the university. He was ill for a long time, and the newspapers were full of reports regarding him.

They said, among other things, that the bulk of his immense fortune would go to the Budapest almshouse, but that every relative who should appear at the funeral would receive a respectable bequest. And, as a matter of fact, on the day after the old man's death I received a formal invitation to the funeral from his confidential factotum, who added a hint that my future financial welfare would depend largely upon my presence or absence.

Of course I went. It was my first visit to the capital, but I had no difficulty in finding my late cousin's town residence, which was in a large apartment house.

A hearse and carriage stood before the door when I arrived, and a great crowd of idlers had collected to see what they could of the distinguished man's funeral. I saw none of my relatives among the few people who were entering, and I blamed myself for being the last to arrive.

Just then two ladies entered. They were richly dressed, but entirely in black, and they held handkerchiefs to their eyes, from which tears were streaming. I followed them to an apartment on the second floor, where we found a goodly company of ladies and gentlemen, many of whom seemed as deeply affected as the two ladies who had just arrived.

There could be no doubt of the genuineness of their grief. Their eyes were red and swollen, as if from prolonged weeping, and their handkerchiefs were used constantly.

Still I saw none of my numerous relatives. Evidently they were all in the inner room, where the funeral no doubt was already in progress, while I was cooling my heels with the outsiders in the anteroom.

A sad faced domestic, clad wholly in black, stood at the door leading to the inner room. I approached him and endeavored to explain my connection with the dead man, but he cut me short at the first word.

"Not yet," he said. "It is not yet time. You must wait."

I waited. After a time one of my companions rose and approached the inner door, which was opened obsequiously by the flunky. In a little while another did the same. When three or four thus had passed behind the mysterious door, I made the attempt myself, but was waved back imperiously by the sad faced servant.

I continued to wait, repeating the attempt at intervals without success. After I had waited some hours I discovered that each person before he left his seat received an almost imperceptible sign of invitation from the servant.

I waited until nightfall, but no such invitation came to me. Then my wrath rose, and I went to the door again.

"It is not yet your turn, sir," said the man of mystery.

Turn! What sort of funeral was my distinguished cousin having, I wondered.

"See here, my man," I said, "do you know who I am?"

"I do not, sir, but it can make no"—

"I am Franz Teleky, your deceased master's cousin!" I thundered.

The man's face relaxed into a grin.

"Deceased master?" he said. "Teleky? Ho, ho! Ha, ha! The Teleky funeral, my dear sir, was on the floor below. It has been over for hours now. This is the oculist's office!"

I went back to the university, cursing myself for a fool and bitterly envying my fortunate relatives—to say nothing of the almshouse.

The next day's papers had a full account of the funeral and the reading of the will. "Franz Teleky, a cousin of the deceased," they said, "was the only relative absent."

The will was found to agree with the forecast of its contents, which had been printed and which had been given to the papers (I learned afterward) by the old man's order. About a quarter of the estate was divided equally among the relatives who attended the funeral, and the remainder went to the almshouse.

But then the lawyer read a codicil of recent date and in the handwriting of the deceased man. It ran as follows:

"As I am well acquainted with the grasping character of my relatives I feel certain that not one of them will fail to attend my funeral if he thinks he can make anything thereby. Nevertheless it is my whim to order that if any one of said relatives shall absent himself from said funeral said relative, in consideration of the independence of character manifested in such action, shall become my residuary legatee instead of the almshouse, and he is hereby constituted such residuary legatee, and my executors are hereby directed to give, make over and deliver unto him, the said residuary legatee, all the rest, remainder and residue of my property that may be left after the sums bequeathed to my relatives present at said funeral shall have been paid."—Translated From the Hungarian For the New York Press.

The Reporter.

The average reporter asks, "What do people want?" The great reporter asks, "What shall I make them want?" The public flatters the average reporter with prompt success. "You give us," it says, "what we want." To the great reporter it says in its slowly awakened but innumerably decisive way: "What will this man Kipling want next? Then we want it."

The average reporter, eternally gadding about for availability instead of cultivating ability, cares more about succeeding as a writer than he does about the thing he writes about. That is why he is an average reporter. The power to make men interested in the things they have not learned to like is a power that belongs alone to the disinterested man, the man who is led by some great delight, until the delight has mastered his spirit, given unity to his life, become the habit and the companion of his power, led him out into a large place to be a leader of men.—Gerald Stanley Lee in Atlantic.

CITY BREVITIES.

A Local Budget with the News in a Nut Shell.

City Messenger now has a roll top desk.

The City Hall lawn and flower plots are flourishing.

The cool weather has affected the street car traffic.

Mr. Thomas Earley of Brockton visited relatives in Atlantic on Sunday.

The Democratic caucus will probably be held in advance of the Republican this year.

The reduction in the tax rate seems to please most everybody, especially the taxpayers.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Osgood of Wollaston have removed to Newbury avenue extension, Norfolk Downs.

Chief of Police Ripley will hereafter have his office on the second floor of City Hall, in the Committee room.

Mr. James Richards, Jr., of Barre, Vt., with his family are visiting his brother, Mr. Charles Henry Richards of Granite street.

Principal Assessor Thompson can now be found at his office at City Hall at nearly all hours of the day, and often in the evening.

A concrete sidewalk has been placed in front of the Presbyterian church on Water street. Why don't School street get a concrete sidewalk?

A snake story also comes from Houghs Neck, where it is said a woman eats snakes or something that looks like snakes for a small sum of money.

The old patform and railing on the track side of the new Quincy depot was removed today, and will shortly be replaced with a permanent platform of concrete.

Workmen today are removing the old plank walk in front of the new station at Quincy centre, preparing to lay a wide concrete walk. Some of the workmen are finding pennies and other things of value that has fallen between the cracks.

The interior sheathing of the new Quincy depot is nearly completed, and the structure is approaching completion. From the track side the depot makes a good appearance, but many are criticising the street side, which certainly looks plain enough now.

Another beautiful exhibit of the Library Art Club has arrived at the Thomas Crane Public Library. It is the Rome exhibit, No. 1, and includes photcgraphs of the Castle St. Angelo, St. Peter's and The Sistine Chapel. There are eighty-one views in all, including exteriors, interiors, frescoes, etc. The exhibit will remain until September.

Granite Business Good.

Andrew Johnson, secretary of the Quincy Union, in writing to the Granite Cutters' Journal for August says:

"Business is pretty good here at present, and I think that nearly all the men are employed now, and those who are not can easily find work in other places, as there seems to be a great demand for men all around. The only thing the manufacturers are complaining about now is scarcity of stock, but we hope that this obstacle will soon be overcome. I always had an idea that, after the Quincy Quarry Syndicate started into business, there would never be any scarcity of rough stock but by the looks of things now it is very much the other way.

"Talking about syndicates I might mention we have a new one here; namely, The Granite Tool Manufacturers. A few days after the strike was settled, they put their wise heads together and formed a kind of a combination or trust, or whatever you like to call it; anyway, they raised the price of every article they manufacture. I do not know whether they advanced the wages of their help or not. One firm, however, did not enter into said combination, and it is said that they are getting the largest part of the trade now."

But One Race For Americans.

Windermere, Ont., Aug. 14.—Seven events in the annual regatta of the American Canoe association were decided yesterday on Lake Roseau, and the Canadian members carried off most of the prizes. The American paddlers won but one race, the single paddling double blades, which was won by H. C. Allen of the Trenton Canoe club.

Oklahoma Bank Goes Under.

Kingfisher, Okla., Aug. 14.—A notice posted on the door of the Bank of Kingfisher announces that the bank is in the hands of the territorial bank commissioner. Reported liabilities, $61,000; assets, $51,000. The bank was a private institution.

A Lift For Unemployed Weavers.

Fall River, Mass., Aug. 14.—The Weavers' Protective association Monday night voted unanimously to pay curtailment benefits to weavers who are out of work owing to the shutting down of the mills. About 400 members will be benefited and the disbursements will total $7000.

NEW ENGLAND CROPS.

Favorable Conditions In Northern Districts, but Drought Prevails In Southern States.

Boston, Aug. 14.—The United States department of agriculture, New England section, climate and crop service of the weather bureau, issues the following bulletin for the week ending Aug. 13:

In the northern districts there has been a marked improvement in the conditions of growing crops. The week has been characterized by much cloudiness and rain. The uncut grass has now become almost worthless. Wheat and oats, which are now ripening in northern New England, promise a heavy yield. Corn, though late, is making splendid growth. Late potatoes and beans are affected in a few instances by rust. Grasshoppers are committing serious depredations in some localities.

In the three southern states the prospects are not so satisfactory. The excessive heat of the week and the generally light rainfall have increased the drought. Many are feeding cows from the barns, because of poor pastures. Streams are so low as to greatly restrict the water supply. Corn continues favorable, tubers are making little growth. The tobacco crop is heavy.

Hungarian grass is making a good growth everywhere. Pastures in Maine are excellent; in Massachusetts, medium; in Connecticut, poor. Rowen has made a light growth in both Massachusetts and Connecticut, but the late mown fields of New Hampshire, Vermont and Maine are making a rapid growth.

Fruit continues to drop from trees, but not so extensively as in the two weeks preceding. Grapes are plentiful. Early apples are more abundant than late varieties; of the latter, the Baldwin is the most promising. Blackberries are yielding well in Massachusetts and Vermont. One report from Connecticut states that the pear and peach trees are bending and breaking beneath their weight of fruit.

The onion crop is reported to be good in Vermont. Tomatoes in Massachusetts are ripening rapidly and are of a good quality. The late rains have greatly benefited turnips and celery. Late potatoes continue to do well, except in the dry areas.

On the Diamond.

Chicago, Aug. 14.—Chicago took both games from Boston. Captain Duffy lost the first, muffing an easy fly with men on second and third, and two outs. Willis then gave three bases, and was hit for a long single, five runs resulting.

Gentlemen:—I must say in regard to GRAIN-O that there is nothing better or healthier. We have used it for years. My brother was a great coffee drinker. He was taken sick and the doctor said coffee was the cause of it, and told us to use GRAIN-O. We got a package but did not like it at first, but now would not be without it. My brother has been well ever since we started to use it.

SHELLED AMERICANS.

British and Russian Guns Turned Upon Our Fighters by Mistake.

Wholesale Massacre by the Cossacks In Manchuria.

England Finds a Severe Drain Upon Her Supply of Small Arms Ammunition.

London, Aug. 14.—A Yang Tsun dispatch, dated Aug. 7, giving details of the capture of that place, says: The Russians and French held the left, the British the left center, the Americans the right center and the Japanese the extreme right. The British and Americans advanced on the village at a rapid rate for 5000 yards under a severe shell and rifle fire. The Russians opened and the British-American advance became a race for positions, culminating in a brilliant charge.

The heaviest loss of the day was sustained by the Americans, the Fourteenth infantry having 9 killed, 62 wounded and several missing. The Bengal Lancers unsuccessfully attempted to cut off the Chinese retreat.

Another Yang Tsung special says: Owing to a mistake, British and Russian guns shelled the Fourteenth United States infantry during the night, wounding 10.

Commenting upon this occurrence The Standard says: It is melancholy to learn that the losses of the Americans, who seem to have borne themelves with conspicuous gallantry, were increased by a deplorable error, in consequence of which one of their regiments was pounded by Russian and British cannon. The incident emphasizes the necessity of that close co-operation which is not easily obtainable without a single commander and a general staff.

The Daily Mail's St. Petersburg correspondent declares that the taking of Aigun has sealed the fate of the rising in northeastern Manchuria. He adds: "No prisoners were taken by the Russians. Wholesale massacre was the order of the day, when the battle was over, the Cossacks rode over the field killing all the wounded with the but ends of their muskets."

Once more the press of England remarks upon the ability of the American government to secure news ahead of the rest of the world. "It is," to General Chaffee," says The Daily News, "that we are again indebted for news from the front. Not a single dispatch from Sir Alfred Gaselee has thus far been issued by the war office."

Commenting upon the American reply to the Chinese overtures, The Daily News says: The reply is more conciliatory than that of M. Delcasse, and, in some respects, it is a little ambiguous. Still its substance is the same. It may be observed that the United States government does not seem to separate itself from the allies.

All the small arms ammunition used by the allies will be in accordance with the recommendations of the peace conference, none being explosive or expanding. The drain of China and South Africa upon England's stores is so great that every private firm has been enlisted to help the government supply the demand and to restore the reserve, which is much below par. All the great ammunition firms are working night and day in their efforts to meet the government's wishes.

Weather Interfered With Program.

Concord, N. H., Aug. 14.—New Hampshire received yesterday a long-needed "wet down," and the inclemency of the weather confined the enjoyment of Old Home Week visitors for the most part to old-time "visiting" in hospitable homesteads. The principal celebration, which was to have been held at Nashua, was abandoned, leaving basket picnics at Deerfield and Springfield as the only observances of the day. These were held in halls and were greatly enjoyed in spite of the weather.

Reilly Brothers Under Arrest.

Lynn, Mass., Aug. 14.—Hugh Reilly and his brother, John, who were accused by Hugh Scollans of breaking into his house early Sunday morning and assaulting him with bottles while he was in bed, were arrested Monday and will be arraigned on the charge of breaking and entering and assault with intent to kill. Scollans is now in a dangerous condition. The Reillys were intoxicated when the affair occurred.

Exciting Experiences on Lake Michigan.

Chicago, Aug. 14.—Steamer Darius Cole, carrying 2000 seasick excursionists, due here Sunday night, reached port at daybreak Monday. It had been driven 25 miles out of its course by a storm, and the captain had much trouble in quieting the panic-stricken passengers. Steamer A. B. Taylor, with 20 passengers, battled with the waves for hours, and was in the end compelled to put back to Holland, Mich.

Balloon Ascension Interrupted.

Lynn, Mass., Aug. 14.—The balloon ascension at the Point of Pines' carnival Monday resulted in an accident in mid-air, as the balloon burst when 40 feet from the ground. E. L. Stafford and his wife were making the ascent, and were obliged to cut loose. Stafford was bruised and severely shaken up, but Mrs. Stafford landed safely.

Captain and Crew Safe.

Norfolk, Aug. 14.—Captain Armstrong and crew of 29 of the British steamship Palestro, which was wrecked on Diamond shoal, off Hatteras, Thursday, arrived here last night on a schooner. The ship and cargo are a total loss.

Woolley Meets With Accident.

Chicago, Aug. 14.—John O. Woolley, candidate for president on the Prohibition ticket, is suffering from a painful injury to one of his shoulders, the result of falling down stairs at his home yesterday.

DEATH OF WILLIAM STEINITZ.

He Achieved Fame as the Champion Chess Player of the World.

New York, Aug. 14.—Announcement has just been made of the death Sunday at the Manhattan state hospital of William Steinitz, the chess player. He was born in Prague in 1837. In his early boyhood he was considered one of the best chess players of his native city. In London he gained in 1862 world-wide fame by his successful playing with Andersen and Faulsen. Since then he made chess playing his profession. In 1894 he was defeated by Lasker, and since then his mind began to fail. He is survived by a widow and two children.

WILLIAM STEINITZ.

In 1886 he defeated Anderson again, and in the great tournament at London in 1872 he gained the world's championship. In 1873 in Vienna he won the emperor's prize (2000 guilders). His title as champion of the world he defended with great success against all comers, most satisfactorily in a fight with Zuerkertort in this country, in which Steinitz remained victorious. Then he played a series of games successfully against the Russian, Tschigorin, and defended the championship in 1890 against Gunsberg.

In 1894 he was defeated by Emmanuel Lasker. Since then he seemed to be on the decline and his mind began to fail. He was an inmate of the hospital when he died. He is survived by a widow and two children.

Mineola and Carona Won Big Prizes.

Newport, R. I., Aug. 14.—With the end of the main boom dipping in the crests of the seas, as she rolled across the finish line, August Belmont's 70-foot sloop Mineola finished first in one of the best races ever sailed over the Vineyard sound lightship course of 38 miles. She won the $500 Astor cup for sloops by a margin of 1m. 6s. Lewis C. Ledyard, with the yacht Corona, won the $1000 gold cup offered by John J. Astor for schooners. Rear Commodore Robinson's cup for the 51-foot class was won by the Shark, and the cup offered by Harry Redmond was won by the Isolde.

About Alleged Contributions.

New York, Aug. 14.—Touching a dispatch, in which it was stated that President Kruger is contributing between $2,500,000 and $3,700,000 to the election of Mr. Bryan, and also that Webster Davis had received $125,000 from the same source, as a contribution for the Democratic campaign fund, Charles D. Pierce, consul general and treasurer of the Boer relief fund, and P. L. Wessels, special commissioner of the South African republic, have given out a denial of both statements.

Won't Participate In Commemoration Services.

New Haven, Aug. 14.—The Northern Italian league of this city has voted to take no part in the coming celebration in memory of King Humbert. One of the members gave the following reason for this action: "We are American citizens, and we hold that we should respect our naturalization papers and the great republic to which we look for protection."

Demented Woman Kills Herself.

Millville, Mass., Aug. 14.—Mrs. Etta M. King, aged 42, committed suicide by hanging, at her home here Monday. She placed a skein of yarn about her neck, stood on a stool, and attached the yarn to the transom over a door. She kicked the stool out from under her, and death ensued from strangulation. She had been slightly demented for some time.

End of Bandit Parejita.

Santiago, Aug. 14.—Parejita, a notorious bandit, was killed Monday at Palmas Sonorio, about 20 miles from Santiago. He was shot by a corporal of the rural guard. This outlaw, who was a Cuban mulatto, had been terrorizing the country for several years. He was a thoroughly desperate character, and had committed numerous murders.

Higher Wages For Three Hundred.

Fall River, Mass., Aug. 14.—The 300 employes at the hat factory of Marshall Bros. were granted an increase in wages of 25 percent Monday. The increase is a voluntary one. The factory now has government work on hand which will keep these 300 employes at work for the next six months.

Movements of Boers.

London, Aug. 14.—The Boers have left Machadodorp, according to the Lourenzo Marques correspondent of The Daily Mail, and occupied Watervalonder in force. According to another special dispatch Barberton has been proclaimed the new seat of the Transvaal government.

Rounded Out Life In Prison.

Fall River, Mass., Aug. 14.—John McAdams, who was serving a 15-years' sentence for holding up conductors at the Portsmouth car barn, a year ago, is dead at the Rhode Island prison. He was one of the most desperate men the police hereabouts ever ran across.

Editor Wants Senatorship.

Omaha, Aug. 14.—The World-Herald, Democratic, prints an announcement today from Gilbert M. Hitchcock, publisher and owner of the paper, that he will be a Democratic candidate for the United States senatorship, to succeed John M. Thurston.

MATRON AND MAID.

Mrs. Dewey has a brooch of diamonds set in steel from a Spanish vessel sunk at Manila.

Mrs. John V. L. Pruyn of Albany owns several specimens of the handiwork of Paul Revere as a silversmith.

Miss Helen Gould is much bothered by requests for autographs. She receives sometimes as many as 25 of these requests in a day.

Miss Kate Sanborn persistently remarks that so long as woman wears trailing skirts clutched by the left hand and impeding freedom of motion she isn't fit for the ballot.

Miss Susannah Whitney is the oldest living public school teacher in New York. She began her work in 1836, six years before the board of education was established.

London artists declare that Miss Vanderbilt-Wackerman of New York is the handsomest woman in the world, possessing the most perfect face and figure and that spiritual poise which makes the exceptional model.

Mrs. Phœbe Hearst, who has done so much for the University of California, is, in appearance, rather a fragile woman. She is often worn out by her ceaseless activity and unwillingly delegates her work to assistants.

Mrs. Roosevelt, the wife of Governor Roosevelt, or, as the governor himself calls her, "Teddy's chum," is a quiet, unassuming, modest, housewifely little body who has absolutely no distinguishing characteristics from thousands of good, true American wives and mothers.

Mrs. Henry N. Couden is the only person, outside of members of congress, who is allowed in the speaker's lobby while the house is in session. Her husband, the Rev. Mr. Couden, chaplain of the house, is blind. He is brought to the house daily by Mrs. Couden and remains until she comes for him.

Mrs. Pullman, widow of George M. Pullman, is said to be one of the keenest business women in this country. She was the daughter of J. Y. Sanger of Ottawa, Ills. Mrs. Pullman delights in travel. Her private cars are fitted with all the conveniences of a home and are equipped with a full corps of servants.

Mrs. George Crocker, wife of California's young millionaire, is said to have realized her ambition to become as great a social leader in New York as she was in San Francisco. She is now a member of the inner exclusive set of the metropolis, or, in other words, one of the "Thirty-eight," the total number of the "best set" in New York.

Mrs. W. W. Ennis, Mrs. F. L. Briggs and Mrs. William Haven of Ottumwa, Ia., claim to be descendants of the original Ichabod Crane whom Washington Irving introduced in the "Legend of Sleepy Hollow." Jesse Merwin, grandfather of these women, was the original Ichabod, according to the documentary evidence in their possession.

POULTRY POINTERS.

Dry earth is a good material to scatter under the roosts after cleaning up.

Hemp and sunflower seed are excellent for imparting a glossy appearance to the plumage.

The loss of feathers often proceeds from deficient or unclean dusting arrangements.

At all times and with all kinds of poultry the evening ration should be of grain and liberally fed, the object being to keep the crops full during the night.

A hen that is 2 years old mated with a cockerel not less than 1 year old, if in proper condition, will produce chickens that will grow rapidly from the start.

Early layers depend upon the stock and upon the way they are raised. Pullets from stock long bred for early maturity will lay earlier than those from stock bred chiefly for show purposes.

The evening feed of both ducks and turkeys should be scattered near their roosting places. This is the best way known to induce them to come home every night.—St. Louis Republic.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

Never shut the sunshine out. Sunshine means health.

Never clean an oil painting with soap. Go over it very carefully with a piece of wool saturated with linseed oil.

A small toy broom is more convenient than a large one, or the usual dust brush, for cleaning up the ashes and dust about the range or open grate.

In cleaning a sewing machine with paraffin never allow it to remain on the machine, as it heats the bearings and causes them to wear out.

Burn juniper berries in a room that has been freshly painted or papered. Keep the windows closed for 12 hours, then air thoroughly, and the room is habitable.

A fire extinguisher which may easily be made and kept stored in bottles ready for use consists of three pounds of salt and one and one-half pounds of sal ammoniac dissolved in a gallon of water.

RAILWAY TIES.

There are three different railway gauges in Australia—3 feet 6 inches, 4 feet 8½ inches and 5 feet 3 inches.

The Staten Island road has a special car for hoodlums on Saturday nights. They are locked in and are not allowed to disturb the peace of respectable people.

Among the curiosities in the new Railroad museum at Dresden is a proclamation printed in 1839 warning passengers that trunks cannot be forwarded unless they are brought to the station at least an hour before the departure of the train.

In the western part of British Columbia is a novel railway two miles in length. The rails are made of trees from which the bark has been stripped, and these are bolted together. Upon them runs a car with grooved wheels ten inches wide.

HAILSTONES.

Hens' egg hailstones are out of date henceforth. Illinois reports a storm in which the hailstones were as big as baseballs.—Boston Globe.

An Iowa town reports a rainfall of 12 inches Sunday. The report of hailstones as big as footballs knocked out all competitors in that line early in the season, and rivalry has necessarily turned to other fields.—Omaha Bee.

These are the days when you are likely to hear hailstorm stories. If he says they were as big as watermelons, be sure to ask, before you strike, how old the melons were.—Milwaukee Journal.

THIRD PARTY IDEAS.

Ticket In Opposition of McKinley and Bryan Likely to Be the Outcome.

May Depend Upon Sentiment of Anti-Imperialsits.

The Latter Body May Decide to Leave the Question of Candidates Open.

Indianapolis, Aug. 15.—The National party opened its convention here yesterday. The first day's session was devoted entirely to addresses, no formal action being taken beyond the appointment of a committee of three to confer with the Anti-Imperialists, whose convention opens today. The sentiment among the "independents" was strong against the candidacies of both McKinley and Bryan, and seemed to indicate that a third ticket would be the outcome of their convention, although there is also a desire to combine with the anti-imperialists, if possible, and there is scarcely a possibility of the Anti-Imperialists nominating a ticket.

The convention was called to order by Thomas M. Osborn of Auburn, N. Y. "We have chosen," he said, "to be known temporarily, at least, by the name of the National party. Both the old parties have grown corrupt and selfish. We are asked to compromise, not only in matters of judgment, but in matters of conscience. In place of Lincoln and Sumner and Chase, we have McKinley and Platt and Hanna, and in place of Tilden and Cleveland and Russell, we have Bryan and Altgeld and Tillman. We favor a platform containing anti-imperialism, sound money and civil service reform. With much of the movement of the Anti-Imperialists, or liberty congress, we are in sympathy, but at the same time we want it understood that we are entirely distinct and separate from them."

Louis R. Ehrich of Colorado Springs, Colo., was then presented as temporary chairman of the convention. Mr. Ehrich was frequently applauded.

Referring to the Philippine question, Mr. Ehrich said: "From the very beginning of our national life it has been the hopeful dream of the American people that independence and self-government might come to all nations."

The speaker declared that official correspondence already published proved beyond all doubt that if the United States had not interfered the insurgents would soon have totally extinguished all pretense of Spanish sovereignty over the islands.

Mr. Ehrich continued as follows: "I declare that if need be, I shall fight this Philippine crime so long as life shall last. The crisis presents the alternative between national self-restraint and justice, which shall lift us to a higher plane of civilization, and national lust and oppression, which will soil and corrupt the very soul of the republic. It is the choice between the imperialistic spirit of Napoleon and the republican spirit of Lincoln."

Professor F. P. Nash of Geneva, N. Y., said that four years ago the platform of Bryan was more dangerous and the record of McKinley less objectionable. This year the candidates of both parties are morally ineligible.

John J. Chapman of New York said that Mr. McKinley will be re-elected, "because Bryan is tied up to things which the conscience of the country cannot support.

Mr. Chapman concluded by expressing the hope that the independents and the anti-imperialists would be able to get together in the nomination of a third ticket.

At the conclusion of Mr. Chapman's address the convention adjourned subject to the call of the chairman. It is not probable that they will be called together again until after the anti-imperialists have held their first session.

The convention of the American League of Anti-Imperialists or "Liberty Congress" was called to order at 11 o'clock this morning in Tomlinson hall. The speech of the temporary chairman, Edwin B. Smith of Chicago, leaned toward the tacit endorsement of Bryan, but it is not thought that the convention will go farther than to express strong condemnation of imperialism in every form and degree, leaving the question of candidates open. It seems probable that they will perfect an organization which shall labor for the defeat of Mr McKinley, leaving their followers to vote for Mr. Bryan or to refrain from voting, as they may choose.

For Bryan, but Not Stevenson.

Lincoln, Neb., Aug. 15.—The Independent yesterday telegraphed Chairman Butler of the Populist national committee for a denial of the report that he would take the stump for McKinley. The following telegram was received in reply: Report unqualifiedly false. I am for Bryan and the People's party nominee for vice president. I am in favor of the committee nominating a candidate on Aug. 27. I am not a Democrat. I am not a Republican. I am a Populist. I was not for Stevenson in 1892, and am not for him now."

Hustling For Democrats.

Wheeling, Aug. 15.—Webster Davis, whose change to the Democracy was a feature of the Kansas City convention, opened the Democratic campaign here last night before 1000 people. His speech was largely devoted to an eulogy of the Boers and their struggle for independence, and he claimed that there exists a secret understanding between Great Britain and the United States, which prevented the Boer envoys from accomplishing anything during their recent visit.

A "Partner" For Roosevelt.

Boston, Aug. 15.—The political announcement is made that Curtis Guild, Jr., will accompany Governor Roosevelt upon his stumping tour, and will leave with the vice presidential candidate after the New York convention, to begin a tour through six states.

MOSQUITOES WANT HIM TO RETURN.

Impecunious Prince Clarence May Leave the Asylum Which Grants Him a Pension.

Kingston, Jam., Aug. 15.—Three delegates from the mosquito territory of Nicaragua have arrived here to request the exiled prince, or Chief Clarence, a pensioner of the British government, to return to "his country." They complain of oppression and injustice on the part of the Nicaraguan government. The chief has, it is said, communicated with Lord Salisbury on the subject.

Chief Clarence, the former ruler of the Mosquito territory of Nicaragua, is a colored man, now about 26 years old. About six years ago, as hereditary chief of the Mosquito territory, he ruled more or less over some 10,000 subjects. But he clashed with the Nicaraguans and was eventually compelled to flee from the territory. He sought refuge on the United States cruiser Marblehead and subsequently landed at Kingston in August, 1894. He has since lived there as a pensioner of the British government.

The Mosquito reserve, later the Mosquito territory, is now known as the Nicaraguan department of Zelaya. The territory, previous to 1850, had enjoyed a semi-independent position under the nominal protection of Great Britain (from 1655 to 1850), but by the Clayton-Bulwer treaty (1850) Great Britain resigned all claims to the Mosquito coast, and by the treaty of Managua (1860) ceded the protectorate to Nicaragua. Thus it was that when Chief, or Prince, Clarence was driven out of the territory Great Britain felt compelled to allow him a pension of $22 per day, which has not prevented him from being sued for debt by Jamaican merchants.

The Bare of Red Tape.

London, Aug. 15.—Referring to the lack of an official farewell to the returning Canadians, The Daily Mail says: "They left without a note of music to cheer them on their way, and without a voice to bid them Godspeed, and to testify to the gratitude of the old country. They were bundled through the metropolis in vans, for all the world as if they were so many 'returned empties.' The war office is to blame. Is red tape eternal? Can nothing be done to wither up and destroy forever this bane of our empire?"

Leprosy Statistics From Manila.

Washington, Aug. 15.—A report from Major Edie, president of the board of health in Manila, states that leprosy was introduced in the Philippines in 1633, when the Emperor of Japan sent 150 lepers to the islands. Since the number has increased until the estimate is that there are 30,000 lepers in the archipelago, largely in the Visayas. In a recent inspection of Manila, 100 lepers were found concealed in various houses, while many others escaped to the country.

Knockout In Second Round.

New York, Aug. 15.—At the Seaside Athletic club Tuesday evening, Tim Callahan of Philadelphia scored a victory over Itzy Ryan of Brooklyn in the second round of what was to have been a 25-round contest at catchweights. In the opening round Ryan had the Philadelphian badly puzzled. Callahan soon figured him out, and in the second round landed a right on the jaw that sent Ryan to the floor, putting him completely out.

Remarkable Rate of Mortality.

Washington, Aug. 15. — Assistant Surgeon King, the marine hospital service official at Ponce, in a report just received, says that in Ponce city and surrounding country for the two weeks ending July 28 the enormous death rate has slightly increased. There were 216 deaths, against 70 births, during this same period. An investigation into the remarkable mortality is being conducted by the board of health.

Encouraging News From Famine District.

London, Aug. 15.—The following dispatch has been received from the viceroy of India: "The favorable conditions continue. Rain is falling generally throughout the country. The total number supported in all the famine stricken provinces is still large, owing to the backwardness of the crops, the restricted demands for labor in the fields and high prices. About 6,149,000 persons are receiving relief."

PEACE WITHIN SIX WEEKS.

The Prediction of Chinese Minister at Washington.

China Offering But Little Opposition to Advance on Pekin.

Germany Suspicious of Movements of British at Shanghai.

London, Aug. 15.—The Chinese minister in London, Sir Chih Chen Lofengluh, is quoted as saying that he hoped and believed that peace would be established between China and the powers within the next six weeks.

Yesterday he transmitted to the British foreign office another message from the British minister in Pekin, Sir Claude MacDonald, the contents of which the officials have thus far refused to make public.

The Berlin correspondent of The Daily Chronicle says the German government has ordered two cruisers to Shanghai, and that another is on the way, while a fourth is already there. "The German government," he remarks, "is evidently determined that England shall not have a free hand in that region."

The Standard, after expressing the opinion that there is increasing ground to hope that the ministers will be rescued by the arrival of the allies at Pekin tomorrow (Thursday), if the initial rate of progress is maintained, goes on to deal with what will follow the rescue, and says it may be taken for granted that the policy attributed to the Washington cabinet represents that absolute minimum of the demands of the combined powers.

The only news which takes the advance upon Pekin further than Ho Si Wu comes from Paris. The London morning papers contain nothing to confirm the French report that the allies are within 16 miles of Pekin, although a Chefoo dispatch is printed saying that they were within 27 miles of the goal on Saturday.

Confirming the report of the arrival of the international forces at Ho Si Wu, The Daily Mail's correspondent adds: The Chinese offered little real opposition. The arrival of the allies frustrated a determined attempt to divert the course of the river. The heat is intense, but the health of the troops is good.

A St. Petersburg special says: The latest news from General Linevitch, commanding the Russian troops in the province of Pechi Li, is that the allies, after the capture of Yang Tsun, took one day's rest and then, on Aug. 7, a vanguard was formed consisting of one Siberian regiment, one regiment of Sotnia Cossacks, three battalions of Japanese infantry, one Japanese sapper company and an American mounted battery. In spite of the condition of the road this column proceeded by forced marches about 11½ versts toward Pekin, encountering at Nan Tsai Tung, about 49 miles from the capital, a Chinese detachment, which fought for 1½ hours. Finally the Chinese threw down their arms and fled in a panic. When this news was sent back all the allies started forward in three columns with Cossacks in front and on the flanks.

A Port Arthur special announces that the women and children have been officially notified to leave that place.

STORIES ARE EXAGGERATED.

Washington Regards Report of "Upheaval" of Porto Rico as Unimportant.

Washington, Aug. 15.—At the treasury, no great importance is attached to the news about a popular upheaval in Porto Rico in consequence of the substitution of United States for Porto Rican currency. The stories of the hostile sentiment aroused among the wage-earners by finding that they can get only bullion value for their peso, while they have to pay full face value in money, produce or labor, for the American dollar, are regarded as probable exaggerations, though having a certain basis of fact to sustain them. Secretary Gage had a plan last winter for making the currency transition very gradually and by perfectly natural methods, thus avoiding the ill-effects of a sudden and arbitrary change, but congress saw fit to reject it. Nevertheless the secretary believes that the present disturbance is not likely to be of long duration.

Merchants in Porto Rico, he thinks, are trying to make their more ignorant customers believe that, although the peso has shrunk to half the value of the dollar, the dollar will not buy any more goods now than the peso did formerly, but this sort of illusion cannot be long maintained in the face of business competition. One merchant will discover that he can get more trade by selling a dollar's worth of goods for a dollar than his neighbors by selling only a peso's worth. Another will follow suit. Against such a movement, once started, no opposition can stand up, and the natural laws of trade will soon surmount the difficulties which the cupidity of man has raised up.

Nelson Defeats McEachern.

Cambridge, Mass., Aug. 15.—At Charles River park Tuesday night John E. Nelson finished 1 mile, 536 yards ahead of Archie McEachern in a one hour motor-paced race. The distance covered by each man was: Nelson, 35 miles, 701 yards; McEachern, 34 miles, 165 yards. In the first mile one of the chains on McEachern's motor broke and in the eighth mile Nelson's tire was punctured. Nelson's motor went wrong in the 15th mile and early in the 16th McEachern passed him. Nelson came at a great pace in the 18th and at the end of that mile he led by 40 yards. This he gradually increased each mile until the finish.

Condition Said to Be Very Serious.

Atchison, Kas., Aug. 15. — Former United States Senator John J. Ingalls, who is in Las Vegas, N. M., for his health, is sinking rapidly. A telegram from Mrs. Ingalls received here announced the serious condition of Mr. Ingalls, who has been in the southwest for over a year suffering from throat affection.

Ferrell Disclaims Guilt.

Marysville, O., Aug. 15.—Murderer Ferrell was arraigned here Tuesday. Mayor Hamilton read the warrant charging Ferrell with the murder of Messenger Lane, and the prisoner replied, "Not guilty," and waived examination. He was held without bond to await the action of the grand jury.

Didn't Hear From Pension Office.

Philadelphia, Aug. 15.—Frank Atkinson, 24 years old, a veteran of the Spanish-American war, committed suicide Tuesday by shooting in the head. During the war with Spain, Atkinson served on the cruiser Columbia, until invalided home with his left side paralyzed by an enemy's bullet. He applied for a pension, but as time passed he became despondent, and it is believed that his failure to hear from the government caused him to end his life.

Cubans Bid Adieu to Harvard.

Cambridge, Mass., Aug. 15.—A farewell entertainment by the Cuban teachers who have been attending the Harvard summer school was given to their American friends Tuesday night, previous to their departure for Washington. It was in the form of a concert, and also included the presentation by the Cubans of a loving cup to the university, in token of their appreciation of the favors they have received at the hands of the Americans.

Committed For Safe Keeping.

Randolph, Vt., Aug. 15.—Bail was refused John F. Kimball of Randolph, the alleged bigamist, at Chelsea, on the ground that the respondent was not committed for trial as within the interpretation of the statute, but for safe keeping, and for that reason the court had no jurisdiction to set bail.

They Fought to Kill.

Panama, Aug. 15.—The official report of the government commander in the recent battle at Panama says the rebel casualties were 600 and those of the government 100. The commander intimates that the consuls favored the rebels, and that their intervention was "dangerous and pernicious."

Vessel and Crew Missing.

Sydney, C. B., Aug. 15.—On July 21 last, schooner G. G., Captain Vatcher and five men, sailed from North Sydney with a cargo of coal for Bonavista, N. F. Nothing has been heard of her since, and it is supposed that she is lost.

Heavy Shipment of Gold Bullion.

New York, Aug. 15.—The largest consignment of gold bullion ever exported from this city in a single day was shipped by the steamers Teutonic and St. Paul today. The shipments amounted to a total of $8,162,000.

Verdict In Boxer's Death.

New York, Aug. 15.—The coroner's jury in the case of Ralph Miller, who was killed in a boxing bout with Victor Baldwin about a week ago, rendered a verdict exonerating Baldwin from all blame.

Genesee Pure Food Co., Le Roy, N. Y.:

Dear Sirs:—Some days since a package of your GRAIN-O preparation was left at my office. I took it home and gave it a trial, and I have to say I was very much pleased with it, as a substitute for coffee. We have always used the best Java and Mocha in our family, but I am free to say I like the GRAIN-O as well as the best coffee I ever drank.

Respectfully yours, A. C. JACKSON, M. D.

Good Afternoon.

If the Boston baseball club win at Chicago today they will pass Chicago in the league race.

Quincy makes a good showing in whatever light it is viewed. That she is able to hold her own in valuation is gratifying. The per capita valuation of Quincy is about $800.

Drift of Opinion.

☞Noiseless car wheels have been invented by a Chicagoan. Good! Noiseless noise is what the world is sighing for and the more shapes in which it comes the better.—Bangor Commercial.

☞Does any one believe that if all China's millions were permeated by the spirit of Wu Ting Fang, the Chinese minister at Washington,—if the masses of that empire were brought to the average educational level of the American masses—any such scenes as have lately occurred in China would be possible? Not at all. Hence American endeavor is apt to so apply itself, in the present emergency, as to make it a turning point toward better things for China rather than an occasion for further humiliation and dismemberment.—St. Paul Pioneer Press.

☞The way to stop the nuisance of public swearing is to make every public user of profane and indecent language realize that he is using the language of criminals, that he is an offender; and this can be done generally without the aid of calling in the police. It may be done courteously in the first instance, but it ought to be made very emphatic if there is any disposition on the part of the swearer to persist in his offence, and the man who is tormented by miscellaneous profanity should be willing to take his tormentor into court if necessary. — Hartford Times.

☞It would be a cause of great regret if President McKinley lost votes in consequence of the action taken by him in the canteen matter, action which constitutes one of the most praiseworthy instances of good judgement and independence that can be credited to him. The canteen system in our army permits the regiment or battalion which is at a military post to establish a place at which supplies are sold, consisting of most of those necessary small wares and luxuries which soldiers need, together with tobacco and the lighter alcoholic drinks. The sale of these latter is permitted under close official supervision, making intoxication difficult if not practically impossible. If alcohol did not intoxicate, its use by human beings could hardly be made a subject of moral protest. It might still be physically deleterious but so is the eating of saleratus biscuit and pies of heavy pastery an offence against health which has not yet been made the subject of a great moral crusade. The canteen system takes the sting, as it were, out of alcohol, although its use is tolerated. If the canteen did not exist the soldiers would still have their alcohol, but would obtain it under conditions that would certainly lead to intoxication. The canteen system is defended as highly advantageous by practically every one who has made a disinterested study of it. Its opponents are those who have mistaken the shadow for the substance, and who are more intent on preventing the use of alcoholic liquors than on lessening the terrible curse of drunkenness. The President, in resisting this blind fanaticism, is to be heartily commended.—Boston Herald.

QUINCY TWO TWO.

No. 22 in Valuation in Massachusetts,

As Well as No. 22 in Population and Polls.

Promises to Hold Its Own, and May Gain.

Quincy holds the same rank in the State in valuation as it does in population, although the rich towns step in ahead in valuation. This is possible because the larger cities of Gloucester and Waltham have a smaller valuation than Quincy. The "City of Presidents" stands 22 in population, and 22 in valuation. This among 353 cities and towns.

The summary is for the year 1899, but as Quincy has a valuation of $20,183,836 this year, it has more than held its own.

Quincy,	$19,684,314
Brockton,	27,327,746
Chelsea,	23,405,294
Fall River,	71,642,320

Taunton,	20,518,320
Cambridge,	91,542,795
Milton,	20,683,586
Brookline,	74,530,000
Worcester,	112,336,099
Boston,	1,089,736,252

There is but little danger of Quincy losing its rank in valuation for some years. Medford and Waltham are pressing rather close but at the same time Quincy is liable to pass Milton or Taunton.

In area many of the backwoods towns are much larger, although Quincy covers 16 and 1-2 square miles. Chelsea covers less than 3 square miles, Everett less than 4, Malden less than 5, Somerville and Melrose less than 6, Cambridge less than 7, Lawrence and Medford less than 8, Newburyport and Salem less than 9, Lynn less than 12, Woburn and Lowell less than 13, and Waltham 14. All the other cities have more territory, Taunton with 16.4 being the largest, while Pittsfield and Northampton also have more than Boston. Plymouth with 109.3 square miles is the largest municipality in the State, while Dartmouth, Barnstable and Middleboro have over 70 square miles.

Quincy also ranks 22 in number of polls.

A Mock Wedding.

At the Uno cottage, Fort Point, a mock wedding was held on Friday evening in which Miss Helen Clapp of Weymouth dressed in a white Swiss muslin and wearing a wedding veil caught up with a cluster of diamonds made a very beautiful bride and (Miss) — of Weymouth dressed in a gentleman's dress suit made an ideal bridegroom. Miss Bertha Hayden of Quincy gave the bride away. She was dressed in white over black and with her powdered hair made a charming old lady. Miss Alice Clapp, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and was dressed in yellow and carried a large bunch of golden rod. The ceremony was performed by Miss Annie Smith of Weymouth Heights. The wedding march was played by Mr. Hawes of Braintree and the reception was held at the cottage and after Mr. and Mrs. —— had departed on their wedding tour in a row boat, refreshments were served and dancing enjoyed by the guests.

Machine Voting.

On the 28th of August, in the city of Northampton, in a local election the voting will be done by machine. Legislation to this end was enacted by the City Council at a meeting held on Monday evening, Aug. 6th. The machine to be used is the Bardwell Votometer, a recent invention, which, in the opinion of Professor Thurston of Cornell University, Philip T. Dodge, President of the Mergenthaler Linotype Co., and H. De B. Parsons Engineer of the New York Subway Railway, solves the problem of mechanical voting. The count is made on dials, fitted to count as high as ten thousand, on the back of the machine, so that immediately upon the closing of the polls the result of the vote is ready for declaration.

THE CIVIL SERVICE.

The Politician Says it is a Political Machine.

The Politician, the new Boston weekly, waxes hot over the Civil Service examiners. The Quincy board is composed of Christopher A. Spear, Harry L. Rice and Luther S. Anderson. One is apt to smile at the criticism of The Politician if applied to this board:

"The Civil Reformers, whose excuse for coming into existence was to injure the Republican party and to oppose all political organizations, are now showing the right color of their skin by organizing a political machine in all the cities of the Commonwealth.

"They have done this under the guise of appointing local examiners. In Boston they have a large committee, and in each of the cities of the Commonwealth they have one composed of three or more members.

"By rule of the Civil Service Commission it has appointed these men. Their duty is to select those applicants for office only who take the oath of allegiance to the Massachusetts Mugwump-Anti-Imperialistic Association. No one else need apply. This has become so well known, locally, in the cities of the Commonwealth that hardly anyone applies for examination. In fact, however, in order to avoid such things as examinations these local boards decline to hold any, and they appoint those persons who are willing to get out and hustle for the election of such senators and representatives as will vote to continue the Civil Service Commission farce at the State House.

"Let no one be deceived as to what these local boards are doing.

"Investigate this matter for yourself. If you do so you will find a worse condition of affairs in regard to the scheming to get their friends in office than has ever been charged against Tammany Hall ever. In fact it is probable that the Tammany chiefs would blush with shame if such methods were adopted as are used by the Civil Service Reformers in Massachusetts."

However, we quite agree with the Politician that Civil Service Reformers are often hypocrites.

The Foxboro Reporter gives Fred H. Williams a good recommendation for Congress in the Eleventh district: "At the time of the Centennial anniversary of the incorporation of the town of Foxboro (1878), he delivered the address of welcome, and has frequently been heard here on social and other occasions. While residing here he took an active interest in public affairs and there was never any question as to what his views were, nor any hesitation on his part to express them. As a result he makes strong friends, and oftentimes strong enemies, but all who know him even his enemies, admit his ability, integrity, fearlessness and fighting qualities."

The Detroit Journal has discovered why the Mugwumps don't succeed. It says: "At this moment efforts are being put forth to effect a national organization of Mugwumps. But there intervened obstacles. Notably there was the sectional obstacle. The Chicago mugwumps maintained that politics are rotten, while the Boston mugwumps strenuously declared that politics is rotten. These differences are radical and seemingly irreconcilable."

Found Probable Cause.

Robert C. Edwards and Mary Daley of Boston were arraigned in the Quincy court this morning for adultery. Both plead not guilty. Mrs. Edwards testified she was married in City Hall Boston, in 1896. Mr. Edwards was her second husband. Had child by first husband. Had lived separately from Mr. Edwards off and on. Did not know whether he was ever married before. Mrs. Daley also has husband.

Boarding mistress in Boston testified to the Edwards living together as man and wife at her house. Edwards had said she was his wife. Mr. Edwards came to Quincy about three weeks ago and the Daley woman last week and lived together at 126 Washington street. Edwards denied marriage to Mrs. Edwards.

The court found probable cause to hold both defendants the man in $500 sureties and the woman in $300.

Wills Filed.

These wills have been filed in the Norfolk registry at Dedham. John M. B. Churchill of Milton, John O'Sullivan of Randolph, Charlotte H. L. Coues of Brookline and Harriet E. Winnett of Randolph. Letters of administration are petitioned for on the estates of Eugene Sullivan of Cohasset, Edwin P. Worster of Weymouth, Walter F. Madan of Sharon, Patrick Cox of Hyde Park, Michael F. Smith of Stoughton, and Susan M. Dinsmore of Braintree.

—A polite man is one who listens with interest to things he knows all about when they are told him by a person who knows nothing about them.

—The city of Beverly reports a reduction of over $100,000 in valuation this year, but no change in tax rate. The valuation is $16,093,250 and the tax rate $16.

People who go to the beach bathing seem to think there children have a perfect right to get in the boats, pull up sails or do anything they wish; but the people who own boats are getting tired of it and say there will be something else done except inviting them to get out.

If the corn stalks in the prospering garden belonging to Thomas Gurney grow any higher, the tales of Jack in the Beanstalk will be proved to be not only possible but probable. The corn is now almost six feet in some places and still growing.

The annex to the store of John Evans of Copeland street, where is kept most everything from a thimble to an elephant; a sawhorse to a carryall; owing to the heavy weight of new shingles placed on the roof or some other good reason, settled some four feet on Monday evening.

One of the summer visitors, while walking in Atlantic one evening last week, noticed with surprise the many houses which were closed. "It seems strange to me," she said, "why the residents hurry away from Atlantic during the most delightful season of the year. They cannot find a prettier place anywhere." Why is it a stranger must interpret the beauties of a suburb of Quincy?

Once more, says the Herald, the owners of the H. O. boats have given substantial proof that they hold the best interest of yachting close at heart, and only ask for an even chance in the races. At their suggestion, the series at Annisquam this week will be sailed with time allowance. The H. O. boats will allow the association 25-footers for 1 foot 6 inches of extra water line length. This will put all the craft on a fair basis.

WHY FURNITURE PRICES ARE LOWER HERE.

It's an easy question to answer, because facts prove it so. We buy our Furniture from the largest factories in the West, at the lowest market prices. Our expenses are about one-quarter as much as those of Boston Stores. Our customers do not help pay for expensive advertisements, high rents, enormous taxes and costly delivery. These few facts you should weigh well in your mind.

You can buy Furniture, Carpetings, Ranges, and Pianos, lower here than in any store in New England. We are saving money for thousands of families in Quincy and the surburban towns, we can do the same for you.

It is estimated that 1,500 attended the annual sing of the Old Stoughton Musical society at Highland park on Tuesday. The programme as announced was carried out.

Henry H. Faxon has heard so many stories about the Lalapaloosa club that he is making investigation. He is not so much interested in the report that it is a semi-political club as in the refreshments served at the Houghs Neck outing.

Alex. Falconer, of the firm of Swingle & Falconer, granite dealers at South Quincy, has returned from a very pleasant trip across the water. He visited many old friends and acquaintances in France, England and Scotland; spent ten or more days at the Paris Exposition; and, in fact, had a grand good time in crossing the ocean and while in Europe.

—The annual crop of mushrooms in France is valued at $2,000,000 and it is said that there are sixty wholesale firms in Paris dealing exclusively in them. In the department of the Seine it appears, there are some three thousand caves in which mushrooms are grown, and abont three hundred persons are employed in their culture, and rarely leave the caves.

The most curious use to which paper is to be put is that suggested by the blotting paper towel. It is a new style of bath towel, consisting of a full suit of heavy blotting paper. A person, upon stepping out of his morning bath, has only to array himself in one of these suits, and in a second he will be dry.

Corkscrew Seed.

There are some seeds which "literally corkscrew themselves into the ground." The most remarkable instance is perhaps that of the Spina pennata, a beautiful south European grass. The actual seed is small, with a sharp point and stiff short hairs pointing backward. The top end of the seed is produced into a fine, twisted, corkscrewlike rod, which is followed by a plain cylindrical portion, ending in a long, delicate feather, the whole being more than a foot in length. Owing to this feather the seed falls to the earth point downward and sticks in the ground.

But even if the seed should settle on its side, damp, by acting on the hairs attached to it, causes it to rise up till its point is downward. If a shower comes on or dew falls, the spiral unwinds, elongating itself upward. Being covered, like the seed, with backward pointing hairs, it usually presses against some blade of grass or other obstacle, with the result that the seed is pressed into the ground.

On the spiral becoming dry again, it curls up, and the seed is not drawn out of the ground owing to its backward pointing hairs, but the spiral and the feather are easily drawn down. On the return of damp the spiral again unwinds and, acting as before, drives the seed still farther down until at last it is quite buried.

How Br'er Rabbit Beat Br'er Fox.

One day Br'er Fox was hungry. As he wandered about the woods he saw a squirrel upon the branch of a tall tree. "Hello, Br'er Squirrel!" he said. "Hello, Br'er Fox!" replied the squirrel.

Then said Brer Fox: "I once had a brother who could jump from limb to limb." "So can I," replied Br'er Squirrel. "Let me see you," said the fox. So the squirrel jumped from limb to limb.

"Br'er Squirrel, I have a brother who can jump from tree to tree." "I can too." So Br'er Squirrel jumped from tree to tree.

"Br'er Squirrel, I had a brother who could jump from the top of a tall tree right into my arms." "I can too." And he did. Br'er Fox ate him all up.

Br'er Rabbit was lying in his bed near by and saw all that was done. "Br'er Fox," said he, "your a mighty smart man, but I had a brother who could do something you cannot do."

"What was it?" said Br'er Fox.

"My brother could let anybody tie a large rock around his neck and jump off this bridge into the water and swim out." "So can I," said the fox. Then Br'er Rabbit fixed the rock and the string, and Br'er Fox jumped, but he has not been heard of since.—American Folk Lore.

A Couple of Shocks.

"Where have you been, Mr Rocky?" demanded the boss.

"Oh, sir," replied Rocky mendaciously, "my landlady is a most excellent woman, and she has been so ill that I had to stay at home to nurse her."

This excuse went, and the boss turned away. The following day Rocky felt like he had sand in his head, and a headache as long as a rainy Sunday in the country developed. He staid at home, sending the excuse that his landlady was dead and he had to attend the funeral. Later in the day a woman entered the bookstore and inquired for Mr. Rocky.

"The reason I came here," she explained, "is because I am his landlady, and not having seen him for a week I became uneasy and called to inquire about him."

"His landlady!" gasped the boss. "Why, woman, he's attending your funeral this very day and has been nursing you for a week."

It was a shock to the poor woman to find she was dead, but a shock of another sort struck Rocky when he came back to work. It was his funeral that time.—Louisville Times.

Distinctions In Being Kicked.

The Arabs, clever horsemen as they are, are quite as liable to accident as English grooms. But the Arab likes to be kicked by a thoroughbred horse and cannot endure to be put to any pain by an animal whose pedigree is at all defective. An English surgeon had been setting the broken leg of an Arab who complained more of the accident that had befallen him than was thought becoming in one of his tribe. This the surgeon remarked to him, and his answer was truly characteristic. "Do you think, doctor, I should have uttered a word of complaint if my own high bred colt in a playful kick had broken both my legs? But to have a bone broken by a brute of a jackass is too bad, and I will complain!"

Parried the Thrust.

A lady had in her employ an excellent girl who had one fault. Her face was always in a smudge. Her mistress tried, without offending, to tell her to wash her face and at last resorted to strategy.

"Do you know, Bridget," she remarked in a confidential manner, "it is said that if you wash the face every day in hot, soapy water it will make you beautiful?"

"Will it?" said Bridget. "Sure, it's a wonder ye niver tried it, ma'am!" - Our Dumb Animals.

Got the Change.

"Why were you tempted to steal this man's purse?"

"Because my doctor recommended me to take a little change."

The combined catch of cod by all the fisheries of the world is estimated at 500,000,000 pounds annually, most of which is exported to tropical countries after having been hard dried.

Paymasters and commissariat officials of the German army receive special training in examining the quality of food supplied to the army.

MEN OF MARK.

Henri Rochefort, editor of L'Intransigeant, has fought more than 200 duels.

Senator Hoar will be 75 when his term in the United States senate expires in 1901.

Lord Rosebery recently said that when wealth reached a certain point it ceased to give pleasure.

Dr. Couden, the blind chaplain of the United States house of representatives, shaves himself. He has six razors.

Richard Mansfield is about 42 years old. He was employed in a Boston dry goods store before he went on the stage.

Representative Mercer of Nebraska is a devotee to euchre and very seldom misses playing a game every evening of his life.

The United States consul at Vladivostok, Russia, is Richard T. Greener of New York city, a negro and a graduate of Harvard.

Congressman Champ Clark of Missouri is authority for the announcement that he will be a candidate for the senate to succeed Senator Vest.

Senator Cockrell is exceedingly fond of apples and is never so happy as when he can secure one of the juicy pippins for which his state is famous.

Harry N. Pillsbury, the chess champion, says that he learned the game with great difficulty, and for some time any great amount of playing always resulted in severe headaches.

Congressman Cousins is one of Iowa's most famous fishermen. He spends every summer by a lake abounding in black bass and goes fishing twice a day—at sunrise and at sunset.

Senator Vest is very nearsighted, but frequently forgets to bring his glasses to the senate chamber, and consequently in writing sits curled around his desk with his nose almost touching the paper.

Owing to his multitudinous agencies in all parts of the world Lord Rothschild knows of the most important events often before any government and even before the most enterprising newspapers.

The Duke of Newcastle, one of England's richest peers, owns a London newspaper and writes for it continually. He is a stanch believer in the press and in journalistic circles is a great favorite.

Governor Stanley of Kansas is an expert penman and does most of his own letter writing. He uses either hand with equal ease, and his signature is identical whether the pen is held in his left hand or his right.

Captain Brinkley, the leading authority on all things Japanese, has sustained a heavy loss through fire. The whole of his library, his works of art and manuscripts of more than 20 years' collection have been entirely destroyed.

James Oliver, who is probably the richest man in Indiana, laid the foundation of his fortune by saving from his salary of 50 cents a week as a farmer's "chore boy" enough to buy a house and lot on the installment plan and then selling it at a profit.

BEE BUZZES.

To obtain the greatest amount of honey swarming must be controlled.

All danger of bees absconding may be prevented by clipping the queen's wings.

Desirable results in honey production cannot be obtained by allowing too much increase.

Dividing may be continued safely as long as the honey flow lasts, and if afterward more increase is desired it may be secured by feeding.

Much success is obtained in securing straight combs by the use of foundations, either by using full sheets or even starters of the same.

The first thing necessary after hiving a swarm of bees in a frame hive is to adjust the frames to their proper places. One and a half inches is the proper distance.

Combs in which bees have died should be put in a hive of bees as they are, and the bees will clean them up readily and thoroughly in a short time. Empty combs are too valuable to be thrown away.

The wiring of frames and the imbedding of the foundation undoubtedly make the most substantial job. The wire running through the base of the comb does it no perceptible injury, while such frames will stand shipment better than otherwise.—St. Louis Republic.

THE WRITERS.

The late R. D. Blackmore, author of "Lorna Doone," was a famous chess player, and his name appeared in the list of champions in many a match.

Frank L. Stanton, the newspaper poet, began earning his living when most boys begin going to school by serving as office boy for Joel Chandler Harris on the Savannah News.

William Dean Howells, the novelist, does all his own writing. He has little faith in the typewriter at first hand, but all his manuscript is carefully copied out by one of these machines before it goes to the publisher. The original manuscript Mr. Howells keeps himself.

The late Stephen Crane was never remarkable for his attention to textbooks and lectures at Lafayette college. On the contrary, the Center square of Easton was his favorite post. He would stand there for hours alone and idle except for the continuous smoking of cigarettes.

POPULAR SCIENCE.

Winter suspends the activity of certain microbes, but does not destroy their life.

All material substances have weight. Even hydrogen, the lightest known gas, has weight.

The number of waves required to produce the sensation of red as they break upon the eye must be 39,000 in an inch and 447,000,000,000,000 in a second.

If the whole envelope of air were the same in character, it would reach only about five miles above the earth; but, as it becomes rarefied as we ascend, it probably extends to a height of 80 or 90 miles.

POLITICAL QUIPS.

The chief difference between bossism and peerless leadership is that the boss always belongs to the other party.—Detroit News.

In politics we often find the round peg crawling out of the square hole, while the square peg is left in the hole simply through being square.—Detroit Journal.

With nine presidential tickets in the field the average voter ought to be able to pick out something that will harmonize with his complexion.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

THROUGH A GLASS.

IVORY SOAP is a skin soap. On one square inch of your hand there are 2,800 pores. On the whole body you have 2,381,284 of these little cavities to look after. Every one of these openings must be kept clear, or the impurities of the body can not pass out. Now, to cleanse the pores, you need a fine, pure soap. Scientists who speak not from opinion, but from scientific analyses, urge the use of Ivory Soap. 99 44/100 per cent. pure.

Drop in Prices.

Monday Mr. John Evans added a few new shingles to the roof of his store house on Copeland street, put in another feather bed, and hung up a sign "A Great Drop in Prices." In the night there was a hard rain, and sure enough there was a "drop." Beneath the building there is a small brook, and it must have undermined the support of the building which were posts, for the building swayed to the back and dropped five or six feet. It is a bad wreck—will probably be impossible to raise it. The building was originally used as a blacksmith shop.

The Snip Party.

The Snip party given by the ladies at the Wollaston Yacht club house Tuesday evening was very largely attended. The enjoyment opened with some choice selections on the graphaphone operated by Mr. Frank Taylor. Then came the snipping and quel playing, after which dancing was enjoyed. The remainder of the evening ice cream was on sale. All went home thinking the admission, seven cents, was well invested.

Judge Soule Dead.

Judge Otis W. Soule of Abington, the clerk of the Second Plymouth district court at Hingham, died Tuesday morning at the Cushing House, Hingham. He was for many years deputy collector of internal revenue, then a trial justice, and has been clerk of court for several years. He was president of the Abington Savings Bank, and prominent in Masonic circles.

TODAY'S COURT.

John Hill for being drunk at West Quincy, was fined $5.

Edward F. Smith for larceny of shoes at Quincy, plead guilty. He came from Malden and pay day had not come round, and he said he was hard pressed. Continued until Thursday.

Robert C. Edwards and Mrs. Mary Daley of Boston were arraigned for adultery at Quincy. The court found probable cause of guilt and held Edwards in $500 and Mrs. Daley in $300 for the grand jury.

Suspected as an Anarchist.

Rome, Aug. 15.—At Tufo, province of Avellino, yesterday, a man suspected to have been the companion of Brescl, the assassin of King Humbert of Italy, was arrested. He was dressed as a priest, but was found in possession of a false passport. Letters in French and English were on his person.

English Golfer Beaten.

Poland Springs, Me., Aug. 15.—Harry Vardon fell before the best ball of Fenn and Findlay, the professionals, on the Poland Springs links, Tuesday, he being 2 down at the 35th hole. In the stroke competition for 36 holes, Vardon's score was 151, and that of best ball, 150.

Dennysville, Me., comes forward with an unique claim to distinction. It says that the handsome pine tree of the state seal was drawn from life, and that the tree that served as the artist's model is still standing in Dennysville. The tree, as well as the seal, is still vigorous and well shaped.

An Unusual Occurrence.

Boston, Aug. 15.—The salute of minute guns, 21 in all, the highest in number ever given in this country, and used as a national salute or in honor of the president, was fired from the navy yard battery at noon Tuesday in memory of King Humbert. The salute was requested by leading Italian citizens, and their wish was immediately acceded to by Rear Admiral Sampson, with permission from Washington.

Thinks Newspapers Are Prejudiced.

Biddeford, Me., Aug. 15.—Charles S. Hamilton, counsel for George Champion, charged with the West Newfields murders, will petition for a change of venue, to have the latter tried in Androscoggin county instead of York. Mr. Hamilton believes that it would be impossible to secure a fair trial in this county owing to the newspaper stories, which, he declares, have all been against Champion.

Many Towns Celebrated.

Concord, N. H., Aug. 15.—Glimpses of blue sky Tuesday and plenty of warm sunshine a little later made perfect the pleasure of thousands of old home week celebrants in different parts of the state. A score of towns chose Tuesday as their old home day and carried out successfully programs ranging from the simple to the elaborate.

Tried to Kill Himself.

Hartford, Aug. 15.—While seated at the dinner table with his wife and daughter Tuesday, Reynold Nitsche, without any warning, took from his pocket a 32-caliber revolver, turned the weapon towards his head and fired three times. Only one of the bullets took effect, and Nitsche will probably recover.

Strike Ordered In Hat Shop.

New York, Aug. 15.—A strike has been ordered in the hat factory of Eugene V. Connett & Co. at Orange, N. J., for the purpose of making the factory a "fair" instead of an "open" shop, as it is now. A "fair" shop is one in which only union men are employed. The Connett factory employs over 300 men.

To Open New Jersey Campaign.

New York, Aug. 15.—Senator Hanna has decided to open the Republican campaign in New Jersey himself. He will make a stump speech at Asbury Park next Tuesday. Curtis Guild, Jr., of Boston, who seconded the nomination of Roosevelt at Philadelphia, and others will also speak.

Senator Mason With McKinley.

Seattle, Aug. 15.—Senator W. E. Mason of Illinois, who has arrived here from Alaska, has announced his intention to support President McKinley, and in two weeks will begin campaigning.

WILL ACT AS FRIEND.

Japan's Reply to China Almost Identical With That of United States.

Another Message From Conger, but Not Made Public.

No Further News From Chaffee Concerning Advance of the Allies.

Washington, Aug. 15.—There is reason to believe that Japan has not only placed herself in unison with this government, but has also shown the purpose of carrying out the assurances of the Emperor of Japan to the Emperor of China, made about the time President McKinley answered the imperial edict. In the Japanese emperor's answer, the following significant language was employed:

"Our government, as it is well known to your majesty, entertains a feeling of cordial friendship for your country, so that should circumstances make it necessary, Japan will not decline to offer her good offices based on the feeling of mutual friendship. If your majesty's government, therefore, at once suppresses the insurrection and actually rescues the foreign representatives, Japan will be prepared to use her influence in the eventual negotiations between your country and the foreign countries, with a view to conserving the interests of your empire."

It will be observed that Japan, in this communication, suggested that her "good offices" and her friendly influence would be employed as between China and the foreign powers, "if the insurrection was suppressed and the foreign representatives were rescued."

At the close of the official day Tuesday at the state department the following official announcement was bulletined:

"The department of state announces that a message from Minister Conger has been received, but of uncertain date and not in reply to the telegram sent to him on Aug. 8. It will not be made public."

This came at the conclusion of a period of intense expectancy and yet one devoid of any actual developments, save in the foregoing meager announcement. Minister Conger's message was received in Washington shortly before noon, coming first to the Chinese legation by the usual route through Chinese officials. It was in the American cipher, without date and signed with the minister's name. It was at once transmitted to the state department and conferences began between Acting Secretary Adee and Secretary Root. Throughout the afternoon, however, the state department maintained an unaccountable reticence concerning the subject, declining to admit that the message was in hand.

The suspense was cleared up at 4 o'clock by the above announcement. It was stated authoritatively that while the message was of a confidential character, and for that reason could not and would not be given out, yet as a means of allaying possible misinterpretation it could be said that the dispatch showed neither a better condition nor a worse condition on the part of the legationers at Pekin. It did not indicate whether Minister Conger has, or has not, received any messages from this government.

Nothing was contained in the message which will cause any change in the instructions to General Chaffee.

Throughout the day word was anxiously awaited from General Chaffee as to the development of the military situation near Pekin, but not a word came, nor did Admiral Remey send anything on the situation. The last heard from General Chaffee he was at Ho Si Wu, and according to all calculations he must now be very near Pekin, unless events have occurred to delay the advance. The officials are taking into account that an advance even up to Pekin leaves much to be accomplished in a military way.

Although the situation admits of the prospect of an assault upon Pekin, yet government officials are decidedly more hopeful that a solution of the Chinese problem will be found without recourse to such heroic measures. The improved feeling is based largely on the belief that China, realizing that her sacred capital is about to be besieged by the armies of the world, will yield everything, and that the legationers will be delivered on the terms of the allies.

The attitude of the United States concerning the landing of British troops at Shanghai has been made known to the foreign governments through their representatives here. This has had the effect of practically eliminating the United States from the question. Neither the French nor the German government is disposed to accept calmly the landing of British troops, and it is understood that strong representations, both from France and Germany, are now being made at London. As summed up by a well informed diplomat, these representations in effect are that for every British marine landed at Shanghai, France and Germany also would land a marine. It is felt, moreover, that the issue involved relates not only to Shanghai, but virtually to the centre of the entire Yang Tse Kiang valley, known as the paradise of China.

Foreign governments have manifested a desire also to learn the views of the United States concerning the instructions of Russia to her minister at Pekin, M. De Giers. In response to inquiries here, it has been made known that this government looks upon the course of Russia as substantially the same as that of the United States, and that the powers are therefore acting in substantial unanimity.

Vessels Seriously Interfered With.

Marseilles, Aug. 15.—The strike of the firemen of the Trans-Atlantic Steamship company, which began here Sunday morning, is spreading. Some 3000 civilian travelers are awaiting the departure of various vessels, as well as 600 officers and troops of the China expeditionary force.

DIED IN HIS CAMP.

Collis P. Huntington, Famous Railroad Man and Multi-Millionaire.

Utica, N. Y., Aug. 15.—Collis P. Huntington, president of the Southern Pacific Railroad company, died early Tuesday morning at Pine Knot Lodge, his luxurious camp in the Adirondacks, near Racquete lake.

COLLIS P. HUNTINGTON.

Mr. Huntington retired Monday evening at 11 o'clock, and so far as can be ascertained slept soundly. No disturbance was heard from his room until a short time before his death. Moans proceeding from his room aroused the members of the household, and they immediately went to his assistance. In about 10 minutes he was dead. His death was attributed to heart disease.

Collis Potter Huntington was born Oct. 22, 1821, in the little town of Harwinton, Conn. He was one of nine children, a Puritan, and though his parents were poor they were of distinguished stock.

In 1844 Mr. Huntington married Miss Elizabeth T. Stoddard of Litchfield, Conn. She accompanied him to California and returned with him to New York in 1864. They occupied then a house at 65 Park avenue, and there in 1869 he adopted as his daughter Clara Huntington, who in 1889 married Prince Hatzfeldt.

Mrs. Huntington died in 1883, and on July 12 of the following year Mr. Huntington married Mrs. A. D. Worsham, a wealthy widow. The ceremony was performed at her home by Henry Ward Beecher. They occupied the Park avenue house until 1892, when Mr. Huntington's magnificent home in Fifth avenue was completed.

This is one of the most interesting mansions in New York. It represents an outlay of $2,500,000.

Mr. Huntington had, besides a $500,000 home in San Francisco, a country place at Throggs Neck, Westchester county, and in Woodlawn cemetery he had erected a $250,000 mausoleum.

Mr. Huntington's wealth is variously estimated at from $20,000,000 to $40,000,000.

Jury Charged In Powers Case.

Georgetown, Ky., Aug. 15.—The final instructions were read to the jury by Judge Cantrill last evening in the Powers trial and Judge Sims made the opening argument to the jury for the defense. Defendant Powers is in such a nervous and critical condition that his attorneys filed a physician's affidavit that he was unable to attend a night session of the court, but Judge Cantrill said a cot could be provided for him and he could lie down in the courtroom during the speeches. Powers was able to sit up last night, however. The court instructed the jury that an accessory before the fact may be convicted, although the person who committed the act is never identified, apprehended or tried.

Experiments With Bubonic Plague.

Boston, Aug. 15.—Dr. H. W. Hill, bacteriologist, has completed an examination of two cultures from the University of California and which were taken from a Chinaman who was supposed to have the bubonic plague. Dr. Hill developed the cultures and inoculated a white rat. The rat died in three days. Afterwards the bacilli were taken from the tissue and the results obtained were typical of bubonic plague. Dr. Hill gives as his opinion that the bacilli are those of bubonic plague.

Mace Money of All Nations.

London, Aug. 15.—A band of international coiners has been discovered at Jarak, in Slavonia. Six members have been arrested. Paper and silver currency of the United States, Italy and Germany was discovered in their possession. The method of the band was to smuggle this in plaster of paris statuettes.

From Prosperity to Disgrace.

St. John, Aug. 15.—F. S. Whittaker, who a month ago was one of the most respected business men of St. John, has pleaded guilty on 13 counts of uttering forged paper and was sentenced to serve five years in the penitentiary. Losses in speculations impoverished him and he sought relief from financial stringency by forgery. He raised $50,000 in this way.

Fitzsimmons and Sharkey Matched.

New York, Aug. 15.—Thomas Sharkey and Robert Fitzsimmons met Tuesday and signed articles to meet in a 25-round bout before the Seaside Athletic club, at Coney Island, on Aug. 24, for a purse of $25,000. It was agreed that the winner should receive 75 percent of the purse, and the loser 25 percent. Charley White will referee the battle.

Big Shipbuilding Contract.

Cleveland, Aug. 15.—J. C. Gilchrist has contracted with the American Shipbuilding company for the construction of five steel steamers. Each will have a capacity of 5000 gross tons, and will cost $235,000, making the total of the contract more than $1,000,000.

Weather Conditions and Forecast.

The temperature changes will be unimportant. On the coast the winds will be light to fresh southwesterly.

JINGLES AND JESTS.

Chorus of Gentlemen.

[Of course no gentleman wears the same collar two days running.—Gem.]

We trace our devious ways through life by many varied courses,
For some of us exist by cards and some by means of horses,
And some of us have figured in illustrious di vorces
And never pay our bills; but, then,
Though tradesmen grow importunate, though vulgar duns be dunning,
Though Scotland Yard be watching us with all its wicked cunning,
We'd never dream of putting on a collar two days running;
All of us are gentlemen.

The pious prudes may prate to us of virtue and of morals,
As if we were mere infants who were chewing at our corals,
And talk about the wickedness of matrimonial quarrels,
Gambling, debts and such; but when
You look into their linen you will find that, while they're shunning,
According to their own accounts, all kinds of crime and cunning,
They wear their collars regularly two or three days running;
None of them are gentlemen. —Punch.

Destiny.

"But," I faltered, "is there no way in which I can make myself famous?"

The hag peered again into my palm this time more intently.

"No," she croaked, "but you can make your village famous."

From this I shrewdly gathered that I was destined to be a great brewer rather than a great poet.

Of course I was much mortified, being of an artistic temperament.—Detroit Journal.

A Gentleman of Color.

"You look wretched," remarked the guinea fowl.

"I am wretched," replied the fat pullet. "I didn't dare sleep last night."

"Was it on account of anything the owl told you when you went to him to have your fortune told yesterday evening?"

"Yes. He told me a dark man would soon cross my path and speedily win me."—Philadelphia Press.

The Man Behind the Button.

We have heard the thrilling story
Of the man behind the gun;
We've applauded him and marveled
At the wonders he has done,
But the fearless hero's glory
Is forgotten—put away—
And the man behind the button
Is in evidence today.

Let us candidly acknowledge
The enormous debt we owe
To that patient, plodding toiler,
The good man behind the hoe:
Let us give due praise and credit
To the man behind the plow,
But the man behind the button
Comes to save the nation now.

Oh, the hero's help is needed
When the clouds of war descend!
And upon the sturdy toiler
Weighty matters still depend,
But how long, O friend and brother,
Could our institutions stand
If the man behind the button
Were not rampant in the land?
—Chicago Times-Herald.

Failed to Keep His Word.

"I don't believe Dick Ramage ever had any religious training."

"What makes you think so?"

"Why, he solemnly promised to come out to the links on Sunday and didn't keep his word."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Of Personal Climate.

"Stickney Jones never seems to want any but cold commercial relations with me."

"Is that so? Well, I owe him money and he keeps our commercial relations hot."—Indianapolis Journal.

Not a Candidate.

I'm glad I ain't a candidate
To worry day by day
A-watchin voters, small an great,
Fur fear they'll git away
An shakin hands with every one
You're happenin to meet
An never havin any fun
Excep' to talk an eat!

When 'Mandy scolds me now an then,
I murmut: "What's the use?
'Taint much compared to what those men
Receive in round abuse."
If they should print such things of me
Before the public eye,
I'd git so mad I couldn't see
An go somewhere an die!

I love my country strong an true,
But I am blest if I
Could ever see a campaign through,
No matter how I'd try,
An when their eager work I scan
I say, an mean it straight,
It takes a mighty nervy man
To be a candidate!
—Washington Star.

Benefits of the Season.

"Hot weather is a great help after all."

"What do you mean?"

"When it is hot we feel justified in putting off unpleasant work till it grows cooler."—Chicago Record.

You Bet!

They used to sing some time ago
A rather plaintive song,
"Man wants but little here below,
Nor wants that little long,"
But nowadays the song is set
With music to the rhyme,
"Man wants as much as he can get
And wants it all the time."
—Tit-Bits.

Too Ready.

"I wonder why the Swellers have quit inviting us to their parties?"

"I suppose it was because we always went."—Chicago Record.

At the Patient's Expense.

Quoth the dentist, as forceps he seized with aplomb,
"I am what the public would call a phenom."
Then added, as molar he started to stir,
"For I can do tooth things at once, as it were."
—Richmond Dispatch.

Jealousy.

"He's so jealous of her!"

"Yes; he won't even let her hold a hymnbook."—Philadelphia Bulletin.

The Untried Ways.

The man who fears to take the way
No other took before
Sits mourning, at the close of day,
The chance that comes no more.
—Chicago Times-Herald.

An Irritating Retort.

"Can you tell a dog that's mad?"

"Tell him what?"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

A Pessimistic Version.

Lives of great men all remind us
That there isn't any doubt
Footprints that we leave behind us
Will be very soon washed out.
—Life.

AT AN ACUTE STAGE.

Momentous Words, Either For Good or Evil, Must Soon Come From China.

Chaffee Twenty Miles From Pekin at Last Accounts.

In That Position Any One of Several Conditions May Soon Be Presented.

Washington, Aug. 16.—The tension on the Chinese situation is intense, for it is appreciated by officials that the crisis has reached an acute stage which cannot be continued many hours without bringing word of momentous import, determining, either for good or evil, the entire course of events. Wednesday was a day of extreme anxiety, of watching and waiting, with only meagre and fragmentary information as to the military and diplomatic phases.

One of the new developments was the statement that messages are being received from Minister Conger, which are not transmitted through any of our officials in China, or through the Chinese minister here, but directly at the state department. These messages come by the way of Tsi Nan. Some of them cannot be fully deciphered, and for this reason the statement cannot be definitely made that the dispatches sent by the government to Minister Conger are received by him.

So far as the messages have been deciphered there is no indication that Minister Conger received any information or dispatches from our state department. Nothing could be learned of the contents of the dispatches received, although it was stated that there were quite a number from Minister Conger, some coming from the consular officers and General Chaffee, beside those which came direct. The message transmitted through Minister Wu was entirely deciphered in the department.

Word came early in the day to the navy department that General Chaffee had reached Matow, about 20 miles from Pekin. This occurred Friday or Saturday, though the dispatch from General Chaffee, sent through Admiral Remey, was not sufficiently definite to locate the exact time of reaching Matow. But in any event three or four days have elapsed since then, and there has been time for a still further advance toward the imperial city. The feeling among officials was shown in the extreme circumspection thrown about all messages relating to China, and it was announced both at the state and war departments that any communication from Minister Conger or the United States consuls concerning affairs in China would not be made public.

It was explained that this was in no way due to any desire to keep from the public information of an important character, but was based solely on the fact that the crisis involved so many possibilities of extreme hazard to the 800 legationers in Pekin that the greatest caution must be observed against disclosures which would further imperil those in danger.

The actual developments of the day consisted of the Remey dispatch, heretofore alluded to, and one from Consul General Goodnow at Shanghai. The state department declined to make known the contents of the Goodnow dispatch. This opened a wide field for conjecture, the most generally accepted view being that Mr. Goodnow had advised against the plan of delivering the legationers outside the city of Pekin.

The cipher experts were busy with a dispatch from Consul Fowler at Che-Foo, which was so unintelligible that it had to be returned to the telegraph company to be repeated. So far as it could be deciphered, it appeared to repeat a message sent by Minister Conger to Fowler, telling the latter that the situation was becoming more critical at Pekin, and that the Chinese authorities were seeking to compel the legationers to leave the city under Chinese escort.

It is possible that the message, which is quite long, will convey additional information when its complications are unravelled.

With the army at Matow, it is felt that any one of several conditions might be presented in the near future. The Chinese officials concur in the belief expressed by the Chinese minister at London, that there will be a speedy and sudden change, and a peace within the next few weeks. On the other hand, Baron Sternberg, the German charge of affairs, regards Tung Chow, mid-way between Matow and Pekin, as the real battle ground, and Secretary Root is inclined to accept this view. Some of the Japanese officials believe that when the allies reach Tung Chow they will find Pekin a deserted city ahead of them, as it is recalled that these tactics of withdrawal occurred in 1860, when the British-French expedition reached Tung Chow.

In the absence of all positive information as to what the allies' armies will do, these conjectures from the best-posted sources serve to show the various serious possibilities forming a part of the present crisis.

The arrival of President McKinley today is looked forward to with great interest, in view of the gravity of the crisis. An extended conference between the president, Secretary Root, Acting Secretary Adee and others is likely to occur. This probably will assume the aspect of a cabinet conference, if, indeed, it is not felt desirable to hold a special cabinet meeting. The regular meeting day of the cabinet is on Friday, at which time there will be further opportunity of going over the Chinese developments.

The statement was made last night on reliable authority that the Pekin government would designate some high official to meet the commanders of the allied forces at Tung Chow and agree with them on some measures for the safe conduct of the members of the foreign legations in the capital. Information to this effect was received here today.

SITUATION NOT ENCOURAGING.

Matthew Borden, the Calico King, Intends to Keep His Employes at Work.

Fall River, Mass., Aug. 16.—Three thousand operatives, employed in the mills of the Iron Works company, controlled by Matthew D. Borden, are now certain that the Iron Works plant will not curtail production this year. News was received in this city yesterday from Mr. Borden which indicates that the owner of the Iron Works mills takes a more hopeful view of the print cloth situation than do the majority of local mill men. He says that the reports that his mills in this city will close are without foundation.

"The dull season is at hand," says Mr. Borden, "and consumption has fallen behind production. In the fall I look for an increase in production and an increased demand. As to the Fall River cotton mills, the best testimonial of their prosperity and sound financial condition is the fact that in Fall River at the present time it is almost impossible to purchase stock in the mills at any price. There is every evidence of a prosperous year at hand, in my opinion."

Matthew Borden has at several times in local print cloth history shown his confidence in the future of the industry when affairs had reached a crisis, by purchasing the entire surplus stock from mill managers and converting them into printed fabrics, the result proving his investment and confidence profitable. Less than two year since, when the stock on hand had run up into the millions and there was talk of a general shutdown, Mr. Borden purchased the entire stock, and within a short time good prices were the rule and an active inquiry had developed for print cloths.

Burglars Had a High Old Time.

Northfield, Mass., Aug. 16.—Burglars turned upside down the ticket office of the Central Vermont road here and broke open about 40 trunks in the baggage room. In searching the trunks they dumped the contents about on the floor with little regard to what trunk they were taken from. The mixture was one that made the railroad officials mad. The burglars also took some handbags to a neighboring graveyard and there upset the contents. The loss is not known.

Assaulted by Highwaymen.

Saco, Me., Aug. 16.—Two highwaymen held up Joseph C. Routhier, employed as a driver of a local tea firm, near this city Wednesday night, and relieved him of $85 in money, a gold watch and a chain. Routhier offered resistance and one of the robbers attempted to stab him, an order book which he carried in his pocket preventing the blade from entering his body. The highwaymen then struck Routhier several times, rendering him unconscious.

Ardor Not Dampened by Rain.

Concord, N. H., Aug. 16.—The grey skies that have been lowering over New Hampshire all through its second old home week broke into rain for a couple of hours Wednesday, but the only effect of the wet upon the 30 celebrations throughout the state was to drive the participants under cover for a brief period. The attendance and the enjoyment were in no case diminished by the weather.

Suspension Is Removed.

New York, Aug. 16.—The board of the National Cycling association has issued the following: James Michael, having made a satisfactory settlement with the management of the Pleasure Beach track, Bridgeport, Conn., and also agreeing that the postponed race with John Nelson will take place Aug. 22, is restored to good standing.

Caught In the Act.

New York, Aug. 16.—Jacob Bohmer, a notorious robber, and John Fisher, both of this city, were arrested yesterday in the home of Arnold Wood, as they were plundering the place. They had $15,000 worth of booty. Mr. Wood and his family are summering at Jefferson, N. H.

BOUTWELL FOR BRYAN.

States His Reasons For Turning His Back Upon the Republican Party.

Money Question, He Says, Is a Secondary Consideration.

Our Presence In the Philippines the Chief Occasion of Chinese Revolution.

Indianapolis, Aug. 16.—The greatest demonstration of the liberty congress of the Anti-Imperialistic league so far came Wednesday afternoon, when the venerable George S. Boutwell, ex-governor of Massachusetts and secretary of the treasury in the cabinet of President Grant, concluded his address as permanent chairman with the declaration that he had turned his back on the Republican party and should support Bryan for president. The delegates rose in their seats and tendered the ex-governor an ovation that lasted several minutes.

George J. Mercer of Philadelphia called the convention to order at 11 o'clock, presenting Edwin B. Smith as temporary chairman. Professor A. H. Tolman then read the Declaration of Independence. Rev. Herbert S. Bigelow invoked the divine blessing on the deliberations of the body, after which Mr. Smith delivered his address.

After a short recess for lunch the convention met again at 2:20. Chairman Smith called for short addresses from delegates, and several responded. Dr. Croffut of Washington said he had long been a Republican, but should this year give his support to Bryan. General John Beatty aroused much enthusiasm by his remarks. "I have been a Republican for 50 years," he said, "and I propes to continue a Republican until I die. I pray that God will forgive me for voting for McKinley in 1896. I did not think he would turn his back upon the eternal principles of the republic."

Gamaliel Bradford said he had taken a long journey from Boston principally to avert what he thought would be a great mistake—the nomination of a third ticket. "This election," he said, "is not going to be settled by the newspapers nor by the politicians nor by the capitalists, but by the people. Now, if we are going to defeat McKinley we must all throw our solid support in behalf of William J. Bryan."

D. C. Tallotson, chairman of the committee on permanent organization, reported in favor of George S. Boutwell for permanent chairman. Temporary Secretaries Winslow and Mize were made permanent.

Governor Boutwell was accorded a great demonstration when he took the gavel. He said: "This is an historic occasion. If the peril of this country is what we think it is; if the question before you and before your countrymen is the question of the continuance of the republic, then no graver question has ever been committed to an assembly of men or to the country. We are opposed to imperialism. We are in favor of a Republican form of government.

"I charge that the policy upon which this administration has entered will mean the abandonment of the principles upon which our government was founded; that it will change the republic into an empire.

"The troubles in China have been aggravated and the missionaries and ambassadors of the various governments have been put in peril by the policy of the United States.

"Is it not true that in the last 10 years there have been statements again and again that it was the purpose of the various states of Europe to partition China? When we entered the Philippines, it was an additional menace to the Chinese empire, and it led to the revolution in China, and put the missionaries and ambassadors in peril of their lives. Instead of being a fortunate circumstance, the fact that we were in the Philippines was the chief occasion of that revolution in China. I ask, is General Chaffee or General Grant to be put under the lead of a prince of the house of Germany, or, on the other hand, is the government of the United States to take upon itself the peril of allowing one of its officers to take command of the troops of England and France and Germany, and be responsible for all the mistakes?

Mr. Boutwell, continuing said: "In my youth I had no disguises. I turned aside and left the Democratic party when it surrendered to slavery. In my age I leave the Republican party now that it has surrendered itself to despotic and tyrannical motives. I helped create the Republican party, a party at that time of justice and principle and honesty. I now believe it is a party of injustice and despotism, and I will help to destroy it. And how: There is but one available means, and you know what that is. I am for Bryan, in spite of what he may believe concerning the currency or finances of the country. This question is of life or death to the republic. If a mistake is made in the next administration, should Bryan be elected, the people can remedy it. The country would not be destroyed. If the currency is impaired we can redeem it. It was impaired during the Civil War and we redeemed it afterwards.

Health of Troops In Philippines.

Washington, Aug. 16.—General MacArthur has cabled the war department a brief statement concerning the health of the troops in the Philippines. The number of sick in the hospitals is set down at 3868, and in quarters at 1261, making a total of 5129 sick soldiers, or 8.47 percent of the entire army in the archipelago.

POLICE NOT ANXIOUS TO STOP THEM.

White Men, Incensed Over Killing of a Policeman, Savagely Attack Gotham Negroes.

New York, Aug. 16.—A mob of several hundred persons formed at 11 o'clock last night in front of the home of Policeman Robert J. Thorpe, Thirty-seventh street and Ninth avenue, to wreak vengeance upon the negroes of that neighborhood because one of their race had caused the policeman's death. The negroes fled in terror into any hiding place they could find. The police reserves, numbering 400, were called out, and they, with the regular police, fought the mobs. The mob of white men raged through the district and negroes, regardless of age or sex, were indiscriminately attacked, scores being injured.

The trouble grew out of the death of Policeman Thorpe as the result of a murderous assault by a negro early Sunday. Thorpe was attempting to arrest a negress when Arthur Harris and another negro attacked the policeman with razors. He died the following day.

The policeman's body was brought to his home last night, and from all over the vicinity men and women called to pay their respects. Many carried handsome floral offerings. As the night grew on the hatred of the negroes seemed to grow. A small group gathered about the policeman's home, and Captain Cooney sent a small squad of men. Trouble was not anticipated, however, and the squad was more in the nature of a guard of honor for their dead comrade.

A few minutes before 11 o'clock an Irish woman under the influence of drink came out of the place, set up a howl and began to recite the virtues of the dead policeman. She said the negroes ought to be killed. Just then a negro not more than 17 years old walked by. The white men made a rush for him and he was quickly surrounded. He was beaten and kicked and was rescued only with great difficulty. Men and women poured by the hundreds from the neighboring tenements. Negroes were set upon wherever they could be found and brutally beaten. The blacks at first offered resistance, but they were soon outnumbered and fled without delay.

For the next hour the street for blocks was filled with a rioting, surging mob. The shouting of the men, the shrieking of the women, the lamentations of the children, the shooting of revolvers, crashing of windows and all made a perfect pandemonium.

Captain Cooney at once ordered out his reserves, but his men were only half-hearted in their work. Nathan Arlington, 18 years old, colored, rode up the avenue on his wheel and into the midst of a rioting crowd of whites. He was instantly surrounded, pulled from his wheel and brutally beaten. Half a dozen policemen on the corner made no effort to save him. The negro in some way got on his feet and ran on the stoop of 305 Eighth avenue. He was again attacked, the police looking on. A messenger boy saw the negro's peril, and fighting like a fiend he drove the crowd back and got the negro into the house.

Staging Gave Way.

Boston, Aug. 16.—Bernard McGovern, Michael Sullivan and James Collis were badly injured at the eye and ear infirmary on Charles street by the breaking of a staging, which caused them to fall 70 feet. All the men were picked up unconscious, but it is not thought they will die.

Not Adapted to Present Conditions.

Havana, Aug. 16.—The council has rejected the new charter by a vote of 20 to 1. The commission has been at work on the charter for more than a year at an expense of from $20,000 to $25,000, mostly salaries. It is generally admitted that the charter is not adapted to Havana.

Gang of Thieves Rounded Up.

Saco, Me., Aug. 16.—Six young men from Biddeford are under arrest, charged with systematic theft from houses and offices. Three of them confessed and said they had stolen hundreds of dollars' worth of articles. Their confession implicates others.

Italian Detectives Coming to America.

London, Aug. 16.—Fifteen Italian detectives, according to the Rome correspondent of The Daily Mail, sailed today for New York to shadow the movements of anarchists in the United States.

Two Hundred Persons Drowned.

Yokohama, Aug. 16.—Severe floods have occurred, and it is reported that 200 persons have been drowned. Railway traffic is interrupted.

Wanted—Situation to do light housework.

Good Afternoon.

Who can tell a bigger snake story? Of course, we want only those which are "absolutely true."

We wonder if the Legislature gave much thought to the scheme to levy but one-half the cost of Metropolitan reservations and parkways upon the city of Boston. The whole park system is designed primarily for the benefit of Boston and it is Boston people who will enjoy it largely. The North shore has been favored, too, at the expense of the South Shore, in work done in making the reservations accessible, if not in the takings themselves.

It is thought by the Assessors this year that the usual complaints of inequality cannot be as numerous. The new card system which places the property in order on a street, has brought to light many injustices which have been righted, and at the same time considerable property has been found which has escaped taxation. Mayor Hall's instructions were to tax all property at its proper valuation, regardless of the total, and as far as possible this has been done. The valuation of many buildings have been reduced. The claim of some that the valuation has been bolstered up to reduce the tax rate will not stand this year.

Drift of Opinion.

☞While Secretary Long is saying that he does not believe there will be any war with China, he is preparing for something that possibly may happen.—Lawrence American.

☞ Perhaps there are too many wheelmen to make the league interesting. With everybody riding a wheel, a society of wheelmen offers nothing distinctive.—New Bedford Standard.

☞The Brockton woman engaged as a chaperone, but found that she was expected to do all the housework for a family of 10, believes that the term chaperone has an unattractive significance in Connecticut.—Times.

☞We cannot understand all this objection on the part of hotel men to serving coatless men in their cafes. If the man is all right every other way, we cannot see the objection where the coat is concerned. — Newburyport News.

☞ Residents of Brant Rock are shocked at the habit of young ladies wearing their bathing suits about the streets, but that isn't as bad as the moonlight party apprehended in the surf at Newport, at 3 A. M., without any. Society must acknowledge that gradual drifting toward extremes invariably arrives at them.—Lynn Item.

☞A Boston paper says that the Cuban woman teachers are very much attached to their religion and resent any attempt to make proselytes among them. Why should any attempt to proselyte be made? These people are our guests. We knew what their religious belief was before they were brought here, and it is bad taste to attack their religion. We do not believe any one connected with Harvard has done it but some over-zealous fool seems to have. It would be a mighty good idea for people to simply live their religion and let other people alone.—Malden Mail.

☞If there is anything more immoral than a made tie it is a celluloid collar, though respectable men have been known to don this insult to clean linen and feel no scruple of conscience about it. But at last swift vengeance has been drawn upon the head of one offender. A motorman in Milwaukee, wearing such a collar was seriously injured the other day. His motor burned out, and while he was trying to repair it the controller came into contact with the collar, encircling his neck with a ring of fire. The company has now forbidden the wearing of celluloid. The episode should be blazoned through the whole land as an awful warning. No excuse except a wish to save laundry bills can ever be given for such a practice, and that is one of the meanest motives which can actuate mankind.—Providence Journal.

☞The revival of a project for organizing an "anti" society among so-called British descendents, instanced in a recent meeting in Boston, should be frowned upon by all patriotic Americans. There are too many organizations of similar principles in existence in this country as it is, engaged in the reprehensible work of instilling enmity between citizens of different lineage and religious beliefs and teaching their members to found their opinions on sociological and political questions—not upon the traditions and history of the country—but upon the prejudices and enmities of the past with which this country has nothing whatever to do. If we are to have societies of this nature, let us have them formed on the principles of drawing the various elements of our population closer to each other, rather than encourage movements intended to separate them. —Beverly Times.

Political Potpourri.

In the past some have found it easier to get naturalized by going to Boston, but there are new rules at the United States District court this year, viz:

1. Not less than ten days before the day set for hearing applications for naturalization, the clerk shall post in his office a list of the applications set down for hearing on that day. The cities and towns of the applicants' residence shall be alphabetically arranged on said list, and under the heading of each shall be arranged alphabetically the names of the applicants residing therein. In an individual case, for special cause shown by a petition setting out the exceptional circumstances, the time of posting may be shortened to not less than two days.

2. Objection to the granting of any application may be filed in writing with the clerk at any time before the hearing or objection may be made orally at the hearing when the case is called. The application and objections thereto will then be summarily heard, unless otherwise ordered.

3. The oath of the applicant shall not be deemed sufficient to stablish his age at the time of his arrival in the United States, but he may, in the discretion of the court, be examined concerning the same.

The State Committee of the Socialists have forwarded circulars to the several City and Town committees announcing the dates of the caucuses of the party as on either Wednesday, Sept. 12, or Thursday, Sept. 13, whichever may be selected by the committees of each city or town.

Another Snake Story.

Editors of the Daily Ledger:

Now that you're talking of snakes I'll tell you a story of one that happened to a friend of mine. One day when he was spending his vacation in California he took his dinner and went into the woods. At last becoming hungry he sat upon the ground and began to eat his lunch. Hearing a sound in the branches of the tree beneath which he was seated, he looked up just in time to see an immense snake drop to the ground. He was surely fifteen feet long and colored as highly as the rainbow. My friend decided that he had better show a kindly spirit and at once shared his dinner with his unexpected guest.

After eating the greater part of this and drinking the contents of his milk bottles, he looked about to see how he could pay for his dinner. Now barber shops were mighty scarce and my friend was in need of a shave. The snake noticed this and immediately set to work. His tail was shaped like a razor, and sharp as steel and in a few minutes my friend's face was smooth as that of a new born babe and with a farewell nod of his head the new found barber disappeared into the woods. Now, this snake was as wonderful as the one that sawed the tree but he used his talents to better advantage. The gentleman who climbed the tree in order to escape from him should have been friendly and probably the snake would have continued to cut and in the end he might have had wood enough to last him during the winter. It is best to be friendly even under difficulties.

WHITE MOUNTAINS.

Famed Places in the Famous Region in New Hampshire.

Lofty peaks invigorating air, beautiful scenery, delightful society, cascades, rushing streams, enchanting surroundings, magnificent hotels—such is the make up of the White Mountains region of New Hampshire. This vast region, covering many, many square miles of territory, is one great summer pleasure resort. Every necessity for enjoyment is at hand and nothing will be found lacking that the tourist might suggest or expect.

Golf of course stands paramount as the leading recreative allurement, and mountain climbing is a chief feature in White Mountain life, nearly every mountain having its paths; but to Mount Washington the climbers look for the greatest sport for there is a variety of ways of ascending the great mountain, and the number of incidents which the trip affords are often of a most exciting and thrilling nature.

To get to the mountains there are several routes, either of which lies through interesting country, and the scenes one finds at every turn are wondrous and magnificent workings of nature.

The White Mountain villages are every one of them pleasant places, and each has innumerable attractions which are important, attractive and are oftentimes picturesque, and have made their locations famed.

In North Conway there are many places of interest, White Horse Ledge being one of the first to attract one's attention. Thompson's Falls, hidden away in the great forests, is a most beautiful waterfall and like Artist's Brook and Artist's Falls is delightfully picturesque.

Echo Lake is included in North Conway's environs, likewise The Cathedral, also Diana's Baths, either of which is well worth visiting.

Conway's sunsets are as famed as the Mount Washington sunrise, and the charming effects which they bring are a charm and delight to all who view them.

Intervale has many noted attractions and perhaps the most notable of them The Great Cathedral Woods.

Glen Ellis Falls up in the Glen Region is by no means a rushing torrent, but instead is a crystal like stream pouring in a solid column over a seventy-foot precipice, the sides of which cliff are rough and jagged, and the mountain stream as it hurtles downward is deflected from side to side, and the mists rising therefrom are of most delicate and finely hued colors.

Silver Cascade, in the Crawford Notch is one of the sights of the mountains. This waterfall is seen from the train in passing through the Notch.

The water descends almost perpendicularly for a distance of nearly four hundred feet and glides over the face of the ledge a clear, silver like unbroken sheet.

Jefferson lies on the slope of Star King, and the broad expanse of mountain scenery which unfolds itself to the vision of the tourist is one of magnificent splendor.

The Presidential Range from Jefferson is a delightful vista, and the drives and walks which may be taken from here are among the best and most widely known in the mountains.

Perhaps the one object above all others which impresses the White Mountain tourist is "The Old Man of the Mountain."

Twelve hundred feet above Profile Lake, in Franconia Notch, is this "Great Stone Face." It does everything but speak, and the great solemn features are so exceedingly fascinating that one never tires of gazing in awe and wonderment at this gigantic superhuman face.

Franconia Notch has an Echo Lake over which a sound reflects several times with ever increasing clearness.

Cannon Mountain, Eagle Cliff, and the Flume and the Pool and Basin are other natural curiosities which have made not only their own locality but the whole mountain region famous.

Of Mount Washington much might be said. 6,293 feet above the sea level, the view from its summit extends over a radius of more than a hundred miles including lake, mountain, shore and river scenery. The ride up the mountain side on the cog railway is not only delightful but thrilling.

There are many objects of interests to be seen on Mount Washington, chief among them being Tuckerman's Ravine, Great Gulf and Lake of the Clouds. The geologist and botanist are in clover when on Mt. Washington, for many rare and choice specimens in their lines are found there.

Bethlehem, Littleton, Fabyan, Colebrook, Lancaster, Sugar Hill and two score of other mountain resorts will be found to be fully as interesting, and of them an extended description is given in the delineation published by the Boston and Maine Railroad known as "The Book of the Mountains," and which is sent for a two-cent stamp to any address by the Geni. Pass'r Dept. B. & M. R. R., Union Station, Boston, Mass.

The majority of foreigners seen in Paris are said to be American.

Senator Woodsum's Return.

Senator B. Herbert Woodsum of Braintree has given notice that he will be a candidate for re-election at the coming election, although he has served his allotted two terms. His services have been of such value in the Senate during the past year, and stands so high in the estimation of his brother senators and the people, by his wisdom and efficiency, shown in the conduct of the gas investigation as chairman, and with the presidency of the Senate for 1901 in view, he sees no reason, neither do his friends, why he should not be chosen to represent this district for the third time in the Massachusetts Senate. Senator Woodsum is a good business man at home, and a wise counsellor in the Senate, with hosts of friends, and stands before the people of the district as a candidate for re-election. — Randolph Register.

WHY FURNITURE PRICES ARE LOWER HERE.

It's an easy question to answer, because facts prove it so. We buy our Furniture from the largest factories in the West, at the lowest market prices. Our expenses are about one-quarter as much as those of Boston Stores. Our customers do not help pay for expensive advertisements, high rents, enormous taxes and costly delivery. These few facts you should weigh well in your mind.

You can buy Furniture, Carpetings, Ranges, and Pianos, lower here than in any store in New England. We are saving money for thousands of families in Quincy and the surburban towns, we can do the same for you.

Mackedon—Daly.

A large number of friends were in attendance at St. Joseph's church at Holbrook Wednesday afternoon to witness the marriage of Miss Annie J. Daly of that town and Mr. Francis J. Mackedon of Quincy. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Fr. Brown of South Boston. The bride gowned in white point d'esprit was attended by her sister, Miss Mary E. Daly, gowned in pink muslin. The groom was attended by Dr. D. J. McSweeney of Quincy.

The wedding march was played by Mrs. D. J. Flynn of Randolph.

A reception followed at the home of the bride, which was continued in to the evening. Mr. and Mrs. Mackedon were remembered with many rich presents. After a short trip they will reside at Quincy.

Civil Service.

No more civil service examinations are scheduled for Quincy until next May. On May 2, examinations of clerks will be held, also for foremen and inspectors of work in streets, sewer and water departments. On May 3 for the police service, and on May 4 for firemen. Applications must be filed at least one week before the examinations.

For service of the Commonwealth examinations are scheduled as fellows:

PARK DISTRICT FIGURES.

The Valuation and Population of the Cities Interested.

Large Sums Must Be Paid For Cost and Maintenance.

Quincy 10 in Valuation and 8 in Population Outside of Boston.

The commission which will apportion the cost of the Metropolitan parks and boulevards have at the outset complied some figures which will be of interest to Quincy taxpayers who must contribute to the expense.

The population of the district according to the census of 1895, was 1,020,989, and that of Quincy 20,712. About 2 per cent. of the population is in Quincy. Boston will be assessed one-half the of total. With Boston excluded the population of the district is 524,069, of which Quincy is nearly 4 per cent. The valuation of the district in 1898 was $1,716,488,744.00, of which $18,945,036.00 was in Quincy.

A trifle over 1 per cent of the valuation is in Quincy. With Boston excluded the valuation of the district is $646,765,189.00, of which nearly 3 per cent. is in Quincy.

At the outset it should be claimed that Boston will not pay its propotion, if assessed but one-half, as it has over 62 per cent. of the valuation. As valuation is the proper basis for levying all taxes. Boston should pay at least 70 per cent. of the cost, as park system is for the benefit of Boston.

The figures of population and valuation, also of the area of the reservations and cost of the work, are given as follows:

Outside of Boston, Quincy ranks 10 in valuation and 8 in population among the 34 cities and towns. So it will be seen that Quincy will have to pay large sums for parks and parkways..

In apportioning the cost and maintenance it should be remembered that the reservation and drives already opened are not accessible to Quincy.

ICE CREAM FOR ALL

MODERN AMERICAN CONTRIVANCES SUPPLYING THE WORLD WITH FROZEN LUXURY.

American ice cream freezers of modern types, such as are now widely and commonly used in this country, are exported to many foreign countries. Wherever ice cream is made American freezers are preferred, says the New York Sun, because, like so many other American productions, they are especially well adapted to their use.

There are, of course, various kinds of these modern freezers, and they are made in a great number of sizes, having a capacity from one pint up to 40 quarts. The pint freezer, with its tall cedar bucket bound with brass hoops and with the metal attachments of the freezer itself nickel plated, looks like a jolly sort of toy, and it is in fact sold as such, but it is nevertheless a practical freezer, in which cream to its capacity can be frozen just as in any other.

Freezers up to a capacity of eight quarts are known as family sizes. Ten quart and on up to the 40 quart freezers would be used by boarding houses and hotels and by ice cream manufacturers. To the crank shaft of many of the medium and larger freezers there is attached a balance wheel to make the work of operating the freezer easier. Even the largest freezers are in some cases operated by hand, the work of turning the crank being facilitated by a heavy balance wheel, while in other cases the freezers are operated by power.

In all the smaller and medium sizes the modern improved contrivance has practically supplanted the old style freezer, commonly known as the tub and can. In large freezers, however, including those of the largest size, up to 40 quarts capacity, there are still sold tub and can freezers in considerable numbers, for freezing purposes, for making ice cream and hokey pokey. The buyers of the old fashioned big tub and can freezers nowadays are chiefly Italians, who prefer them because they are cheaper. But while the modern freezer has now so largely superseded the old fashioned kind for freezing purposes, yet a dealer said that there were still sold many old fashioned tub and can freezers of all these various sizes, these being largely used now for shipping purposes for the delivery of ice cream to local customers and to purchasers at more or less distant points.

Ice cream is distinctly an article of local manufacture, and wherever there is a town of a few hundred or thousand inhibitants there are likely to be found confectioners or others making ice cream. Nevertheless New York ice cream manufacturers, making ice cream in great variety and at all seasons and prepared to supply any demand anywhere at any time, send ice cream at one time and another to many points within a radius of 60 miles and to even greater distances. Many tub and can freezers are used for such shipments as well as for other deliveries.

Drying the Hair.

To supply the need of a simple and convenient appliance for drying the hair a Chicago woman has designed the device shown in the cut. It is intended to provide a means for holding the hair in a distended position, away from the neck, and in such a manner as to protect the clothing from the dampness after washing. After a lady has washed her hair the band is passed under the hair at the back of the neck and the ends brought toward each other at the temples, to be connected across the forehead by tapes and a buckle. The branches of the brace rest upon the back of the neck and the tapes are connected under the chin. This brace bar holds the rear portion of the band in an elevated position, so that the hair will be held free from the body and clothing. As the body portion of the band is of coarse netting a free circulation of air is permitted, which rapidly dries the hair.

DEVICE FOR DRYING HAIR.

Life at 421 Degrees Below Zero.

Investigations recently made in England show that the lower forms of life, both animal and vegetable, are capable of existing in the extreme cold of 421 degrees below Zero Fahrenheit. At this almost inconceivable temperature the earth's atmosphere would be frozen solid and would incrust the globe to a depth of several feet. Professor Allan Malfayden has just presented his results to the Royal Society of England covering experiments made with bacteria and other germs. The most vigorous varieties of bacteria were selected and exposed for 20 hours to the temperature of liquid air 275 degrees below zero. They were thawed out and examined. The experiment yielded the startling result that these living organisms were apparently unchanged by the extreme cold.

Madame Yale's HAIR TONIC

Ladies and Gentlemen.—It has gone on record that Madame Yale's Excelsior Hair Tonic is the first and only remedy known to chemical science found to be a genuine hair specific. It has an affinity for the human hair for nourishing and invigorating its entire structure. It is antiseptic in character, as well as stimulating; its action upon the scalp and hair is truly wonderful, inasmuch as it has never been known in a single instance to fail to cure scalp diseases and to create a luxuriant growth of healthy, beautiful hair. It stops hair falling within twenty-four hours and brings back the natural color to gray hair in nearly every instance. It is not a dye; it is not sticky or greasy; on the contrary it makes the hair soft, youthful, beautiful and glossy; keeps it in curl. It is a perfect hair dressing, and can be used by ladies, gentlemen or children as a daily toilet requisite. Its influence is delightfully soothing.

All Dealers sell it, $1 per bottle. Mail orders may be sent direct to the manufacturer,

Dublin's Poor Will Benefit Thereby.

London, Aug. 16.—Baron Ivcagh, says The Daily Mail, has decided to supplement his generosity to the poor of Dublin by demolishing the congested tenement district around St. Patrick's cathedral, and substituting modern artisan dwellings, the rents of which will be devoted to the maintenance of the premises. It is estimated that the cost of the undertaking will be between £60,000 and £100,000.

No Need of Anxiety.

Washington, Aug. 16.—Regarding the possible effect of the large gold shipments abroad on the treasury interests and the gold reserve, Secretary Gage says: "The movement is entirely natural and nature always tends to establish just equilibriums. We have gold to spare, and it will go, and ought to go, where it can be most profitably employed."

Amicable Adjustment Probable.

Pittsburg, Aug. 16.—Committees of the prescription glass bottle manufacturers and American Flint Glass Workers' association are in session here arranging a scale of wages. The workers ask for an advance of about 7 percent over last year. Trade is good and a settlement is expected. About 2500 skilled and 10,000 unskilled workmen are affected.

Hoare Is Holding Out.

Cape Town, Aug. 16.—A messenger from Colonel Hare, commanding the British garrison at Elands River, who reached Mafeking Tuesday, reported that the garrison was still holding out when he left, although Colonel Hare had sustained 67 casualties. General Ian Hamilton has been sent to relieve the garrison.

Lawyer Drowned While Bathing.

Boston, Aug. 16.—Harvey W. Walker, a member of the Boston common council, was drowned Wednesday night near a bathing beach in Cambridge. Walker's death was probably due to the fact that he stopped to assist a comrade who had become exhausted. Councilman Walker was a lawyer.

New Battleships Almost Completed.

Washington, Aug. 16.—Another first-class battleship is about to be added to the United States navy. It is the Wisconsin, building at the Union iron works, San Francisco. Her builders express the belief that she will be ready for her official speed trial by Sept. 15.

Heavy Damage by Lightning.

Leominister, Mass., Aug. 16.—Lightning struck the large barn of Frank E. Buss, a farmer, Wednesday, and burned it to the ground. The 2½-story house adjoining was also destroyed. The loss on buildings and live stock is $4500.

Chinese Troops Will Become Uncontrollable If Allies Enter Pekin.

Story That the Capital Has Already Been Reached.

Russia Said to Have Taken Independent Action Calculated to Embarrass Allies.

London, Aug. 16.—The Chinese minister in London, Sir Chih Chen Lofenglu, is quoted as saying: "The powers must not press too hard on Pekin. If you defeat the Chinese soldiers it will not be possible to control the soldiery. They may turn and rend the legations. I do not believe the legation food supply will be stopped so long as the powers refrain from attacking Pekin and negotiate for the surrender of the ministers."

"The allies are reported to have reached Pekin Monday," says the Shanghai correspondent of The Daily Express, wiring yesterday. He adds: "Chinese official news confirms this statement, but without details."

A Paris message repeats this; but the statement, especially as it emanates from Shanghai, must be accepted with considerable reserve. Other London morning papers, basing their remarks upon Washington dispatches, which, with the exception of the foregoing from Shanghai, from the latest news regarding the advance, are divided in opinion, some believing that the allies must already have reached Pekin and others preferring to believe that the relief will not be accomplished until the end of the week.

Telegraphing from Yang Tsun, Aug. 6, a Daily News correspondent says: "Sir Alfred Gaselee hopes to keep the enemy running and to follow him right into Pekin."

Ngan Ping was occupied without firing a shot, according to a dispatch to The Daily Express from that place, dated Aug. 11. "It is believed," the message adds, "that Generals Tung Fuh Siang, Ma and Chung are intrenching 40,000 strong at Tung Chau. The allies may avoid Tung Chau, pursuing the route northwest from Chang Kia Wan."

Tung Chau appears to be about 12 miles from Pekin.

A dispatch to the same paper from Shanghai, dated yesterday, says that the officials profess to be willing to hand over the foreign ministers, their families and servants, but will not permit the departure of native Christians. "The Russian government," continues this telegram, "has notified Li Hung Chang of its willingness to receive M. De Giers outside the walls of Pekin, thus avoiding the entrance of the Russian force. This independent action is calculated to embarrass the allies seriously. Japan demands that General Yung Lu shall meet the allies outside the city gates and deliver the ministers and all the native Christians."

The Chinese minister in London, Sir Chih Chen Lofenglu, is quoted as saying: "The powers must not press too hard on Pekin. If you defeat the Chinese soldiers it will not be possible to control the soldiery. They may turn and rend the legations. I do not believe the legation food supply will be stopped so long as the powers refrain from attacking Pekin and negotiate for the surrender of the ministers."

The Times has the following dispatch from Shanghai, dated Tuesday: The viceroy has withdrawn his opposition to the landing of British troops on condition that this does not entail the presence of other forces, but instructions have been received from the British government that disembarkation is to await further orders. The fact is generally known that Great Britain is hesitating. The public, official and unofficial, is unanimously of the opinion that withdrawal at this stage would be deplorable, and would produce the worst results.

Died on Wife's Grave.

Attleboro, Mass., Aug. 16.—The body of John H. Coburn of Sharon was found in the Dodgeville cemetery Wednesday. Beside him was a bottle containing a small quantity of a strong solution of carbolic acid, which told the story of a suicide. On June 29 of last year Mr. Coburn's wife was buried in the cemetery. Immediately afterwards he had two chairs placed at the head of the grave, and he would occasionally come here, and spent hours sitting there.

Dog His Only Companion For Years.

Brockton, Mass., Aug. 16.—Sam Randall, aged 72 years, died Wednesday. He was a character widely known in this section of the state. He was a bachelor, and for many years had lived alone with only a brown spaniel for a companion. Little is known of his reasons for always having lived alone, but an early love affair is said to have been responsible for it.

The Modest Mr. Jeffries.

New York, Aug. 16.—There will be no fight between the winner of the Sharkey-Fitzsimmons match and James J. Jeffries, as was originally intended. William A. Brady announces that Jeffries has decided to declare this match off, as he does not think there will be any credit in defeating a man who had fought two hard battles in one week.

Grasshoppers at a Dollar a Bushel.

Concord, N. H., Aug. 16.—The state treasurer paid out $322.50 Wednesday, in bounties upon grasshoppers, at $1 per bushel, under the state law. The largest contributors were Andrew J. Abbott of West Concord, 200 bushels, and B. F. Varney of Penacook, 115 1-4 bushels.

Embezzled Town Funds.

Boston, Aug. 16.—Convicted of embezzling $4000 of the public funds while tax collector of the town of Winthrop, Elijah Crosby was sentenced by Judge Braley to a term of not less than three and not more than four years in state prison.

MANLEY STARTS FOR MAINE.

Says It Will Be Harder Than Usual to Start the Campaign This Year.

New York, Aug. 16.—A couple of men from Boston called on Chairman Hanna Wednesday in behalf of Lillian Clayton Jewett, the "Joan of Arc," who wanted to have the national committee endorse the Anti-Lynching league and help out in running a newspaper. Both men refused their names. They got but cold comfort in the interview.

Mr. Bliss was asked if the death of Mr. Huntington had not affected the campaign funds, inasmuch as he was depended on to contribute $250,000 and to raise enough more to make the total nearly $1,000,000. He refused to discuss the question.

Mr. Manley left today for Maine to start the campaign there. He said: "I shall be gone four or five days. I am expected to get things going at once and push along things." He was asked if it was not an easy matter to get a campaign started in Maine. "Not so easy this year as you may imagine. We have biennial elections and there are a lot of changes. It will take some effort this year."

An important conference on the financial condition of the national campaign fund was held at headquarters Wednesday. Those who took part in this conference were Senator Hanna, Postmaster General Smith, Senator Platt of Connecticut, Treasurer Bliss, Senator Scott and Committeeman Manley, the two latter being called in occasionally for short consultations. Senator Hanna absolutely refused to discuss what had occurred at the conference.

Postmaster General Charles Emory Smith was asked his opinion of the political situation. He replied: "The only trouble now with the Republican campaign seems to be the apathy which exists everywhere. It seems to be almost impossible to arouse enthusiasm, but it must be done. There is danger in this indifference. The people at large must wake up, and they must be made to realize the grave danger of such a condition of affairs." Mr. Smith thought, however, that as the campaign progressed that the interest would increase.

Vaccination Must Continue.

Rockland, Mass., Aug. 16.—The "anti-vaccinationists" of this city received a set-back Wednesday night in the form of a refusal by the board of health to accede to their demands. At a mass meeting, held last week, resolutions condemning the practice were adopted, and a request was made that the board of health and the school committee should not enforce the law, and should allow children to enter the schools without first being vaccinated.

Many Depositors Are Mourning.

Chicago, Aug. 16.—Consternation has been caused among hundreds of small depositors by the appointment of a receiver for the real estate and loan bank business of Frank A. Stauber. Stauber disappeared July 29. His daughter, who remained behind in charge of the business, estimates Stauber's debts at $150,000, with possible assets of $50,000 in real estate, which, however, she says, is largely mortgaged.

Had Relatives In United States.

Washington, Aug. 16.—Consul General Stowe at Cape Town reports that one Julius Platt, an American citizen, was killed by the explosion of a soda water tank at Buluwayo, Rhodesia. Mr. Stowe says that the deceased is reported to have left considerable property, and inquires whether the department of state is able to ascertain the whereabouts of Mr. Platt's relatives in the United States.

Grecian Warship to Visit Us.

New York, Aug. 16.—The United States is soon to receive the first visit in the history of the country from a warship of the navy of Greece. The second-class cruiser Nauarchos Miaulis is expected to drop anchor in New York harbor not later than the first fortnight in September. When her visit to this port is concluded the vessel will proceed to Boston, from whence she will sail for home.

Missionaries Safer In America.

New York, Aug. 16.—A cablegram from Bishop Graves of Shanghai and the lower Yang Tse valley, advises the Protestant Episcopal Missionary society not to send out a party of missionaries from this country as contemplated. This message was sent in answer to one of inquiry as to whether a party of missionaries destined for China should be sent out.

Says Charges Were Proved.

Georgetown, Ky., Aug. 16.—John K. Hendrick spoke Wednesday for the prosecution in the closing arguments of the trial of Caleb Powers, for alleged complicity in the killing of Governor Goebel. He reviewed the testimony in an effort to show that the charges in the indictment had been amply proved by witnesses who were not co-conspirators.

Bermuda Sinks at Her Dock.

Philadelphia, Aug. 16.—Steamer Bermuda, from Port Antonio, Jam., with a cargo of bananas, sank in her dock Wednesday. The cause of the vessel sinking is not yet known. During the Cuban insurrection the Bermuda was much in the public eye, because of her alleged connection with filibustering expeditions.

Suspected of Being a Robber.

Boston, Aug. 16.—Henry Mitchell, 25 years old, a negro, is under arrest on suspicion of being connected with numerous robberies which have occurred in the residential sections of this city. At his room was found a miscellaneous assortment of valuable goods, which he could not satisfactorily account for.

Thirty-Five Persons Hurt.

Paris, Aug. 16.—A serious car accident, resulting in injuries to 35 persons, occurred here last evening. Two cars, one driven by electric power, approached an intersection and collided at right angles, the horse car turning over. The passengers were thrown into a heap and badly hurt. No casualties resulted.

Present Law Unsatisfactory.

Frankfort, Ky., Aug. 16.—Governor Beckham has issued a proclamation convening the general assembly in extra session Aug. 28. The only subject to be considered is the modification or amendment of the Goebel election law.

Napoleon and the Roman Law.

Napoleon I had an extraordinary mind. He appeared never to forget anything he cared to remember and assimilated information as the stomach assimilates food, retaining only the valuable. An incident will illustrate this remarkable quality of his mind.

When forming the "Code Napoleon," he frequently astonished the council of state by the skill with which he illustrated any point in discussion by quoting whole passages from memory of the Roman civil law. The council wondered how a man whose life had been passed in camp came to know so much about the old Roman laws. Finally one of them asked him how he acquired his knowledge.

"When I was a lieutenant," Napoleon replied, "I was unjustly placed under arrest. My small prison room contained no furniture except an old chair and a cupboard. In the latter was a ponderous volume, which proved to be a digest of the Roman law. You can easily imagine what a valuable prize the book was to me. It was so bulky and the leaves were so covered with marginal notes in manuscript that had I been confined 100 years I need never have been idle. When I recovered my liberty at the end of ten days, I was saturated with Justinian and the decisions of the Roman legislation. It was then I acquired my knowledge of the civil law."

Makes Brave Men Cowards.

It has been proved that the comparatively harmless bombarding, so far as wounds are concerned, of a besieged town is terribly demoralizing to the bravest men.

When a shell bursts near a group of 20 men it may kill one and wound two, while the remaining 17 escape without a scratch. It will be found, however, that many of these are never the same men again. No matter how iron nerved they were before, they are now irresolute and timid, and all their faculties are weakened. Very often they are jeered at by their comrades because of this change. But this is utterly unjust in fact, their brain and spinal cord have been injured by being violently shaken against the walls of their bony cavities.

The same thing occurs in railway collisions. People who were robust become quite feeble and nervous, though they may not have received a scratch.

This curious state in the case of soldiers is well recognized by doctors under the name of the mental injuries of explosives. The injuries are really quite as physical as a shattered leg, for they consist of a kind of bruising of the very delicate tissue of the spinal cord and brain.

Her Timely Gift.

In common with other women, Mrs. Brown delights in a bargain, and when she observed the advertisement of a great fire and water sale in one of the department stores she repaired there without delay. There were many fine works of science, travel, history, religion and fiction to be had for a song each, but her eyes rested on a handsomely bound copy of "The Life of General Grant," and she bought it for her brother. Of course, it would not be fair to tell what she paid for it.

"The next day her brother came over to thank her. "It's fine," he said. "I haven't got very far in it yet, but I know it's going to be good. When little Jane gets along a little further in her German I'm going to have her read me a bit of it every evening. I make rather slow progress of it myself."

"In German?" gasped the giver.

"Yes," said the brother, "it's written in German, a mighty handy thing to have around the house." Since then Mrs. Brown has never bought a fire or water book without looking carefully on the inside of it.—Worcester (Mass.) Gazette.

Paid as He Went.

Patient—Then you think it's all up with me, doctor?

Doctor—I'm afraid so.

"Well, we must all die once, and I may as well go now as afterward. You're sure I'm going?"

"Yes."

"Then let me have your bill."

"My bill! My dear sir, this is very unusual. You should give your thoughts to most serious matters."

"My motto has always been 'pay as you go,' and now that I am going I want to pay."

So he paid and went.

Both Extremes.

Editor In Chief—I understand young Bluegore, the millionaire's son, has gone in for journalism.

City Editor—Yes. He's on my staff.

Editor In Chief—And what do you think of him?

City Editor—Well, he's a unique figure in journalism.

Editor In Chief—You don't say?

City Editor—Yes. He's at once the richest and poorest reporter in the city.—Catholic Standard and Times.

Coffee Adulteration.

An examination of a sample of roasted coffee berries seized in Paris showed them to be entirely artificial; chemical analysis disclosed ash, gum, dextrin, etc., and the microscope showed grains of wheat, starch, vegetable debris and animal hairs. The berries were beautifully molded.

Snakes as Necklaces.

There are plenty of snakes in Samoa, but they are all harmless. In certain districts it is a custom of the native girls to wind live reptiles around their necks and arms as ornaments for their dances.—Two Republics.

Rubens received for his painting of the grand ceiling in the banqueting house, Whitehall, the sum of $20,000. The space covered by this painting is about 400 yards, so that he was paid nearly $50 a yard.

Grandpa

Everybody's proud of this sort of Grandpa, and he's proud of himself; proud of his clear brain and active body. There are other kinds of grandparents that we can't be proud of. Weak of body and feeble of mind, we can only pity them. They no more live; they only exist. What makes the difference between these two classes of old men? A sound stomach and a plentiful supply of pure, rich blood. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery strengthens the stomach, purifies the blood, and increases the activity of the blood-making glands. It won't make old men young, but it will enable old men to assimilate the food they eat, and so strengthen them for a life of reasonable exertion.

"I suffered for six years with constipation and indigestion, during which time I employed several physicians, but they could not reach my case," writes Mr. G. Popplewell, of Eureka Springs, Carroll Co., Ark. "I felt that there was no help for me; could not retain food on my stomach; had vertigo and would fall helpless to the floor. Two years ago I commenced taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and little 'Pellets,' and improved from the start. After taking twelve bottles of the 'Discovery' I was able to do light work, and have been improving ever since. I am now in good health for one of my age—60 years. I owe it all to Dr. Pierce's medicines."

Old people often need a laxative medicine. The best for them is Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets.

Anti-Imperialists Denounce the President's Policy Regarding Philippines.

Protests of Third Party Advocates of No Avail.

The Latter Will Hold a Convention Next Month and Place a Ticket in the Field.

Indianapolis, Aug. 17.—The candidacy of William J. Bryan for president was emphatically endorsed Thursday by the liberty congress of the American League of Anti-Imperialists. The resolutions to that effect were read to the convention by Charles R. Codman of Massachusetts, who moved their adoption, after stating that the entire committee of 25 had endorsed them.

The convention, however, did not adopt the platform as submitted by the resolutions committee without prolonged and heated debate. Thomas M. Osborne of Auburn, N. Y., leader of the "Third Ticket" movement, offered an amendment to strike out the endorsement of Bryan, and his amendment was vigorously supported by several delegates, but when the previous question was ordered less than a score could be marshalled to vote against the Bryan endorsement. The vote was viva voce, and its result will never be known, but the sentiment of the convention was clearly shown as being in favor of the endorsement of Bryan as the most effective manner of checking the alleged imperialistic policy of the administration.

The most vigorous opponents of the Bryan pronouncement in the platform were conspicuous members of the "National," or "Third Ticket" convention, who were also admitted as delegates to the Anti-Imperialist congress. They advocated the nomination of a third ticket on the theory that their followers, while opposed to President McKinley, were not prepared to accept Mr. Bryan on the Kansas City platform.

Charles R. Codman and Edwin B. Smith were the chief proponents of the platform as reported, claiming that all political questions were now subordinate to the one question of imperialism, and that all opposed to the present administration should unite to overthrow it in the most effective and available manner presented.

The speakers who opposed the Bryan plank in the platform were received with jeers and cries of "Time" from the delegates, and Chairman Zeisler at times had difficulty in obtaining a hearing for them. The platform says:

This liberty congress of anti-imperialists recognizes a great national crisis, which menaces the republic upon whose future depends in such large measure the hope of freedom throughout the world. For the first time in our country's history the president has undertaken to subjugate a foreign people and to rule them by despotic power. He has thrown the protestion of the flag over slavery and polygamy in the Sulu islands.

We are absolutely opposed to the policy of President McKinley which proposes to govern millions of men without their consent, which in Porto Rico establishes taxation without representation, and government by the arbitrary will of a legislature unfettered by constitutional restraint, and in the Philippines prosecutes a war of conquest and demands unconditional surrender from a people who of right are free and independent. The policy of the president offers the inhabitants of Porto Rico, Hawaii and the Philippines no hope of independence, no prospect of American citizenship, no constitutional protection, no representation in the congress which taxes them. This is the government of men by arbitrary power without their consent; this is imperialism. There is no room under the free flag of America for subjects.

We believe the greatest safeguard of liberty is a free press, and we demand that the censorship in the Philippines which keeps from the American people the knowledge of what is done in their name be abolished.

We are entitled to know the truth, and we insist that the powers which the president holds in trust for us shall be not used to suppress it. Because we thus believe, we oppose the re-election of Mr. McKinley. The supreme purpose of the people in this momentous campaign should be to stamp with their final disapproval his attempt to grasp imperial power.

We, therefore, in the belief that it is essential at this crisis for the American people again to declare their faith in the universal application of the Declaration of Independence and to reassert their will that their servants shall not have or exercise any powers whatever other than those conferred by the constitution, earnestly make the following recommendations to our countrymen:

First, that without regard to their views on minor questions of domestic policy, they withhold their votes from Mr. McKinley, in order to stamp with their disapproval what he has done.

Second, that they vote for those candidates for congress in their respective districts who will oppose the policy of imperialism.

Third, while we welcome any other method of opposing the re-election of Mr. McKinley, we advise direct support of Mr. Bryan as the most effective means of crushing imperialism.

We are convinced of Mr. Bryan's sincerity and of his earnest purpose to secure to the Filipinos their independence. His position and the declarations contained in the platform of his party on the vital issue of the campaign meet our unqualified approval.

After the adoption of the resolution endorsing Bryan, the representatives of the thiry party movement met in the Commercial club and selected Thomas M. Osborne of New York for chairman, and Everett V. Abbott of New York for permanent secretary. A motion was made and carried that a convention be held in New York Sept. 5 for the purpose of nominating a ticket. The leaders of the movement said that they expected a large representation at their convention in New York on Sept. 5, and that candidates for president and vice president would then surely be nominated.

WHITE PEOPLE WILL JUDGE JUSTLY.

Eminent Colored Men Condemn the Riot Precipitated by Negroes in New York.

New York, Aug. 17.—T. Thomas Fortune, the well known negro editor and author of New York, in speaking of Wednesday night's riot, said:

"The man who precipitated the riot got his deserts. He was kicked and cuffed and locked up. I hope all who participated in the riot, whether white or black, will be dealt with as severely as the law allows. All colored men of the better class hold unlawful acts of violence in detestation, and have no sympathy for those who take part in such demonstrations. But, on the other hand, they do not believe in a mob taking the law into its own hands. I sincerely hope, or rather, I am sure, the white people of this city will judge justly in this affair. The negroes who precipitated the riot are exiles from New Orleans and the south generally. They were chased from there for this same sort of thing."

The riot was one of the topics at Republican headquarters Thursday. Professor Scarborough, colored, vice president of Wilberforce university, Ohio, had called upon Chairman Hanna, and in speaking of the riot Professor Scarborough said that the conservative and respectable elements of both races deplored the trouble.

He thought it was caused by the lowest people, white and black. Negro waiters and porters, who put all their money on their backs in the way of clothing and jewelry, and stand around the saloons, were the principal ones in the affair, but the whole colored race should not be judged by them. The rioting showed that the race prejudice is as strong today in the north as it is in the south. It was the lawless element in the south that makes all all the trouble.

May Go to Jury Tonight.

Georgetown, Ky., Aug. 17.—The arguments in the case of ex-Secretary of State Powers have proceeded according to program, and if they continue in like manner today the case will go to the jury tonight. Although it is believed the jury will disagree, yet a verdict is being awaited here with intense interest on account of its influence on the other cases, as well as to its bearing so far as Caleb Powers is concerned.

Decidedly Uncomplimentary to Officers.

London, Aug. 17.—Viscount Wolseley, field marshal and commander-in-chief of the British army, delivered, according to The Daily Mail, the most scathing condemnation ever heard at Aldershot after witnessing yesterday's maneuvers. He declared that the 30,000 men who participated were utterly unfit to send abroad, badly taught and badly led. Many distinguished officers listened to the remarks.

Diamonds In British Guiana.

Washington, Aug. 17.—Diamonds, considered by London dealers superior to those from South Africa, and valued at from 25 to 50 percent higher than those found in that region, have been discovered at the diggings up the Mazaruni river, in British Guiana, according to a letter to the state department from United States Consul Moulton at Demarara.

Had Rain and Sunshine.

Concord, N. H., Aug. 17.—The sixth day of New Hampshire's old home week furnished another example of New England's famous "open and shut" weather. A hard rain in the morning was followed in the afternoon by brilliant sunshine and the programs for the different celebrations of the day were revised accordingly.

His Courage Failed Him.

London, Aug. 17.—A youth, about 20 years old, was arrested at Leipsic yesterday, according to a dispatch from Berlin, who admits having conspired to kill King Albert of Saxony. He says he was appointed by lot to perform the deed, but that his courage failed him. His identity has not yet been established.

Creditors Will Lose Nothing.

New York, Aug. 17.—The creditors of D. Appleton & Co., publishers, will be paid 100 cents on the dollar. This statement is on the authority of James G. Gannon, chairman of the reorganization committee of D. Appleton & Co. This reorganization gives the house ample capital to carry on its business.

Deliberately Starved Children.

Charlotte, N. C., Aug. 17.—A paper at Wilson publishes an account of the killing by their father and his third wife of the four children of George Griffin, in Nash county. It is alleged that the children were imprisoned in an outhouse and allowed to die of starvation. The pair have been jailed.

VICTORIOUS MARCH.

The Allies Will Not Stop at Tung Chon.

China Promptly Informed That Our Attitude is Unchanged.

Gen Chaffee is Fully Authorized to Use His Judgment on Arrival at Pekin.

Washington, Aug. 17.—An urgent, almost pathetic, appeal of Li Hung Chang, submitted early yesterday to the state department, that the victorious march of the allies stop at Tung Chow, and that the military commanders in the field be instructed to arrange an armistice at that point, was met with a response that General Chaffee already had been given complete instructions empowering him to carry out an arrangement in concert with other commanders for the delivery of the ministers and persons under their protection to the relief column, not at Tung Chow, as had been suggested, but at the imperial city of Pekin.

Furthermore, it was made known to China that General Chaffee's instructions left him free rein as to whether he should insist upon entering Pekin and going to the legations or should receive the delivery of the legationers at the gate of the inner tartar city or at the great outer wall. In short, China, through her peace envoy, besought a halt and an armistice at Tung Chow, 12 miles from Pekin; whereas, the response of the American government is that, if there is to be a halt—an armistice—it must be at the walls of the imperial city.

The conclusions of the government were announced after an extended cabinet meeting. The president had just returned from a brief respite at Canton and found his advisors ready to present to him the issue now advanced by China. After the cabinet meeting the American reply was sent to the Chinese minister, who, later in the day, cabled it to Li Hung Chang.

Thus the issue was framed, finally and unalterably. The United States declined even to consider the proposition of Li Hung Chang for a halt and an armistice at Tung Chow. Even the supreme appeal of the venerable Chinese statesman that the Chinese empire would be shaken by an advance of the allies beyond Tung Chow was not heeded. The answer of the United States is that our position is the same now as it has been from the outset, namely, that the ministers must be delivered at the walls of Pekin and in such circumstances as will meet the judgment of the military commanders on the spot.

The American memorandum of reply gives Li Hung Chang practically nothing beyond a repetition of the two dispatches heretofore sent to General Chaffee. The first dispatch, of Aug. 12, gives a sharp response to Earl Li's first communication, laying down the condition that "the forces composing the relief expedition shall be permitted to enter Pekin unmolested." The second dispatch, of Aug. 14, merely amplifies General Chaffee's authority in anticipation of China's acceptance of the American demand that the relief column must "enter Pekin."

This second order to General Chaffee specifically states that if the Chinese authorities are willing to deliver the legationers "to relief column at Pekin," then General Chaffee is authorized to make and carry out an arrangement in concert with other commanders without awaiting a reference to Washington. Whether this arrangement committed to General Chaffee is to be an armistice, a truce, or some other device of military science, is for him to decide at Pekin. The two dispatches to him contemplate action only at Pekin.

Thus there can be no misunderstanding of the issue as made up. Li Hung Chang's appeal for an armistice at Tung Chow is rejected and the continually reiterated demand of the United States that the ministers be delivered to the allied troops at Pekin is reinforced.

The latest dispatch from Minister Conger brought little information beyond that already in hand. That the situation is desperate is shown by a statement that one of the attacks upon the legation occurred the night before the dispatch was sent. It is evident that the minister is informed of the approach of the allied column, as he says, "nearing allied forces give us hope."

Beyond the diplomatic exchanges of the day, and the receipt of the Conger message, the chief interest centered in the exact whereabouts of the allied armies. From Japanese sources came the most advanced information, first in the Tokio advices that Tung Chow had been occupied, and, later, in an official dispatch from the Japanese foreign office to Minister Takahira, confirming this report.

Some days had elapsed, however, since this occupation of Tung Chow, and there had been ample time to cover the 12 miles between that place and Pekin. Whether the allied forces actually were there was the all-absorbing question on which everyone awaited word with anxiety.

A dispatch was also received from Admiral Remey, conveying the Japanese report of the occupation of Tung Chow, and adding the statement, also on Japanese authority, that the attack on Pekin was expected to be made public. A dispatch was sent to General Chaffee, but its contents were not made public.

BRYAN TALKS TO NEIGHBORS.

Tells Why the Silver Question is Relegated to the Rear This Year.

Lincoln, Neb. Aug. 17.—Mr. Bryan returned to his home here yesterday after an absence of 10 days. He was met by a large concourse of people, who escorted him to his residence, and who, after listening to a speech there only dispersed to meet in the evening with many others at a reception given in the state capitol grounds. When they alighted from the train, Mr. and Mrs. Bryan were met by a local committee, who escorted them to carriages. There were speeches of welcome for both husband and wife.

In reply Mr. Bryan spoke at some length on national issues. He explained the reasons of his party for an apparent change of issues, saying: "Parties do not make issues; parties meet issues. In the campaign of 1890 the dominant question was the tariff question. Before 1892 the silver question began to rise into prominence, and in the campaign of 1892 we discussed both the tariff question and the silver question, but the silver question more than the tariff question. By 1894 the silver question had so risen in importance that it became the main question of discussion in this state. The Republicans carried this state and had two-thirds of the legislature, but the silver question went on increasing in importance until in 1896 we had the fight in the nation upon the same lines. After two years of consideration the people of Nebraska had so changed their minds that we carried the state by 24,000 majority. If we had had our way about it we would have in this campaign at this time the same questions we had in 1896.

"But the Republican party has brought into this campaign a new question, more important than all others. It attacks the fundamental principles upon which our government rests. Our contention is that our government is built on the doctrine that all men are created equal. Destroy that doctrine and there is no foundation upon which a free government can be built. If all men are created equal, if they are endowed with inalienable rights; if governments are instituted among men and derive their just powers from the consent of the governed, then this nation has no more right as a nation to claim the ownership of 8,000,000 Filipinos than one man has a right to claim the ownership of another man. The Republican party, which was not willing that a black man should be sold for $1000, now claims that a Filipino can be bought for $2.50. The principle is exactly the same."

In conclusion, Mr. Bryan advised his hearers to vote in November as their conscience should dictate.

Manley to "Take Off His Coat."

New York, Aug. 17.—Joseph H. Manley left for Maine yesterday afternoon. Before he left headquarters he said: "I expect to work. There is no easy thing ahead, even in Maine. I do not mean to say that Maine will go Democratic, but we will have to work to keep up the majority so as to make the fall-off from the majority of four years ago as small as possible. I do not expect the phenomenal majority of four years ago. That is why I say there is work ahead of me."

It was after Mr. Manley left that his mission was to see ex-Speaker Reed and use his moral suasion to get him to speak in Maine.

An Expert's Decision.

Fall River, Mass., Aug. 17.—The smallpox expert of the state board of health has pronounced the disease which afflicts Napoleon D'Amour to be smallpox. Doctors connected with the emergency hospital, where D'Amour was first taken, maintained that the disease was chickenpox. The decision of the state expert upholds the board of health.

Stabbed by Fellow Workman.

Gorham, Me., Aug. 17.—In a quarrel among Italian workmen on the Sebago Power company's dam at North Gorham, one, whose name is unknown, was probably fatally stabbed in the abdomen by another whose name is likewise unknown, and who made his escape. The men came from Boston about six weeks ago.

Good Afternoon.

The tax rates of Massachusetts cities are below that of New York city. This year the tax rate of the borough of Manhattan and Bronx in $22.40; Brooklyn, $23.20; Queens, $23.40; and Richmond, $22.50.

The Brockton Enterprise seems to think it is over-officious for Quincy newspapers to make suggestions now to the Brockton Street Railway Company which includes the Quincy & Boston system and operates several routes in Quincy. Well, I never! Further, the Enterprise is not altogether fair when it insinuates that the Ledger desires "anything but Brockton." We did not include Quincy in any of the names suggested, but did include Brockton when we suggested the name of Boston, Brockton & Newport.

Relative to the suggestion of "Mayflower Street Railway," or "Old Colony & Boston" the Enterprise gets real funny and says:

"Lovely idea isn't it? But, while our over-officious neighbors are about it, why don't they buy up the road, rechristen it the "John Adams and Miles Standish," stop all cars from running through the Shoe City and make Hanover Four Corners the head centre of the system?"

There are other places that would be as desirable for headquarters as Brockton including Egypt, Assinippi, and the Weymouth Town House, but that is not the question. The street railway system is no longer a local affair, and its name should not be confined to one city. The Ledger is not disturbed because "Brockton" is retained as a part of the title, but because the shoe city gobbles it all. Why not share?

Drift of Opinion.

☞ The Washington authorities will quietly investigate that Patterson, N. J., group of anarchists. And while they are about it they may as well look up the antecedents of that New Haven blatherskite, one Schirmer, who has been hinting that no harm would be done if President McKinley were put out of the way. There will never come a more opportune time to put a stopper on the jaws of all men who incite others to acts of violence than the present.—Haverhill Gazette.

☞ A New Haven street car company has adopted a rule that henceforth passengers must not stand on the running boards of street cars or between the seats. If a car is full, the passengers who waits on the street corner must continue to wait until another car comes along. Such a rule is excellent, but, of course, to its perfect working it is necessary that the company should run cars enough to accommodate all the travel. Some street car managers will say that this cannot be done at all times and will instance cases when an unforseen rush will overcrowd cars and when passengers will grumble if such a rule is strictly enforced. Something may be said in support of this contention, we agree; but the abuse of over-crowding cars will never be stopped by men who see only osbtacles in the way of a reform. There are in times in the history of every road when inadequate provision is made for travel that can be easily foreseen, and reform might well begin right there. Undoubtedly passengers will growl if such a rule is made and enforced, but the right way of meeting their fault-finding is to provide plenty of cars, not to allow the dangerous over-crowding to go on under the excuse that railway managers are powerless to prevent it. They have shown their ability to meet larger problems and we think they can meet his.—New Bedford Standard.

BUT FEW STRAIGHT TICKETS.

Much Independence in Quincy at Last State Election.

Not Confined to Either Party or Particular Ward.

Blanks Also Numerous for All the Offices that were Filled.

At this time, when politicians are preparing for the fall campaign, the situation is studied in all its phases, and all sorts of statistics are compiled. One of the most valuable, as relating to the coming State election in Quincy, is the following summary, showing at a glance the difference in vote by parties for each of the positions filled, both by wards and total vote.

Among the Republican candidates the total votes ranged from 1,763 down to 1277, while among the Democrats it ranged from 1,130 down to 800.

In Ward One the Republicans varied 88 and the Democrats 71; in Ward Two, 44 and 67; in Ward Three, precinct 1, 47 and 67; in Ward Three, precinct 2, 97 and 52; in Ward Four, precinct 1, 27 and 74; in Ward Four, precinct 2, 71 and 68; in Ward Five, 110 and 86; in Ward Six, 24 and 31.

It should be noted that there were five tickets for the State officers, but two for councillor and county commissioner, and three for senate and representative.

The blanks cut considerable figure, especially for some offices as will be seen:

PARK TAKINGS.

City Council Asked to Endorse Work of Commissioner.

Three takings have just been made by the Metropolitan Park Commissioners in Quincy for the Furnace Brook parkway as follows:

1—Adams street to Reardon street.

2—Reardon street to N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R.

3—N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. to Blue Hills Reservation.

The Ledger would be pleased to publish the exact location but the descriptions are very lengthy and far from comprehensive to the average readers, but the route is pretty well understood.

It is necessary that the City Council should concur with the Metropolitan Commissioners in the taking and for that purpose the following orders has been forwarded to City Clerk Cleaves.

"Ordered—That whereas the Metropolitan Park Commission duly established under and by virtue of an act of the Legislature of Massachusetts, being Chapter 407 of the Acts of the year 1893, has taken under authority conferred upon by Chapter 288 of the Acts of the year 1894, and for the purposes defined in said last-named act certain real estate described in an instrument of taking dated Aug. 1, 1900, a duly attested copy of which has been filed in the office of the City Clerk of the City of Quincy which real estate lies in said Quincy in the county of Norfolk and Commonwealth of Massachusetts and is shown upon a plan marked, "Commonwealth of Massachusetts Metropolitan Park Commission, Furnace Brook Parkway, plan of taking Adams street to Reardon street, Quincy, Mass., June 7, 1900, William T. Pierce, engineer," being Metropolitan Park Commissioners' plan No. 288, referred to in and to be recorded with said instrument of taking.

"Now, therefore the City Council of said Quincy hereby joins in and signifies its approval of said taking and its concurrence with the said Metropolitan Park Commission therein and in every act, matter and thing connected therewith."

A description of the takings is also at the office of the City Clerk but no plans. The plans however, may be seen at the office of the Metropolitan Commissioners.

Representative Sheppard, who has followed this subject closely, informs the Ledger that the Commission will immediately make the taking of the connecting link between Merrymount Park and Adams street near Eaton's ice pond, via. the valley of the brook.

Reunion of Old Fourth.

The old 4th Massachusetts regiment of the Civil war will hold its annual reunion on Thursday, Aug. 23, at Taunton. Capt. Curtis' company of Quincy was in this regiment and also others from this city, and Franklin Jacobs of Quincy is this year the president. The veterans will meet at Taunton, and go to Dighton Rock park for dinner at 1 P. M.

The picnic of the Boston Caledonian club was very largely attended, although Thursday was showery.

—It is stated that the first passenger train made the ascent of Mt. Washington in the spring of 1869. The engineer was Josiah Folsom, now of Lakeport.

When a Kiss Was Valuable.

The practice of kissing the hands was instituted by the early Roman rulers as a mark of subjection as much as one of respect, and under the first Cæsars the custom was kept up, but only for a time. These worthies conceived the idea that the proper homage due to their exalted station called for less familiar modes of obeisance, so the privilege of kissing the emperor's hand was reserved as a special mark of condescension or distinction for officers of high rank.

Roman fathers considered the practice of kissing of so delicate a nature that they never kissed their wives in the presence of their daughters. Then, too, only the nearest relatives were allowed to kiss their kindred of the gentler sex on the mouth, for in those days, as now, kissing was not a mere arbitrary sign, but it was the spontaneous language of the affections, especially that of love.

Under the Romans if a lover kissed his betrothed before marriage she inherited half of his wordly goods in the event of his death before the marriage ceremony, and if she died her heritage descended to her nearest relatives.—Frank H. Vizetelly in Woman's Home Companion.

Easy Remedy.

Doctor—Good morning, Mr. Lover. What can I do for you?

Mr. Lover—I—I called, sir, to—to ask for the hand of—of your daughter.

"Humph! Appetite good?"

"Not very."

"How is your pulse?"

"Very rapid when—when I am with her, very feeble when away."

"Troubled with palpitation?"

"Awfully when I think of her."

"Take my daughter. You'll soon be cured. One guinea, please."—Pearson's Weekly.

Chinese as Cooks.

Second only to the French are the Chinese when it comes to culinary skill, and with simple materials they will contrive to put together a meal which would shame an ordinary American cook. In peasant families the wife or daughter does the cooking, but in all large establishments the cooks are invariably men.

Innumerable are the illusions and legerdemain tricks of custom, but of all these perhaps the cleverest is her knack of persuading us that the miraculous by simple repetition ceases to be miraculous.—Carlyle.

Bangkok is a city of waters. It is an Indo-Chinese Venice. More people live in floating houses on the Menam, "the Nile of Siam," and the many canals than in permanent buildings.

WHY FURNITURE PRICES ARE LOWER HERE.

It's an easy question to answer, because facts prove it so. We buy our Furniture from the largest factories in the West, at the lowest market prices. Our expenses are about one-quarter as much as those of Boston Stores. Our customers do not help pay for expensive advertisements, high rents, enormous taxes and costly delivery. These few facts you should weigh well in your mind.

You can buy Furniture, Carpetings, Ranges, and Pianos, lower here than in any store in New England. We are saving money for thousands of families in Quincy and the surburban towns, we can do the same for you.

A Provoked Assault.

On Tuesday Conductor Marr of the Boston Milton & Brockton division of the Brockton street railway was laid off by the division manager Francis M. Perry because his car had violated one of the rules.

That evening Marr hunted up Perry in the car barn on Reedsdale road and the two went to the office. Marr endeavored to learn for what length of time he had been laid of, and failing to get satisfaction said he would go to the main office at Brockton. Perry claims he used abusive language, which Marr denies. Perry ordered Marr out of the office, and when he did not go used force although, Marr weighs 200 and Perry 145.

In the Quincy court this morning both men were represented by counsel. Marr exhibited marks of the assault, and Perry claimed provocation. Witnesses testified to the good character of Perry.

The court found the defendant guilty and imposed a fine of $20. Perry appealed and furnished sureties.

Fate's Queer Doings.

New York, Aug. 17.—Stephen Peacock of Yonkers and George Peacock of Peekskill were drowned Thursday in the Hudson river. They were cousins, and went swimming at the same hour, Stephen at Yonkers and George at Peekskill. The boys became exhausted and were drowned. Each father sent a telegram to his brother telling him of the loss, and each father received it at the water's edge while aiding in the efforts to recover the bodies.

Struck Woman With Iron Bar.

New York, Aug. 17.—Peter Wood, 40 years old, who keeps a boarding house, is under arrest on suspicion of having killed Mrs. Kate Reilly, 35 years old, who was stopping there on Sunday. His own child says he hit Mrs. Reilly on the head with an iron bar.

Evidently Work of Professionals.

Wolfville, N. S., Aug. 17.—The office of the Dominion Atlantic railroad here was entered by burglars and the safe was robbed of a considerable sum of money. The safe was blown open with dynamite and completely wrecked. The burglars are unknown.

Clergyman Becomes Insane.

Fredonia, N. Y., Aug. 17.—Rev. Oscar L. Concannon, a well known materializing medium, who for some time has been conducting spirit manifestations at Lilydale, went suddenly insane Thursday, and attempted to kill Jacob Scheu, a hotel man, but was overpowered and placed in a strait-jacket.

Charged With Stealing a Horse.

Marlboro, Mass., Aug. 17.—Timothy Horan, 25 years old, was held for the grand jury Thursday on the charge of horse stealing. He was arrested in Hopedale on the charge of taking an animal from James Hogan.

—The yacht race to have been held by the Annisquam yacht club on Thursday was postponed because of the gale, rain and fog.

EIGHT MORE FEET

Would Have Given the Butcher Boys First Prize.

The firemen's muster at Waltham on Thursday was a great success notwithstanding the weather. The first five in the summary below won the prizes of $200, $150, $100, $50, and a fire extinguisher while the Winnissimmetts received a box of cigars:

The Noon Fire.

The alarm at 12.40 this afternoon from Box 25, at the corner of Canal and Newcomb streets, was for a chimney fire at the ancient mansion on Canal street, near the corner of Brackett street.

The house is occupied by Victor Prout and John Vincent and the fire was in the part occupied by Mr. Prout. No damage. Hose 4 and Hose 2 both respond to this box, and both made remarkably quick runs.

He Crushed the Hecklers.

The man who asks questions and insists on their being answered is a familiar presence at all party meetings. He is known as the heckler. The speaker is not allowed to disregard him. If a statement is disputed, it is the orator's place to make it good. Any member of the audience may rise to his feet and shout out a contradiction whenever he feels like it, and by the custom of English public life the speaker is expected to make some reply on the spot.

Mr. Chamberlain was always a dangerous man to cross in debate, but the personal feeling against him was so bitter for years after his withdrawal from the ranks of the separatists that many an unhappy man was driven to tilt against his shield. It was delicious to watch Mr. Chamberlain's handling of the situation. He would pause when the interruption grew serious and give the heckler a chance to make himself well heard. "Now if you will allow me I will ask that gentleman to get upon a chair that we may all have the pleasure of seeing him." A dozen anxious hands would hoist the objector into unwelcome prominence. "Now, sir," came the clear, passionless voice, "will you kindly speak up? I should be sorry if any one missed what you have to say."

The heckler, now quite unnerved, would stammer out something, and Mr. Chamberlain, listening with a malicious smile, would quietly readjust his eyeglass and, turning to the audience, fling out a reply—cool, cutting and decisive.—Sydney Brooks in Harper's Magazine.

How Twain Introduced Hawley.

"Only once did Mark Twain appear in public as a political speaker," says Will M. Clemens in Ainslee's. "As a conscientious Republican in his political preferences Mr. Clemens took an active interest in the presidential campaign of 1880. While visiting in Elmira, N. Y., in the fall of that year he made a short speech one Saturday night, introducing to a Republican meeting General Hawley of Connecticut. In the course of his remarks Mr. Clemens said:

"'General Hawley is a member of my church at Hartford and the author of "Beautiful Snow." Maybe he will deny that. But I am only here to give him a character from his last place. As a pure citizen I respect him, as a personal friend of years I have the warmest regard for him, as a neighbor whose vegetable garden adjoins mine, why—why, I watch him. As the author of "Beautiful Snow" he has added a new pang to winter. He is a square, true man in honest politics, and I must say he occupies a mighty lonesome position. So broad, so bountiful is his character that he never turned a tramp empty handed from his door, but always gave him a letter of introduction to me. Pure, honest, incorruptible, that is Joe Hawley. Such a man in politics is like a bottle of perfumery in a glue factory—it may moderate the stench, but it doesn't destroy it. I haven't said any more of him than I would say of myself. Ladies and gentlemen, this is General Hawley.'"

SWARMS OF LOCUSTS.

South Africans Consider It Sinful to Destroy Them.

A correspondent writes of the numerous swarms of locusts which from time to time settle on South African farms, and the method by which the farmers destroy them. The locusts cover everything, and are described as blotting out the sun in their flight till it seemed shining through an orange mist. The rush of their wings fills the air with sound like the roaring of a storm through a pine forest, and the bodies of those which, wearied with flight, fell to the earth covered the ground like a living carpet. Seen at a little distance the main body of the swarm resembles a snowstorm, the wings diaphanous in the sunlight, drifting along before the wind or sinking softly toward the ground. It is impossible to ride through the living mass, as the buffeting of the face and hands of the rider becomes intolerable. As seen from behind the swarm is visible for miles, trailing across the country like a big band of smoke floating along before the breeze. When the swarm alights it destroys every green blade of vegetation, and leaves behind it a track of ruin and desolation. A method of dealing with the pests with fair effectiveness, even in the fully developed flying insect stage, has been discovered in the colony. A fungus has been found which thrives rapidly on their bodies with invariably fatal effect. The disease spreads with extraordinary rapidity, and if once a swarm be infected the whole mass of insects disappears in a few days' time. Cultures of the fungus are supplied to the farmers by the government, and when a swarm approaches a neighborhood all the farmer has to do is to ride out with a can of the material and a sprinkler of twigs, and sprinkle it here and there on the insects as they fly past him. In a few days there will be an end of that particular swarm. It is mentioned as characteristic of the mental development of the local Dutch that they refuse to have anything to do with the new method of exterminating what is one of the greatest obstacles to successful farming in South Africa. They say God created the locusts and it is sinful to destroy them.

New Cure For Seasickness.

Oxygen is the newest cure for seasickness. The remedy comes from Paris, where two physicians have been engaged for some time in the attempt to lessen one difficulty in the way of American visitors to the exposition. Nor could any more welcome service be rendered.

The first steps toward the invention of a new remedy was to determine what seasickness really is. The conclusion at which these wise doctors arrived is that "the great and sudden disturbance of the viscera and the contraction of the diaphragm are the principal causes of seasickness." Oxygen, they accordingly decided, was the logical remedy.

The proper course for the traveler, then, is to provide himself with a supply of tubes containing pure oxygen. At the first symptoms of seasickness some of the oxygen should be inhaled, but only through the mouth, the nostrils being kept closed. The inhalations should be long and made at regular intervals.

Favors Late Suppers.

A London doctor in an interview recently spoke strongly against the theory that late suppers are injurious. He declares, in fact, that many persons who remain thin and weakly, in spite of all precautions in regard to diet, etc., owe the fact largely to habitual abstemiousness at night. He says, very truly, that physiology teaches us that, in sleeping, as in waking, there is a perpetual waste going on in the tissues of the body and it seems but logical that nourishment should be continuous as well. The digestion of the food taken at dinner time or in the early evening is finished, as a usual thing, before or by bedtime, yet the activity of the processes of assimilation, etc., progresses for hours afterward. And when one retires with an empty stomach the result of this activity is sleeplessness and an underwasting of the system.

Insulation Not Necessary.

An interesting and instructive experiment, which developed valuable information, was recently carried out in connection with the Mont Blanc observatory. The investigators, one of whom lost his life in carrying out the work, connected the top of Mont Blanc with the station at Grand-Mulets, a distance of over a mile, by a large galvanized iron wire, laid directly on the surface of the ice. This was done in order to determine the insulating power of the glacier, which they found to be almost perfect. The importance of establishing this fact lies in its inestimable value to exploring parties in ice-fields and high mountain regions, as communication can thus easily be maintained with a base.

To Perfume Air In Rooms.

A French doctor has devised a new method which is quite ingenious and interesting should it work satisfactorily. He arranges two papers something on the style of seidlitz powders. In the white one is binoxide of barium saturated with a perfume in a concentrated form. This should first be enclosed in tin foil or oil paper. In the blue or colored paper is powdered permanganate of potash in the proper proportions to liberate oxygen when the two powders are mixed in a solution. The idea is that the liberated ozone, or oxygen, will carry and diffuse the perfume in the room. For disinfecting purposes, if desirable, the perfume could be omitted.—Practical Druggist.

THE BEST THEY KNOW.

YOU remember the old lady who rode for the first time on a railway train. There was a frightful collision, but when the rescuers reached her she was quite calm. She said she supposed they always stopped that way. The story well illustrates why so many women are satisfied to live without Ivory Soap. They have never tried it! Naturally enough, they think that annoying odors, sharp chemicals, and wasteful greasiness are common to all soaps.

MUST NOT WITHDRAW.

Troops Should Remain In Pekin After the Delivery of Legations.

Japan Is Said to Be Negotiating For an Armistice.

Unconfirmed Report From Hong Kong That the Capital Has Been Captured.

London, Aug. 17.—American negotiations looking to a cessation of hostilities receive considerable attention favorable and otherwise, in this morning's papers, but all the editorials agree that to precipitate a withdrawal from Pekin after the delivery of the legations would have a bad effect upon the Chinese minds.

The consensus of opinion expressed by the morning papers tends to the belief that the legations are now safe with the allies.

Describing the capture of Ho Si Wu, a special dispatch says that the headgear of the Americans was quite insufficient for the awful heat, and that the consequences were direful.

The western powers, according to a dispatch to The Daily Express from Kobe, have accepted the proposals formulated by Japan for arranging an armistice, dependent upon the immediate delivery of the foreign legations to the allies or the granting of permission to the allied forces to enter Pekin and to guard the legations. Upon these bases, the correspondent says, Japan has already begun to negotiate.

Shanghai dispatches declare that the Chinese had intended to make a final attack upon the legations last Sunday, but whether the plan was carried out is not known there.

A cablegram to Vienna from Hong Kong announces the capture of Pekin, but the Austrian government, like other European powers, is still without confirmation of this report.

An official telegram, dated Taku, Aug. 14, has been received at Rome which asserts that the attack on Pekin began Monday; that Sir Claude MacDonald, the British minister, has opened communication with the relieving force, and that the allies have established their headquarters at Tung Chau.

Chinese officials in Shanghai are reported as admitting that the allies inflicted a heavy defeat on the Chinese imperial troops around Tung Chau Sunday and then marched direct on Pekin. This, if true, carries the Japanese official advices announcing the capture of Tung Chau one step further.

Fatal Canoeing Accident.

Waltham, Mass., Aug. 17.—In company with W. H. Thomas, a young woman was paddling a canoe up the Charles river Thursday night, the craft was overturned, and both were thrown into the water. The young woman sank, and Thomas was about to sink when the river police pulled him from the water. Thomas could not tell the name of his companion. He said that he had met her several weeks ago at a party, and that he had met her again Thursday night at Waltham.

Union Will Order Boycott.

New York, Aug. 17.—The 60 workmen at the hat factory of Fred Berg & Co., Orange, N. J., who went on strike Wednesday, resumed work Thursday. Non-union men employed at the factory having been discharged the union men returned to work. At the hat factory of Eugene V. Connell & Co the union men employed by the firm are all at work, but the officers of the Hatters' union say that all goods produced by the factory will be boycotted.

Strike Was Not Justified.

Cleveland, Aug. 17.—Through the efforts of Daniel J. Keefe, president of the International Longshoremen's union, the strike of the package freight handlers here was settled last night. The men returned to work at the same wages they received before they struck, namely 35 cents an hour, and 40 cents an hour for overtime. President Keefe found that the strike was not justified by the agreement with the dock companies.

Burghers Unwilling to Give Up.

London, Aug. 17.—A British correspondent, recently released from captivity, asserts positively that Mr. Kruger wishes peace, but that the fighting commandants insist upon continuing the war, and would prevent his flight by force, if necessary. The burghers, according to the same authority, share this view. The Transvaalers have 90 guns at Machadodorp, with abundant provisions.

Death of a Chief Justice.

Atlantic City, Aug 17.—Chief Justice Henry Green of the supreme court of Pennsylvania died here Thursday from uraemic poisoning. His death was unexpected, as he had been ill only one day. Wednesday morning he complained of a severe headache after arising. At noon he went into convulsions and became unconscious during the afternoon.

Troops and Supplies For the East.

San Francisco, Aug. 17.—The transport Warren sailed Thursday with the Ninth (colored) cavalry for Taku, by way of Nagasaki. The Siam, with more than 5000 tons of freight for Honolulu, Guam and Manila, and the Aztec, with horses for China, also sailed.

Fire Chief Killed.

New York, Aug. 17.—Battalion Chief Charles A. Lane of the city fire department of Brooklyn was killed last night at Jamaica. A buggy in which he was driving was hit by a Brooklyn Rapid Transit trolley car, and he was instantly killed.

Crops Laid Low.

Lincoln, Neb. 17.—Wind and hailstorms of unusual severity visited Nebraska Thursday. Crops were ruined, and in some cases small buildings were blown down and wrecked. The damage to crops will amount to more than $100,000.

EX-SENATOR INGALLS DEAD.

Born In Massachusetts. He Went to Kansas and Became a Leading Citizen.

Las Vegas, N. M., Aug 17.—Ex-Senator John J. Ingalls of Kansas died here Thursday. His remains were started for Atchison, Kas., his late home, in the afternoon, accompanied by Mrs. Ingalls and her young son, Sheffield. In accordance with a special request of Senator Ingalls every feature of the funeral will be simple. The direct cause of death was bronchitis.

EX-SENATOR INGALLS.

John James Ingalls was born in Middleton, Mass., Dec. 29, 1833. His father, who was a shoe dealer in moderate circumstances, proposed to bring him up to his own business, but young Ingalls, like many other bright boys, made up his mind to be a missionary, and then to edit a newspaper; but when the time for actually choosing a profession came he selected the law.

On leaving college he studied law at Haverhill, Mass., and as soon as he had completed the necessary preliminaries he went west. With $70 in his pocket he reached what was then the far west, and settled at Sumner, Kas. Here he began to practice his profession for a living. This proved somewhat difficult at first. Money was scarce then in Kansas. His earliest client, who was a carpenter, paid his fee by making him a table and a desk, which are still preserved among the furniture in the senator's house.

Before the war broke out he removed to Atchison, where for a time he edited the Atchison Champion, besides helping to start the Kansas Magazine. Here, too, he was married to Miss Anna Cheeseborough, the daughter of a New York merchant. During the war he held a commission as lieutenant colonel of Kansas volunteers.

He was first elected to the United States senate in 1872, and was twice re-elected. When he went to Washington he was not known in the east, and was met with a certain amount of coldness. This he quickly overcame, and was long regarded as one of the brainiest members of his party. Early in 1887, when John Sherman resigned the presidency of the senate, Mr. Ingalls was chosen to succeed him in that office, which position he filled until 1891. Since leaving the senate in 1891 Mr. Ingalls had not held public office, but was engaged in lecturing and as a journalist.

Cambridge Vets Took First Prize.

Waltham, Mass., Aug. 17.—The prize winners at the annual muster of the New England Veteran Firemen's association Thursday were as follows: First prize, $200, Red Jacket, Cambridge, 212 feet 9 2-4 inches; second, $150, Baw Beese, South Gardner, 212 feet 9 inches; third, $100, Brockton No. 3, Brockton, 211 feet 11 1-2 inches; fourth, $50, General Butler, Lowell, 209 feet 2 1-2 inches. The New Bedford veterans were awarded the Springfield trophy cup for presenting the best appearance in the line.

Insulation Problem Solved.

New York, Aug. 17.—A patent has been granted to Nicola Tesla for an invention which, if his claims are borne out, will prevent the escape of electricity from a wire. Tesla insulates the wire by passing through it or near it air kept at a low temperature, producing a coat of ice on the wire which, the inventor finds, cannot be broken through by the strongest currents, and at the same time gives an insulation that costs practically nothing.

Body Received Two Thousand Volts.

Cambridge, Mass., Aug. 17.—Harry E. Wells, 23 years old, was instantly killed Thursday night by a shock of 2000 volts of electricity. He was employed at the local electric light station. While he was standing on an iron crane, his right leg came in contact with a live wire, thus completing the circuit.

Will Be Paine and Mack.

Boston, Aug. 17.—The Post says that the Democratic state ticket this fall will be Robert Treat Paine, Jr., and John H. Mack—the same ticket as last fall. The state committee will meet next week, and decide upon the candidates and place of holding the state convention.

Many Victims of Explosion.

Philadelphia, Aug. 17.—Six men were badly injured by an explosion of gas Thursday at the Atlantic Refining company's works. One of the injured men died, another is in a serious condition, while the injuries of three of the others may prove fatal.

Child Was Thrown In River.

Somersworth, N. H., Aug. 17.—In a satchel which was taken from the Berwick side of the Salmon Falls river was found the badly decomposed remains of an infant, wrapped in a Haverhill paper of May 5, 1899, and Boston papers of April, 1899.

Weather Conditions and Forecast.

Almanac, Saturday, Aug. 18.
Sun rises—4:54: sets, 6:41.
Moon rises—11:35 p. m.
High water—5:15 a. m.; 5:30 p. m.

Local rains and thunderstorms have prevailed in a narrow belt extending from eastern Nebraska to the Atlantic coast. Local rains along the New England coast have caused a temporary break in the hot weather. Local rains and thunderstorms are indicated for northern New England. The temperature changes will be unimportant. On the coast the winds will be light to fresh northwesterly.

A Speech That Made a Hit.

Edward Hanlan, ex-champion oarsman of the world, related a good story of how he delivered a speech after winning his second race in England. His first victory had found him unprepared. He was ready for his second with a speech composed for him by a newspaper friend neatly copied out on paper and stored away for use in his coat pocket.

When the crowd outside the clubhouse insisted upon seeing and hearing the winner, he was helped out upon a window ledge by his friends and held there by the coattails and the legs. The crowd cheered him wildly. He was too confused to speak. They cheered him again. He threw out his hand in a gesture of helplessness and moved his lips in some inaudible mumble of apology for his inability to deliver a speech. They could not hear on account of the noise that they were themselves making, but they encouraged him with a generous applause. He saw his escape and proceeded to shake his head and work his lips in a fine frenzy of oratory, gesticulating eloquently and smiling his thanks. The noisy and good natured crowd cheered him to the echo, and his friends drew him in from his precarious position on the window ledge.

"You carried that crowd along in style," they congratulated him. "What did you say? We couldn't hear you." "Yes. Give us an idea of your speech," the reporters put in, drawing out their notebooks.

Hanlan took the manuscript from his pocket. "Here's the whole thing," he said. "Do you want it all?"

"Well, rather," they answered. "That speech made a hit."—Argonaut.

Why He Carries a Cane.

"You wonder why I always carry a cane except when I am carrying an umbrella," remarked a well known Philadelphian the other afternoon. "Well, I don't mind telling you. It's all on account of umbrellas."

"Can't see the connection," rejoined the friend to whom he was talking.

"Didn't suppose you could. But you will when I have explained. You lose an umbrella every once in awhile, don't you? Put it down somewhere and walk off and leave it?"

"Yes; I have had that happen to me frequently."

"Well, I used to, but not since I took to carrying a cane. An acquaintance in Chicago put me on to the scheme. 'Get a cane of some kind,' he said to me one day, 'and carry it every day and every night that it doesn't rain. By that means you become so accustomed to having something in your hand you are lost without it. Then when a rainy day or evening comes and you are compelled to carry an umbrella about with you the benefit comes in. Say you have gone into a restaurant and when you come out the rain has stopped. You walk out into the street without your umbrella. Presto! After you have taken perhaps a dozen steps you miss something. Your cane carrying hand is minus the burden it usually bears. Back go your thoughts to your umbrella and back go your steps to get it. Simple? Of course it is, but the simple things oftentimes prove the most valuable."—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Four Legged Weather Prophets.

Though the tortoise is an excellent weather prophet, the fact is known to comparatively few people. Tortoise farmers on the African coast notice that even 24 hours before rain falls these curious animals prepare for it by seeking the convenient shelter of overhanging rocks. It may be a bright, clear, sunshiny morning, but the farmers believe implicitly in the tactics of the tortoise, who is seldom mistaken, for the downpour is certain to come within the time stated.

A pet tortoise would be a practical present to bestow on one's friends. This curious premonition of the approach of rain is shared by many other animals and birds and may be explained partially by the fact that while rain is forming the atmosphere is increasing in weight, but there may also be some need of moisture which makes them aware of its approach or some habits of life which make them thus sensitive.—Chicago Record.

Cool and Methodical.

A lawyer who worthily bears a distinguished name occupies an old fashioned mansion on the edge of New York. His sister, who lives with him, tells a laughable story, which is reported in Harper's Round Table, illustrating his coolness and love of method.

Recently his sister tiptoed into his room some time after midnight and told him she thought burglars were in the house. The lawyer put on his dressing gown and went down stairs.

In the back hall he found a rough looking man trying to open a door that led into the back yard. The burglar had unlocked the door and was pulling at it with all his might. The lawyer, seeing the robber's predicament, called to him:

"It does not open that way, you idiot! It slides back!"

The Blue Pencil.

"This," said the man who was showing the visitors about the office of the metropolitan daily, "is the copy readers' room. It is the place where the matter sent in for publication is boiled down to the right dimensions."

"Doesn't that make it warm?" giggled one of the young women.

"No," he replied. "But the men who write the stuff get pretty hot over it sometimes."—Chicago Tribune.

His Advice.

"Is it hard to propose to a girl?" asked the novice in affairs of the heart.

"Sometimes it's a good deal harder not to propose," returned the man of worldly experience thoughtfully. "It's always well to be on your guard."

PARK ASSESSMENTS.

City Solicitor Sears Forwards a Brief.

Place of Future Expenditures a Factor.

Bulk of Expenditures Have Been North of Boston.

Mayor Hall, City Solicitor Sears, Principal Assessor Thompson and others have given the subject of Metropolitan Park Assessments consideration and the City Solicitor submitted this week the following brief to the Commissioners who will apportion the cost and maintenance of Metropolitan parks among the cities and towns of the district:

PARKS.

In December, 1893 the Metropolitan Park Commission determined to and did take two thousand five hundred and seventy-three (2,573) acres of land within the city of Quincy for the purpose of the Blue Hills Reservation. This land was situated in the southwesterly portion of the city, being a portion of what is known as West Quincy, and before its taking was useful as a residential or manufacturing place. The land was rich in granite material, which was and could in the future have been worked as quarries.

The value of the land and buildings taken was seventy-five thousand dollars.

The taxes received by the city from the above land and buildings in that year was about one thousand five hundred dollars.

BOULEVARDS.

Thus far there is not within the city any boulevard constructed or being used; recently, however the Park Commission has taken or purchased land for boulevard purposes, beginning at Hancock street, Atlantic, through which village the proposed boulevard follows the seashore through Wollaston to Merrymount Park. It is proposed also to acquire the land from Merrymount Park to Adams street within the near future.

It is further contemplated by the Park Commission to continue the boulevard from Hancock street, following Furnace Brook through West Quincy to the Blue Hills Reservation, in accordance with studies and schemes outlined by the landscape architects and engineers of the Commission.

The entire length of the boulevard already assured is a little less than two miles, and that proposed to be acquired in the future about three miles more, approximately. The road construction is to be of gravel and not expensive.

The taxable property taken from the city by reason of the entire length of the boulevard when completed will be (estimated) one hundred thousand dollars. The taxes heretofore received by the city for the same (estimated), two thousand dollars.

PROBABLE EXPENDITURES.

The figures of the Park Commission show that a comparatively small part of the entire appropriation has been expended in the vicinity of Quincy, the larger portion being to the north and northwest of Boston, and almost inaccessible to Quincy, and if in the future the Park Commission expend the three million dollars remaining in the same proportion that it has the five million dollars already expended, due allowance should be made to the territory lying south of Boston, of which Quincy form a part. We believe we are safe in saying that the Parks Commission intends to expend but a small amount of money in the further development of the Blue Hills Reservation; and in case the Commission should do otherwise, that it, substantially develop this reservation then it is a matter to be considered, so far as Quincy is concerned, in the next apportionment.

THE CITY'S OWN PARKS.

We desire to call the attention of the Board to the fact that before the Metroplitan Park scheme was actually undertaken Quincy was well provided with parks and playgrounds. Through the munificence of two of its citizens, Merrymount Park, comprising ninety odd acres and adjoining Quincy Bay, and Faxon Park, comprising over thirty acres, were respectively given to the city, and upon which the city has expended a considerable sum of money in improvements.

Further, the city has, under the playgrounds act, purchased and reserved five different playgrounds (aggregating over thirty acres) located in various sections of the city, the bare cost of acquiring land being about $50,000. So it will be observed that so far as "space for air, for light for exercise, for rest, and for the enjoyment of that peaceful beauty of nature which is so wonderfully refreshing to the tired souls of townspeople," the city of Quincy has well anticipated the future comfort of its citizens.

BASIS OF APPORTIONMENT.

We are of the opinion that the true rule which the Commission should follow in making up a just and equitable assessment should be the benefit derived by each municipality. Conceiving, however, the impractability of arriving at a fair adjustment upon this basis, we believe that the most equitable apportionment under the circumstances is upon the valuation of the taxable property within the various cities and towns, each paying its proportionate part according thereto.

It is the fact that the Legislature has made a district of the various cities and towns to be assessed under the statute, and we see no reason why this district should not pay according to the wealth of its various communities.

The district is not unlike a large county or a large city, where all public improvements are paid for according to the valuation of the property.

Death of H. W. Walters.

Mrs. T. J. Dion of West Quincy mourns the loss of her father, who died in Hull, Canada, the first of the week. A local paper says:

The death occurred yesterday morning of Mr. Henry T. Walters, of the Chelsea road, Hull, a gentleman well known in the sister cities and vicinity. The deceased was an old resident of Hull, where he conducted an axe making business for years.

Deceased was a member of the Masonic order and an attendant at St. James' Anglican church, Hull. He was 66 years old. He leaves a widow and family of five boys and two daughters. The sons are David, Harry, Henry, James and Morley. One daughter, single, lives at home, the other, the wife of Dr. T. J. Dion resides at Quincy, Mass.

Harry or Hal, as he is popularly called, and Morley, are well known athletes. Both are now serving in the second Canadian contingent in South Africa.

Political Potpourri.

Councilman George H. Wilson and ex-Councilman William T. Shea are suggested as Democratic candidates for the Legislature this year. Both are popular and at the same time successful business men.

The Democratic State Committee will meet next Saturday to select dates for the caucuses, and time and place for the State convention.

The Republican caucuses in Boston will be held on the later of the two dates, Sept. 25.

The friends of Henry E. Turner are getting rather bitter in their attack on Gen. John W. Kimball, the present State Auditor.

The Democratic State ticket will probably be Paine and Mack as last year.

It is said that Councilman Elisha Packard is the candidate of the Lalapaloosa club for Mayor.

The Post reports that Senator Lodge is quite enthusiastic over the prospects of success in the tenth district, but refuses to declare his preference as to the nominee. The reason for this is that John Shaw, Dr. Pierce and ex-Senator Towle are all good friends of his, and he is not prepared to choose. He will however, stump the district for the Republican candidate because he is opposed to the present Democratic Congressman, the Hon. Henry F. Naphen.

Annisquam Race.

The first yachts in their classes at Annisquan yesterday were: Flirt, Althea, Runaway Girl, Dauntless, Evelyn, Only One, It and Tobasco. The order in Class A was: Flirt, Hanley, Early Dawn, Hermes, Empress, Al Kyris and Cartoon.

Another race was sailed in the afternoon when the first boats were: Empress, Alethea, Runaway Girl, Dauntless, Evelyn, Only One and It. The order in Class A was: Empress, Flirt, Hanley, Al Kyris, Hermes, Early Dawn and Cartoon.

SIXTH DAY.

SHOTGUN SOVEREIGNTY.

It was Sunday morning. What a Sabbath experience, thought Mrs. Hurst and the girls as they conjured up visions of Fifth avenue and the richly dressed churchgoing procession of which they usually formed a part! What a Sabbath experience, thought Chester Ives as he stood facing the motley gang of cutthroats, while down the gloomy vista of the cavern he could see the forms of the women huddled together on the sand for protection and comfort, while a few paces away stood a couple of the gang on guard.

"This ain't quite as tony as that there car o' yourn," began Jim Dallon, addressing Mr. Draper, "but it's good enough for poor devils like us, and p'r'aps you and your lady frien's can manage to worry along. You ain't obliged to stay here no longer than you like," he added truculently.

"Why have we been brought here?" inquired John Draper.

"Well, pard, it's just this way," said Dallon, who did all the talking. "Some people gits all the fat in this life, and some gits all the lean. Here's you, f'r instance," checking off the index finger of his left hand with his right forefinger, "and here's us," indicating the second finger. "By all signs you've got more money'n you know what to do with, and we've got none. I don't ask you how you come by it—you got it, and that's enough fer me," he said savagely, looking around at his auditors.

"That's the kind o' talk, cap'n," said one, while angry looks were directed on the chief object of their attack, John Draper.

"Such bein the case," resumed the outlaw, with forced politeness, "the present perceedin's has for their objec' the unloadin o' some o' your surplus cash for the benefit o' the poor laborin man. Ain't that so, boys?"

"Right you are, Cap'n Jim," was the unanimous answer.

"Now," said Dallon, resuming his argument, "how much do you vally yourself at, John Draper?"

"Oh, I'm not a rich man, as rich men go," replied Draper, affecting to misunderstand the fellow's meaning and fencing with him.

"I don't mean that," hastily rejoined Dallon. "I know how much money y've got soaked away—about five millions o' dollars, I guess. What I mean is, How much do you vally that hide o' yours—wot's it worth to you to get out o' this scrape?"

Draper was silent. Chester Ives stood by, taking no part in the colloquy, yet closely noting every word. Filley, too, could not help being interested in the outcome of the duel of words—indeed, he experienced a fellow feeling for the robber. Their trades were not so far apart, and perhaps he might do worse than join the gang when his own private and particular crash came.

While the president hesitated, weighing all the chances, considering the sufferings of the ladies, seeing clearly that worse might follow if Dallon were enraged and also running over in his mind the chances of rescue or escape, the captain of the band resumed:

"Might as well understand that yer trapped hard and fast. Oh, yes, they'll send out a search party from Denver," he laughed, reading Draper's thoughts, "and they'll maybe find them kyars. What then? They can't find yous, not till I choose. You're a long cry from the railroad anyways." Then, stepping forward, he hissed in Draper's ear:

"How about the women folks? I shouldn't like 'em to git hurted, but I won't answer for the boys. If you're ugly, they'll be ugly too."

This decided John Draper. They were in a hole, that was clear. Better get out with as little damage as possible. So he said curtly:

"Name your price."

The gang crowded around in eagerness now that the crucial point was reached. Dallon was clearly embarrassed. It was his move. If he asked too much, the negotiations would be prolonged and thus increase the chances of detection. On the other hand, if he named too little he would "everlastingly kick himself," as he elegantly phrased his inward thoughts. Twice he moistened his lips and essayed to speak, but the words refused to come. At length he rapped out:

"Fifty thousand dollars!"

"Done!" exclaimed Draper as quietly as though he were buying a block of stock on 'change in New York. "But you don't suppose I carry that much money about me, do you?" he inquired.

"Not on yer life!" was the slangy rejoinder. "I've thought o' that," said Dallon in a swaggering tone, elated and conceited at the success of his plot and strutting before his men like the monarch of a barnyard.

"You got a checkbook, I s'pose?"

"Yes."

"Well, your name's good in Denver for a heap more'n $50,000."

"I see what you mean," replied Draper. "But I'll be fair and plain with you. No bank in Denver would cash a check for any one of you men for $5 without identification, much less for $50,000. The man that presents that check will be detained and questioned, and then your whole plot is exposed."

"You make me tired!" snorted Dallon. "As if I hadn't thought of all that. What do you take me for, a farmer? D'you think I'm such a fool as to show me face in Denver or to let one o' me boys do it? Not much! What's the matter with havin one o' your friends go to the bank—him or him," pointing first at Ives and then at Filley, "with a escort, o' course, I mean," he added hastily. "I guess he can git the money, and as he knows what it's fer he ain't goin to expose no plot. Hey, what d'you say?"

The thing was feasible certainly and proved that Dallon had engineered his vile scheme in a fiendishly clever manner. Uncle John thought a moment and then said:

"Yes, it will do."

"Course it'll do," growled Dallon. "Now, which o' these 'ere young gents is to go?"

If the light of the cave had not been so dim, Reuben Filley's manner must have attracted attention. He trembled from head to foot; his parched lips needed constant moistening, while great drops of sweat beaded his face.

Here was the chance to be free and to obtain this money he so sorely needed. No feelings of honor, of humanity, of chivalry, rose in his evil heart. His one dominant thought was that, once in possession of the check or money, he could start east, or if need be he could telegraph the funds to take up the forged paper. His "good name" would be saved, even though his friend and benefactor was sacrificed. He was roused from his cruel reverie by the voice of John Draper:

"Reuben, you should be the one to go. As my confidential man you can cash the check and avoid any awkward questions. Remember, the safety of these ladies is the first consideration. Do nothing that will imperil them."

"Very good, sir," was all that Filley dared trust himself to say.

While Draper was speaking Dallon unfastened the thongs that bound his arms, but so cramped were they that several minutes' vigorous rubbing was necessary before he could wield the fountain pen which Filley handed him with trembling hands. Drawing a pocket checkbook from the breast of his coat, the president knelt on the sand in front of an empty cracker box and there filled in the necessary blanks. The precious slip of paper was waved in the air for a few minutes to dry and then handed to Filley. This was the way it read:

No. 846. Denver, May 17th, 1893.

National Bank of the Commonwealth.

Pay to the order of —Myself or bearer
Fifty Thousand $\frac{00}{100}$ ..... Dollars.
$50,000.00. John Draper.

Upon the back it was also indorsed by the maker.

"I have purposely dated it tomorrow, this being Sunday," said Draper as Dallon peered over Filley's shoulder at the magic document, adding also for the latter's information, "'Tis drawn to self or bearer. Better go to the Drovers' bank, as they know me, and there will be no trouble."

Then addressing Dallon he said, "How do you want the money, in large bills or small ones?"

"Oh, fifties and hundreds'll do," replied the rogue nonchalantly; "hey, boys?" turning to his henchmen.

"What you say goes, cap," was the response of the former spokesman.

"Now, young feller," said Dallon, turning to Filley, "you goes under the escort of these two gents," indicating a couple of the gang euphoniously known as Leather Jack and Bill Root who had stepped out of the ruck and were waiting with their Winchesters slung carelessly in the hollows of their left arms. "They've got strict orders to keep you in sight this side of Denver, which you'll reach tomorrow mornin. They'll wait for you, and if you feel like playin any games just think o' the very wust as happenin to them you leave behind. Now, boys, you've got the rowt and the orders. Off with you!"

So the three marched down the cave, Filley looking neither to the right nor the left as he passed the anxious group of women. Did his heart smite him as he thought of the fate to which in all probability his dastard treachery would consign them? Not at all—his was the nature of the octopus, all tentacles, all muscle and hideous fibers, but no soul or conscience.

Arrived outside the robbers' retreat, the trio followed a devious but short ascending path, which quickly led to the higher country. In a cleft of the rocks they found a number of horses tethered, and selecting three of these each man mounted and rode toward the north, Denver being about 50 miles away.

The events of this momentous Sabbath have been quickly described, but they really consumed several hours in passing. It was after 4 o'clock when Filley and his guards departed. At the earliest they could not return for 24 hours, which meant a whole day of tedious waiting and suspense for those left behind.

Now that the "little matter o' business" was settled, all restraint within the limits of the cave was removed, and Draper and Chester were free to rejoin the ladies, who stood sadly in need of such encouragement and consolation as they could offer. Their welcome was out of all proportion to their deserts, and they were showered with questions as to what had happened. Uncle John said brightly that he had arranged for the ransom of the entire party and that within 24 hours he hoped to see them safe aboard the

"Fifty thousand dollars!"

Miranda again and en route for Denver.

"That is, if we are not rescued before," said Madge Hurst.

"If you value your own safety and that of your mother and Florence, my dear, you will not talk of 'rescue' any more," said Uncle John gravely. "Our friends over there might not like it, and after what has passed I don't want to hurt their feelings."

Madge was silenced, but in her heart of hearts she distrusted Filley, and so, forbidden to speak her thoughts, she turned to Chester for comfort, and together they conversed in low tones, while Mr. Draper and his ward did likewise.

There being no objection Gustave was roused up and bidden to cook some sort of a repast out of the scanty materials in the commissariat of the robber gang. With the accustomed ingenuity of his profession he worked wonders, and soon a decent appearing and smelling meal was spread before the famished captives, to which they sat down by the side of the brook gurgling through the cavern.

While they were eating a curious phenomenon occurred. The tiny stream began to foam and sputter; its volume of water momentarily increased until in the space of ten minutes it ran bank full, and our party had to move back to avoid a wetting. For upward of half an hour the miniature freshet continued, and then the stream as quickly subsided to its former modest dimensions.

On being questioned as to the cause of this sudden swelling of the waters Dallon replied in an offhand manner:

"Been a-rainin up yonder in the mountains—sorter cloudburst, I reckon. That there erik tumbles in here from underground som'eres, but no one rightly knows where."

This set Ives pondering, and soon a wild and perhaps foolish idea occurred. The water in the creek had risen at least three feet above its normal level and then subsided. This proved that the inlet or orifice by which it entered the cave had a capacity or bore sufficient to carry the larger flow of water. When the flood drained away, there would naturally be a space of three or four feet left between the water and the roof of the tunnel—if, as he supposed, there was a subterranean tunnel connecting somewhere with the open air.

What was to hinder a man escaping from the cave that way? Prudence said, "No; remain where you are until Filley returns." But suppose Filley met with some accident or the bank refused to pay the money? What then would be the fate of Madge and Florence and Mrs. Hurst? He shuddered to think!

By this time it was pitch dark in the cave. A small fire was kept burning, but the embers had died down to a dull red glow. One by one the women succumbed to fatigue and excitement and lay down on the sand, their heads pillowed in each other's laps. Uncle John, Henry, Alec and Gustave soon followed their example. The robbers were all withdrawn to the mouth of the cavern, that, in their estimation, being the only spot worth guarding.

Soon the regular and rhythmic breathing around him convinced Chester that he was the only person awake. He rose to a sitting posture, then got upon his hands and knees and in this fashion wriggled his way to the upper end of the cave, following the sound of the flowing water on his left hand.

He had covered less than a hundred yards when he was stopped by a wall of rock. Gently stepping into the stream, he felt all around the opening and found it had a radius of about three feet above the water, being of a roughly semicircular shape. The bottom of the stream was smooth and pebbly and the water not more than nine inches or a foot deep. Rising to his feet, Chester looked back along the full length of the cave to where the embers of the fire glowed like a red spark. All was quiet.

Again he stooped and got on all fours in the bed of the stream. This brought his head below the level of the arch, and a cool, fresh breeze came blowing in his face, proving that not far away there existed some sort of connection with the open air.

With a whispered "For Madge!" he began to move forward cautiously, the ice cold water reaching nearly to his middle and swashing and curling around his legs and arms.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Aug. 19—Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

Topic.—The woes of the drunkard.—Prov. xxiii, 29-35. (Quarterly temperance meeting.)

From the day of the shame and disgrace that came upon Noah, the patriarch, as a result of drunkenness the woes of the drunkard have been unceasing, and intemperance has universally willed its awful legacies to humanity. The drunkard has not ceased to have woes, sorrows, contentions, babblings, wounds, which otherwise he would not have had, and redness of eyes. If all the woes of the world that have been the result of strong drink could be marshaled before our eyes, what a vision of horrors it would be ours to look upon! Who could endure the sight? It would be appalling in its awfulness, and the strongest nerves would be shattered at such a picture. Yet the world goes on making and selling intoxicating drinks, manufacturing drunkards, who as inevitably as the sun shines must some time taste the drunkard's woes! We cannot but exclaim, "O man, how long, how long will you go on in such a destructive way?" and "O Lord, how long, how long will this manufacture of human woes be suffered to go on?" Let us pray and labor in season and out of season for the overthrow of the traffic which makes the woes of the drunkard possible.

1. The drunkard endures physical woes. What physical woes the man brings upon himself who becomes a drunkard! The trembling limbs, the fetid breath, the reddened eyes, the shallow cheeks, speak to us of physical woes which only experience could make it possible for us to appreciate.

2. The drunkard endures mental woes. The physical woes of the drunkard, bad as they are, are not to be compared to his mental ones. What tortures the human mind must endure as a result of this awful, cursed habit! Who could picture the mental anguish of the drunkard? Who could describe the horrors of delirium tremens or all the lesser mental woes that result from the intemperate use of strong drink? They are indescribable. They cannot be comprehended except by those who have suffered them, and may this number grow constantly less until none shall know what these horrors mean.

3. The drunkard endures woes of conscience. How conscience must—yea, does—lash the drunkard in his sobering and sober hours! At times it may be lulled to sleep, but now and again it is aroused like a sleeping lion, and the pains of hell will scarcely be harder to bear than the sufferings of the conscience stricken drunkard, who realizes the consequences of his actions not only to himself, but to his loved ones and his sin against his God.

4. The drunkard will suffer eternal woes. Drunkenness separates from God not only here, but hereafter. "The drunkard shall not enter into heaven." The Scripture pronounces his future doom. Let us not only strive to avoid such woes ourselves, but to keep others from them, and to reclaim by the power of the gospel those who have come under the power of this demon of strong drink.

BIBLE READINGS.

Lev. x, 8-11; Num. vi, 1-4; Deut. xxi, 18-21; Prov. xx, 1; Isa. v, 11; xxviii, 1-4; Math. v, 13-16; Luke xii, 45, 46; I Cor. v, 11; Gal. v, 19-26.

Grit and Grip.

Grit and grip are small but significant words. They mean much when embodied in action. He in whom they find illustration is no weakling or failure. He is animated by an invincible spirit and by a steady grasp of the situation. He holds on under difficulty and masters opposition. He endures and triumphs. Grit and grip are needed in all life's relations, but especially in the pulpit. The modern preacher must stand by God's truth loyally and firmly and present it fully and faithfully, come what may. He is to show special tenacity and adherence to the gospel at a time when many are calling for something else and when his mettle as a loving, zealous and fearless embassador of Jesus Christ is being tested.—Presbyterian.

By Faith.

The night is dark, and alone I tread
The way, yet not alone;
The clouds that lower overhead
Across the moon are blown.
I onward go and do not fear,
With footsteps firm and light;
I whisper words of sweetest cheer—
By faith and not by sight.

Oh, how I thank Him that the way,
Though unto me unknown,
He knows! And through the clouds the ray
Of light is o'er me thrown.
I simply hold His guiding hand,
And, although dark the night,
I trust—nor care to understand—
For faith surpasses sight.

Oh, could I know each ill that waits
Upon my onward road,
I'd bow beneath the heavy weights
Of sorrow's weary load!
His grace suffices every need,
And nothing can affright
The soul that on his manna feeds
And walks by faith, not sight.

God's way is always the best way;
His will I now make mine;
His peace doth fill my heart each day
With harmony divine.
I simply trust because I know
God's plans are always right,
And willingly, where'er I go,
I'll walk by faith, not sight.

THE PROPYLÆA, PAN-AMERICAN EXPOSITION.

Copyright, 1900, by the Pan-American Exposition Co.

The Propylæa at the Pan-American Exposition at Buffalo in 1901 will mark the northern boundary of the Plaza and the extreme northern limit of the Grand Court. This elaborate and beautiful architectural ornament will serve the purpose of a colossal screen, shutting out from the Exposition the noisy and smoky reminders of the toil and care of our everyday life. The Propylæa is a magnificent creation, treated with fine artistic skill. The combined work is 500 feet long, consisting of two massive arched entrances or gateways at the extreme eastern and western ends of a long, gracefully curved colonnade. Two open towers surmount the sides of each arch, and above the 20 tall Ionic columns that form the colonnade is a pergola or arbor over which growing vines will wind their delicate tracery of green. The electric street railway cars as well as the steam roads will unload many of their passengers at the station opposite the Propylæa, which is reached from the tracks by a spacious subway.

WHY

Pekin Entered by Allied Forces After Meeting With Obstinate Resistance.

Japanese Troops Suffered a Loss of Over One Percent.

Indemnity to Be Asked by the United States Will Be a Serious Matter For China.

Washington, Aug. 18.—Official confirmation of the fall of the Chinese capital came to the United States government last night in the shape of two cablegrams, one from Admiral Remey and the other from Consul Fowler at Chefoo. The cablegram from Admiral Remey came to hand first, early in the evening, followed very soon after by that from Consul Fowler, and the officials, realizing the great public interest in the events which it was believed had happened in Pekin, at once made them public.

Admiral Remey's dispatch is as follows:

"Taku, Aug. 17, 1 a. m.

"Bureau Navigation, Washington. Just received telegram from Tientsin, dated 16th., 10 p. m.

"Pekin was captured on Aug. 15. Foreign legations are safe. Details follow shortly. Remey."

The following plain telegram was received from the United States consul at Chefoo:

"Secretary of State, Washington. Seventeenth. Japanese admiral reports allies attacked Pekin, east, 15th. Obstinate resistance. Evening, Japanese entered capital with other forces. Immediately surrounded legations. Inmates safe. Japanese loss over 100. Chinese, 300. Fowler."

Previous information which has been received here showed that the allied armies took possession of Tung Chow on the 12th, instant. From that city to Pekin the distance is not very great, not more than a dozen miles. It is evident, therefore, that the armies halted for a time at Tung Chow, probably for the purpose of giving the men a rest, and to prepare for the attack on the capital city in force, after waiting until the rear of the advancing hosts should arrive at the front. Possibly, also, the delay was the result of negotiations inaugurated by the Chinese officials looking to the delivery of the ministers with a Chinese or other escort. If negotiations were attempted they must have failed, as the army continued on its march, and attacked the capital three days after reaching Tung Chow.

The officials here were aware of the fact that the stronghold of the Boxers was in the Chinese city, and for the allies to attempt to force their way through it into the Tartar city, in which the legation compounds are located, might mean a great loss of life and possibly a defeat. It was also known that many of the imperial troops which have sided with the Boxers were in or near the Chinese city, and that much of the artillery and rifle fire which has been poured into the legations had been from the walls separating the two cities. These facts evidently were communicated to General Chaffee and the other commanding officers of the allies. Realizing these obstacles, it appears the allies decided to attack the city by the east gate. There are four entrances to the city on the east, two leading to the Chinese city and two to the Tartar city. Just which of these was selected as the attacking point, Consul Fowler's dispatch does not disclose.

Contrary to the press reports of Friday, Consul Fowler's dispatch shows that the attack on the city met with strong resistance. The Japanese force engaged with the advance, according to the understanding of the officials here, numbered 10,000 men, so that the loss suffered by them was over 1 percent. No mention is made of the forces of the other armies, but it is presumed that it was in porportion to that suffered by the Japanese.

The president was overjoyed on hearing the news of the safety of Minister Conger and his associates. He has been hopeful all along that their rescue from the perilous position in which they have been for so long a time would be successfully accomplished.

Nothing has come to the war department directly from General Chaffee, but the adjutant general's office is momentarily expecting advices. The officials were on hand during the evening and waited until a late hour before leaving for home without receiving any dispatches.

A cabinet official says that unquestionably the native Christians in China said to number several thousands, will be included in any arrangement made between this government and China incident to the cessation of hostilities. At the present stage of the Chinese situation this subject has not been discussed seriously by the cabinet, but there is no doubt, according to this member, that the United States is honor bound to protect them and will sacredly look out for their security.

"What will be done with them?" he was asked.

"That has not been decided, but rest assured that in their disposition the honor of the United States will be fully preserved. It may be arranged for them to go to the Philippines or one of many other plans that are available may be adopted."

It also was stated that while the matter has not been formally considered, the indemnity to be collected by the United States will be not only for the families of the victims, but also probably to compensate this government for the expense it has been put to in prosecuting the campaign. "It has not been a heavy expense, compared to the Spanish war," he said, "but it will be sufficient, together with the indemnity to the families of missionaries and other victims and for all loss to property of the United States government or of American citizens, to make it a very serious matter financially to China."

EYE-OPENER FOR A RUSSIAN.

Captain Wilde Was Ready For Business, Though His Vessel Was Disabled.

San Francisco, Aug. 18.—Mail advices from Yokohama, Japan, contain the following story regarding the stranding of the battlesnip Oregon on the Chinese coast recently:

COMMANDER GEORGE F. F. WILDE.

The Chinese cruiser Hai Chi, commanded by Captain Sah, a thoroughly westernized officer, on her way from Taku to Chefoo, descried the Oregon in her perilous plight and offered her valuable assistance, which was most gratefully received by Captain Wilde. The Hai Chi anchored close by to be of further use if needed. The next day a Russian cruiser came along. Her commander, coming aboard the Oregon, eyed the Chinese vessel with suspicion and asked what he was doing there. On being told he shook his head and said it would nevertheless be his duty to take possession of her. Captain Wilde nodded and answered: "Well, I'm a bit embarrassed just now, but there is ammunition aboard and my guns are in excellent condition."

The next day, after the departure of the Russian, Captain Wilde visited the Hai Chi and suggested to Captain Sah that, as he was protecting some refugees on board, it might be well for him to run up the American flag to the fore. This was done and no questions were asked by passing cruisers afterward.

Victory For Debs Men.

Milwaukee, Aug. 18.—At the session of the International Typographical union Friday a resolution was passed declaring the I. T. U. to be distinctly a class organization, and to subserve their interests as wage workers it is essential that they act "as a unit upon the political field, whence capital derives its power to oppress, and that it is the duty of every member to sever affiliation with all political parties of the exploiting class which are constantly encroaching upon the liberties of the working people." The passage of this resolution is looked upon as a victory for the Debs followers.

Drowned Woman Identified.

Newton, Mass., Aug. 18.—The young woman who lost her life in the Charles river at Riverdale while canoeing Thursday night was Miss Elizabeth Cahil. Miss Cahill was employed in the family of Mr. and Mrs. Ballantyne of Wellesley Hills. W. H. Thomas, who took the young woman canoeing, and who was saved, did not know his companion's name, but thought he had met her previously at a party.

For Initiative and Referendum.

Boston, Aug. 18.—A call has been issued for the organization in this state of the Union Reform party. The sole plank of this party is a declaration in favor of the initiation and referendum, with the ultimate mandate. If sufficient pledges of co-operation are received in time a general convention is to be held in Boston for formal organization and nomination of candidates to be supported at the next election.

Previous Reports Exaggerated.

Washington, Aug. 18.—The treasury department has received the following telegram from Lieutenant Jarvis of the revenue cutter service, dated Nome, Aug. 6: "Report current in states of sickness at Nome unfounded. Twelve cases measles, 18 cases pneumonia, no typhoid fever. Six cases smallpox, in isolation. All convalescent."

To Stump Nebraska and Kansas.

Lincoln, Neb., Aug. 18.—Mr. Bryan will devote the greater part of next week to speech making in Nebraska and Kansas. The afternoon of Thursday will be given over to the Populist notification ceremonies at Topeka, when he will respond to a speech notifying him of his nomination for the presidency by the Populist party.

Race Riots Ended.

New York, Aug. 18.—Though several of the West Side thoroughfares were lined last night with men and women who evidently expected a continuance of the collisions between the white and colored residents of that section of the city, there were no race disturbances of any consequence during the evening.

Much Damage by Lightning.

Providence, Aug. 18.—The severest electrical storm in recent years visited this city Friday. Lightning struck a dozen houses, causing numerous fires. In many cases the lightning entered the house by way of the electric light wires, setting fire to the woodwork.

A PORTO RICAN RIOT.

Political Factions Clashed and Used Revolvers and Other Weapons.

One Man Killed Outright and Two Fatally Wounded.

Opposition to the United States the Motive of One of the Factions.

San Juan, P. R., Aug. 18.—On Thursday at Mayaguez a crowd of Federals and Republicans got together and, after heated political disputes, 30 revolver shots were exchanged and clubs and other weapons freely used. One man was killed outright and a dozen others were injured, two fatally.

For some weeks violent political discussions have been frequent there and recently the Republicans attempted to hold a mass meeting in a ward controlled by the Federals. It was this that led to Thursday's collision. Other encounters are feared.

Last Saturday the Republicans organized a celebration in honor of the second anniversary of the occupation of Mayaguez by the United States troops. The Federals, being anti-American in sentiment, opposed the project and their leaders made speeches dissuading members of the party from participating in the celebration.

Former Secretary of Justice Diaz remarked that the day should be one of mourning rather than of rejoicing, and since then the rival politicians in Mayaguez have been at fever heat.

Spanish residents of San Juan have issued a circular calling upon all Spaniards to get together, with a view of effecting an organization to promote the interests of Spain.

Removed Tarnish From His Name.

New York, Aug. 18.—Victor S. Flechter yesterday found in a Brooklyn shop the $5000 Stradivarius violin, for the theft of which he had been convicted, and whose loss drove the owner, old Professor Bott, to his grave. Flechter's conviction is now before the court of appeals. Ever since his trial Flechter has devoted his time and his fortune to searching for the instrument, the finding of which would clear his name.

Americans Set the Pace.

Paris, Aug. 18.—The preliminary contest in the international exhibition of fire apparatus came off Friday at Vincennes, some 5000 firemen, representing many nationalities, participating. The American representatives, the Kansas City fire brigade, caused great wonderment by their quick harnessing and running, together with their methods of life saving. By common consent they were assigned first place.

Work of Ugly Italians.

New York, Aug. 18.—Frank Mino and Bartolmeo Mincetti last night, in the Italian section of Harlem, pulled revolvers and fired several shots. Tony Capola and Antonio Salibeni, boys, were playing in the street. Capola was shot in the head, and died soon after. Salibeni was shot several times, and his condition is critical. Mino and Mincetti were unhurt. They were arrested.

Fought Over a Woman.

Morehead, Ky., Aug. 18.—The Adkins and Howards have had a bloody battle in Elliott county, in which one of the Howards was killed and another fatally wounded. One of the Howards and one of Lindsay Adkin's boys quarreled over a young woman, after which both went home and brought back other members of their families for reinforcements. All the Adkins have been arrested.

Swallowed Deadly Poison.

New Haven, Aug. 18.—Fannie Walter, aged 18, swallowed two ounces of carbolic acid Friday. She was seen to alight from a street car in Fairhaven and go to a nearby vacant lot. A moment later screams were heard, and the girl lay writhing in agony on the ground. She lived only a few minutes.

Cutting Will Result Fatally.

Portland, Me., Aug. 18.—The names of the Italians concerned in the cutting affray at North Gorham are Rossa Bernado and Tadao Artella. Bernado was arrested in this city Friday and taken to the hospital, where he was identified by Artella as his assailant. Artella is dying.

Treasure From the Klondike.

Seattle, Aug. 18.—The steamer Humboldt arrived in port from the Lynn canal with 96 passengers, 68 of them Klondikers, and more than $250,000 in treasure from the Klondike. Nearly all of the passengers from the Klondike are said to have possessed some dust.

Wanted to Drown Himself.

Providence, Aug. 18.—Chief Engineer Hammond of the tug Coastwise attempted to commit suicide Friday by jumping from the tug while it was going up the bay. He was rescued and had to be locked in his room. Later he was examined and adjudged insane.

Triumph For American Skill.

Boston, April 18.—The United Shoe Machinery company of this city has been given the highest award at the Paris exposition. This company exhibited a complete shoe factory, and it is a direct triumph for American shoe machinery.

Kitchener to the Rescue.

Cape Town, Aug. 18.—Lord Kitchener, after a forced march, has relieved Colonel Hoare and the British garrison at Eland's river.

Good Afternoon.

The ladies complain that the carriages block up the narrow exit from the Quincy depot, so that their clothes are often soiled. Especially has this been annoying on rainy and muddy days. The nuisance should be abated although it will last but a few weeks at best.

How would you like to live in Weymouth, where the tax rate is $20.50? Last year it was $20.20.—Quincy Daily Ledger.

How would you like to live in Quincy where the city debt has reached its limit, and where the assessed value is 75 per cent. more than it is in Weymouth? $20.50 per $1,000 is not as much as $17 if the same property were assessed nearly twice as much.—Weymouth Gazette.

But the city debt of Quincy has not reached its limit, and never has. Further, it is considerable inside the limit. Again, property will sell in Quincy as near its assessed value as in Weymouth.

Drift of Opinion.

☞ Rocklanders are fighting compulsory vaccination and stirring up a good deal of sentiment against it on the ground that it interferes with the rights of the individual and is therefore unconstitutional. If individuals can be inoculated by law with an attenuated form of small pox, why is it not possible under such a ruling to squirt antitoxin and a lot of other anti's into them for diphtheria, scarlet fever, tuberculosis, corns or ingrowing nails? Diphtheria is more deadly than small pox around here and more prevalent. The Rocklanders appear to have taken a strong stand.—Old Colony Memorial.

Legislative Returns.

Among recent Legislative returns under the "lobby act," are two of local interest:

The Brockton Street Railway Co. paid B. W. Warren on the incorporation of Boston and Brockton Electric Freight Co. $200; also to same on account of the Milton and Brockton Street railway, for location on Blue Hill ave. $300; also on account of the Quincy and Brockton Street railway, Co. $200; total of $700.

The town of Milton paid to J. M. Browne $400 on senate bill 68; also to Dunbar & Rackermann $150 on bills regarding the reconstruction and repair, and proper care and maintenance, of certain bridges on Weymouth Fore river and Weymouth Back river.

All Souls Church, Braintree.

The two committees—five Universalists and five Unitarians—met Wednesday evening at the home of Elmer E. Abercrombie, to discuss the union of the two denominations into one strong liberal church. A very harmonious meeting and much progress was made as the result of the meeting. It was voted to present the name of All Souls church to the organization for their acceptance also that all liberal ministers may candidate for the pastorate. Services will be held soon on Sundays in Cochato hall. Many interested in the new church are desirous that the contribution box shall not be passed each Sunday but that contributors shall pay their pledges once a month. The amount pledged for the year is large but not enough and every one interested is invited to unite in the services and to subscribe liberally.

St. John's Reunion.

The attendance at the reunion of St. John's church and mission is not as large today as usual, although the weather is perfect. The lists of sports include races for men and boys, bicycle races, hop, step and jump, running broad jump, standing high jump, pipe race, etc. Dancing interested a large number.

Wendell Phillips Club.

The annual outing of the Wendell Phillips club of Boston was held at Squantum yesterday, when steps were taken towards the erection of a monument to Wendell Phillips. Responses were made to the following toasts at the banquet: "The neccessity of the colored man applying his whole time in developing his avocation," William H. Dupree; "The American negro as a working man," Julius C. Chappelle, "The American negro in business, William L. Reed; "The duty of the negro as an American citizen," Julius B. Goddard "Is the colored American in the position that Wendell Phillips and the anti-slavery leaders would like to see him?" William Butler; "The question of American suffrage, James A. Wolffe; "The colored man in politics," Robert T. Teamoh; "The negro artisan," Nelson J. Wentworth; "What ought we to do in the impending crisis?" Nelson Gashins; "The position of the Wendell Phillips club on matters pretaining to the race," James A. Hamm; "The old members or the new," Edward Jones; "The religious side of the American negro," Philip J. Allston.

BOER WOMEN HATE BRITISH

Said to Keep Alive the Sullen Resentment of Burghers.

The spectacle presented now in South Africa is much like that of the early "reconstruction days" in the United States when the tales of personal valor had given way to those of heroic devotion to a waning cause.

"The men are still sullen, the women are still drumlie and dour," writes John Stuart of the London Morning Post, describing the Transvaal women about Krugersdorp. "As I have often before remarked, these women hate us with a hatred as cruel as the grave.

"'Send me a wounded Englishman,' wrote a young woman of the place to her lover outside Ladysmith, 'for I want to watch him die.' That was a common request found in letters from all over the country, mostly dated from Krugersdorp. And now Tommy Atkins pervades Krugersdorp and addresses the young women who had such kind hopes for him in language which Mary Jane of Chelsea would think facetious. He means neither unkindness nor incivility. Only these poor women are not in a frame of mind to understand his large, friendly heart.

"I am afraid that Mary Jane of Chelsea would be a little annoyed if she could see his simple overtures of peace. They are very frank, but here they are very futile. But I am going to tell you a story which shows that there is something akin to nobility in this passionate hatred by the women. On a Monday night, long after the town had surrendered, a Transvaal flag was floated over one house occupied by Mr. Phanie Koch, who is a brother of the general who was wounded to the death at Elandslaagte. A trooper saw the flag and hauled it down.

"Next morning Mrs. Koch, in feminine obstinacy, had another hoisted. An officer ordered its removal. She called him into her sitting room and railed at him at considerable length. 'Ah,' she cried. 'You can take away our flags and you can take away our independence, but you cannot take away our spirit.' Thereupon she opened a tinkling cottage piano and played the Transvaal 'Volkslied,' singing the words in a voice that shook with age and rage. 'Pretty tune,' said the officer, 'what is it? Play it again, please.' But she only shook her fist in his face. She was speechless. Poor, wild woman! If she had been English or American, she would have found a Whittier to put the blunt pathos of the scenes into jingling verse for the schoolbooks."

A GREAT SCOTTISH HOUSE.

Magnificent Appointments of Lord Bute's Princely Seat.

Lord Bute has been 20 years at the construction of a princely seat in the island of Bute, but not until the chapel, now almost completed, is ready will Mount Stuart be truly finished for all future generations, says The Architects and Builders' Magazine. The entrance hall of the house has alone cost $5,000,000. Monolith columns of rare and beautiful marbles support the arcaded gallery, which in its turn is rich in marble and bronze and blazes with blue and fawn color and gold. The floor is like that of the Colonna palace in Rome—huge blocks of purple porphyry and marbles of infinite variety and hues and markings.

Marble has been used lavishly throughout the whole house. Only one room, says a recent visitor there—the pleasant "garden parlor"—is without it, and here the woodwork and white paint are as a charming change from the somewhat oppressive stateliness of the rest of the great building. Not one library contents the Marquis of Bute. He has three, the white, red and blue libraries, opening out of one another, and they bear evidence of his eclectic taste not only as regards the contents of the shelves, but the scheme of decoration and the few priceless pictures which find place on their walls. The dining room is chiefly remarkable for an exquisitely carved antique mantelpiece in purest Parian marble and for the graceful crystal shields to the electric lights.

WILL NOT RETURN HOME.

Wu Ting Fang's Plans When He Ceases to Be Minister.

Wu Ting Fang, the Chinese minister, has told Secretary Hay privately that he never expects to go back to China. When the present Chinese trouble is settled he may be continued as minister to the United States or he may not. If he is not he will devote himself to business or literature either in the United States or in England, says the Washington correspondent of the New York World. Nearly all of Wu Ting Fang's interests are in China, and if he does not go back he will sacrifice them, but he prefers to lose his property rather than lose his head.

Mr. Wu has been consistently against Prince Tuan, therefore against the most powerful man now in China. He is too wise to trust himself to the tender mercies of Prince Tuan and the present dynasty in view of all that has occurred. Wu Ting Fang is the greatest Chinaman in the western hemisphere. He is broadly educated, speaks and writes English perfectly and is a business man of much shrewdness and acumen. He does not anticipate any difficulty in making both ends meet.

Advance Portugal.

The new commercial cable between the United States and Portugal will do the latter country a heap more good, says the New York Press, than the realization of its lost dream of restoring an empire where the Brazilian republic belongs.

Engagement of Supt. Frye.

It is said that some of those who were anxious to have Supt. Frye come to Quincy with the Cuban teachers had their cap set for Mr. Frye. In his school days in Quincy he did think considerable of a young lady of the town, but she has since married. Now comes the news that dashes recent hopes. The Post says:

So far as persistent gossip is to be trusted, formal announcement may be expected, say those who have come in contact with the Cuban teachers the past few days, soon of the engagement of Mr. Alexis E. Frye, superintendent of public instruction in Cuba to Senorita Maria Arruebarreno of Cardenas, Cuba, who left Boston Thursday on the transport Sedgwick.

Reports of similar import have been circulated before. The evening of the first dance given in Hemenway Gymnasium was not half spent when the first rumor of the kind gained currency. Gloom had darkened the faces of two-thirds of the women teachers present at the dance. For the word—no one knew who had given it birth—had passed around that their "angel," the term almost universally applied to Mr. Frye by the women teachers, was entirely serious in his attentions to the tall, almost blonde and remarkably beautiful young woman from Santa Clara Province. Had he not danced with her nearly every dance? And in the thoughts of the emotional Cubans this meant only one thing, an impending betrothal of the two.

But it did not. And before the next dance at the Hemenway was given, the busybodies had Superintendent Frye engaged to another teacher, this time a pettite brunette from Havana.

This also fell to the ground in a day or two, and for about two weeks Superintendent Frye's politeness to this or that senorita was not distorted into a token of approaching betrothal.

Then one day another rumor to the same effect gained headway. It started at a dinner in Randall one evening, and being based upon nothing more convincing than the report that the genial superintendent had been seen talking earnestly to the same young woman twice in one day, this rumor was soon forgotten. Since then, until yesterday, the gossips have left Mr. Frye alone.

But on the Sedgwick, as she steamed down the bay yesterday afternoon, this latter rumor was the one topic of discussion among the 428 women teachers aboard.

In the thoughts of a majority of the young women there was little doubt of the truth of the report.

Superintendent Frye and Senorita Arruebarreno were both passengers on the Sedgwick yesterday. Senorita Arruebarreno may or may not have been conscious of the interest she had suddenly aroused among the other teachers.

She sat demurely near one of the smaller tables on the port side of the dining room during the first hour or two of the voyage and was alone most of the time.

She is of medium height, of rather plump, though neat figure, and has eyes and hair that are dark as night. She was dressed entirely in black and carried an immense bouquet of carnations. Her features are almost perfectly formed and betoken rather more refinement than most of the Cuban women.

None of the teachers quite dared to broach the subject to Miss Arruebarreno.

Senorita Arruebarreno was one of the most popular of the teachers who came on the recent expedition. She was bright as a student and made excellent progress in English while here. She lodged at 1750 Cambridge street, while at Cambridge.

INDIAN FAMINE TERRORS

Dr. Klopsch Describes Some of the Fearful Suffering.

HORRORS OF THE POORHOUSE.

Frightful Scenes Witnessed at the One In the City of Baroda—Victims of Disease by Hundreds Lying In Wretchedness Without Medical Treatment.

That famine still stalks abroad in India despite the falling of rain is vouched for by all travelers returning from the stricken land. Help is still needed, and immediate help at that. Dr. Louis Klopsch, proprietor of The Christian Herald, who recently returned from India, gives a chapter from his experiences there. The last place visited by the doctor before his return home was Baroda, a city of 110,000 inhabitants and the capital of a native state of that name. Arriving there early in the morning, he visited the palace of the gaekwar and admired its magnificent architecture and sumptuous modern furnishings. With his companion he then went to the poorhouse.

"In due time," continued Dr. Klopsch, "we reached the antithesis of the gaekwar's palace. I had become accustomed to sights nauseating and revolting, but the Baroda poorhouse stands out as the most terrible conglomeration of abject misery that ever met my gaze. Almost stifled and stupefied we wended our way through the dead and the dying, with smallpox, dysentery, fever and cholera to the right and to the left, leaving terror behind us, only to find horror awaiting us.

"At the entrance to the poorhouse stood a woman, blind. Reduced to a living skeleton, the balls of her eyes were actually decaying in the sockets of her ghastly skull, and flies innumerable were acting the part of scavengers undisturbed. Her clawlike hands inactively hung down her sides until she heard our footsteps. Then they were raised appealingly in the direction of the sound, while she mumbled almost inaudibly her plaintive petition. I quickly got beyond her reach and then, as I supposed, unobserved placed a rupee in her hand. In another instant a dozen other miserable remnants of humanity pressed forward, pleading vociferously for help. Just then the attendant appeared and promptly ordered them back.

"I entered the first of many wards, separated from one another by a bamboo partition. It was full of patients suffering from every manner of ailment. Cholera, dysentery and guinea worm predominated. On some cots the unfortunates were doubled up. The temperature was appallingly high. The air was laden with an odor superlatively offensive. The cots were defiled, reeking with filth. No attempt was made at treatment. I called for the physician. There was none. A hospital assistant with not so much knowledge of medicine as an apprentice in a pharmacy was in charge. 'How many of these people will be saved?' I asked. 'They come here to die,' was the stoic response.

"What we saw in the first ward was only a specimen of all the others. Our heartstrings were wrung until the ever present consciousness of our own utter helplessness became so oppressive that a continuation of the tour threatened to unnerve us. We stepped out into the square skirted by the bamboo inclosure and into the brazen sun. There before us, on the ground, without shade or protection of any kind, stark naked, lay several women in the last throes of the cholera. We were anxious to get away, but it occurred to us that thus far no children had been in evidence. So we made inquiry concerning them and learned that they were kept in what is termed the kitchen.

"In a bamboo inclosure, under the supervision of a fat, turbaned Hindoo, sat 300 skeletonized diminutive creatures, mostly naked, all sickly and miserable and many of them totally blind. Never have I seen anything approximating in abject misery and utter destitution this gathering of innocents. Not a cry escaped their lips. With the exception of the blinking of the eyelids there was no indication of life. The sanitary conveniences and the kitchen were one. The whole concern seemed dazed. Death seemed to be encircling the Baroda kitchen and all it contained.

"Suddenly there was a stir. Two men bearing a can of milk appeared in front of the Baroda tent. The children became animated. The Hindoo revived. He came over to where we were standing and informed us that milk was to be given to the feebler children. As soon as some of the tin cups were filled the children scrambled for them. There was not enough for more than a fourth of the number, and the more vigorous ones got what there was. The feebler ones went without it. We asked the Hindoo how many of the little ones died daily. He professed ignorance, but volunteered the information that their bodies were burned.

"We crossed the square that led to the gate, but before we reached it we were surrounded by groups of starving people piteously pleading for a few pice with which to purcase grain. Tears actually trickled down the cheeks of many of the supplicants as they held up to our gaze their emaciated, shriveled little ones. Children prostrated themselves to the ground, chattering in a strange tongue and with frightful rapidity of utterance the story of their woes. I verily believe that not one of the 1,200 who were in the Baroda poorhouse that morning ever came out alive. It was a veritable dead house, and those who once entered seemed hopelessly doomed."

No other aid so great to the housewife, no other agent so useful and certain in making delicious, pure and wholesome foods, has ever been devised.

ABSOLUTELY PURE

There are imitation baking powders, sold cheap, by many grocers. They are made from alum, a poisonous drug, which renders the food injurious to health.

MILTON.

It is probable that the Milton Republicans will support Thomas E. Grover of Canton for Senator, as he is in the same Representative district, but they may go with Quincy which is in the same Congressional district.

Milton residents see no good reason why the cost and maintenance of the Metropolitan reservations should not be according to the number of people who enjoy them. Otherwise there was necessity for a commission to apportion the amounts. If it was the intention of the Legislature to assess upon valuation, no hearings need be held Milton ranks 21 in valuation in Massachusetts, although but 74 in population. There are 33 cities and 323 towns in the State.

Officers Farrington, Fallon and Higgins of the police force are enjoying their annual vacations.

Metal Skylights.

Owners of buildings needing roof lights would do well to look into the merits of the skylight made by E. Van Noorden Co., Boston, whose advertisement appears in this issue.

The evolution of this light has been going on during the twenty-five years the firm has been in business, and the result is the finished mechanical product of today.

A sheet of metal is struck up from the flat in dies by steam power machinery, into a skylight bar, full length, without cross seams, provided with a resting place for the glass, and a drip gutter below so that when the frame work is put together, the glass bedded in putty, and a metal cap placed over, the result is a structure, riged yet light water proof from outside storms, fire proof, and proof against dripping from sweat or condensed water formed on the under side of the glass.

This dripping from within is due to hot air from the inside striking the cold surface of the glass in winter, but in this skylight it is carried off by the gutter system above mentioned and disposed of on the roof.

Skylights put up by this firm twenty years ago, are still in existance, as sound apparently today as the day they were finished.

Owing to the large floor space in the firm's shop, and the powerful and rapid machinery for making this work, the cost of these skylights has been reduced to so low a figure that nobody can afford to use wooden ones.

The firm have a complete skylight catalogue with about every style of skylight illustrated that any one could think of, and will send it free to anyone on request.

The reflection from a flash of lighting travels nearly 1,999,000 times faster than the sound of the report. That is the reason that the thunder is generally heard several moments after the flash is seen.

TODAY'S COURT.

The liquors seized from Isabella O'Brien, on Madison street, Weymouth, were forfeited.

John Shehan of Randolph, for drunkenness, was continued.

Charles Hogg of Quincy, for disturbing the peace, was fined $2.

WHAT OF THE FUTURE?

Speculation as to Next Move to Be Made Now That Envoys Are Safe.

The Imperial Household Vacated Pekin on Aug. 7.

Emperor Said to Have Accompanied Empress Dowager Much Against His Will.

London, Aug. 18.—A special dispatch from Shanghai says: Yuan Shi Kai's troops have gone thence to Shen Si, to protect the empress,who, according to reports received by local officials here, with Tuan, the imperial household and the bulk of the army and Boxers, left Pekin Aug. 7 for Hsian-fu.

Other Shanghai dispatches say that Emperor Kwang Su accompanied the empress dowager to Hsian Fu much against his will. Prince Tuan commanded the rear guard of the imperial escort, of which Boxers formed 65 percent. It was expected that General Tung Fuh Siang would follow after the arrival of the allies. All the palace treasures were sent to Hsian Fu.

New Chwang was again attacked on Aug. 13, but the Russians repulsed 2000 Chinese, inflicting heavy loss, although they also suffered severely.

"Pekin was relieved on the night of the 15th." This message was received last evening at the imperial customs office in London from the commissioner of customs in Chefoo. It is the only official message that has reached England in confirmation of the earlier reports, Admiral Remey's dispatch not having arrived in time for publication in the London morning papers.

The Morning Post, which is the only paper printing the Chefoo message, says: Today is not only a day of national rejoicing, it is also a day of congratulation for all the powers of the world.

Proceeding to discuss the probabilities of a cessation of hostilities, The Morning Post assumes that the United States are willing to abandon any idea of further aggressive action, but it questions the disposition of Germany and the other powers to agree to such a course.

Germany, beyond any doubt, is preparing everything for an autumn and winter campaign in China. One striking evidence of this is the fact that a slow steamer has been chartered for December to carry to China material for a 60-mile field railroad.

The other papers comment guardedly upon the general situation, owing to the lack of definite news when the editorials were written. Most of them advocate a stern inquisition regarding outrages and the punishment of the leaders, even if they have to be pursued all over China.

The Daily Graphic, in a paragraph apparently inspired, says there is no reason to believe that any of the powers will repudiate the previous understanding to respect the integrity of the empire and the dynasty, adding that the proposal to land a British force at Shanghai originated not with the British government, but with the Chinese, who at the same time urged that this should not be done if likely to lead to international complications.

The Chinese minister at Tokio, Li Shen Toh, has telegraphed Li Hung Chang, according to a dispatch to The Times from Shanghai, that Japan is willing to use her good offices in behalf of the Empress Dowager and Emperor Kwang Su, but is determined to prevent the escap of Prince Tuan; of Kang Yi, president of the board of war; of Hsu Tung, guardian of the heir apparent, and of Chao Shu Chiao, commissioner of the railway and mining bureaus.

"Li Hung Chang," the dispatch continues, "has received instructions from the throne to ask Russia if she is willing to assist China to arrive at a peaceful settlement, and to give assurances that she has no intention of annexing any part of Manchuria. If the reply is favorable, Earl Li has orders to negotiate without delay. Simultaneously, the military governor of Manchuria will be directed to cease hostilities."

Defunct Institution Settles Accounts.

Boston, Aug. 18.—It is announced by Receiver Wing of the Globe National bank that the defunct institution's transactions with the clearing house are closed, the clearing house loan of $3,600,000 having been settled in full with interest, after eight months. The face value of the collateral returned to the Globe bank is about $1,600,000, of which Mr. Wing estimates at least half will eventually be collected.

Has Not Yet Gone to the Jury.

Georgetown, Ky., Aug. 18.—The argument in the case of Caleb Powers was not concluded Friday, the court refusing to hold a night session. Commonwealth Attorney Franklin will make the closing speech for the prosecution today. The argument for the defense was closed by ex-Governor Brown. The entire morning session and nearly an hour in the afternoon was taken up by Colonel Campbell for the prosecution.

Roumania Has a Grievance.

London, Aug. 18.—The Roumanian government, according to a special dispatch from Vienna, has addressed a sharp note, amounting almost to an ultimatum, to Bulgaria, demanding the arrest of Sarafow, president of the revolutionary committee at Sofia, and the suppression of that organization.

Iron Workers on Strike.

Boston, Aug. 18.—In order to enforce a demand for 33 1-3 cents an hour, the union iron workers of this city in the employ of the Boston Steel and Iron company struck Friday. While only 60 men were effected it is not unlikely that 600 men will be involved.

War Department's Big Order.

Kansas City, Aug. 18.—The war department has just closed a contract with a local packing house for 250,000 pounds of breakfast bacon for immediate shipment to China for the American soldiers.

SPECULATION AT LOW EBB.

Trade Quiet In the East, but Expanding In the Leading Western Centers.

New York, Aug. 18.—Bradstreet's says: Among the favorable features reported to Bradstreet's this week are advices of further expansion in fall trade distribution at leading western centers, with relatively best buying proceeding from those sections of the southwest which have profited by good crops, a rather better distribution by dry goods jobbers at the east, a firmer tone and a perceptible growth in confidence, accompanied by heavy buying in some classes of steel and iron, and a disposition to believe that an average wheat crop and much more than an average corn and oats crop are assured. Steady increases in current gross railway earnings over a year ago, and an exceptionally favorable net earnings report for the first half of the year are additional encouraging features.

The list of unfavorable elements in the trade situation is at best a negative one, the approach of a presidential campaign, though less effective than usual in this respect, the backward demand for spring woolens and the slow demand for the raw material, the restriction in production of some makes of cotton goods, the dullness in building materials, notably lumber, and the backward inquiry for boots and shoes at the east being among these.

Speculation in nearly all lines, and especially in food products, is at a low ebb, and what price changes are noted are mainly because of this, though weather and crop conditions have played some part in wheat, corn and cotton respectively. The money market as a whole is still easy. At the east trade is still quiet as a whole. Wool is now back about where it was a year ago, in the meanwhile reaching 25 percent higher. Cotton, on the other hand, is 4 cents per pound higher, while cotton goods are generally only fractionally higher, and print cloths are practically unchanged.

Business failures for the week number 168, as compared with 172 last week.

Tribute to Huntington's Memory.

Chicago, Aug. 18.—Every wheel and stroke of commerce throughout the great Southern Pacific system of railroads and steamship lines was stopped for seven minutes Friday, during the burial of Collis P. Huntington in New York. At the exact moment when the clocks struck 11 in New York, every hammer in all the shops ceased clanging, engines paused upon the rails and steamships floated lifelessly upon the water. In Chicago the offices remained closed all the morning, and no tickets were sold or other business transacted until after the remains of the once great railroad magnate were laid to rest. During the short suspension of business 50,000 men, in all sections of the United States, remained idle.

Preacher Knew How to Shoot

Williamson, W. Va., Aug. 18.—Rev. Thomas Clark shot and killed John Dempsey at Island Creek. Dempsey and Clark were enemies because, it is said, the latter, who was a school trustee, refused to appoint a daughter of the minister as teacher. Yesterday Dempsey and the minister came to blows. Dempsey threw a hatchet at Clark and the latter shot Dempsey twice, killing him almost instantly.

Statement Declared to Be False.

New York, Aug. 18.—Ex-Governor Bradley of Kentucky, who is in New York, was much exercised over the statement of Attorney Campbell in the Powers trial, in effect that during Bradley's term as governor 896 murders were committed in Kentucky, 293 convictions were found and 216 murderers pardoned. Mr. Bradley denounced this statement as false.

Race Went to the Yankee.

Newport, R. I., Aug. 18.—Just a few minutes before the breaking of a big wind squall the yacht Rainbow drove across the finish line off Brenton's reef lightship Friday. She was the leader, but not the winner in the 30-mile race of 70-footers. The Yankee, which crossed the line 1m. 21s. later, won the race by 52 seconds.

McGinn Waives Examination.

Pawtucket, R. I., Aug. 18.—Hugh T. McGinn, who was arrested recently in connection with the charges of conspiracy preferred by a life insurance company, appeared in the Central Falls court Friday and waived examination on the charges against him. He was held for the grand jury.

Corpse Found in Mill Pond.

Rochdale, Mass., Aug. 18.—G. B. Howarth, in paddling his boat across the upper mill pond Friday, discovered the badly decomposed body of a man floating in the water. The face is badly bruised. It is doubtless the body of some stranger, as no one is missing from this village or vicinity so far as is known.

Took Dose of Poison.

Boston, Aug. 18.—A young woman, who refused to give her name to the police, took a dose of poison in the West End Friday night. She was removed to the hospital. There is a chance for her recovery.

Sixty-Year-Old Man Hanged.

Washington, Aug. 18.—Dillard Herndon, 60 years old, was hanged here Friday for the murder of John Lovingood in October, 1899. The purpose of the murder was said to have been robbery.

De Wet a Slippery Customer.

London, Aug. 18.—The war office has received a dispatch from Lord Roberts expressing a fear that General De Wet has eluded his pursuers. Lord Roberts says he imagines that De Wet's escape is due to his breaking up his force into small bodies.

Excessive Heat at St. Louis.

St. Louis, Aug. 18.—Friday was the hottest day of the year in St. Louis. The temperature reached 99 degrees. Fourteen deaths of infants from excessive heat were reported from Wednesday noon to 12 o'clock Friday.

One Accident Resulted Fatally.

Providence, Aug. 18.—Gladys G. Monahan, 2½ years old, was killed by a fall from an attic window of her home Friday. John Shea, 18 months old, fell from a second story window of his home and escaped injury.

DOLLAR WHEAT IN SIGHT

Prediction Made by the Secretary of Agriculture.

REASONS FOR GOOD TIMES AHEAD.

Country's Prosperous, Wheat Crop's Short and Price Must Go Up, He Says—Corn Abundant and Likely to Be Cheap—Farmers Advised to Feed It Rather Than Sell.

"We will have dollar wheat before the end of the year," is the confident prediction of Secretary of Agriculture James Wilson. The secretary has been making a careful study of the domestic and foreign demand for wheat this year and in view of the crop estimates which his experts have made looks for rising prices. When asked by the Washington correspondent of the New York Sun for a statement of the crop prospects and the probable prices of agricultural products during the present year, the secretary said:

"The outlook for good prices was never better. We have a shortage in the American crop this year which will probably amount to 100,000,000 bushels. This alone would serve to make the present yield more valuable. There are additional reasons, however, which incline me to believe that wheat will make a marked advance before the end of the present year. The primary cause for an advance is the condition and outlook of the home market.

"This year the demand for the great bulk of our crop is at home, and the people have the money with which to pay for whatever breadstuffs they desire. Not only will our people be the best fed people in the world during the present year, as they have been in years past, but they will be better fed than they have ever been in years past. They have plenty of money to buy all the wheat they want for bread and will have flour left over for cake if they want it.

"Hard times directly affect the price of wheat by decreasing the demand and at the same time cut off the consumption by decreasing the buying power of the people. For example, the consumption of wheat and wheat flour in this country in 1894 fell to 3.41 bushels per inhabitant. In 1896 it increased to 4.78, and in 1898 it was 4.21, while last year it increased to 5.95 bushels per capita. This year the consumption of wheat per capita will go above last year and will probably be nearer seven than six bushels, because this year the people are better able to buy than ever before, as the mills and factories are going everywhere and labor is receiving more general and more generous employment than ever before. Moreover, the farmers themselves are getting good prices for all their products and will not be forced to stint themselves in their food supplies and in their buying. The shortage and the increased domestic demand will make foreign countries which will buy wheat pay more, and the price must advance."

"Then, would you advise farmers who have wheat on hand not to sell?" was asked.

"That of course is a matter that each man must decide for himself."

Continuing, Mr. Wilson said that he thought there would be little or no rise in the price of corn. On the contrary, lower prices might be expected for this cereal. Said he:

"The corn crop this year is unusually large. Perhaps there has never been a better prospect for corn at this time of the year in the country. The large supply will mean lower prices. When money is plentiful and prosperity is general, the demand is always for the higher grade of foodstuffs. Our people will eat more wheat bread and less corn bread than usual this year. It is true that prices for both wheat and corn may be temporarily affected by the falling off of the market in the east, but this trouble can be only temporary, as the demand for flour is there and is steadily increasing.

"It will probably be advisable for our farmers to feed much of their corn this year into sheep, horses, cattle and hogs, as the price of meat is high, and the outlook for a continuous demand for our meat products both at home and abroad is excellent. Germany can exclude our meat on whatever pretext she pleases, but if she is going to feed meat to her soldiers in China she must buy it in Chicago. Moreover, our meat is the best in the world.

"With the stimulus which our foreign commerce is getting and the introduction of our manufactured goods into other markets, the home demand for all food products must grow and steadily increase. Moreover, we may look for an increase in the average price of our farm products from this time on for the same reason."

Men Dined In Shirt Waists.

A shirt waist dinner was given at Morristown, N. J., the other night at the house of Alexander H. Tiers. It was the beginning of a movement in favor of the new garment. The guests numbered 26 and included several women. Among the men were several who are prominent in financial and legal circles. The women wore evening dress and the men shirt waists and black trousers. The new costume was voted a decided benefit in the way of comfort, and its general adoption by the fashionable colony here seems to be assured.

Our Military Resources.

With 10,343,152 men available for service in case of war, as the adjutant general's office declares we now have, we must appear rather formidable, according to the Chicago Record, even to those confessedly military societies on the other side of the Atlantic.

A Charmed Life.

The scenery along the Kentucky river above and below Harrodsburg has been justly compared to the highlands of the Hudson. Towering cliffs hundreds of feet in height impress the beholder. In "Historical Sketches of Kentucky" an incident is told of one of the highest of these.

Jotham Strout was hoeing corn in the bottom just opposite the ferry, when his attention was attracted by a rattling noise above his head. Looking up, he was staggered at seeing a man tumbling down the fearful precipice, now touching and grasping at a twig, now at a root, without being able to check himself. Finally, with a crashing of limbs, he landed in the top of a buckeye tree about 50 feet above the general level of the bottom.

Mr. Strout ran to the place with all haste, dreading to find a dead man and not doubting he would be terribly injured if alive, for the distance the man had fallen was 170 feet, and from the last point where he had touched the rock to the top of the tree where he lodged was 45 feet.

Fancy Mr. Strout's surprise, then, to find the man standing erect at the foot of the tree, feeling of his arms and body.

"Are you hurt?" cried Mr. Strout.

"That's what I'm trying to find out, my friend," was the answer. "It's my impression that I am alive, but rather sore."

Not a bone was broken, and despite a few bruises the man seemed to be as sound as before the terrible fall.

"That fellow bore a charmed life," was Mr. Strout's remark whenever he told the story.

Leighton and the Poor Student.

Of Leighton's hearty, eager helpfulness many instances might be given. Here is one. After a certain prize day at the academy a student was passing through the first room on his way to the entrance. He looked the picture of dejection and disappointed wretchedness—poorly and shabbily dressed and slinking away as if he wished to pass out of the place unnoticed. Millais and Leighton, walking arm in arm, came along, pictures of prosperity.

Leighton caught sight of the poor, downcast student. Leaving Millais, he darted across the vestibule to him and, taking the student's arm, drew him back into the first room and made him sit down on the ottoman beside him. Putting his arm on the top of the ottoman and resting his head on his hand, Leighton began to talk as he alone could talk, pouring forth volumes of earnest, rapid utterances, as if everything in the world depended on his words conveying what he wanted them to convey. He went on and on. The shabby figure gradually seemed to pull itself together, and at last when they both rose he seemed to have become another creature. Leighton shook hands with him, and the youth went on his way rejoicing.

It is certain that if other help than advice were needed it was given. But it was the extraordinary zest and vitality which Leighton put into his help which made it unlike any other. He fought every one's cause as others fight their own.—London Telegraph.

Oxford's Witty Bishop.

Two stories are attributed in The Railway Magazine to the witty bishop of Oxford. He was once talking to some boys in a school and said to them: "Now, my boys, I dare say you think it's a very fine thing to be a bishop. But I assure you I'm a very busy man. I have to go about all over my diocese, and I haven't time to study like you have. In fact, nearly all my study has to be confined to only one book. It begins with a 'B.' Do you know what it is?" "The Bible, sir; the Bible," shouted the boys all together. "No," replied the bishop, with a merry twinkle in his eye. "It's called 'Bradshaw.'"

The other story is still better. On one occasion when he alighted from the train at Wheatley, the station for Cuddesden palace, an officious porter rushed up to him and asked, "Any articles in the van, my lord?" "Articles," said the bishop grimly. "Yes, 39 articles." Off hurried the porter and worried the guard almost out of his senses by the way he searched the van and detained the train. Presently he came back to the bishop with a crestfallen expression of countenance. "There are only seven, my lord." "Only seven? Ah, you're a Dissenter then, I should think."

Lacking In Romance.

"Swigsby hasn't a particle of romance about him."

"I never thought he had. Any new proof of it?"

"Yes. He was calling on Daisy Twinnerton. You know Daisy. Little thing, but full of poetry. Swigsby said he wondered where they met the first time, and Daisy in her poetical way said she guessed it was in the gloaming. Swigsby looked puzzled, and then what do you suppose he said?"

"Give it up."

"Said he guessed she was mistaken, because he couldn't recall any apartment house by that name."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Assisting His Memory.

Bobby was spending the afternoon at his aunt's and for some moments had been gazing out of the window in a painfully thoughtful sort of way.

"What makes you so serious, Bobby?" asked his aunt.

"Why, ma told me that I must remember not to ask for anything to eat, and I am trying to remember it."—Union Signal.

The Umbrella.

Jack—I made two calls this afternoon, and I must have left my umbrella at the last place I called.

Tom—How do you know but that you left it at the first place?

Jack—Because there's where I got it.—Chicago News.

CASOLENE ESCAPED FROM STOVE.

Girl's Cloth ng Took Fire and She and a Woman were Burned to Death.

Lawrence, Mass., Aug. 18.—A gasolene stove was the cause of the loss of two lives in Methuen Friday and the destruction by fire of a barn and its contents. The victims were Mrs. W. H. Barton, 45, and Henrietta Peabody, aged 14, who had been boarding with the Bartons. The accident occurred on a farm at the west end of Methuen. Miss Peabody was preparing dinner on a gasolene stove. The valve leaked a trifle and allowed the fluid to escape. Miss Peabody was wiping the gasolene from the stove when her dress took fire.

The stove was located in the ell and was near a door which leads from the ell to the barn. When the girl discovered her dress to be on fire she ran hurriedly into the barn, and, seizing a handful of hay, endeavored to extinguish the blaze. This made matters worse, for in a moment the hay was all afire. Leaving the barn the girl ran to the street and her cries attracted two men. One of them, taking a blanket from his team, wrapped it about her body. Mrs. Barton was found in the burning barn, her clothing also a mass of flame.

Mrs. Barton and the Peabody girl were wrapped in blankets and conveyed to a house near by. Five physicians were called.

The girl was more severely burned than the woman. The fire consumed every bit of her clothing and flesh fell from the body when she was moved. Mrs. Barton inhaled some of the fire and her hands and body were badly burned. She took fire while endeavoring to extinguish the girl's burning clothing. The two victims were so badly burned that it was impossible to take them to the hospital. Both died during the afternoon after having suffered terribly.

Towne Will Answer Roosevelt.

Chicago, Aug. 18.—Charles A. Towne will open his campaign at Duluth within 10 days and make an elaborate address devoted mostly to answering Roosevelt. Later Towne will tour western states, keeping close to the path of the Roosevelt itinerary. Towne will also tour the south. Throughout, it is stated, it will be Towne's mission to pay special attention to the Republican vice presidential nominee, and to answer arguments made by the latter during the campaign.

Groom-to-Be Has Disappeared.

Malden, Mass., Aug. 18.—Ada Davenport, 16 years old, is looking for her intended husband, Frank Cameron. The wedding arrangements had been completed and friends had arrived to witness the event. The groom left the house just before the appointed hour, presumably to call for the minister, but neither came and now it appears that no license was applied for or a ministering god.

An Uprising in Georgia.

Atlanta, Aug. 18.—Governor Candler has ordered out the Liberty guards, a company of the Georgia national guard, to quell an uprising of negroes in Liberty county. One white man was killed several days ago in a quarrel with negroes, and since that time discontentment has grown on both sides until now a race war seems imminent. It is reported that the negroes are burning Johnston station.

Says Humbert Was Excommunicated.

Louisville, Aug. 18.— Father Bouchet, who refused to celebrate mass for the late King Humbert at the request of the Italians of Louisville, says that his refusal was due to the fact that Humbert had been excommunicated. Father Bouchet does not believe the pope allowed the mass to be celebrated for the dead king, notwithstanding reports to the contrary.

Sweat Shop Workers on Strike.

New York, Aug. 18.—Two thousand vest makers are on strike in Manhattan, their demands being for the payment of the same scale of wages which was in force last year, for a 10-hour day and weekly payments. All who have struck are employed in the sweat shops, and the factories have not thus far been affected.

Accepted Five Percent Advance.

Pittsburg, Aug. 18.—After three days' conference the wage scale committee from the prescription bottle manufacturers and workmen came to an agreement by adopting a compromise scale, which gives the workers a general advance of 5 percent instead of the 7½ asked.

The Roanoke's Precious Cargo.

Port Townsend, Wash., Aug. 18.—Two steamships arrived from Nome Friday with nearly 600 passengers. The Roanoke had on board $3,000,000 in gold and a cargo of furs, valued at $1,000,000, which was shipped down the Yukon from Dawson to St. Michael.

Clothing Shops Unionized.

Detroit, Aug. 18.—Boycotts in force against clothing manufacturers in Rochester, N. Y., were raised by the United Garment Workers Friday, it having been announced that the manufacturers had unionized their shops.

In The Summer

Of life a woman may find herself fading and failing. She doesn't understand it. She goes to doctors, who treat her for this or for that, but she gets no better. She grows frail and pale. She can just "drag about the house," but has no pleasure in life.

Many such women have taken advantage of Dr. Pierce's offer of free consultation by letter, and have been restored by Dr. Pierce's treatment to perfect health. There is no more wonderful medicine for women than Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Its action upon the womanly organs is at once apparent in the decrease of pain and the increase of strength. It cures female weakness and such diseases as take away the strength and beauty of women.

Sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce by letter free. All correspondence private. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

"Before I commenced to use your medicine I was in a bad condition (for eight years) and four doctors treated me," writes Mrs. Bettie Askew, of Garysburg, Northampton Co., N. C. "They, of course, gave me at the time some relief, but it did not last long. I was some days in my bed and some days I dragged about the house. I have used five bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and five of the 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and four vials of the 'Pellets.' Now I feel like a new woman, and I want the world to know it."

The action of the "Favorite Prescription" is assisted by the use of "Pleasant Pellets" when the bowels are irregular.

Madame Yale's HAIR TONIC

Ladies and Gentlemen.—It has gone on record that Madame Yale's Excelsior Hair Tonic is the first and only remedy known to chemical science found to be a genuine hair specific. It has an affinity for the human hair for nourishing and invigorating its entire structure. It is antiseptic in character, as well as stimulating; its action upon the scalp and hair is truly wonderful, inasmuch as it has never been known in a single instance to fail to cure scalp diseases and to create a luxuriant growth of healthy, beautiful hair. It stops hair falling within twenty-four hours and brings back the natural color to gray hair in nearly every instance. It is not a dye; it is not sticky or greasy on the contrary it makes the hair soft, youthful, beautiful and glossy; keeps it in curl. It is a perfect hair dressing, and can be used by ladies, gentlemen or children as a daily toilet requisite. Its influence is delightfully soothing.

All Dealers sell it, $1 per bottle. Mail orders may be sent direct to the manufacturer.

THE CAT OR THE COMET

Which Was Responsible?

What was that? A confused noise, as of shattering glass, a heavy fall and then a pistol shot, all at once.

Then Aunt Samyra rapped on the floor and called to me in excited tones through the keyhole:

"Alicia Dean! Alicia Dean! Get up and dress, quick! There are burglars up stairs!"

Fortunately I was already dressed, having sat up later than usual that night, waiting for my roommate, Susan Ellen, to come back from the concert.

So I opened the door at once, and as I did so Susan Ellen almost ran into my arms, looking white and scared and almost ready to drop.

Aunt Samyra appeared a moment later, her hair done up in curl papers, armed with a lighted candle, a revolver and a poker.

I got possession of the revolver immediately; not that I expected to do any more good with it than she could, but I hoped to do less harm.

"Susan Ellen," said I in a stage whisper, "did you see anything of the robbers as you came in?"

But Susan Ellen seemed so paralyzed with fear that she was incapable of answering and simply clung to my left arm like a frightened child, shaking from head to foot.

"Now, girls, follow me, and don't speak a word!" commanded Aunt Samyra, ascending the stairway, protected by her helmet of curl papers, as it were, and with the candle in one hand and the poker in the other.

We followed at a safe distance, and I confided to Susan Ellen on the way that the pistol shot seemed to have come from Uncle Ralph's room, and I was afraid the robbers had hurt him, or he would have come to our rescue in this time.

She opened her mouth to answer, but her teeth chattered so that she could not.

We now saw that Aunt Samyra had stepped in front of Uncle Ralph's door and was making ineffectual attempts to rouse him.

By accident I had the key of my room in my hand, having unconsciously taken it out after opening the door to Aunt Samyra. This key I now applied to Uncle Ralph's lock. The door opened readily, and Aunt Samyra stepped in, but sprang back instantly with a cry of horror, for Uncle Ralph lay on the floor under the window with a pistol beside him.

It did not take me many minutes to decide that he was dead with a bullet through his heart.

After becoming convinced of this fact all my nerve left me. While gazing vacantly about with dazed eyes, vaguely conscious that Aunt Samyra was sobbing and that the cook, who had just come on the scene, was uttering horrified ejaculations, I felt some one pull my sleeve. It was Susan Ellen.

"Take me away," she said. "It's chilly up here."

"It is chilly!" I answered, drawing her arm through mine.

Then I noticed that a strong gale was sweeping through the room and that the upper sash of the window was out.

"Look!" I said. "No wonder we are cold!"

But she paid no attention.

After I had put Susan Ellen to bed and managed to get her warm and quiet with the assistance of smelling salts and a glass of wine I went back up stairs.

I had already decided in my own mind that Uncle Ralph had been murdered by a burglar, but the first glance round the room seemed to disprove this theory, for on the dressing case lay the watch and the purse of the murdered man. Nor, after thorough search, could I find even a pin missing.

Of course we had a coroner's inquest, and this developed the fact, which we already knew, that "Ralph Morton had met his death at the hands of a party or parties unknown."

When the verdict had been rendered, I returned to the scene of the murder and made another investigation. Under the window I discovered some bits of broken glass. On examining the window itself I not only found that the upper sash was out, but that one pane of glass in the lower was missing. As I failed to draw any conclusion from these circumstances I went back to Susan Ellen and asked if she supposed the murderer had carried off the upper window sash.

She burst out crying hysterically, and for a long time I could get no answer out of her at all. But it transpired at last that when Aunt Samyra had been apprised of Uncle Ralph's unexpected visit the day before she had sent Susan Ellen up stairs to get his room ready. Susan Ellen, thinking she had plenty of time before his arrival to clean the windows, took out the sashes—they were old fashioned windows—in order to wash them.

But Uncle Ralph got in two hours ahead of time, having come on an earlier train than he expected. The result was that Susan Ellen had not finished the windows.

"But it was so warm," she wound up with another burst of tears, "I did not think it would matter to leave out one sash, and I meant to clean it and put it in today."

I understood now why it was that Cousin Susan was so powerfully affected by the death of a great uncle whom she had never seen till yesterday. She thought if she had not left out that window sash the murderer could not have gained entrance.

Aunt Samyra employed the finest detectives to clear up the mystery, but it remained a mystery still.

"Alicia," said my aunt about six months after the murder, "what is your theory on this subject?"

"I have none," I answered, "unless it was a case of suicide."

"Impossible!" she ejaculated.

"What sort of mood was he in when he bade you good night?"

"Very bright and cheerful."

"How long was it after he left you before you retired?"

"I hadn't retired at all, but was putting up my hair in curl papers when I heard the pistol shot and went after you."

"Then you heard the report of the pistol shortly after he bade you good night?"

"I did."

"And you say he was in a bright, cheerful frame of mind?"

"Yes; he went off with a laugh about being in the top story, saying he could get a better view of the comet, which was then attracting the attention of every one, as he would be so much nearer to it."

At the end of this conversation I was as much in the dark as I had been at the beginning.

But one thing had been borne in upon my mind very forcibly of late, and that was the change in Susan Ellen. Ever since that memorable night she had been a different girl and seemed only the shadow of her former self.

I attributed this state of things to a morbid, oversensitive conscience which would persist in attaching great blame to herself for having left out that window sash. One phase of her character, however, I was at a loss to account for, and that was the sudden and unaccountable aversion she had taken to Aunt Samyra's poor old yellow cat.

Formerly, I remembered, she had been the cat's greatest champion and many a time had shared a meal with pussy, but now she actually shivered if the animal happened to brush against her.

But it was many years before I discovered the cause of that aversion. Aunt Samyra was dead; pussy had died and been buried by me with many tears under the cypress tree in the back yard; Susan Ellen had married Mr. Wentworth, the young man who had been her escort to the concert the night of Uncle Ralph's death; the old home had been broken up, and I was drifting about the world in an aimless way.

Susan Ellen had invited me to spend a week with her, and as her husband was away on business we had ample opportunity for the exchange of long confidences about old times.

One night as we sat by the fire the subject happened to turn on Aunt Samyra's old yellow cat. I asked her why it was that she took such a sudden and unaccountable aversion to that poor animal.

"It is something I have often wanted to tell you," she answered, "but somehow always shrank from doing so. At first I was afraid, and afterward I just kept putting it off because I knew I ought to have told it at first. You remember the night Uncle Ralph was killed?"

"I certainly do."

"Well, that evening I went to a concert with Mr. Wentworth. We got home about 10:30 and stood talking at the front gate a few minutes, he meanwhile calling my attention to the comet. I felt guilty standing at the gate, for Aunt Samyra had often told me not to do so, and involuntarily I glanced toward the house, expecting to see her poking her head out of the window, looking at me. Instead two curious objects in Uncle Ralph's window caught my eye.

"You remember it was such a bright moonlight that one could see very distinctly. You remember also about my washing the windows. The bottom sash was in, but hoisted on a piece of broom handle so as to take the place of the top sash, leaving the bottom of the window open.

"Now, then, on the window sill, walking backward and forward, looking at the comet, too, I suppose, was Aunt Samyra's old yellow cat, while Uncle Ralph, with his head poked out from the window, was also regarding the comet with rapt intentness.

"My first feeling was one of guilty dismay. He was looking at the comet now, to be sure, but if he were to glance in my direction and then to tell Aunt Samyra!

"While I hesitated what to do pussy began rubbing herself against the piece of broom handle that held up the window. The broom handle, I am afraid, had been put up in a very slanting, insecure fashion. I realized this in a flash as I noticed Uncle Ralph's pistol lying on the window sill. And I had barely realized it when the broom handle slipped, the window came down on the pistol, and you heard the shot and know the rest."

She paused and took a deep breath.

"And now I want to know which was responsible for the murder, the cat or the comet?"—Chicago Times-Herald.

Explained.

"I don't see how the defendant, who is very short and fat, could have hugged the plaintiff, who is remarkably tall and thin."

"She explains it by saying he folded her in a warm embrace."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

FAMOUS RAILROAD KING.

Characteristics and Stories of Collis P. Huntington.

HIS LIKING FOR PRACTICAL JOKES.

Pretty Good Illustration of It In the Forests of Vancouver Island—Incident Depicting His Maxim of Trade. His Fondness of Poetry and Treatment of Mexican Laborers.

The personal characteristics of the late Collis P. Huntington, famous railroad magnate, may be described as follows: He had a calm, bewhiskered, ox eyed and nervous face. His frame was tall and elastic, revealing the strength and health of an iron constitution. There was a tendency of his head to bend forward when he walked. He carried a gold headed cane from habit rather than necessity. He dressed in black, but was neither shabby nor fashionable. He wore a tiny gold stud in his shirt bosom and a small ring on the little finger of his left hand. He was not given to ostentation. He was fond of reading and enjoyed a game of whist in the evening. He did not like society. He rarely went to balls or big dinners. He gave no champagne suppers and kept no dog kennels or racing stables. He was averse to elaborate furniture and draperies. He was opposed to liveried lackeys, and disappointed his daughter by refusing to adopt a coat of arms when she married a prince. His great grievance was that he had little home life. He longed to settle down in a house permanently and live in quiet ease. His ambition, it is said, was to lead a studious existence in a country home.

Among the many anecdotes related about Mr. Huntington the following is illustrative of his humor, which was typically American and included a fondness for practical jokes. This occurred some 10 or 12 years ago in the far northwest in British Columbia, says a correspondent of the New York Times. A party consisting of ten railroad men, of whom the writer was one, was on a visit to a coal mine in the forests of Vancouver island, ten miles distant from the coast. Ten saddle horses had been engaged to meet the expedition at the boat landing, but when the members of the party arrived there after a sharp row across the bay at sunrise it was discovered that only one horse was at hand. The disappointment meant something, for the way lay through a primeval forest, filled with swamp and snow and obstructed by fallen logs. All stood waiting and shivering in the keen morning air, but no more horses arrived. Finally Mr. Huntington said, with great soberness:

"Well, boys, this looks bad for us."

All acquiesced. "But," he added, "I've seen worse."

We listened eagerly, for his eye had brightened, and we felt sure that his genius for problems had discerned the solution. He continued: "I've been in a good many tight places in my life, but I never let the lack of a horse keep me from going anywhere if I really had made up my mind to it."

With that he quietly mounted the single horse at hand and without a glance at his companions started up the trail. The railroad men took the joke without a word, and that ten mile tramp and the mountainous appetites that distinguished the completion of it were things to be remembered long afterward.

A characteristic story of his dealings with workingmen is told in the building of the International railroad in Mexico. The company opened some coal mines, and Mr. Huntington ordered that in employing labor the preference should be given to native Mexicans. At the end of the first year the superintendent reported that he had tried the native labor thoroughly and that it would not do at all. Huntington replied: "Have patience with them. Show them our ways and try them 20 years longer." Two years later the superintendent sent this message: "Tell Mr. Huntington that I have not tried the Mexicans for 20 years, but long enough to find that they make some of the best workmen we have."

Mr. Huntington took bright views of life, tempered only by a philosophy which seemed to be equal to all occasions. He never fought the inevitable or fretted over the "has been," and while one favorite maxim was "What ought to be done can be done," he often was heard to say: "There is no use of talking about it. It is behind us!" A business friend dropped into his office one morning during some cloudy financial weather and gloomily predicted a fall in stocks. Huntington turned quickly to the window, and, glancing at the flag on the Produce Exchange tower in New York, replied: "You might know it. The wind is in the northeast."

"So you think," asked his visitor, with an involuntary smile, "that the direction of the wind has something to do with it?"

"Why, certainly," said Huntington, apparently in perfect seriousness; "when I come out of my house mornings I can generally tell within a point how the stock market is going. People are affected by the weather without knowing it. Tomorrow the wind will probably shift to the northwest, and then the market will go up. There is generally a point's difference between the northeast and the northwest."

Mr. Huntington's maxim of trade was this: Anything that can be bought for less than the cost of production, that is not perishable and that is an article in general use, is worth buying and holding. An anecdote illustrates this. He once bought a lot of bar steel at a time when there was no manufacturing in California. Nobody wanted it and the owner was glad to get rid of it at a cent a pound. For four years he stored it in his back yard under old sails; but when quartz was at last reached everybody wanted steel, and he sold the major part of it at a dollar a pound, and his dogged patience had its reward.

Mr. Huntington was fond of good books and fine bindings. Poetry appealed strongly to this practical man of affairs, who enjoyed a well turned couplet. He always kept in his office desk a set of George Crabbe's poems, and in his rare moments of relaxation liked to run over the rhythmical stories of life which have made that reverend poet his favorite; for their attractive meter brought the truth home in a canter that delighted him, and he was quite likely to bestow the set upon a well liked friend to whom he may have quoted some homely but trenchant verse.

That Mr. Huntington never wasted any time crying over spilt milk is illustrated by an incident which occurred shortly ofter he became president of the Pacific Mail. One morning his private secretary read him a dispatch announcing the loss of one of the great Transpacific steamships belonging to that company, and the only reference he made to the matter was:

"That's too bad; wire Cramp to come over."

The "Cramp" referred to, of course, was the head of the great shipbuilding firm of Philadelphia.

KITE SHIP CROSSING THE SEA

Started on Ocean Trip Bearing Old Glory Aloft and Trailing a Log.

Old Glory is cavorting over the waves 500 feet aloft with a novel craft in its wake, presumably bound for England, though its destination will depend upon the wind and the tides, says the New York Herald. Mariners who encounter the emblem of the free in midocean will have occasion to rub their eyes in astonishment. If they stop to signal, they will receive no reply. The flag is without visible means of support unless the observer gets very close, so as to see a stout twine extending from kites overhead to a log bobbing in the water.

There was a sensation on the beach at Allenhurst, N. J., when Old Glory was launched on its long journey. A large crowd of cottagers and boarders at the inn and the Dunes had gathered in the bathing pavilion to see E. I. Horsman, a kite enthusiast, make his new experiment. He sent up a tandem of six box and Eddy kites on 1,000 feet of line. They sailed gracefully seaward on the wind, which blew steadily from the west. Then the American flag fluttered up toward them, reaching an elevation of fully 500 feet.

The line was made fast to a heavy log, serving as a drag anchor and making a 30 pound pull for the kites. It was just noon when the log was slowly dragged from the sandy shore into the surf, leaving a deep trail behind it. When the first breaker dashed over it, covering it with foam and momentarily concealing it, there were tumultuous cheers from the pavilion and a general waving of handkerchiefs by pretty girls, who did not care to strain their voices.

Bathers pushed the log into deeper water and floated on it until they found that it was moving too rapidly and that unless they wished to start on a trip to an unknown shore they would have to let go. Mr. Horsman calculated that the initial speed was at the rate of about five miles an hour. If the wind should remain good and if the kites keep on in the direction they started, they may reach the coast of Portugal or Spain within a month, and the stars and stripes will float triumphantly over the Iberian peninsula. Mr. Horsman's idea, however, allowing for probable variations in the wind as well as for the ocean currents, is that if his kite ship goes all the way across the log should finally land on English soil.

Dance of the Dragon.

The balefires lit his yellow eyes;
His flaming nostrils spread.
Above the city's ancient walls
He reared his horrid head.
His leaping tongue, through gory lips,
Shot out through fangs of white;
The dragon of the east went forth
To death's wild dance last night!

Scaled with the lies of ancient power,
Clawed with the hate of years,
Beaked with the Asiatic dower
Of crime corroded years,
Dragging his form above the dead
That marked his murderous way,
He danced the awful tune that rings
Through cycles of Cathay!

Gleaming and glaring, huge and warm,
The lanterns lit his path
Down the long lanes of dead that lay
Under his stroke of wrath.
Fierce with the wine of blood debauched,
Drunk for the season's kill,
The earth beneath his hoof beat broke
Into a thunder thrill!

Play up, the heathen tunes of death!
Play up, the dragon's dance!
The alien peoples in his path
Shall wither at his glance!
Sweep of his mighty tail and swing
Of jaws that feed on gore—
But hark! along the Tien-tsin wall
That cannon throated roar!

On to the dance the allies rush
Till dance shall turn to dread
And the ensaffroned demon stretch
His length beside the dead!
Beat the bright music of the brave
That rush to seal his fate,
Whose bleared eyes tremble at the light
That breaks around his gate!

Whose talons quiver in distress,
Whose huge lips bite the dust,
Whose century cinctured scales fall off
Before the swordsman's thrust;
Whose dance of death is nearly o'er,
Whose pathway shall be swept
Of women and of babes foul slain
Where'er his hoofs have stept!

Out of the night he makes his own,
Out of the dance he weaves
Around the suppliant form that kneels
'Neath his huge fangs and grieves.
Nations shall mold the higher good,
Pierce with their contrite ray
The yellow shadow of thy life,
Thou dragon of Cathay!

Serious Ills of Women

The derangements of the female organism that breed all kinds of trouble and which ordinary practice does not cure, are the very things that give way promptly to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Uterine and ovarian troubles, kidney troubles, ulcerations, tumors, unusual discharges, backaches and painful periods—these are the ills that hang on and wreck health and happiness and disposition.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

has a wonderful record of absolute cures of these troubles—a constant series of successes for thirty years. Thousands of women vouch for this. Their letters constantly appear in this paper.

NEWS IN BRIEF.

Dr. John P. Cushing of Knox college, Galesburg, Ills., has been appointed principal of the Hillhouse high school, New Haven.

It is announced that the big battle between Bob Fitzsimmons and Sharkey at Coney Island will be decided on Aug. 25 instead of Aug. 24, as was originally intended.

John C. Hawley of Detroit, widely quoted as an authority on criminal law, on which he had written several works, died of uraemic poisoning.

First Lieutenant Thomas, Thirty-fifth infantry volunteers, has been discharged from the army of the United States "for the good of the service."

John Gibbons, a teamster, was arrested at Boston, charged with stealing 500 pounds of sugar from the American Sugar Refining company, and an Italian was arrested for receiving the same.

Keith's Theatre.

Henry Lee's impersonations of celebrities, past and present, constitutes the best entertainment that has been offered at Keith's for some time, and that he is to be retained as the leading feature of the programme for the week commencing Aug. 20 will be learned with pleasure by the thousands of patrons of that popular theatre. Mr. Lee's impersonations are complete in every detail of make-up voice and manner; they are living and speaking portraitures, far above the ordinary work in that line to which variety audiences are usually treated. He will make a change of subjects the coming week. Others who will appear are: Mazuz and Mazette, in their acrobatic specialty, "The Tramp and the Breakman;" Mark Murphy, monologue entertainer and storyteller; Armstrong brothers, eccentric commedians and dancers; Bonnie and Adelle, in a comedy sketch; the celebrated Willis family, instrumentalists; Crawford sisters, singers and dancers; Dorothy Neville, monologue comedienne, and Mlle Christina's monkeys, said to be the greatest troupe ever seen in this country. There will be the usual change of biograph pictures, and many other specialties.

Mary Ann Was Celebrated.

Concord, N. H., Aug. 18.—While Concord's celebration of old home day was the largest in the state Friday, it was not by any means the only one. Sanbornton, Merrimac, Brookline, Grafton, Danbury and Antrim also held celebrations.

Genesee Pure Food Co., Le Roy, N. Y.:

Gentlemen:—I must say in regard to GRAIN-O that there is nothing better or healthier. We have used it for years. My brother was a great coffee drinker. He was taken sick and the doctor said coffee was the cause of it and told us to use GRAIN-O. We got a package but did not like it at first, but how would not be without it. My brother has been well ever since we started to use it.

Yours truly, LILLIE SCHOA.

It is estimated that fully 25,000 people attend this re-union annually, and is an occasion much appreciated by the survivors of the old boys who went forth in defence of their country in the early sixties.

SERPENTINE BOAT

CLAIM THAT IT WILL MAKE EIGHTY MILES AN HOUR ACROSS THE OCEAN.

Charles H. Sawyer and Andrew Anderson have secured letters patent for a serpentine boat which, it is claimed, will rush through the water at a speed of 80 miles an hour, says the Minneapolis Times. Mr. Sawyer is a machinest by occupation and has resided in Minneapolis for 17 years. James Gresham of Brooklyn is preparing to build the first of these boats for a syndicate headed by W. J. Arkell.

It is expected that this type of boat will cross the ocean in less than three days, driving itself like a screw through the water at the rate of 60 miles an hour, and it is the intention of the syndicate to try to procure the contract for carrying the transatlantic mails. Mr. Gresham believes his boat, which is to be built at Newport News, will be ready for her trial spin in about six months.

The boat will probably be the strangest looking craft that has ever sailed the seas. It will look more like a sea serpent than anything else, with a body like an elongated Rugby football and a prow like the ends of an ancient galley. Around the body will be the big spiral flange which is to give to it its forward motion as the outer shell of the ship revolves rapidly.

The boat will consist of two sections, one within the other. The inner shell will be shaped like a cigar, round in the middle and tapering to a point at each end. A round tube will extend from it fore and aft, turning upward and outward like a swan's neck. It will terminate in an open mouth, which will be the ventilator of the ship. Around the neck will be a gallery. This will be the deck of the ship, the only open place in the whole vessel. The after gallery will be used for the wheelhouse and the forward balcony for the bridge.

This inner hull will be swung like a hammock in the outer shell, which completely envelops it, letting only the bow and stern protrude. It rests on ball bearings, which reduces the friction to almost nothing.

All the machinery is stowed in the bottom of the inner hull so as to balance it and keep it stationary. Penetrating the lower section of the hull is a revolving shaft, which is geared to the outer hull. By revolving this shaft the outer shell is spun around the inner hull.

Around the outer hull is wound the great steel flange, which is the main principle of the device.

"This is the great Archimedean screw," says Mr. Sawyer. "Archimedes said that if he had room for a fulcrum he could lift the earth. Well, in this case we make the water our fulcrum. The hull of the boat, operated from within, revolves, and the flange drives the vessel forward. I should say that the speed of such a boat is limited only by the strength of the material used in its construction.

"The first boat to be built will be 50 feet long, 11 feet in diameter in the middle, will weigh about 11½ tons, and have a displacement of less than four tons. It will be built of fine steel, and the flange will be 11 inches wide at its widest part.

"Three revolutions would drive the boat its own length. We would probably run her at 100 revolutions a minute, although I believe we could make 400 turns. But at 100 she would be making a speed of 60 miles an hour, and would cross the Atlantic in less than three days."

Manufacturing In the South.

Attention is called by The Review of Reviews to the growing importance of the south in manufacturing. In the five years from 1890 to 1895—and that they were difficult years for the country at large no one can have forgotten—the cotton belt doubled its number of spindles and looms; in the four years since that time the maximum of 1895 has been fairly doubled again. To realize this take Charlotte, N. C., as a center and travel about a circle whose radius is only 100 miles. Within this limited area you will find today over 300 mills, operating, in round numbers, 2,500,000 spindles and nearly twice as many looms as the entire south had when the last census was taken. The major portion of these mills have been running day and night since last summer, thus doubling their estimated capacity. This makes it easy to understand how the Old North State will be able to use every bale of her own cotton crop of 1899. Yet it is her sister, South Carolina, that holds the present supremacy in this manufacture in this section and is pressing Rhode Island close for the next place to Massachusetts out of the entire Union.

Castle Square Theatre.

For the coming week at the Castle Square Theatre the attraction will be the brilliant modern comedy "The Late Mr. Castello," written by Sydney Grundy and originally produced at the Comedy Theatre, London, three seasons ago. The story told by the author is full of interest, he has introduced a number of well drawn characters and the dialogue is written with all the skill, vivacity and point for which Mr. Grundy's dramatic work is so noted. The production of this comedy promises to be a notable event of the rapidly closing summer season at this theatre. The cast announced for the comedy is as follows: Captain Trefusis, Franklyn Ritchie: Sir Pinto Wanklyn, John T. Craven; Jack Uniacke, Tony Cumming; Spencer, William J Hasson; Mrs. Castello, Maude Odell; Mrs. Bickerdyke, Leonora Bradley; Avice Bickerdyke, Leonora Gnito. Following on Monday, Aug. 27, comes the first production at the Castle Square Theatre of Martha Morton's comedy "A Fool of Fortune" in which Mr. W. H. Crane and his company gained pronounced success a few seasons ago. At the Monday matinees the distribution of souvenir boxes of chocolate bon bons will be continued until further notice.

HE HAS NO APOLOGY.

Caleb Powers Claims That He Is the Victim of a Judicial Farce.

Jury Declares That He Is Guilty of Conspiracy.

Former Secretary of State Receives a Sentence of Life Imprisonment.

Georgetown, Ky., Aug. 20.—"We, the jury, find the defendant guilty, and fix his punishment at confinement in the penitentiary for the rest of his natural life." This was the wording of the verdict rendered in the case of ex-Secretary of State Caleb Powers, charged with being an accessory before the fact to the murder of William Goebel.

CALEB POWERS.

The jury retired at 1:32 p. m. and returned its verdict at 2:25, having been out only 53 minutes. Only one ballot was taken, and the vote in favor of a life sentence was unanimous.

When the jury retired the belief was general that its members would fail to agree, and in this opinion the defendant himself was firmly convinced.

When the verdict was returned, Powers, for the first time during the weary six weeks of the trial, betrayed his feelings. Under all of the trying incidents of the trial he had mintained a changeless expression. The verdict of guilty, however, apparently staggered him.

There was no sort of demonstration following the verdict and the vast crowd filed out of the courthouse almost in silence.

The jury which sat in the case was composed of eight Democrats, three anti-Goebel Democrats and one Republican.

Powers has issued the following statement to the public:

"I am asked my opinion concerning my trial, and the verdict of the jury. Could I have but one opinion? Can any fair-minded man or woman of this state have but one? That one of the greatest judicial farces known to history has been enacted here in my trial, under the forms of law, no well informed man can doubt. Innocence is no shield with $100,000 and the methods of Campbellism against you. The rectitude of one's past life counts for naught. They say Taylor is guilty because he was at his office, and that I am guilty because I was away from mine. This has been a political trial throughout for political purposes, and no greater mistake has been made by the Democratic party since they robbed us of the offices to which we were fairly elected by the people. There are good men and noble women in the Democratic party, and many of them. They are not all bad, far from it, a great many of them do not endorse the theft of the state offices. A great many more of them will not endorse this mockery of a trial, this prostitution of the courts of justice for certain ends. From the beginning of the campaign until now I have stood with what little of merit I have had, for the rights and liberties of the people. That is my crime. That is the only offense I have committed. That is the only thing proven against me. I swore to that myself in my testimony. I have never had and I now have no apology to make for being true to the trust imposed upon me by a majority of the voters of this state. History will draw its dark lines around those who have outraged me and disgraced the judiciary and blackened the history of the state."

Reason Has Left Him.

New York Aug. 20.—Charles Mitchell, 27 years old, colored, was placed in the insane pavillion at Bellevue hospital Sunday night. On Wednesday night, when the race riot broke out on the West side, Mitchell was in the thick of the fighting. Late at night he was taken to his home, suffering from a blow which he received, and finally he became so violent that it was deemed best to place him under restraint.

Guards' Services Not Needed.

Atlanta, Aug. 20.—Governor Candler has received a telegram from Sheriff Brewer of Liberty county saying that the negroes in that locality who had been giving considerable trouble during the last few days had now dispersed, and that there was no longer any need of the Liberty guards.

A MATTER OF CONJECTURE.

Speculation as to Course of Nations Whose Interests Are Affected In China.

Washington, Aug. 20.—Now that the primary object for which the allied armies marched upon Pekin, viz., the rescue of the besieged legationers, has been accomplished, the drift of discussion in official and diplomatic circles reverts to the next step to be taken. Necessarily many of the predictions as to what this will be are purely conjectural, as it is realized that complete and definite information regarding the condition of affairs in Pekin must be awaited before any positive action can be taken by the governments whose interests have suffered as a result of the Chinese troubles.

The presumption here is that the next move made will be an agreement for an armistice. This may be undertaken by the commanders of the Chinese army and those of the allies on the spot, where the fighting, according to the latest reports from Pekin, appears to be still in progress. This accomplished, the question of the withdrawal of the foreign armies, the payment of indemnities and many other problems may be left to commissions duly appointed to adjudicate them. Li Hung Chang has already been appointed a plenipotentiary by his government to negotiate terms of peace, and in this capacity he made an ineffectual attempt to stop the progress of the allies in their march to Pekin. Whether Earl Li will be continued in that capacity by the imperial government is not known here, but such seems altogether probable, as with his well-known ability and his acquaintance with the world he would be able to make possibly better terms than any other Chinaman.

There are 11 nations which have suffered as the result of the Chinese disturbances. All will expect a settlement of damages which have resulted from the Boxer outbreaks, the murder of missionaries and the destruction of legation property. It can be stated authoritatively that up to this time there have been no exchanges between the United States and the powers regarding the steps to be taken in the future to bring China to terms for the losses that have been incurred. The sole interest of the United States up to this time has been the rescue of the legationers, which is now an accomplished fact. Informal discussion has taken place between the president and his cabinet as to what this government will do to secure reparation for losses, but the conclusions reached are purely tentative and in no sense definite.

Brick Killed the Ghost.

Philadelphia, Aug. 20.—While frightening a crowd of negroes Sunday night by pretending she was a ghost, Florence Almond, aged 15 years, was struck on the head with a brick thrown by one of the negroes and killed. The negroes were gathered on a lot and the girl, who lived near by, had wrapped a white sheet about her and suddenly appeared before the crowd. The latter scattered in all directions, and the girl was about to return home when the brick was thrown. She died in a few minutes.

Has Lost Power of Speech.

Portland, Me., Aug. 20.—While bathing at Old Orchard, Saturday, John B. Clough, aged 54, of Memphis, was struck by a monstrous wave. He barely had strength enough to return to his hotel, where he was later found lying on a bed in a dazen condition. He was not able to speak, nor has he been able to regain the power of speech since the accident. Clough has been brought to the Maine general hospital.

Woman Probably Fatally Hurt

Lynn, Mass., Aug. 20.—Charles W. Oldrieve, a walker on water, which feat he accomplishes by the aid of shoes of his own invention, while walking the track with his wife, who also assists in the exhibitions, was struck by a train near Long Bridge, and although he only received slight injuries, Mrs. Oldrieve was probably fatally hurt. Both are about 40 years old, and are at the hospital here.

Killed Father In Self Defense.

Lincoln, Neb., Aug. 20.—James N. Burnham of Wymoran shot and killed his father, Captain Collins A. Burnham, at their home Sunday. A coroner's jury exonerated the son. Both father and son were prominent political workers. The father came home intoxicated and made an assault upon his son, who killed him in self-defense.

To Ride a Century a Day.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Aug. 20.—Miss Jane Yatman arrived here at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon, riding her wheel on which she started from New York at 5:30 o'clock in the morning, for Chicago. Her intention is to ride a century every day, no matter what the weather may be. She ate a hearty dinner and then proceeded.

Killed Under Distressing Circumstances.

Boston, Aug. 20.—Charles M. McMackin, 4½ years old, was killed Sunday at Revere by an electric car. The killing of the little fellow was witnessed by his mother and three other of her children. The family were separated and the boy ran across the street in front of the car.

To Labor In Porto Rico.

Boston, Aug. 20.—Lawrence Letherman, attached to the postoffice inspector's office in this city, has been appointed chief postoffice inspector for the island of Porto Rico. This is the first appointment of its kind ever made by the department at Washington.

Goshen, Ill.

Genesee Pure Food Co., Le Roy, N. Y.:

Dear Sirs:—Some days since a package of your GRAIN-O preparation was left at my office. I took it home and gave it a trial, and I have to say I was very much pleased with it, as a substitute for coffee. We have always used the best Java and Mocha in our family, but I am free to say I like the GRAIN-O as well as the best coffee I ever drank.

Allies Were Bombarding It At Last Accounts---Hot Time Expected.

News of the Entry of Forces Into Pekin Confirmed by Chaffee.

Remey Says Dowager Empress Is Still In City of Pekin.

Washington, Aug. 20.—From General Chaffee the war department on Sunday received official confirmation of the fall of Pekin and the rescue of the besieged legationers. The dispatch of the American commander was not long and contained few details, but the unconcealed satisfaction with which it was received by officials of the administration indicated clearly the anxiety that had been engendered by his prolonged silence. His last communication to the government prior to the receipt of Sunday's advices was dated Aug. 11, at Matow, almost 30 miles from Pekin. The explanation of his silence is suggested in advices received by the navy department from Admiral Remey, who, telegraphing from Taku on the 18th, says the telegraph line between that point and Pekin is interrupted.

The cablegram from Admiral Remey contains some important information not mentioned by General Chaffee. He makes the startling statement, on Japanese authority, that the inner city of Pekin was being bombarded by the allied forces. Admiral Remey says also that the dowager empress is detained in the inner city by Prince Yungedo.

Following is the text of the dispatch from General Chaffee, as made public by the war department:

"Chefoo, Aug. 19. Adjutant General, Washington:

"Pekin, Aug. 15.—We entered legation grounds at 5 o'clock last night with Fourteenth and light battery. Eight wounded during day's fighting; otherwise all well. Chaffee."

It will be noted that the dispatch indicates that the American troops entered the legation grounds at 5 o'clock on the evening of the 14th. By the Washington officials and by the several legation officials to whom it was shown the date of General Chaffee's communication is regarded as an error of transmission. All previous advices, official and unofficial, have indicated that the legations were relieved on the evening of the 15th after a day of sharp fighting.

The fact that only the Fourteenth infantry and Riley's battery entered the city, as shown by General Chaffee's dispatch, does not indicate that the Ninth infantry and the marines, who were so conspicuously gallant throughout the advance upon the capital, did not participate in the engagement which resulted directly in the rescue of the besieged legationers.

Admiral Remey's dispatch, which contains much interesting information in few words, is as follows:

"Chefoo (no date). Bureau of Navigation, Washington:

"Taku, 18th.—Telegraph line to Pekin interrupted. Information, Japanese sources, empress dowager detained by Prince Yungedo inner city, which being bombarded by allies. Chaffee reports entered legation grounds evening 14th. Eight wounded during day's fighting; otherwise all well. Remey."

The startling feature of the dispatch is that fighting within the city of Pekin was continuing, according to the advices of Admiral Remey. The inner or, as it is popularly known, the forbidden city, evidently had not been taken. It is surrounded by a massive wall of solid masonry, more than 20 feet high, and it is not regarded as surprising that the Chinese should make their final stand within its shadows. Prior to the receipt of the dispatch it was accepted generally as a fact that the dowager empress, in company with the emperor and a large suite, had left Pekin. While nothing is said in Admiral Remey's advices as to the whereabouts of the emperor, it is deemed scarcely probable that he left the city without the empress dowager.

Some doubts of the accuracy of the information received by Admiral Remey is expressed, particularly as the Chinese minister, Mr. Wu, is very positive that the emperor, empress dowager and the entire Chinese court left Pekin before the arrival at the gates of the allies.

Minister Wu said there was no Chinese Prince Yungedo. It is not a Chinese name. It might be, the minister thought, a Japanese name, but, personally, he knew of no such person.

At the Japanese legation the dispatch of Admiral Remey was read with deepest interest. There, too, it was said that Yungedo was not a Chinese name. No Japanese official of that name was known to the legation attaches. Their solution of the question, raised by the dispatch, was that the name should be Yung Lu. He is the commander-in-chief of the imperial Chinese troops, and is said to have strong pro-foreign inclinations and sympatnies. No conjecture was offered as to the reason for the detention of the dowager empress by him.

Among Washington officials it is regarded as hardly likely that the empress dowager is being detained by any Chinese official. If she be in Pekin at this time she is there, probably, of her own accord. The assertion of Minister Wu, based upon official advices from his government, however, is most positive that she is not in the city of Pekin.

While no surprise was evinced at the statement of Admiral Rmey that the inner city was being bombarded, some concern was expressed lest the final stand of the Chinese troops within what they regard as most sacred precincts should prove a very serious affair. The imperial city is occupied only by the highest Chinese officials and members and attaches of the imperial court. Further information as to the reported bombardment will be awaited with keen interest.

PACKAGE OF MONEY ASTRAY.

Somebody Said to Have Made $25,000 by Working a Decidedly Slick Game.

Chicago, Aug. 20.—Somewhere between Chicago and Burlington, Ia., an express package, supposed to contain $25,000, is alleged to have gone astray. The Commercial National bank of this city sent the package to the Burlington agent of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad a few days ago, on orders given from the Burlington headquarters in this city. The money was sent by the Adams Express company.

When the money was expressed from the Chicago bank it was wrapped in the usual way in which money is transmitted. In due course of time the Burlington agent of the railroad received a similar package, but it contained nothing but brown paper. The wrapper containing the worthless paper was returned to Chicago, and the bank officials are certain it is not the one sent out by them. Representatives of the corporations interested in the matter spent a busy day investigating the mystery of the missing package, and laying plans for the arrest of the robbers—if the money was stolen between Chicago and Burlington.

Cause of the Framee Disaster.

Paris, Aug. 20.—The board of inquiry which investigated the cause of the loss of the torpedo boat destroyer Framee, which was sunk in a collision with the battleship Brennus on Aug. 11, reports that the disaster was due to a misunderstanding of an order on the part of the Framee's helmsman, who turned the destroyer in the direction opposite to the instructions of her commander.

Cuba Gets Many Prizes.

Washington, Aug. 20.—The island of Cuba, with her exhibit at the Paris exposition, has achieved a notable success. The exhibit received 140 prizes. The achievement of the island was made the subject of a cablegram received Sunday by Secretary of War Root from Senor Quesada, in charge of the Cuban exhibit at the exposition.

To Consider Manufacturers' Propositions.

New York, Aug. 20.—Delegates from all the factories in which the cigar makers are on strike met Sunday and considered the propositions made by the manufacturers for a settlement of the strike. They decided to submit the proposition to a vote of the strikers themselves, at meetings to be held today and tomorrow.

No Attempt on Shah's Life.

Paris, Aug. 20. — Dispatches from Ostend assert that there is no foundation for the report published by the Echo de Paris and The Siecle that an attempt had been made there on the life of the Shah of Persia.

Taken From Jailed and Lynched.

Doe Run, Ga., Aug. 20.—An armed mob of 50 men forcibly entered the jail here and taking out Bill Cater, a negro, riddled him with bullets. Cater was charged with attempted criminal assault on a white woman. He had been identified by his victim.

Burglars Got Away.

Springfield, Mass., Aug. 20.—Two masked burglars entered the house of Everett Allen, a Longmeadow farmer, early Sunday morning, and at the point of a revolver obtained some small change and about $100 worth of jewelry. The burglars escaped.

Drift of Opinion.

☞ Whether or not there will be a "third ticket" is of little consequence, considering that there are ten tickets or thereabouts.—New Bedford Standard.

Among the many mysteries of bird migration is the fact that over-sea journeys are generally conducted in the darkness and invariably against a head wind.

"Do they grow that way?" asked an old lady in a store at Old Orchard the other day, pointing to a large shell upon which was artistically painted the Lord's prayer.

Amsterdam is built on piles driven through the earth into the water below. Three hundred bridges span the many canals which divide the city, 10 miles in circumference, into 90 islands.

☞ A sentiment is a convicion which has been worked over in the heat of emotion, and then laid away in the mind to shape action when occasion calls and there is no time to think.—Christian Register.

☞ This is the time of the year when the poor, misguided candidate shudders and thinks of his misdeeds which may be raked from the ashes of the past by his political adversaries.—Topeka State Journal.

☞ If Bryan is elected president he will find that dealing with the Philippine problem is a different matter than it seems when he turns loose his exuberant oratory upon a gathering of supporters.—Kennebec Journal.

☞ Some boys are so delicate that their mothers will not send them to school, but nine out of ten of these self-same boys are more interested in pugilism than arithmetic and geography.—Bridgeport Union.

☞ The war between science and the mosquito has been renewed. The scientists claim to have the best of it and say that the mosquito must go; the mosquito isn't saying much, but it is noticed that he is not burning any bridges as he retreats.—Biddeford Journal.

☞ Petroleum as a fuel and substitute for coal on warships is claiming the attention of the navy departments of several countries at the present time. Greater heating power, less labor needed in firing and the advantage of less storage room, are some of its prominent qualities.

☞ Edward Atkinson has made another alarming discovery. Some time since he assured us that liberty was about to fall. Now he declares in a scientific article that the world's supply of potash is almost exhausted. Without liberty or potash how can we hope to get along?—Kansas City Journal.

☞ The third ticket antis are now reasonably sure to put a ticket of their own into the field. It need surprise no one if Dr. William Everett be chosen to lead the assault upon the serried ranks of the McKinleyites and Bryanites alike. There is this to be said of these middle-of-the-road antis, however: They are honest. The others are now what they have intended to be from the beginning, a Democratic-auxiliary.—Haverhill Gazette.

☞ As a rule we have not been accustomed to looking upon women as especially possessing those qualities fitting them for success in the field of practical invention, but a glance through the patent office reports indicates that they are not far behind their brothers in this direction. The number of women patentees is not so large as that of men, but it is asserted that the ideas which have been patented by women are more original than any of those conceived by men. — Berkshire Eagle.

☞ In spite of the large number of people that travel by electrics the steam cars seem to have been well patronized this summer, and especially the trains to popular summer resorts. The steamboats on Boston harbor routes have been crowded, and altogether it is very evident that the greater the facilities that are offered the public for traveling the more they will go. And apparently it serves to keep humanity in better spirits and more cheerful and happy generally.—Marlboro Enterprise.

☞ Commenting on New York riots a paper of that city declares there is but one rule, safe and sound, for the maintenance of law and that is its impartial enforcement and inflexible observance. This is sound doctrine, but it is seldom preached and less often practiced. It is the same every where. Race prejudice has something to do with it and it appears in places where it never should be seen. If inflexible observance of law can be demanded of every resident, whether he is a citizen or not, then impartial enforcement can be claimed of every arresting office and Judge of the court. But that woud be an ideal situation that can prevail only in Utopia, and must not be expected this side of the millenium. It could be more nearly approached than it is, and if the Bench would make a strenuous endeavor to reach it the whole fabric of judicial procedure would be strengthened, and the liberty of the citizen, white or black, Caucasian or Mongol, would be better conceived than it is under present conditions.—Lynn Item.

JUMPED THE TRACK.

Electric Car Passengers Shaken Up But Had Fortunate Escape.

Passengers on a Quincy bound car had a narrow escape on Independence avenue Saturday afternoon about 3 o'clock. While coming down the hill at a rapid pace the car jumped the track and crashed through a fence on the west side, bringing up against a telephone pole. The accident occurred very near a culvert. No one was seriously injured although many persons were on the car. All escaped with simply a shaking up. The running boards on each side of the car were smashed but otherwise no damage resulted to the car, but traffic was delayed for some time.

The car was in charge of Conductor Frank Stoddard, who had a spare motorman at the crank.

The only cause advanced for the accident is that a stone may have got onto the track

Supt. Fry Denies It.

A New York dispatch to the Globe says:

There is gossip among the teachers of an engagement between a senorita of Cardenas and Superintendent Frye. The report that they were to be married was circulated shortly before the transports left Boston last Friday, and was said to have disconcerted another senorita, one of the fairest teachers.

It is the custom of the teachers to wear the photographs of those they admire pinned to their throats. Both of these young women have worn the picture of the superintendent.

Mr. Frye was indignant yesterday when this report was repeated to him.

"Nonsense," he said. "I do not know either one of the young women except as I know all the rest, as members of my party who are here to learn. It is folly."

Political Potpourri.

The Ledger has interviewed Councilman Packard relative to the rumor that he was a candidate for mayor this fall. The Councilman was not inclined to take the rumor seriously, especially the statement that he was the candidate of the Lalapaloosa club. If he accepted any nomination at all it would be the straight Republican nomination, but he did not think his time had come. He admitted that considerable pressure was brought upon him last year to allow the use of his name, but to each one he said no. Should Mayor Hall withdraw, the situation would be different, and he would have to consider it

CLAIMED BY TWO.

Close Finish on the Q. Y. C. Run to Marblhead.

One of the most successful cruises the Quincy Yacht club ever held, was the run to Marblehead and Beverly, which started at half past two o'clock, Saturday afternoon. The squadron, which was under command of Commodore Davis and Fleet Captain Hayward, was composed of the Countess, the flagship; Velella, Capt. C. A. Price; Cleopatra, Capt. F. F. Crane; Pauline, Capt. George H. Wilkins; Tautog, Capt. A. L. Lincoln; Hustler, Captains Whittemore and Robbins; Moondyne, Capt. William H. Shaw; Canicum, Capt. J. C. Morse, Jr.; Goblin, Capt. Elmer Ricker; Medora, Capt. S. B. Wiley, Jr.; Yseulet, Capt. L. O. Crocker; Autocrat, Capt. J. Warren Nightingale; Elaine, Capt. J. P. Bainbridge; Eclipse, Capt. H. A. Jones; Ida J., Capt. Chester C. Collins.

The squadron left the club anchorage at 2.30 for a time run to Marblehead Rock. The wind was west. The fleet stood through Black Rock channel and made an imposing appearance. Before Egg Rock was reached the air began to lighten and by the time Tinkers island was reached, tenders with warps were sent out from over half of the yachts. The Eclipse, Cleopatra, Velella, Moondyne, Hustler and Goblin were lucky enough to get a good slant of wind and creep in to Marblehead harbor before the wind fagged entirely out.

It was a close rub between the Eclipse and the Cleopatra for first place, and both claim it. They were in different classes so each gets a button.

In the meantime the Jubilee Yacht club squadron had rendezvoused at Marblehead Rock to escort the visiting fleet to Beverly The calm put a veto on this generous hospitality.

By two o'clock Sunday morning the last Quincy boat had been towed into the harbor.

On Sunday forenoon a part of the squadron went on to Beverly where the skippers were royally entertained by Vice Commodore Stephen J. Connolly and others of the Jubilee Yacht club.

The run home was started at 10.45 o'clock. This was a time run.

The contest, after covering twenty miles of the course, finally narrowed down to the Hustler, Autocrat, Medora, Countess and Elaine. The Hustler arrived at the club house at 2.54 the Autocrat at 3.02, Medora at 3.09, Countess 3.10, Elaine 3.12.

The Hanley won the cup in class A at Annisquam on Saturday. It was only a question of seconds over the Al Kyris, and the Empress, Cartoon, Hemes, Flirt and Early Dawn followed in the order named In the other classes the first boats were the Quivette, Rambler, Dauntless, Evelyn, Only One, It and Tabasco.

The water sports of the Hull-Massachusetts yacht club Saturday afternoon were of the usual interest, including races of different kinds and a game of water base ball. A banquet followed, and in the evening there was an illumination, fireworks and dancing.

BANDITS ALL OVER CHINA

Every Province Has Its Local Set of Thieves.

CURIOUS TITLES OF A FEW OF THEM

Such as the Small Knives, Big Knives, Three Dots, Red Beards, Green Skins and Cucumbers — Li Hung Chang's Punishment For These Ruffians.

The Rev. John R. Hykes, D. D., vice consul at Shanghai, has sent a number of Chinese newspapers to the American Bible society. In one of these papers, the Shanghai Mercury, in its issue of June 30, is the following catalogue of the different secret societies and robber bands which are now causing such great disturbance throughout the empire:

"Every province of China has its own local banditti. In the north there are Boxers, in the south there are Kolao Hui, Poko, 'big knife,' 'small knife,' 'three dots,' 'triad' and Chung Hing societies, as well as many others of various names, but not so well known, scattered nearly all over China and abroad. The most powerful are the highwaymen of the Shangtung province, who make their attack and robbery on horseback; next come the pirates of Kwangtung, the local banditti of Kwangsi and Yunnan, the mountaineer bands of Chim Suk, the salt smugglers of Woyeong and Tezkiang, and the desperadoes of Win Toi. Inferior classes of robbers and thieves are the 'red bearded' banditti of Tientsin, the vagrants of Shanghai, the scoundrels of Suchow and Chung Kiang, the 'green skins' of Nankin, the 'cucumbers' of Hongchow and the pickpockets of Ningpo.

"They belong to different districts and provinces under the control of their chiefs respectively. Some have joined the societies and become thieves by force of circumstances, some by fraud and persuasion, some have been compelled by force, some have even joined for protection against other bad characters, while many others join because they are naturally born thieves. They live by plunder, smuggling and fraud, by attacks upon unwary travelers, by burglary, by kidnaping women and girls to exact ransoms, by setting fire to and attacking any village too weak to resist them, or by burning the Christian churches and robbing the native Christians, and, lastly, when they have mustered sufficient numbers and are provided with sufficient arms and ammunition, they will make a rebellion and give some work to the officials to do.

"His Excellency Li Hung Chang has invented a new machine for dealing with this class of ruffian. It is a wooden cage 5½ feet high with a hole in the top of it; the criminal is put into it, his hands being tied behind and his head protruding from the top hole, and he is then hung by the neck and by degrees strangled to death. On the 16 ult. six criminals were executed in this manner near the Hongkong and Canton steamer wharf—one for kidnaping the concubine of a doctor and the other five for robbery."

Frequent mention of the inflammatory placards posted by the Boxers is made in the Chinese papers. A correspondent of the Hongkong Daily Press writes to his paper, late in June, as follows:

"A number of inflammatory placards have been posted up in the western suburbs of Canton, of which the following is a specimen: 'Kill all the Germans, the French, the Americans and the English. Drive all foreigners away, and our hearts will rest at peace. Act with all your minds and strength, and the great event will be accomplished. It will take but a few days for us to raise our troops. When the red flag is waving aloft, the world will enjoy universal peace.'

"Here is another: 'The four countries, Japan, America, Germany and England, have swallowed up the territory of the Ta-ching and subverted all our plans. Our hearts are not satisfied, but when the red flag is floating and when we have raised our well disciplined troops and driven away the foreign devils, the world shall enjoy universal peace.'

"In consequence of such threats during the last few days mandarin guardboats have been moored alongside Shameen, ostensibly for its protection."

New Electrical Heater.

A new type of electric heater for rooms and street cars consists of a combination of an electric fan in a bell shaped case with porcelain cylinders wrapped with German silver wire, says the New York Sun. The cylinders are heated nearly redhot by means of an electric current in the wire, and the fan blows a current of air over them, warming it as it passes and thus accomplishes ventilation and heating at the same time. The supply of air may easily be taken from out of doors, so that such an apparatus will supply clean, warm air to an apartment and may thus replace the furnace register or steam radiator.

Blind Massage Operators.

London workers in the interests of the blind, according to the London Express, are laboring to establish an institute for the practice of massage or muscular manipulation, which opens up a wide and profitable field to the sightless, as owing to the compensating development of the sense of touch the blind excel in this work.

The Final Festal Board.

Mrs. Botha having dined with Lord Roberts, the time is close at hand for "hubby" to do the same, says the Philadelphia Call, and so end the war with a good English dinner.

A WHITEWASH.

West Quincys Have a Picnic with the Institutes.

The West Quincys whitewashed the Institutes of Roxubury on Saturday. The home club played an errorless game and batted safely, including a home run by Duffy and three doubles.

The visitors were weak at the bat and four of the team contributed errors.

SPORTS AT REUNION.

The Quincy A. A. Won in a Ten Innings Game.

It is estimated that nearly 1,000 attended the reunion of St. John's parish on Saturday at New Downer Landing, which was in charge of the following committee: Timothy Carey, Michael Ryan, W. T. Moran, James Tate, Michael N. Burns, John Cuff, Edward Shea, Edward Sullivan, Patrick McNally, D. J. Nyhan, John A. Avery, M. Kane, Conrad Mischler, P. J. Ferguson, John Harkins, Bernard Cullen, Cornelius Duggan and John Dinegan.

The principal sporting event was a ball game between the Quincy A. A. and the Granites. The runs were numerous, but the game was so closely contested that it was full of interest. At the end of the ninth inning the score was a tie but the Quincy A. A., then rubbed it in and won 21 to 16.

The other sports resulted as follows:

Boys' bicycle race, one mile—Won by John Lebrac, John Pattison second.

One-half mile run for boys—Won by Thomas Ferguson, Patrick Gilrain second.

One-mile bicycle race—Won by John Frazier, John Pattison second.

Five-mile bicycle race—Won by John Andrews, John Frazier second.

One-mile run—Won by Thomas White, John Mullen second.

Dancing was an attraction, the committee in charge being John A. Avery, John H. Dinegan, P. J. Ferguson and John Harkins.

WARSHIPS IN THE HARBOR.

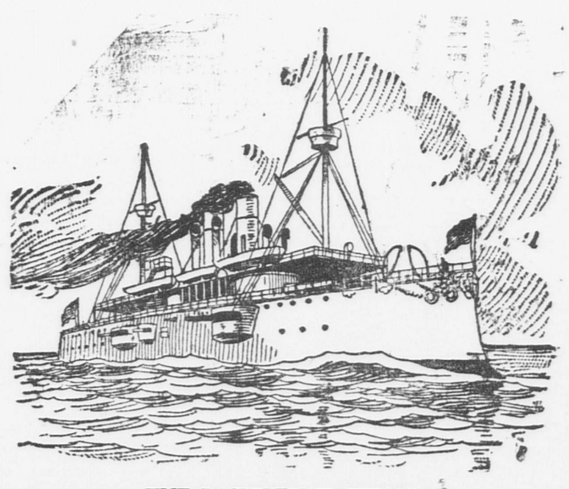

MASSACHUSETTS.

Three of the big battleships of the navy are now riding at anchor in Boston harbor.

The Massachusetts and the Kentucky, which arrived Saturday, were joined at 5.43 P. M. yesterday by the Texas, which anchored in the outer harbor.

The latter proceeded to the navy yard this morning, where she will take on coal. She, like the others, will remain at this point, and be open to inspection from 10.30 to 11.45 A. M., and from 1.30 to 5 P. M., conditionally.

The tiral trip of the Texas, together with that of the Alabama, will be made after the arrival at this port of the other warships, which are still at Bath, where they aided in the Old Home Week celebration. The Alabama will be used as a station ship.

NEWS IN BRIEF.

Marcus H. Johnson of Willimantic, Conn., died at Digby, N. S., from apoplexy, aged 60. He was a retired thread manufacturer, but held the position of president and treasurer of the American Thread company.

Miss Amy Graves, aged 29, a popular young lady of Hudson, Mass., committed suicide by drowning. She was taken sick last December with the grip from which she never recovered, and it badly affected her mind.

Joseph Ritcher, a retired brass founder, shot and killed George Uehtman, a grocer, at Cincinnati, as the result of a quarrel of several days' standing.

Harvey Race, 10 years old, who for a year had lived with a broken back, died at Ithaca, N. Y. The boy's back was broken in a fall from a house, and contrays to all medical belief, lived a year.

A freight wreck on the Boston and Albany railroad, about three miles west of Springfield, Mass., blocked both tracks for hours. A freight separated and came together again, wrecking five cars and scattering the debris over both tracks.

Judson Fleming, a wealthy farmer, and his son, Lawrence, aged 20, were killed by a train at Ashley, O. They were in a buggy, and the son attempted to drive over the tracks ahead of the train.

George C. Lodge, son of Senator Lodge, and Miss Matilda F. Davis, daughter of Judge Davis of the court of claims, Washington, were quietly married at Boston.

Another accident has occurred at the Paris exposition, the bridge joining one part of a show with another having fallen. Thirty persons were injured, five of them seriously.

The Commercial Cable company has issued the following notice: The cable steamer Angelia, laying the new German cable, reports her position at noon Aug. 19, as latitude 40.31, longitude 56.54, 871 nautical miles having been paid out. Weather, strong northeast wind and rain.

The entire plant of the Kelly Ax Manufacturing company at Alexandria, Ind., valued at $800,000, was destroyed by fire. It was the largest ax factory in the world, employing about 1000 men when running at full force.

David T. Durfee, 55 years old, and unmarried, committed suicide at Pawtucket, R. I., by hanging.

Specimens of counterfeit money were found among a tramp's effects in a box car at Lackawaxen, N. Y. The bills had each been "raised" from $1 to $5, and the workmanship was perfect.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

NOW PART OF RUSSIA.

Amur River Declared to Be No Longer a Part of the Chinese Empire.

Fighting In Pekin Seriously Regarded In London.

Desperate Struggles Likely to Occur In Various Parts of the Empire.

London, Aug. 20.—"General Grodekoff," says the St. Petersburg correspondent of The Times, "telegraphs a remarkable fact, which must be taken as a premonitory notice of what is probably to follow. The Russians have now conquered the right bank of the Amur, which, therefore, is no longer the frontier, but an internal river of the Russian empire."

Rear Admiral Bruce cables the admiralty from Chefoo, Aug. 20, as follows:

"Am informed on the authority of the Japanese that street fighting still continues in Pekin, part of which is on fire.

"Yang Sa (?) prevented the empress from leaving, and last stand is now being made in the inner city, which is surrounded by the allies and being bombarded."

Rear Admiral Bruce's report of the continuation of fighting in Pekin puts a more serious aspect upon the Chinese situation than was generally expected here. It appears effectually to dispose of all statements that the empress dowager had fled, although circumstantial accounts of her departure continue to come from Shanghai.

Despite retreat, the Chinese are apparently resolved to make a desperate struggle, not only in their ancient capital, but also in other parts of the empire. Chang Chi Tung, viceroy at Hankow, and Liu Kunyi, viceroy at Nankin, according to advices from Shanghai, have threatened the consuls that, if the person of the empress dowager is not respected, they will withdraw from their present friendly attitude.

Another Shanghai dispatch announces the death of Li Ping Heng, Cheng and Chang Lui in the fighting before Pekin.

The mandarins in the southern provinces, according to a dispatch the The Daily Express from Hong Kong, have issued an important proclamation, recognizing the capture of Pekin as a just punishment of reactionary officials, and warning the people not to interfere with foreigners, but also pointing out that the sole object of the powers should be the punishment of the Boxers, and then the restoration of peace, confining, however, their operations to the north.

Emperor Nicholas has wired to General Linevitch, commander of the Russian troops in the province of Pe Chi Li, congratulating him heartily upon the rapid capture of Pekin, and bestowing upon him the third class order of St. George. The Russian emperor also thanks Vice Admiral Alexieff and the "heroic Siberian troops."

General Gredokoff, Russian commander of the Amur government, reports to the Russian war office that Chingan pass was captured Aug. 16, after a bloody battle, in which the Chinese suffered heavily, losing four or five guns. The Russian cavalry were in pursuit of the enemy.

Covers a Variety of Topics.

New York, Aug. 20.—The Republican campaign text book, issued at the beginning of each presidential campaign by the Republican national committee, has been completed. The topics discussed in the book are "National prosperity, and its effect on the business elements," "The manufacturers, the farmers and the workingmen." The currency question, the subject of trusts, conditions in Cuba, Porto Rico and the Philippines are also dealt with. The latter part of the book is devoted to a defense of the subject of so-called imperialism.

Ended Life With Poison.

Woburn, Mass., Aug. 20.—An unknown man, who registered at the Central House as "E. E. Wright, Boston," took a dose of strychnine Sunday, from which he died. There was nothing about his person to indicate where he might belong, except a newspaper, The Vergennes Vermonter, dated Vergennes, Vt., Aug. 3, 1900.

Colombian Rebels Give It Up.

Colon, Aug. 20.—General Alban, civil governor and military commander of the department of Panama, telegraphs that he has received word of the absolute surrender of the rebel forces under Vargas Santos, Focion Soto and Uribe at San Vicente. General Uribe escaped to Barranca.

Honored by France.

Paris, Aug, 20.—The order of commander of the Legion of Honor has been bestowed upon M. Pichon, French minister to China. Foreign Minister Delcasse visited M. Pichon's mother Sunday, announced to her the safety of her son, and handed her the decoration for him.

Was Seized With a Fit.

Newton, Mass., Aug. 20.—Race Hall, 21 years old, was paddling down the Charles river with two ladies in a canoe when he was seized with a fit. He pitched into the water, and was drowned. Both of the ladies remained safely in the canoe.

Wire Communication Interrupted.

Halifax, Aug. 20.—A severe electric storm has practically cut off all the eastern part of Nova Scotia, including Cape Breton, from telegraph or telephone communication. All wires are closed.

POLICE THE ASSAILANTS.

Colored Clergyman Says Gotham's Finest Did the Clubbing In the Race Riots.

New York, Aug. 20.—Rev. P. L. Cuyler, pastor of Zion M. E. church, in his sermon Sunday, spoke about last week's race riots in this city. He said, in part:

"The trouble that our people have just gone through presents a disgusting and brutal spectacle. In the troubles that we have in the south even, there is nothing to equal it. There, at least, the men who are in authority and whose duty it is to protect the citizens of the state, do not participate in the riots. Instead of suppressing the rioting the guardians of the peace appear to have participated in the cruelty. The police clubbed the colored men, and the greatest damage done upon the persons of our people was the work of their clubs.

"Of course we know that the element that made so much trouble is not representative of New York. The mobs were composed of hoodlums, roughs and toughs of every bad kind."

Mr. Cuyler closed by saying he did not wish to stir his congregation up over the matter, as there had been trouble enough, saying: "We cannot fight. We are not strong enough. If we attempted it there would only be a period of murdering that would accomplish nothing. But we are citizens, even though we are black, and there should be some redress in the courts for all we have suffered. The city should be responsible for the brutality that has been practiced upon innocent people. I advise that some of our most responsible people get together and find out if something cannot be accomplished in this direction."

Archbishop Ireland at the Vatican.

Rome, Aug. 20.—Yesterday being the feast of St. Joachim, the pope's patron saint, there was a large gathering of church dignitaries at the Vatican. The pope spoke at some length regarding matters of Catholic interest, and then invited Archbishop Ireland to address the assembly. Mgr. Ireland described liberty under the American flag, and set forth the necessity of the pope, as the head of Christendom, "so as to be in fact, as well as of right, the sovereign teacher and ruler of all nations and peoples, without special dependency on any special nation or people."

Probably Murdered by a Thief.

New York, Aug. 20.—Catherine Scharf, aged 22, and unmarried, was beaten to death with a hammer in her rooms on the second floor of her home in this city Saturday night, the body not being found until early Sunday morning. Catherine's body lay in a pool of blood, and the rooms had been ransacked of everything of value. It is the opinion of the police that a thief was surprised in his work by the girl and killed her to prevent identification.

Said to Have Defrauded a Widow

Concord, N. H., Aug. 20.—Leosaidow, the palmist, who was arrested in Fall River, Mass., Saturday, was brought here Sunday, and locked up, charged with obtaining money under false pretences by defrauding a widow, Mrs. Elizabeth Weston, out of $800. According to the police, he induced Mrs. Weston to loan him the money on a promise of marriage, and on representation that he was a wealthy man.

Star Firemen Disqualified.

Paris, Aug. 20.—The Kansas City fire brigade has been disqualified for securing prizes at the international exhibition of fire apparatus at Vincen, on the ground of professionalism, the staff being paid. The men were permitted, however, to give an exhibition. As regards speed in preparing their apparatus, for reaching the top of buildings and the height and distance of projecting water they outclassed all competitors.

Puppy Caused Two Deaths.

New York, Aug. 20.—Mrs. James Strathie of Atlantic Highlands, N. J., is dead, after suffering awful agony from well defined symptoms of hydrophobia. A month ago Mrs. Strathie's son died of the same disease, both mother and child having been bitten by a playful puppy. It was not until the son's death that the dog was killed, and found to have been diseased. The mother was taken ill a week ago.

Harry Cornish Steps Out.

New York, Aug. 20.—The Journal and Advertiser prints the following: Harry Cornish has written his resignation as physical director of the Knickerbocker Athletic club. A prominent member of the organization says that the resignation of Cornish will be accepted at the next meeting of the board of governors. Cornish will sever his connection with athletics altogether.

Judge For Grand Army Commander.

Chicago, Aug. 20.—The Chronicle says that Major Leo Rausseur of St. Louis will be elected commander-in-chief of the Grand Army at the national encampment week after next. The other candidates for the place have withdrawn from the race, and the only one now in the field is Rausseur, who is now a judge on the bench.

New Coal Mines to Be Opened.

Steubenville, O., Aug. 20.—The largest coal deal ever transacted in eastern Ohio has just been closed and 18,000 acres of coal lands in Warren, Wells and Smithfield townships pass into the hands of Cleveland capitalists. Extensive mines will be opened. About $500,000 will be paid into the hands of land owners in a few days.

Mother Laid on Baby.

Boston, Aug. 20.—A physician, who was called to attend the 6-weeks-old infant of Mr. and Mrs. Timothy Scannell, in Roxbury, Sunday, found the child dead, death being due to suffocation from being laid upon in bed by its mother.

Harder to Say No Than Yes.

He was a most worthy young man, with a fondness for discussing sociological and moral questions, and once started on his hobby he could scarcely be headed in any other direction. He had been quite devoted in his attention to one young woman for as much as six months, but she had been unable to bring him to his senses, though she was willing to confess that she had tried repeatedly to do so. Of course she had done it in the delicate ways women have in those matters, but what he needed was a club.

Not a great while ago he was calling as usual, and as usual he was neglecting sentiment for something that only made a girl tired. This time he was moralizing on the temptations of life and the proneness of people to yield without making the proper effort against them in whatever form they might appear.

"However," he said in conclusion, displaying a commendable spirit of charity for the weak, "it is a very difficult thing for any one to say 'No.'"

Here was an unexpected chance for her.

"And conversely," she responded slowly so he could get the full force of it, "it should be very easy for one to say 'Yes.'"

He looked her straight in the eyes at last, and a hush fell upon the scene.

"Um-er-um," he hesitated, "Miss Kate, am I a chump?"

"It is very difficult for one to say 'No,'" she said with a pretty little smile, and later she found it quite easy to say "Yes."—Washington Star.

His Genial Reception.

General Starr, a gallant old soldier, had an irrepressible dislike for young lieutenants fresh from West Point. In 1874 General Starr was in command at Fort Riley, and one day an orderly came to his quarters with the message that Lieutenant Morrison, just from West Point, was at the post ready to pay his respects and report for duty. In response to this message the old general was starting for his office, when his wife, a motherly old soul, plucked him by the sleeve and said, "Now, general, promise me that you won't be rough with that young man."

"Rough?" said the old man, smiling amiably upon his matrimonial companion. "Why, I'll be peaches and cream unless the young dog riles me."

Reaching his office, the general was confronted with a dapper little fellow as spick and span as though he had just come from the hands of his barber and tailor, while he had the half supercilious air that seems inseparable from the first stages of military education.

Looking the young lieutenant over for half a moment, the old general said with great dignity: "How do you do, Mr. Morrison. I am pleased to see you." Then as a flush gradually mounted over his weather beaten features he added: "I am always glad to see you young men from the Military academy. You—you—(here the general ended with a roar) you think yourself so hanged smart."—Kansas City Journal.

Tired Metals.

It is a fact of comparatively recent discovery in chemical metallurgy that metals lose their vitality from repetitions of shocks and strains and may be said, as the expression is, to suffer from fatigue—that is, they may be worked till their molecules fail to hold together.

As is familiarly known, bars of tin, rods of brass and wires of any metal will separate owing to fatigue if bent backward and forward continuously. But by careful experiments, however, the fact is made to appear that a remedy exists for this condition of metals if the overstrain does not border on rupture, and this remedy is very much like that which is applied in the case of an overworked human frame—namely, rest.

Feather edged tools recover their vitality better than any other. Of course the length of time required for this rest varies with different metals and the amount of strain to which they have been subjected.

Hard metals, such as iron and steel, use up one and two years' time in the process. On the other hand, soft metals, like lead, retain their cohesive force longer and also require less rest. —Pearson's Weekly.

Why John Laughed.

"I don't know what is coming to us," sighed Mrs. Jones as she handed the paper over to her husband. "I'm sure things are bad enough already."

"Why, what's the matter now, my dear?" murmured John, with a mouthful of muffin.

"Matter, indeed," snorted Mrs. Jones. "Just like you men. Haven't the poor rate, water and other rates all been increased, and now the papers say the birth rate is going up. They ought to—Now, John, what are you laughing at?" —London Standard.

It May Be Push or It May Be Pull.

Politician—My boy, the door to every successful business is labeled "Push."

Thoughtful Youth—Isn't your business a successful one, sir?

Politician—Well, yes; I flatter myself that it is very successful. Why do you ask that?

Thoughtful Youth—Because, sir, I see your door is labeled "Pull."—Detroit Free Press.

Dress.

Some women in this world have a new gown every other week, while there are other women who esteem themselves lucky if once in three months they get a chance to look through a fashion magazine.—Somerville (Mass.) Journal.

The United States never coined gold pieces of a higher denomination than $20. Some years ago a jeweler at San Francisco struck gold pieces of the value of $50, but that was on private account.

RUSSIA IS SCHEMING.

Would Strip Great Britain of Her Support Before a General War Begins.

Serious Trouble Threatened In Neighborhood of Canton.

Germany and Russia Are Objects of Distrust to the Japanese Press.

London, Aug. 21.—Julian Ralph, in The Daily Mail this morning, quotes from a "diplomat of high standing," whose name is not given, who declares that Russia is vigorously endeavoring to secure American support and to break the harmony existing between the United States and Great Britain.

"England," says the diplomat in question, "has no first-class power except America which offers her the slightest ground for hoping a friendly hearing of her case. The bitter feeling of today will generate war against her tomorrow. Russia's plan, which is encouraged by Austria-Hungary, France and Germany, is to strip Great Britain of all support—to leave her naked—before such a war begins."

Owing probably to the Pekin wire being cut little news of the conditions in the Chinese capital has come through this morning. What has reached London indicates that the allies are in need of reinforcements.

The commander of the Italian cruiser Fieramosca telegraphs from Taku that very urgent requests were coming from Pekin on Saturday for the immediate dispatch of further troops, and that, in answer to these, 400 Italian marines were sent off post haste.

The Chinese minister in London, on being asked as to the whereabouts of the emperor and empress dowager, replied: "They have gone westward to the old capital, Hsian Fu, and I think they are quite safe there."

Serious trouble is now threatened in the neighborhood of Canton. The Americans at Swatow, according to The Daily Chronicle's Shanghai correspondent, have applied for a warship in consequence of serious fighting and the Hong Kong correspondent of The Daily Mail says that a warship is on the way there now.

A Japanese warship has left Yokohama for Shanghai, according to The Daily Mail, to land troops and to protect Japanese subjects. The Daily Mail also announces that Germany will land a detachment at Shanghai. Further Yokohama advices to the same paper declare that Germany and Russia are objects of distrust to the Japanese press, which urges that Japan, having borne the chief burden of the operations, must see to it that the future of China is not determined merely by the pleasure of the western powers. "It is felt," says the correspondent, "that determined action on the part of Great Britain, the United States and Japan will avert any danger arising from the ambition of continental Europe."

The semi-official Japanese organs say that, if occasion arises, Japan can send 50,000 troops on short notice, and that, if the powers are inclined to play a selfish game, special measures will be necessary.

Sir Chih Chen Lo Feng Luh, Chinese minister in London, interviewed by The Daily Chronicle, is represented as having said: "The present disturbances are only a temporary outbreak. We do not despair of peace. Everything depends upon the conduct of the allies who are now in Pekin. All subsequent questions rest with them for solution. You may be quite certain that it is not the antagonism to western ideals which is at the root of the troubles, but rather the difficulty of governing a great and ancient people."

The Chinese native press, according to the Shanghai correspondent of The Times, asserts that Yu Hsien, governor of the province of Shan Si, with a force of Boxers, is marching toward Kaigan, or Chang Kia Khou, to meet the empress dowager and to escort her south.

Peter Got the Decision.

Trenton, Aug. 21.—Peter Maher last night defeated George Haines, the colored pugilist of Chicago, in the fifth round of what was to have been a 20-round bout. In the fifth round Maher floored his opponent five times. The last time he was knocked down Haines grasped Maher by the legs and threw him. He then crawled on Maher's stomach and punched him repeatedly. The referee then awarded the fight to Maher on a foul.

Killed Wife and Four Children.

Arlington, Minn., Aug. 21.—Theodore Wallart, a farmer living eight miles from here, killed his wife and four stepchildren with a butcher knife. A fifth child was so badly wounded he may not recover. Wallart married a widow with a family. The couple recently separated. It is understood Mrs. Wallart had taken steps to secure a divorce. Wallart escaped, with a sheriff's posse in pursuit.

New Jersey Man Chosen.

Washington, Aug. 21.—William M. Johnson of Hackensack, N. J., the president of the New Jersey state senate, has been tendered and has accepted the office of first assistant postmaster general, made vacant by the resignation of Perry Heath. He will take charge in a few days.

GOMEZ TO OLD SOLDIERS.

Would Exclude From Constitutional Convention Those Who Defamed Revolution.

Havana, Aug. 21.—General Maximo Gomez publishes a letter in La Lucha regarding the election of delegates to the forthcoming constitutional convention, which he asks all the papers of the island to print. It is addressed to the old soldiers of the revolutions of 1868 and 1895. General Gomez says in part:

"Ideas must not be confounded with principles. Honor demands that principles should be saved even at the cost of life. The convention should consist of genuine revolutionists; and it will so consist, unless the people, flattered by fine words, allow what they have conquered to be taken away from them.

"Nobody should be allowed to enter the convention who formerly defamed the revolution, unless Cubans wish to outrage honor and sacred duty.

"The enemy are working hard, but let Cubans remember that those who opposed the revolution cannot be accepted at the last moment. Many rich and intellectual persons have shown opposition to the revolution. All these should be left out. Patriotism has the right to choose the most worthy—not the most wise—until the republic is established.

"Although all parties may be outwardly harmonious, still old scores will not be forgotten. Therefore let the Spaniards stand aside until all can enter equal through the gates of the republic."

Woman Murdered by Burglars.

Pittsfield, Mass., Aug. 21.—Miss May L. Fosberg, the 24-year-old daughter of R. L. Fosburg of the big contracting firm of R. L. Fosburg of Buffalo, was shot and instantly killed by one of a trio of burglars at 1:15 Sunday morning, as she was going to her father's room to assist him in his struggle with one of the gang. Mr. Fosburg was struck with some instrument over the head and badly injured, as was also his son, F. S. Fosburg, by the third member of the gang, each of whom escaped through open windows, and have not yet been captured, although the town was aroused by the sounding of the fire alarm, and posses have been organized.

Object to Bryan's Presence.

Philadelphia, Aug. 21.—State Department Commander Morrison of the G. A. R. announces that but three of the 36 posts in this city, with a membership of 7000, will send delegations to the national encampment in Chicago next week. Commander Morrison stated that this action is the result of the invitation extended to W. J. Bryan to attend the encampment. "It is customary," said Mr. Morrison, "to invite the president, but never a candidate, and the old soldiers express indignation because they object to politics being injected into the encampment. The delegation from this city will consist of about 150 men."

Feeling Aroused by the Powers Verdict.

Louisville, Aug. 21.—The verdict in the Powers case has caused intense excitement, and it is feared that it would require little to fan the flames of factional fury into life. The next step will be a motion for a new trial. If a new trial is denied it will be carried to the court of appeals. Just how far partisanship affects this court is a matter of frequent discussion. Judge Cantrill receives many threatening letters.

Yankee Has the Most Points.

Newport, R. I., Aug. 21.—Cornelius Vanderbilt's Rainbow crossed the finish line a winner in Monday's race, the eighth of the series for the $1000 cup. She beat the Yankee by 14 seconds and the Mineola by 1m. 9s. The Virginia was 22m. 41s. behind the leader. This race gives the Rainbow six points and the Yankee nine. The Mineola has eight and the Virginia one.

Assault, Murder and Suicide.

Pine City, Minn., Aug. 21.—A Bohemian, named Placa, took a girl of 18 and her young brother, children of the family with whom he boarded, to the river to fish. Later Placa drove the boy away and assaulted the girl. He then choked her into insensibility and drowned her. Placa then deliberately waded into the river and was himself drowned.

The Cubans' Pleasure Trip.

West Point, N. Y., Aug. 21.—The Cuban teachers arrived here by boat Monday. As many as could be were accommodated with stages and carriages to convey them up the long hill. They were escorted through all the buildings of interest. They seemed delighted in everything they saw. They left here to return to New York at 3 o'clock.

Brescl Buttons In Circulation.

New York, Aug. 21.—A lot of Brescl buttons have been brought to Paterson, N. J., from Newark, and they are finding a ready sale in the anarchist quarters. Only the radicals wear them, but they are being bought freely by others as curiosities. The buttons have a picture of the slayer of the King of Italy and above it his name.

Two Hundred Houses Blown Down.

Cheboygan, Wis., Aug. 21.—A terrific windstorm struck this city Monday, coming suddenly from the north. Eight large buildings were completely wrecked and 200 small houses were blown down, causing a loss of $300,000.

De Wet Close to Pretoria.

London, Aug. 21.—Special dispatches from Pretoria announce that De Wet bivouacked 15 miles from the city, and that Colonel Mahon was briskly engaging him yesterday morning.

FOLLOWS CONSCIENCE.

General Gordon's Answer to Criticism of the Blue and Gray Reunion.

Will Do His Duty to All Sections of the Country

To the End That South Will Secure Justice and Sectional Bitterness Be Obliterated.

Atlanta, Aug. 21.—General John B. Gordon, commander-in-chief of the United Confederate Veterans, has prepared a reply to a resolution recently adopted by a camp of Confederate veterans at New Orleans, condemning the blue and gray reunion at Atlanta, recommending that no more similar reunions be held and protesting against General Gordon accepting an invitation to the G. A. R. reunion at Chicago. The reply is as follows:

"Kirkwood, Ga., Aug. 20.

"To the Confederate Association of the Army of the Tennessee:

"Comrades: A resolution recently adopted by your association, at the instance of General Charlton, criticising certain acts, or supposed acts, of mine, entirely escaped my attention at the time of its appearance in the public press, and I have just seen it for the first time. I understand this action of your association to mean a formal and public notice that you disapprove of my participation in the blue and gray meeting, which recently occurred in Atlanta, and also that it means a formal and public protest by your association against my acceptance of an invitation extended to me by the Grand Army of the Republic and by the executive committee of the citizens of Chicago.

"The object of this reply to your resolution, which you failed to send me, is not to at all question the right of your association to criticize any official act of mine which does not meet your approval. I wish, however, to state kindly, but frankly and plainly, that my own conscience and my own conception of duty must be my guide in the future as in the past.

"As to the courteous and cordial invitation of both the G. A. R. and of the executive committee of Chicago citizens, I have to state that I greatly appreciate the compliment paid me by that invitation, and the spirit which prompted it. Circumstances, however, rendered it impossible for me to accept, and I so notified the officers and committee nearly two months ago. But in this connection, also, I wish to say I must be the judge now and hereafter of the propriety of accepting invitations from any section of the country, or any class of my fellow countrymen.

"In order that there may be no possible misunderstanding of my position on these and all kindred matters, I repeat my sole guide must be my own convictions of duty to this whole country, and to the southern people, whose glorious record in all the past, whose traditions, dignity and honor I have endeavored to defend and uphold at all times, in all sections, and under all conditions.

"In conclusion let it be definitely understood that, so long as providence permits me to speak or labor, I shall continue the efforts which I have made for 30 years in the interest of sectional harmony and unity. Whatever I can do will assuredly be done for the truth of history, for justice to the south and to all sections, for fostering our cherished memories, for the obliteration of all sectional bitterness, and for the settlement of all sectional controversies on a basis consistent with the honor and the manhood and the self-respect of all.

"J. B. Gordon."

Holds to His Decision In Neely Case.

New York, Aug. 21.—Judge Wallace of the United States circuit court has denied the request of United States Attorney Burnett for a revocation of his recent order in the Neely case, by which Neely was remanded to the custody of the United States marshal pending an appeal to the United States supreme court from the denial of a writ of habeas corpus. Judge Wallace said that he would await further developments in the extradition proceedings.

Maine Campaign Is On.

Augusta, Me., Aug. 21.—The campaign in Maine was formally opened by the Republicans Monday night, with rallies in a dozen towns and cities. The speech making will now go on without interruption till election day, more rallies than usual having already been scheduled and additions to the list being daily made. Men of state and national reputation by the scores are booked for from one to a dozen speeches each.

A Highly Satisfactory Test.

Hudson, N. Y., Aug. 21.—The first trip over the new third-rail system of the Albany and Hudson railway, operated by power from the new water-power station at Stuyvesant Falls, was made Monday, and the working of the new electrical plant proved eminently satisfactory in every particular. At points along the route the train ran at the rate of 60 miles an hour. The road is 33 miles long.

Fight Caused Fire and Death.

Hamilton, Mont., Aug. 21.—Barney Keegan was burned to death, Tom Martin was fatally burned, and there was a property loss of $50,000 as the result of a fire in the Hamilton hotel Monday. Keegan and Martin retired to a room in the hotel. A quarrel ensued, during which a lamp was upset, igniting the bed clothing.

KILLED BY BROTHER-IN-LAW.

Only One Shot Was Fired, but It Ended the Life of an Italian Woman.

Dedham, Mass., Aug. 21.—Mrs. Mary M. Ambrosio lived in the upper story of the tenement in the "Bowery" district with her three children. The woman was attending to housework Monday when her brother-in-law, Joseph De Patri, put in appearance. The conversation was carried on in Italian, and the neighbors who heard the loud talk were unable to make out what was said. Joseph De Patri became angered—that much is known—and talked much louder than Mrs. Ambrosio.

The dispute or quarrel ended in the shooting. There was but one shot fired. This entered a vital spot. De Patri escaped from the house before neighbors, who had heard the shot, had time to get into the lane and give chase. The De Patri children ran into the lane after De Patri and gave the alarm.

It is understood that the fatal quarrel was on the subject of money and rings. Several days ago, De Patri called upon the chief of police and asked the latter's help to recover three or four rings, which, he said, were held by his sister-in-law.

Mrs. Ambrosio remained unconscious until her death, and consequently was unable to make any statement to Rev. James R. McNulty of St. Mary's Catholic church, while he administered the last sacrament of the church. The three children have been taken in charge by the overseers of the poor.

It is believed that De Patri may be hiding in Boston. He had lived in Dedham only three weeks, while his sister-in-law had resided here over a year. Mrs. Ambrosio was married to De Patri's brother, but, in accordance with an Italian custom, she retained her maiden name. According to the police, she had some trouble with her husband, which caused a separation.

An Unsatisfactory Conference.

New York, Aug. 21.—The arbitration committee of the cigarmakers, which has been in conference for more than a week with the cigar manufacturers with a view of settling the strikes in the cigar trade, has made its formal report. The committee reported that the employers were willing to grant only about one-fourth of the advance in wages asked and refused to have the shops under the control of the union or discharge those who replaced the strikers. Six of the employes of manufacturers decided to refuse the conditions offered by the manufacturers.

Another War on the Tapis.

London, Aug. 21.—Referring to the tension between Roumania and Bulgaria, caused by the demand of the Roumanian government for the arrest of Sarafow, president of the revolutionary committee at Sofia, together with the suppression of that organization, the Vienna correspondent of The Daily Express says that "the Bulgarian reply to the note of Roumania has been received at Bucharest. It is couched in aggressive terms." The Roumanian minister at Sofia will be immediately recalled.

McKinley and Roosevelt Confer.

Washington, Aug. 21. — Governor Roosevelt is in Washington and is the guest of President McKinley at the White House. The governor arrived here shortly after 6 o'clock Monday evening. Various political and other matters were discussed by the presidential and vice presidential candidates, the conference lasting until midnight. No statement other than this was made as to the conference. The visit of Governor Roosevelt was entirely unexpected.

Sparrow Shooters' Mistake.

Columbus, O., Aug. 21.—Mrs. F. S. Monnet, wife of the former attorney general of Ohio, while standing in the doorway of a fashionable apartment building where she resides, was struck in the breast by a bullet from a Flobert rifle. In the hands of boys who were shooting sparrows. The bullet penetrated the lungs, and Mrs. Monnet is in a critical condition. The shooting was wholly accidental.

Six Men Hurt In a Riot.

English, Ind., Aug. 21.—Doolittle Mills was the scene of a riot at a picnic Monday, in which 15 or more took part with clubs, knives and stones. Six men were probably fatally wounded. The trouble was caused by a mob from St. Croix, which harbored an old grudge and went to the picnic to stir up a fight.

Almost Beyond Identification.

Gloucester, Mass., Aug. 21.—The body of a man supposed to be John Joy, a sailor, was found in the harbor at Parkhurst's dock Monday. Positive identification has not been established because the body, having been in the water for 10 days, is much disfigured.

Following New York Brethren's Example.

New York, Aug. 21.—Five hundred vestmakers in Brooklyn went on strike Monday for the same demands as are made by the vestmakers in New York. They established headquarters in Brooklyn, where mass meetings were held all day.

Yellow Fever In Cienfuegos.

Washington, Aug. 21. — Assistant Surgeon Trotter, the quarantine officer at Cienfuegos, Cuba, reports that a case of yellow fever was removed from a hotel at Cienfuegos Saturday and isolated outside the city. The patient is a Spaniard of four months' residence in Cienfuegos.

Good Afternoon.

Mr. Herbert M. Federhen and family are moving from their pretty residence at Quincy Point to Boston. They expect to complete the work tomorrow so that this will probably be their last night in Quincy. They will not only be greatly missed by neighbors and friends at the Point but by citizens in all parts of the city. We are sorry to part with so good a family from Quincy.

Americans have no reason to complain of the ending of the first chapter in the Chinese story, whatever turn may be taken in the subsequent chapters. Our government has taken a leading part in the movements, both diplomatic and military, which have led up to the rescue of the foreigner, including our Minister and a number of other Americans, who occupied such a perilous position in Pekin for a period of nearly two months and our prestige has been added to thereby.

One example of Spain's progress is the announcement that a new standard of time will be adopted on Jan. 1, next. Instead of two periods of 12 hours in a day there will be one of 24 hours and instead of saying 25 minutes past midnight or 24.25 the interval between midnight and 1 A. M. will be designated by a cipher as it is a new day and the number of minutes thus: 0.25 or 0.12 or 0.52, as the case may be. If at the beginning of the Christian era the first year was designated with a cipher we have this year entered upon a new century. Its too bad however, to open this question again.

Drift of Opinion.

☞ Collis P. Huntington was the man who offered $700 in prizes through the New York Sun for a poem which would knock out Markham's "Man with the Hoe." Mr. Huntington evidently read the poem as he would have read a construction contract and it was therefore no wonder that he was disturbed by it.—New Bedford Standard.

☞ There can be no question as to the superiority of vertical handwriting for business letters over slanting handwriting. Next to conciseness in business letters, legibility is a most important factor. A poor vertical handwriting is always legible. Can as much be said of a good slant handwriting? So far as celerity is concerned, I find in my own case that I can write as quickly, and much more legibly.—Carleton Brabrook.

☞ It will be a long step toward self-respecting manhood when waiters everywhere unite against the tipping system, which must always be unsatisfactory to the tipped as well as to the tipper. Fixed wages must be depended upon, and he who works for wages knows what to expect, but the man who relies upon tips is always in a state of uncertainty as to what his income is to be from one week to another. But the abolition of the system will not be accomplished in a day.—Rochester Union.

☞ Let the negroes remember that a race war is a very different thing from a hoodlum riot, and that if they listen to the screeds of agitators in the north and if they harbor such characters as Charles among them here, the result will be a race war, and a race war means extermination. In such a war the race and every member of the race is held to be guilty. In such a war there will be no distinction between good negroes and bad negroes; the whole race will be necessarily dragged in. Will the negroes of New Orlean, by harboring a few black agitators and murderers, invite such an issue as this?—New Orleans States.

☞ Thomas Nelson Page is right in his notion that a relatively small part of the people of this country take any serious interest in the manners and behavior of the swagger set at Newport. A large proportion of sober-minded citizens, true gentlemen and ladies, consider the Newport highflyers little better than an assortment of degenerates or a colony of dubious theatrical folk. Things are coming to such a pass that good men and women will soon be ashamed to have it chronicled in the newspapers that they are passing the season in Newport or were present at entertainments in certain grand houses. Nevertheless there are enough flunkies and snobs in the land to make the influence of the set of fast and defiant millionaires demoralizing in circles which can hope to approach the giddy exclusives only by imitating their vices, and so the contagion spreads.—Herald.

Capt. J. E. Brown Dead.

A dispatch of Monday to the Globe reports Capt. James E. Brown, 38, of the schooner Annan Crunz to have died at the home of his mother on Marrs hill in Bath this evening. He leaves a wife and one daughter at his home in Wollaston, Mass.

The schooner arrived in Portland Saturday, from Brunswick, Ga., with a cargo of yellow pine, and the captain, who was taken sick on the voyage, was brought to Bath when the vessel arrived in Portland.

The Crunz is a three-masted vessel and her captain had crossed the Atlantic in her. He recently returned from a trip to the isthmus of Panama in the craft.

Capt. Spear to Retire.

Co. K is about to undergo another change and it is possible that some of those who criticised Capt. Kincaide during the service of the company in the Spansh war, may find that he was the most successful captain after all, and one who had the keenest interest in the men of the company. Since Capt. Kincaide retired, Co. K has had two captains, and now it is reported that Capt. Spear is about to retire, and this will mean four captains within two years. The discipline in the company of late has been the subject of some criticism.

Bostons at Home.

The success of the Boston ball team on its western trip will cause increased interest in the home series which opens Wednesday with the Brooklyns. The Brooklyns are the leaders in the league and some hot games are expected. Then in turn will come the New Yorks, Pittsburgs, Cincinnatis, St. Louis, Chicagos, Philadelphias and New Yorks. Twenty-six scheduled games and some postponed games will be played on the home grounds in this series.

Press Outing.

Members of the Massachusetts and the Suburban Press associations will enjoy a joint excursion on Tuesday, Aug. 28, going to Gloucester by boat, to Rockport and vicinity by electrics and return to Boston over the Boston & Maine railroad. Dinner will be had at Gloucester.

About 9.30 Monday evening fire was discovered in the little store of Walter Mulligan on Water street at Brewer's Corner. Hose 3 was summoned by telephone, but its services were not needed as the fire was easily extinguished.

A short time ago the position of public executioner in Vienna was vacant, and a fine-looking woman of 28 applied for the place. She said it would comfort a man about to die to have his last earthly gaze rest upon a beautiful young woman.

In one of the Canary islands there is a tree of the laurel family that occasionally rains down in the early evening quite a copious shower of water, drops from its tufted foliage. The water comes out through innumerable little pores situated at the edge of the leaves.

THE BURNS CASE.

The Defendant Held This Morning for the Grand Jury.

Bernard Burns of Bennington street was arraigned upon a warrant charging him with keeping a liquor nuisance.

The place of Burns was raided Sunday, Aug. 12, and a quantity of empty bottles, barrels, jugs and liquor was seized.

Sixteen witnesses were called by the government, including the officers who took part in the raid. The officers testified to what was found on the occasion of their visit to the complaints that had been received about it, and to the class of people whom they had seen frequenting the premises.

Harry Nelson and Robert J. Lewis testified that they did not know Burns. They had been in the woods off Bennington street on Aug. 5, and tried to get liquor, but did not succeed. The man they saw was not Burns, and they did not know who he was.

Moses Sagman went to Burns' house with Nelson two weeks ago. They whistled and Burns came out. Nelson asked Burns for a pint. Burns said he was all sold out, but he would have some the next night.

Joseph F. Doherety had never been in the woods near Burns' house. Knew Burns as a butcher.

Joseph McCarthy knew Burns as a butcher, and knew his house by what he had heard this morning. Had never been in the woods back of Burns' house and had never been to his house.

Peter Cahill knew Burns; had not seen him for quite a while; never had visited his house; had been in the woods near there; never got any liquor from anyone there.

Joseph Hayes knew Burns and his house; went by there several weeks ago, but had nothing to drink there; went through the woods near the house but did not drink any liquor, or see any drank there.

The defense offered no evidence, and its counsel had no remarks to make upon it.

The court found probable cause and held him in $300 for the grand jury.

Political Potpourri.

Hon. John Shaw has invited the Ward and City Committee to a dinner at the Squantum Inn next Saturday evening.

The Social Democrats of the 9th Congressional district held a convention at Lyceum Hall, East Boston, last week, and nominated as their candidate for Congress, John W. Sherman of Ward 8, Boston, formerly of Braintree. There were two other aspirants for the nomination.

The candidacy of Lawyer John McKnight, secretary of the Republican City Committee, for the Republican nomination for the legislature is meeting with a flattering degree of encouragement throughout the city and especially in Ward One, where he resides. His friends desire to secure his nomination and are hustling to bring about this result. It is generally admitted that he would fill the position with ability. Lawyer McKnight is a graduate of the Boston University Law school, where he won a scholarship prize for his excellent record during his first year in that institution. He was graduated after a two years' course, and had but just passed his 21st year, when he was admitted to practice at the Suffolk bar. He has been secretary of the Republican City Committee for the past two years, and has been a valuable and popular member of that committee.

—The increase in valuation in Newton this year is $1,203,300, and the tax rate was reduced twenty cents, making it $15.20.

George S. Waterhouse who has held the position as assistant to Superintendent Weeks of the street railway has resigned his position and will sever his connection with the road on Wednesday. Fred Robinson, a conductor on the East Weymouth line has been promoted to the position as day starter.

A bicycle race for the championship of Quincy was run off at Wollaston on Saturday, the winner being R. E. Jones. Only one other rider appeared, he being J. Leslie of Quincy. Jones gave Leslie a start of 30 seconds and won by nearly a minute over a four-mile course, in nine and three-quarters minutes.

A serious bicycle accident occurred Monday evening on Newbury avenue, Atlantic. Mr. E. Chapman and John Creedon collided and Mr. Chapman was seriously hurt and now lies in a critical condition at his home on Charles street. Mr. Creedon escaped with a few bruises and a bad shaking up. Their wheels were badly broken.

Thomas B. Davenport is on his annual clamming and gunning trip this week at Paddocks Island. Tom says he has struck a new clam bed and expects to have no trouble in supplying the market. As for gunning, reports say there is plenty of it and the very first day he arrived on the island he shot two wooden decoy birds. He is accompanied by his son, Harold, and Everett Winslow.

$1,100 SQUANDERED

H. H. Faxon Says Quincy Avenue Appropriation Was Reckless.

Editors of the Daily Ledger:

If the taxpayers of Quincy desire to see where their money has been squandered, let them examine the so-called sidewalk on Quincy avenue for which $1,100 was appropriated by the City Council, whose zeal for making improvements that are not needed, rivals the utter recklessness of past Councils. As a matter of fact there is not enough travel on Quincy avenue to warrant such a waste of public money, as the electric cars furnish a more desirable way for pedestrians. If the above sum had been expended in clearing out the rocks and stones and filling the holes in the road with fine cracked stone, it would have been more to the comfort of man and beast.

There are some men who have represented the citizens in the Councils of the past, who have not had enough business ability to run a peanut stand successfully unless they do it on their pet theory of giving notes on long terms for their stock in trade, with the argument that as their children have eaten the peanuts, they ought to pay the notes.

If money is to be expended, why not improve roads where repairs are sadly needed. For a long time past Granite street, from Swithin's stone sheds to Brewer's Corner has been in a shocking condition and on this street there is ninety-five per cent. more travel than on Quincy avenue. I cannot believe that committees who report favorably upon such needless schemes as have been voted for the past year have ever examined the premises. It is a ruinous policy for the city to make improvements of a temporary character by issuing notes for long term of years. Any man, corporation or city that gives such notes of indebtedness for future generations to pay, are leaving legacies, a discredit alike to themselves and a burden upon their children.

I will remind those reckless Councilmen who advocate running the city in debt that before the last note or bond on sewers, water mains and sidewalks is paid, many of these improvements will have been supplanted by new pipes or other contrivances and still more formidable debts will be the penalty imposed upon an already over-taxed and debt-ridden public who will be obliged to stand another raid on their resources in order that some pet theory of a political poser may be exemplified.

Henry H. Faxon.

Quincy, Aug. 20, 1900.

Entirely Social.

Editors of the Quincy Daily Ledger:

In your issue of the 18th inst. the report that the Lalapaloosa Club favors the candidancy of a certain gentleman for Mayor is entirely without foundation.

This club has taken no political action nor expressed any choice regarding any candidate for a political office. Whatever may be the views of any individual member with respect to politics, these must not be taken as the views of the club. We wish to state right here that the Lalapaloosas meet simply for social purposes, and are not in any way mixed up in politics as a club. The Lalapaloosa Club.

Correspondence School.

It is probably not generally known that some forty or fifty men in Quincy are studying technical courses by mail successfully but it is a fact, and the business of the International Correspondence schools of Scranton, Pa., the parent of all schools by mail, has grown so in this vicinity that the management has engaged Mr. H. E. Pratt of 10 Upland road as its local representative.

These schools teach some 70 courses ranging from arithmetic to civil engineering successfully and have over 200,000 students and graduates. A display of text books, photographs and student's work is being made this week in the window of the Hancock House in charge of Mr. J. Frank Davis assistant superintendent of the Boston district who is in attendance upon it most of the time and who is pleased to give information and circulars. A discount of ten per cent. on the price of any course is being made by him this week.

Trotting at Readville.

The Grand Circuit meeting at Readville is attracting the attention of Quincy men, who follow the races. On Monday about 2,000 people saw the opening events. The winners were:

Blue Hill Stake—Annie Burns, $5000.
2.12 Pace—Gyp Walnut—$1000.
2.17 Pace—Gentry's Treasure, $2000.
3-year-old Trot—Major Delmar, $2000.

The best time was made by Gentry's treasure, 2.10.

Today will be run the 2.25 class pacers for the $3000 purse; the 2.10 class class pacers for the $5000 Neponset stake, also the 2.10 and 2.20 trots.

—Open yacht races will be given on the South Shore this week. By the Plymouth yacht club on Thursday, the Kingston club on Friday, and the Duxbury club on Saturday.

Quincy Residences.

Nothing more effectually adds to the attractiveness of a town or village than variety in the color of residences. The years have passed when many entire streets—as in some English towns—were painted so uniformly as to leave the impression that all were colored by the same brush and from the same pot of paint. Dressed in a pleasing variety of shades the eye is no longer wearied by a monotony in the view.

In no town in this vicinity is there a greater or more agreeable variation in the color of houses than in Quincy, where citizens recognize the fact that beyond the advantage derived in the preservation of the building, there exists an urgent motive for adornment. In the selection of shades there is here shown not only a wide range in taste, but also evidences of judgment; for it is understood that the darker colors fade in the sunlight more readily than those which are lighter, which fact explains the present drift in choices from dark to lighter shades.

In earlier times there was a definite preference for white houses with green blinds, which combination of colors afforded neat and agreeable results; but as white readily shows the summer dust, the residences now wearing this color are limited in number.

In the choice of shades the residents of Quincy exhibit a wide diversity of taste, no two houses being precisely alike; some owners cannot satisfy their preference for colors without adopting several; one has three varieties on the body of his house; another has five different colors, including brick basement and roof; another ingeniously blends the tints, while many change the shade in frequent opportunities to repaint, exactly as a woman must necessarily get a new style of hat every spring and autumn, or as a man every season orders a more modern cut of coat—no that the old color of the house, or the trimmings on the hat, or the cut of the coat were not superlatively tasty, but merely because with the lapse of months comes the imperative demand for a change.

Well and tastily painted houses, with green and neat lawns, are telling advertisements for any village winning compliments from visitors and yielding solid comfort to the owners or occupants.

To Extend Restrictions.

For nearly twenty years those parts of Hull known as Allerton and Bayside have flourished and become very desirable residential localities because of restrictions placed on the land by the Nantasket Land Co. These restrictions expire next April, but owners of the property are anxious to have them extended. At a meeting Monday evening over 50 of the 88 members were present and the sentiment was heartily in favor of extension. The sum of $400 has been subscribed to secure the needed legislation.

The restrictions in brief are: That no intoxicating liquors shall be sold on the said premises, unless under a legal license from the state, county or town authorities; that no house of less value than $800 shall be built thereon; that no building shall be placed within 10 feet of any street; that no building erected on said land, except on lots shown on said Nantasket company's plans, fronting on the county road, or Main avenue, so called, shall be used for a saloon, shop, livery or boarding stable or for mercantile or manufacturing purposes, or, for any unlawful improper or offensive use; that no private stable shall be built or maintained within 10 feet of any street on said plan; that no swine shall be kept on the said premises; that during said term no rockweed, kelp, eel grass or other sea stuff shall be hauled or placed on the granted premises without the consent of the Nantasket company; the above restrictions to remain in force for the term of 20 years from the first day of April, 1881, and no longer.

Quick Time on Third Rail.

The first trip over the new third rail system of the Albany and Hudson Railway, operated by power from the new water power station at Stuyvesant Falls was made Monday, and the working of the new electrical plant proved eminently satisfactory. At points along the route the train ran at the rate of 60 miles an hour. The road, which is 28 miles in length, is the longest surface third rail electrical system in operation in the world.

AN ANCIENT BIRD.

Feathers of Giant Moa Received at the National Museum.

Fourteen small fiber feathers recently received at the National museum in Washington form one of the most interesting and valuable collections in that storehouse of wonders, oddities and priceless relics of bygone days, says the Washington Star. The bits of bird clothing came from faroff New Zealand and, according to best authority, were once among the plumage of a prehistoric biped, the moa, or Dinornis maximus, a fowl supposed to have resembled the ostrich in many ways. The moa was in existence when man inhabited the earth, but it became extinct long before history's record was begun. It is the general belief that the moa has been found in some quantity and that his reign upon earth was brief, once this fact was discovered by the rapidly increasing race of men.

The feathers are the first of the moa bird to be brought to this country, it is believed, and there are very few of them in existence, so far as is known. The discovery of feathers is recent. The bones of the moa have been found in some quantity in New Zealand, and a number of museums and institutions of natural history are equipped with complete skeletons of the giant bird. These bone frames evidence a bird ranging in height from 10 to 12 feet, the latter being the maximum, and weighing probably in the neighborhood of 500 pounds.

The moa, or dinornis, was a very clumsy bird, according to the description made up by naturalists, and closely resembled the ostrich in shape of body, legs, neck and head. The moa has no such plumage as the ostrich, however, its feathers being generally short, with a tendency to curl. The great birds could not fly and were easily exterminated by the savages, probably through the use of the spear. Their clumsy proportions made them slow of foot, and, altogether, the moa was an exceptionally defenseless victim to the pot hunters of ancient days.

Food Adulteration In Paris.

The city laboratory of Paris, which is devoted exclusively to the testing of food supplies, has recently discovered an alarming series of falsifications.

It appears that Paris, long famous for its preserves and confections, produces scarcely any that are not sophisticated. Of 40 packages examined, 35 were found to be adulterated.

The chemistry of adulteration is running a race with that of the testing laboratory, which resembles the never ending contest between the guns and the armor of battleships.

It is almost impossible to find any genuine preserved fruits, especially stone fruits. Plums, cherries and apricots are made of beets and turnips appropriately flavored.

The wine is no better. Of 600 samples, 199 were pronounced unfit for use and 280 doubtful. Only 129 samples were pure.

No poisonous adulterations were found, but spoiled wines are "freshened," and wine is watered ad libitum, for the wine cellars are by law exempt from official inspection after 7 p. m.

The French beer, "la bibine," is watered to the drowning point.

Seeing the Invisible.

By means of the spectroscope the eye of the scientist is now enabled to detect the presence in an electric spark of a particle of the metal calcium weighing only one three-hundred-billionth of an ounce. If ten such particles were consumed each second of time, a piece of calcium the size of a mustard seed would furnish the characteristically colored calcium light of this sort for 15 centuries. This is the instrument with which the composition of the stars is being studied. Each metal has a characteristic colored flame, and by examining the light from a star with the spectroscope the light is analyzed and the various colors are separated, and the metals present can easily be noted. The trembling rays of light from distances so inconceivable are thus made to bear their message telling of their chemical compositions, and we have learned to read the messages they bring us with as great certainty as though we had a piece of the star in our laboratories.

Puncture Proof Tire.

A German scientist has patented a puncture proof tire filling. If successful, it will prove a boon to bicycle riders, as well as to the owners of rubber tired vehicles of all kinds and air saddles and cushions. The filling is a jelly made of glue. Glycerin is added to prevent hardening and an antiseptic preparation that keeps it from fermenting. The mixture is first heated until it liquefies and is then beaten to a stiff foam. While in this frothy condition it is introduced into the tire or saddle and allowed to cool and partly solidify. The result is a light, spongy material of cellular formation, exceedingly light in weight and proof against tacks, nails, glass and all puncturing objects.—Popular Science.

Photography Impossible In Extreme Cold.

Experiments conducted by A. and S. Lumiere (in Comptus Rendus) show that the ordinary photographic plates are unaffected by light at the temperature of 275 degrees below zero Fahrenheit, the temperature of liquid air. Negatives may with great difficulty be produced by using the most sensitive gelatino-bromide plates with an exposure 400 times longer than that required at ordinary temperatures. A further interesting conclusion was that phosphorescent substances when immersed in liquid air lose their phosphorescence, but not permanently, as restoration to the ordinary temperature will cause the phenomenon to reappear.

Madame Yale's HAIR TONIC

Ladies and Gentlemen.—It has gone on record that Madame Yale's Excelsior Hair Tonic is the first and only remedy known to chemical science found to be a genuine hair specific. It has an affinity for the human hair for nourishing and invigorating its entire structure. It is antiseptic in character, as well as stimulating; its action upon the scalp and hair is truly wonderful, inasmuch as it has never been known in a single instance to fail to cure scalp diseases and to create a luxuriant growth of healthy, beautiful hair. It stops hair falling within twenty-four hours and brings back the natural color to gray hair in nearly every instance. It is not a dye; it is not sticky or greasy, on the contrary it makes the hair soft, youthful, beautiful and glossy; keeps it in curl. It is a perfect hair dressing, and can be used by ladies, gentlemen or children as a daily toilet requisite. Its influence is delightfully soothing.

PASTURES GREATLY IMPROVED.
Dropping of Fruit Also Checked by Rainfall In the New England District.

Boston, Aug 21.—Following is a statement of the weather and crop conditions of New England, compiled from the reports of correspondents of the weather bureau throughout the section, for the week ending Aug. 20:

The past week was favorable for crops not yet matured. The weather of the week preceding had produced much damage in portions of southern New England, and in south central Connecticut the drought still prevails. While the heavy rains of the past week have been of inestimable value to corn, potatoes, buckwheat and turnips, they have retarded harvesting in the northern states. In some instances fields of uncut wheat, oats and barley have lodged badly. Under such conditions the prevailing cloudy and wet weather has caused considerable damage. Though the straw of early grain was light, and though the hay crop was short, the late fodder will be luxuriant. Millet, Hungarian grass, and all crops sown for ensilage are making rapid growth.

The rains have apparently checked the falling of apples, peaches and plums, and have greatly increased the blackberry yield in northern localities. No agricultural interest has been improved more during the week than dairying. Pastures everywhere are greatly improved; streams that were dry 10 days ago are now running and there has been a marked increase in the supply of the milk. While harvesting has been hindered other farm operations have been helped by the rainfall. Fall plowing has now begun, and fields will at once be prepared for fall seeding.

Northern New England will secure a splendid second growth of grass, but only a portion of the southern district will be so favored. Meadows everywhere, however, are now improving, and pastures that were brown a few days ago are now green.

Corn is late, but very promising. Little buckwheat was sown in Connecticut on account of the dry weather.

Despite the large amount of apples that have fallen, there yet remains an average crop. In dry districts marketable apples will be less than usual, but cider apples will be in great quantities. A few correspondents from Maine state that while the trees are laden the fruit is small. Plums and grapes are abundant and flourishing.

Beans and late potatoes are doing well, though several reports from Maine and Vermont state that blight has affected the latter crop. Rust has seriously injured cucumbers and melon vines. Few turnips were sown in the dry areas.

Baby Brown's Mother Its Guardian.
Newport, R. I., Aug. 21.—Among the probate business done in the court here Monday was the appointment of Natalie Bayard Brown to the guardianship of her baby, Nicholas Brown. The estate is probably worth $10,000,000. The bonds were placed at $5,0.000. John Nicholas Brown died in New York, and the infant also became the heir of his uncle, Harold Brown, who died only a short time after. Mrs. Brown was in Europe at the time of her husband's death.

Farmers Suffer Heavy Loss.
Detroit, Aug. 21.—The entire lower peninsula of Michigan was swept by a severe electrical storm Monday. From all parts of the peninsula come reports of standing grain beaten to the ground and practically ruined. Scores of barns were struck by lightning and burned with their contents, so that the loss to the farmers is very heavy. Ferdinand Holtz was struck by lightning and instantly killed near Mount Clemens.

Convict Commits Suicide.
Concord, N. H., Aug. 21.—As the prisoners were marching back to their cells from the chapel in the state prison Sunday, Henry A. Martindale broke away from the line, ran to the gallery railing and jumped down 40 feet, landing on his head on the stone pavement below. Death was instantaneous. Martindale was serving a 15-year sentence for felonious assault. He was booked at the prison in 1897.

Stewart Is For McKinley.
New York, Aug. 21.—Senator Stewart of Nevada called at Republican headquarters Monday and said he had decided to vote for President McKinley. Senator Stewart left the Republican party because of his opposition to the gold standard. He said he was not in accord with the position of Mr. Bryan on the so-called anti-imperialistic issue.

In the Hands of a Jury.
Middlebury, Vt., Aug. 21.—The jury which has listened to the evidence in the Fenn murder case for the past fortnight is deliberating whether or not Frederick Eastwood is guilty of the murder of Fred H. Fenn, and, if guilty, whether he was insane or sane when he committed the deed. The trial came to an end Monday.

Boy Killed by Lightning.
Dover, Del., Aug. 21.—During a severe storm Monday, Herbert Dyer, aged 15 years, was struck by lightning and instantly killed. The boy was standing on a wagon load of hay when he was killed. One of the horses attached to the wagon was also killed, and the boy's brother was rendered unconscious by the shock.

Quarrelled Over Payment of Rent.
Kansas City, Aug. 21.—Karl Burnham, 28 years old, shot and killed Mrs. Anna Tyson and wounded her husband at their residence last night. Burnham and the Tyson family lived in the same house and have had some trouble in regard to the payment of rent.

Two Badly Hurt by Runaway.
Newbury, Mass., Aug. 21.—Charles A. Cheney, a selectman, was seriously injured, perhaps fatally, Monday, while trying to stop a runaway horse belonging to Henry T. Pearson. An 8-year-old girl, who was in the wagon, was thrown out and also badly hurt.

Child Killed by a Tipcart.
Boston, Aug. 21.—Alice Dunn, 4 years old, was run over by a tipcart in Roxbury Monday and died in a few minutes. John C. Foley, the driver of the cart, is under arrest on the charge of manslaughter.

FOR TERMS OF PEACE.

Earl Li Asks That Some American Be Authorized to Negotiate With Him.

Previous Conditions, However, Not Complied With.

Evidence That Emperor and Empress Dowager Have Escaped From Pekin.

Washington, Aug. 21.—The Chinese government has made formal application through Li Hung Chang, as its envoy, for the appointment of an American commissioner to bring about the cessation of hostilities in China, and the restoration of general peace. This, coming since the capture of Pekin, is the first showing of China's complete weariness with the struggle and her desire to make terms.

The reply of the United States government has not yet been made known, and it is likely that the matter will be one of the main subjects of consideration at the cabinet meeting today. But there is reason to believe that the overtures will, in effect, be rejected, on the ground that the conditions laid down in the American note of Aug. 12 have not been complied with, and until complied with the government's course must proceed without reference to China's appeal for a halt in the proceedings.

The dispatch of Aug. 12 said specifically that the United States was ready to enter into an agreement between the powers and the Chinese government for a cessation of hostilities on condition that the relief forces should be permitted to enter Pekin unmolested and escort the legationers therefrom, under such circumstances as the commanding general might lay down. But up to the present time there is no evidence that the allied forces are unmolested at Pekin, or have received the sanction of the imperial government to convey the legationers to Tientsin without further trouble, and under the conditions laid down by the commanding general. On the contrary, all of the dispatches indicate that the allies are meeting stubborn resistance, and there is an entire lack of compliance with the conditions laid down by the United States in its dispatch of Aug. 12.

As stated, however, the government has given no authoritative statement of its purpose in reply to China's application of Monday, and there is still a slight chance that complete compliance with the demands of Aug. 12 may be announced in the Pekin dispatches before the final determination on the reply is made. But the disposition now is early in the line indicated.

China's latest application for peace negotiations is that the United States shall name Minister Conger, or some other official, to act as peace envoy for the cessation of hostilities. Earl Li expressed his willingness to go to such point as the powers may desire, and, under the intimations made, it is thought that Pekin or Tientsin would be selected for the negotiations. The application is understood also to have been made to the powers in the hope that, if all would name a commissioner, there would be a general council of peace between Li Hung Chang on the one hand and the several representatives of the nations on the other.

There are some unexplained features of Li Hung Chang's application, one of them being that, while he asks the allies to cease hostilities, he gives no assurance that he has the power to make the Chinese army and the rebellious Boxers cease their hostilities.

The situation at Pekin is made more clear from many sources. The latest advice appears to be that from Consul Fowler, at Chefoo, repeating a dispatch received from Consul Ragsdale at Tientsin. The latter reports "Chinese troops surrounded in palace grounds." The Japanese legation received a dispatch of the same general tenor, but more in detail, stating that the Chinese troops retreated on the 15th within the imperial palace, and that they were surrounded there, with the Japanese military headquarters located in the Japanese legation. Admiral Remey also transmitted an authentic report from Pekin on the 15th, saying: "Troops moving on the imperial city." These several dispatches, from different sources, establish clearly that the imperial city and grounds were under siege. But not one of the dispatches is clear as to how late this condition of affairs existed.

Monday's dispatches seem to make clear that the emperor and the empress dowager have made their escape from Pekin, and that about the only present service of the imperial palace and grounds is as an asylum in which the demoralized Chinese soldiers are making a last stand.

The attitude which the international forces will observe toward the emperor and empress dowager is understood to have received official consideration among the powers, resulting from a request by the southern viceroys that no personal indignity be shown to China's rulers. In response to this, it is quite generally understood that there will be no personal indignity to the emperor and empress dowager, not because it is felt that there is any special consideration due them, but because China would be precipitated into a chaotic condition if the responsible heads of the empire lost their functions.

Wouldn't Serve Shirt Waist Wearer.
Chicago, Aug. 21.—Solomon Bloom, a music publisher, has brought suit for $50,000 damages against the Union restaurant and hotel in Randolph street for refusing to serve him while he was clad in a shirt waist and minus a coat.

Curtailment Benefits to Carders.
Fall River, Mass., Aug. 21.—At a meeting of the Carders' Protective association, Monday night, it was voted to pay a curtailment benefit. About 800 members will be benefited, which calls for an expenditure of some $3000.

Why Franklin Did Not Write It.
"It has always been a curious puzzle why Franklin, the man of ripe age, of commanding distinction and of approved literary skill, was not selected to write the Declaration instead of Thomas Jefferson, then only 33 years old and comparatively unknown," says John Gilmer Speed in The Saturday Evening Post. "It could not be that Franklin was passed by because he had done everything in his power to avert the war and reconcile the differences between the colonies and the mother country, for all wise men in the colonies did fill that honor permitted in that direction until the die was cast. No; it was not a fear of Franklin's earnestness in the cause of the colonies. It was probably the fear of Franklin's humor.

"He was not only the greatest man of his time, but he was one of the greatest humorists of any time. And so his associates were possibly afraid that he would put a joke in the Declaration and passed him by and selected the lank young Virginian with the freckled face.

"As it was, Franklin did have his joke, for when the members of congress were about to sign the Declaration Hancock, whose earnestness is expressed in the bold signature which comes first, said in his own earnest way: 'We must be unanimous. There must be no pulling different ways. We must all hang together.'

"'Yes,' replied Franklin; 'we must hang together, or we shall be pretty sure to hang separately.'"

A Divinity Student Routed.
"One day we were traveling across the plains in the caboose of a freight train," writes Rev. Cyrus Townsend Brady of his experiences as "A Missionary In the Great West" in The Ladies' Home Journal. "A young divinity student was with us. He was one of the ambitious kind of divinity students who wreck a parish or two when they begin and finally drift upon the ecclesiastical bargain counter. He was ready to argue about anything with anybody.

"A greasy, dilapidated looking tramp came into the caboose at one of the stations at the end of a division and presently engaged in a heated discussion with the young theologue on the disadvantages of education. He maintained the affirmative—that the less a man knew and the less education he had the happier he was—with so much skill and adroitness and showed such mastery of logic and literature that he routed the poor boy—horse, foot and dragoons—so effectively that the young man rose and went out on the platform to hide his chagrin, leaving the supposed tramp chuckling over his pipe in huge enjoyment at his easy victory.

"The bishop had listened without saying a word, and when the student left he turned to the man and inquired sharply, 'What college do you come from, sir?' 'Yale!' answered the man without thinking. The unlucky admission destroyed the man's argument, for he was a living example of the fallacy of his own proposition."

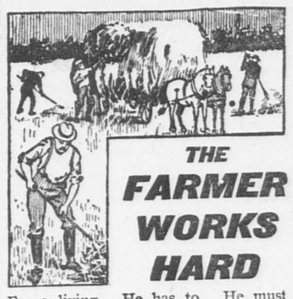

Europe's City of Crime.
The Italian city of Artena, situated about 40 miles from Rome, is known as the City of Crime. Ever since the sixteenth century every criminal who has escaped from prison or done his time has emigrated to Artena, and today practically every inhabitant is a criminal or the child of criminals. Every family takes the law into its own hands, and it is reported not a day passes without many murders being committed in the streets. The Italian authorities have now come to look upon Artena as hopeless and remark that it is far better that criminals should kill criminals than that innocent persons should be their victims. It is said that on one occasion when 23 murders had been committed in that city in one day the fact was reported in one of the Italian papers in the following terms: "Since our last issue (24 hours before) there have been 23 sudden deaths in Artena," and no further notice of the murders was taken or expected.

Ruskin Didn't Like Hugo.
Did you ever read "The Hunchback of Notre Dame?" I believe it to be simply the most disgusting book ever written by man, and on the whole to have caused more brutality and evil than any other French writing with which I am acquainted. Balzac is sensual, but he is an artist of the highest touch and a philosopher even in his sensuality. Eugene Sue paints virtue as well as vice. Dumas is absurd and useless, but interesting; Beranger blasphemous, but witty; George Sand immoral, but elegant. But for pure, dull, virtueless, stupid, deadly poison read Victor Hugo.—Ruskin.

Knew What She Was About.
Mother—Miss Catchem has a lovely voice, and you know it. Why did you ask her to sing for Mr. Richfello?
Daughter (after Mr. Richfello)—See that mirror in front of the piano?
"Yes."
"Well, Mr. Richfello sits right in range where he can see her face. She looks like a whitewashed chimpanzee when she sings."—Pearson's Weekly.

He Had Her.
It is related that when the young man who afterward became General Fremont ran away with and married Jessie, Tom Benton, the great senator, made terrible threats of what he would do to the young man. He would give him roasts and bullets and hades, to all of which Mrs. Benton quietly remarked, "You had better give him Jessie, my dear."

Walking on the Walls.
It is unlawful for a Chinese woman to walk on the city walls of Peking, but it is an exercise in which the Americans and Europeans indulge without objection upon days when they are open to the public.

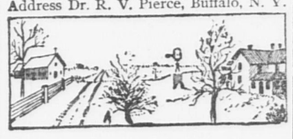

THE FARMER WORKS HARD

For a living. He has to. He must "make hay while the sun shines," no matter how he feels. The result is overwork. The stomach usually gives the first sign of strain. The organs of digestion and nutrition are deranged. Food does not nourish. Indigestion appears. In such a case Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery re-establishes the health by a complete cure of the diseased organs of digestion and nutrition. It cleanses the stomach, purifies the blood and removes the causes of disease. It is a temperance medicine, and contains no whisky nor alcohol.

"I was troubled with indigestion for about two years," writes Wm. Bowker, Esq., of Juliaette, Latah Co., Idaho. "I tried different doctors and remedies but to no avail, until I wrote to Dr. Pierce and he told me what to do. I suffered with a pain in my stomach and left side and thought it would kill me. I am glad to write and let you know that I am all right. I can do my work now without pain and I don't have that tired feeling that I used to have. Five bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and two vials of his 'Pleasant Pellets' cured me."

Sick people can consult Dr. Pierce by letter free. All correspondence private. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

For Women.
Dr. Tolman's Monthly Regulator has brought happiness to hundreds of anxious women. There is positively no other remedy known to medical science, that will so quickly and safely do the work. FLAGS OF THE ALLIES

Are Now Floating Over the Imperial Palace In China's "Forbidden City."

Details of the Battle at the Capture of Pekin.

Admiral Seymour Praises the Rare Courage of the American Troops.

London, Aug. 22.—In the news that reaches London this morning from China there is nothing to confirm the report that the empress dowager has been run to earth. The foreign envoys, according to the Shanghai correspondent of The Daily Express, are proceeding to Tientsin. The same correspondent avers that the sacred city was entered Aug. 16, two days earlier than Rear Admiral Bunce reported.

"The flags of the allies," says the Shanghai correspondent of The Daily Mail, wiring yesterday, "are now flying over the imperial palace. Street fighting, however, continues. Considerable assistance in the capture of Pekin was rendered by 4000 armed native Christians. The legations were enabled to hold out by purchasing ammunition from the Chinese."

American action in refusing to deal with Li Hung Chang in the peace proposal meets with unanimous approval at the hands of the morning papers.

The Standard says: "We imagine that the other powers will take the same course, at any rate until Earl Li produces satisfactory evidence of his authority to negotiate.

The Daily Chronicle says: "Mr. Conger has at last opened the eyes of the state department to the real character of the Orientals."

The Daily Express prints this morning a long letter, said to have been written by Vice Admiral Seymour, in which he stoutly defends his action in advancing to the relief of the legationers when he did, saying: "Two or three times our prospects were very dark and disaster seemed probable. Yet I never regretted that I had started, as I could not have respected myself if I had not done so."

Referring to the difficulties of controlling mixed troops and to their characteristics, he says: "The Germans we admired most; but, for dash and go, none surpassed or perhaps equalled the Americans. The French had no particular rapprochement with any other nationality. The Germans and Russians were inclined to hold together, but the Americans were with us always."

A copyrighted Associated Press dispatch from Pekin, dated Aug. 14, via Chefoo, Aug. 21, says:

The American and Russian flags were planted on the east wall of Pekin at 11 o'clock this morning. The Indian troops entered the British legation at 1, and the Americans at 3. There was a joyful reception from the wall.

The emaciated tenants could have lasted but little longer. They had only three days' rations. The Chinese had been attacking furiously for two days. Four thousand shells fell in the legation during the siege. Sixty-five were killed and 160 wounded.

The Japanese began the battle before daylight and they are still fighting about the north wall, where a part of the Chinese are defending the imperial city. The Japanese casualties have not yet been ascertained. The Russians had 5 killed and 12 wounded. The Americans and British had a few wounded.

The plan was to make a general attack tomorrow, and the troops were arriving at camp, five miles east, all night. They were completely exhausted and slept in the cornfields in the rain. The generals, however, alarmed at the sounds of a heavy attack on the legations, pushed forward independently, the British, Americans and French on the left of the river and the Russians and Japanese on the right.

Beginning at 2 o'clock this morning the Japanese diverted the brunt of the resistance to the northern city, their artillery engaging the Chinese heavily there. The Americans and British met with but little resistance until they entered the city, where there was street fighting. Reilly's battery attempted to breach the inner wall. The troops finally entered the foreign settlement through the canal.

Company E, Fourteenth United States infantry, planted its flag on the outer wall, Musician Titus scaling the wall with a rope, by means of which the others climbed to the top.

The Chinese had continually violated the armistice.

The food supplies sent to the legations by the empress dowager were sufficient for one day.

Events on Readville Track.

Readville, Mass., Aug. 22.—The Neponset stake event, 2:10 class, pacing, value $5000, was won by Connor, owned by C. T. Chapin of Rochester, N. Y., in straight heats. Best time, 2:05½. The 2:25 class, pace, purse $3000, was won by Bonnie Direct in straight heats. Best time, 2:07¾.

Resented Being Called a Negro.

New Orleans, Aug. 22.—A shooting affray occurred on a truck farm owned by Rudolph Eschman. Mr. Eschman called a neighbor, Louis Delatour, a negro. The latter shot both Eschman and his stepbrother, Frank Doothy. Eschman cannot recover from his injuries.

SEVEN MEN ARE MISSING.

Freight Trains Collided and Cars Were Piled High Above a Railroad Depot.

New York, Aug. 22.—A rear-end freight collision last night at Kensico, on the Harlem division of the New York Central, was caused, so far as can be learned, by the engineer of the second train running past a block signal set against him. He was killed. So far as can be learned seven men are dead. There may not be so many, as the estimate is based only on the men of the train crews who cannot be found. It is supposed they are in the heap of wreckage, which will not be cleared off for some time.

The regular freight pulled into the depot about 8 o'clock. The train was southbound. The engine left the train standing upon the main track, and went off onto a siding for some cars. A second train, an extra loaded with ice, dashed into the rear cars of the standing freight, and the engine mounted upward upon the cars and telescoped them. The cars of the running train were piled until in all about 30 cars piled high above the railroad depot. The wreckage is hard to clear away, because of the tons of ice piled all over from the smashed cars. The forward train carried food stuffs, grain and livestock, a number of the latter being killed. The rails are ripped up for a distance of 300 feet, and trains in both directions are blocked.

Sees Danger In Protestantism.

Rome, Aug. 22.—The pope has addressed a letter to the cardinal vicar, in which he sets forth the danger of the free propaganda of Protestantism in Italy, especially in Rome. He observes that this propaganda is permissible by law, but goes on to show how painful to him is the situation resulting from it, since he cannot oppose the propaganda. Pope Leo exhorts Catholics to unite in an effort to minimize, as far as possible, the damage caused by sectarian propaganda.

Deserters to Be Disciplined.

Philadelphia, Aug. 22.—The Republican state committee held a special meeting in this city Tuesday and adopted strong resolutions denouncing the action of the anti-Quay or "insurgent" faction of the party in advocating fusion with the Democratic party in certain legislative districts and providing for the disciplining of Republicans who thus disregard the party rules.

Another Canoeing Fatality.

Newton, Mass., Aug. 22.—The third victim within a week of canoeing accidents on the Charles river is Rosa Cox, 18 years old, colored, who was drowned Tuesday. Her companion, a colored man, was paddling down stream, when Miss Cox stood up in the canoe. She lost her balance, and capsized the canoe. The man was picked up by a passing rowboat.

No Trace of De Pietri.

Dedham, Mass., Aug. 22.—A description of Joseph De Pietri, murderer of Mrs. Ambrosio, has been sent abroad by the police. All efforts to locate him have thus far proved futile. The steamers for Europe are being carefully watched at the port of New York, from where De Pietri had expressed a wish to sail for Italy.

Socialist Street Oratory.

New York, Aug. 22.—Joseph F. Maloney of Massachusetts, candidate of the Socialist-Labor party for the presidency of the United States, addressed a meeting held on an uptown street corner Tuesday night. Mr. Maloney confined his remarks to a criticism of the other political parties and their candidates.

For Fitzgerald's Place.

Boston, Aug. 22.—The Democrats of ex-State Senator Corbett's ward have urged him to stand this fall for congress, as the successor of John F. Fitzgerald, the present representative from the Ninth district. It is understood that Congressman Fitzgerald will not be a candidate for re-election.

Fifteen Thousand Signatures Secured.

London, Aug. 22.—The women of Victoria have started a movement against woman suffrage, similar, according to the Melbourne correspondent of The Times, to the American women's anti-suffrage movement. Fifteen thousand women have signed a petition against the woman suffrage bill.

Will Make It Interesting.

Chicago, Aug. 22.—It is announced at Democratic headquarters that William J. Bryan will be in Chicago Labor day and speak in connection with the Labor day celebration. If this program is adhered to it will result in Governor Roosevelt and Mr. Bryan appearing on the same platform.

Case of Maresca and Guida.

New York, Aug. 22.—Chief Hazen of the United States secret service says in relation to the detention of the two alleged anarchists, Maresca and Guida, that he believes it likely that the men will be detained for some time. In regard to the anonymous letter sent to the United States, in which the writer claimed to have overheard Maresca say to another Italian that he was coming to America to kill President McKinley, Chief Hazen said he had not seen the letter or a copy of it.

Fitz Said to Have Refused $100,000.

New York, Aug. 22.—The World says that Bob Fitzsimmons has been offered $100,000 by a Canadian of high financial standing to lose his fight with Sharkey, and that Fitzsimmons treated the suggestion with contempt. The Canadian said he was eager to arrange matters in order that he might begin making bets at 10 to 8.

Audience of About Forty Thousand.

Sedalia, Mo., Aug. 22.—The Democratic campaign in Missouri was opened here Tuesday in the presence of nearly 40,000 persons. The principal addresses were made by Adlai E. Stevenson and A. M. Dockery, Democratic candidate for governor of Missouri.

HANNA AND BRYAN.

Former Warns Republicans Not to Take Anything For Granted.

New York, Aug. 22.—The campaign of the Republicans of New Jersey was opened by Senator Hanna at Asbury Park, N. J., last night. An immense crowd gathered in and about the auditorium by the seashore. The senator, after thanking the audience for the hearty reception accorded him, said:

"We are on the eve of a political campaign second to none in importance, one on the issues of which depends the prosperity of the country. I want to sound a note of warning which the importance of the campaign justifies. I want to call your attention to the duty before you, not only to individuals, but to the whole country. This is a duty that is not transferable. It cannot be placed on your neighbor. It is your individual duty.

"A note of warning has come from the national headquarters. I am responsible for that. I know the nature of the contest which is before us, and I tell you that you cannot afford to take anything for granted or to miss a trick. We are confronted with a dangerous foe and Bryanism is in the balance, and if that is killed now it is killed forever.

"There have been two object lessons presented to the people of this country. In 1892, under a Republican administration, we found ourselves in prosperity, the spindles were all busy in the factories and industries were busy on every hand. Then came a change. The people said they wanted a change and they got it. I will not picture to you how labor was then out of employment and how month after month it grew worse. You know all about that as well as I can tell you.

"The people then wanted another change and they got it. And what a change it was and how the spindles began to spin again in the factories, resulting in happy homes and firesides all over the land.

"Over confidence is the worst feature of this campaign. No one can be blamed for confidence in what the outcome will be after three years of President McKinley, but remember that we have an enemy which may be called the 'Cuckoo' party, which is composed of men of every shade of political opinion, every crank and every nihilist. They are all against us. We must be active, and it is to impress this upon you that I am here to tell you your plain duty. In conclusion, let me say you must not neglect it."

Senator Hanna was followed by Colonel Curtis Guild, Jr., of Boston, who spoke at some length on the issues of the campaign.

Two Shooting Accidents.

Boston, Aug. 22.—John T. Sullivan, 26 years old, was shot and probably fatally injured Tuesday by John Regan, 16 years old, at the home of the latter. The shooting, which was done with a rifle, was purely accidental. The young men were at target practice at the time. The wounded man made a statement by which he cleared his young comrade of any responsibility for the shooting.

Pittsfield, Mass., Aug. 22.—An accidental explosion of the charge Harry Galpin, 13 years old, was placing in a gun fatally injured his brother, Arthur, aged 16 years, who was standing near his brother.

Pittsfield's Man Hunt.

Pittsfield, Mass., Aug. 22.—Although without much hope of success, the army of men who have covered every inch of territory within a radius of many miles of this city are scouring the woods and by-paths, while every road is guarded so that at this time there can be no possibility of escape for the murderers of May Fosburg if they are still in this part of the country. There will be no ceasing on the part of police and citizens until every hope that the men are in hiding hereabouts has been given up.

Tammany Preparing For Business.

New York, Aug. 22.—Richard Croker has called a meeting of the Tammany hall executive committee for next Friday to make arrangements for the primaries and state conventions. At a meeting of the leaders of Tammany hall yesterday the availability of Judge Herrick of Albany as a gubernatorial candidate was variously discussed.

Corcoran Has Skipped.

St. Johnsbury, Vt., Aug. 22.—Frank Corcoran, the local manager of a stock broker's office, left this place a week ago, and his present whereabouts are unknown. Corcoran's financial relations with his employers and with the office customers are not definitely known. He was indicted in June for keeping a "bucket shop," and the case is now pending in the supreme court. He was under bail of $1000.

Washington, D. C.

Genesee Pure Food Co., Le Roy, N. Y.

Gentlemen:—Our family realize so much from the use of GRAIN-O that I feel I must say a word to induce others to use it. If people are interested in their health and the welfare of their children they will use no other beverage. I have used them all, but GRAIN-O I have found superior to any, for the reason that it is solid grain.

Yours for health, C. F. MYERS.

Latter Appeals To Republicans To Vote Democratic Ticket.

Lincoln, Neb., Aug. 22.—At Wahoo yesterday, Mr. Bryan made an appeal to Republicans to vote the Democratic ticket. Giving his reasons for this appeal Mr. Bryan said:

"I want to talk to you Republicans, believing that you are just as anxious to help your country and help your fellows by your votes as the Democrats, the Populists and Silver Republicans are.

"Now, if you were with us in 1896 there is no reason why you should be against us now, unless the new questions have changed your opinion, or unless you have changed your opinion on the old questions. But I do not believe you can find in this country any man who voted with us in 1896 and who understood the issues then before the country, who has changed his mind on those issues, and now believes that the Republican party was right in 1896. We had men in 1896 who came to us on the silver question, Republicans who were not willing to vote the Republican ticket just because the Republican party had changed its position on the money question; Republicans who were in earnest in 1888, when they denounced the gold standard; Republicans who were in earnest when they advocated bimettalism in 1892, and, therefore they refused to take the Republican position on the money question in 1896. And when they got out of the Republican party and began looking at the Republican party from the outside they found that the same vicious principles ran through all the Republican doctrines, and today they are with us, not only on the silver question, but on all the new questions also.

"The Republican party is trying today the same deception that it practiced in 1896 on the money question. The Republican leaders wanted the gold standard in 1896 just as they want it now, but they held out before the people the delusion of international bimetallism."

Speaking of trusts, he said: "The Republican party is trying today the very same policy on these other questions that it tried on the money question in 1896. They attack the trust question in their platform, and yet you cannot find a Republican paper and read it without finding a defense of the trusts. Now, why is it? It is because the platform is hypocrisy."

The remainder of Mr. Bryan's speech was devoted to the policy of the administration in the Philippines

LABOUCHERE AND CHAMBERLAIN.

Editor Invites the Secretary to Publish Certain Colonial Office Correspondence.

London, Aug. 22.—Truth publishes correspondence advising that paper of the seizures at Pretoria of a compromising letter from Montague White, former consul general of the South African Republic in London, to Secretary of State Reitz, dated Aug. 4, 1899, and two letters from Henry Labouchere to Mr. White, dated, respectively, Aug. 2, 1899, and Aug. 4, 1899, which Mr. White appears to have enclosed to Secretary Reitz, and a letter of Joseph Chamberlain inviting Mr. Labouchere to offer explanations or observations thereon, and Mr. Labouchere's reply.

Mr. Labouchere's letters are brief and amount to advice to the Transvaal to gain time by acceptance of the proposed commission to settle the franchise questions, etc., together with an expression of opinion from Campbell-Bannerman, the Liberal leader in the house of commons, and the Liberals generally that the British cabinet proposed the appointment of the commission with the view of giving Chamberlain a chance to "climb down," and that the cabinet was determined to have no war. He also said: "The president has a great opportunity to give Joe another fall. The great thing is to gain time. In a few months we shall be howling about something in another part of the world."

Mr. Labouchere's reply to Mr. Chamberlain admits the letters are genuine, but declines to recognize Mr. Chamberlain's "pretension to ask for an explanation" on a matter concerning which he is "only responsible to parliament and my constituents," and invites Mr. Chamberlain, in the pursuance of his "new diplomacy, to publish all correspondence between the colonial office and the governors of Natal and Cape Colony and between the governors and military commanders in South Africa, so that the public may be able to form a sound opinion on the whole business, including the inadequate preparations and initial reverses, and also and especially the Hawksley correspondence."

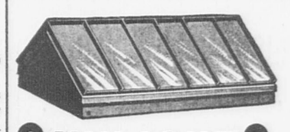

B. A. Hawksley was counsel for the British South African company at the time of the Jameson raid and was generally supposed to have been well posted on all matters connected with it. The Independence Belge, in January, 1899, published a number of letters to and from Mr. Hawksley purporting to show Mr. Chamberlain was an accomplice to the Jameson raid, but other and more important letters are said to be in existence. It was claimed at the time that the disclosures did not prove Mr. Chamberlain's complicity in the raid, but demonstrated his complicity in the efforts made afterwards to stifle the affair.

Good Afternoon.

In the construction of the Haverhill & Southern New Hampshire street railway, the company will give preference to Haverhill workers. This is a pretty good idea, and ought to be carried out more generally than it is in other cities and towns. Give the home worker the best chance and build up your own towns!—Brockton Enterprise.

And this also applies to work on the Brockton street railway at the Quincy end of the system we suppose. Residents of Quincy, who worked on the Quincy & Boston for years, should be given a chance.

The claim of Brookline, a town with a per capita valuation of $5,000, that it receives no special benefits from the Metropolitan park system, is as ridiculous as it is preposterous. All attempts to open up the State reservations by granting locations to street railways have been opposed by the wealthy because they desired pretty drives. The reservations will never be accessible to the people at large unless they can reach them easily by electrics. Those who own pleasure carriages are very few in proportion to the population in the average city and town, for the majority can not afford the luxury. In Brookline the situation is different. The per capita valuation being $5,000, a great many have carriages and automobiles, and it is the people of Brookline who will receive the greatest benefits from the parks and boulevards, and they should be assessed accordingly.

Such a gentleman as Henry H. Faxon is useful at all times in many ways. At this season when the City Council is taking a long vacation, city news is dull; but Mr. Faxon does not propose that we shall forget the honorable board which constitutes our City Council. With him a common remark is, "Stir them up," an opportunity which he seldom misses. But Mr. Faxon should not suggest other ways of expending city money if he is for retrenchment. Quincy avenue is a thoroughfare, as is Granite street, and travel will increase considerable with the opening of the Fore River Ship and Engine Works. Quincy avenue is laid out wide, but has not in many places been built to its full width. If the lines can be better defined at a little expenditure before the street is built upon, it would then seem a desirable thing to do. One of the houses recently built on Quincy avenue is partly in the street, a thing that would not have happened had the builder known where the line was. People who thought they had a front yard, have none, and the appearance of the street gets a set back.

There is desirable residential land on Quincy avenue and it is a section of the city which we can well afford to develop a little.

Drift of Opinion.

☞Book publishers of this country are now confronting a question which they have dodged for a long time and would gladly keep out if possible. The advent of the book department to the department store has brought about a system of cutting prices on popular books which has resulted most disastrously to the regular book dealer. The custom of publishers of making the price of books dependent entirely upon the quantity ordered has enabled the department store through its tremendous output to purchase books at a lower price than the regular book store. Hence we see some popular novel retailed at a less price than the regular bookseller can purchase it for himself. Take for instance "Richard Carvel" of which 438,000 copies were sold. The best price at which this book could be bought by purchasing the largest quantity on the list made it net the dealer 81 cents. The majority of department stores sold the book at 87 cents which was practically the price which the average book dealer had to pay for it. Of course publishers do not wish to offend such large customers as the department stores and at the same time they are dependent in a large measure upon the legimate book distributors who use the miscellaneous line of publications which the department store does not care to handle. It looks like a Scylla and Charybdis problem and it will be interesting to see how skilfully the publishers can guide their boat through the channel without stranding on either one of the reefs.—Buyer and Dry Goods Chronicle.

A Large Block.

W. P. Pinel, the furniture dealer at South Quincy, is making great changes at the corner of Franklin and Water streets. He purchased some months ago the Luke Rideout estate, and has since then moved the house and barn south some twenty or more feet towards Arthur L. Mitchell's residence, leaving room for a large block on Water street.

Mr. Pinel intends to erect a building, three stories high, extending 130 feet on Water street, with a frontage on Franklin street. The building to be arranged for stores and tenements; a large hall on the second floor will be used by himself for furniture. Owing to cramped condition of his old store he was unable to show up the many bargains he is offering our citizens in new and second hand furniture from day to day.

Mr. McKeon Chairman.

The board of registrars met Tuesday evening and organized with Edward J. McKeon as chairman. Edgar G. Cleaves is clerk of the board by virtue of his office as City Clerk. This is the first time in the history of the city that a Democrat has held the position as chairman of the board. The only other business transacted was to prepare the preliminary voting lists. The dates for holding meetings for registration will be fixed upon at a later meeting.

Chairman McKeon is a resident of the Atlantic ward, and has served in the City Council, where his work was for the interests of the whole city rather than his ward or party. In his new position it is expected that impartiality will continue, and that the work of the board will be free from friction as in the past.

The Ice Man.

Among the sketches of members of the Legislature issued at the State House during the session was the following rather amusing one relative to Quincy's representative:

"E. H. Sprague, 13th Essex, Rep., Lynn, b. Dover, N. H., Sept. 7, '43; public schools, Co. B, 4th Mass., H. A.; G. A. R. Shoe business, ice business last 25 years. Odd Fellows, Red Men, Royal Arcanum, L. A. W., president Lynn Ice Co."

The New England Grocer comments: "Now that adds 21 years to Mr. Sprague—gives him a military experience—joins him to the G. A. R.—puts him into the shoe and ice business and initiates him into a good many secret societies."

Mercy to Horses.

Constable Furnald is doing quite a business this week as agent of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. Tuesday he killed a horse of David Crossman of West Quincy. This morning he took a horse away from G. C. Glover of South Braintree. The horse, which was old and had hardly strength enough to walk, was being led behind a hay wagon and was passing through City Square, when Constable Furnald took the animal. He was later turned over to Ward.

An Octogenarian.

The Brockton Times of Monday had an interesting sketch of Thomas J. Vinton of Rockland, whose son, Mr. Edward P. Vinton, is a resident of Quincy. Mr. Vinton, Sr., is 83 years of age, and was born in Braintree.

The Times says he was the first man in this section to break rock by means of a round hole. It was the custom to cut square holes with a chisel-like instrument and Mr. Vinton's innovation caused quite a sensation in the trade. Later he was superintendent of the construction of the sea walls on Hospital and Deer islands in Boston harbor.

Kalkaska county, Mich., farmers are digging their potatoes in a half-hearted way. They have plenty of fine tubers, but fail to see much show for a margin of profit with the prospect of a dull market and only 10 or 15 cents per bushel, where they are able to sell at all.

QUINCY'S CLAIM.

To Republican Nomination for the Senate.

Smaller Towns Have Been Favored.

Southern Way of Seeking Nomination—Political Notes.

The claims of Quincy for the Republican nomination for Senator are not as well understood as they should be, but they are as strong as any town in the First Norfolk district. In two years only out of twenty,—in 1892 and 1893,—has Quincy had the candidate. With the exception of Randolph, all the towns in the district have had candidates for two or more years during these 20 years viz: Braintree in 1887, 1888, 1898 and 1899; Canton in 1884, 1885 and 1886; Hyde Park in 1891, 1894 and 1895; Weymouth in 1883, 1896 and 1897; Holbrook in 1889 and 1896; and Milton in 1881 and 1882. In 1875 Hon. J. White Belcher of Randolph was elected. Aside from the fact that Quincy is the only city in the district, and has by far the largest population, it has had fewer candidates than either Braintree, Canton, Hyde Park or Weymouth. Quincy at the last State election gave the Republican candidate for senator 1,545 votes, over 31 per cent. of the total vote he received, three times as many as did Braintree, his home town, and six times as many as Canton. It would not be unreasonable if Quincy, because of its size and vote, had candidates oftener than these towns. It is misrepresentation if she does not have as many candidates. The Democrats frequently select their candidates from Quincy, among the candidates in the 20 years have been: Hon. William A. Hodges, and James F. Burke, once each and Hon. William Everett and Hon. William N. Eaton, twice each.

In some places in the South it is customary for those who desire office to advertise the fact in the local papers. The Sunday News of Greenville, S. C., had nearly two columns of short "ads" like these:

"I hereby announce myself as a candidate for reelection to the office of Magistrate for Greenville Township, subject to the action of the Democratic primary. O. K. Mauldin."

"In obedience to my own wishes and some encouragement from friends, I hereby offer my services to the voting constituency of Greenville County, to represent them in the next Legislature, subject to the Democratic primary. James I Earle."

"Complying with the requests of numerous personal friends and voters, I hereby announce myself a candidate for Coroner of Greenville County, subject to the action of the voters in the Democratic primary election. M. E. Pinson."

Another Ward Six man is mentioned for Representative to the General Court Thomas Gurney, at present postmaster of the Atlantic station, and an ex-member of the School Committe. Mr. Gurney is a successful business man, and it is merchants of this class who make the best representatives.

The vote of New York state in the last Presidential election was: McKinley, 819,838; Bryan, 551,369; Palmer, 18,950; Levering, 16,052; Matchett, 17,667. At the State election two years ago Roosevelt had 661,707; Van Wyck, 643,921; Kline 18,383; Hanford, 23,860; Bacon, 2,103.

The 1900 Pan-Partisan pocket manual, issued by Calderwood & Heffron of Minneapolis, Minn., is a handy volume, with all the party platforms and statistics of votes, term of office of Congressmen and Governors, and facts relative to tariff, money, banks, prices, expansion, etc. It is sold for 15 cents.

Slight Fire.

The alarm from Box 443 at 4.55 this morning was for a slight fire in the old Trask house on West street. Painters and paperers have been at work in the house. On the floor of one of the rooms was a number of rolls of paper and the fire started in this, probably from a painter's rag. The fire was extinguished with no loss.

TODAY'S COURT.

John Keohane was fined $5 for drunkenness at Cohasset.

Charles H. Smith was arraigned for defrauding Warren D. Carr of the Midland House, Houghs Neck, of sixteen days' board. Case continued until Thursday morning.

DIED.

GAGE—In Quincy, Aug. 21, Mrs. Eliza J., wife of Mr. David K. Gage of 177 Willard street, aged 62 years, 9 months and 16 days.

HERE AND THERE.

Local Brevities of the City of Presidents.

H. F. Doble has returned from his trip to Colorado.

Mrs. C. W. Wilder, who has been quite ill, is improving.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Hearn are doing Maine this week.

Everett F. Pollard has gone to Solon, Me., on his vacation trip.

Mrs. Samuel Crane and Miss Edith Crane have gone to Middleboro.

J. H. Warner is the temporary freight agent at Quincy Adams.

No better $3 hat, is the claim of Ryder & Odiorne for the Guyer hat.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Snow of Chestnut street are at Augusta, Maine, for a few weeks.

Miss Bessie Smith of the City Treasurer's office returned from her vacation trip this morning.

J. F. Sheppard & Sons are putting in the winter's supply of coal for the several school buildings.

Mrs. Clifford Whall of Webster street entertained her two nieces, Miss Whall and Miss Lydall this week.

Mrs. James J. O'Brien, Miss Alice O'Brien and Master John O'Brien of Copeland street are at Annisquam Point.

The new Quincy depot is not a very handsome affair but it is a great improvement over the old ramshackled building.

Miss Ethel Vogler of Botolph street is substituting for Miss Coombs in Thomas Gurney's store. Miss Coombs is enjoying a two weeks' vacation.

The Ward Four Republican club resumed its weekly meetings Tuesday evening in Dolan's hall, and propose to be heard from in the fall campaign.

Mr. and Mrs. Amos Towle Leavitt of Wollaston have the sympathy of a large circle of friends in their recent bereavement in the loss of their little daughter, Elizabeth.

Mrs. C. Drew of Walker street is giving the privileges of the country to several little orphan children. The little ones, used to city life, are delighted with the green fields and the flowers.

T. H. McDonnell and Miss Maragret McDonnell, who have been in Europe for several weeks, sail for home Aug. 25. Rev. Fr. Danahey of Newton, formerly of Quincy, who is with them, also returns.

Edward Whitmarsh of East Braintree was injured by a falling plank at the new Fore River Ship and Engine works Tuesday morning. Dr. Tinkham of Weymouth was called and Mr. Whitmarsh was carried to his home.

The hurdy-gurdy which frequents Atlantic streets played for two hours on Webster street Monday night. Many of the pizzas were lighted, and dancing was in order both indoors and out in range of the spirited music.

There is considerable complaint because bicycle races are allowed to take place over our streets. They are a serious menace to pedestrians and those who ride. The proper place for a bicycle is on a race track. Our streets were never intended to be used for such a purpose.

John O'Connor, who nearly twenty years ago left West Quincy for Atlanta, Georgia, where he has since resided, returned Tuesday and will probably make Quincy his home in the future. Mr. O'Conor hardly recognized his old town, so many changes have taken place since he went away.

Work is progressing rapidly on the Third Hill reservoir and stand-pipe. The concrete foundation for the stand-pipe is in, and the embankment for the storage basin is being thrown up. The maximum depth of storage basin will be 17 feet. Quackenbush & Beckwith of New York are the contractors.

Agent Furnald of the Dumb Animal Society and Officer McKay are making it warm for the sub-contractors on the Third Hill reservoir. Several of them have been working horses with huge collar sores. One of the parties was in court last week and paid $10 and costs for working a horse with a big collar sore.

Mr. Jeffrey Brackett, formerly of Quincy, visited his beautiful estate a few days ago. Although this fine house is occupied only by a keeper, and is heavily taxed, he intends to put it in fine order, making permanent changes in the interior. The semi-circle of green on the hillside sloping towards the new street is beautiful.

Hereafter all cars on the line between Brockton and Neponset will run via Hancock street both ways. An additional car has been put on which will run between Quincy and Neponset via Hancock street and Norfolk Downs. This car will leave Quincy at 10 minutes past the hour and returning will leave Neponset at 25 minutes of the hour. This makes an additional car on the Hancock street line.

OTHER FELLOW BENEFITED.

Cities and Towns of Metropolitan Park District Think So.

Claim That Individually They Receive No Special Benefit.

Valuation Generally Favored as the Basis of Apportionment.

The city of Quincy, at the hearing relative to Metropolitan park assessments, on Tuesday advocated apportionment among the cities and towns on the basis of valuation. The Brookline representative not only tried to show that this wealthy town received no special benefit but said in his opinion Milton was the town which was immensely benefited as the State control of the Blue Hills reservation has been of great benefit to the town.

The commissioners Messrs. C. F. Adams, T. M. Stetson and J. C. Hammond were all present. The Globe reports the hearing as follows: The commission appointed by the supreme court upon the apportionment of the cost of the metropolitan park system resumed its sessions at 10 o'clock yesterday in room 227 state house.

The commissioners are Charles Francis Adams chairman, T. M. Stetson and J. C. Hammond.

The chairman announced that of the 39 cities and towns affected by the work of the commission all but two or three had sent in briefs.

City corporation counsel Andrew J. Bailey of Boston was the first speaker. He said he had not filed a brief because he did not think it was proper that the city of Boston should take a negative position in the matter.

Her proportion of the cost had been fixed by the legislature at 50 per cent. of the whole. But the city of Boston believes that the apportionment should be made on the basis of valuation, each city and town being assessed on the basis of its proportionate part of the valuation of the district.

If the legislature had not intended that this should be the case, he did not think it would have made the district in the first place. The only departure from this line of action he considered should be when a city or town showed good reasons why it should not be so.

City Solicitor Pevey of Cambridge following Mr. Bailey, agreed in the main with his suggestions, but believed that a city or town ought to have allowance made for what they had themselves expended in the same line as the metropolitan park commission.

Mr. Boynton representing the city of Chelsea and Revere and also the city of Everett said these municipalities subscribed to the doctrine laid down by the legal representative of the city of Boston. He did not intend to argue the matter at any length at that time or call any witnesses but if the question of special benefits came up later he might desire to be heard on it.

The city of Lynn was the next called. City Solicitor Starr Parson said he had submitted a brief, but as it was hurriedly prepared he desired to submit some further matters for the consideraton of the commission.

He then called upon Hon. Frank D. Allen to state the position of the citizens of Lynn.

Mr. Allen made a brief statement in which he said the desire of the city of Lynn was to have its rights safeguarded. He said the metropolitan park commission had never issued a certification under the act of 1883 and the commission was superseded by the present commission the following year. He called Chief Clerk Bridge of the treasury department who stated he had searched the documents in his office but could not find any such certification as that spoken of by Mr. Allen.

Mr. Allen said he believed the documents which will be presented by the metropolitan park commission will not indicate the takings of land made, but only the cash expended by the commission. If it should be found that some of the expenditures were illegal, and that taxation has been assessed on those illegal amounts the towns and cities should not be held responsible.

Nathan M. Hawkes of Lynn, chairman of the park commission of that city stated that 2,000 acres of the city of Lynn is devoted to parks already, or two-sevenths of the whole area of the city. The city paid $78,000 for parks. They did not therefore think it was fair that they should be assessed for the park commission work in the same proportion as cities that were not so situated.

Senator H. C. Atwill of Lynn said Lynn had practically nothing to gain from the system devised by the metropolitan park commission. As long as the bridge over the Saugus river remains unbuilt and the road over the Lynn marshes from Revere beach is not made, Lynn is practically cut off from any benefit from the park system.

To Mr. Burdett the senator said he believed the last legislature would not have granted the appropriation for the park system only that it was known that the governor would veto the measure. He did not care if this was a stultification of the members, he said it was so.

Eugene A. Bessom of Lynn spoke in a vein similar to the preceding speakers.

City Solicitor Joseph Wiggin of Lynn and City Solicitor Hayes of Medford followed on the same lines. The former said Malden has 50 acres of parks and the city felt it should not be taxed as should places, that had no such accommodations.

Mayor Gould of Melrose, City Solicitor Sears of Quincy and City Solicitor Kaan of Somerville both followed on the same general lines as the preceding speakers.

City Solicitor John L. Harvey of Waltham hoped the commission would if it took the basis of taxation into account confine its ruling altogether to that ground for it would cause irregularity and injustice to take in the additional matters of special benefits or population.

Waltham he said is not in any sense thickly settled and it is in fact in itself a park system. Then the Charles river affords an excellent water space for canoeing and boating.

Chairman Adams said a good deal had been said about the probable intention of the legislature at the time of the passing of the metropolitan park act. He said he knew the intention at the time was that the yearly expenditure should not be more than about $125,000, but that intention had been very radically departed from.

Bertrand Brewer, city engineer of Waltham, stated that about one-third of total area of Waltham is composed of open spaces, and there is also Prospect hill park, of about 130 acres. The cost of these open spaces to the city of Waltham had been $92,000.

Mr. Blodgett of Woburn said, that city receives no direct benefit from the metropolitan park system outside of the general benefit arising from the boulevards and the park system, and her citizens, therefore felt they ought not to be taxed for any special benefits.

This concluded the list of cities in the district and the towns were then taken up.

Arlington was first called, but there was no response.

Mr. Dodge, representing Belmont, said the acreage and population of Belmont were about the same, 3,000. He was willing the commission should settle the matter as affecting the town.

Mr. Mellen, speaking for Braintree and Dover, said these localities were far from the parks and boulevards of the metropolitan system, Dover being about nine miles from the nearest boulevard or park of the system.

He believed special benefits ought to be taken into consideration in apportioning the tax. He said five-sixths of the entire money, if not seven-eighths of all spent by the metropolitan park commission had been spent north of Boston, and he thought these cities and towns ought to pay these taxes for the next five years.

He thought valuation and population ought to be considered by the commission, as ought also special benefits.

John C. Williams, representing Brookline, said the total included in the metropolitan park system is 384.4 square miles. He asked the commission to rule that valuation, population and special benefits ought to be taken into consideration in apportioning the tax.

Brookline had contributed to the Boston park system and should have an allowance made to it, therefore.

The hearing was continued until Wednesday.

William Johnson, foreman at Paterson's stone sheds, had his foot crushed Tuesday afternoon by the base of a monument falling upon it. The base was being loaded into a team when the chain slipped letting it fall. He was removed to his home.

Mrs. Eliza J. Gage, wife of Mr. David K. Gage of 177 Willard street, died at her home Tuesday evening at the age of 62 years. She was the daughter of the late David Morrison, who ran the first incorporated railroad in America.

Work has been commenced on the widening of Copeland street. The old trees on the Elcock estate on the north side of the street at the Willard street end have been removed, and the retaining wall is being moved back to the new street line.

About eighty Christian Scientists from Boston, Fitchburg, Somerville, Dorchester, and Wollaston met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen A. Cleaves, East Elm avenue, Sunday afternoon and listened to the reading of the lesson. Dr. Stiles of Boston sang a solo, and the entire service was deeply impressive.

A. W. Loud, the well known teamster of West Quincy, is taking a short vacation. He has gone over the road driving to Lancaster, New Hampshire, accompanied by his friend Charles W. Nightingale. They will undoubtedly have a fine drive over the granite hills, and expect to be gone ten or twelve days.

One of the curiosities at Chatsworth, Eng., the duke of Devonshire's place, is a weeping willow made of copper, and so dexterously fashioned that at a distance it resembles a real tree. It is actually a shower bath, for by pressing a secret tap, a tiny spray of water can be made to burst from every branch and twig of the tree, to the discomfort of any who may be under it.

One of the most singular peculiarities of the floral world is the evening primrose, which opens about 6 o'clock P. M. with an explosion, not very loud nor formidable, but still quite perceptible to any one who is watching the bud. It remains open all night.

Trolley Observations.

A great many curious things are noticed by riders on the electric cars as they whisk along the streets. The other day the following sign in big letters over a doorway in that famous city of learning, Boston, struck the observer's eye.

A BRANCH OF MRS. HUNT.
HOME BAKERY.

If limb means leg, perhaps branch might mean arm, but why should the public be interested? Then again what connection is there between a branch of Mrs. Hunt and a home bakery and where is the rest of Mrs. Hunt? These and many more questions still absorb the attention of the observer as the electric did not stop and allow him to investigate.

Another sign noticed by the observer is one that has caused much comment this summer on the Houghs Neck road. It reads:

Post Is Land.

Now there are posts of wood, stone iron and various substances but the observer never saw one of land, and although so stated to the traveling public he is still skeptical.

—The Brockton Enterprise of Monday says: The wildest citizen seen this morning was a man suffering from too much Sunday clambake. He went to a South Main street drug store looking for Jamaica ginger, and a young clerk in charge told him it was just as bad to sell Jamaica ginger as it was to sell whiskey, and he turned the citizen down with a moral lecture on the dangers and evils of Jamaica ginger as a beverage. The citizen went out and forgot all his pains in telling with magnificent eloquence his opinion of the drug clerk.

Miners Smothered to Death.

Isaquah, Wash., Aug. 22.—Five miners were smothered to death in the Isaquah Coal company's mine Tuesday. A brush fire spread to the mouth of an air shaft, ignited the timbers, and the smoke was sucked down by the ventilator fan into the workings, where 80 men were employed.

A HEADLESS AFFAIR.

The Chinese Establishment Without Knowledge of What Is For Its Good.

Earl Li's Latest Appeal Is Rejected by the President.

Diplomatic Assurance That Rights of Emperor and Empress Dowager Will Be Respected.

Washington, Aug. 22.—The consideration of the momentous questions growing out of the capture of Pekin and the war in China was practically opened at the cabinet session Tuesday. Until this session, the absorbing question has been the safety of Minister Conger and the legationers at Pekin. Now, however, that has given place to problems of a more intricate and far-reaching character, and the part which the American government is to take in the reconstruction of that country.

The meeting was devoted entirely to the Chinese situation. The president had with him Secretaries Gage, Hitchcock and Wilson and Postmaster General Smith. Several questions were awaiting attention.

First of these was the application of Li Hung Chang for the appointment of Minister Conger or some other commissioner to negotiate for the cessation of hostilities. The decision arrived at was to reject the appeal, and a reply of this character will be sent to Minister Wu, to be forwarded to Li Hung Chang.

The moving cause for this action is that this government is at present very much in the dark as to whether there is any existing government in China. With the capital in the hands of the allies, the emperor and empress dowager in hiding, and the entire governmental fabric paralyzed, there is no evidence of an authority adequate to conduct negotiations and secure results which will be final and binding.

It was stated by members of the cabinet that the Chinese establishment, instead of being a government, appears to be an enormous, headless affair, without knowledge of what is for its best good, and without power to enforce its wishes. With the recognized ruler in flight, no one seems to know who, if anybody, is directing its affairs. As China is an absolute monarchy, without any legislative branch, the emperor and empress dowager are all powerful and practically they are the empire of China. Under the present remarkable conditions, the United States will act with extreme caution in whatever steps it may take toward a solution of the pending problems.

In the meantime there is reason to believe that the United States and all the other powers interested will keep their armed forces on the ground, so that order may be maintained, and at least a semblance of stable government brought out of the existing chaos.

The reply of this government to the appeal of the viceroys of Nanking and Hunan that no indignities be offered the emperor and empress dowager is a formal acknowledgment of the receipt of the communication with a satisfactory assurance that no indignities would be offered the persons of their majesties. This reply is couched in the polite language of diplomacy, but it is understood that it does not in any way commit the government to refrain from imposing on the emperor and empress dowager any penalty that subsequently might be decided upon in case it is proved that they were directly responsible for the recent atrocities.

This question of fixing responsibility where it belongs and imposing any punishment that may be deemed fitting has not received formal consideration as yet. The answer with which the two viceroys' appeal is met, accordingly, is a diplomatic assurance that the rights of the emperor and empress dowager will be protected, but does not impose any barrier to a proper punishment, such as may be sanctioned by civilized usage, for any offense which hereafter may be held to call for an accounting. This is the interpretation given the reply by a cabinet official. The question of responsibility will have to be worked out slowly.

Prominent Granite State Man Dead.

Hinsdale, N. H., Aug. 22.—Charles J. Amidon of Hinsdale, formerly a state senator, died suddenly Tuesday night from heart disease. He was born in Chesterfield in 1827, and came to this place in 1851, where he was a merchant for 10 years. He then entered into the woolen goods business, and this occupation he followed until his death. He has held prominent positions in town, county and state.

Protest From Colored Men.

New York, Aug. 22.—A committee calling themselves the United Colored Democracy, headed by Edward E. Lee, called on Acting Mayor Guggenheimer Tuesday and protested against the action of the police in the recent race riot in the tenderloin. They asked the acting mayor to investigate their complaints. Mr. Guggenheimer said he would take the matter up.

Hub's Voting List Greatly Reduced.

Boston, Aug. 22.—The board of election commissioners has completed its annual revision of the voting lists, which show the total voting strength of the city to be 87.49 percent. As compared with the voting list for the city election last year, it shows a faling off of 15,436 names.

Strikers and Employers Agree.

Manufacturers' Terms Rejected.

New York, Aug. 22.—The cigarmakers who are locked out and on strike in 12 factories have rejected the terms of settlement offered by the manufacturers.

DIED FROM CRIMINAL OPERATION.

Young Woman Who Had Left Her Husband Repented When It Was Too Late.

Everett, Mass., Aug. 22.—The young woman who died at a hospital Monday night, as the result of a criminal operation, has been identified by her husband as Mrs. Annie M. Southwick of Charlestown. Walter G. Southwick, the husband, said that his wife left his home six months ago of her own accord, but under the influence of an older woman of questionable character. It has been decided to hold an autopsy for the purpose of determining the exact cause of death. The police have made no arrests in the case yet. They have learned that Mrs. Southwick came here on Aug. 11, with a young man, and that she engaged a room of Mrs. Lawton on Broadway. The name of the man is unknown.

According to Mr. Southwick the woman who enticed his wife away from home first told her several untruthful stories about him. After remaining away two months Mrs. Southwick wrote to her husband asking permission to return, but the husband answered that she had better stay away a little longer, until she was certain she could live happily with him. Mr. Southwick says that he means to bring the guilty person to justice, and intimates that he has his suspicions as to who brought his wife into trouble.

The deceased was a native of East Denmark, Me. Her maiden name was Annie M. Randall. The funeral has been set for Thursday.

Having a Good Time.

New York, Aug. 22.—The visiting Cuban and Porto Rican teachers were the guests of New York city Tuesday, their immediate hosts being the board of education. They were taken to several points of interest, including Grant's tomb, Columbia university, a public school, Central park, and the aquarium at the Battery. After listening to an address of welcome, delivered by acting Mayor Guggenheimer, they sat down to an open air banquet on the mall in Central park. The party left for Philadelphia last night.

Another Presidential Candidate.

Washington, Ia., Aug. 22.—The United Christian, published at Rock Island, Ills., the official organ of the United Christian party, makes the statement that J. F. R. Leonard of Ainsworth, Ia., has been nominated by the national committee of that party as candidate for president of the United States. Leonard is a prosperous farmer, aged 50 years. He has accepted the nomination.

Had Been Stationed In Fall River.

Fall River, Mass., Aug. 22.—News was received here Tuesday that Rev. Herbert L. Roots was killed in China. Rev. Mr. Roots was for over three years stationed at St. Stephen's Episcopal church in this city, coming here directly from Harvard university. His station was in Kau Kow, China, on the Yangste river. He was 28 years old and unmarried.

Fall Probably Caused Death.

Boston, Aug. 22.—The body of a man found in an alley near the southern station Tuesday has been identified as that of J. J. McCarty of this city. The man's head has a severe scalp wound. It is believed that this injury was the result of a fall. McCarty had been out of work for some time and had not been at home for several days.

Profitable Menhaden Season.

Provincetown, Mass., Aug. 22.—The menhaden fishermen are finding large schools in gulf waters, and the outlook for a profitable year's work seems assured. Letters received from one of the steamers operating off the coast of Texas gives the catch of the menhaden fleet to July 26 as over 300,000 barrels.

Excursions Must Be Cut Out.

Washington, Aug. 22.—Comptroller Tracewell of the treasury department, in disapproving the mileage account of a Virginia marshal, insists that deputy marshals shall use the shortest practicable route in taking their prisoners to jail, or in serving warrants.

Wound Up by Killing Himself.

New York, Aug. 22.—Gustave Roder, a real estate dealer, shot his wife in the right arm and right shoulder Tuesday at their home, then shot twice at their 13-year-old son without hitting him and finally killed himself by firing a bullet through his temple.

Twenty Condemned to Death.

London, Aug. 22.—A dispatch from Allahabad, British India, says the trial of 25 prisoners, concerned in the Cawnpore plague riots, has resulted in the condemnation to death of 20 of the accused, the transportation of one, and the acquittal of four.

Brakeman Killed and Conductor Injured.

St. John, Aug. 22.—Brakeman Foreman was instantly killed and Conductor Crookshank seriously injured Tuesday by being struck on the heads by pieces of timber projecting from a car on a siding which the train was passing.

Glass Factories Resume Work.

Pittsburg, Aug. 22.—Operations were resumed Tuesday at all the factories of the National Glass company. The resumption gives employment to 4000 men.

AT THE PROPER TIME.

The United States Will Take Up Peace Negotiations With China.

Must First Know Who Are the Responsible Rulers.

Message From Conger Gives Strong Justification For Firm Reply to Earl Li.

Washington, Aug. 23.—The reply of the United States to the application of Li Hung Chang for the appointment of peace commissioners is completed and a copy of the reply sent to the Chinese minister, Mr. Wu, to be forwarded to Earl Li. A copy of the reply was sent to the other governments represented in China. This was done after a long conference at the White House Thursday.

The American reply is chiefly characterized by its firm tone and its brevity. While the document is open to the construction of being a rejection of Li Hung Chang's proposition for immediate negotiations, yet it is stated that rejection is probably too strong a term to apply to it. The United States places itself in the position of being ready at the proper time to take up peace negotiations, but in the present unsettled condition of affairs in the empire, the lack of knowledge as to who are the responsible rulers and what constitutes the actual Chinese government, it is made clear that the time has not arrived for pursuing the negotiations proposed.

The government of the United States takes the position that negotiations are impossible with a government which cannot prevent hostilities against the forces of the powers which were sent to the Chinese capital to save their envoys. As long as attacks are made on the troops of this and other governments, such as have followed the occupation of Pekin, and the attacks in the vicinity of Tientsin, it is deemed that the Chinese government is either unwilling or unable to prevent these hostilities, and for this reason negotiations must be deferred.

It is stated, however, that the reply is a step in the direction of opening negotiations. No question is raised as to the authority of Li Hung Chang to represent his government, but it is said that his credentials, like those of all others who come together for the purpose of negotiating terms of peace, will be examined by the respective representatives and the validity of the papers of each representative determined by that body. The United States, however, by communicating with Minister Wu, recognizes the Chinese government.

The most important development of the day as to the actual condition in Pekin came late in the afternoon, when the state department made public a dispatch from Minister Conger, dated at Pekin, only three days ago. It was as follows:

"Pekin, Aug. 19.

"Secretary of State, Washington:

"The entire city with the exception of the imperial palace is occupied by Japanese, Russian, British, Americans and French. It is being apportioned into districts for police supervision. The Chinese army fled. The imperial family and the court have gone westward, probably to Si An Fu, in the province of Shen Si. No representatives of the Chinese government are in sight in Pekin and the conditions are chaotic. The palace is expected to be taken immediately. Many missionaries have started for home, while others remain in charge of the Christian refugees, numbering about 1000. Conger."

Mr. Conger's message was particularly welcome to the officials, in showing how completely the entire city is dominated by the allies. Mr. Conger's statement that "the conditions are chaotic," was taken as another strong justification for the firm reply given to China. He emphasized the fact that the Chinese army has fled, the imperial family and court have gone, and no representative of the Chinese government is to be seen in Pekin.

Minister Conger makes no mention of his desire to come home, and it is stated officially that this government has made no suggestion that he return to this country.

The military situation was of quite as much interest in the day's developments as was the diplomatic. Admiral Remey reported, bringing the story of the Pekin operations up to the 16th in Pekin and confirming the press report already printed of the death of Captain Reilly in the final assault on the outer walls of Pekin.

Almost important as the Pekin news was the statement that the Boxers are again concentrating around Tientsin, and that last Sunday morning the Sixth cavalry with about 400 English and Japanese troops had a lively brush with the Boxers eight miles outside of Tientsin, where about 100 of the Chinese were killed and five Americans wounded. The casualty list in this fight seems to indicate a sudden and total rout.

The most important dispatch of the day was not made public by the war department, but was the subject of a conference at the White House between the president, Secretary Root and Acting Secretary of State Adee. It was from General Chaffee. It was dated the 18th, and dealt entirely with military operations and conditions. While it cannot be said to have contained any bad news, still recorded the brilliant successes of the American troops who have borne themselves so gallantly in the assault on Pekin, it contained enough as to the unsettled conditions in China and the prospect of long and arduous work in restoring peace to form the subject for a consultation of some hours between the president and his advisers.

JIMMY MICHAEL HAD CRAMPS.

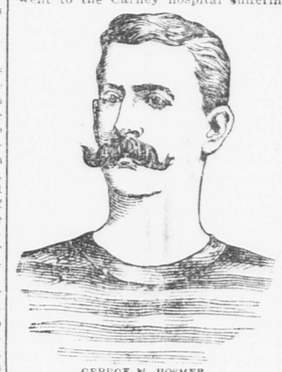

At Least That Is the Reason His Trainers Give For Quitting the Bridgeport Track.

Bridgeport, Conn., Aug. 23.—Bicyclist enthusiasts were disappointed in the 25-mile motor-paced race between Jimmy Michael and Johnnie Nelson here Wednesday. In the seventh mile, when he was apparently riding in good form, the "Welsh Rarebit" suddenly refused to follow his pacemakers and left the track. Nelson, however, continued the race and finished in 42m. 11 1-5s. There were several stories current as to the reason Michael left the track, one being that he strained his leg, another that he had cramps, and the latter story, his trainers say, is the real reason.

The race was scheduled for 4:45 p. m., but Michael did not show up until about 5:15, and at 5:30 the race was started, with Michael at the pole. He caught his pace first, but Nelson passed him before they had gone half a lap, gaining about a length and a half, which lead he held throughout the mile. In the second mile Nelson made another gain, which he held until the sixth mile when the midget again tried to pass Nelson, and for nearly a third of a mile they rode neck and neck. In the seventh, to the great dissatisfaction of the spectators, Michael dropped out and refused to ride any further. He immediately went to his training quarters and a short time afterwards left the vicinity of the track.

Death of George Hosmer.

with consumption, from which he died. Hosmer's wife died two years ago, which was a great loss to the famous athlete. He leaves a son, aged 17, and a daughter still younger. Hosmer was generous to a fault. He made thousands of dollars in rowing and had a happy faculty of making friends. He spent his money with a free hand.

Fayerweather Will Case Reopened.

New York, Aug. 23.—After eight years of litigation, when the Fayerweather will case was thought to be practically closed, Judge Liscomb Thursday signed orders which in effect opens the case again and allows the validity of the releases executed by the widow and next of kin to be gone into. Daniel B. Fayerweather was a leather merchant, who died in 1890, leaving a fortune of $6,000,000. The estate was divided into about $3,000,000 in specific bequests, including about $2,200,000 to 20 specific colleges and five hospitals.

Jurors Under Fire.

Georgetown, Ky., Aug. 23.—Quite a number of affidavits have been filed charging that Jurors Munson, Mulberry, Murphy, Craig, Crosswait and Musselman had formed an expressed opinion that Powers was guilty and ought to hang. The affidavit against Craig charges that he said, after being summoned and selected, that he would be controlled only by the instructions from the court.

Crushed Skull Caused Death.

Athol, Mass., Aug. 23.—Warren F. Briggs, 41 years old, an employe of the Athol and Orange Street railway, was on top of a car changing the trolley wire, and endeavored to step from one car to another. He fell between them and sustained a crushed skull. Death followed in a few hours.

Ask For $40,000 For a Life.

Detroit, Aug. 23.—The state federation of colored women adopted a memorial to President McKinley petitioning him to ask congress to pay to the widow of the late Postmaster Baker of Lake City, S. C., $40,000 in lieu of the life of her husband, which was lost during a race riot.

IN HANDS OF A MOB.

Ohio Militia Called Out to Quell a Serious Disturbance at Akron.

City Building and Prison Are Reduced to Ruins.

All on Account of Attempted Assault on a Child by a Negro.

Columbus, O., Aug. 23.—Governor Nash has received the following appeal from the mayor of Akron to quell the riot in that city:

"Akron, O., Aug. 23, 12:50 a. m.

"To His Excellency, Governor Nash, Columbus—Serious riot. City building attacked by a mob of several thousand. Three or four people killed, eight or 10 seriously wounded. Have ordered out both local companies. They are unable to cope with the situation. Please sanction what I have done by wire and order one or two companies either from Cleveland or Canton to come to Akron at once. Call me by telephone. If you desire further information wire me at once.

W. E. Young, Mayor."

Governor Nash came to the executive chamber in the capital at 1:30 a. m. and immediately took steps to furnish the Akron authorities assistance. Colonel Potter of the Fourth Ohio, which is now in camp at Minerva park, near this city, was ordered to hold his regiment in readiness to move on short notice, while the colonel himself was summoned to a conference with the governor.

The riot was precipitated because of a determined effort to lynch Louis Peck, a negro, accused of an attempt to assault the 6-year-old daughter of Theodore Maas. As a result a number of people have already been killed and injured. So far as known the dead and injured are: Glen Wade, aged 10, shot through the heart; John M. Davidson's 4-year-old child, shot dead in a baby cab. Fred V. Orwick, aged 25, is badly wounded with buckshot and is now dying. A man named Mull was shot in the head, and also in one of his legs. Another man, whose name could not be learned, was shot in the leg. It is also said that several police officers are wounded.

On Monday night Louis Peck offered to give Christina Maas a ride in his buggy. Christina accepted the invitation, and a few hours later she was found on the side of a road west of the city.

Officers had been searching for him since Monday night and he was arrested at the Union depot as he stepped from a train. In the police court Wednesday he was bound over to the common pleas court. His bail was placed at $5000.

The story of his confession spread through the city. Large crowds gathered about the city prison last night at 7:30 o'clock and forced in the doors. To satisfy the mob the officers suggested that a committee of six be appointed to search all the cells and go through every part of the building. This was done, and as the negro was not found a yell was made, "Now for the county jail." "Give us the nigger and we will deal with him."

A mad rush followed for the jail and soon the jail was in the hands of the mob. After going through the private apartments of the jail the crowd started to batter down the big iron doors. Deputy Sheriff Stone stood in front of the prison doors and made a speech. He informed the crowd that Peck had been removed from the city to Cleveland. He advised them to select a committee and said he would allow the committee to search the jail. A committee was quickly selected and the jail was searched, every cell being examined.

Satisfied that the negro was not there the mob then rushed across the street and forced open the doors of the county courthouse, where all the rooms were searched except the treasury department. A start was made to tear off the iron doors of the treasury department, but this was abandoned and thousands of men and boys rushed back to the city prison crying for the blood of Peck.

Shortly after midnight the mob broke into a hardware store and stole all the firearms and ammunition they could find, including guns, rifles and revolvers, and proceeded to the city building and opened fire on the defenders and finally set fire to the Columbia hall, which adjoins the city building.

At 1 o'clock riot held full sway in front of the city building, in which is located the city prison. The mob was composed mostly of boys. Columbia hall was burned to the ground, and the city building was also burned. The fire department was called out but was unable to do much work, as one fireman was shot and the rowdies cut the hose at every opportunity.

The city prison was again surrounded. Hundreds of people forced their way into the prison for the second time, insisting that Peck was there. Mayor Young at this time, appeared at one of the windows in the upper part of the building and addressed the mob, saying that Peck had been taken out of the prison at 4 o'clock by Sheriff Kelley, and driven out of the city in a closed carriage. The people in the mob would not believe the mayor, and continued to yell and demand that Peck be surrendered.

At 10 o'clock the mob began for a third time to attack the city prison. Some one in the crowd began shooting at the building. This was followed by several more shots. The officers appeared at the windows and began to shoot over the heads of the people. A man with a shotgun fired at the officers, and the firing became general. Hundreds of shots were exchanged, and one boy, name unknown, was carried dead from the street. It is certain that many men were wounded.

At 1:45 a. m. dynamite was being used in front of the city building. The first charge smashed all the windows in the building, and did much damage. All prisoners were released from the city prison. The crowd destroyed the city building with dynamite.

A DUEL WITH REVOLVERS.

Colored Men Got Into a Quarrel at a Picnic and One Is Fatally Shot.

Andover, Mass., Aug. 23.—At a colored picnic at Shawsheen grove Wednesday a quarrel between George Davenport and Edward L. Janifer culminated in a duel with revolvers, the result of which was the death of Davenfut from a bullet in the heart, the arrest of Janifer on the charge of murder, while William Norris received a stray bullet in the leg. As both Davenport and Janifer fired five shots at each other, there was something approaching a panic among the people in the grove, and it is surprising that others were not hit.

Both men had been drinking heavily, but it is believed that the quarrel was an old one. Friends tried in vain to part the men, fearing serious results, but the passions of the two raged too high, and after calling each other vile names both pulled revolvers and began shooting. At the fourth shot Davenport was hit in the nose and in the next he fell to the ground with a bullet in his heart, expiring soon after.

Janifer was taken before Judge Poor. He was arraigned on the charge of murder, pleaded not guilty and was held without bail for the September grand jury. Norris, who was shot in the leg, had the missile extracted and was not seriously injured.

Janifer, after being taken to the Lawrence jail, claimed that the shooting was in self defense. Very little is known of Davenport, except that he was of a roving disposition.

Has Passed the Mushroom Stage.

Washington, Aug. 23.—"Dawson appears to be starting in on a new era of prosperity," says United States Consul McCook, at Dawson City, in a report to the state department. "Supplies are plentiful and mining machinery in large quantities is coming into the city. Warehouses and wharves are being built, a new steamship company has started to do business, a new postoffice is in course of erection, and estimates are now in for a new courthouse, a new gold commissioner's office and an executive building for the commissioner of the Yukon territory. The Tanana mining district is becoming more and more prominent. The country is rich, but difficult of access."

Engineer Was Killed.

Fitchburg, Mass., Aug. 23.—The Montreal flyer on the Fitchburg division of the Boston and Maine railroad leaving Boston at 11 a. m. and Fitchburg at 12:35 p. m. ran into three cars of a work train between the state line and Fitzwilliams, N. H., Thursday. The engine of the flyer was derailed, Engineer Frank Hughes dying at Keene, while the passengers were more or less shaken up and the track was blocked for five hours. Fireman Judd of the flyer jumped and escaped with a few bruises. There was no one on the working cars.

Lawson's Horse Won $10,000 Purse.

Boston, Aug. 23.—The feature of the grand circuit meet at the Readville track Wednesday was the big Massachusetts stake, $10,000, the fifth renewal for 2.12 trotters, and Thomas W. Lawson's Bonalama won in straight heats. Despite the fact that the gelding was noticably lame, he made a new mark for himself, as well as for the event, 2:09½.

Most Points to Yankee's Credit.

Newport, R. I., Aug. 23.—Although starting first and finishing first in Wednesday's race of the 70-footers, the Yankee was not the winner. Rainbow won again, this time by 1m. 41s., with the Yankee second and the Virginia third. The points for the $1000 cup now stand: Yankee, 10; Mineola and Rainbow, each 8; Virginia, 1.

Fixing Up the Alabama.

New York, Aug. 23.—The United States battleship Alabama was docked at the navy yard today, and after being cleaned and painted will proceed to Boston on her official trial trip. She is in command of Captain Sargent, representing the Cramps, the builders, and the crew is composed of their employes.

The Disaster at Kensico.

New York, Aug. 23.—The wreckage of freight trains which was piled up at Kensico, on the Harlem division of the New York Central road, has been cleared away and trains are now running on schedule time. Three railroad employes were killed in the accident.

He Chased a Cat.

Boston, Aug. 23.—All because of a cat, Daniel McDonald, 11 years old, is at the city hospital with a fractured skull. The cat went up a tree at Daniel's home, 254 Shawmut avenue. Daniel climbed the tree to get it. He fell and struck his head.

Auction Sale of Household Furniture, Carriages, Harnesses and Cows—Walter P. Pinel.

Good Afternoon.

There are more deaths this month in the little stream known as Charles river, than in Boston harbor with its hundred miles of seashore and broad expanse.

There are good reasons for the enlargement of the Metropolitan park district. First, that some of the towns now outside are benefited. Second, that the expense may not fall as heavily on the towns now included. The town of Randolph abuts the Blue Hills reservation and is in closer touch with it than Quincy, Weymouth or Braintree, and so are Avon, Brockton, Stoughton, Sharon and Norwood because of street car connections. The town of Lincoln, where Chairman Charles Francis Adams of the commission lives, is also benefited and the following towns because of their close proximity to Middlesex Fells and Revere beach; Bedford, Burlington, Reading, Lynnfield, Peabody, Salem and Marblehead

Certainly Brockton receives a greater benefit from the Nantasket beach reservation than does Quincy, because it is as near and has no seashore of its own. So it is with Abington, Rockland and Whitman. But for the attractions at Nantasket, the Quincy beaches would be more popular.

During the intense heat which visited us in July, the discomfort of pedestrians passing along Coddington street made us more sensible of the great need of trees to furnish shade during the heated term in our climate. How we missed the glorious old elms that were cut down to make room for what is called improvements. Some little children said, "oh how hot this is," one day. When at mid-day the reflection of the heat from the sandy streets and rough gravelly sidewalks made the heat almost unbearable. The elms had sheltered the street there since the opening of Coddington school one-half century ago; they had furnished beauty as well as shade. We have no city forests and the Old Village Improvement society is taking a long Rip Van Winkle sleep, but we have an active and able Commissioner of Public Works, whom we expect will set sugar maple trees along Coddington street this fall.

Drift of Opinion.

☞ If Secretary Hay keeps on at the pace he is going, he can easily get a job with almost any European government when he retires at the end of another four years from his present position. Successful diplomats are at a premium the world over, and the rest of them are all taking their hats off to Mr. Hay these days.—Nashua Telegraph.

☞ A certain amount of custom will come to any business establishment with no other invitation than an open door. But until the merchants advertises the advantages which he has to offer to the public, he cannot expect a considerable increase in his business. In most enterprises newspaper advertising is as essential to success as good judgment in the selection of the articles to be sold.—Philadelphia Record.

☞ A young colored girl in Philadelphia tried to scare some of her neighbors by covering herself with a white sheet and pretending that she was a ghost. With a view of testing the genuineness of the apparition, one of the crowd threw a brick, and the joke ended in the death of the ghost-impersonator. There is such a thing as being too funny.—New Bedford Standard.

☞ "This is imperialism," exclaimed Senator Proctor as he stood in the East Room at the White House, Saturday afternoon, looking into the bright and interesting faces of the Cuban tearhers gathered there, after being received by President McKinley. It was a happy phrase. No more striking example could have been given of the splendid success of the Administration's policy in dealing with the territories brought under our guardianship by the war with Spain.—Milford Journal

☞ One often hears parents deplore the fact that their children have not the same opportunities which they had of learning to be useful in the home. Is it so much, though, that opportunities for usefulness do not exist, as that they are not embraced? If the members of the family, each according to his ability, took some share of the household work and responsibility the mother could more easily find some hours of freedom for herself, the servant question would be less pressing, and the strain of meeting the expenses of the family diminished. Then since it is acknowledged that childhood is the best time to learn to do things with the hands, why ask for manual training in the schools and shut it out of the home? Can there be any better way of giving men and women a sense of obligation to society than by teaching them early that they owe some service to the family? And if we wish to show others that we respect labor and believe in helping each other must not we show it by example in our households? We suggest that you consider: How under modern conditions children may be made helpful in the household.—Woman's Department New Bedford Standard.

For a Third Candidate.

Ex-Congressman William Everett of this city still advocates the nomination of a Presideatial ticket by the Nationals. In a letter to the Evening Post of New York, he says:

"Many of your contemporaries appear to assume that as no presidential candidates were nominated the other day at Indianapolis, either by the anti-imperialists or by the national men, whom many newspapers persist in calling anti-imperialists, none will be nominated, and that all who advocated a "third" candidate are necessarily thrown back on McKinley or Bryan.

"I beg to state for one that I believe that such candidates ought to be nominated; and if the nationals stand to their guns at New York on Sept. 5, they will be nominated. All citizens who believe that neither Bryan nor McKinley deserves the confidence of a patriotic man ought to attend in person or by delegate at that time.

"But if there are no separate candidates for president and vice-president there is an admirable chance in many close districts of choosing representatives in congress who belong to neither of the so-called great parties; and to select and chose such is a practical as well as noble object of ambition for independent voters.

"If there are no candidates for president and vice-president for which an independent can conscientiously vote, it is no immoral thing to refuse to vote, and not soil ones hands by grappling with any befouled palms."

Robbed of $233.

Samuel Cutler, a Hebrew junk dealer, is $233 poorer this morning than he was last night. Cutler lives at 83 West street, and when he went to bed last night he had $233 stored away in his trousers pocket. Nothing happened to disturb his peaceful slumbers, but when he awoke this morning the money was gone. Just how the money disappeared is at present a mystery. The loss was reported to Chief Ripley.

TODAY'S COURT.

Robert, William and George C. Ballou, three juveniles charged with larceny of band wire from the Quincy & Boston street railway were put on probation for one month.

James Ward of Quincy was arraigned for drunkenness and for assault on Officer Goodhue. Case continued until next Wednesday.

Herbert L. Washburn and Charles C. Smith were fined $5 each for violation of the liquor law at Cohasset.

The continued case of James Lyons was called and he paid a fine of $5.

The continued case of Charles H. Smith for defrauding a boarding house at Houghs Neck was called and again continued for two months.

—A certain young man in Middleboro has confided to friends his belief that there is nothing more annoying than to lose one's false teeth while in bathing. He was bathing himself in the cool waters of the Nemasket, the other day, and after a flight downward emerged from the drink spouting vigorously—so vigorously, in fact, that his false molars were detached and lost themselves in the limpid stream. He has raked the river-bed and dove repeatedly, but at last accounts he was still gumming his food.—Brockton Enterprise.

HOUGHS NECK.

The season at the beach is drawing to an end, and by the first of September many of the summer residents will depart for their homes. Not that September is a disagreeable month to be at the beach but people must get home in order to send their children to school.

The season as a whole has been a good one. The number of transient visitors has succeeded by far that of many years. This is especially so since the free transfer system on the street railway went into effect. Scores of people go down every day with their children, and few are the cars that do not go loaded. This means that another season it will be necessary for the railroad to run fifteen minute cars to accommodate the travel.

One thing that would be a great improvement would be the widening of Sea street from the Willows down, and the removing of a number of those old buildings that line the street on either side between Centre road and Dunham's. Many of these buildings do not add to the beauty of the beach and if out of the way a better class of buildings would probably be put up.

Another thing that would also prove an attraction is a boulevard or drive along the shore front. All these improvements may come sometime.

Recent guests at the Hotel Fensmere are: H. A. Baker, Rockland; W. W. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Fiske, Joseph J. Vogel, John Buck, John Clark, Mrs. J. Minihan, Boston; R. L. Williams, B. O. Tool, Brockton; Mrs. John Farrington, M. S. Davenport, Amy A. Hunt, George N. Robinson, Milton; John R. Farrington, Canton; E. R. Hunt, Hyde Park; Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Gosnay, Wakefield; Charles McCarthy, M. D. Toohey, John Gilpin, Boston; Mr. and Mrs. S. Hollis, Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Keelar, Braintree; Mrs. O. LeParkman, T. Johnson, Randolph; Margaret T. Jackson, Mrs. Reagan, T. J. Reagan, Dorchester; Emma F. Rankin, New York; Mrs. W. L. Leonard, Brookville; Mrs. W. N. Leonard, Worcester.

A cottage is being built on Centre road by Mrs. Elizabeth Kelley.

Charles Manning and family are in the Star cottage on Great Hill.

Frank Carlyle and family returned to their winter home in Malden on Wednesday.

Dr. Drummie and family of Manet avenue have closed their cottage, and have gone to Europe.

A benefit will be given the Fensmere orchestra Friday evening at Fensmere dance hall.

Police Captain W. H. Brown of Station 13, Boston, Mrs. Brown, Miss M. G. and Miss H. H. Brown and Master Brown are guests at the Fensmere hotel this week.

But small catches of mackerel are being made at present.

A cottage is being built on Manet avenue but no one seems to know for whom.

Political Potpourri.

It is reported from Republican headquarters that the campaign this year will have more speech-making than of late, especially since 1896. As the nominations will not be made until the first week in October, the campaign will be short.

The hopes of H. A. Atwood are getting desperate. It is said that without the support of Mr. Woolley's ward Atwood cannot hope to win his Tenth district fight. It was at first proposed to make Woolley sealer of weights of Boston but now he is suggested for assessor.

But one ward of Boston has 5,000 voters by the new voting lists, while one has only 1,818, and five others less than 3,000. Quincy has over 4,000 voters.

The Hon. William Warren Towle, former Senator from Ward 12, tells the Post that he has absolute confidence in the intentions of the Republicans of the ward to give him a congressional delegation. "I desire," he says, "to deny most decidedly that the delegations made up for me in Ward 12, or in any other part of the district, are in the interest of any other candidate or have any second choice in mind.

—Although the valuation of Fall River increased $1,963,094, the tax rate continues at $17.80, the rate of last year.

—There are only a few more dog days. Where has the summer gone?

HERE AND THERE.

Local Brevities of the City of Presidents.

Mrs. Marcus Wight is in New Hampshire.

Mrs. Joseph Hogan of Cottage street is in Newport, R. I.

Russell Newcomb, a son of Maurice Newcomb, has typhoid fever.

There will be a band concert at Loring's corner tomorrow evening.

Miss Carrie Skilton will spend the coming week at Northboro, Mass.

The residence of W. E. Howe on Bigelow street has been wired for electricity.

Eaton Bros.' supply of ice gave out this week, and Rogers Bros. will have to buy next week.

Newcomb square is becoming thickly populated with poles, no less than 24 being grouped there.

C. F. Randall will accompany T. A. Addison on Sunday to his summer retreat near Bath, Maine.

Mrs. Jones of South street, who is very ill, was removed to the city hospital, Wednesday morning.

The corn on Walker street is not the only tall corn in Atlantic. There is some on Myrtle street that outtops it by several inches.

The valuable dog of Alexander Thompson of Elm street, recently injured by being struck in the leg with a stone, has been killed.

A field day will be held at South Weymouth Park, Saturday, in which a large number of athletes will compete for purses amounting to $175.

Des Moines street, the new street between South street and Howard avenue is nearly completed, and will be used in preference to either South or Winter street.

Auctioneer Johnson will have a large all-day sale at the residence of Walter P. Pinel at Quincy Point next Thursday. Horses, cows, carriages, furniture, etc., will be sold.

It is suggested that a monster petition be sent to the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. for a more attractive front on the new depot at Quincy, which is approaching completion.

Although the street railway is issuing a large number of free transfers, it is said that the revenue has increased since the transfers went into effect. The travel is certainly larger.

The boys are planning to give Mr. and Mrs. Charles Crane a grand serenade on their return. Perhaps they have heard that Mr. Crane has some choice grape juice in his cellar.

A thoroughbred horse attached to a a fashionable rig gave an exhibition of rolling in front of the Stone church about 5 P. M. Wednesday, to the discomfiture of the coachman, who happened to be alone.

Miss Chittenden, a young woman recently from Foochou, China, will speak in the chapel of the Bethany Congregational church, Friday evening, at half past seven. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

F. E. Parlin, the new superintendent of schools, has leased the house on Arlington street recently occupied by Superintendent Lull, and will move in next week. The house in Natick vacated by Mr. Parlin will be occupied by his successor at that place.

Henry Hallett and wife have been taking trolly rides this summer. One day this week they thought they would take a trip on the new Brockton and Plymouth line as far as Bryantville and return that night. Owing to the popularity of the route the cars were so crowded they were forced to remain with friends until next morning.

A notable example of a big result produced by small means is found in the fact that lead pencils users have whittled away several big forests of cedar trees in Europe, and the supply of wood suitable for lead pencil is practically exhausted in the old world.

Genesee Pure Food Co., Le Roy, N. Y.:

Gentlemen:—I must say in regard to GRAIN-O that there is nothing better or healthier. We have used it for years. My brother was a great coffee drinker. He was taken sick and the doctor said coffee was the cause of it, and told us to use GRAIN-O. We got a package but did not like it at first, but now would not be without it. My brother has been well ever since we started to use it.

Yours truly, LILLIE SOCHOR.

Evelina, Countess Pisani, died on June 25 near Este, in north Italy. She was the daughter of Dr. Julius van Millingen, the physician who attended the poet Byron in his fatal sickness at Missolonghi in 1824. She was born at Constantinople in 1830 and reared and educated in Rome. Her marriage with Count Almoro Pisani occurred in 1852. She is remembered as a woman of fine intellect and gracious and charming manners.

Mme. Duperron is one of the characters to be seen at the Paris exposition. She has a newspaper booth and sells the English and American papers chiefly, her knowledge of our language making her a popular figure with the English speaking visitors. She performed the same office during the Paris exposition of 1855, when Lord Henry Seymour, Lord Lytton, the Marquis of Dufferin and others of the "old English colony" were among her patrons.

VALUATION PLAN FAVORED.

As the Basis for Apportionment of Cost of Metropolitan Parks.

Brookline Would However Include Population and Special Benefits.

Hyde Park Contends Dozens from Brookline to One from Hyde Park will Ride over Parkways.

The commission appointed by the supreme court on the apportionment of the cost of the Metropolitan park system continued its hearing Wednesday in room 227 state house and is reported by the Globe as follows:

John C. Williams representing the town of Brookline was the first speaker. He read a list of towns which he believed had received special benefits from the park system.

Mr. Williams contended that the boulevards benefited only the places in which they were constructed.

Chairman Adams referred to the fact that the bicyclist of every city at some time during the year made a run over such a boulevard as the parkway between West Medford and Winchester, along the shores of the Mystic lakes.

Mr. Williams said that the metropolitan sewer apportionment was based partly on valuation and partly on population. That principle has obtained since.

The legislature, in the kindred matter of water supply, put the heaviest burden upon Boston, which was in crying need of water. In some other cities one-third of the cost was put on valuation and two-thirds on population. The legislature took into account and the population.

THE BETTERMENTS

Mr. Williams argued that in the matter of parks not only the population should be considered in making an apportionment, but whether or not that population is near enough to receive any benefit.

These reservations and boulevards do not fill the wants of the people of Brookline. They are too distant.

"We ask you to make the apportionment on valuation, population and special benefits."

Mr. Slocum of Newton said the area of his city is 20 square miles and the population 27,590. There is about one-third of an acre to each person. The city park areas are 160 acres. The boulevards are eight miles in length.

The metropolitan park takings in Newton amount to 118 acres.

He read a table of the distances from his city to the various metropolitan parks.

Mr. Slocum submitted that population should have substantial consideration in the apportionment. The parks are for the people. He did not think the legislature intended to place the whole burden on valuation.

Mr. Grover, representing Canton and Needham, claimed that the

would be by valuation. If a town or city had received direct pecuniary benefits, which could be figured in dollars and cents, then that town or city ought to pay for such benefit. His town, in his opinion had received no such benefits.

Mr. Tower of Cohasset said that no part of the Nantasket reservation lay in that town. He argued that Cohasset is today not part of the metropolitan park district except for the limited purpose of meeting the Nantasket expenditures.

He could not conceive of any special benefit to real estate because of the taking of these large areas.

Cohasset on a basis of population would pay 47-100 of 1 per cent; on a basis of valuation 96-100 of 1 per cent. Yet he claimed against the interests of his town, that apportionment should be based on valuation.

Cohasset people avoided Nantasket.

Mr. Burdette of Hingham, also representing Hull, said that Hingham was put into the park district to make it symmetrical not for its own benefit.

Hingham has acres and acres of pastures and wood and, great breathing places where one can stroll and pick flowers. She needs no parks.

Hingham has a large water front, bathing and boating facilities, and few of her people

GO TO NANTASKET.

The necessity for these parks was created by the population, the enjoyment of these parks is by the population. The apportionment should be based on valuation and population.

The state and nation have taken about 12 per cent. of the valuation of Hull. The little town is bearing a burden for the benefit of the whole state. Hull's tax rate is over $18 per $1,000, and she should be dealt with kindly, so much of her taxable real estate having been exempted from taxation.

At the afternoon session Mr. Cotter, representing Hyde Park, said the great question to be dealt with is the health of this district. Hyde Park believes that all the towns in the district have been benefited and does not attempt to escape from her fair share of the cost. The town does not admit that it has received any benefit not secured by the other towns.

Some 360 acres of taxable property have been taken for park puproses and there is notice of further takings.

Hyde Park has built highways of her own which could be used to get to the Blue Hills reservation as well as the parkway.

Mr. Williams should be reminded that for each person from Hyde Park who will ride in carriage or on bicycle over the parkway there will be a dozen from Brookline.

Hyde Park has 12,000 population, about $10,000,000 valuation, and last year had a tax rate of $20 per thousand.

Mr. Cotter argued that apportionment should be based on the ABILITY TO PAY,

that is on the valuation. That is the simplest and the fairest.

No town had derived a special benefit that is taxable, a benefit that is not common to all the towns. The betterments were assessed on individual citizens and were practically collected when the park commission settled land damages.

Mr. Nason, for Chelsea and Revere, advocated valuation as a basis.

Mr. Cabot, representing Stoneham, believed in taking into consideration population, valuation, area. Boston needed more breathing space; if she had waited 10 years she would have had to go 10 miles further out. Stoneham didn't need a large park. Years hence when Stoneham's population becomes more dense, then you can increase the ratio to be paid by that town.

Stoneham has been injured in some respects by the park system. A new railroad, which was planned, was cut off by the takings. The people must travel 12 1-2 miles to get 8 1-2 miles to the state house.

Mr. Hammond—What do you suggest should be done for Stoneham?

Mr. Cabot—You should put a money value on the lack of communication—I know it is hard thing to do—and subtract that sum from what otherwise would be charged against Stoneham.

Mr. Cabot said that not only should population be considered, but also the density of population.

Mr. Abbott of Watertown urged the basis of valuation. He declared that the theory of special benefits was as unsubstantial as the mists of the morning.

Property in the district must pay for the public improvements regardless of distance and use.

This is a single district for taxation for a single object.

Crossing Accident.

George W. Wentworth reports that he met with quite a severe accident Tuesday morning at the Willard street crossing of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad at West Quincy. He says it was about 3 o'clock in the morning and that he was on his way to Boston after a load of swill. As he attempted to cross the track he ran into a flat car that had been left standing on the crossing. He was thrown out and received quite a severe injury to his shoulder.

CITY BREVITIES.

A Local Budget with the News in a Nut Shell.

Officer James W. Murray is quite ill with pneumonia.

Mrs. Pelney of the Sewer department has returned from her vacation.

Walter Blake of Webster street is taking a two weeks' vacation.

A. L. Baker has exchanged his yacht Ziska for the yacht Mudjekeewis.

A. B. Cook of Webster street is spending the first part of his vacation at home.

Miss C. S. Hubbard is disposing of her shirt waists and summer goods at very low prices.

The office of the School Committee, which has been closed during the summer, has been reopened.

That electric light on Merrymount road needs attention. It has not been burning for several nights.

Miss Gertrude Hall of Newbury avenue has returned from Cohasset where she has been visiting friends.

It is reported that the fire in the Trask house on West street Wednesday morning was the work of an incendiary.

Fred Ayer, a friend of W. F. Hoehn, was his guest Wednesday. Some weeks ago Mr. Ayer left his home in Morristown, N. J., for a bicycle trip. He first road to Buffalo and thence to Quincy. He will wheel home from here.

Wadsworth & Co. are hustling today trying to attend to all their callers. Their manufacturers' ends sale commenced today and the people seem to appreciate the bargains offered. If the sale continues they will have to add to their force of clerks

Arthur W. Brayley of the Boston Globe was the guest of George F. Elcock Wednesday night, preparatory for an early start for Ponkapoag pond, Canton, on a fishing trip. Mr. Brayley is an expert with the rod and reel and while he gives points on handling large bass, Mr. Elcock may stir up a fox or a "rattler."

Capt. A. L. Baker took a party of young ladies for a sail Wednesday evening in the yacht Ziska. In the party were: Miss Ida Kingman, Miss Ruth Hayden, Miss Jennette Faunce, Miss Cora Greer, Miss Florence Greer, Miss Bessie Merrill, Miss Bessie Brown, Miss Elizabeth Nickerson and Miss Willietta King.

A horse attached to A. T. Jordan's milk wagon, and driven by Ernest Packard, became frightened this morning on Washington street by the steam roller. The horse jumped, breaking the whiffletree. The animal then turned and dashed into the yard of N. B. Furnald, when he succeeded in trampling down several flower beds before he was captured.

One of Atlantic's enterprising young men came very near losing his life this week. He went down to Muswetusket landing somewhat uncertainly; he met with great difficulty in pushing his tender from the wharf, and when he succeeded, found his feet in the boat and his body dragging in the water. He was unconscious of his danger, and would have been drowned had it not been for the earnest effort of Emelio Paul, who brought the young man safely ashore and then swam out after his hat. There are two ways of being enterprising.

Fresh eggs are being imported from China. Over 30,000 of them, mostly duck eggs, have arrived in Chicago during the last three weeks. Each egg is wrapped in a thick coating of black mud of a putty-like consistency. The eggs are said to be as fresh as if laid yesterday.

Madame Yale's HAIR TONIC

Ladies and Gentlemen.—It has gone on record that Madame Yale's Excelsior Hair Tonic is the first and only remedy known to chemical science found to be a genuine hair specific. It has an affinity for the human hair for nourishing and invigorating its entire structure. It is antiseptic in character, as well as stimulating; its action upon the scalp and hair is truly wonderful, inasmuch as it has never been known in a single instance to fail to cure scalp diseases and to create a luxuriant growth of healthy, beautiful hair. It stops hair falling within twenty-four hours and brings back the natural color to gray hair in nearly every instance. It is not a dye; it is not sticky or greasy; on the contrary it makes the hair soft, youthful, beautiful and glossy; keeps it in curl. It is a perfect hair dressing, and can be used by ladies, gentlemen or children as a daily toilet requisite. Its influence is delightfully soothing.

All Dealers sell it, $1 per bottle. Mail orders may be sent direct to the manufacturer,

DELAY IS DANGEROUS.

Dark Future For China Unless Powers Reach an Understanding Quickly.

Russia Continues to Pour Troops Into Far East.

Chinese Officials Requested a Conference Previous to Relief of Pekin.

London, Aug. 23.—The Daily Chronicle publishes an interview with the Japanese minister in London, Kato Takaaki, which represents him as having said:

"The empress is the heart and soul of China. So long as she lives, so long as she remains in China, whether the supreme power is taken from her or not, she will always be the greatest force, the one above all others to be reckoned with. The difficulty will be to get any one who can speak for her. I fear that the influence of Li Hung Chang is now of extremely little weight. The powers must come to a final understanding quickly. Riots, anarchy, bloodshed and misery throughout China will be the inevitable result of a policy that does not immediately disclose itself. The government must be re-estblished."

The Japanese envoy expressed his approval of the reported American suggestion regarding a conference of the powers, and said he believed that satisfactory pecuniary compensation could be secured if the resources of China were properly developed, despite the fact that her present revenues are pledged.

Field Marshal Count Von Waldersee, according to The Daily Mail's correspondent, expresses the opinion that his labors in China will be of long duration, "as pacification will be a difficult undertaking."

Three hundred and seventy-five thousand Russian troops are already in the far east, or on the way there by land and sea, or under orders to embark. This statement is made by the Moscow correspondent of The Daily Graphic, who adds that mobilization is in progress all over European Russia, and that there are now at Odessa 14 steamers chartered to take troops.

According to a St. Petersburg special a telegram has been received at the Russian capital from Shanghai announcing the departure of Li Hung Chang for Pekin.

"Today 1500 Americans attacked the Imperial palace," says a dispatch to The Morning Post from Pekin, dated Aug. 15, "and captured four of the courts. The American flag is flying over the imperial granary. The imperial bank has been looted."

Describing events prior to the relief, The Morning Post correspondent cables: On Aug. 12 the tsung li yamen requested a conference with a view to peace. No armistice was granted, however, and that night we endured the longest fusillade of the whole siege. It Lasted 12 hours. On Aug. 13 the tsung li yamen begged to be excused from any conference, saying that the members were too busy. Later they wrote that they had forbidden firing on us and would court-martial any who disobeyed. During the evening many shells fell in the legation compound.

Opposed to Medical Treatment.

Scranton, Pa., Aug. 23.—Rev. Charles F. Newell, Mrs. C. S. Boyd and Mrs. Louise Eilhart are under arrest on information furnished by Coroner Roberts, who charges them with involuntary manslaughter in causing the death of Mrs. Lydia Newell. Mr. Newell was the dead woman's husband. Mrs. Boyd and Mrs. Eilhart are believers in the Dowie faith, the doctrines of which are antagonistic to medical treatment. Mrs. Newell died after childbirth. Mrs. Boyd and Mrs. Eilhart were with her at the time. The coroner's jury accused the husband and the two women of neglect.

Peaceful Settlement Probable.

London, Aug. 23.—Numerous dispatches appear in the morning papers regarding the Bulgaro-Roumanian situation, growing out of the demand of Roumania for the suppression of the Macedonian revolutionary committee, whose headquarters is at Sofia. What appears the most reliable summary of the latest developments says: "The conviction prevails that the conflict between Roumania and Bulgaria has now lost much of its acuteness, and that in the end, Bulgaria will satisfy Roumanian demands."

Italy Has a Duel Fever.

London, Aug. 23.—The Rome correspondent of The Daily Mail says: During the last few weeks duels have caused a perfect slaughter in Italy. As many as four duelists were killed in different towns last Saturday. During the last year 2400 duels have been fought in Italy and 480 deaths have resulted. Most of these combats were between army officers and based on the most trivial pretexts.

A Proclamation From Kruger.

London, Aug. 23.—President Kruger, according to a dispatch from Lourenzo Marquez to The Daily Express, has issued a proclamation counter to the proclamation issued by Lord Roberts. The Transvaal president says: "It will help you nothing to lay down your arms or to leave the commandoes. Every step homeward means a step nearer St. Helena.

Counterfeiter Convicted.

Philadelphia, Aug. 23.—Bartholomew Ruello, an Italian, was yesterday found guilty of making, having in his possession and passing counterfeit silver dollars. Sentence was deferred, pending the disposition of a motion for a new trial. It is charged that Ruello has in his time made and put into circulation $200,000 worth of bogus money.

An Ex-Governor's Downfall.

Boston, Aug. 23.—Ex-Governor Moses of South Carolina, who has been in the criminal courts several times, was fined $15 in the municipal court Wednesday for larceny.

ISSUES OF THE DAY.

Discussed by Bryan in a Tour Through His Old District In Nebraska.

Falls City, Neb., Aug. 23.—Wednesday was a busy day for Mr. Bryan. It was after 1 o'clock in the morning when he reached Auburn, his first stopping place after leaving Lincoln. At 8 o'clock he made an hour's address. At Tecumseh, the next stopping place, he spoke briefly and then started upon a 21-mile drive across country to Pawnee. At Pawnee, as at Auburn and Tecumseh, there was a good attendance, as there was also at the night meeting, held at this point. The towns visited are all in Mr. Bryan's old district, the first. Mr. Bryan spoke upon all the questions at issue, paying more attention than usual to the financial and trust questions. He also gave the usual degree of attention to militarism and repeated his arguments against the American ownership of the Filipinos or their country.

Mr. Bryan paid his respects to Senator Hanna in the following terms: "This morning's papers tell us that Mr. Hanna yesterday went down into New Jersey, the home of the trusts, to make a speech. Did he tell the Republicans down there that the Republican party was going to win and not worry? Oh, no. He said to them: 'You want to watch out. Don't be over-confident. We have got a great fight on hand. We have got to fight hard.' And then I imagine I can see him put his hand behind him and say: 'Come down.' Isn't that a good place for a man to go to scare the corporations into contributions?"

On imperialism he said: "I don't want our drumbeat heard around the world, but I do want the light of American liberty to encircle the entire globe."

Republican Doctrine Expounded.

Old Orchard, Me., Aug. 23.—Four addresses, not including that of the chairman, were crowded into Wednesday afternoon at the Republican mass meeting. The speakers were Senator Lodge of Massachusetts, Lee Fairchild of California, General King of Maryland and Congressman McCall of Massachusetts. The meeting was held in the camp ground grove, whose seating capacity was fully taxed by the large audience assembled. The Massachusetts senator devoted his chief attention to a discussion of the question of imperialism. He said the Democrats have called it the "paramount" issue, because of their love of that word, which was applied by Cleveland to the commissioner whom he sent to Hawaii to haul down the American flag. The senator declared that the cry of imperialism is a bogus issue, and that the Democrats are weakening on it. He criticized Bryan's promise, and said that the only way to give the Filipinos a stable government was by force.

Bostonians Talked to Maine Democrats.

Portland, Me., Aug. 23.—The Democrats opened the campaign in this city last night with speeches by Gamaliel Bradford and John F. Fitzgerald of Boston. J. J. Lynch, the Democratic candidate for congress, presided. Mr. Bradford presented the usual anti-imperialistic arguments, among others stating that President McKinley could be impeached for making war against the Filipinos. Congressman Fitzgerald had something to say about prohibition in general as exemplified in this state.

A Denial From Jones.

Chicago, Aug. 23.—At Democratic headquarters, Senator Jones, chairman of the national committee, said: "I see a story printed in the newspapers to the effect that Senator J. P. Jones has followed Senator Stewart into the Republican camp, and that Senator Teller of Colorado is showing the greatest indifference to the Bryan cause. I pronounce both reports as absolutely without any foundation. Senator J. P. Jones is heartily enlisted in the fight for the Democratic party and for Mr. Bryan this year. As for Senator Teller, I can say that there is not a man in the Democratic party who manifests greater solicitude for Mr. Bryan's election than has Senator Teller.

Wisconsin Democrats' Convention.

Milwaukee, Aug. 23.—The Democratic state convention completed its labors last night by nominating Louis G. B. Rich for governor and a full state ticket and ratifying the list of presidential electors. The platform adopted endorses the Kansas City platform, denounces trusts and demands various state reforms.

Winslow Doesn't Know About It.

Boston, Aug. 23.—Erving Winslow, secretary of the Anti-Imperialist league, when asked regarding the report that Andrew Carnegie would take the stump for Bryan, said that he regarded the matter as rumor only. The league, at least, knew nothing about it.

Lake Steamer Sunk.

Detroit, Aug. 23.—Steamer Specular, laden with iron ore, was sunk off Point Pelee, Lake Erie, at 3 a. m., Wednesday, the result of colliding with an unknown vessel, described as a large freighter. The latter passed on up in the darkness after the collision. Thirteen men of the Specular's crew of 18 escaped in their small boat. The other five perched in the topmast rigging, which protruded above the water. Later they were picked up and brought to this city.

Printers Are Dissatisfied.

Montpelier, Vt., Aug. 23.—There is great indignation among the printers over the awards of state printing Wednesday. The bulk of the work has gone to a New York house, the printers in the state being almost entirely ignored. The commissioners include Hiram A. Huse and Fred A. Howland, who are law partners of ex-Governor Dillingham, and the latter is a candidate for United States senator. The situation promises to have a direct political bearing.

Policeman Saved His Life.

New York, Aug. 23.—William Ryan, who says he was at one time head property man at Keith's theater, Boston, tried to jump from the Brooklyn bridge in an effort to commit suicide. A policeman prevented the leap in the nick of time. Ryan was out of work and despondent.

Gentry's Record Reduced.

Goshen, N. Y., Aug. 23.—Joe Patchen went a mile on the Goshen track Wednesday in 2:03¾, paced by a running horse. John R. Gentry made the track record of 2:06 two years ago.

How Will She End?

Just budding into womanhood, so fresh, so fair and fine that we turn to watch her as she passes, she trips along the street a picture of health and beauty. Among the passing crowd of worn and wrinkled women, she looks a being from another world. Will she ever be like them? Could they once have been as fair as she? No beauty can last under the strain and drain of female weakness, from which the majority of women suffer in a greater or less degree. They might preserve their fairness of face and form if they would cure the disastrous diseases which affect the womanly organs. Women are cured of such diseases by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It stops the enfeebling drains, heals inflammation and ulceration, cures bearing-down pains, strengthens the nervous system, and restores the general health. It contains no opium, cocaine or other narcotic.

"I had been a great sufferer from female weakness," writes Mrs. M. B. Wallace, of Muenster, Cook Co., Texas. "I tried four doctors and none did me any good. I suffered six years, but at last I found relief. I followed your advice, and took eight bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and four of his 'Golden Medical Discovery.' I now feel like a new woman. I have gained eighteen pounds."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure biliousness.

Breached Three Gates Before Imperial Palace In the "Sacred City."

Russians Afterward Occupied the Approaches.

Fires, Fighting and Dissension Reported to Be Prevailing at Pekin.

London, Aug. 24.—A copyrighted Associated Press dispatch from Pekin, dated Aug. 15, via Chefoo, Aug. 22, says: The Americans breached three gates before the imperial palace and occupied the approaches to the last wall. Captain Henry J. Reilly, battery F, Fifth United States artillery, and five privates were killed, and 16 were wounded. During the afternoon the Americans returned to camp, pending a conference between the generals. Thereupon, the Russians occupied the approaches to the palace.

Captain Reilly was standing on the wall and directing the fire of his battery, when a bullet struck him in the mouth, killing him instantly. The battery hammered at the gates until they fell. In the meantime the infantry cleared the streets and walls, where the Chinese soldiers, with a fine cover, stubbornly resisted. The fighting was close and sharp.

A French battery, while shelling the approaches to the palace, narrowly missed the Americans.

General Chaffee and Mr. Conger are conferring regarding the diplomatic features of the situation.

Fire, fighting and dissension are apparently following in the wake of the relief of Pekin. The Daily Mail publishes dispatches from the Chinese capital, dated as late as Aug. 17, declaring that a great fire was then raging in the imperial city. The Russian commander had declined to accept the decision of the other generals not to violate the imperial precinct, and street fighting was going on.

General Chaffee, so it is asserted, maintained that the Chinese had been adequately punished already, and that it would be unwise to take the imperial palace. This explains the withdrawal of the Americans after breaching three gates. The Russian general, however, maintained that his government had declared war against China, and that, therefore, there was no reason to prevent him carrying hostilities into the sacred precincts.

Judging from various, and in many cases, contradictory dispatches that have reached Europe this morning from Pekin, the commanders eventually adopted a middle course, for a Reuter telegram asserts that the combined forces are now placing sentries in the palace buildings to prevent looting and destruction. Hence it is presumed that the imperial buildings, although captured, will not be destroyed. The fires appear to be incendiary and to be caused by the Chinese themselves.

All the dispatches point to the fact that, when the latest message received here left Pekin, the commanders were somewhat at sea regarding their future action, all awaiting instructions from their governments.

The foreign residents appear to have been sent to Tientsin, although the St. Petersburg correspondent of The Daily Mail says the ministers will not leave Pekin until negotiations for indemnity are under way. Neither the commanders nor the diplomats were in communication with the Chinese government on Aug. 17. They were then searching for Prince Tuan.

Among the puzzling reports as to the whereabouts of the empress dowager is one from St. Petersburg that she is in the vicinity of Pekin, but surrounded. The emperor seems to have disappeared completely.

St. Petersburg dispatches announce good progress in the Manchurian campaign. The town of Mergen was captured Aug. 18, with trifling Russian loss, while the Chinese suffered severely, leaving 10 guns, 700 rifles and large quantities of ammunition in the hands of the Russians.

The reports of risings in northern Korea are confirmed. It is believed that these are not due to ill will toward foreigners, but to local dissatisfaction. The Korean government is sending troops to the disaffected districts.

Sanderson Academy's Celebration.

Ashfield, Mass., Aug. 24.—The 22nd annual dinner of the Sanderson academy proved one of the most interesting ever held in the history of the famous New England educational and literary institution. Professor Norton of Harvard presided, and addresses were made by Rev. John W. Chadwick of Brooklyn, Professor Royce of Harvard, President Hall of Clark university, Worcester, and Richard H. Dana of Cambridge.

Chinese Diplomat at New York.

New York, Aug. 24.—Among the passengers who arrived Thursday per steamer Huden from Colon was Whang Chung Hun, Chinese minister to Peru, en route to Pekin.

Union Man Was Discharged.

South Pittsburg, Tenn., Aug. 24.—About 350 employes of the Tennessee Coal and Iron company struck Thursday because of the discharge of a union man.

PRESENCE DEMANDED IN WASHINGTON.

President McKinley Unlikely to Attend the Grand Army Encampment.

Washington, Aug. 24.—The news that the president had changed his plans in regard to the Chicago trip, practically deciding that he cannot go, gave rise to a rumor that he contemplated calling an extra session of congress. This report is without foundation. A member of the cabinet to whom it was submitted said: "I have no reason to believe that an extra session is thought of; certainly the president's Chicago plans indicate nothing of the kind. I know he has no present intention of summoning congress in extra session."

Another official of the government, discussing the matter, says the president's action was taken on account of the Chinese situation. It is expected that information may reach this government at any moment requiring immediate action, and it is the wish of the president to give personal attention to everything that may develop in China from now until there is a settlement of the existing conditions. The president, it is said, realizes that while he is going and coming from Chicago, and while participating in the celebration at that city, he could not possibly receive information and give it the attention which the acute stage of affairs in China demands.

The president fully realizes that another crisis is rapidly approaching in China, and that momentous questions, which may involve the life or death of the empire, may at any time be presented for solution.

Guardian Didn't Show Up.

Paris, Aug. 24.—As the result of inattention or a blunder over 100 cadets from the United States training ship Monongahela were obliged to sleep in the parks and streets of Paris Wednesday night. The vessel is at Havre, and the boys came here to spend two days at the exposition, and arrangements were made to house them. The party was in charge of a lieutenant, but when night arrived the lieutenant was missing. They were unacquainted with the language, or the location of the house. Some of them met hospitable Americans, who took them to hotels, but only a few were so lucky.

Resorted to Foul Tactics.

New York, Aug. 24.—For the second time within two months Oscar Gardner and Joe Bernstein met last night. On the former occasion Bernstein was disqualified for butting in the 18th round, and last night he was again disqualified. He threw Gardner over his head in the 12th round with a cross buttock hold, which was done deliberately, and Referee Foley immediately gave the bout to Gardner.

Employers Object to a Conference.

Scranton, Pa., Aug. 24.—It can be stated almost to a certainty that none of the coal operators of this locality will accept the invitation to confer with the United Mine Workers at Hazelton next Monday. They say they are willing to deal with the respective employes in considering any grievances that may be presented, but will not suffer outsiders to interfere in their negotiations with their men.

Stacy Made a Good Record.

Worcester, Mass., Aug. 24.—Forty shooters from different parts of the country shot Thursday in the first of the Sportsmen's club two days' tournament. A. J. Stacey of Belchertown was high gun for the first day, breaking 113 of 120 on the regular program. H. G. Wheeler of Marlboro was second, with 112, and B. Leroy scored 111. High gun will be determined at the close of today's program.

Killed In a Trifling Dispute.

New York, Aug. 24.—John Tietgen, a waiter in a Brooklyn restaurant, was shot and instantly killed Thursday by Benjamin Puglis, a colored man. Puglis ordered a lunch, which, not being served quickly enough to suit him, caused him to enter into an altercation, during which the negro shot Tietgen, killing him instantly. The murderer was locked up.

Must Develop Higher Speed.

Washington, Aug. 24.—The navy department has been notified by the Harlan and Hollingsworth company, builders of the 30-knot torpedo boat Stringham, that the vessel made a very satisfactory trial trip, but that she failed to develop her full contract speed, and they have requested permission of the department to fit her with higher speed propellers.

Canadian's Protest Overruled.

Halifax, Aug. 24.—The single scull race between James Ten Eyck of Worcester, Mass., and Harry Vail of St. John was rowed Thursday evening. Ten Eyck crossed the line in 22:05 minutes and Vail two seconds later. The latter protested the result, but the protest was overruled. The distance of the race was three miles with a turn.

Johnson Takes Oath of Office.

Washington, Aug. 24.—William M. Johnson, the newly appointed first assistant postmaster general, arrived in Washington Thursday and took the oath of office. Later he received the chiefs of bureaus in his office. Mr. Johnson will not begin his new duties until the latter part of September.

NEWS IN BRIEF.

The Massachusetts Republican state committee has issued a call for the convention to be held at Boston, Oct. 4. The caucuses are called for Sept. 24 and 25, to choose delegates to all conventions.

In accordance with an agreement reached by a committee of the American Federation of Labor the differences between the two divisions of the Brotherhood of Painters and Decorators of America have been adjusted.

The navy department has been notified by the Westinghouse company, contractors for the big electric power plant which is to be installed at the New York navy yard, that the machinery is ready for delivery. The entire power plant will represent an outlay of nearly $1,000,000.

TWO NOTIFICATIONS.

Bryan Meets Representatives of Populists and the Monetary League.

Touches Upon Silver, Militarism and Trusts.

Declares That Two Latter Burdens Bear Heavily Upon the Farmer.

Topeka, Aug. 24.—William J. Bryan yesterday received a formal notice that he is the nominee of the Populists. The notification was made by Thomas M. Patterson, permanent chairman of the Populist national convention held last May at Sioux Falls. Mr. Bryan was at the same time informed of the endorsement of his candidacy by the United States Monetary league, this notification being given by A. W. Rucker.

The ceremonies occurred in the grounds of the state capital, and were witnessed by a large number of people. The weather was intensely hot, and the impatience of the crowd compelled the speakers preceding Mr. Bryan to curtail their remarks. As a result the entire proceedings covered only about an hour and a half.

State Chairman Ridgeley of the Populist party assumed the chair, and introduced James A. Troutman, who, as the representative of the mayor of Topeka, welcomed Mr. Bryan to the city. His speech was personally complimentary to Mr. Bryan.

Mr. Troutman was followed by Frank Doster, chief justice of the state, who extended the welcome of the state at large. Ex-Congressman Simpson was introduced as the permanent chairman. Mr. Simpson compared Mr. Bryan with Lincoln, and predicted that he would lead the people back to the landmark of human liberty.

Judge A. W. Rucker, who conveyed to Mr. Bryan the information of his endorsement by the United States Monetary league, curtailed his speech, owing to the heat. When he took his seat, Mr. Simpson introduced Mr. Bryan, who was received with a burst of applause.

Mr. Bryan read the greater part of his address from manuscript, and the delivery consumed about 40 minutes. Before beginning his address proper, Mr. Bryan replied to Mr. Troutman's welcoming remarks thanking the authorities of this state and city for the nonpartisan welcome which has been delivered through Mr. Troutman. "I appreciate," he said, "that liberty of thought, that generosity too infrequent in politics that enables political opponents to thus tender the freedom of the city to one with whom they do not agree on political questions."

Mr. Bryan's speech began by reciting the reasons for union of Populists and Democrats, stating that the two parties have the same fundamental principles. He touched the silver and cognate questions only lightly to show Republican inconsistency, and to give reasons why the Populists should still remain opposed to the Republicans. He then took up the trust question as applied to farmers, declaring that the farmer is robbed and is defenseless. Passing to the issue of imperialism and militarism he laid stress on the burdens which a large standing army will impose on the country, and especially on the farmer. His address followed closely upon the lines of his other recent speeches.

He said that when his speech was prepared and given to the press he did not know that formal announcement of the resolutions passed by the Monetary league would be made at this time. "The Monetary league," he said, "has for four years been active in the distribution of literature connected with the money question, aimed at the enlightenment of the voters, and I have on former occasions and do now express my commendation of the efforts of this league and of similar leagues to spread before the people information on the money question, because I believe that the more the question is studied and the better it is understood, the stronger will be the demand for the restoration of the double standards in the United States."

"No Anti-Imperialists in Maine."

New York, Aug. 24.—National Committeeman Manley got back Thursday from Maine and said: "The Democrats have flooded Maine with speakers. The only issue is anti-imperialism. The Republicans are alive to the situation and importance of making a vigorous campaign. There are no anti-imperialists in Maine. The most vigorous efforts are being put forth to get out a full vote."

Carnegie Won't Take the Stump.

New York, Aug. 24.—The World today prints the following copyrighted cable from London: "The World correspondent telegraphed Andrew Carnegie asking whether the report was true that he intended to stump the United States for Bryan. Mr. Carnegie replied: There is no truth in the report."

Bryan to Stump In Empire State.

New York, Aug. 24.—Chairman Campbell of the Democratic state committee announces that Mr. Bryan will speak in this city on Oct. 16; Albany, Oct. 17, and Rochester, Oct. 18. Senator Hill will preside at the Albany meeting and make an address.

CITY GUARDED BY TROOPS.

A Child Killed, Many Persons Injured, and Heavy Loss of Property at Akron.

Akron, O., Aug. 24.—At 4 o'clock Thursday morning the rioting had practically ceased. All day the people of Akron were restless. Every one appeared to be waiting for trouble, but none occurred. During the day wild rumors were current that mobs were forming to go to Cleveland and lynch Peck, but there was no good ground for the rumor. The arrival of the troops distracted the attention of the lawlessly inclined, and had a salutary effect on those who would have delighted in a recurrence of the rioting.

When day dawned, it revealed a scene of desolation, and the evidences of violence and lawlessness unparalled in the history of this city. The rioters had done their work and had dispersed. One child was lying cold in death, and nearly a score of people ware suffering from the wounds of pistol balls, buckshot and missiles.

The city building was a heap of smouldering ruins and beside it steamed the water-soaked ashes of Columbia hall. The police force of the city was disorganized and scattered. The chief was fleeing in desperation from the scene of bloodshed, riot and burning, crazed by what his men had done.

Electric wires, deadly to touch, lay across the streets in the vicinity of the burned building, and debris of all kinds was scattered far and near. The downtown streets were just as the mob left them.

There was no evidence of ill-will or disquiet on the part of the crowd at the lines. The turbulent element had slunk away with the coming of daylight, and order was once more fully restored. At 6 o'clock the crowds began to increase, as the curious spectators hurried to the scene of the trouble. A policeman appeared and then another, timid at first, but with increasing assurance as no violence was offered. Then company C of Canton, a detachment of the Eighth Ohio regiment, marched down the street from the train, and halting before the ruins of the building at once began patrolling the fire lines.

As the troops marched up the main thoroughfares, hisses and groans were heard. The lawless element, which figured so prominently in the rioting was still in evidence, although no open resistance to the troops was shown.

At 9:20 four companies of the Fourth regiment arrived in the city and marched to the scene of the rioting. Shortly before 10 o'clock Mayor Young issued a proclamation, closing every saloon in Akron until further orders.

Last night martial law went into effect, and the city is quiet, though many people fear there will be renewed disorder. Crowds are not allowed to gather, the soldiers dispersing them as fast as they form.

A Society Scandal Recalled.

Boston, Aug. 24.—The Post says: Mr. and Mrs. J. Wheatland Smith, who created a sensation five years ago by eloping to Europe and getting married, have returned to America. It is rumored that the couple are stopping at one of the prominent hotels in Boston. The beautiful and wealthy Mrs. F. L. Higginson, with a family and occupying an excellent social position, fell madly in love with young Smith, just out of college, and met him in New York in December, 1895, where the two sailed for Genoa on the Hamburg-American liner Columbia. Mr. Higginson later secured a divorce and some time after married Miss Corinne Shattuck.

British Subjects Made Complaint.

New York, Aug. 24.—Preparatory to beginning a rigid investigation into the real cause of the race riot in New York last week, the grand jury has asked the police board for the official report of Chief Devery on the trouble. The board ordered Chief Devery to make a close investigation. The investigation was demanded by prominent colored men and others who are British subjects.

In Memory of King Humbert.

New York, Aug. 24.—The death of King Humbert of Italy was commemorated Thursday by the Italian societies of this city and vicinity. It was estimated that fully 20,000 persons were in the line of march. The procession passed through the streets of the Italian quarters of the city. At St. Patrick's church the paraders attended the services celebrated there in the late king's honor.

Crowd Violently Handled Officers.

Providence, Aug. 24.—While resisting arrest Thursday night, Stephen Lyons, for whom a warrant for revelling had been issued, was soundly clubbed, as were a number of his friends, who attempted to rescue him. Four officers were violently handled by a jeering crowd, who sympathized with Lyons. Lyons is an old offender, and it is his custom to resist arrest.

Bold Work of a Robber.

Omaha, Aug. 24.—Edward E. Balch, assistant cashier of the Omaha National bank, was assaulted in his berth on the Chicago and Northwestern railroad near Boone, Ia., early Thursday and robbed of $130. He is badly hurt, but probably will recover. The railway people believe the robber followed Balch from Chicago, where he had been calling upon bankers.

Is Wanted In Lowell.

Lynn, Mass., Aug. 24.—The police authorities from other cities continue to send for information regarding C. A. Bidwell, who was arrested here on Tuesday. An officer from Lowell states that Bidwell is wanted in that city for the larceny of laces and jewelry from express offices. Local officers believe that Bidwell came from Ohio.

For Holding Up a German Bark.

Berlin, Aug. 24.—The statement is published here that Great Britain has paid 60,000 marks as damages to the owners of the German bark Hans Wagner, which the British unjustifiably detained in South African waters during the early days of the war.

Good Afternoon.

The fact that Mr. Bryan has accepted the nomination of Populists will not help him any in the East, and may work to his disadvantage.

We welcome to the city a pastor who is so strongly commended by his recent charge in Michigan, and also the Presbytery of Lake Superior as Dr. Todd, who will settle among us next week.

The act for the apportionment of the cost of Metropolitan parks and parkways provides that 50 per cent. shall be paid by Boston. It should also have stated that 25 or 30 per cent. shall be paid by cities within 5 miles of the State House, like Brookline, Cambridge, Somerville, Everett, Chelsea, Revere and Winthrop. Valuation and nearness to Boston should be the basis of apportionment among cities and towns of the Metropolitan district.

Drift of Opinion.

☞Probably Gov. Crane's peace of mind has been in nowise disturbed by the granting of that Boston Common demagogue who would rather be the assassin of the late king of Italy than the governor of this commonwealth. Nevertheless the man who gave utterance to such sentiments on Sunday last, should not be again permitted to speak upon the Common.—Haverhill Gazette.

☞When all the states in New England are having their "old home week," it doesn't appear to be inappropriate to suggest that Massachusetts follow the example. Few states have sent out so many representatives to other sections of the country, and were they to be all "called back" for one grand celebration, some of the lesser lights would be considerably discounted.—Berkshire Eagle.

☞The conference of colored business men, called to assemble in Boston, is one of the most important steps taken by the representatives of the race since the emancipation. Booker Washington devised the meeting. He is constantly preaching the doctrine of work to his people. Go into business, he tells them, and make yourselves expert in special lines and indispensable. In that way they will accumulate property and become influential. There may always linger a prejudice against them in the minds of the ignorant, but like the Jews, who are also under a ban as a race, they may overcome the unpleasantness and find enjoyment in the possession of wealth and its attendant influence. The colored race in this country has never had a wiser leader and instructor than Booker Washington and the closer they conform to his maxims the sooner they will emerge into a broad liberty and a happy life.—Lynn Item.

Good Templars' Fountain.

Merrymount lodge, I. O. G. T., has presented the city with a drinking fountain, which has been erected by Commissioner Knowlton on Franklin street opposite the entrance to Doble's hall. In setting up the fountain the Commissioner has arranged it with an ice receptical, so that when the city feels rich enough it can serve ice water. This is good practical work for Good Templars, and will do more to promote temperance than the expenditure of a larger amount in other ways.

WEEK FROM SUNDAY

Dr. Todd Becomes Pastor of Water Street Church.

The Rev. Dr. Todd is to arrive in Quincy near the end of the month, and will begin his labors in the First Presbyterian church, the first Sunday in September. A hearty welcome is extended to all to be present at his opening service.

The following resolutions were passed by the Lake Superior Board of Presbytery at their meeting:

Whereas—The Presbytery of Lake Superior has accepted the resignation of the Rev. James Todd, D. D., to the pastorate of the church of Escanaba, that he may accept the call presented to him from Quincy, Mass., we as a Presbytery to place on record our esteem for Dr. Todd and our very high appreciation of his devoted labors for Christ and His church while he has been a member of this Presbytery.

For seven and one-half years he has been pastor of the church of Escanaba, during that time his pulpit ministrations have been able, earnest, and acceptable; his diligence in the discharge of pastoral duties unwearied; his attendance at meetings of Presbytery remarkably regular; and his attention to all presbyterial work faithful and painstaking. His knowledge of church law and his acquaintance with church court procedure rendered his council, at times, invaluable. As a member and chairman of the Home Mission Committee he has placed the church within our bounds under a debt of gratitude. He has discharged the duties of office with faithfulness and energy, sacrificing time and means to do the work of the church.

In parting from our brother the members of the Presbytery feel that they are parting from a brother beloved and one who has been kind and obliging in all his ministerial intercourse.

To the Presbytery of Boston we cordially commend him as a faithful and untiring worker in the Master's vineyard. Our prayer is that the divine favor may accompany him to his new field of labor and when his work on earth is finished that he may receive the reward of the inheritance promised to those who serve the Lord Christ.

Freeman in Finals.

Some of the members of the Wollaston golf club played on the links of the Cummaquid club at Yarmouth this week. In the semi-finals for the championship, Reid beat Bremer, 2 up, 1 to go, and Corey beat Borden, 5 up, 4 to go. In the semi-finals in consolations, Freeman beat Sands with ease, 7 up, 4 to play, and Mackenzie beat Myers, 8 up, 6 to play. This leaves Freeman and Mackenzie to play the finals.

In Scotch foursome medal play, Watson and Corey made the best score, 88, while Freeman and Bremer were second with 89. Thirteen pairs were entered.

CHOICE LIMITED.

Some Republicans Want to Vote for Two Representatives.

Some disatisfaction is expressed with the method in vogue in nominating Republican candidates for the Legislature. Although Quincy is a double district, the voters at the caucuses are allowed to express their preference for only one, and then the success of that one depends on some trade with the delegates elected in other wards. Why should not each ward be allowed to express itself for both candidates?

Without any attempt to boom the renomination of Representative Sheppard, let us take his case as an example. There are probably voters in every ward of the city who are desirous that he be returned to the Legislature, but in how many wards will they be allowed to show their preference.

Ward One will try to elect delegates for Mr. Sheppard, Russell A. Sears, John McKnight, or John O. Hall. In Ward Two there may be no contest, and the delegates elected may be unpledged. In Ward Three voters may be asked to decide between Mr. Badger and Mr. Sheppard although favorable to both. Ward Four may come down solid for Councilman Badger, if he decides to run, and the Wollaston ward may be for Walter L. Pinkham, Ward Six may be for Frank E. Badger or Thomas Gurney.

By such a method the voters of but one or two wards have expressed a choice relative to Mr. Sheppard, the prominence of "favorite sons" of the wards having eclipsed the choice of second man. Some will argue, if Mr. Sheppard does not secure the delegates from Ward One, that he is "out of it," without consulting the preference of the other five wards, and finally candidates may be nominated who were not even considered in the caucuses.

One of the remedies suggested is a direct caucus nomination, without the intervention of a convention. If the election laws don't permit this, voters could in some way be allowed to express their preferences for two candidates at the ward caucuses. Tickets pledged to Smith and Jones might sweep the city.

The announcement that Col. Goetting of the Republican State Committee is going to give the young men a chance to speak in this campaign is good news. The voters want to hear someone besides the Congressmen and State officers.

The Democratic State Committee will meet tomorrow to select a date and place for the State convention and arrange the preliminaries. They will also plan for a ratification of the National ticket.

Norfolk county will this year elect a county commissioner, register of deeds and county treasurer, each for three years. The term of James Hewins of Medfield as county commissioner expires, and the other two offices are filled by John H. Burdakin of Dedham and Charles H. Smith of Dedham.

Land Sales.

Real estate sales for week ending Aug. 24, by the Metropolitan Land Co., C. A. McIntosh, Manager.

To John C. Murray of Murray Bros., Quincy, large lot on Hancock Park, fronting on Hancock street. Mr. Murray buys for a home for himself and will commence building shortly.

Three lots on Shawmut Park, corner Hall place and Quarry street, facing playground, to New Hampshire party who will build at once four houses as investment.

Also two lots on Blue Hill Park to Boston parties who buy for an investment.

Seven Heats in One Race.

There were three good races at Readville Thursday, the best time being by Royal R. Sheldon, 2.05 3-4, which won the $1,500 purse in the 2.06 pacing class, best two in three.

Georgena won the $1,000 purse in three straight in the 2.14 trot. In the 2.14 pace John T., the last horse of ten in the first heat, and nine in the next two, won heats four, five and seven and captured the $3,000 purse. The first and sixth heats were won by Winola, and Sidney Pointer and The Admiral took one each.

Married Under Niagara Falls.

Rev. Thomas A. Hyde, brother of the rector of Trinity Church, Weymouth, had a rather novel experience this week. He went to Niagara Falls on Tuesday from New York with a bridal party, and then, under the Falls, he joined a young couple in wedlock with all the romance of such a situation. Mr. Hyde remained at Niagara Falls as the guest of the bride and groom from Tuesday till Saturday, returning on the latter day to his parish in Brooklyn.

Councilman Wilson has this year raised some of the largest and fairest apples in Quincy. Two were weighed this week and tipped the scales at fourteen ounces and one pound respectively. The tree was obtained at the Wollaston Park nursery about five years ago. The apples are known as the Gen. Wilde.

The John F. Merrill sign was put up Thursday over the new grocery store in the Durgin & Merrill block, and those who remember the first class store Mr. Merrill used to have where the Granite bank now is and later in the southerly store in the present block, are glad to see the old sign back again. We wish Mr. Merrill success in the reopening of his grocery store.

POSSIBLY INCENDIARY.

Fire at Midnight in Barrel of Oil at Car Barn.

Prompt Discovery Checked the Blaze Before it Spread.

Several Cars were Hustled out of House into City Square in a Jifly.

The alarm from Box 26, at 12.05 this morning called the department to a fire in the Street Railway car house in City Square. A crowd quickly gathered, as usual when this box is sounded, and to many it looked as though there would be a repetition of fire last winter.

The fire was in the oil room in a barrel of lubricating oil. This room is enclosed in brick and has an iron door, which kept it from spreading. The fire was discovered by Motorman Leavitt. He had just put up his car and had walked to the rear of the car barn to put his switch stick away, when his attention was attracted to a cloud of black smoke. Looking into the oil room he saw that a barrel of oil was on fire. At this hour there are always a number of night men about, and hearing Leavitt's cry of fire, an alarm was quickly sent in. Meanwhile, others took a hand in getting the cars out, and several were quickly run into the square. Other employes threw water onto the burning oil barrel and got the tother barrels out of the way.

As soon as the apparatus arrived, a stream from a hand chemical quickly did the business. Lines of hose were ready for business if wanted.

The cause of the fire is somewhat of a mystery, but the impression of Supt. Weeks is that it was an incendiary who started the fire. There are two windows in the room; one of these was found open and it is supposed that a match was thrown into the top of the barrel by some one on the outside who desired to see the company's property destroyed. The loss will be confined to the barrel of oil.

New Old Jokes.

"Is there any new joke under the sun?" asks George Augustus Sala, an English journalist and special correspondent.

"I doubt there being one very gravely," he answers and tells two anecdotes to support this skepticism.

An intelligent Greek who acted as Mr. Sala's guide while visiting Athens related to him as a modern Greek Joe Millerism the story of a lawsuit. A deaf plaintiff sued a deafer defendant before the deafest judge in all Greece. The plaintiff claimed so many hundred drachmas for rent that was due. The defendant pleaded that he never ground his corn at night. The judge in giving judgment observed: "Well, she's your mother, after all. You must keep her between you."

"When I got home I found," writes Mr. Sala, "this apparently up to date triad of ludicrous non sequiturs in a collection of ancient Greek epigrams."

There used to be told a story of Sheridan Knowles, the dramatist, who was a first rate hand at Irish bulls, meeting one of twin brothers and asking him, "Which of ye is the other?"

Mr. Sala compares this with the story of that very ancient jester, Hierocles:

"Of twins, one died. Skolastikos, meeting the survivor, asked him, 'Was it you who died or your brother?'"—Youth's Companion.

What Tips Do.

A man who lives on an up town street where the houses cost from $25,000 up was surprised not long ago by seeing a man known to all New Yorkers who patronize a well known restaurant coming from a house several doors below him with an air of proprietorship. This restaurant employee stood on the sidewalk for a few moments and gazed admiringly at his house and then at its respectable neighbors. For many years he has been connected with a certain New York restaurant as an attendant, and his fees have been generous. He knew all its patrons by name, and his politeness and eagerness to render service have made him well liked. Wondering if this restaurant attendant, whom he knew only by his first name, could by any possibility have rented a house on that street, the old resident came out to satisfy his curiosity.

"Hello," he said. "What are you doing up here?"

"Good morning, Mr. Blank," said the restaurant attendant. "How do you like my new house? I have just bought it because I think that my family will like this neighborhood. You are perhaps aware that my tips have been generous for many years, and I can now afford to live in this house very easily."

His questioner had no objection to him as a neighbor, and he congratulated the restaurant attendant on his prosperity. The house had actually been bought by tips, for its owner's salary probably averaged about $15 a week.—New York Sun.

A Clever Blind Man.

The New Orleans Times-Democrat tells of a blind man in a southern city who goes to the postoffice every day carrying a small, light riding whip, which he holds slightly inclined to the front, with the tip just touching the pavement. His sense of touch has become so delicate that the whip is almost an artificial eye. When the point encounters anything, he makes a few swift passes over the surface and generally determines the exact character of the obstacle. It is done so quickly and deftly as to attract no attention, and few passers have the least suspicion of the old man's infirmity. When he reaches the postoffice, he turns unhesitatingly, mounts the middle stairs, walks over to the lock boxes and without any feeling around thrusts a key into the right aperture.

Anxious Only About One Thing.

The ghastly rider on the white horse stopped at the gate.

"I am Death," he said to the sick man who was watching from the window.

"You are welcome," replied the latter and added in a whisper: "If you value your life, don't let my wife see you tying your horse to that tree. She'd never let anybody do that."—Philadelphia Press.

Our learning is so long in getting and so very imperfect that the greatest clerk knows not the thousandth part of what he is ignorant.—Jeremy Taylor.

Sailor's Story of the Warship's Experiences In Chinese Waters.

Mrs. T. D. W. Wood of Fall River, Mass., recently received a letter from her son, Clarence Wood, warrant officer of the United States battleship Oregon, describing his experiences aboard the warship at the time of her running on a rock in Chinese waters, says the New York Herald. The letter is dated Gulf of Pe-chi-li, July 6. It says:

"The Oregon has been on the rocks, but is now safely off again, although in a badly damaged condition. We had a very nice run up from Hongkong until we reached the Yellow sea, where we encountered bad weather. On the 28th, while passing through a dangerous spot, we ran hard and fast on a rock, going nearly full speed.

"The rock tore a rent in the bottom on port side fully 25 feet long and about three feet wide. Of course all the watertight doors were closed immediately, but, as is usual in such cases, very few held water and in a short time nearly every compartment forward of the fireroom bulkhead was flooded. The ship immediately settled hard on the rock and in about an hour had a very dangerous list to starboard.

"All our pumps were immediately put to work on the flooded compartments, but they could make no headway. We had eight pumps throwing six inch streams and our two main circulators throwing 18 inch streams. Preparations were made to abandon ship and everybody was supplied with a life belt. The weather, however, was very good, and next day a little one horse wrecking company which happened to be in the vicinity came to our assistance and we began to cheer up. The wrecking company brought a diver, who patched up the holes as well as possible, and soon the greater part of the water was pumped out. Then came several fruitless trials with the aid of two chartered steamers at each high tide to haul her off. On Monday, July 2, the ship twisted around with the tide, which is very strong here, and drifted off without help.

"Our joy was short lived, however, as no sooner had we got under way to go out clear than we ran smash on the same rocks again, this time harder than before. We went on so hard that we split the rocks right in two, so the divers say. All efforts were now made to lighten the ship forward, and all hands worked night and day unloading coal and ammunition. There were working parties aboard from the Russian, the English and the Japanese cruisers, to say nothing of the help we got from the Yorktown and the Nashville. On Wednesday, the Fourth of July, a grand trial was made to get her off. There was a steamer lashed on each side of us, backing full speed. We backed full speed ourselves, and the Endymion, English cruiser, broke a couple of big hemp hawsers trying to start us, but it was no use.

"The next day, on an exceptionally high tide, the ship again floated off of her own accord, and we steamed carefully into deep water and anchored. By the way, the first man-of-war to offer assistance happened to be a Chinaman, a very natty little cruiser, capable of making 24 knots. The Russians and Japanese were hard after her, but could not catch her. She was in Taku with the fleet. The English thought they had her 'collared,' but she got permission to shift anchorage, and before they knew it she was skipping out, four bells. An English cruiser chased her for 60 hours, but had to give up. While she was here she was under our protection and flew the stars and stripes at the fore. One dark night she left—of course no one knows for where. I will ship a film as soon as possible, showing scenes about the deck, and you can see for yourself what an awful state we are in."

CLAIMS THE KLONDIKE.

Richard M. White Says Goldfields Are United States Territory.

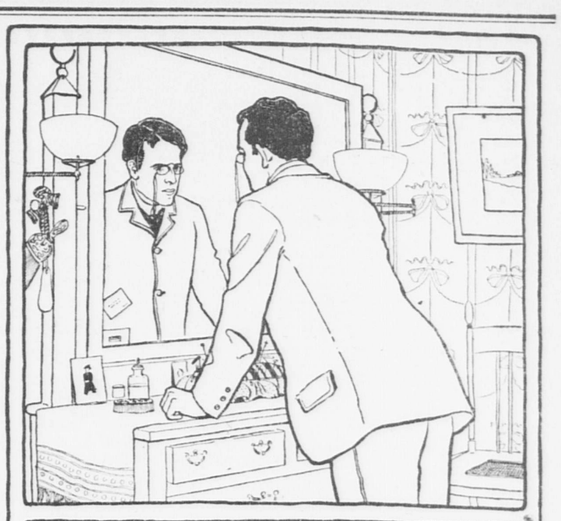

Richard Mansfield White, explorer and miner, son of Richard Grant White of New York, has created a sensation on the coast by declaring that the whole of the Klondike is American territory. He first makes the point that the international boundary where the Alaska dispute is now going on cannot be less than ten marine leagues from the sea. He also contends as a result of this that the White Yukon valley, including the Klondike, according to the mountain summit scheme, should be part of Alaska proper and in the domain of the United States.

In an interview, according to a Vancouver (B. C.) dispatch to the New York World, he says: "As our British neighbors seem to be willing to adjust and to change boundary lines I think that it would be well to suggest that the whole question of boundaries be thrown open to settlement, and we should take all that part of Canada north of the United States and west of the divide (the Rocky mountains), including the islands of the coast in the Pacific ocean.

"This would give the United States not more than we are certainly entitled to, although for a period of time we have allowed the British to occupy and to collect taxes within it."

Electroplating After Embalming.

Dr. Varlot of Paris has discovered a process for embalming bodies which, it is thought, will prove a great success. He not only embalms, but metallizes the bodies by the Ruolt process, just as it is done with a fork or a spoon. In this manner, according to the Lisbon O Dia, they can be preserved indefinitely and in such perfection that the most imperceptible wrinkles and lines are reproduced, and the embalmed body has the appearance of a metal statue.

TO THE MAN WHO THINKS.

LOOK yourself squarely in the face and see if you are not half ashamed to be without Ivory Soap in your house. Worse than this, your wife is without it. It is bad enough for a man, though a man often doesn't care how his comfort is mis-spelled. But a woman misses all these little helps to housekeeping. And Ivory Soap is one; its great potency makes it actually cheaper than yellow soap for general work. It floats.

The masculine shirt waist is bound to come, and it will not be long before there will be distinct bids for the favor of those who wear them.—Chicago Record.

The shirt waist man may yet demonstrate its utility, but at present he who dons it runs a terrible risk of sartorial degradation.—Providence Journal.

The danger in opening the door to the shirt waist man is the difficulty of closing it on the man in his shirt sleeves. The latter should be made to put on his coat, but if he were sensitive to nice distinctions he would not appear in public without it.—Philadelphia Times.

Perhaps the problem of shirt waists for men can be solved by making the shirt waist a "union" garment, to include the trousers, thus doing away with the difficulties of suspenders and belts and affording comfort for man's legs as well as for his trunk.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

CONDITIONS OF PEACE.

Europeans Recognize Wisdom of the Course Pursued by United States.

War Department Not to Send Any More Troops to China.

Commissioner Rockhill Arrives at Yokohama and Receives Further Instructions.

Washington, Aug. 24.—The United States has taken the lead in replying to China that there will be no temporizing negotiations, and there is every reason to believe the powers will be united in this same policy.

The answer of the United States was quickly followed by similar action on the part of Germany, the Berlin foreign office delivering to the Chinese minister an answer refusing to enter into negotiations on the ground that there was no evidence that Li Hung Chang's credentials gave him sufficient power to act, and that nothing short of complete authority from the responsible rulers of China, the emperor and empress dowager, could be regarded as sufficient.

Soon after this action at Berlin, the German charge of affairs, Baron Von Sternburg, was advised by cable, and he called at the state department to inform the authorities of Germany's course. There was an exchange of felicitations, as it was looked upon as another evidence of the uniformity of action between the United States and Germany.

The Japanese officials expressed their full conviction that Japan would take similar action, if, indeed, such action already had not been taken. It develops that Japan is acting with her eyes open in this peace overture, as it is similar to the overtures at the close of the Japanese-Chinese war, when the sessions of the Shimonoeki peace congress came to a halt because the credentials of the Chinese officials gave them no power to act conclusively.

The course of France and Great Britain has not been made known here, but there is thought to be no doubt that these governments will decline to treat with China at this time. Each government, however, is acting entirely on its own responsibility, and there was no pre-arrangement to the reply. The United States acted entirely on its own initiative, and, as it has turned out, acted first and in such a way as to have other governments take like action.

The important development in the Chinese situation Thursday was the decision of the government not to send any more troops to China. All the troops now at sea, amounting to about 4000, together with those under orders for service in the far east, which have not sailed, amounting to about 3000 more, will be sent to Manila. These troops will sail on the same route, and upon touching at Nagasaki will go on to Manila unless there are developments in China not now expected which would make their presence in that country necessary.

Secretary Root said that no more troops were being sent to China because they were not needed. With the arrival at Taku of the Hancock, and the troops she carried, General Chaffee will have 5000 available men, which is deemed sufficient for all present purposes. The decision of the department was not based upon any recommendation made by General Chaffee, but upon reports received from him which made it apparent that no more troops were neded.

It was stated at the war department that the encouraging condition in China was the main reason why the orders regarding the troops were issued. It was said that 6000 or 7000 troops would be affected by the order.

A dispatch was received from General Chaffee Thursday, dated Pekin, Aug. 15, which was not in response to the request sent him a few days ago to report the conditions and requirements. General Chaffee did not report further fighting at Pekin, and for that reason the Washington officials feel assured that hostile demonstrations in the Chinese capital have ceased.

The dispatch related largely to transportation conditions, and stated that the railroad between Taku and Pekin could not be used at the present time, as portions of it had been destroyed by the Chinese. General Chaffee will cooperate with the other commanders in China in reconstructing the road for the use of the allied forces. General Chaffee also reported that the telegraph line, which was constructed by the signal corps from Tientsin to Pekin, is frequently interrupted, being cut, probably, by hostile Chinese.

At a conference at the White House, in which the president, Secretary Root and Acting Secretary Adee participated, careful instructions were prepared for Mr. Rockhill, the United States special commissioner to China, to be forwarded to him at once for his guidance. The state department received a dispatch from Mr. Rockhill Thursday, dated Yokohama, briefly announcing his arrival there. This brought about the White House conference, and the preparation of the instructions. Mr. Adee stated that, as the instructions related to pending affairs, it would be inexpedient to make public anything in reference to them.

Cuban Teachers Visit Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, Aug. 24.—The transports with the Cuban teachers who are visiting this country reached this city Thursday. The teachers found awaiting them a delegation of Spanish-speaking guides, and the entire party proceeded to Independence hall, where a welcome was extended them by Mayor Ashbridge.

Lynching Narrowly Averted.

Charlotte, N. C., Aug. 24.—A special to The Observer from Graham says John Ruffin, colored, 16 years old, narrowly escaped lynching at the hands of members of his own race for criminally assaulting a colored girl 10 years of age. The victim is in a critical condition.

SERVED UNDER MANY FLAGS.

Death of Deputy Cluseret, Who Had a Remarkable Career of Adventure.

Toulon, Aug. 24.—Gustave P. Cluseret, the famous member of the commune, and one of the deputies from Toulon, died Thursday of pneumonia. As a lieutenant in the army, during the rising in Paris, in 1848, he made himself notorious by his zeal in the repression of the Socialists and Radicals. Afterwards he embarked in an unsuccessful financial venture in New York, where, later, he raised an American legion to aid Garibaldi in the conquest of the Sicilies, and became a colonel. He subsequently came to America and fought on the side of the north in the Civil war, during which he won the rank of general. He returned to Europe in 1867, took part in the Fenian agitation of that year, and was accused by the newspapers of leading, under an assumed name, the attack on Chester. He next went to Europe and joined the revolutionary movement. He became minister of war under the commune, and for a time was at the head of all its military operations. He was sentenced to death for his participation in the uprising, and fled from the country. He devoted himself to journalism abroad and returned to Paris after the declaration of amnesty, but was again obliged to leave France on account of his anarchist writings. Once more he returned to this country and supported the late General Boulanger. He was elected a deputy from Toulon in 1888, and has been constantly re-elected.

Assault Resulted Fatally.

New York, Aug. 24.—Sergeant William R. Taylor of the United States regular army, who said in an ante-mortem statement Wednesday night that he had been struck by a man who insulted his wife, July 28, died Thursday. Taylor was returning home with his wife on a car when a man made an insulting remark about his wife. Taylor resented it, and one of the men, who wore a heavy gold ring, hit him on the nose, breaking it. Erysipelas set in afterward. The assailant is unknown.

Mobbed by His Constituents.

London, Aug. 24.—Dr. Clark, one of the members of parliament whose correspondence with the Boers has been made public, is condemned by the morning papers, irrespective of party. Some of the government organs, in big black type, proclaim him a traitor of the worst kind. Last evening he was mobbed by his constituents, and was only saved from a worse fate by one of his supporters, who held the furious crowd at bay with a revolver.

Arrests Expected In Fosburg Case.

Pittsfield, Mass., Aug. 24.—Pittsfield has made up its mind that the search for the murderers of Miss May L. Fosburg is nearly at an end. One of the prominent city hall officials expresses it in this manner: "I believe that the chief knows his men and knows where to put his hands on them. If he does not do so now he has the best of reasons for it." It is said that three local youths are suspected, and one of them is under surveillance.

Shot a Woman and Killed Himself.

Buffalo, Aug. 24.—Paul Adams, a bartender, shot Mary O'Brien, his former employer, last night, inflicting an injury that will probably prove fatal, and then shot himself, dying instantly. Miss O'Brien is proprietor of the Majestic, a small hotel. Adams was dismissed and the woman, after befriending him until he became a nuisance, had him sent to the penitentiary as a vagrant. He was released yesterday.

Motion For New Trial Overruled.

Allentown, Pa., Aug. 24.—The fire in the mine at Summit Hill, which has been raging furiously the past week, has broken into the Spring Tunnel colliery, and all efforts to prevent its spread have so far proved unavailing. The fire in the Summit Hill mine originated 40 years ago, and has since been burning the coal steadily.

Shock Caused Him to Fall.

Pittsfield, Mass., Aug. 24. — James O'Donnell, aged 60, a painter of electric light poles, was instantly killed Thursday by falling from the top of a pole to the ground. He came in contact with a live wire, the shock causing him to lose his balance.

Young Arnold Must Go to England.

Washington, Aug. 24.—The state department has forwarded to the British embassy extradition papers for Julian T. B. Arnold, wanted in England and now held at San Francisco. He is a son of Sir Edwin Arnold and is charged with embezzlement.

The Social Realm.

A draught of water from the spring,
An apple from the wayside tree,
A bit of bread for strengthening,
A pipe for grace and policy;
And, so by taking time, to find
A world that's manly to one's mind;
Some health, some wit in friends a few,
Some high behaviors in their kind,
Some dispositions to be true.

BALL GAME A FEATURE

At Annual Outing of Massachusetts Street Railway Association.

Enthusiastic Over the Dinner Served at the Squantum Inn.

About 100 in Attendance and They Have a Royal Good Time.

The annual outing and dinner of the Massachusetts Street Railway Association was held Friday at the Squantum Inn, and as usual proved to be a grand good time. So popular have these outings become that whenever one is announced, there is a grand rush of everybody, in anyway connected with street railways, for an invitation. This year's outing proved no exception, and nearly one hundred were present. Not only were many of the prominent street railway officials present, but doctors, lawyers and politicians as well. Special cars for the party left Boston at 11.30, and arrived at Squantum somewhere in the vicinity of 1 o'clock. Dinner was immediately served, and such a dinner. Words are inadequate to describe it, and how the gallant one hundred enjoyed it. It needed no prophet to tell that they were "good feeders," for actions spoke louder than words. From 1 until 3.30 the party sat about the festive board, and as the dinner progressed, jokes and sharp home thrusts flew rapidly about.

Along toward the latter part of the dinner, someone reported that forks and spoons were missing. E. P. Foster, general manager of the Massachusetts Electric Co., was appointed a committee to search the party, and although all professed ignorance, a half dozen forks were found in the coat pocket of one gentleman, who upbraided his neighbor for placing them there.

The post prandial exercises were brief. President Graham presided, and witty remarks were made by the inimitable Jack Adams, Senator Hayes of Lynn, Judge Bixby of Brockton, General Manager Foster, and others.

Dinner over, a ball game was proposed, and such a game! It's equal would be hard to find. Principally it was noted for the ignorance of the game by the players. It was to be a game between the managers and superintendents and the supply men.

Supt Weeks captained the former, and Percy Hodges the latter.

The make up of the two nines was as follows:

Managers and Superintendents,—E.P. Foster, p; John Kelley, rf; W.T. Shea, ss G. F. Wells, c; Spring, 3b; Babcock, 2b: Dr. Jones, 1b; George Rounds, lf; E. P. Shaw, centre.

Supply Men—Johnson, Sprague, Goward, Robinson, Wells, McAloon, Kells, Norton, Dyer.

They were assigned no positions but played where ever they thought best.

Joe Peterson of Salem was appointed umpire. The selection was made not for what he knew about the game but what he did not know. As the game progressed it was seen that he was leaning a little toward Supt. Weeks' nine, for while the supply men were obliged to put out four of their opponents to get the side out, two outs were enough to send them to the field.

A cent was "flipped up"—a U. S. coin—and Percy won the toss and took his innings.

"Play ball" shouted Joe, and the game commenced. Johnson struck to Kelley but the latter missed, and while he was trying to find the ball in the grass the runner made two bases, and finally stole home, making the first run. Sprague and Goward also made runs while Wells and McAloon were put out, and the sides retired with three runs to their credit.

This one inning was enough to knock Pitcher Foster out of the box, and when he had fanned the air several times with the bat to the great danger of the bystanders, he was declared out. He protested but the umpire was firm and imposed a fine of $1 for back talk. It was then he was escorted from the field, and John Merrill put in.

John did not get a chance to show his powers as a batsman during this inning. Kelley, Shea and Spring scored, and Wells and Babcock went out, leaving the score a tie.

In second is the second innings but one run was made and Kells was the man to secure it.

The umpire was flashing his diamond at a group of ladies who had stopped to see the exhibition and although his attention was frequently called to the game he paid no attention. Suddenly he came out of his trance and declared the side out.

Dyer distinguished himself during this innings and succeeded in getting to second base. He spread his V-shaped sails and scudded for the paper bag that marked the third base, but alas, a well directed throw sent the ball ten feet from the baseman's hands into the grand stand and Brainard was called out.

In the second half of the second innings Dr. Jones distinguished himself by making a home run. Then Rounds and Shaw struck out and John Merrill came to the bat. He found the ball and knocked it five feet away, and amid the shouts of the crowd started for first base, dragging the bat along with him. He uttered a silent praye to heaven for the wings of a dove, meanwhile making use of the only substitute heaven had provided. He stole second, and at an opportune moment started for third. He bore down upon that paper bag as a 20-knot cruises on a pirate junk in the China sea. But the ball rolled into the hands of the baseman and John was said to be out. He undertook to argue the point with the umpire, but it was no use, the side was out.

The score was 4 and 4.

In the third innings Sprague made a run, and Kells and Robinson went out. The umpire was then seen to drop his mask and shoot for a car which had arrived. Others followed as though making a home run until no one was left upon the field, and thus ended the game.

Anyway it was a great game.

Nothing occurred to mar the pleasure of the occasion unless it was the imprisonment in the cloak room of Supt. Weeks and others. Who did it. No one knows, although there is a strong suspicion that a Brockton lawyer had a hand in the affair. The first knowledge of the situation was heads protruding from one of the upper windows shouting for help, and it was some time before the man with the key put in an appearance and liberated the prisoners, who just caught the special car for home.

Thus ended the outing of 1900.

Federhen Champion

Of late the public has not heard much about the crack shooting of H. M. Federhen, Jr., of this city, but he evidently has kept in practice. The two days' New England championship tournament of Worcester Sportsman's club closed yesterday. There was a big attendance, and the shoot was one of the most successful ever held in Worcester.

H. M. Federhen, Jr., who shoots as Herbert, was the winner of the 100-bird race for the championship with a score of 96. D. W. Sawin of Gardner, a newcomer at the traps, 20 years old, was second with 95, and won a silver loving cup emblematic of the amateur championship of New England. Federhen was rated in the expert class, and Sawin was declared amateur champion, despite Federhen's protest.

Leroy won the purse for highest average throughout the two days. He shot to a total of 244 birds of a possible 260 on the programme. Federhen was second highest gun with 243, and Sawin finished third with 242, beating out a bunch of experts, among whom were O. R. Dickey of Boston, J. S. Fanning of San Francisco, H. G. Wheeler of Marlboro, E. C. Griffith of Pascoag, R. I., and Jack Hull of Meriden, Ct.

SEVENTH DAY.

CHESTER IVES AT WORK.

The situation was an uncanny one. Chester had no matches and would not have dared to strike a light in the other event. The dense darkness, the rushing waters, the utter sense of isolation, the foreboding fear that any moment might plunge him into a chasm which would prove a nameless tomb—these tangible and untangible fears and dangers might have quailed the heart of the stoutest frontiersman, much less of an inexperienced tenderfoot, well enough versed in the wiles of Wall street, but a veritable tyro to the dangers of the Colorado desert.

However, the stuff of which brave men are made does not vary much the world over, and Ives was buoyed up with the hope and belief that on him rested the safety of the whole party, including that of the girl he loved. If he saved her from this peril, she would belong to him in a dual sense.

For the space of perhaps 20 minutes he toiled painfully up the bed of the stream. He was soaked from head to foot, and his garments, heavy and sodden with the water, impeded his progress and held him back. Even as he floundered along he thought grimly of what a capital story the adventure would make for the sensational press of the metropolis and how the natty habitues of the cafes of Wall and Broad streets would shout with merriment could they behold him in his present drowned out predicament.

Suddenly his head came in hard contact with the rocky roof, which proved that the orifice was becoming narrower, forcing him to flatten himself out until his chin was nearly touching the water, and in this fashion he wriggled for perhaps a dozen yards farther. Then, resting for a moment and raising his eyes, he beheld through the dense gloom, but right ahead, a cluster of tiny twinkling lights.

A moment's reflection satisfied him that they must be stars and that he had at last reached the open air. A few feet more, and he emerged through a crevice in the rocks on a little beach of pebbles and water worn rocks, at the margin of which he could dimly discern the surface of a considerable stream, whose placid bosom reflected the glorious firmament overhead. Never was the sight of the canopy of heaven more welcome.

Though he did not know it then, he was on the west bank of the La Fontaine, or Fountain, river, which fed the cave stream and whose gravelly margin was still wet and glistening with the high water mark caused by the cloudburst of a few hours before. What next to do Ives did not know. He was a stranger to the country and totally ignorant of the lay of the land. To proceed in the darkness seemed well nigh impossible, yet to wait for morning would be a pitiful waste of time. He had no very exalted idea of Filley's good faith nor of that of the Dallon gang—in fact, he reposed about as much confidence in the one as the other. If Filley bungled in any way, he dreaded to think of the consequences to those dear ones left in the clutches of as cold blooded a set of wretches as ever drew trigger or bestrode stolen horseflesh. Besides, he shrewdly suspected that Filley would take good care to look after No. 1 and if he failed to get the money might content himself with keeping out of personal danger and perhaps giving an alarm without heed to the fate of Draper and his party.

All these reflections flew through Chester's brain as he sat shivering and squeezing the water out of his clothes on the wet bowlder. Casting his eyes around the horizon, he noticed a white glare off to the north, showing clearly in that marvelously pure atmosphere. That, he thought, must be the lights of Denver and in that direction would help most likely be found. So, weary and cold, with chattering teeth and aching in every joint, he set out along the bank of the little stream, stumbling and at times falling over the obstructions in the way. But after a couple of hours of this sort of tramping he was completely beaten. His thin city shoes were worn to shreds, and every step was acute torture. As the first pale streaks of lemon colored glow appeared in the east he sank by the way, his back against a rock and panting from exhaustion. He intended only to rest for a few moments, but fatigue gained the upper hand, and he soon sank into an uneasy sleep, from which he was awakened by lusty shouts and the cracking of a whip.

Opening his leaden eyes, he found the day all abroad and discovered that the uproar proceeded from a teamster who was standing up in the shafts of his wagon yelling like one possessed and snapping his heavy whip in order to attract the attention of the sleeper.

"Thought I'd fetch you," was the driver's first salutation. "Couldn't leave the team, you see, so I had to holler. What's the matter, man? Look as though you'd been through an ore crusher!"

Chester hobbled down the rock incumbered bank, a sorry spectacle indeed. A "gentleman tramp" would have seemed a Beau Brummel by comparison.

"How far are we from Denver?" was his first inquiry.

"Matter o' 30 miles or so. Want to git thar? Jump up then!" was the cheery invitation. So Ives clambered up on the off side of the shafts, and immediately the heavy springless ore wagon went creaking and crashing along the rough road.

In a few brief sentences Chester acquainted him with the strange happenings of the past 36 hours.

"Gee whiz!" whistled the teamster. "That's Jim Dallon's gang, sure 'nuf! See here, podner, there's $5,000 reward out for Jim! This'll be his last ride, I reckon! What you goin to do?"

"Get help as quickly as possible," returned Ives. "You know the country and its customs; advise me. If those women are rescued alive and unharmed, I'll answer for it that John Draper will put another $5,000 on top of the governor's reward to the man that does it."

"You don't say! Well, 'tain't none o' my bizness, but I guess I'll have to go you," was the matter of fact response. "What do you s'pose that clerk o' his'll do? Has he got gumption?"

"Yes," replied Chester, "he's got gumption enough, but I don't trust him or the gang. You see, there may be some difficulty about getting the money. Fifty thousand dollars is a large amount, and the bank may hesitate and so cause delay. Then what happens? The two escorts get tired or afraid, conclude they have been fooled and ride back to camp. In which event I believe Dallon will be as good as his word—he'll murder them or worse!"

"Like as not," was the not very cheering response. During this colloquy they were making slow but sure progress toward the city, but to Ives the pace was tantalizingly tedious. Ben Gallup, the teamster aforesaid, uttered not a word for three or four minutes. Then, with a mighty crack of his whip, he exclaimed:

"By hokey, that's the dodge! Geddap, you lazy devils!" And, standing up on the shafts, he urged his team with voice and whip until they broke into a trot which doubled their speed. Then he condescended to speak.

"Don't know as they'll interfere, but you'd better try."

"Who, man, who? For God's sake be more explicit!" sputtered Ives.

"Over yonder a piece, at Littleton," said Gallup, pointing toward the northwest with his whip. "There's an old military camp there—Fort Denver it used to be called. They're the lads for you if they'll do the job. S'pose it belongs to the sheriff by rights, but it'll take too long. He'd be all day gettin ready and swearin out his warrants and habbus corpses for Jack Doe and Dick Roe. A dose o' cold lead is the best medicine for them fellers, and then you can 'rest them atterwards."

"Fort Denver, you say?" queried Chester, all on fire with impatience. "Then drive, man, drive, as you love your own wife and daughters."

"Can you ride hossback?" queried Gallup.

"Yes; of course," was the quick reply.

"Then hold on a minute." So saying he drove the wagon to the side of the road, jumped down and began to unharness the team, Ives helping with nervous haste, quickly divining the honest fellow's intention. Rapidly knotting the traces and the lines, they each sprang astride an animal and started down the road at a hard gallop, the dust rising in clouds behind them. On they went for a couple of miles, and then there loomed up right ahead the trim white walls and the black muzzles of the two howitzers belonging to the little army post. A couple of sentries patrolled in front of the guardhouse and looked with wondering eyes on the strange outfit scampering past.

"I wish to speak with your commanding officer," said Ives. "Be good enough to hand him my card and say 'tis a matter of life and death!"

"Yes, and it'll be wuss'n death if he ain't pritty durn lively," muttered Ben. Then as the orderly turned away he called after him: "Tell the cap'n Dallon gang's broke loose ag'in. They've stole a railroad train! Guess that'll fetch him," he chuckled.

In less than 60 seconds appeared the officer of the day, Lieutenant Crosby, holding between thumb and forefinger the limp and water soaked piece of pasteboard which Ives had sent in.

"This is Mr. Ives, I presume," he said, addressing the New Yorker and looking with polite amazement at his sorry plight.

"Yes, sir, and this is Ben Gallup, a teamster who picked me up on the road a few miles north of this place more dead than alive. The case is most urgent. Several women are in peril at the hands of the Dallon gang."

"Pray step this way, Mr. Ives," was the courteous request, and seats were given them, while a messenger was dispatched to rouse Colonel Byng, the commandant. They had not long to wait. The mere mention of the Dallon gang, as Ben Gallup had surmised, was enough, and the orderly returned almost immediately to say they were to proceed to the colonel's quarters.

They found that officer just finishing his breakfast, and after the necessary introduction Chester proceeded to tell his thrilling story, which was punctured with sundry exclamations of "Ha!" and "So!" from the attentive soldier.

"Well, Mr. Ives," he said as the former ceased, pulling his gray mustache, "strictly speaking, this is no affair for the military arm; 'tis a job for the sheriff. But I'll take the responsibility and do the explaining afterward. Can you guide us to the mouth of the cave?"

"I'm afraid not, sir," was the reply. "We were blindfolded after leaving the cars, and I made my exit by a totally different route, as you see," he ended, ruefully looking down at his shapeless garments.

"I presume your water tunnel is not available as a base of attack?"

"I should say not," replied Ives, "even if I could find the mouth of it again, which I doubt."

"Do you know the locality?" Colonel Byng inquired, turning to Gallup, who sat silently chewing a straw all this while.

"Like a pictur' book!" was the laconic reply. "Why, I was one o' the last men to drive a pick in Bone gulch!"

"Then you're the man we want," was the clinching answer. "How many men shall you need, Crosby?"

"Scuse me, Cunnel Byng," broke in Gallup, "them fellers won't be caught asleep—not by no means. They must be took unawares. You'll want two squads at least."

"How many are in the gang?" inquired the lieutenant of Ives.

"Not over 20, I should say. But let me beg you to act quickly. Think of those poor women in the clutches of such miscreants!"

"Rely upon it, Mr. Ives, all shall be done that can be done, and that immediately. You will accompany the troops, I presume?"

"Most assuredly!" was the reply.

"Then in that case permit me to offer you a mount, and while the men are falling in you may as well refresh yourself. From what you say there is ample time. 'Tis not yet 12 o'clock. The two watchers will not begin to expect your friend Filley for three or four hours yet, and in any event they could not be back in Bone gulch before sunset, as they said. So your people are safe till then or even till tomorrow morning. Dallon wants the money more than anything else, and he won't proceed to extremities until he is convinced there is no hope of getting the ransom."

"I trust it may be as you say," said Ives.

In less than an hour there rode forth a little company of mounted troopers, seasoned fighters all of them, numbering exactly 20, under the command of Lieutenant Crosby. By his side on either hand rode Chester Ives and Ben Gallup, the former much refreshed after a bath and a brush down. Thus, it will be seen, the expedition numbered just 23 men.

All that day the little force rode southward over the hot and dusty Colorado trail, treading their tortuous path among the foothills, piloted by Ben Gallup. At sunset they were less than two miles from Bone gulch, according to Ben, but as it was then too late to think of attacking that night the expedition proceeded to bivouac. No fires were kindled for fear of betraying their presence to any of Jim Dallon's pickets.

A Practical Joke.

He was a wag and was passing a large draper's shop in Manchester. There, drawn up, were three or four vehicles, and among them was a closed brougham with the driver fast asleep on the box. Evidently the mistress was inside the shop. Without a word the wag stole quickly up and, opening the carriage door, carefully slammed it to. In an instant the coachman straightened himself up and gazed up the street as if he had never seen anything more interesting to look at in his life. Then he stole a look over his shoulder and saw the wag standing, hat in hand, apparently conversing with some one inside the carriage.

"Thank you, yes. Good morning," said the practical joker and bowed himself gracefully away from the door, turning as he did so to look at the coachman and say, "Home!"

"Yes, sir! Tch! Get up!" and away went the brougham "home."

Where that "home" was, who the mistress of the carriage was or what she did or said when she came out of the shop or what the coachman did or said when he stopped at the door of "home" and found the carriage empty—all that only the coachman and the lady know.—London Tit-Bits.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Aug. 26—Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

Topic.—Ministering to Christ.—Math. xxv, 31-46.

In the topical reference we have a picture of the grand concluding act of the several judgments described in this chapter of eschatological discourses. It is not a parable, though Christ does speak of a shepherd dividing the sheep from the goats, but it is an awful, solemn reality. All nations appear before Christ for judgment at the time of His second coming. These are divided into two classes, one on his right hand, the other on his left. To one he says, "Come," to the other, "Depart." The judgment that determines the place of each is decided by works. This is natural and necessary. Judgment in all cases must be according to works, but Christian works are inseparable from Christian faith. These works were done in Christ's name and for His sake. They were the result of faith and not good, moral works apart from faith. These will not save. The efficacy of works depends upon their spirit and motive rather than their outward appearance. The only works that will count in the day of judgment will be those that have been the result of faith in Christ. It will not be our ministering unto our fellow men, but our ministering unto Christ, that will be of value in His eyes in that day.

1. Ministering to Christ. Those on the right hand of Christ had ministered unto Him. (1) They ministered unto Him by ministering unto their fellow men who were in need of help. They fed the hungry, visited the sick, clothed the naked in His name, and therefore did it unto Him. If Christ were actually on earth, how gladly we would minister to Him. But let us see Him in every one about us who needs our assistance, and help Him in helping them. (2) Those who ministered to Christ were amply rewarded by an abundant entrance into heaven. No service for Christ goes unrewarded. A cup of cold water given in His name has its reward. Let us lay up treasures in heaven by ministering to suffering, needy humanity in the name of Christ.

2. Failure to minister to Christ. Those on Christ's left hand, to whom He said, "Depart," had failed to minister to Him. The judgment pronounced presupposes opportunity, yet they pleaded ignorance, but their excuse was not accepted. They had failed to believe in Christ and to serve Him by serving their fellow men in His name, and eternal doom was pronounced upon them.

This picture of the judgment tremendously emphasizes the importance of faith in Christ and a life of service for Christ. The judgments passed were final and irrevocable. The results of these judgments were eternal. The word punishment in verse 46 is not annihilation, but positive misery. In this verse "endless and boundless life is contrasted with endless and boundless misery. The two facts—one transcendentally glorious, the other unspeakably awful—are revealed; the details, blissful and terrible alike, are wisely withheld."

THE PRAYER MEETING.

This would be an opportune time for a comprehensive study of the subject of the general judgment, the time, characteristics and accompanying events. Study (1) the judge, (2) the judged, (3) the grounds of judgment, (4) the verdicts.

Self Sacrificing Love.

A mother wins her child's love by caring for him, by feeding him, dressing and caressing him. But when, in case of sickness, the mother sacrifices her rest and comfort by nursing a son such a child will never forget this manifestation of a mother's love and will try to repay it. Should this mother, however, in consequence of her self denying love, herself become ill and die, her memory will never vanish from the mind of a well disposed child. Recently there was a great fire in a western city. The father rescued all his children, but in doing so he became himself a cripple for life. But his children treated him like a saint. The very scars in his face seemed beautiful to them because they were manifestations of a father's self sacrificing love.—Reform Church Messenger.

A Homely Parable.

Lots of folks who would like to do right think that servin the Lord means shoutin themselves hoarse praisin His name. Now, I'll tell you how I look at that. I'm workin here for Jim. Now, if I'd sit round the house here, tellin what a good fellow Jim is an singin songs to him I'd be doin just what lots of Christians do, but it wouldn't suit Jim, an I'd get fired mighty quick. But when I hustle among the hills an see that Jim's herds are all right an not sufferin for water an feed or bein off the range branded by cattle thieves, then I'm servin Jim as he wants to be served.—A Converted Cowboy in Episcopal Recorder.

The Cure of Manmindedness.

A disciple turned manward in his mind instead of Godward is a stumbling block in the way of Christ—a hindrance to His purpose. The cure of manmindedness is Christheartedness. The mind's look will follow the heart's love. We are drawn onward and upward to have the mind of Christ.—American Friend.

Born of Agitation.

Ideas are born of agitation. They fall through the air like fruit shaken from a tree. Contentment is the surest symptom of death. Satisfaction is often another name for indifference. It is a grave to all future possibility.—Presbyterian Journal.

THE NEW YORK STATE BUILDING, PAN-AMERICAN EXPOSITION.

Copyright, 1900, by the Pan-American Exposition Co.

The New York State Building at the Pan-American Exposition, to be held at Buffalo in 1901, is to be an edifice of substantial and enduring character. The architect is Mr. George Cary, of Buffalo. He has chosen for his guidance in the work a Greek temple of the Doric order, adapting his plans to the purposes for which the building is intended. The site chosen is on high ground near Elmwood Avenue, overlooking the North Bay of the lake in Delaware Park and near the principal entrance to the Exposition grounds by street cars. The location is not only thus convenient to the electric cars, but one that is fortunate and beautiful as well from every standpoint, so that the building will add to the beauty of this popular pleasure ground. Immediately in front and across the park bay the Albright Art Gallery will stand as a companion piece in the park picture. The building will be used during the Exposition as New York State headquarters, and will contain certain of the State exhibits. After the Exposition it will become the permanent home of the Buffalo Historical Society, whose large collection of pioneer and other historical relics will be placed therein. The floor area will be three times that now used by the Historical Society in the building of the Buffalo Public Library. The dimensions of the building are 130 x 82 feet, the north front to be 20 feet less than the south. The height is 33 feet on the north and 40 feet on the south walls. The height of the basement is 12 feet, and the second floor walls reach to the roof, making the ceiling 18 feet high. In the basement are janitor's quarters and bicycle rooms (which may be entered at grade from Elmwood Avenue), boiler and coal rooms, storage rooms, etc. A dining room containing 1,906 square feet faces the park to the south. On the ground floor is also one of the Museum rooms, which communicates with the floor above by a grand staircase.

PECK GIVEN A LIFE SENTENCE.

Assaulted a Four-Year-Old Child and Was Responsible For the Akron Riot.

Cleveland, Aug. 25.—Louis Peck, the colored man who last Monday evening assaulted 4-year-old Christina Maas, at Akron, and whose crime is responsible for the fearful rioting that occurred at Akron Wednesday night and Thursday morning, was Friday afternoon taken from the jail at Cleveland, where he had been removed for safety, rushed to Akron, taken to the courthouse, and within five minutes after his arrival in Akron, was convicted of the crime and sentenced to the penitentiary for life at hard labor. He had been indicted by a grand jury, which had been impanelled during the afternoon. Judge Nye pronounced the sentence. Within two minutes after the sentence had been pronounced, Peck had been placed on board a Cleveland, Akron and Columbus train, and, in charge of the sheriff and an assistant, he was taken to Columbus.

Result of the Worcester Shoot.

Worcester, Mass., Aug. 25.—The two days New England championship tournament of Worcester Sportsmen's club closed Friday. H. M. Federhen, Jr., of Boston, who shoots as Herbert, was winner of the 100-bird race for the championship with a score of 96. D. W. Sawin of Gardner was second with 95 and won the silver loving cup emblematic of the amateur championship of New England. Federhen was rated in the expert class and Sawin was declared amateur champion, despite Federhen's protest. Leroy was winner of the purse for highest average throughout the two days.

A Serious Labor Row.

New York, Aug. 25.—An attack was made on a number of men employed in the freight sheds of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western railroad at South Ninth street, Brooklyn, Friday, by former employes because the men had taken their places when they went out on strike a week ago. As a result of the attack three of the new men were injured, one seriously, while the saloon of John D. Kastens, where two of the injured men had taken refuge for protection, was partly wrecked, and the proprietor was also assaulted. Four men were arrested.

Alleged Plotter Against Roberts Killed.

London, Aug. 25.—A special dispatch from Pretoria says that Lieutenant Cordua was shot Friday afternoon. Cordua was tried at Pretoria for conspiracy to murder British officers at Pretoria and to kidnap Lord Roberts. His counsel made an eloquent plea for his life, asserting that the plot was originated by a British secret service agent, and that Codrua had been led into it. Sentence of death was passed on Cordua, and the sentence was approved by the British commander-in-chief.

Vessel and Cargo Lost.

Manila, Aug. 25.—The Japanese liner Futami Maru, bound from Australia with a cargo of stores for the American government, went aground and broke in twain on the Island of Mindanao. The passengers and crew camped for six days on the island. They are now being brought to Manila by the British steamer Australia, the officers of the luckless liner remaining behind. There were no casualties, but the cargo, baggage and vessel will probably prove a total loss.

New Vessel a Total Wreck.

Philadelphia, Aug. 25.—Information was received here of the stranding during a hurricane of the new British tramp steamer Indra, which sailed with a cargo of sugar from Sourahaya, Java, June 10, for Philadelphia. The vessel is ashore and a total loss at Gardafui, on the coast of Africa, at the entrance to the gulf of Aden. Of the crew of 38 men 29 were saved, and it is believed the others perished in the gale or were carried into captivity by the natives.

ATTITUDE OF RUSSIA.

Report That She Has Declared War on China Disturbs the Administration.

The United States Against a Division of the Empire.

Should It Occur, However, Our Rights as to Commercial Freedom Are Clear.

Washington, Aug. 25.—The cabinet was in session Friday until nearly 2 o'clock. At its close the members were more reticent than usual as to what occurred. It can be stated, however, that this government has so far received no official or well authenticated information that the Russian government has declared war on China, or that it is her immediate purpose to do so. The published report that she has actually taken this step undoubtedly is disturbing to the administration, inasmuch as such action would greatly complicate the situation and probably paralyze the president's efforts to bring about an early peace. This apprehension is somewhat intensified by the fear that Germany also may contemplate a declaration of war. No reliable information to that effect has reached the government, but it is regarded as not altogether impossible, in view of the murder of the German minister, and the recent reported utterances of the emperor and Field Marshal Count Waldersee, that measures of the most drastic character may be in contemplation.

LI PING HENG.

Anti-foreign general, whose death is reported by Consul Fowler.

Regarding the attitude of this government in case serious differences among the powers should arise as to their future course in China, it was stated on authority that this government remained opposed to any territorial division of China, as was plainly stated in Secretary Hay's note of July 3. Every resource of diplomacy will be exhausted to prevent partition of the empire, and it was said that the diversion of American troops to Manila, already announced by the war department, was practical evidence to the other powers of the good faith of the United States in this matter. Our work in China has been accomplished in large part by the relief of the legations and our further obligation, that of aiding to restore and maintain peace, can be accomplished through the troops already on Chinese soil. It is pointed out, however, that in view of the attitude already assumed by the United States and the large part it has had in opening the way to Pekin, this government is in a position to demand commercial freedom in China as a minimum condition of the final settlement in the event of territorial division of the Chinese empire, should that be accomplished. The United States of course wants no territory, and it is felt that her rights as to commercial freedom are too clear to be gainsaid by the other nations interested.

After the cabinet meeting yesterday there was an extended conference at the White House, in which Secretary Root and Acting Secretary Adee participated. The conference related to Chinese affairs, and it was said to be confined largely to considering messages received from other powers on the subject and in drafting answers to them. The suggestion that the powers be asked to participate in a conference or to give some indication of future purposes in China was believed to be under consideration, and it was intimated that notes to the different powers have been prepared. Secretary Root said, at the close of the conference, that it related to matters which need the consideration of the president and covered the wide field of Chinese affairs. He said that nothing had developed of a serious nature in the late reports from China. It was also stated that the United States government is in frequent communication with the other powers regarding the Chinese situation.

During the afternoon Acting Secretary Adee had a conference with the acting chief of the bureau of navigation, the nature of which was not made public. It was said in the navy department, however, that so far as known here we have no warships at Amoy. The Princeton has touched there occasionally while on duty in south Chinese waters, but she is thought to be now in the vicinity of Shanghai.

Li Peng Heng, whose death a dispatch from Consul Fowler records, is the general who was reported to have arirved in Pekin with 10,000 troops during the latter part of July, to assist the imperial armies in the capital. He was decidedly anti-foreign in his sentiments, and it was he who was supposed to be responsible for the decapitation of two well-known members of the tsung li yamen, which, according to reports, occurred a short time ago.

CAMPAIGN ISSUES REVIEWED.

Porto Rican Affairs Brought Up as Argument Against the Republicans.

Beatrice, Neb. Aug. 25.—Mr. Bryan made his third regular speech of the day here last night, having addressed audiences at Manhattan and Marysville, Kan., and at numerous intermediate points. The speeches earlier in the day were at greater length than the one delivered last night, but all of them covered a general range of public questions.

Mr. Bryan's first stop in his own state was at the village of Barnstown. His address here was a review of the general issues of the campaign. More than usual attention was given to the legislation concerning Porto Rico. He used this as an illustration of what the Republican party would do in other countries if the opportunity should offer. This legislation he regarded as a specimen of imperialism, and a good illustration of what could be expected of a Republican congress. Speaking of the Filipinos Mr. Bryan asked: "Republicans, are you not ashamed to say that God would make Filipinos and leave them thousands of years until Hanna found them?"

Mr. Bryan left Beatrice this morning for Lincoln, and in the afternoon goes to Omaha, where he speaks tonight.

A Croker-Murphy Victory.

Amsterdam, N. Y., Aug. 25.—The Croker-Murphy faction of the Democratic party carried every ward in this city at Friday night's primaries, electing 43 delegates. This will enable them to control the Montgomery county Democratic convention next Tuesday, and to elect three anti-Hill and anti-Coler delegates to the state convention. Montgomery county was carried for Hill at the last convention.

Westerners Will Hear Hill.

Chicago, Aug. 25.—Chairman Jones of the Democratic national committee says that David B. Hill will make some speeches in the west during the campaign. Chairman Marion Butler will arrive in Chicago on Monday next, to attend the meeting of the People's party national committee. There probably fiswill be a conference between the two chairmen.

Maine Sure For Republicans.

New York, Aug. 25.—Congressman Grosvenor of Ohio, who has just returned from a stumping tour in Maine, was among the callers at the national Republican headquarters Friday. When asked how Maine would go, he said: "It will go Republican, of course, but not by so large a majority as four years ago."

Victim of Live Wire.

Philadelphia, Aug. 25.—Hoseman Barrow was working in the fire station when his head came in contact with a live wire which was stretched across the room. He was rendered unconscious by the shock and fell to the ground, sustaining dangerous injuries. Electrician Magee was summoned to examine the wire and while making an inspection grasped an uninsulated portion in one hand and thoughtlessly placed the other hand against a brass ventilator, the current of electricity thus caused resulting in his instant death.

Lynching May Follow Capture.

Sheffield, Ind., Aug. 25.—A posse of citizens is out after four tramps, who shot Frank Garritty and Patrick Welch last evening. The posse has, it is reported, surrounded the men in a cornfield, and the fugitives will fare badly if caught. Garritty and Welch were walking along the bank of the canal when they were met by the men, who demanded money. Garritty and Welch had none, and the four tramps at once opened fire, slightly wounding Garritty, and putting three bullets into Welch, who will die.

Possible Loss of Half a Million.

Janesville, Wis., Aug. 25.—A terrific hail swept over Rock county Friday evening, and it is estimated that two-fifths of the tobacco crop is ruined. If this should prove to be the case the loss would reach $500,000.

BUSINESS LACKS SNAP.

Fall Trade, However, Is Looked Forward to With Much Hopefulness.

New York, Aug. 25.—Bradstreet's says: Contrary trade currents still give an appearance of irregularity to the entire situation, but good and unfavorable influences conspire to bring about a sort of balance which accords well with the weather conditions and the particular season of the year. If clearances returns are to be regarded, the tide of trade was about at its ebb last week, but it is well known that clearings rarely, except in times of speculative excitement, reflect present conditions.

In the iron trade the corner has apparently been turned for the better, and there is a perceptible improvement in the jobbing demand at leading western markets. Prices, too, are steady, what few decreases are noted being largely due to improved crop conditions, particularly of corn and cotton. Despite the reports which have pictured the corn crop as heavily shortened by hot winds, the reports of Bradstreet's from Nebraska, Kansas City and St. Louis are, as a whole, quite encouraging. The lowered price of cotton is largely due to the arrival of needed rains in the south Atlantic states. Chief among the advances of the week has been wheat, which has reflected the freest export buying for weeks past.

In the list of unfavorable features holiday quiet in many lines is notable at the leading eastern centers, although some improvement in dry goods jobbing is reported at several points. The dullness in general speculation is marked, stocks and food products being very inactive. In the textile trades quiet in cotton goods is still notable, and the spring season for men's wear woolens drags perceptibly. Raw wool is quiet, and the manufacturers are buying to fill orders actually booked. Raw cotton is at a deadlock, crop uncertainties and extremely small supplies being belanced by the less favorable outlook for the manufactured goods.

All in all, the trade situation may be said to lack snap, but there is little appearance of weakness, and hopefulness as to the fall trade outlook is expressed in spite of its presumably being a year of election excitement.

A Powerful Engine of Destruction.

South Bethlehem, Pa., Aug. 25.—The new 18-inch Gathman torpedo gun, the largest ever built in this country, was tested Friday at the Bethlehem steel works to determine the velocity of the shot and the strength of the gun, and proved a success. The government required the tests to show a pressure of 18,000 pounds per inch and a velocity of 18,000 feet to the second. Four shots weighing a ton were fired Friday. The gun is intended for coast defense. The inventor claims that it throws a shell 15 miles. The gun is 44 feet long and weighs 59 tons. General Miles, after the test, said he was satisfied with the result.

Blame Placed Upon Police.

New York, Aug. 25.—Dr. M. S. N. Pierre, a negro from British Guiana, and 200 of his fellow British subjects have prepared a petition to Percy Sanderson, British consul, asking him to take the necessary steps for their protection. The petition alleges that the signers were brutally attacked by the mob in the recent riots, and that the police, instead of giving them protection, actually urged and incited the mob to great fury.

May Appeal to United States.

Kingston, Jam., Aug. 25.—The Mosquito coast delegates were received by Governor Hemming Friday. They assert that the Nicaraguans deny them the franchise, close their schools and outrage their wives and daughters. Unless Great Britain acts in the matter the natives will appeal—so the delegates declare—to the United States for help and protection.

Probable Bishop of Portland Diocese.

Washington, Aug. 25.—It is learned from an official source that the names of three candidates for the vacant see of Portland, Me., have been sent to Rome jointly by the prelates of the Boston province. It is understood that Rev. Dr. Thomas J. Shahan of the Catholic university stands an excellent chance of appointment as the next bishop of Portland.

President Urged to Visit Chicago

Chicago, Aug. 25.—Telegrams were sent to President McKinley Friday by a number of officials and friends. Commander-in-Chief Shaw asked the president to make a sacrifice for the sake of the old soldiers, who have been looking forward to meeting him in Chicago. He urged the president to be present for the parade of Tuesday.

Lightning and Miniature Flood.

St. Joseph, Mich., Aug. 25.—The worst electrical storm of years struck here Friday. The steeple of the Lutheran church was splintered by lightning, and 10 barns, a few miles south of here, were also struck and burned to the ground. A huge wave washed away a number of small boats and thousands of feet of lumber.

Good Afternoon.

The staging has been removed this week from the belfry of First church and the tarnished dome, which has been likened by someone to a rusty inverted tin pail, is to continue to be an eyesore. It is surprising that parish and townspeople have not more pride in the matter.

At the time of acceptance of plans for new Quincy depot, the Council's special committee claimed considerable credit for the plans which the board finally adopted. If this committee is still in existence, a little pressure brought to bear on the management to enhance the architectural features of the station on the easterly side would be appreciated by an aggrieved public. It is hardly to the committee's credit that such a looking structure was allowed to pass its scrutiny without a protest.

Gov. Roosevelt a Member.

The Animal Defenders Society, composed of the pupil of the Washington school, were entertained by Mrs. Frances M. Wainwright on Friday. There were readings, singing and refreshments. A unique feature of the affair was a mammoth cake which when brought forth was seen to have a number of strings protruding from it. Each child was given a string which upon being pulled brought to the holder a toy. During the afternoon a letter was received from Gov. Roosevelt of New York, accepting a membership in the society, and congratulating the children and there work. He urged them to be kind to animals and encouraged them to continue in their good work.

COSTLY FOR CITY.

The Complainant and State Divide Fines Paid by Fishermen

For years a time honored pastime in the water surrounding this city is the catching of smelts. Quincy smelts are famous from one end of the coast to the other. As about 99 out of every 100 fishermen are people who are obliged to work six days in a week, it follows that early Sunday morning quite a number of boats will be scattered over the bay after these fish. Their occupants are invariably quiet and orderly. These fishermen are some of our best citizens.

This summer, some person for gain has caused a number of these fishermen to be arrested and brought before the police court. Under the laws it was necessary to impose a fine. There has been so much inquiry regarding the arrest of these men that Capt. W. H. Proctor of the State Police, who has charge of the enforcement of the fishing laws, in answer to an inquiry to Chief Wade, writes as follows, under date of Aug. 23.

"Dear Sir: Your letter to Chief Wade was referred to me and in reply will say that it is a violation of the law to catch or attempt to catch fish on the Lord's day. See Chapter 98, Sect. 11 of the Public Statutes."

The section referred to reads as follows:

"Whoever attempts to take or catch any fish on the Lord's day, by using any hook, line, net, spear, or other implement, shall be punished by a fine not exceeding ten dollars."

The officer who has made these arrests is a resident of Milton. Under Chapter 360 of the acts of 1899 one half of the fines and fees are paid to him, and the other half goes to the state. As it costs this city about $15 for each smelter convicted, it may be necessary to make an extra appropriation for the police department if all the smelters are to be arrested.

It is understood that the enforcement of the law does not have the sanction of any of the State officers. It's resurrection and enforcement this late day will probably result in the repealing of the law by the General Court next winter.

HERE AND THERE.

Local Brevities of the City of Presidents.

Another band concert in City Square tonight.

As hot and muggy a day as most anyone desires.

Judge Pratt was on the bench at the District Court this morning to try the Blackwell liquor case from Weymouth.

Anyone looking for houses in the centre of the city, at a moderate rental should call upon George W. Prescott.

It is understood that work is to be commenced soon building an addition to the street railway car barn in City Square.

Two of the St. John's C. L. & A. A. acrobats, Charles Pitts and Arthur Dunn turned professionals last night, by giving an interesting exhibition before a large aunience at C. J. Gorman's theatre, New Downer Landing. They performed so well that Mr. Gorman gave them another engagement the week commencing September 3, and they will be accompanied by Mr. John Coffee.

How to Get Winter Eggs.

Would you like to have three or four times the usual quantity of eggs to sell when egg prices go away up? When eggs bring half a dollar a dozen the troubles of poultry keeping seem worth while—if you are not in the usual predicament of having no eggs just when you want them most.

If you really want to make the most of the mid-winter egg harvest the time to make ready is right now. In August and September when hens are moulting, feed them once a day, in the morning mash, Sheridan's Condition Powder. It has a remarkable tonic effect. It is not a food, but makes all the food more nourishing, makes plumage quickly, aids digestion and stimulates the ovaries so that eggs are produced rapidly when the rise in price begins.

Experts who have made the largest known profits on eggs endorse this as the result of all their experience. A hen produces, they say about 600 eggs. The profitable way to handle her is to get all of these eggs possible in two years, then kill the hen. Two or three years costly and useless feeding of the hen are saved, and by the judicious use of Sheridan's Condition Powder the yield of eggs is greatest in the cold weather when they are worth most.

To any person interested, I. S. Johnson & Co., Boston, Mass., the only makers of Sheridan's Condition Powder, will send for 50 cents, two 25 cent packages.

BOYS FOR HOUSE SERVANTS.

Experiment Being Tried In Milwaukee, It Is Said, With Success.

The servant girl question is a burning issue in Milwaukee. Housekeepers are in despair. Many of them cannot get servants of any kind, and others get such poor ones that they wish they had none at all. A new movement has been started there within a short time by the management of certain charitable employment agencies who make a specialty of trying to find work for all sorts and conditions of people.

During the last few weeks several housekeepers have taken on trial boys ranging in age from 14 to 18 and are training them to take the place in the household which has ordinarily been filled by the servant girl, says the Chicago Chronicle. In two cases which have come under immediate observation the results have been reported to be exceedingly satisfactory. The boys do not learn quite as readily as do the girls, but they have better memories and seldom have to be told a second time what is required of them. They do not ask for the thousand and one privileges which the modern servant girl now demands as her right. They work for less wages and on the whole make much more satisfactory servants, and it may be that the boy will take the place in the household that the girl has crowded him out of in the factory.

As the servant girls become more scarce and harder to get their demands for pay and privileges increase in exactly the same ratio as the difficulty in getting them. A Prospect avenue housekeeper had a servant apply for a position, and she seemed so satisfactory that the lady had already begun to congratulate herself upon securing a treasure. Satisfactory terms had been agreed upon and a mutual agreement reached as to duties and privileges.

"By the way," said the new girl, "I am taking music lessons now, and I shall expect to have the privilege of using the piano for practice two hours each day."

"Indeed you cannot. My piano is for the use of myself and my guests. I do not care to have my servants use it. You will not suit me. You can go." And the lady who told the story, although she has repeated it a number of times, cannot yet do so without expressing great indignation at what she deemed to be a preposterous request.

PRAIRIE CHICKENS IN PLENTY

Excellent Shooting Promised This Year Through Entire Northwest.

The opening of the shooting season in Minnesota and the Dakotas promises more sport than has been known for many years, says the St. Paul correspondent of the New York Sun. The prairies are teeming with chickens and quail. The dry spring enabled the chickens to hatch without loss, and in many parts of the country two broods are found. All over Minnesota where chickens are to be found come reports of thousands of birds to be found near the wheatfields in the long prairie grass.

Prairie chickens are more than half grown, and a better crop of the feathered tribe has not been raised in the northwest for many years. Instead of dying out, as was predicted with the settlement of the country, the prairie fowl seems to have adapted itself to the agricultural districts and to have begun an increase that promises to overshadow the former times when they were forced to subsist on the wild berries and rice. Grain is much more to their liking, and they are now to be found wherever wheat and corn are raised and in the winter months in the timbers adjacent to the fields.

Shooting will be excellent, and already the sportsman is getting ready for his annual raid on the feeding grounds. The railroads are now advertising the chicken shooting opportunities of the northwest as an inducement for sportsmen to travel over their lines, but it may be said truly that this year hunters will find good shooting everywhere. The season opens in Minnesota on Sept. 1, in South Dakota on Aug. 15 and in North Dakota and Wisconsin on Sept. 1.

Plover and snipe shooting, which by many is regarded as the finest sport of all the wild fowl hunting, is already under way, and many birds have found their way to market. The English curlew, the jack snipe and the reedbird are to be found on the prairies in the neighborhood of swamps or ponds, and the former are much sought by hunters owing to their scarcity and to the fact that they only go in pairs or singly. Duck hunting promises unusual sport this fall, as the dry season will concentrate the birds near the wild rice beds, where they may be found by hundreds and thousands.

Where Less Counts.

Hatless girls, horseless carriages, coatless men. What next? Less seems, according to the Erie Times, to be getting more.

The Shirt Waist Man.

When the sun is shining downward
And is hot as all get out,
Then it keeps you guessing daily
How you ought to go about.
The latest great improvement,
Built upon the iceberg plan,
Is the coming of a creature
Called "the shirt waist man."

He strolls along serenely,
While all others cuss the heat;
He never wears a coat or vest
And looks so cool and neat.
Most everybody wonders
Why they ever used a fan
Since the coming of a creature
Called "the shirt waist man."

But the general public swelters,
As a rule of etiquette,
And many men will suffer
Just to be a social pet.
The year of 1900
Has removed an awful ban
By the coming of a creature
Called "the shirt waist man."

THE TENTH DISTRICT.

A Probability That the Milton Man Will Carry Ward 24, Boston.

A well known Dorchester Republican writes: Ward 24, Boston, has to date been the fighting ground of the Tenth Congressional district for the Republican nomination. It is the home of ex-Congressman Atwood, who is again a candidate; but indications are that he will not have the usual easy time in keeping the voters in line. Many who have been prominent in the past in his support are no longer with him. They feel that they want a change. That they have stood up manfully and fought his battles long enough. They see no better chance to elect him now than in 1898, or 1896, and not as good as in 1894 when the Democracy had rival candidates against him. The plea for vindication has been heard too often, and now they feel that it is Republican success, rather that the success of Mr. Atwood, that should be the goal.

Of course there are others who who, as in the past, are opposed to Mr. Harrison A. Atwood on principle, but as yet they have not been an aggressive factor in the campaign. It is not an Atwood and anti-Atwood contest this year, that is for the nomination, but should the Dorchester man be nominated the usual opposition would speedily be kindled. The impression among Republican voters, that Mr. Atwood could not be elected, if nominated, prevails to a large degree, and for this reason they do not enthuse over him as in the past. The attitude of Mr. Atwood and his followers toward the nominee of the party in the last two campaigns has not helped his cause any among Republicans at large.

This year the Republicans want a candidate around whom the whole party can rally and win, and the candidacy of Dr. George B. Pierce, of Milton has met with favor for this reason. He has not been identified with either faction, yet his friends point with pride to his ability and success in life.

Much work in his behalf has been done in the Boston wards, especially in Ward 24 which has 13 delegates and already it is prophesied that he will carry Mr. Atwood's home ward.

Much has been said about Mr. Atwood having the support of the State Committee and Boston City Hall, but the claim can be discounted.

The only other candidate who is likely to receive Boston delegates, is ex-Senator Towle, who may or may not carry Ward 12; but these number only 10. Where will he get the other 45 to win? His only chance is after the first ballot, in case the convention cannot unite on one of the leaders.

If John Shaw of Quincy comes to the Neponset river with the solid Quincy delegates of 21, he must have 34 more to secure the nomination. His chances are but little better than Mr. Towle.

With Messrs. Towle and Shaw in the field,—the former backed by Ward 12 and the latter by Quincy solid—the strength of Pierce and Atwood may be about equal. To win, one or the other must secure some of the Quincy delegates. Who will get them? This is the nut for the politician to crack. As yet no work has been done in Quincy for Dr. Pierce of Milton, but his candidacy has attracted some attention and favorable comment. He possesses that geniality necessary for a candidate for office, and makes friends upon acquaintance. Everybody in Milton speaks well of him, and his character cannot be assailed.

THE NEW SHIP YARD

Some of the Large New Buildings Are Now Completed.

The writer paid a visit to the works of the new plant of the Fore River Engine Co., at Quincy Neck and found the progress which had been made beyond comprehension. Through the courtesy of the superintendent, Mr. Charles O. Miller, to whom great credit is due for the rapid progress made, your correspondent was enabled to thoroughly inspect the various departments.

Only four months ago, the eleventh day of April, the first shovelful of earth was removed for the foundations and today the big ship tool shop, 392 feet in length, is complete and all the big machinery has arrived from Smith's yards, Scotland, and is set up ready to put in motion. The machine shop 118 by 209, is also complete as is also the power house, 67x108.

Three large 150 horse power boilers have been set in their respective positions and one of the large 370 horse power Corliss engines is being bolted down upon its foundation. The big forge shop, 81x201 in dimension, is nearly framed ready to be raised.

Foundations are also being put in position for a stock room, which will be 72x166, two stories in height. Also for the wood working shop which is 72x305, two stories high. The upper floor will be used as a mound loft upon which the vessels to be built in the yards will be laid out. This loft will be the entire size of the building without any posts or obstruction. The timbers used in these buildings are of extra large size, some of which measure 14x18 inches and the entire construction is built of Georgia hard pine.

The two sky-lights in the machine shop, the size of which is 12 feet wide by 200 feet long, each, are made with the translucent fabric manufactured at Wollaston, and add much beauty to the interior of the building, which is the finest lighted of its kind in the country.

The dredging for the ways of the new cruiser Des Moines, which is the first vessel to be built at these yards, is completed; the blocking is being put in position and the keel which has been built at the old works will be laid the coming week and work will continue with rapidity.

This firm is the possessor of a locomotive, twenty-six flat and dump cars, which are kept busy from 5 A. M., to 7.30 P. M. Side tracks are running in all directions and all material is handled through this channel. About 200 men are empoyed at present and business is hustling in all the departments.—Braintree Observer.

NOT A CANDIDATE.

Mayor Hall Would Not Accept Nomination for Representative.

The name of Mayor Hall has been suggested by several of late, as a good man to send to the Legislature. Not that there were not enough in the field possible, but both to reward past services and at the same time to pave the way for others with mayoralty aspirations. But the Mayor does not take kindly to the suggestion, as will be seen by the following letter:

Quincy, Mass, Aug. 25, 1900.
Messrs. G. W. Prescott & Son:
Gentlemen—I see by the Ledger that my name is being mentioned as a candidate for Representative to the General Court and I wish to say that this is entirely without my authority or consent. I am not a candidate for that office under any circumstances.
Respectfully,
John O. Hall.

The Mayor would evidently prefer a reelection to his present office, and the conduct of the city affairs would seem to entitle him to a renomination. This year there are no comments on the inefficency or integrity of officials, or that any of the appropriations are being squandered. The Mayor's knowledge of finances from his long service as City Auditor, made it possible for him to reduce the tax rate materially, when everybody was expecting an increase, and he says he can further reduce it another year. That is what the taxpayers want. The record of Mayor Hall will compare well with any of his predecessors.

The banquet tendered by Hon. John Shaw to Republican City Committee this evening will be confined strictly to the members of the committee, which numbers 42, seven from each ward.

At the last congressional election in 1898 Quincy gave Barrows 1727 votes; Naphen, 1276; all others 11. The vote of Milton was: Barrows 529; Naphen, 236; all others, 6. It was in the Boston wards that Mr. Naphen secured his majority.

The board of Registrars have fixed the following dates for registrations: Sept. 8, 12, 26, 29, Oct. 3. 6, 10, 13, 16, and 17.

NEVER FORSOOK HIM.

Fitzsimmons' Coolness and Hard Punches Put a Quietus on Sharkey.

Latter Is Knocked Insensible In the Second Round.

Left Himself Open In His Wild Efforts to Reach His Lanky Opponent.

New York, Aug. 25.—Robert Fitzsimmons again demonstrated that he is still a man to be considered in the heavyweight class of prize fighters by knocking Tom Sharkey out in the second round of what was to have been a 25-round go at the Coney Island Athletic club last night. His famous solar plexus blow, followed by a terrific left-hand punch on the jaw, sent the sailor down and out.

Whipped into insensibility in less than two rounds is the story in brief. Fitz said all along that when the opportunity presented itself he would prove conclusively that he was Sharkey's superior and settle accounts for the injustice done him when he met Sharkey in California four years ago.

Sharkey was equally confident that he would prove to be Fitzsimmons' master in the ring, but the result of Friday night's battle and the brevity of it proved that Fitzsimmons is still a great fighter, and able to beat the best of the heavyweights. He has beaten Corbett, Ruhlin and Sharkey, and now it is up to Jeffries to give Bob a show to retrieve his lost championship laurels which he lost to Jeffries 14 months ago in this same clubhouse.

Both of the men declared themselves to be in first-class condition, and they certainly looked it. Fitzsimmons had taken on a few pounds of flesh in weight since his meeting with Ruhlin, but neither he nor Sharkey would tell what they actually weighed. Sharkey, however, looked about 20 pounds the heavier.

When the men came together, Sharkey became the aggressor, rushing fiercely and swinging wildly. Fitzsimmons had no difficulty in side-stepping out of the way. Bob soon began feinting Sharkey into leads, and when the sailor tried his round-arm blows he left himself open, which Fitz was quick to take advantage of, as he stepped inside and put powerful right and left smashes on the sailor's body and neck. He stabbed Sharkey with his left, making the sailor lose his temper. Then Sharkey rushed more wildly than before, missing most of the swings, while Fitzsimmons was getting to him with great force and using both hands.

At the close of the round, Sharkey, with a terrific left swing, which landed on the shoulder and neck, put Fitzsimmons down to the floor of the ring, and Tom fell over him in his mad rush. Tom regained his feet quickly, but the bell rang with Fitzsimmons still on the floor. The spectators were cheering like wild men, and when Fitzsimmons got to his feet the men squared again for fight, evidently not having heard the bell amid the uproar. The referee rushed between them, sending them to their corners, and this is where Sharkey says he would have finished Fitzsimmons had he had 10 seconds more.

In the second round, Sharkey having gained confidence from his knocking Fitz down in the preceding round, went for his man as if to annihilate him, but Fitz out-generalled the younger man, who seemed to lose all control of himself in his frantic endeavors to land on Fitzsimmons. Fitz stepped in with a crushing right to the body and a ready left to the jaw, while the best Sharkey could do was to swing a left which landed in the middle of Fitzsimmons' back. There was fearful force behind this blow, as Fitz said after the fight was over that he felt as if he had been hit with a pickaxe in the small of the back.

Fitzsimmons' coolness never forsook him, and he watched Sharkey's wild efforts with evident satisfaction, as the sailor was leaving himself very open. Fitzsimmons stepped into him, and literally battered Sharkey down with right on the body, and left and right on the head. Sharkey took the count and came up very groggy. He staggered back to the ropes with Fitz after him. Sharkey was then unable to protect himself, and Fitz sent that fearful right once more to the body, following up with right and left to the body. Sharkey wobbled, but still had strength enough to keep on his feet. Fitz stepped in again with another right on the body, following twice with rights and lefts on the head and finished his work and the fight with a stinging left hook on the jaw, which sent Sharkey down and out.

It was a short, but hard fight, in which Fitzsimmons proved his superiority, and it is just possible that another meeting with Jeffries will result in Fitzsimmons again gaining the title of heavyweight champion of the world.

After the battle, when the men had returned to their dressing rooms, it was seen that Fitz did not show a mark. He had a slight cut on the inside of his lip, but that was all. Fitz said: "I've got very little to say, except that I'm glad I won, and won quickly. I am also glad for the sake of my wife and children, and I am going to hurry home to them with all possible speed. I will look for Jeffries next, and I will be ready to meet him as soon as arrangements can be made. I am an old man, but I'm not a has-been, and I feel that I can take care of myself against all comers for some time to come."

In an adjoining room Sharkey was being rubbed down by his handlers. He seemed to be crestfallen at his defeat. He said: "Well, I got licked sure enough, but I've got myself to blame for it. I should not have mixed it up. That is where I made the mistake. I wish the opening round had lasted about 15 seconds longer. I would have finished him, as I am sure I had him going when the bell separated us."

A Chinese Story.

M. Monnier, the well known French Asiatic traveler, vouches for the truth of the following story of how his friend, Hop Sing, a traveled oriental and man of means and refinement, was on one occasion sorely victimized. Hop Sing lived in the street of the roasted corn, as unsavory and as ill paved a street as any in all Peking. The local mandarin was an intimate friend of his, and Hop Sing availed himself of this friendship to press the mandarin to have the street repaved. Certainly. At once. The men would be at work on it before Hop Sing had returned home. A week passed, then another visit, and so on, until, in despair, Hop Sing determined to have the street repaired at his own expense. The work was satisfactorily completed.

The surprise of Hop Sing was only equaled by his indignation when, on awaking one morning, he found a gang of coolies upheaving the newly flagged street. His surprise grew when he heard from the mandarin's own lips that the men were there at his orders.

"You see, my dear friend," said the mandarin, "I am expecting the head inspector round here in a few days. Now, if he were to see the beautiful pavement you have laid down in your street he would come to the conclusion that there was money about, and he would assuredly bleed every vein in my body. This would mean my ruin. Don't you see why your pavement really must come up? It cost me one fortune to secure my post. I don't want to spend another in keeping it."

Thoreau's Mother's Ghost.

"Besides Thoreau and his mother, the house (at Concord) has had for its occupants A. Bronson Alcott and family, including his distinguished daughter, Louisa M., the author," writes Samuel S. Kingdon in The Ladies' Home Journal. "To them sometimes came the ghost of Mme. Thoreau. Those who know Mme. Thoreau and her habits confirm the description given by a servant, who left the house because of the visitation, in every detail; her tall, gaunt figure, her big, white cap, her stealthy step, her quiet comings, her noiseless goings.

"When seen, she invariably stood in the doorway, her great cap well adjusted, her neat handkerchief, half unfolded, tucked securely into the waistband of her full dress skirt—pausing a moment on the threshold, looking anxiously about, then stooping and running her finger along the edge of the mopboard, to see if perchance a speck of dust had found lodgment there. Proceeding to the workroom, she glanced in, then glided to the fireplace, stooping over it and motioning with her hands as if in the act of covering the coals with ashes.

"In life, it should be said, the two prominent characteristics of Mme. Thoreau were an abhorrence of dust and a dread of fire. Satisfied on these points, the spirit would disappear. Unlike other ghosts, this one always appeared in the daytime."

Anxious to Do His Best.

It was a mean trick, but, then, that is the kind that's usually successful.

"That dog," said the owner, "will bring me anything I send him for, and I am willing to bet on it."

Straightway a bet was arranged, and then the manager of the billiard hall suggested that he would like to have the pool table brought to him.

"Certainly," answered the owner of the dog, and he pointed to the table and said, "Fetch it!"

The dog raced around it once or twice and then grabbed a pocket and tore it off.

"Hold on!" cried the billiard man. "He'll ruin the table."

"Of course," answered the owner of the dog, "but if you give him time he'll get it all over here. You didn't suppose he could bring it in one trip, did you?"

But the billiard man paid the bet.—Chicago Post.

A Friend In Need.

About half an hour had been expended by the bashful young man in a series of advances and retreats, and little Johnny's cramped position behind the sofa was becoming somewhat painful.

Town Gossip.

It is generally agreed that the small town is a pleasant place to live in, except that there is always a great amount of gossip in such places. Why do not worthy people control in this matter of gossip as they do in other respects? Are the small towns of the country to be made undesirable as places of residences to please a lot of cheap people who ought to be controlled and regulated?—Atchison Globe.

Forewarned.

A Yorkshire vicar tells how he once received the following note from one of his parishioners: "This is to give notice that I and Miss Jemima Brearley are coming to your church on Saturday afternoon next to undergo the operation of matrimony at your hands. Please be prompt, as the cab is hired by the hour. Farewarned is forearmed."—London Tit-Bits.

His Simple System.

"How were you able," said the poor man, "to acquire such an immense fortune?"

"By a very simple method," replied the wealthy citizen. "When I was poor, I made out I was rich, and when I got rich I made out I was poor."—Columbus (O.) State Journal.

BOXERS WERE ROUTED.

Americans to the Fore In a Lively Conflict Not Far From Tientsin.

Chinese Lost 3000 In Various Attacks Upon Legations.

American and British Missions In Vicinity of Amoy Looted and Burned.

London, Aug. 25.—Five hundred American troops participated in a signal defeat of Boxers outside Tientsin Aug. 19. The fact is briefly reported from Vienna. Details of the engagament come from the Reuter agent at Tientsin in a dispatch dated Aug. 20.

In addition to the Americans the force consisted of 375 British and 200 Japanese, all under the British general, Dorward. The fight took place at a village six miles southwest of Tientsin, where the allied forces found a considerable number of Boxers, whom they engaged, killing over 300 and taking 40 wounded prisoners, who were sent to the hospitals of the allies. The village was burned. The Americans had five wounded, the Japanese six and the British none. Hundreds of Boxers' flags, spears and swords were captured.

From Shanghai comes a report, qualified by the assertion that it is from purely Chinese sources, that the empress dowager, after proceeding one day's journey from Pekin, became terrified at the looting by General Tung Fuh Siang's troops and went back to Pekin.

A Chinese telegram from Tsin An Fu says that Prince Tuan has been captured by a detachment of the allies. Other Chinese messages record the formation of a provisional government in Pekin by the allies; but this appears to be a purely military measure and merely an elaboration of the scheme for dividing the city into sections for police purposes.

Li Hung Chang has received word that the allies entered Pekin easily, because the troops of General Tung Fuh Siang utterly refused to face the allies. According to the Shanghai correspondent of The Daily Express, Earl Li, recognizing the futility of an attempt to drive the foreigners from China, now professes conversion to reform principles.

Shanghai advices announce the receipt there of a Chinese official dispatch asserting that Emperor Kwang Su has been found and rescued by the Japanese.

Messages from Tientsin report serious mortality among the American horses, owing to the heat.

Delayed advices to Reuter, dated Aug. 14, reiterate the statements regarding the treachery of the Chinese on the night before the relief. They had informed the members of the legations that orders had been issued to cease firing. This was followed by a desperate attack, and it was only the welcome sound of the cannon of the relieving force in the morning that renewed the courage of the foreigners. The correspondent adds: "The Chinese admit having lost 3000 in the various attacks upon the legations. Our rations dwindled to one pound a day, consisting of horse flesh and rice. When the American detachment attacked the whole Chinese force concentrated against them, leaving the Sha Ho gate unwatched, whereupon the British entered there with the loss of a man."

It is announced in a dispatch from Amoy, dated, Aug. 24, that many more American and British missions in the neighborhood of Amoy have recently been looted and burned by mobs, and that Thursday, Aug. 23, a Japanese temple was burned.

The city of Amoy is situated upon the island of Haimun, at the mouth of the Pei-Chi or Dragon river, and is one of the five points opened to foreign trade before the ratification of the treaty of Tientsin. The Portuguese went there in 1544, but in consequence of their cruelty toward the natives, the Chinese authorities expelled them, and burned 13 of their vessels. The city has a population of 300,000 souls, and the harbor is one of the best on the coast. Direct communication with Manila and the straits settlements is maintained, and there is a regular steamer communication with Hong Kong, Swatow and Foo Chow. The net value of the foreign trade of the port for 1897 was about 13,000,000 taels.

The island of Kulangsu is about a third of a mile from Amoy, and the residences of nearly all the foreigners are to be found there.

Nantucket Disturbed by Firebug.

Nantucket, Mass., Aug. 25.—The inhabitants of the island have become considerably exercised over two incendiary fires, which occurred Thursday night and Friday morning, but which were extinguished without serious damage. The selectmen have offered a reward of $500 for the detection of the guilty parties, and 20 extra policemen have been detailed to patrol the town.

Iron Workers Will Remain Out.

Lebanon, Pa., Aug. 25.—As the result of a request by the American Iron and Steel Manufacturing company to their striking iron workers to return to work, the men held a mass meeting Friday and decided not to return unless the puddlers are paid at the rate of $3.50 a ton. The strike began because the company would only pay $3 per ton.

Molten Steel Exploded.

Bethlehem, Pa., Aug. 25.—At the Bethlehem Steel company's works water splashed into a vessel containing 5000 pounds of molten steel, causing an explosion and scattering the red hot steel in all directions. Seven workmen were burned, two of them so badly that they will die.

Recognition of Cuban Flag.

Santiago, Aug. 25.—It is indicative of the policy of the United States government that the Cuban flag was hoisted today, with elaborate ceremony, over the palace in Santiago. It floats there for the first time since General Shafter ordered it hauled down in 1898.

James Dunsmuir of Victoria, B. C., the new premier of British Columbia, threatens to be known as "the silent premier." He has been a member of the provincial legislature for two years, and in that time his voice has never been heard in debate on the floor of the house.

It is claimed for C. P. Robertson of Chattanooga that he is the youngest living man who fought throughout the civil war on the Confederate side. He enlisted in the Twenty-fourth Georgia infantry Aug. 13, 1861, when he was 15 years and 7 months old, served four years straight and never went home.

Congressman Gilbert of Tennessee has some literary ability and has written some very fair humorous verse. Once, however, he tried his hand at the sentimental style and mislaid it, and it got into the papers. The result is that to this day his enemies call him by the title of that poem, "The Blue Eyed Lassie."

Since the death of Senator Gear of Iowa there are but ten senators who have been governors of their respective states. They are Messrs. Proctor of Vermont, Berry of Arkansas, Hawley of Connecticut, Cullom of Illinois, Bate of Tennessee, Perkins of Colorado, Shoup of Idaho, Tillman of South Carolina, Foraker of Ohio and Culberson of Texas. Of these six are Republicans and four Democrats.

POULTRY POINTERS.

Buckwheat is valuable as an egg producer, keeping the fowls in good condition.

During the first six weeks chicks of the different breeds weigh very nearly the same.

If the growth is to be pushed the ration must be increased as the fowls grow larger.

Little ducks require almost twice as much food as chicks, but they grow very rapidly.

Ducklings thrive best on soft feed. One part cornmeal, one part bran and a little animal meal mixed with cooked potatoes or turnips make a good ration.

Boiled wheat is an excellent food for growing chickens. It is easy to prepare, clean and healthy and supplies the materials needed to build up bone and muscle.

Equal parts of bran and cornmeal, mixed with milk or water, and baked hard and then softened by cooking in sweet milk before feeding, is one of the best rations that can be given to young chickens.—St. Louis Republic.

SHE WAS A PHANTOM OF DELIGHT

She was a phantom of delight
When first she gleamed upon my sight;
A lovely apparition sent
To be a moment's ornament;
Her eyes as stars of twilight fair,
Like twilight's, too, her dusky hair,
But all things else about her drawn
From Maytime and the cheerful dawn;
A dancing shape and image gay
To haunt, to startle and waylay.

I saw her upon nearer view,
A spirit, yet a woman too!
Her household notions light and free
And steps of virgin liberty;
A countenance in which did meet
Sweet records, promises as sweet;
A creature not too bright or good
For human nature's daily food;
For transient sorrows, simple wiles,
Praise, blame, love, kisses, tears and smiles.

And now I see with eyes serene
The very pulse of the machine,
A being breathing thoughtful breath,
A traveler between life and death;
The reason firm, the temperate will,
Endurance, foresight, strength and skill;
A perfect woman, nobly planned,
To warn, to comfort and command,
And yet a spirit still and bright
With something of angelic light.

THE LLAMA'S CURSE

A Story of Tibetan Magic.

The waiter brought us drink and the change out of Tom Martin's half sovereign. I pushed the latter over toward him with my left hand, and with the right raised the water bottle to dilute my whisky.

"Your change, Tom," said I.

"Yes, of course," said Tom, who was absorbed in the story he was telling me. He put out his hand as if to pick the money up, but seemed to remember something, for he drew his hand back suddenly.

"Good heaven!" said he, "and I had forgotten that."

He took out his handkerchief, wrapped it around the forefinger of his right hand and then, with the forefinger so covered, gently scraped the money toward him, piece by piece, and earnestly looked at each coin.

"Now, look here, Tom," said I, "this is a very pretty story that you have been telling me, but don't try and give it an air of reality by a performance like that."

"You can believe it or not, just as you like," said Tom, "but I tell you, Fred, that piece of money is coming along this way some day. I have seen it once and—I left it on the table. You don't catch me touching any coin while I am certain that one is in circulation. But let me conclude what I was telling you.

"Urga is one of the most peculiar places you could think of, and one of our first duties was to present ourselves to the grand llama. We had to get a palanquin, for it was only meet that Europeans of our importance should go in state, and it was while en route that we suddenly came to the praying mill. This was a sort of 'roundabout,' with huge wooden posts sticking out at the side, which every Buddhist passing was supposed to take hold of and push the mill round at least once.

"What caused Phil to do what he did then I don't know, but something seemed to impel him to get out of the palanquin, make a run over to the mill, catch hold of one of the wooden posts and commence to push it around at its topmost pace. The square where the mill was erected was pretty well filled with people, and when some of those saw what had been done they came rushing toward us, shouting and gesticulating. Phil had undoubtedly committed a sacrilege, and I was fearful for his safety. These fanatical Mongolians, once their religion is assailed in any shape or form, would certainly have no mercy upon the assailant.

"Phil came hurriedly back to me, jumped into the palanquin and ordered the bearers to get on. But they were struck dumb with terror. The attendants for us, smashed in the doors of the palanquin, dragged us out, and for two minutes there was the liveliest fight on record going on. We got the worst of it and, bruised, bleeding and insensible, were carried off to prison.

"We were taken before the grand llama, and then and there he ordered us to be sent across the Siberian frontier with the utmost dispatch. The next day we were hurried along under an escort of soldiers, and it was not long before we arrived at the frontier, the town of Maimatshin, which really is the Mongolian portion of Kiakta. We were taken along to the yellow posts which marked the actual frontier, where the soldiers of the llama stopped. We were removed from the palanquin in which we had been carried and were commanded to sit down a few yards from the posts. Not 20 yards were the black and white posts of the Russians, and it was indeed something to gladden our eyes to see the brown coat and the astrakhan hat of the Russian Cossack who stood sentry.

"The guards spread themselves out, and there came forward a Buddhist priest, who began to talk to us in a tongue which, of course, we could not understand. He finished at length and produced from his robe a wire on which were threaded some hundreds of brass 'cash,' which the Chinese always carry. He took two of the 'cash' off the wire and laid them in front of us on the ground.

"Then the priest began waving his arms about, and the Mongolians took their hand-prayer mills and began turning them for all they were worth. The voice of the priest then rose on the air. He said three or four words and spat deliberately at each of the coins which had been put on the ground before us.

"That was all. The priest departed, the soldier escorted us to the posts, the Russian sentry presented his rifle and we presented our passports. We passed over and breathed the comparatively free air of Russia. Our first duty when we were in Kiakta was to go straight to the governor and lay our complaint before him. He was agitated when he heard of the ceremony at the frontier, and told us that the Buddhist priest had put into circulation two coins which had received the sun god's course and that these coins would circulate throughout the world, harmless to everybody except the two they were destined for. The instant possession of either of these by the person cursed would mean immediate destruction.

"Nor was this all, the coins might not come to us as brass 'cash,' they might come to us as a kopeck piece, or as a ruble, as marks or pfennigs, as francs or centimes, as anything, wherever it might be. We should never know when they were coming; we should take them in the ordinary way; we should handle them, but only for one moment, the next moment we should be dead."

One day Tom sent for me, and it was to tell me that he was going to be married. This struck me as something peculiar, for I had thought Tom Morton was one of the last men likely to fall in love. The wedding duly came off, everybody was pleased, and Tom and his bride went away to the south of France. A few more weeks rolled by and Tom returned. There was to be a reception at their London house, and the invitation which was sent me was one which I could not well refuse.

In the evening I had the opportunity of a chat with Tom. We had gone out on the balcony, which overlooked the garden, and there I purposely made reference to the superstition which he had for the llama's coin.

"Perhaps," said I, "now that you have gone unscathed all these years, you are beginning to lose faith in the potency of that prophecy?"

"Well, to tell you the truth," said Tom, "I am getting a little shaky about it, and when one begins to reason superstition on any subject is likely to get knocked out. It has struck me that, after all, it may be but mere foolery."

We entered the room once more, but I was dying for a smoke, and, making some excuse, I slipped away to the smoking room. I had been sitting there about five minutes when Tom Morton came in.

"What do you think?" he said. "My wife has got this Mongolian story into her head so much that she is perfectly ridiculous. She has been telling everybody about it, and, of course, they are all laughing, and the worst of it all is that she is laughing with them at me. But come, come, old fellow. I want to show you something."

I rose, threw my cigarette end away and followed him. We went along the corridor to the drawing room, which was crowded, and even as we entered I heard Mrs. Morton's voice.

"I really do believe it will be such fun," she was saying. "Here comes Tom, and now we will try. A coin, if you please, from each of you. Let me see—how many are there here?—26. Good! Then I want 26 coins. Now, Tom," she said, "take off that wretched glove and let us demonstrate that you can touch money with your ungloved hand."

Tom was pale, and I saw his brow shining with perspiration. He muttered something, but what it was was lost in the laughter and banter which went around the room. With a quick, impulsive movement, he drew off his right glove.

"Well," he said, and I saw his lips wreathe into a hard, unmirthful smile, "I will take the coins just to show you that I am not afraid."

Then, one by one, his wife counted out the coins into his hand. Twenty were already there, when, unable to control the impulse which came over me, I started up and cried: "Drop it, Tom! Why challenge such a thing as that?"

He looked at me, and I saw how pale and how stern was his face. He said nothing to me, but merely turned to his wife with the whisper, "Go on."

"Twenty-one, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27"—

"Twenty-seven," I cried, "what is that, there are only 26 people her, there is a mis"— But I could get no further. Tom had staggered back, his body shrunken in size. He fell to the floor. A deathlike silence fell over the assemblage. I strode over to my friend's prostrate form.

Tom was dead and cold, and in his right hand there were 27 coins. I looked at the top one; it was a German piece, value 20 marks. I took it to the light and gazed upon it. Across the profile of Emperor William II I saw a mark which described a true square, and then I knew that the llama's curse at length had had effect.—Penny Pictorial Magazine.

Took No Chances.

The passerby who happened to look through the open door of an up town fire engine house the other day might have wondered why one horse of the engine team was kept standing at the pole of the engine, hitched up, the horse belonging to the other being in his stall. The reason was extremely simple. Some men on electrical wires were occupied in front of the horse's stall, where in case of an alarm they would have offered more or less impediment to his free movement from the stall to the engine. Of course the firemen took no chances on anything of this sort, so while the work was going on they hitched the horse up in his place on the engine. This was not so comfortable for him as standing perfectly free and clear of harness in his roomy stall would have been, but the horse apparently appreciated the situation fully. While he was the reverse of elated over it, yet as the men worked on he stood at the pole and held his place there with steadiness and patience.—New York Sun.

RISE OF THE MANTCHOOS

How They Conquered the Vast Empire of China.

CONSTANTLY ANNOYED BY CHINESE

Battle of the Terrible Blade, In Which the Celestials Were Badly Routed—Hatred of Present Dynasty In Southern Part of the Empire. China's Mild Revenge.

The rise of the Mantchoo race to its present position in the politics and affairs of the world is a wonderful story of courage, battlefield victories, dark treachery and indomitable perseverence, writes John R. Rathom in the Chicago Times-Herald. In the middle of the fifteenth century the race consisted of three small tribes living near the borders of what is now the Chinese empire, and only escaping the designation of nomads because in the winter months they had some settled home. Even in those days they were known and feared by the surrounding tribes for their daring, their contempt for death and their willingness to run any risk to add to their herds and possessions.

Gradually, as they grew in power and influence, they began to absorb neighboring peoples, until at the beginning of the sixteenth century they had become the most populous and powerful race on the borders of the Celestial empire.

Since their birth as a nation the Chinese had harassed them continually and border troubles had grown thick and fast. A century of persecution bred in the hearts of these people such a hatred of the Chinese race that they gradually began to long for a sweeping and terrible revenge. In the year 1601 the Mantchoos were possessed of a standing army composed of hardy fighters, and for 15 years after that the project of an invasion of China was thoroughly discussed and finally arranged.

In 1616 the forces of the two nations met on the borders, and in what came to be known as the "Yang Wah Sui"—the battle of the Terrible Blade—the Chinese were completely routed. The conquerors, crossing the border at its northwestern extremity, ravaged the towns and villages of the empire for hundreds of miles, and in three years had secured and held in subjection a section of territory as large as their own possessions on the other side of the boundary. In 1619 the Chinese, led by Emperor Hwi Nang in person, and numbering, it is estimated by the chroniclers of those days, 240,000 troops, advanced to give battle to the invaders. The fight lasted four days, and the Chinese forces were literally cut to pieces. The emperor was killed and half his army was destroyed.

Even after this great victory the Mantchoos felt their way very cautiously. They advanced along toward the interior slowly and deliberately, capturing and pacifying district after district and carefully refraining from any rapid movement in a country densely populated by hostiles. In 1637 a new king ascended the throne of China. Hundreds of thousands of his subjects congregated in the Yang-tse valley for a celebration in connection with his accession. The invaders chose their time and swooped down on them, cutting the dikes of the Yang-tse river and spreading death and desolation everywhere. Awed by the calamity and the menace of a strange and powerful people in their midst, great numbers of Chinese came over to the enemy and openly vowed allegiance to their conquerors. The new emperor was a weakling, with none of the instincts of a soldier, and, believing that the time was ripe for a master stroke, the invaders began to push on to Peking.

In the year 1643 they reached the walls of the Forbidden City, with every foot of the country that lay between them and their own native land not only under subjection, but enjoying a fairly good government. There never was any more deliberate or better planned conquest in the history of the world. Before the Mantchoos advanced from a captured district it had been practically made a part of their own nation. If they could not accomplish this change in one year, they waited five.

In front of Peking the invaders halted two months. One night traitors opened the gates of the city and for 24 hours the thoroughfares ran blood. The palaces and all vestige of Chinese authority were swept away, and before the year was over China's first Mantchoo ruler ascended the throne.

The dynasty has remained there from that day to this. Instead, however, of stamping its impress on the country or bringing with it any changes in the life or methods of the Chinese its Manchurian customs have almost completely died out, and the Chinese literature, religion and habits have thoroughly transformed the conquerors. And, more than that, the Chinese have actually overrun Manchuria and so stamped it with the Chinese hallmark that the Mantchoo nation, as a nation, has been practically wiped off the map.

Though China has obtained this mild mannered revenge on the invaders, the very great mass of the people have never been reconciled to the conquering dynasty, and the whole southern and southeastern part of the empire, with its teeming millions of people, may be likened to a smoldering volcano, ready at any moment to break out into rebellion and place a Chinese family on the throne. In the whole 250 years since the Ming dynasty began to rule this determination has been kept steadily alive.

The great Taiping rebellion, in spite of all the terrible charges that were laid at the door of the rebels and generally believed, was treated by the European governments in a manner that they are now beginning to realize was entirely wrong. England and France, failing to see in it the uprising of a great national spirit which could never be kept down permanently, sided with the Ming dynasty, and it was this assistance that saved the throne and smothered the rebellion. What has Europe won from it? Only the bitter hatred and scorn of the race that it saved and kept in power. For 35 years the Mings have dealt back dagger thrusts and insults for every kindness showered upon them.

It is the general sentiment among white people who have lived among the Chinese, and who claim to understand some little about their motives and their ambitions, that China will never be in a settled condition until this Ming dynasty has been exterminated or banished once and for all and the old Chinese line of emperors seated on the throne. The great province of Szechuen is the head and front of the Taiping power, a power that is steadily growing and patiently making for its ultimate object—the overthrow of the line that usurped the throne 250 years ago.

The Chinese who stand for a return of the old kings occupy a vast stretch of territory covering an area of 90,000 square miles, with its northern boundary extending 250 miles along the Yang-tse and running south in an irregular breadth of from 300 to 350 miles. The provinces embraced in this section of the empire contain from 92,000,000 to 94,000,000 people, and these millions ever keep alive the belief that some day they will be able to rise again and do away with the Mantchoo dynasty.

These people are intelligent fatalists; they never quarrel with facts. And their patience is as deep as the sea. They will wait for the opportunity, and when it comes they will strike. Till that time China will never be at peace.

A BULL PUP NOW HER PET.

New Fashion In Dogs Appears Among Young Women.

The dog who is having his day just now is the bull pup. Fashion has crowned him, and the pug, the poodle and all other kinds of dogs that have found favor with femininity in the past have given way to the homely, bat eared pup with bowed legs and a bad eye. The formidable English dog, he of the heavy jowl and set expression of countenance, is the favorite, says the New York Sun. Many of the bull pups are owned by women.

One reason why the bulldog has found favor with women is that his admirable ugliness makes a foil for the prettiness and grace of his mistress. Beauty looks best with the beast in the background, and so well is this fact established that fashionable photographers are kept busy by the girl who wants to be pictured with her dog beside her. Beyond his mere ugliness the bulldog possesses a serious and solid personality. Freshly brushed and washed, with a large, crisp bow of violet or rose beneath his ear, he looks the expensive luxury he is. Blood shows in every curve of his forelegs.

The English dog has practically displaced the French in the favor of the doggy woman. The fact is that the French pup is by nature just the little, consequential, frivolous and unfaithful creature he looks. He has none of the large instincts of his British relation. His character really calls for the whip which is so prominent in his owner's outfit during a walk on the avenue. Besides this, he is subject to various physical infirmities, a tendency to catch cold and an invalid's querulousness of manner that does not add to his personal attractions.

The English pup in spite of his face is very lovable, intensely affectionate and big hearted. As Mr. Robert Mahew, one of the best dog judges, declares: "The bulldog is incapable of a mean thought. There are no half measures about him. He loves from the tip of his blunt nose to the extreme points of his toe nails. He hates in the same unreserved fashion."

PAPER FOR TRAMPS.

The Tourists' Union Journal's First Number Issued In Sycamore, Ills.

The first number of The Tourists' Union Journal was issued at Sycamore, Ills., the other day from the Sycamore Democrat office. This is the first paper of the kind that has ever been published in the United States and is to be devoted wholly to the interests of tramps. The paper, according to the New York Sun, will be edited by Charles F. Noe, organizer and "head pipe" of Tourists' union No. 63.

The paper is made up largely of letters from various members. The Journal will be published monthly. The political complexion of the paper has not been decided upon.

Queen's Scarf Won by an American.

General Roberts has confirmed the award of the queen's scarf to Trooper Chadwick of Roberts' horse, who was chosen by the troopers as most distinguished for bravery. Chadwick proves to be an American, says the Pretoria correspondent of the New York Sun. He was one of the boat's crew who cut the cable at Santiago (Cienfuegos?). The queen gave four scarfs to be awarded for bravery, one each for representatives of the colonial troopers from Australia, New Zealand, Canada and South Africa. Africa's scarf will therefore go to the United States.

A Word to the Wise.

The coatless man and the hatless woman are partners in trouble, says the New York Press. The restaurant that welcomes the former in a neat shirt waist and the church that cordially invites the latter to its services will catch the most fish.

Miss Frederick's Letters Show How She Relied on Mrs. Pinkham and Was Cured.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I have a yellow, muddy complexion, feel tired and have bearing down pains. Menses have not appeared for three months; sometimes am troubled with a white discharge. Also have kidney and bladder trouble.

I have been this way for a long time, and feel so miserable I thought I would write to you and see if you could do me any good."—MISS EDNA FREDERICK, Troy, Ohio, Aug. 6, 1899.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I have used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound according to directions, and can say I have not felt so well for years as I do at present. Before taking your medicine a more miserable person you never saw. I could not eat or sleep, and did not care to talk with any one. Now I feel so well I cannot be grateful enough to you for what you have done for me."—MISS EDNA FREDERICK, Troy, Ohio, Sept. 10, 1899.

Backache Cured

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I write to thank you for the good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done me. It is the only medicine I have found that helped me. I doctored with one of the best physicians in the city of New York, but received no benefit. I had been ailing for about sixteen years, was so weak and nervous that I could hardly walk; had continued pain in my back and was troubled with leucorrhœa. Menses were irregular and painful. Words cannot express the benefit I have derived from the use of your medicine. I heartily recommend it to all suffering women."—MRS. MARY BARSHINGER, Windsor, Pa.

Peculiar Drowning Accident.

Portsmouth, N. H., Aug. 25.—The body of a young man found in one of the bathrooms of the Rockingham hotel was identified as that of Burt B. Kauffman of St. Louis. It is believed that young Kauffman, after filling the bathtub, struck his head on a gas bracket, cutting a deep gash, and then falling face down into the tub, and while unconscious he was drowned. He was about 24 years of age, and was passing through the city on a pleasure trip.

Georgia Short of Farm Hands.

Atlanta, Aug. 25.—Secretary of State Cook has received a number of letters from the farmers of south Georgia, representing negro labor very scarce. Cotton is opening very rapidly, and few negroes can be found to pick it, even at 50 cents per 100 pounds. The cotton crop will be much shorter than reported, unless labor can be found to pick it. The negroes have left the farms and gone to work for the railroads.

Misery Ended With Revolver.

Boston, Aug. 25.—The body of an unknown man, evidently in reduced circumstances, was found on a seat in a Brookline park Friday. There was a hole in hs forehead, and a revolver on the grass by his side. The medical examiner decided that it was a case of suicide. Nothing of value, not even a cent, was found in the man's pockets.

Baden-Powell Reports Success.

London, Aug. 25.—General Baden-Powell, according to a dispatch to The Standard, from Pretoria, dated Aug. 23, headed off General De Wet, preventing his junction with the main body of the enemy. De Wet abandoned his transport and took to the hills, his commando dispersing, some trekking south.. Lord Kitchener has returned to Pretoria.

Man and Woman Murdered.

Ottawa, Aug. 25.—A message from Montecello, a small village in this vicinity, states that Hypolite Thomas and Mme. La Croix were both shot and killed last night. According to the dispatch the shooting was done by the husband of Mme. La Croix.

Victims of Wood Alcohol.

Lyndonville, Vt., Aug. 25.—George Brainard and A. T. Hoyt, employed on the Speedwell farms, drank wood alcohol Thursday, with the result that the former died Friday from the effects, while Hoyt is in a very critical condition.

Warships to Remain at St. John.

St. John's, Aug. 25.—As part of the new colonial defense scheme, it is probable that the British government will keep a British warship at St. John's all the year round, owing to the valuable strategical position of the city on the Atlantic seaboard. Such a step would make this port a secondary naval base.

Buried Under Tons of Rock.

Bellefonte, Pa., Aug. 25.—Three unknown Hungarians were crushed to death Friday by a cave-in of hundreds of tons of rock and earth in Sugar Camp mine No. 4, of the Lehigh Valley Coal company, near Snowshoe. A rescue party, after working all day, failed to recover the bodies.

How Kate Scharn Was Killed.

New York, Aug. 25.—Dr. E. J. Donlin, coroner's physician, who made the autopsy on the body of Kate Scharn, submitted his full report Friday to Coroner Fitzpatrick. He finds "cause of death asphyxia, by strangulation and fracture of skull."

Thousand-Dollar Cup For Yankee.

Newport, R. I., Aug. 25.—The Mineola won the last of the 70-footer special races Friday, defeating the Yankee by 1m. 15s. and the Rainbow by 1m. 40s., official time. Virginia withdrew. This gives the $1000 cup to the Yankee, with 11 points, Mineola 10 and Rainbow 8.

Another one of those popular clam chowder dinners was given on the lawn of Mrs. Royal Belcher on Tremont street, Wednesday noon. The proceeds were for the benefit of theLadies' Aid society connected with the South M. E. church. There was a large number present.

The South Braintree fire department was called out for a fire in the tenement house owned by Mrs. Stephen Ellis on Union street, Thursday morning. The house is occupied by Thomas McHenry employed at D. B. Closson & Co., shoe factory. The blaze started in a lot of rubbish in the cellar but was quickly extinguished. Spontaneous combustion caused the damage of about $50.

L. W. Arnold returned Wednesday from a week's camping in the Maine woods with a party of young men from Holyoke. The fishing was not as good as usual but plenty of big game was to be seen.

The members of the Braintree Veteran firemen with the tub "Butcher Boy" and the Union Veterans with the tub "Union" will enter the firemen's muster at Hingham and South Weymouth, the latter part of September. Both companies are to help each other and with good luck there is no doubt but what they can bring home a prize or two with both companies working in harmony. The outlook for them is very bright. Every Veteran in town should take an interest and make the playouts a success.

Several gentlemen met at the residence of Eben Prescott, Wednesday evening, to make plans for the dedication of the new Penniman schoolhouse. George H. Holbrook was chosen chairman, Eben Prescott secretary and Henry W. Davenport treasurer. It was thought best not to take any definite action in the matter at that meeting, that a larger gathering might be held next Thursday evening, Aug. 30, in the Penniman schoolhouse.

Friday afternon a little party gathered at the home of Mrs. Caroline Hollis on Middle street. The center of attraction was in the presence of Miss Abigail Thayer, who is visiting her many friends in Braintree. Miss Thayer is nearly 95 years old and usually enjoys good health.

Among those present were Mrs. Susan Hawes of Randolph, Mrs. Joel Hollis, Mrs. Clara N. Howe, Mrs. Sarah E. Thayer, Mrs. Caroline Hollis, William Jones and Judge Mead of Braintree. Miss Thayer was presented with a beautiful bouquet which was greatly appreciated.

Castle Square Theatre.

The attraction at the Castle Square Theatre the coming week will be the charming comedy, by Martha Morton, "A Fool of Fortune" The original production of this play, by Mr. William H. Crane and his company, a few seasons ago, proved that it has all the essentials to give it general favor while possessing an especial interest for those who delight in the higher class of dramatic productions. The story of the play deals with every day incidents in American life and its central figure is a typical American business man, a staunch and honorable fighter in his business affairs, whose struggles against bad fortunes make the theme of the action. A notably strong cast has been arranged for this production the leading characters having been assigned as follows: Elisha Cunningham, John T. Craven; Nathaniel Lloyd, William J. Hasson; Karl Woresdorf, Franklyn Ritchie; Count De Cluny, James A. Keane; Cornelius Greene, Edward Wade; Ezekiel Powers, Lindsay Morison; James Stetson, Stanley Kent; Thomas, William Paul; Marjorie Cunningham, Leonora Gnito; Jennie Cunningham, Alice Davenport; Mrs. Cunningham, Leonora Bradley.

Gentlemen: My mamma has been a great coffee drinker and has found it very injurious. Having used several packages of Your GRAIN-O, the drink that takes the place of coffee, she finds it much better for herself and for us children to drink. She has given up coffee drinking entirely. We use a package of Grain-O every week. I am ten years old.

Yours respectfully, FANNIE WILLIAMS.

Character In Thighs.

A man's thighs interest me in any mood and at any time. While you may get a man's character from his face, you can, if you will, get his past life from his thigh. It is the walking beam of his locomotion, controls his paddles and is developed in proportion to its uses. It indicates, therefore, a man's habits and his mode of life.

If he has sat all day with one leg lapped over the other, arm on chair, head on hand, listening or studying—preachers, professors and all other sedentaries sit like this—then the thigh shrinks, the muscles droop, the bones of the ankle bulge, and the knee joints push through. If he delivers mail or collect bills or drives a pack mule or walks a towpath, the muscles of the thigh are hauled tight like cables, the knee of knots—one big bunch just below the strap of his knickerbockers, should he wear them.

If he carries big weights on his back—sacks of salt, as do the stevedores in Venice; or coal in gunnies, as do the coolies in Cuba, or wine casks or coffee in bags—then the calves swell abnormally, the thighs solidify; the lines of beauty are lost, but the lines of strength remain.

If, however, he has spent his life in the saddle, rounding up cattle, chasing Indians, hunting bandits in Mexico, ankle and foot loose, his knees clutched tightly, hugging that other part of him, the horse, then the muscles of the thigh round out their intended lines—the most subtle in the modulating curving of the body.—F. Hopkinson Smith in Frank Leslie's Popular Monthly.

The Sin Eater.

One of the most important figures at a Gaelic funeral of the old style is the sin eater. It falls to his lot to consume all the sins resting on the soul of the dead, and thereby enable the latter to rest easy in his grave.

In remote Wales and the highlands of Scotland a funeral is not always complete without this functionary. He is necessarily a poor, unfortunate person, for under happier circumstances he could not be persuaded to accept the responsibility of his post, and his part in the ceremony is taken seriously by himself and everybody else.

A loaf of bread and a jug of beer are laid upon the corpse. These are symbolic of sins committed during life. The sin eater is introduced and with much solemnity eats the bread and drinks the beer. As he is frequently a hungry man with a well developed taste for malt liquors, the part is usually played with zest a little out of keeping with the dreadful nature of the obligation assumed, for it is firmly believed that in thus eating and drinking the sin eater actually burdens his soul with the sins of the deceased.—Kansas City Independent.

The Dogskin Wouldn't Go Round.

Hungary swarms with barristers. It is the greatest ambition of the Hungarian peasant to make one of his sons an advocate.

The son of a small farmer in the neighborhood of Budapest was sent by his father to the law school of that town, but, either from lack of parts or the necessary application, he was plucked in the qualifying examination.

Not daring to return to the paternal abode empty handed after all the money that had been spent on his education, he conceived and executed the plan of forging a legal diploma. The father was not, however, so ignorant as not to be aware that such diplomas are always written on parchment—kutya-ber (dogskin)—in Hungary.

"Why is your certificate not made out on kutya-ber?" asked the old man.

"The fact is, father," coolly replied the youth, "there are more barristers than dogs in Hungary, and so there is not enough kutya-ber to make diplomas for us all."—London Answers.

The Too Liberal Use of Salt.

Salt draws the juices from beef in corning, toughens the fiber, makes it very indigestible and less nutritious. On cucumbers it draws out the water, toughens the fiber and renders them very indigestible. Salt acts in exactly the same way on fish as on meat. There are two ways of considering these changes. I would hardly say that salt destroys the food value, although it robs the flesh of part of its food value by making it less digestible. —Mrs. S. T. Rorer in Ladies' Home Journal.

The Brevity of Ballarat.

It was in Ballarat that Mark Twain found the local language so puzzling at first, the good people of the place deeming life too short to dawdle in their talk.

The mayor called on the American humorist and laconically said, "K'm." Then when Mark Twain gave him a cigar he simply said, "Q."

Subsequent inquiry revealed that these terms were Ballaratese for "welcome" and "thank you."—London Chronicle.

No Shattered Ideals.

"So she has gone home to her mother, has she? Don't you know, it's the saddest thing on earth to think of a trusting, fond woman awakening to find her ideals have been shattered, that she loves him no longer, that her idol has feet of clay"—

"Oh, there was nothing of that sort in it. She loves him as well as ever, but she went back to ma because she was hungry."—Indianapolis Press.

Vigilance.

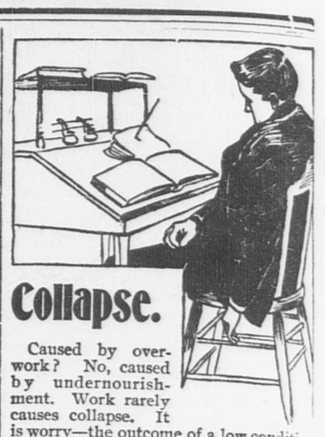

Stubb—Is that new prison guard vigilant?

Penn—I should say so. Why, some one told him the gas was escaping, and he grabbed his gun.—Chicago News.

Answered.

"A fool can ask more questions than a wise man can answer. Ain't that so?"

"I can't answer you."—Indianapolis Journal.

Collapse.

Caused by overwork? No, caused by undernourishment. Work rarely causes collapse. It is worry—the outcome of a low condition of the nervous system and inadequate nutrition which generally causes collapse. The collapse seems sudden, but in reality it is a slow process. The stomach and organs of digestion and nutrition are diseased, the nourishment in the food eaten is only partially extracted and imperfectly assimilated. The blood becomes impure; the very fount of life is poisoned, and some day all the faculties and functions go on a strike. That's collapse. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the organs of digestion and nutrition, purifies the blood and builds up the weak body with sound healthy flesh.

"I was cured of a very bad case of indigestion, associated with torpid liver, by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery," writes Mr. G. B. Bird, of Byrnside, Putnam Co., W. Va. "Before I began the use of 'Golden Medical Discovery' I had no appetite; could not sleep, nor work but very little, bowels constipated, and life was a misery to me. After taking four bottles I felt so well that I went to work, but soon got worse, so I used it about eight weeks longer, when I was permanently cured."

Madame Yale's HAIR TONIC

Ladies and Gentlemen,—It has gone on record that Madame Yale's Excelsior Hair Tonic is the first and only remedy known to chemical science found to be a genuine hair specific. It has an affinity for the human hair for nourishing and invigorating its entire structure. It is antiseptic in character, as well as stimulating; its action upon the scalp and hair is truly wonderful, inasmuch as it has never been known in a single instance to fail to cure scalp diseases and to create a luxuriant growth of healthy, beautiful hair. It stops hair falling within twenty-four hours and brings back the natural color to gray hair in nearly every instance. It is not a dye; it is not sticky or greasy; on the contrary it makes the hair soft, youthful, beautiful and glossy; keeps it in curl. It is a perfect hair dressing, and can be used by ladies, gentlemen or children as a daily toilet requisite. Its influence is delightfully soothing.

3 O'CLOCK.

HAVE RALLIED FORCES,

Chinese Said to Be Preparing an Attack Upon the Allies.

Interest In the Diplomatic Phases of the Trouble.

Russia, Germany and Japan Have Not Yet Declared War Upon China.

Washington, Aug. 27.—Late Sunday a dispatch was received at the Japanese legation from the foreign office of Japan conveying the latest and most authentic information of the situation in and around Pekin. In a measure, the advices were of a disquieting nature, as they indicated that the Chinese had rallied their forces and were preparing for an attack upon the allies in Pekin. This would account for the lack of advices from General Chaffee. As made public by Minister Wakahira, the dispatch from the Japanese foreign office at Tokio is as follows:

"An official telegram, dated Pekin, Aug. 18, was received at Tokio from General Yamaguchi, commander of the Japanese forces, to the following effect:

"The capital is now entirely cleared of the enemy. A cavalry regiment which had been sent to Wan Shau Shan (where the empress dowager's palace is located) reports that the imperial family, who had left Pekin Aug. 14, started after a short rest at Wan Shau Shan for the west and were under the escort of General Ma and his troops, consisting of only about 500 horsemen and 20 carts. The Japanese forces occupied the treasury department, in which over 2,000,000 taels in silver and a large quantity of rice were found.

"Another telegraphic dispatch, dated Taku, Aug. 23, states that as the Chinese troops and Boxers who had gathered at Nan Yuen were about to attack the foreign forces at Pekin. Japanese and Russian cavalry were expected to encounter them on the 20th. The dispatch further states that Chinese infantry, some 9000 strong, with 15 guns, are advancing northward from Shan Tung to make a rear attack on the allies."

A copy of the dispatch was transmitted to Acting Secretary Adee at the department of state, and by him furnished to the president. While the news of a possible rear attack upon the comparatively small force of the allies was not received with surprise, it generally was not regarded as serious, as the foreign forces are believed to be abundantly able to take care of themselves against any force of Chinese likely to be sent against them.

Russia, Germany and Japan have not declared war upon China, either separately or in concert. This statement is made upon authority of the highest character. What those nations may do within the next 48 hours, or within the next fortnight, is a question which no one in Washington is prepared to answer.

A brief dispatch from Chefoo, conveying a rumor current there that Russia, Germany and Japan had joined in a declaration of war upon China, aroused some interested comment among Washington officials, and among diplomatic representatives of foreign governments resident here. In neither official nor diplomatic circles, however, was the rumor taken seriously. No information of such action has reached either the department of state or the legations of the governments primarily interested.

Whether, in the event of a declaration of war by one or more of the powers against China, an invitation would be extended to the United States to retire from China, as intimated in the dispatch from Chefoo, is open to doubt; and it is decidedly problematical, it is said, whether the invitation would be accepted, even if it were tendered. The United States forces are in China protecting the personal and property rights of citizens of this country and, in addition, the treaty rights of the United States. Under the most favored nation clause this country has certain specific rights in China, and it is said on authority to be the purpose of the United States to protect and preserve those rights.

Officials of the state, war and navy departments were at their desks early Sunday, but, up to the hour of closing for the day not a word had been heard from Minister Conger, General Chaffee or Admiral Remey. Since the dispatch from Consul Fowler was received late last Thursday night, the department of state has received no advices from any source in China, except a brief cablegram from Minister Conger inquiring how he should route his messages. The text of the dispatch, which, it was explained, was very brief and purely administrative in character, was not made public.

The war department has received no dispatch from General Chaffee, known to have come directly from him, for about a week. Cablegrams signed "Chaffee" have been received, but as they contained only lists of casualties, it is assumed that they were sent by some subordinate officer in General Chaffee's name. From no official source has the department learned of the departure of 40 Americans from Pekin for Tientsin, as reported in a special dispatch to a London newspaper, under date of Aug. 19. Advices from General Chaffee are expected hourly, as the military telegraph line between Tientsin and Pekin, which has been interrupted, presumably, is being or has been repaired. Imperative instructions were sent to the commander of the United States forces at Tientsin to have the line restored at once, under the protection of a cavalry detachment.

A suspicion exists here that the delay in messages both from and to Washington is rather between Chefoo and Shanghai than between Tientsin and Pekin. From Chefoo to Shanghai the telegraph line is in control of the Chinese authorities, and it is suspected they are not so prompt in the transmission of messages as they might be.

THE GRAND ARMY ENCAMPMENT.

Big Coliseum Taxed to Its Utmost Capacity to Accommodate the Crowds.

Chicago, Aug. 27.—The members of the Grand Army and their friends have been pouring into the city on regular trains and innumerable specials from all parts of the country. The national encampment was opened Saturday night by the dedication of the new Coliseum, in which all the joint camp fires, the reunions, the war song concerts of the veterans and the religious and other exercises for the public incidential to the encampment will be held. The dedicatory exercises proper comprised an address by F. O. Lowden of Chicago, a response by Mayor Harrison and addresses by other local speakers.

Despite a rain, which fell at times with the energy of a stream from a garden hose, and degenerated periodically into a cold, soaking drizzle, the grand patriotic and sacred song service at the Coliseum last night was attended by a throng which taxed the capacity of the immense building to the utmost. It is estimated that 13,000 people were packed into the hall, and thousands more were unable to gain admission.

Bishop Fallows of Chicago presided. On the platform with him were Mayor Harrison, Commander-in-Chief Shaw of the G. A. R., and a host of department commanders of the G. A. R., as well as the local officials in charge of Chicago's end of the encampment.

After a musical selection had been rendered by the band, the vast audience joined in the Lord's prayer, being led by Rev. Frank Gunsaulus of Chicago, and then Bishop Fallows extended a warm and eloquent welcome to the visiting veterans. A responsive reading was led by Rev. J. D. Severinghaus of Chicago, and Bishop Fallows then introduced Commander-in-Chief Shaw, who spoke at length upon "True Patriotism." He dwelt upon the services which had been rendered this nation in particular and the world at large by the members of the Grand Army, and pointed out the need of training the coming generations in the duties which patriotism demands of the nation's citizens.

Rev. E. G. Hirsh delivered a patriotic address, and Rev. T. D. Wallace pronounced the benediction.

During the afternoon a service for children was given at the Coliseum which was attended by fully 10,000 people. Addresses were made by Commander-in-Chief Shaw, Bishop Fallows and Rev. B. W. Arnet of Wilberforce, O.

To Support the Brownlow Faction.

Knoxville, Aug. 27.—Senator Hanna has decided to take a hand in the Tennessee Republican fight between the Brownlow and the Evans factions and settle it. In a letter Senator Hanna says: "The national committee has deemed it advisable to say that we expect to sustain the organization which was recognized by the national committee at Philadelphia. We cannot see where any good can result from such an independent movement and sincerely trust that no loyal Republican will lend his influence to the movement." The Brownlow organization was the one recognized for the most part at Philadelphia. It is thought to be the chief aim of Senator Hanna to get but one set of electors in the field.

Morocco Must Settle Promptly.

Tangier, Morocco, Aug. 27.—A United States warship has arrived here to support the claim arising out of the murder last June of Marcos Essagin, a naturalized American citizen. Essagin, while riding on horseback through a narrow street in Tangier, jolted against the mule of a Moroccan religious fanatic and a dispute ensued, the crowd siding with the priest. In self-defense Essagin drew his revolver and fired, wounding a native. This was the signal for a general attack upon the American, who received dozens of knife wounds, and whose body was burned, according to some accounts, before life was extinct.

Have Had Enough of Fighting.

El Paso, Tex., Aug. 27.—The Yaqui Indians in Mexico, who have been at war with the Mexican government for over a year, are now suing for peace and endeavoring to be reinstated on their former reservation and retain their property. The movement for peace was brought about by the peaceful Yaquis on the west coast, who were actuated to the move through fear that the Yaquis would be scattered throughout the republic and the tribe practically exterminated.

Killed by Live Wire.

Suncook, N. H., Aug. 27.—Fred M. Millard, aged 27, a lineman, was killed while repairing a broken electric light wire. He was scraping off the insulation from a defective wire. Suddenly his face turned black and his body grew limp and fell across a bunch of telephone wires. The body bore no marks of any kind, although burns appeared on the hands. Millard was married a few weeks ago.

LIBERTY IN CUBA.

Gen. Wood Outlines the Intentions of the United States.

A Notable Gathering of All Parties at Santiago Saturday Night.

The Most Important Declaration Since American Occupation of Island.

Santiago, Aug. 27.—An official banquet was tendered Governor General Wood Saturday night by the Republican and Democratic parties. The civil governor, the archbishop of Cuba, the principal judicial and civil dignitaries and 100 representative merchants were present.

The archbishop, in the course of his remarks, said the time had arrived for peace, and that he believed a consolidation of political parties would be of greater benefit to Cuba in the future than a house divided against itself. He said he was happy to greet the people of the United States in the person of General Wood.

Senor Tamayo, secretary of state, in a forcible speech, said: "This is one of the most important epochs in the political history of Cuba. A constitutional convention, where the fundamental law of the land is to be framed, is about to be formed. In that convention the people of Cuba are to prove themselves capable of constructing a government, of guaranteeing life and property and of preserving order. They are also to prove that Cuba is a land open to all men, not only to those who are Cubans by the accident of birth or who participated in the revolution, but also those who can claim the privilege under the treaty of Paris.

"This is a moment when political contentions should be set aside. The issue is national. Cuba is about to obtain what three generations bled for; and, if the constitutional convention is not what it should be, the noble dead will rise to demand that blood shall not have been shed in vain."

Governor General Wood, on rising, was greeted with cheers, which were taken up by some 2000 people assembled outside the clubhouse. He spoke in part as follows:

"I am here as your friend, and in no other capacity. Only those who remember the 10-year war can have as full knowledge of the conditions of this province as I have myself. When I first saw El Caney matters were in a most deplorable condition. The road to Santiago was marked with dead and dying. In the improvement one sees everywhere we gave a proof of the friendly interest shown by the American people.

"Everybody in the United States was astonished at the satisfactory way in which the municipal elections passed off. President McKinley personally asserted that he thought the time for the next step had come. Whatever the ultimate destiny of Cuba may be, its immediate future is independence. This is no political move on the part of the United States, but a sincere desire to do what is right. Therefore I beg you to sink your political differences and passions and to send men to the convention who are renowned for honor and capacity, so that the convention may mean more than the Cubans even now anticipate.

"The work before your representatives is largely legal work. I care not what your party politics are, for the present party considerations must be suspended for the sake of the great end in view, the end that will make history and affect the welfare of all Cuban people. Your delegates must be competent to draft a constitution; and it is a duty you owe yourselves and your fellow patriots to see that your representation is without party prejudice. Bear in mind that no constitution which does not provide for a stable government will be accepted by the United States.

"You want liberty for all and for no particular party. The United States insist that you shall have it. This is easily possible. We have said it to the world. It lies with you to help us make good our word. If we were not your friends we would not seek the best men you have, but would seek the disturber and the malcontent to represent you in the convention. We seek and demand the best you have. Again I say, send people to the convention who will hereafter make your political system workable and permanent."

General Wood's speech is considered by Cubans here to be the most important declaration made since the American occupation began.

The Cuban flag was raised over the palace by General Wood's permission Sunday, thousands of Cubans witnessing the ceremony. Later in the afternoon the American, Cuban and Spanish arms were fastened together in decorations at the principal theater, where General Wood was present. This was the first time the Spanish arms have been exhibited since the evacuation.

POLICE WERE KEPT BUSY.

White Hoodlums Make Attacks on a Number of Negroes at New York.

New York, Aug. 27.—A number of incipient race riots between blacks and whites broke out here Sunday, the direct cause being the shooting on Saturday night of John Brennan, a white messenger boy, aged 20, by John Davis, alias "Lamplighter," a negro. Brennan was one of a crowd of whites who taunted Davis, and bullets from the black's revolver, fired at his tormentors, lodged in Brennan's stomach and chest. He is in a hospital and likely to die. The shooting caused the rough white element to begin a search for negroes.

Before daybreak Sunday morning, James Arnold, colored, while passing near the scene of the shooting, was attacked by a crowd of whites and shockingly beaten. He was treated at a hospital. Shortly afterwards, about two blocks away, a gang of whites administered similar punishment to Alexander Ballentine, a colored man, who was passing quietly along the thoroughfare. In neither case was an arrest made.

Later in the morning a crowd of whites, confessedly led by Frank McPyke, 21 years old, went to a five-story tenement on Sixteenth street, occupied by negroes, with the avowed purpose of cleaning it out. They had about demolished all the windows and incidentally cracked a head or two, when the police swooped down on the gang. McPyke was arrested. Early in the afternoon Joseph Doyle, 18 years old, filled his hat with stones and took his stand at Fifty-ninth street and Eleventh avenue. He succeeded in inflicting scalp wounds on two colored men before a policeman clubbed and arrested him.

Officer Clearey placed under arrest for "being sassy" William Hopson, a colored man. He rashly undertook to take his prisoner to the station through West Sixteenth street. That street between West End and Amsterdam avenues is called "Cuckoo Row," and here colored people live by the hundreds. The fact that one of their race was in the hands of a policeman was all that several of them wanted, and half a dozen of them thought they would release Hopson. Cleary used his club, and then drew his revolver. By threatening to shoot the first man to move, he held the mob at bay until other policemen came to his aid. They arrested George Meyer, also colored. Cleary said he started the attempted rescue. Meyer resisted arrest all the way to the station, and when he got there he had several scalp wounds. One in particular was very large, and it is thought the negro's skull was fractured.

William and Henry Rapp, brothers, white, were locked up on complaint of Adam Johnson, colored, who claimed they had stoned him.

The above are only a few of the assaults which came to light by arrests. The fact is that all day long the policemen in the neighborhood mentioned were kept busy dispersing small mobs bent on mischief.

Good Afternoon.

In the death of Editor William H. Cook of the Milford Journal, the press of Massachusetts loses one of its ablest and most successful suburban journalists. We have known him personally for twenty to thirty years and have enjoyed his company on the press excursions and at the meetings and reunions of the Massachusetts and Suburban Press Associations. He was distinctly the leading member, serving several years as president and in other capacities. He was a stalwart Republican, yet independent, and his newspaper took a bold and aggressive stand in all public issues. Mr. Cook has been honored in politics, being a senator from his district in 1896 and 1897; and secured the enactment of a libel law which won for him unstinted praise from the Massachusetts press. He was 57 years of age.

The shirt waist man will win if this weather continues.

Drift of Opinion.

☞ The Old Orchard beach collection for foreign missions reached $42,000, while that for the Salvation Army brought in only $300. Some people are saying that the figures should be reversed, because the Salvation Army is doing the better work. They don't believe it very much, however, or they would have seen that that $300 collection was a bigger one.—New Bedford Standard.

Another Badge.

Officer William E. Morrissey was waited upon at the police station Saturday evening by a delegation from Division 18, A. O. H., who informed him that he was wanted at the meeting of the division, which was being held at French's hall. Ever ready to respond when called upon, he accompanied the delegation to the hall. As he entered he was greeted with applause, which quickly subsided when Joseph Griffin arose and in few words presented him with a handsome gold badge of the order.

The badge is a five pointed star suspended from two bars. On the face of the star is a harp. The inscription reads: "Presented to William E. Morrissey by Division 18, A. O. H., Quincy, Mass., Aug. 24, 1900."

William was greatly surprised, and was at loss for words to express his appreciation. He however briefly expressed his thanks.

—The Wessagusett club of Weymouth held its annual outing on Saturday at Great Hill beach, North Weymouth. A clambake was the main feature at which addresses were made. Several indulged in whist.

The Eiffel tower is being painted with five shades of enamel paint. The summit and the dome are to be a chrome yellow. The shades will graduate to the pedestal, which will be of dark orange. Two coats will be required and nearly 50 tons of enamel paint will be consumed.

Mrs. Cash of Athol, Mass., was at Brookside park lately when a big buff butterfly alighted on her hat, took a fancy to it, and decided it would make a nice spot for a butterfly home. The insect took possession and began laying eggs, and has remained there ever since. Mrs. Cash wears the hat on the street, and other public places, and the butterfly with its nest attracts every one's attention.

ROW AT A PICNIC.

Four Granite Cutters Roughly Handled at Mosquito Woods.

Two stone shed crews from South Quincy held a picnic at Mosquito woods Saturday afternoon which ended in a stabbing affair in which Thomas Smith, Peter McPhee and Lewis Whitman were cut.

It is also reported that Richard McCarthy was badly cut, but he had disappeared when the officers appeared.

It was about 7 o'clock Saturday night when word was received at the police station that there was a riot in Mosquito woods, Officers Larkin, Newcomb, Bradley and Curtin went to the scene, and they were followed by Chief Ripley who was at supper when notice was received. When they arrived they found Whitman had a knife wound on his left arm. Smith had cuts on his back, and McPhee's face was covered with blood from a blow with a stone.

The story, as told by the men, is that the stabbing was done by Norwegians, who they claimed started the trouble. Almost without warning Smith was knocked down and attacked with a knife. His friends went to his assistance and in the scrimmage that followed the fighting became general, and resulted in the injuries mentioned above.

McPhee was attacked by a man who had a rock wrapped in a handkerchief and pounded him vigorously until pulled off by friends.

Word was sent to the police station by McCarthy who was afraid someone would be killed.

The injured men had their wounds attended by Dr. Hayford. Up to Sunday night no arrests had been made in the case.

[illegible]

Mozart, [illegible] at Marseilles, went incognito to hear the performance of his "Villanella Rapita." He had reason to be tolerably well satisfied, till, in the midst of the principal aria, the orchestra, through some error in the copying of the score, sounded a D natural where the composer had written D sharp. This substitution did not injure the harmony, but gave a commonplace character to the phrase, and obscured the sentiment of the composer.

Mozart no sooner heard it than he started up vehemently, and, from the middle of the pit, cried out in a voice of thunder: "Will you play D sharp, you wretches?"

The sensation produced in the theater may be imagined. The actors were astounded, the lady who was singing stopped short, the orchestra followed her example, and the audience, with loud exclamations, demanded the expulsion of the offender. He was accordingly seized, and required to name himself. He did so, and at the name of Mozart the clamor subsided, and was succeeded by shouts of applause from all sides.

It was insisted that the opera should be recommenced. Mozart was installed in the orchestra, and directed the whole performance. This time the D sharp was played in its proper place, and the musicians themselves were surprised at the superior effect produced. After the opera Mozart was conducted in triumph to his hotel.

Too Much Burns.

Charles Mackay once told this story in connection with a Burns memorial: Mackay had promised to collect shillings for some monument to the honor of Burns, and he applied with confidence for a subscription to an Englishman who had represented in parliament for many years a certain Scottish borough.

"No," said Mr. Fortescue Harrison. "I am no longer in parliament, and I have now much pleasure in refusing to subscribe the shilling which in former days I should have been obliged to give. What I have suffered through Burns heaven alone can tell! First, I had to praise him in the most fulsome manner, without having read his works. Then I had to learn to recite portions of his poems by heart, and in doing so to give the verses as much as possible with a Scotch accent. I have had to walk without my hat and with the rain pouring down upon my unprotected head as leader of a procession in honor of Burns, and under these circumstances I refuse with genuine delight to give a shilling or any smaller sum to the object you have in view."

The Laziest Man.

The laziest man in North America discovered himself the other evening in the swell bachelor apartments not far from Lafayette square where he lives. He was lying on a couch in his lounging room, smoking a cigar, when the cigar went out—that is to say, the fire at the end of the cigar departed. The man raised himself on one arm with great effort, and snapped the messenger bell that was installed over the couch. Then he reclined and waited. After about ten minutes there was a knock at the door, and a messenger boy entered.

"D'jou ring, sir?" asked the boy.

"Yes, son," said the laziest man in the western hemisphere. "Just gimme a match off that table there, will you?"

The boy handed the man on the couch a match and waited. The man relighted his cigar and smoked on.

"D'jou want me to go somewhere, sir?" asked the boy, fidgeting.

"No, that's all," said the man. "Take that half dollar on the table."

Then the boy went out, grinning.

That man ought to be on some government "commission" to investigate something somewhere.—Washington Star.

HOUGHS NECK.

Almost annually the group of cottages at Houghs Neck, made in part from old steamers, attract attention of some newspaper writer. The Globe of recent date says: Down at Houghs Neck in Quincy bay there is an interesting group of unique summer cottages. The majority of the strangers who visit this pretty little resort might, however, pass them by unnoticed, unless they are particularly observing and are struck by their odd appearance.

Then, a second glance would not be necessary to recognize a pilot house, the forward or after cabin, or the deck house of some steamer. Even the white-painted rope guard railing has been preserved, and is now used to keep the children from falling into the sand.

In some instances a top story has been added, with a hip or pitched roof, and chimneys sticking out, so that the combination makes indeed a picturesque little building.

For a number of years Nut island, adjacent to the Neck, and connected at low tide by a bar, was used by contractors who brought there old and wornout vessels to be pulled apart for the salable material of different kinds.

The vessels were run upon the beach and after all the movable portions that were worth anything had been taken off the hulks were burned to obtain the metal.

It was from this source that these odd little cottages came to Houghs Neck. At a little cove under the shelter of Great hill is Fensmere beach, where is located the principal group of these cottages. The old excursion steamer Plymouth Rock, and which was once owned in New York by Jim Fisk, is kept in memory here by a portion of her saloon cabin which is transformed into a comfortable cottage. In front is a broad piazza and within are the staterooms on either side, some used for sleeping rooms and others, with berths removed, for the kitchen, etc. The cabin presents the exact appearance as it did when a part of the steamer, and is the general living room.

Just at the rear of this cottage is another, made of the pilot house of the old wooden propeller steamer Worcester, formerly of the Halifax route. To this a second story and tower have been added. Nearby is the pilot house and connecting state rooms of the Carroll, the sister ship of the Worcester of the same line. Both make comfortable cottages.

A half mile from the beach, on a sightly bluff overlooking the bay is a pretty cottage called the Eight Bells, which is also a portion of the cabin from the Carroll. To this an upper story has been added.

Many of the cottages at the Neck have some parts of these and other old steamers used in the construction; steamer doors and gingerbread wood work of the saloon cabins being noticeable here and there. Two relics that also attract attention are the weather-worn signs "Katahdin" and "Forest City," taken from the pilot houses of these well-remembered steamers that for 40 years ran from Boston "down east," and is displayed on two of the cottages at the Neck.

Included in the number of vessels that have been in years past dismantled at Nut island are several of the old wooden ships of the navy, among them the Wyoming and Galena.

The burning of the vessels has usually taken place at night and has furnished a splendid sight for the crowds watching from the hills and shores in the vicinity.

Eightieth Birthday.

Mrs. Eben Sheppard, Greenleaf street, gave an informal reception on Saturday afternoon for her mother, Mrs. Mercy Pratt, in honor of her eightieth birthday. There were guests present from Newton, Brighton, Wellesley Hills, Weymouth and Atlantic. Mrs. Pratt was well and cheerful, and bore the weight of eighty years with remarkable ease and grace. Many letters of congratulation were sent and several poems written for the occasion. Mrs. Sheppard was assisted in receiving by her sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Denton. At six the guests were ushered into the dining room where the table was laden with dainties, fruits, cakes and ices. Punch was also served.

To Defend Another Cup.

The Genesee built in Quincy last year by Hanley has been selected by the Rochester yacht club to defend the Fisher cup, and Charles G. Davis, who steered her to victory in the Canada cup races last year, has been invited to sail her. The selection of Mr. Davis by the Rochester club is hailed as a wise one by yachtsmen in the east. He has the advantage of knowing his boat, while his close association with Hanley, the designer and builder of the Genesee, has enabled him to become thoroughly familiar with the general Hanley model.

Saturday and Sunday were great days for drunks in the East Norfolk district; fourteen fell into the hands of the officers of the law. Seven of this number were arrested in Quincy.

Sunday was a great day for the street railway and it was severely taxed to accommodate those who desired to ride. The riding was light in the morning but in the afternoon they came with a rush.

Saturday afternoon in the shade of a tree, a strolling minstrel was seated on the stone wall on Hancock street, playing on a guitar and singing some Negro melody. There were no by-standers and the minstrel seemed to be singing for the very love of it.

Another pointer. Look out for the challenges for the Quincy cup next year, and you will find among them the names of some people who will come a long distance for a try at the trophy. —W. E. Robinson in the Globe.

Senator Frye, in his campaign speech at Portland, Me., Monday evening, said that the Kansas City platform was filled with "isms"—socialism, anarchism, communism, populism, and silverism. In answer to a query "are there any more 'isms'?" a Stalwart in the back part of the hall, with some appreciation of no work and free soup houses, shouted, "Pauperism!" That settled it.

The silk worm was originally found in China and fabrics of this material were made in that country about 2700 B. C. About 900 yards of silk are produced by a single worm, and there are nearly 13 pounds of waste silk, designated as "thrown silk," for every pound of good silk.

Six prized kittens, belonging to a lady in Germantown, Penn., died mysteriously in one day. A post-mortem examination revealed traces of arsenical poisoning. They had eaten dead flies which had feasted on fly paper.

The Quincy A. A. Have a Picnic at Weymouth.

The heavy batting of the Quincy A. A. team on Saturday, and the failure of their rivals to find the ball, were the factors which contributed to the success at Weymouth on Saturday. All the Quincy boys batted safely, while the Porter A. A. got but two singles.

Gentlemen:—Our family realize so much from the use of GRAIN-O that I feel I must say a word to induce others to use it. If people are interested in their health and the welfare of their children they will use no other beverage. I have used them all, but GRAIN-O I have found superior to any, for the reason that it is solid grain.

Yours for health, C. F. MYERS.

HON. JOHN SHAW FOR CONGRESS

Candidacy of the Quincy Man Launched on Saturday.

About twenty-five of the Republican Ward and City Committee responded to the invitation Saturday night to dine with Hon. John Shaw at the Squantum Inn. The dinner was served at 6 o'clock in one of the private rooms and was of the usual high standard and entirely informal.

At the close of the dinner Mr. Shaw briefly addressed the gentlemen present on the issues of the day, but did not touch upon the Tenth Congressional contest. Then, telling the gentlemen to enjoy themselves, Mr. Shaw withdrew.

Chairman Bigelow of the committee presided for the remainder of the evening. There was no regular business to come before the committee, and the evening was passed in a social manner. The situation in the Tenth district was talked over, and looked bright for the election of a Republican.

The gentlemen present were also of the opinion that it was not necessary to go outside of Quincy for a candidate. Several spoke in favor of the candidacy of Mr. Shaw, and in view of the promise of help from other parts of the district, urged the united support of the city of Quincy.

Upon a rising vote, a unanimous vote of thanks was given Mr. Shaw for his hospitality, and three times three cheers for his success at the Congressional convention.

Hon. John Shaw has been a resident of Quincy for over thirty years, and is a representative citizen. He has taken an active part in the affairs of Quincy, both under the town and city government, and has served in the City Council. His best work was on a municipal water plant, and for the increase of the tariff on imported granite, in both of which he was remarkably successful. He has been a worker politically, serving first as a member of the Ward Two committee and then as treasurer of the City committee. He has been a member of the Norfolk club, Massachusetts Republican club, Home Market club, and other prominent clubs. In 1892 he was an alternate to the Republican National convention, and at the recent National convention a delegate from the Tenth district.

The Tenth District.

Editors of the Daily Ledger:

The Quincy candidate, Hon. John Shaw, stands well with old Dorchester, and South Boston business men. He will carry delegates enough to nominate him as Representative to Congress and his nomination assures an election in this old historic district.

It is Quincy's grand opportunity to send a business man of integrity and honor. In many respects likened unto our late Congressman, Hon. E. A. Morse of Canton, accessible and painstaking with each and all of his constituency. He is a gentleman fully equipped, experienced, capable of doing full justice to our granite interests and standing high with our senators, representatives and other leading Republican legislators. All this derived from his constant appearance in Washington on tariff matters where his sound protective arguments have been of great value.

Chairman Babcock for the Congressional Committee desires the gain of a Republican in the Tenth Masachusetts District. Let Quincy stand a unit in redeeming this district and thus help President McKinley in strengthening his Legislative branch, where so much depends in the carrying out of his wise statesmanlike policy under most distressing circumstances. Our President and his splendid Secretary of the Navy, our own John D. Long, did not want war with Spain in Cuba, but after the destruction of the Maine and her gallant crew, laying in peaceful commission in her harbor, it was then impossible for the President to prevent war, and the utter annihilation of the Spanish Navy both at Cuba and the Philippine Islands. Who, fellow citizens, distrust him? He who was a soldier knows the terrible havoc of war and can safely guide this nation humanely, righteously, successfully toward honorable peace.

Republicans of Quincy unite on our candidate; elect a life long Republican to represent the Tenth district at Washington. Common Sense.

Political Potpourri.

The Democratic caucuses must be held either Sept. 26 or 27, while those of the Republicans will be either Sept. 25 or 25.

The Globe says: The two most prominent candidates for the presidency of the state senate for 1901 are Lloyd E. Chamberlain of Brockton and Fred Joy of Winchester.

The Democratic State convention will be held in Faneuil hall, Boston, Tuesday, Oct. 2, two days in advance of the Republican State convention. It is reported that the basis of representation to the Representative convention will be one for every 50 votes for candidate Paine in 1899, and of all the other conventions one for every 100 votes. Whether any representation at large or for fractions is not certain. The basis above would give Quincy 9 delegates to the State convention, and 17 to the Representative convention as follows:

	Vote for Gov.	Delegates State.	Rep.
Ward One,	120	1	2
Ward Two,	125	1	2
Ward Three,	208	2	4
Ward Four,	312	3	6
Ward Five,	69	1	1
Ward Six,	114	1	2

It looks very much as though Congressman Naphen would have opposition within his party. The Herald says: There have been rumors of late and predictions have been made with more or less confidence by Democratic politicians who had an air of knowing what they were talking about, that Councillor Charles I. Quirk will be a candidate for the Democratic congressional nomination against Henry F. Naphen in the 10th district. Mr. Quirk returned to the city, after a week's absence, on Friday, and told a Herald reporter that he had not yet decided whether to make the contest or not. He went away again Saturday for another week, during which he expects to think over the situation some more.

China has still the old-fashioned system of private letter carrying. Letter shops are to be found in every town. If he has a letter to send, the Chinaman goes to a letter shops and bargains with the keeper thereof. He pays two-thirds of the cost, leaving the receiver to pay the rest on delivery.

The Chinese began to write books before they migrated from the region south of the Caspian sea.

NEW MATERIAL FOR WAR

Description of Devices For Use on Military Campaigns.

A PHOTO-STEREO FIELDGLASS.

Valuable Invention For a Commander as Well as an Officer on Reconnoissance—Device to Upset Small Arm Projectiles—Tricycle For Carrying an Ordinary Fieldpiece.

A well known optician of Berlin, Mr. C. P. Goerz, has just devised what will prove of great value to the military commander, as well as to the officer on reconnoissance, a fieldglass which also serves as a camera, says the New York Sun. The fieldglass magnifies three and one-half times and the photographic camera is arranged for simple or stereoscopic work, and, for time or instantaneous exposure, furnishing a photograph about two inches square. The whole looks like an ordinary binocular fieldglass, the camera attachment being scarcely noticeable—in fact, the telescopic tubes serve as the cameras.

The object glasses of the fieldglass are set in a plate, which works on hinges, opening and closing like the cover of a fieldglass case. When this cover is opened the camera is ready for use, and plates can be inserted; then, closing the cover, pulling out the shutter, and pressing a button between the two object glasses will give an instantaneous picture. If both tubes are covered with plates a stereoscopic photograph is obtained, but if one is covered with an opaque pane of glass simple photographs result. The instrument can be set to five different distances, 1, 2, 4, and 6 meters, and the infinity mark gives the setting for 7 meters and all greater distances.

The photograph is so clear and sharp in outline that enlargements can be made up to 7 by 9 inches. Enlarging apparatus is furnished with the instrument. This instrument, including 24 plate holders and a case for the same, costs $75. In reconnoissance work it will prove of great value in furnishing photographic views of particular points in the field, such as obstacles, artillery positions, important objective points, parts of fortifications, etc.

It is a well known fact that the long projectiles of modern small arms (more than four times as long as they are thick) rotate about their longer axes, and so pass through the air point to the front. If by any means the point can be made to turn aside quickly the projectile will turn over, and its velocity and penetrating power—in fact, its action in every respect—will thereby be greatly diminished and rapidly destroyed.

On the German firing ground for testing small arms at Halensee near Berlin, experiments have been conducted for some months to accomplish this result, and have proved so successful that the device has been patented in all the principal military states. The discoverer is Adolf Leven of Cologne. His device consists in placing in front of the target a thin sheet iron plate so filled with round holes (like a sieve) that a projectile can rarely strike simply and directly either a solid surface or a hole, but generally touches the sheet iron on one side of its point, the other side entering a hole, so that the point is deflected and the projectile turned over.

The experiments were conducted with the infantry arm under high velocities (728 meter seconds) at comparatively short distances (10 meters), the sieve like plates having a thickness of about .08 inch. Clay plates placed behind the upsetting device showed that the bullet was invariably turned over, and proved that in all cases the projectile lost much of its penetrating power. Since the experiments were conducted with high striking velocities (700 meters), it is certain that in the actual case in war, where the distances will be far greater and the striking velocity consequently much less, the projectiles will be turned over with greater ease. The distance behind the upsetting device required to turn over the projectile was found to be very short; in fact five inches was sufficient.

The advantage of this service, applied to the protection of infantry, lies in the fact that by its use the steel plates for protecting infantry from small arm fire, as well as other covering material, may be considerably reduced in thickness. The inventor also hopes to apply a similar service (of greater thickness of material, of course) to armor piercing projectiles.

The use of the tricycle for carrying Maxim machine guns has suggested the idea of conveying rapidly over the field from point to point an ordinary fieldpiece by similar means. The Norwegian government has had such a tricycle constructed at Aix-la-Chapelle, which has recently been delivered for trial.

The gun is mounted on a light steel framework like its own carriage, with two rubber tired wheels and a long trail (on which the ammunition chest is carried). The latter is attached (as in the fieldpiece) to the tricycle as a limber, the latter, besides the saddle for the driver, having a seat for the men, the front wheel serving, as usual, for steering, one man working its pedals. In the preliminary trial at Aix-la-Chapelle the apparatus easily carried the gun and two men up the Kanisberg (a mile long), a hill which usually forces cyclists to take a diagonal course in order to mount it.

Giving Them a Line.

General Greely's men will proceed to show Chinamen how to run telegraph lines, says the Baltimore American, if they will stop their foolishness and take a few lessons.

TUB TRUTHS.

A DROP of ink will color a whole glass of water. It is an inch of yeast which makes a pan of bread rise, and a single cake of soap containing unabsorbed alkali can ruin a hundred times its cost in laces and fine embroidery. After all, is it wise to take such risks with common soap? Of course you can get along without Ivory Soap. So can a wagon without axle grease—but it goes hard.

Officer Attacked.

Officer Patrick H. Bradley had a rough and tumble fight at Brewer's corner Saturday night with a gang of drunken Finns.

It was about 11 o'clock when the officer arrested Hendrick Olela for drunkenness. As he did so a man grabbed him by the arms from behind. Officer Bradley drew his club, but was unable to use it. There followed a struggle, during which the officer had his coat torn off. Deprived of the use of his club, Officers Bradley resorted to his two bunches of fives, and he used them to good advantage. There were four Finns in the party, and all were more or less under the influence of ether oil and alcohol, and some of them must have thought they were struck with a trip hammer.

Although handicapped, Officer Bradley succeeded in arresting Olela for drunkenness, and Mike Jabel for rescuing a prisoner. Later Matt Reheller, another of the party, was arrested for assaulting the officer.

TODAY'S COURT.

Henry Frolly, John Gill, James Ryan, Hendrick Plela, William Cross and Matt Reheller were fined $5 each for drunkenness at Quincy. Frolly deposited $4 and was trusted for the other dollar.

Francis Cushing, Thomas Newcomb and Edward Casey were fined $5 each for drunkenness at Weymouth.

John Brown of Quincy and James H. Croake and Joseph A. Gillardi of Weymouth were fined $7 each for drunkenness.

Neils Delberg of Braintree and Patrick McGrath of Milton were fined $5 each for drunkenness.

Matt Reheller was arraigned for assault on Officer Bradley at Quincy. Case continued until Wednesday.

Mike Jabel was arraigned for rescuing a prisoner from Officer Bradley at Quincy. Case continued until Wednesday.

Charles F. Miller was fined $3 for attempting to catch fish on the Lord's day at Weymouth.

Thomas F. Gilligan was fined $5 for driving a horse on Botolph street to the danger of passengers.

Wallace B. Rhodes of Weymouth was arraigned for non-support of his wife and family Case continued until Sept. 1,

Gustave Olson was fined $5 for disturbing the peace at Braintree.

Geo. W. White came into court and paid his fine of $7.

The continued case of Frank J. Sheehey for breaking and entering at Weymouth was called and he was discharged.

Well Known Newspaper Man Dead.

Milford, Mass., Aug. 27.—William H. Cook, editor of the Milford Journal, and one of the most widely known politicians in the state, died Sunday, after a long illness. Throughout his life he had been an inveterate smoker, which caused his death. Mr. Cook, while a member of the Massachusetts senate in 1895, inaugurated the movement and organized and led the forces, which secured for Massachusetts publishers the famous newspaper libel law. Mr. Cook was born in Bennington, Vt., 57 years ago.

A FAMINE IS IMMINENT.

Severe Strain Upon Food Supply by Villagers Flocking to Tientsin

Furnishes a New Element In the Chinese Situation.

Allies Said to Have Not Yet Reached the Palace In the Forbidden City.

London, Aug. 27.—General Dorward, in his report of the engagement outside Tienstin, Aug. 19, when the Americans, British and Japanese signally defeated a large force of Boxers, killing over 300, says, in a dispatch dated Aug. 25:

"The line of communication near Tientsin is now free from danger. The enemy had been treating the villagers badly. Several decapitated bodies were found near the camp. The villagers are now flocking to Tientsin at the rate of about 1000 a day. As there is not more than a month's food supply, there is every prospect of a famine shortly."

This declaration that a famine is imminent in consequence of the inadequacy of provisions fer the hordes of refugees at Tientsin, adds a new element of peril to the situation.

Shanghai advices say that the report of the capture of Emperor Kwang Su by the Japanese was erroneous. It was a case of mistaken identity.

The Pekin correspondent of The Daily Telegraph, wiring Aug. 19, reasserts that the empress dowager fled westward, and adds: "She has a bodyguard of 1500 and, as the mountainous character of the country would prevent artillery following, it is believed that she will not be pursued."

This correspondent reports everything quiet up to date of his dispatch, but a telegram to the same paper, from Tientsin, dated Aug. 24, asserts that 1000 Russians, Germans and Japanese had pushed forward from Pekin, with the intention, it was assumed, of pursuing the fleeing empress dowager.

The latest news from Pekin indicates that the situation there is unchanged. The imperial city is still invested, but has not yet been occupied. The allies, when the last message left, were still refraining from aggressive action, pending instructions from their governments.

An attack from 30,000 Boxers was anticipated, and to meet this the whole American force and the British artillery, according to a dispatch to The Morning Post, dated Aug. 18, were moved to the outer city wall. The Boxers were reported coming from the south.

Generad Dorward, in his report of the engagement outside Tientsin, Aug. 19, when the Americans, British and Japanese signally defeated a large force of Boxers, killing over 300, says, in a dispatch, dated Aug. 25:

At a conference of ministers and generals, held at Taku Friday, it was decided, according to The Daily Telegraph, to refer the fate of the forbidden city to Europe.

Tientsin dispatches to Berlin, dated Aug. 23, say: "The Japanese troops are in possession of the wall around the innermost part of the forbidden city, but have not yet made their way to the imperial palace, owing to lack of government instructions."

Lieutenant General Linevitch, commander of the First Siberian army corps, cabling to St. Petersburg, under date of Aug. 16, says: "There are no longer any Boxers in Pekin. They were driven out today by the French and Russians, whose flags are hoisted over the imperial city. The empress dowager, the emperor, the heir apparent and the whole court have fled to the province of Shen Si.

Li Hung Chang, according to a Shanghai dispatch, dated yesterday, has once more postponed his departure for the north.

The Japanese have landed more bluejackets at Amoy, where order is maintained in spite of the great excitement.

Beef For the Czar's Soldiers.

Chicago, Aug. 27.—Armour & Co. have received an order from the Russian government for 6,000,000 pounds of "beef on the hoof" to feed the soldiers of the czar in China. This is the largest order of the kind in the history of the Chicago meat trade. Options are said to have been taken upon every available ship in the carrying trade on the Pacific. It will take 5000 fatted cattle to fill the order. The cattle will be sent from San Franscico, via Hawaii and Japan.

Ready For Fitz and Jeffries.

New York, Aug. 27.—James J. Corbett, who is to do battle with McCoy before the Twentieth Century club on Aug. 30, announces that he is willing to meet Bob Fitzsimmons, Friday, Aug. 31, win or lose in his match with McCoy. Corbett adds that in case Fitzsimmons does not care to fight him, the proposition is open to Jeffries.

Fatal Jump From a Train.

Pawtucket, R. I., Aug. 27.—The body of a man, who jumped from a moving train here, and broke his neck in falling, has been identified as Charles Falingers of Lonsdale. It is believed Falingers jumped from the train when he thought he was going in a wrong direction.

Numerous Drowning Accidents.

James and William Charmley were drowned while fishing in the Amoskeag reservoir at Manchester, N. H. Their ages were 11 and 9 years.

August Janowski, aged 22, was drowned at Vernon, Conn. He got beyond his depth and was unable to swim.

At Winsted, Conn., the 12-year-old son of Harry Burgess was seized with cramps while bathing and was drowned.

Richard Wildue, aged 24, was drowned at Newton, Mass. It is supposed he was seized with cramps.

After having refused assistance from a passing boat, Ernest E. Davenport, 37, was drowned at Abington, Mass. He was seized with cramps, but being near shore, he believed he needed no assistance.

FIRES BUILT ON BREASTS.

Returned Officer Tell of Awful Cruelties Practiced by the Filipinos.

Emporia, Kan., Aug. 27.—Lieutenant Weaver of the Thirty-second United States volunteers, who resigned in the spring on account of illness and has just returned home from the Philippines, tells of barbarities practised by Filipinos upon American soldiers. He said that outside of the Macabebes, who were friendly to the Americans, the Filipinos are very cruel. "Six of our men were killed at Dinalupijahan," said Lieutenant Weaver, "and I do not think there was a man that had fewer than 10 bullets in his body.

"In the case of one American soldier it looked as though the muzzle of the revolver had been placed right in his eye and fired; he was also stabbed in the neck and breast with bayonets. Easter and McDonald, two of my company, were instantly killed. Easter was shot in the neck, and the other man was shot in the back of the head. Only about 20 of the company were with them, and they were attacked by about 250 Filipinos.

"The Americans fought them an hour and 40 minutes. They had to leave the dead, and when they came back the rebels had stripped the boys of all their clothing. They pulled up grass and sticks and built a fire on their breasts. We got to the boys before anything further was done to them. We got Easter and the other man away before they were burned."

Denby Out For McKinley.

Chicago, Aug. 27.—Charles Denby of Indiana, ex-United States minister to China, and member of the first Philippine commission, a life-long Democrat, has written a letter urging the re-election of President McKinley. It is entitled "Bryan's Attitude Towards the Philippines," and is made public by the Republican national committee. The letter is, in part, as follows: "In his speech of April 17, 1900, in the senate, Mr. Hoar said that he could not forget that Mr. Bryan, 'unless he is much misrepresented, used all his power and influence with those of his friends who are ready to listen to his counsels, to secure the ratification of the Paris treaty.' There were 17 Democratic senators who voted for the ratification. A two-thirds majority was necessary. The treaty was ratified by one vote. Mr. Bryan has squarely assumed the responsibility of the ratification."

No Further Use For Military.

Akron, O., Aug. 27.—Sunday passed peacefully in Akron, and unless something unforeseen turns up the original plan of dispensing with the services of the military today will be lived up to. Funeral services were held yesterday over the remains of little Rhoda Davidson, who died from a wound received in Wednesday night's riot. She was held in her mother's arms, the carriage in which the parents were driving having been wedged in by the mob in front of the city building. Mrs. Davidson insists that she saw an officer fire the fatal shot.

Native Christians Are Destitute.

Cleveland, Aug. 27.—Rev. Dr. A. B. Leonard, corresponding secretary of the foreign missionary board of the M. E. church, who is visiting his son-in-law in this city, has received a cablegram from Minister Conger and three missionaries in Pekin saying that the native Christians in northern China had survived the attacks upon them, but were homeless and destitute. The cablegram said that all the Methodist missionaries were safe, though all of the mission property is destroyed save that at Tientsin

Both Will Probably Recover.

Boston, Aug. 27.—Blanche Paquette took poison on Saturday evening because the man who was to have married her missed his car and did not arrive on time. She is on the dangerous list, but physicians think that she will recover from the effects of the carbolic acid which she swallowed. Mrs. Effie Allen, who on Saturday morning shot herself three times, with intent to end her life, is still alive. Surgeons having the case in hand are of the opinion that she will recover.

Set a Barn Afire.

Westboro, Mass., Aug. 27.—Daniel C. Johnson and Edward McNulty, inmates of the state Lyman industrial school for boys, set fire to a barn belonging to the institution, Sunday, by igniting the hay. The barn was totally destroyed. The loss with contents is $11,000. The boys confessed to the crime, Johnson giving as a reason for his act his desire to be sent to Concord jail. Three firemen were overcome by heat in fighting the flames.

Children Had Long Falls.

Boston, Aug. 27.—Catherine McElaney, 3½ years old, fell from a fourth-story window at her home Sunday, and escaped without breaking a bone, while Ratzia Ragouse, 4 years old, fell from a second-story window and escaped with scalp wounds. Francis Sheridan, aged 4, who fell from a settee in the North End park, did not have such good fortune. One of his legs was broken and an elbow dislocated.

NEWS IN BRIEF.

The British admiralty, according to The Daily Mail, is buying large quantities of American coal for the use of the fleet in home waters and the Mediterranean.

The New York committee of 100 on Indian famine relief reports the total amount collected to date as being $221,138.

Dr. Ernest Schmidt, for 30 years head of the consulting staff of the Alexian Brothers' hospital, died at Chicago of Bright's disease.

The salt codfishing schooner Addison Center of Provincetown, Mass., has returned from a seven weeks' quereau trip, with 140,000 pounds of salted fish in her hold. The Center brings good tidings from the fleet of handliners operating on the banks.

Charles A. Bigney, an 18-year-old swimmer, who has earned a reputation as a high diver, gained new laurels by diving 130 feet, from the top of an elevator, at Boston.

The police of Summit, N. J., have been notified of the arrest in Italy of Tony Roberts, a bootblack, who in June stabbed Thomas Di Legge, inflicting a wound from which he died a week later.

ADVICES FROM CONGER

Show That Germany Is Rushing Troops Into Disturbed District.

Chinese Ministers Expected to Soon Appear at Pekin.

Gunboat Castine Ordered to Amoy to Prevent Rioting at a Dangerous Point.

Washington, Aug. 28.—There are indications that the principal delays in the lines of communication are encouraged between Tientsin and Pekin, a fact explainable by the newspaper advices that small bodies of Boxers are operating on the lines of communication of the Pekin campaign force.

Usually these inturruptions are very short. The fact that more than a week was covered by the last interruption gives rise to the belief here that these attacks upon the lines of communication by Boxers are more formidable than was supposed to be possible after the heavy losses inflicted upon them by the international forces in its advance.

The important dispatch of Monday was one from Minister Conger relative to the military situation in Pekin. Unfortunately it lacked a date. Mr. Conger's reference to the arrival of 2000 fresh German troops caused some surprise, no one apparently having closely watched the movements of the German contingent, which is now arriving with fairly regular frequency in China, and which consequently may be expected soon to equal in numerical strength the military contingents of any of the European nations there represented.

A significant statement in Minister Conger's dispatch is that respecting the expected appearance in Pekin of some of the members of the tsung li yamen. A natural construction given to this statement is that these ministers wish to undertake to represent the Chinese government formally in negotiations with the powers. It having been found impossible up to this moment, according to Mr. Conger's statement, to meet any representative of the Chinese government in Pekin who was competent to open negotiations, it may be inferred that if these ministers actually appear with proper credentials one of the problems connected with the present difficult situation in China will be solved. With some responsible person or persons to deal with, it may be possible for the United States to come to some agreement as to a settlement of the Chinese trouble.

Ever since the fall of Pekin the principal difficulty confronting the government here has been to arrange for the next movement in its program. It could not withdraw its troops, even if so disposed, without arranging for indemnification for the heavy cost it has been put to in the Pekin campaign. Also, it must make arrangements with some responsible authority for the future protection of American interests in China, as our business interests cannot be withdrawn along with the army of occupation. Therefore, as conveying a faint hope that in the persons of these members of the tsung li yamen there may be found some authorized representative of the Chinese government competent to make engagements on these points, the message of Mr. Conger was very welcome to the authorities here.

Another event of the day of some interest was the order dispatching the Castine from Shanghai to Amoy, distant about 400 miles. The little gunboat should make the run in about two days under favorable conditions. Her force is small, but sufficient to serve the moral purpose, if there be need for such. It appears that she is ordered to Amoy quite as much on account of representations from well-informed business circles as from any official advice. The consul at Amoy agreeing with the representations of the business interests, it was decided to be proper to send a gunboat to Amoy, not because of any particular apprehension as to Japanese aspirations, but to prevent rioting at this dangerous point.

The first direct word from General Chaffee since Aug. 18 came in the form of a cablegram dated at Taku, reporting the action of the Sixth cavalry with the enemy near Tientsin on the 19th. The cable is as follows:

"Taku, Aug. 27.

"Adjutant General, Washington:

"Colonel Wint on the 19th reports marched at 4 a. m., and engaged large force of enemy seven miles from city; dispersed them, killing about 100. Americans lost five wounded. Will cable names wounded as soon as ascertained.

"'Chaffee.'"

This cable adds nothing to the information in the possession of the department relative to military movements, as it is simply General Chaffee's belated official report of an engagement previously reported by Admiral Remey in a cable dated Taku, Aug. 20.

The explanation of the delay in the war department's report is that Colonel Wint, who commands the Sixth cavalry, probably forwarded his report to his superior at Pekin and General Chaffee then sent it officially to Washington.

Three Cases of Bubonic Plague.

Glasgow, Aug. 28.—Three persons, father, mother and child, who have been certified to be suffering from bubonic plague, have been placed under the care of the medical authorities.

GOES OUT WITH HORTON LAW.

Fitzsimmons Declares His Intention of Retiring From the Roped Arena.

New York, Aug. 28.—After an ineffectual attempt on the part of Bob Fitzsimmons to get on a match for the heavyweight championship with James J. Jeffries to take place before the Horton law expires at midnight next Friday, Robert Fitzsimmons said last night:

"I am through. I will retire from the ring and will not claim the championship from Jeffries. I am ready and on edge to meet him next Friday night, as his manager suggested 10 days ago, but as he claims he is in no condition to fight on that night I am through with him and with the ring. Henceforth there will be one man less in the heavyweight division, for I will go out with the Horton law."

Fitzsimmons, with his manager, Percy Williams, met William A. Brady, representing Jeffries, Monday afternoon. Last Saturday Fitz deposited $2500 to bind a match between himself and Jeffries for next Friday night and Brady sent word that he would meet Fitz to arrange for a battle between Jeffries and the ex-heavyweight champion. Fitzsimmons said he was ready and willing to meet Jeffries on Friday night under any conditions.

Brady was obdurate and said it was impossible for a fight to take place between his man and Fitz on the date mentioned, but that he would put up a forfeit to bind a match between the two, the fight to take place within three months from Sept. 1. Fitz would not listen to this proposition and said that it was only made for advertising purposes.

When he saw that Brady would not agree to his proposition to fight this week, Fitz then made the statement that he was through with the fighting game and would retire from the ring.

Assault and Result Fatally.

Greenfield, Mass., Aug. 28.—Jeremiah Morgan, 73 years old, has two ugly cuts in his neck and throat, and his chances for recovery are very uncertain. He was found near his barn Monday evening. He said distinctly that the wounds were inflicted by John Fritz, a German laborer about 50 years old, who had been for several nights past sleeping in Mr. Morgan's barn. Mr. Morgan says that he refused Fritz permission to sleep there any longer, and that the latter then assaulted him. The more serious of the two cuts is on the left side of the throat and extends into the cavity of the mouth. Several smaller arteries were severed. The other cut is also on the left side of the throat and slit the left ear, besides making a bad gash in the back of the neck. Fritz was arrested. He denies all knowledge of the crime.

Wounded Woman and Killed Herself.

Boston, Aug. 8.—Miss Lizzie Collins, who went by the name of Mrs. Lizzie Craig, will not be beaten and otherwise ill-treated by her assumed husband, Frank M. Craig, again, for he lies cold in death. Monday forenoon Frank M. Craig called at the home of his supposed wife and fired a bullet into her head, and then turned the weapon on himself, and died almost as soon as the bullet entered his brain. The woman will probably recover. She had been living with Craig for seven years, and had five children by him, three of whom are dead. She had recently left him, and her refusal to again live with him led to the tragedy.

Suicide and Attempt at Murder.

New York, Aug. 28.—John W. Esson or Essing of Chicago yesterday fired two bullets, one into the head and the other into the body of his friend and associate, Harold H. Stridiron, and then, thrusting the muzzle of the revolver between his teeth, sent a bullet through his own head, in a room in the Hotel Vendome. The suicide expired immediately. His victim has a fighting chance for his life. The police are of the opinion that the man who attempted the murder and then committed suicide was crazed by the extreme heat and maddened by drink and jealousy.

Worse Than Bubonic Plague.

London, Aug. 28.—The present epidemic of cholera, says the Smila correspondent of The Daily Mail, is one of the worst outbreaks on record. The bubonic plague is child's play compared with it. The natives are dying like flies at the rate of 3000 a week. The epidemic is undoubtedly due to the pollution of the scanty water supply during the famine.

Excursionists' Fatal Quarrel.

McKeesport, Pa., Aug. 28.—One man was drowned in the Monongahela river and another seriously injured by blows on the head with an axe in a row on a boat loaded with participants in a colored Knights of Pythias excursion. The quarrel started over a woman.

Expected to Be the Finest.

Boston, Aug. 28.—The new first-class battleship Alabama, built by the Cramps, will be put through her paces over the Cape Ann course today, and her builders have every expectation that she will outsail her prototype, the Kearsarge, and in so doing, win the distinction of being the fastest coast-line battleship in the American navy.

Rakeoff by Hub Police.

Boston, Aug. 28.—The police got track of a policy layout Monday, and gathered it in, making an arrest of George Henderson as the supposed custodian of the "dream book" and policy slips. The raid, in amount of property taken, was the largest for many a day.

TOWNE ON THE STUMP.

Considers "Imperialism" In Reply to a Recent Speech by Roosevelt.

Says Policy Adopted Toward Filipinos Was Unnecessary.

Republic Under Aguinaldo's Leadership Was Recognized and Capable Government.

Duluth, Aug. 28.—At the armory last night Charles Towne opened the campaign in a lengthy address, in which he replied to the recent speech of Governor Roosevelt, delivered in St. Paul on the occasion of the national convention of the League of Republican clubs. The speech is considered by many to be Mr. Towne's greatest effort.

Mr. Towne opened by expressing lack of patience with anyone who believed in their "party, right or wrong," or "any president, right or wrong," considering the latter simply another statement of the divine right of kings. He then said:

"The issue of first moment in this campaign is whether the republic itself is to continue." He then reviewed at some length the causes leading up to and the chief events of the Spanish war, and continued:

"It was thus a mere incident in the prosecution of our war for the liberty of Cuba that we found ourselves in the Philippine islands. It is claimed that circumstances were such as to compel us to pursue in these islands thereafter the policy for which the administration has become responsible. A brief examination, however, of those circumstances will suffice to show that the policy adopted was not only unnecessary, but that it was in the highest degree disadvantageous to the United States, while involving the utmost cruelty and injustice towards the inhabitants of those islands, and violating every principle of good faith and the honorable traditions of American diplomacy.

"But the statement that we never promised the Filipinos their independence conveys a false impression. Our conduct was such as to stop an honorable nation from using such a plea as a justification or excuse for attempting to subjugate the islands.

"The Filipinos made no secret of their object in rebelling against the Spanish government. What they desired to do was to form a government of their own, and to be absolutely independent of Spain. It is important to bear in mind that the Filipino republic, established under the leadership of Aguinaldo, was a recognized and capable government throughout the island of Luzon, and several adjoining islands to the south.

"Of course, since we had secretly formed a determination to seize the islands, it is apparent that whenever that design became manifest or we attempted to put it into effect, the Filipinos, if they were earnest when declaring their object to be independence, would resist it. The aggressor, regardless of who struck the first blow, would not be he who stood in defense of a right, but he who by act or threat compelled the other to defend it. As a matter of fact, as shown by General Otis' official report, our troops fired the first shot, and the Filipinos stood on the defensive."

Mr. Towne then discussed the protocol and the treaty of peace, and the proclamation of Jan. 3, 1899, at Manila, which he declared "is of the very essence of imperialism."

"But," he went on, "what is probably as sinister in this proclamation as even this flagrant endorsement of force as the basis of political authority, and as significant of imperialistic tendencies in the executive, is the cool assumption by the president of the power to act before the execution of the treaty of peace. The treaty was then not ratified. It had not, indeed, been approved by the senate."

Taking up Governor Roosevelt's speech, he declared it to be enormously disappointing. Neither in matter or in manner is it worthy of its occasion. In respect of argument, the speech is, with rare exceptions, an alternation of evasion and assertion. In spirit it is a compound of scold and scullion. As to the facts it abounds in inaccuracies.

Mr. Towne then argued at considerable length against possible constitutional right under which the United States could hold and govern colonies, ridiculing the alleged claim that this right was given by that provision of the constitution.

Stevenson Takes Towne's Place.

Chicago, Aug. 28.—At a meeting of the People's party national committee Monday the declination of Charles A. Towne as the vice presidential nominee of the party was accepted and the name of Adlai E. Stevenson was put in his place. This result was obtained after a long debate. There were 124 members of the committee present, or represented by proxy.

Daring Theft by a Youngster.

New York, Aug. 28.—While Mrs. Moses Lewis, with a pair of diamond ear-rings, valued at $400, in her ears, was walking through Grand street Monday, Otto Dieterich, a boy, tore one of the ear-rings from her right ear and fled, pursued by a crowd. He was caught and held on a charge of highway robbery. This is the second case of this kind in this city within two weeks.

Damage by Wind and Rain.

Sedalia, Mo., Aug. 28.—A storm bordering closely on a tornado struck this city Monday. Three buildings on Main street were blown down. Woods' Opera House was practically unroofed and dozens of smaller buildings were damaged. Thousands of shade trees were torn up by the roots. The rainfall was terrific. No loss of life is reported.

NUMBERS FAST DIMINISHING.

"Boys" Who Fought Afloat During the Civil War Parade at Chicago Encampment.

Chicago, Aug. 28.—Train after train, loaded down with veterans and their friends, rolled into the various depots in the city Monday, and, by evening, it was estimated by railroad officials that 45,000 old soldiers had arrived, and that 300,000 other excursionists had come with them. It is expected that there will be 50,000 additional arrivals today.

The first day of the encampment was one of ideal beauty, in marked contrast to the hot and humid weeks that have preceded it since the first of August. There was in the early portion of the day a fresh breeze off Lake Michigan, tempering the heat of the sun, which shone brightly, but not too warmly. The right of the line on the opening day was given to the men who sailed the seas during the civil war, the cheering was all for them, and the honors were theirs. The army will come to its own today.

The heroes of river and sea of the Civil war are a small band now. Of the 132,000 men enlisted in the navy, in the early days of the war, less than 1000 marched yesterday, and it is agreed by the old sailors that their number was greater in the march than it will ever be in any parade to come.

But one battleflag was carried by the naval veterans. It was the one that fluttered from the monitor Winnebago when Farragut sailed into Mobile bay to gain his crowning victory. It was borne by Seaman Ed Woodruff of Rockford, Ills., and beside him marched ex-Boatswain's Mate J. R. Lynn of Chicago, who made the flag, while serving on board the Winnebago.

Beside the men who fought afloat from '61 to '65 came the younger generation, which helped to smash Montejo's fleet.

The late afternoon feature of the day's celebration, the naval parade on Lake Michigan, proved somewhat of a disappointment, weather conditions interfering sadly with the arrangements.

The fleet arrived off Lincoln park about 4:30 p. m., and the revenue cutters, with their crews working the rapid-fire guns of two vessels, went through some beautiful maneuvering in the sham fight for supremacy. The evolutions exemplified the workings of two fighting ships in battle, lasted for a half hour, and at their conclusion the fleet slowly steamed back to the harbor.

Hub Loses an Honored Citizen.

Boston, Aug. 28.—Alanson W. Beard, prominent for years in Republican politics of Massachusetts, ex-collector of the port of Boston, died at his home here Monday evening at the age of 75. Mr. Beard was born in Ludlow, Vt., in 1825, and was brought up in the town of Stockbridge. At the age of 17 he began to teach school, and this he continued with little intermission until his 21st year, when he went into business at Pittsfield, Vt., keeping a country store. In 1856 he went into the clothing business in Boston, and in 1873 he retired from business. Mr. Beard served in the lower branch of the legislature, and in 1872 he was appointed collector of the port of Boston. In 1885 he was unanimously nominated and elected treasurer of the commonwealth, a position he held during the years 1886, 1887 and 1888. In 1890 Mr. Beard was for the second time appointed collector of the port. Mr. Beard was a fine specimen of physical manhood, standing six feet two inches in height, and in his prime weighed some 225 pounds. He had a strong constitution, and with his close cropped hair and vigorous mustache was a noticeable figure.

Christianized Chinamen Organize.

Boston, Aug. 28.—The Chinese Protective association was formed by Christianized Chinamen of this city Monday night, under the direction of the Y. M. C. A. The idea is "to band the Chinamen together for the purpose of protection and assistance against prejudice and injustice; to promote a better understanding between Chinamen and Americans; to express our deepest abhorence of the conduct of the Boxers, and to express the hope that the new civilization knocking at the gates of our native land may bring to our people the blessings so richly enjoyed in America."

Electrical Storm Brought Relief.

Boston, Aug. 28.—The heat wave which hung over all New England for three days was well broken up Monday night by a sharp electrical storm in southern New England, and the vacuum it created as it passed to the northeast will allow cooler weather to rush in. This warm spell has been the most severe of the season and much suffering was attendant upon it. The storm did little damage, although the lightning was very brilliant.

No Progress in Scharn Murder Case.

New York, Aug. 28.—The police have made no progress in locating the strangler of Kate Scharn, who was killed in her home on Second avenue a week ago Saturday night. Police authorities had over 100 persons before them yesterday, trying to find out something in the way of a clue to the murder, or to find a new fact in the case. But they quit where they began.

Jail Keeper Exonerated.

Boston, Aug. 28.—The report of the prison commissioners of their investigation into the conduct of the New Bedford jail, which was made at the request of Representative Parker of Boston, will probably be presented to the governor this week. It is no secret that the report will completely exonerate the keeper of the jail from the charges preferred by Mr. Parker.

Gentlemen:—I must say in regard to GRAIN-O that there is nothing better or healthier. We have used it for years. My brother was a great coffee drinker. He was taken sick and the doctor said coffee was the cause of it, and told us to use GRAIN-O. We got a package but did not like it at first, but now would not be without it. My brother has been well ever since we started to use it.

Good Afternoon.

The population of St. Louis and Baltimore have been announced and still Boston is kept in suspense.

Not until the Fraternal Congress in Boston this week were the public aware of the existence of many of these organizations but goodness knows there are too many of them.

Report comes that the Grand Army encampment is the largest since 1865, yet we are told each Memorial day that the ranks are being thinned. It is one of the pleasures of the veterans to meet as a grand national army once a year.

It is good news that the Chinese in Boston have no sympathy with the Boxers. They in fact condemn the action of the Boxers in severe terms and will work by means of an association to secure for China the blessings of America.

Alanson W. Beard, the ex-Collector of the port of Boston who died Monday, won success in commercial life and was for years prominent in the Republican State Committee and Massachusetts politics. He was a man of high integrity.

One of the horses overdriven by Albert G. Vanderbilt on his attempt to make a record between Newport and Boston on Saturday, died at Fall River on Sunday. We have not yet heard of any arrest for cruelty to animals, but such an attempt on Saturday last was cruel.

People generally don't enthuse much over the award of gold medals at the Paris fair to the Metropolitan Sewerage Board, Metropolitan Park Board or Metropolitan Water Board of Massachusetts. These undertakings have been expensive enough for the Boston Metropolitan district without this added expenditure to make an exhibit.

It is in the municipialties like Quincy incorporated over 100 years ago that "Old Home Week" should be popular. Since 1792 Quincy has been upon the map, and although it has grown rapidly in population and importance, many of her sons and daughters have gone to New York and the South and West. Many of these upon invitation of the city or relatives would like to visit old scenes in the summer of 1901. Let Massachusetts and historic Quincy copy the New Hampshire idea and have a grand good time.

Drift of Opinion.

☞ Those who say that summer weather is too hot for political activity are not the ones who win a campaign by long, persistent and personal endeavor. The man who wants an office bad enough to have it always in his mind and on his tongue is more liable to win than he who waits for a more convenient season.—Lynn Item.

☞ This country is being treated to most revolting scenes of mob lawlessness that have occurred for years. Three riots in as many cities, recently, have revealed that our so-called cultured and boasted civilization are at best, for some, but a thin-skin, easily punctured by a lust for so-called revenge. In all cases there are more innocent persons than guilty suffer and many times the real criminal escapes.—Milford Journal.

☞ Gossip may be friendly and neighborly. I like the word because it conveys a suggestion of good news or good comment, but it is no longer gossip when it ceases to deal with pleasant happenings and loving wishes, and becomes critical or censorious or lapses into slander. The most unworthy talk in the world is that which is carried on in whispers and semi-confidences, and which retails the unfortunate errors of people whom we know. Never to say an unkind thing, never to imply an unfriendly thing even by our silence, are rules which we should make and to which we should scrupulously adhere.—Margaret E. Sangster, in the September Ladies Home Journal.

☞ An illustration of the current popularity of trolley roads if any were needed, might be found in the report of an electric line connecting two prosperous cities of respectively, 17,000 and 25,000 population in a neighboring state. The first ten weeks operation of the road has resulted in earnings practically sufficient to pay off the interest on its bonded indebtedness for a year The public likes to ride on a trolley line, especially if it runs, as this one does, through a pleasant country. One noteworthy feature is that the two cities in question are connected by two steam roads and are only about fourteen miles apart.—Providence Journal.

☞ Indifference and helplessness in the face of bad political conditions are combined in the man who admits the existence of evils and sums up all his conclusions—they cannot be called decisions—by saying: "But you can't do anything about it." Of course you can't if you feel that way. Men who think they can't, don't. Whether the problem is of politics or of business, or of inventing a steam engine, it is all one. There are some things, we suppose, that cannot be done; but the things that can be done are not done by the men who say they cannot. In this matter of improving political conditions, the rule is surely true. Men with faith and courage are the men who accomplish, and no other men count for anything. But the spectacle of an American citizen standing up when confronted with an abuse and saying "can't" is one of the most pitiable sights in all the country.—New Bedford Standard.

Dr. Everett's Letter.

Ex-Congressman Everett of Quincy insists upon a third presidential ticket. He has little use for either Bryan or McKinley and resolutely declines to grapple with any "befouled palm," by which he means, we take it, the anti-imperialists. And Mr. Everett is not far out of the way. And now as to that third ticket. Would Prof. Everett consent to head it?—Haverhill Gazette.

In a communication to the New York Evening Post, concerning his desire for the nomination of a ticket by the Nationalists that would furnish shelter for such independents as himself, Dr. William Everett, of Quincy, the former non-resident Congressman from this district, intimates plainly that he isn't taking any hygienic chances in politics this year. The doctor is bitterly retaliating on the cold shake.—Lynn Item.

In Her 79th Year.

Mrs. Sarah S., wife of Mr. George J. Jones, passed away at her home on Hancock street this morning, at the advanced age of 78 years. Mrs. Jones has had a stomach trouble for some months and of late has been gradually failing. She leaves a husband and one son, Mr. George W. Jones.

Tall Corn.

Talk all you may about tall corn, six feet high, at Atlantic. Why it is mere dwarf compared to some sweet corn raised by Mr. Norman E. Ross, on the Riddle estate, 122 Granite street Quincy. Why, dear man, it is ten feet high, and still growing and has nice sweet ears, a foot long. Why, Atlantic is not in it, a little bit. Six feet isn't anything this hot weather.

☞ The Pageant given under the auspices of the Noble Hospital has played to crowded houses and will net $1,200. This is the second time the pageant has been given in this city by Prof. Wales.—Westfield Times and News.

—Mrs. Mary A. Moran of South Weymouth was found dead on Sunday in an open field near White street in that village. Her household was not alarmed at her absence as she had gone to neighbors on Saturday to assist at a funeral.

Y. M. C. A. ROOMS.

Association However to Push the Building Fund.

The board of directors of the Young Men's Christian Association recently held an important meeting.

The following officers were unanimously elected.

President—Delcevare King, Quincy.

Vice-President—H.B. Bailey of Wollaston.

Recording Secretary—E. D. Gourd of Quincy.

Treasurer,—William F. Cummings of Atlantic.

The future policy of the association was thoroughly discussed, and it was unanimously decided to inaugurate and push vigorously the Building Fund believing that when the appeals are made the people of Quincy and vicinity will give the association a proper equipment for its work.

The rooms in the Saving Bank building which have been temporarily occupied during the summer, will be vacated Sept. 1, and the rooms at 152 Hancock street over Nash's grocery store will be fitted up for the use of the association. Arrangements are being made to hold the gynasium classes in the Boston Young Men's Christian Union, and the Educational classes in the Boston Young Men's Christian Association until the Quincy association shall have the necessary facilities for conducting them in Quincy.

The association will have four rooms in the Nash building which will be fitted up as parlor, reading room, library, game room and office. Tickets of membership in the association under the new arrangement will be honored by both the Young Men's Christian Association and the Union of Boston.

A meeting of the membership of the association is called for next month, at which time a permanent board of trustees will be elected to hold all the real property of the Association. $3000 in cash and pledges will be the amount to turn over to the trustees at that time and this will make the beginning of the Building Fund—this amount having been secured since May 1. Efforts to be made during next year will greatly increase this fund. To provide such a building as the Quincy Association will require some $20,000 or $25,000 will be needed.

The season's work will open about October 1, and the annual announcements will be made at that time.

Assets $163,711.

The certincate of the Quincy Electric Light and Power Co. filed at the State House Aug. 15, shows liabilities of $163,711 as follows: Real estate and buildings, $12,781; machinery, $142,727; cash and debts receivable 83,402; manufactures and merchandise, $4,801. The assets include: capital stock, $89,700; debts, $60,515; profit and loss account, $13,496.

No Nonsense.

Once in awhile there is a princess from whose lips plain words fall more readily than precious stones. One such, the wife of one of London's leading editors, figures in the "Personal Recollections" of H. Sutherland Edwards.

The editor had occasion to present a distinguished gentleman to his wife. He spoke as a husband, but he was not far wrong when he said, "Allow me to introduce you to the most charming woman in Europe."

"Don't be a fool, Sam!" said the lady, as she extended her hand.

Flattered.

Salesman—These collars are all the go. They are worn by everybody.

Customer—In that case I don't think I care to buy any of them.

Salesman—When I say everybody, of course I mean everybody of correct taste. And persons of correct taste are so few, you know.

Customer—I think I'll take a dozen.—Boston Transcript.

The Smith Family.

The Smiths are everywhere. In Italy they are called Smithi, in Holland, Schmidt; in Russia, Smitowski; in Spain, Smithus; in Poland, Schmitiweiski and in Mexico Smitri. In England the Smiths are the most numerous of all families, but in Ireland they are content to rank fifth, after Murphy, Kelly, Sullivan and Walsh.

The Greenland Berry.

Things grow very fast in the short Greenland summer. As soon as the snow melts off, in many places the ground is covered with a vine which bears a small berry something like a huckleberry. It is nearly tasteless, but juicy, and the natives are fond of it.

Public Opinion.

The single snowflake—who cares for it? But a whole day of snowflakes—who does not care for that? Private opinion is weak, but public opinion is almost omnipotent.

TODAY'S COURT.

Frank Morse of Weymouth was fined $7 for disturbing the peace.

Joshua Brown was fined $5 for drunkenness at Quincy.

No greater crime is known in China that that of desecrating a graveyard. Because graves are found everywhere in China, the first railroad built there had to follow a very circuitous route in order to avoid them.

Madame Yale's
HAIR TONIC

Ladies and Gentlemen.—It has gone on record that Madame Yale's Excelsior Hair Tonic is the first and only remedy known to chemical science found to be a genuine hair specific. It has an affinity for the human hair for nourishing and invigorating its entire structure. It is antiseptic in character, as well as stimulating; its action upon the scalp and hair is truly wonderful, inasmuch as it has never been known in a single instance to fail to cure scalp diseases and to create a luxuriant growth of healthy, beautiful hair. It stops hair falling within twenty-four hours and brings back the natural color to gray hair in nearly every instance. It is not a dye; it is not sticky or greasy; on the contrary it makes the hair soft, youthful, beautiful and glossy; keeps it in curl. It is a perfect hair dressing, and can be used by ladies, gentlemen or children as a daily toilet requisite. Its influence is delightfully soothing.

All Dealers sell it, $1 per bottle. Mail orders may be sent direct to the manufacturer,

It is more and more evident that ex-Congressman Atwood has been overrated as a possible candidate for Congress. He was unable to carry the caucuses in Quincy two years ago and fell far short in the district.

Ex-President Connolly of Boston is authority for the report that Hon. Charles J. Quirk of Ward 17, a member of the Governor's Council, is in the field for the Democratic nomination in the Tenth Congressional district.

Democratic clubs will be organized throughout Massachusetts on Saturday, Sept. 1.

Senator Baldwin of South Boston is also an aspirant for the Democratic nomination for Congress in the Tenth district.

—The "overworked" monkeys of hand-organ grinders are now exciting the pity of peculiarly kind-hearted people of Boston, and they are writing pitiful appeals to the newspapers for the relief of "the poor little creatures, evidently fagged out and always grasping at the chain with the little left hand to lessen the jerk upon the neck collar."

DIED.

JONES—In Quincy, Aug. 28, Mrs. Sarah S., wife of Mr. George J. Jones, aged 78 years 5 months and 14 days.

TALBOT—In East Milton, Aug. 28, Mr. John C. Talbot, aged 72 years, 2 months and 27 days.

RAYMOND—In East Weymouth, Aug. 26, Mrs. Emma F. Raymond, wife of Mr. Robert F. Raymond of Randall avenue, aged 54 years.

A Unique Introduction.

One day when calling upon Gambetta I found him vastly amused over a visit which he had received a few minutes previously from the late General Meredith Read, who for a number of years was United States envoy at Athens.

Then general, who until that time had been a perfect stranger to the great French statesman, had entered the latter's presence, carrying in his hand a volume entitled "Men of the Time," or some work of the kind. This he opened, without saying a word, and laid on Gambetta's desk before attempting to greet him or to explain the purpose of his call.

Then, pointing to a column which contained a very eulogistic biographical notice of himself, he exclaimed, "Kindly read that," and when Gambetta, who read English with the utmost facility, had, in compliance with the request, cast his eye over the page in question, General Read rose from his chair, and with a bow to Gambetta pointed to himself, exclaiming in tones of pardonable pride, "C'est moi."

Then, and not until then, did he extend his hand to the great tribune, who, having meanwhile risen from his chair, expressed his pleasure at making the acquaintance of so distinguished an officer, who had rendered such valuable services to the United States.

Gambetta informed me that in the whole of his long experience of public life he had never known a man to introduce himself in so delightfully original a manner.—Critic.

"Ze Flaveur Del'eat."

At one of his famous little dinners a prominent professional man of Washington was greatly pleased with the salad, as were also his guests. Evidently it was partly meat and partly vegetable, but the flavor was new, distinct and undeterminable. This was so faint that one guest declared "It's not a taste at all, only a smell."

At length some one suggested that the chef be asked for the recipe, upon which the host remarked:

"My man greatly dislikes being asked for recipes. On this occasion, however, his vanity may overcome him if we tell how greatly we have enjoyed the dinner, and the salad in particular. At any rate, we'll see."

The Frenchman soon appeared, and was visibly affected, not to say elated, by the compliments.

"Eet gif me gret plaisir," he said, "to tell how I mak ze sal-lad. Eet ver' seemple. I haf ze laitue 'range ready; an I haf ze meat chop ver' fine an dry; ze celeri I haf chop ver' fine; an I haf ze pamme de terre, ze patate, an stan a leetle an dry; zen I mix zem up. Zen I mak' ze dresseeng mayonnaise; madame, she know, I haf all ver' col' ready as ze feesh ees serf. Zen as ze sal-lad ees to serf, I tak' une tete d'ail, pardonnez moi, one leetle cloaf of ze garleek an neeble him in ze mouth, so, an breathe gentle, ver' gentle, on ze sal-lad. Zat gif eet ze flaveur del'eat."—What to Eat.

Simple Questions.

The beginnings of a new primer have been made by one of our exchanges. The questions may be indefinitely continued by teacher and pupil.

"See the corn in the field. Can the corn walk?"

"No, the corn stalks."

"See the pretty cake. Does the cake stalk?"

"Never. But you should see a cake walk."

"I have a rope. Can the rope walk?"

"Yes, if it is taut."

"The hen is in the garden. Does the hen rise?"

"No, the hen sets."

"The mercury is in the tube. Will the mercury set?"

"No, my child. Wait until July and see."

A Variation.

The two old friends, as has been narrated before, met again after many years of separation.

"By the way, Brown," said Jones, "do you remember that snubnosed cross eyed little Tilbury girl with a face on her that would derail an express train? She used to live somewhere in your neighborhood, I think."

"Oh, yes, I remember her perfectly," replied Brown.

"Whatever became of her?"

"I am sorry to disappoint you, Jones"—here is where the variation comes in—"but I have not the slightest idea. I didn't marry her."—London King.

Away From Home.

It breaks parents to have their boys leave home, but it is the best thing that can ever happen to them. A man gets a training when away from home that he needs in after life, and which he can never receive at home. It is a grandmotherly notion that a man should be tucked in his bed at home every night until the day he marries and goes to a home of his own; such hothouse treatment puts him in poor condition for the cold blasts he is bound to encounter later in life.—Atchison Globe.

The Other Way.

A pale and disheveled Frenchman who had not found "a life on the ocean wave" all that could be expected, was sinking into his steamer chair, when a passenger asked cheerily: "Ah, good morning, monsieur; have you breakfasted?"

"No, monsieur," answered the pallid Frenchman, "I have not breakfasted; on the contrary!"

A part of the curious list of Lady Littleton's wedding outfit 200 years ago is as follows: "A black paddysway gown and coat, a pink unwatered pabby sute of cloaths, a gold stuff sute of cloaths, a white worked with sneal sute of cloaths."

Only Turkish flags are allowed in Constantinople.

PUZZLE OF THE SEA

A VANISHED ISLAND IN THE SOUTH PACIFIC HAS AGAIN APPEARED.

The ship Miowera, just into the port of San Francisco, reports that Falcon Island has come into sight again. Falcon island, which is one of the Tonga or Friendly group, in the south Pacific, is the 15 puzzle of navigators. Scarcely are charts completed showing its location when the mysterious island entirely disappears from sight. Then when sailors have made up their minds that no such island ever existed and that the man who originally discovered it must have been dreaming it will bob up again above the surface of the ocean like a bad penny.

Falcon island is or was—it is always dangerous to speak of it in the present tense—located 35 miles distant from its nearest neighbor, Tofooa, one of the principal members of the Tonga group. It was first seen in 1885 and at once attracted the attention of scientists, who were anxious to determine the nature of the forces which could add another island to the thousands which already dotted the surface of the south Pacific. It was easy to determine that Falcon island was of volcanic origin. Its cliffs rose more than 150 feet above the level of the sea, and on the flat portions of the island it was only necessary to dig down six or eight feet to reach a temperature which would boil water, while on the surface the thermometer only marked 85 degrees above zero.

FALCON ISLAND.

The fact that the island is entirely composed of volcanic conglomerate and that there is a distinct smell of sulphur in the air makes it certain that it was driven up by a submarine volcano.

The most careful scientific examination of Falcon island was that made by the officers of the British ship Egeria in October, 1889. They found the island entirely uninhabited and projecting out of the ocean in the shape of a high and symmetrical black oval. It was almost destitute of either animal or vegetable life. Three or four seedling plants, evidently carried to the island by wandering sea birds, had taken root, and two young cocoanut trees, not in a flourishing condition, were all the signs of vegetation, and a single sand piper and a solitary moth were the only living things which a careful search of the island revealed.

At the time of the Egeria's visit, four years after the island appeared for the first time, the waves of the ocean, which beat upon the high, black and barren shore of the island with great velocity, were fast eating it away. It was predicted then that within a few years it would entirely disappear unless some new volcanic activity should give it a new lease of life.

Since that visit Falcon island has twice disappeared, only to be driven up again by the resistless force operating beneath it. Later explorers have made certain the fact of its volcanic origin. They have even found some natives who, during the prolonged eruption in 1885, which resulted in the formation of the island, went in their canoes from Tofooa and watched the forces of the volcano at work. Before its last disappearance, in 1898, still other visitors had discovered apertures in the upper part of the grim black cliff from which smoke and steam were still issuing.

Measuring High Temperature.

A mercury thermometer for high temperatures has been designed in Germany. It consists of a small cylindrical receiver of steel closed at one end. At this end a capillary steel tube of one-quarter millimeter internal diameter is connected. This tube can be made of any length up to 50 yards, so that the indications of the instrument can be seen at a considerable distance from the place of which the temperature is required to be known. The capillary tube is connected to another small, flattened tube, which is wound in the form of a spiral. The whole of these tubes and the cavity are completely filled with mercury. The heating of the small cylindrical receiver then causes the spiral to dilate and to untwist. One end of the spiral being held and the other being fixed to a suitable gearing, the indication of the temperature can be given on a dial which can be seen for a considerable distance.

Metrological Reform.

In his presidential address before the Society For the Promotion of Engineering Education, Dr. Mendenhall advocated the adoption of the metric system of weights and measures. He said that there is a certain class of objectors who see something sacred in the yard and the pound because they are relics of antiquity, and something inherently wicked in the meter and the kilogram because they originated with the French during the revolution at the close of the last century. He quoted the words of Charles Sumner in the senate, uttered more than 30 years ago: "A system of weights and measures born of philosophy rather than chance is what we now seek. To this end old systems must be abandoned."

CURTAIN RAISERS.

Richard Golden will revive "Old Jed Prouty" this season.

Yvette Guilbert is now convalescent from her long illness.

Sir Henry Irving will not play in London again until next April.

Humperdinck is to compose a new comic opera. The subject will be Louis XV

Mrs. Stannard, who is better known by her pen name, John Strange Winter, has lately finished two plays.

A great-niece of Danton was in the audience that saw the revival of "Charlotte Corday" at the Francaise in Paris.

It is possible that Sudermann's "Johannes" may be played in this country. Miss Julia Marlowe controls the American stage rights.

Rejane, the popular French actress, was originally Reju. Regille, Rejalle and Rejolle were all tried and rejected. Finally she hit upon Rejane.

C. Leslie Allen has been engaged for the role of Don Antonio Perez, supporting his daughter, Viola Allen, in her new play, "In the Palace of the King."

"King Robert of Sicily" is the name of a new play by Grace Livingston Furniss which will be seen here later on, with Mr Joseph Haworth in the part of the hero.

Mr. Clyde Fitch has delivered to Mr Charles Frohman the manuscript of a new society play, called "The Climbers," which is to be presented in the first instance in New York and subsequently in London.

"Quo Vadis" has made a triumphal march through the Italian cities. It was performed 50 times in Naples and 100 in Rome. The author has had little or nothing from the play, as the novel was not protected by copyright.

THE SINGERS.

Signor Scotti is a bachelor.

Milka Ternina, the great Wagnerian soprano, is unmarried.

M. Saleza married recently a beautiful girl from his native province in the Basses Pyrenees.

Jean de Reszke was married only a couple of years ago to a beautiful French woman. His brother Edouard, however married many years ago and has four lovely daughters.

Mme. Schumann-Heink, when she was a young Berlin singer, married her stage manager, Herr Schumann. They have always worked together. Their last child which is No. 8 under the family rooftree was born in America.

Herr Dippel, when he married a lovely Russian girl of 20, ten years ago, robbed the stage of a great actress. She never misses a performance when her husband appears, is frequently at rehearsals and her husband says she is his best critic.

Marcella Sembrich's husband is a gravel man with a dark beard. He is Professor Guillaume Stengel, and she married him when she was a student in a musical conservatory, of which he was director. She is nearly as wonderful a pianiste and violiniste as she is a singer.

Ernest Van Dyck, the popular operatic favorite, has been married a number of years. His wife is a brilliant woman, a daughter of Servais, the great Belgian 'cellist. The Van Dycks have two young daughters and live in a beautiful home near Liege. They entertain lavishly.

THE DOMINIE.

Canon Gore complains of the poverty among many of the clergy in England and lays it to the charge of lukewarmness among the laity.

The eightieth birthday of the Rev. Dr Henry G. Weston, president for a quarter of a century of Crozer Theological seminary at Upland, Pa., is to be appropriately celebrated in September. He has been connected with Crozer seminary since its inception.

Bishop Potter of New York is, despite his size, as splendid a horseman as his late brother, the general. All the Potters have been fond of riding, and it is the bishop's favorite exercise when in the country, though when in town, he does not indulge in it so often.

The race of fox hunting parsons has not yet completely run out in England, although fox hunting is not so popular as it once was. Lately the Rev. E. A. Milne has been made the M. F. H. of the Catti sock hounds, making two of his kind in England, the other being the Rev. E. M Reynolds, master of the Comiston pack.

FLOWER AND TREE.

The "cow tree" of Venezuela gives a fluid resembling, tasting like and possessing a close chemical affinity to cow's milk.

The saucy little monkey flower, also known as musk plant and botanically as mimulus, makes a desirable plant for the window.

Don't place the rosebed where it will be partially in the shade of trees or buildings. Roses want all the sun there is. They want all the nutriment there is in the soil also.

Thunbergia is a beautiful trailing vine suitable for vase or hanging basket. The blossoms are trumpet shaped, about as large round as a silver half dollar and are either white or some shade of yellow with dark velvety brown throats. The plants grow fast and flower freely and bloom until frost comes.

BRITON AND BOER.

About this time Buller and the other discredited officials will indulge in a few smiles at the expense of Lord Roberts.—Washington Post.

A London dispatch says Kruger is willing to surrender as soon as he is assured of his destination. In other words, Oom Paul will surrender as soon as he is sure of his escape.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

The way Boer generals never before heard of are surrendering every day might cause a suspicion that the British are tacking titles on the privates they captured just for effect.—Chicago Record

In view of the fate of Cronje and the invariable demand of Lord Roberts for unconditional surrender, it is not strange that President Kruger should make a supreme effort to keep out of the way of the British.—Providence Telegram.

THE NEW KING.

Victor Emmanuel is only five feet in height. Let's hope he'll be every inch a king.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

The new king of Italy is a small man who has to climb upon a chair to get upon a horse's back. But this does not prove that he will not make an excellent king. Napoleon was no giant in figure.—Boston Traveler.

Alegrd Cruel Treatment by British.

Berlin, Aug. 28.—A deputation of German subjects, residing in the Transvaal, arrived here Monday, and they assert that 400 German subjects were arrested at Johannesburg and sent to a seaport, from which port they were shipped to Flushing, where the British landed them penniless. They were arrested in shops and taverns, and even in their beds, and were hurried away barefooted and only half clad, losing everything they had. They are now urging the foreign office to demand damages for the brutal treatment and the loss of property.

Delicacy of Sentiment.

Chicago, Aug. 28.—William J. Bryan has followed the example of President McKinley and declined to be a visitor at the national encampment. He sent a message, in which he says: "Since President McKinley is detained by public business I believe that the proprieties of the occasion demand that I also decline and thus relieve the reunion of any appearance of partisanship." The local committee sent Mr. Bryan a message expressing its regrets at his inability to be present.

REQUESTED ARRESTS.

Earl Li Said to Have Taken Action Toward Opening Negotiations.

Indication of Tendency to a Partition of the Empire.

St. Petersburg Hears That Allies Met With Disaster and Lost Many Men.

London, Aug. 28.—The allies, resuming aggressive operations, have taken the district west of Pekin. This statement, based on Chinese authority, is cabled from Shanghai.

From the same place comes the further statement that Li Hung Chang has wired the empress dowager at Hsian Fu, requesting the arrest of Prince Tuan and the disarmament of the Boxers, in order to give him an opening for negotiations with the powers.

"Evidence has been received here," says the Shanghai correspondent of The Standard, "going to show that General Yung Lu was the real author of the anti-foreign outbreaks, the empress dowager, Prince Tuan and the others all having been persuaded by him to take an extreme attitude, while he stood aside and awaited developments.

American refugee missionaries in Amoy, according to the Hong Kong correspondent of The Daily Mail, are anxious to return to the interior, but the United States consul has forbidden them to do so, and urges them to go to the Philippines, or to return to America.

Shanghai advices to The Daily News say that consular opinion there looks upon Japanese action in the landing of troops at Amoy, despite the protests of the consuls, as similar to that of Russia at New Chwang, the whole indicating a tendency to a partition of the empire.

"Russian journals agree," says the Moscow correspondent of The Standard, "that it is impossible to deal with China in the spirit of revenge, as suggested by Emperor William. They believe that measures less drastic can better accomplish the ends of Russia in Manchuria. The question would be satisfactorily settled to Russia's mind by the seizure of the northern provinces."

A St. Petersburg special quotes Emperor William, when wiring in answer to the announcement that a Russian regiment had been named after him, as follows: "Express my good wishes today with all the greater joy since our Russian and German comdares, after a long time, are fighting together again, shoulder to shoulder. According to an old and sacred tradition, victory will not be wanting."

A special dispatch from St. Petersburg says: It is persistently rumored in St. Petersburg that the Russian government has received a dispatch asserting that, after a fierce battle inside Pekin, the allies retreated, losing 1800 men, mostly Russians. It is further said that the Chinese occupy fortified positions, from which they are bombarding the allies in a murderous manner.

A Buffalo Priest's Edict.

Buffalo, Aug. 28.—Rev. J. H. Quinn, rector of Holy Angel church, does not approve of the growing custom of women appearing at church and in other public places without hats. "This is the house of God," he said, "and every respect should be shown to him by those who enter it. From this time on it is forbidden at any time of day for women, young or old, to come into this church without covering on their heads. This applies also to weddings. There is no exception made."

May Be a Clash of Arms.

London, Aug. 28.—Referring to the tension between Roumania and Bulgaria, the Bucharest correspondent of The Daily Mail, says: "The outlook becomes more and more serious. The opinion of the general public here is that Bulgaria must be taught a lesson by arms, if necessary. Many public meetings were held Sunday throughout Roumania. All were characterized by a very warlike tone. The expulsion of Bulgarians from Roumania continues."

Called Doctor When Too Late.

Philadelphia, Aug. 28.—The coroner's office is investigating the death of Giles J. Burgess, aged 24 years, who died of consumption after six months of treatment by a Christian Scientist named Mrs. Brownell. The young man was taken sick last winter. Last week it was decided to call in a physician, but the disease had taken such a hold that nothing could be done. He died on Saturday night.

Another Veteran Association.

Chattanooga, Aug. 28.—The United States Volunteer association, the membership of which is expected to exceed 200,000, was formed here Monday, with Colonel Richard H. Savage of New York, who commanded the battalion of engineers in the Cuban campaign, as president. The objects of this association are almost identical with those of the Spanish war orders.

Tried to Cheat the Gallows.

London, Aug. 28.—Bresci, the assassin of King Humbert, ineffectually attempted to commit suicide Sunday, according to a dispatch from Rome to The Daily Mail. He now refuses food, saying that he has no intention to give the Bourgeoise the satisfaction to see him condemned. He shows signs of aberration of intellect.

Terrible Fall to Death.

Shamokin, Pa., Aug. 28.—While a wagon was being lowered in the Mount Carmel colliery last night a side hook broke, causing the wagon to dash 400 feet to the bottom. John Daubert and George Ruske, who were riding on the wagon, were instantly killed.

A Builder's Heavy Failure.

New York, Aug. 28.—Matthew C. Kervan, builder, filed a petition in bankruptcy Monday. In the schedule his liabilities are given as $741,613.54 and assets none.

OUTCOME OF A QUARREL.

Alleged Slayer of Dennis Deane Declared That He Would Not Be Taken Alive.

Uxbridge, Mass., Aug. 28.—George Quinlan, who, it is claimed, killed Dennis Deane by hitting him in the head with a stone Sunday afternoon, is still at large, although the police in all the neighboring towns have been warned and a strict watch will be kept. When Quinlan left his boarding house Monday he placed a revolver and slungshot in his pocket and said he would not be taken alive by any officer. All trace of him has been lost and the officers have no idea which way he went. He is about 30 years of age, 5 feet 10 inches tall, light sandy mustache, light brown hair and very broad shouldered. He had been in Uxbridge but a few weeks and was employed on the gravel bank which is being created in the abolishment of the Linwood crossing.

His victim, who died from the effects of the blow Monday afternoon, was one of a large family living in the north end of Uxbridge. The killing of Deane is said to have been the outcome of a quarrel. Deane and 11 others went into the woods Sunday to have a good time. Quinlan appeared, and he was told that his presence was not desired. Without further provocation, Quinlan hurled a stone at the crowd, and Deane was struck on the right side of the head. While the wound was painful, Deane walked home, but at midnight, paralysis set in. The stone which caused his death was the size of a man's fist and very rough. Robert Deane, a brother of the deceased, who was an eye witness to th affair, says the stone was hurled with much force, and struck Deane, who was lying on the ground, squarely on the head.

Looked Like a Crooked Job.

New York, Aug. 28.—The fight between Tommy West and Joe Walcott at the Twentieth Century Athletic club ended in a most peculiar manner last night. The bout had gone 11 rounds very much in Walcott's favor. When the bell rang for the 12th round Walcott refused to go on, claiming that he had injured his left arm. Referee White insisted on Walcott's continuing, but the negro simply grinned and refused to resume. This left White no alternative other than to count 10 seconds, after which he declared West the winner. There was quite a large sum of money wagered, with West the favorite, and the referee was outspoken in reference to Walcott's peculiar action. Manager Kennedy, on behalf of the club, announced that Walcott's share of the money would not be given to him, but would be donated to some charitable institution.

The South African Campaign.

London, Aug. 28.—Wiring from Belfast Monday, Lord Roberts says: "Our casualties yesterday (Sunday) were wonderfully few, considering the heavy firing and the number of hours we were engaged. Buller estimates his loss as two killed and 24 wounded. His troops had to bivouack where they stopped after darkness fell, and accurate returns are as yet impossible. The casualties of the force operating north of Belfast were three killed and 34 wounded."

Ne son Beaten In a Fluke.

Brockton, Mass., Aug. 28.—Johnnie Nelson was defeated for the first time after 15 successful races against the fastest riders in the country in a 20-mile motor-paced race here Monday evening by Burns Pierce. Nelson's pace went wrong in the eighth mile, when he had a lead of half a lap, and for the next seven miles he plugged along unpaced, finally quitting on the third lap of the 15th mile. Pierce kept along and finished the race in 34:56 4-5.

Women Were Badly Scared.

Manchester, N. H., Aug. 28.—A car on the Goffstown trolley line was struck by lightning while on its way to Goffstown Monday evening and was put out of commission. A panic ensued among the women passengers, and Miss Laura Bailey, in making a jump from the car, broke an ankle. Another woman fainted and was with difficulty restored to consciousness.

Charged With Embezzlement.

Fall River, Mass., Aug. 28.—John F. Lyons, about 28 years old, is locked up here to answer a charge of embezzlement. He disappeared three years ago, and it was said at the time that $165 went with him, belonging to his employers, the New York and Boston Express company. Lyons was arrested in Boston and brought here last night.

Vanderbilt's Coaching Trip.

Newport, R. I., Aug. 28.—Alfred G. Vanderbilt and his coaching party reached this city at 7:25 Monday evening, having made the run over the road from Boston in 20 minutes less than 12 hours. Mr. Vanderbilt says that the trip was not made with the idea of breaking the record made by Mr. Belmont.

Alleged Dealer In Green Goods.

Philadelphia, Aug. 28.—Charles Spinner, an alleged green goods man, was held in $1500 bail for a further hearing yeterday by United States Commissioner Craig, charged with using the mails to defraud.

NEWS IN BRIEF.

Clyde Appleby, 9 years old, was drowned while bathing at Lisbon Falls, Me.

Andrew L. MacLaughlin of Melrose, Mass., dropped dead in front of his home in that town. He was a politican in the Democratic party.

A severe storm passed over Colebrook, N. H., lightning setting fire to the farm buildings of Charles Hodge. Almost all the property was destroyed. Two barns belonging to Almon Cross were also George T. Clark, grandfather of Roland B. Molineux, died at Middletown, N. Y., aged 84. He was a firm believer in the innocence of his grandson.

The training ships Chesapeake and Newport, which took the naval cadets on their summer cruise, have been ordered out of commission.

An official contradiction has been issued of the rumor of the impending prohibition of the export of Russian cereals.

A Positive Woman.

A woman has a right to be positive on matters which are matters of personal knowledge and experience. Every woman who has used Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for diseases of the womanly organs is positive as to its wonderful curative value, and confidently recommends it to similar sufferers.

Women who suffer from inflammation, ulceration, female weakness, or nervous diseases caused by disease of the womanly organs will find a complete cure by the use of "Favorite Prescription."

"Several years ago I suffered severely from female weakness, prolapsus, and menorrhagia, and used Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription with splendid effect," writes Fannie Shelton, of Washington, Iowa. "Glad I have not needed it for a few years past, but if I should have any return of the old trouble would surely try 'Favorite Prescription.' I have recommended it to a number of my lady friends. I always tell them to try a bottle, and if they are not benefited by it I will pay for the medicine. In every case they have spoken in praise of it."

WANTON DESTRUCTION

Boxers Made Every Effort to Destroy Foreigners' Property In Pekin.

Allies Are Moving Southward to Clear the Country.

Members of the Imperial Household Are Probably Safe In the Interior.

London, Aug. 29.—A Reuter dispatch, dated Pekin, Aug. 15, and sent by post to Shanghai, describes scenes of appalling desolation and wanton destruction in Legation street. All the houses of foreigners were riddled with shells, burned or blown up. An attempt was made to mine the American legation. A shaft was sunk from the top of the wall 15 feet deep, and was then continued as a funnel, with a sharp slope, in the direction of the legation. Apparently the Chinese did not have time to finish it.

A copyrighted Associated Press dispatch from Pekin, dated Aug. 21, via Taku, Aug. 27, says:

Three Russian, two Japanese, one British and one American battalion searched the imperial park, south of the city and about five miles out, for Boxers. No armed force was found, but only a single Chinese scout, who was killed. The Japanese are in possession of the imperial summer palace today. The winter palace here is still closely guarded. The Russians wish to destroy it, but the Japanese wish to save it. A southward movement began today, and will continue, but several (detachments?) will remain to protect converts.

That the inexplicable delay in forwarding telegrams from the Chinese capital still continues is illustrated by the fact that the latest dispatch from Pekin, the telegram of the special correspondent of The Associated Press, describing the search for Boxers, in the imperial park, is dated no later than Aug. 21.

There is no confirmation from any source of the report of an advance northward from Pekin. On the contrary a movement southward to clear the country and to insure free communication with Taku is apparently in progress. The allies, as late as Aug. 21, were still unable to agree as to how to deal with Pekin itself, the Japanese and Russians being at variance as to whether the imperial palaces should be destroyed.

Nor is there any further news of the alleged detention of Li Hung Chang by the admirals. Probabilities increase that all the members of the imperial household have gotten safely to the interior.

The report of a defeat suffered by the allies at Pekin is everywhere discredited.

The Chinese legation in St. Petersburg has received news that peace negotiations have already begun.

The Pekin correspondent of The Daily News, in a dispatch dated Aug. 17, asserts that there are thousands of instances going to show that the Boxers were approved by the imperial officials in their indescribable ferocity.

No New Charter For Northampton.

Northampton, Mass., Aug. 29.—At a special election Tuesday the proposed act to revise the city charter was defeated, 801 to 454. The chief features of the proposed new charter were the substitution of one board of 21 members, one-third to be elected annually and serve for three years, for the present two boards of 28 members; fixing a tenure of office for the chief of police, who is now appointed annually, and the appointment of the city solicitor by the mayor, instead of his election by the city council, as at present.

Police Say He Admits Guilt.

Boston, Aug. 29.—Charles H. Colburn, 41 years old, is charged with the embezzlement of $2642 from David Benshimol, the proprietor of a jewelry business. The police say that Colburn admits his wrongdoing, and while the above-mentioned amount is the one in the specific charge, it is said that a close examination of the books may result in finding that the amount is considerably larger. In the municipal criminal court Colburn waived examination and was held in $3000 for the grand jury.

Third Party Nominees.

New York, Aug. 29.—It is announced at the headquarters of the National party third-ticket movement that the candidates for president and vice president of the United States have been about decided upon. They are: For president, Senator Donelson Caffery of Louisiana; for vice president, Moorfield Storey of Massachusetts.

Instigator of Riot Is Dead.

Watseka, Ills., Aug. 29.—Mrs. Dr. Charlotte Wright of Gilman, whose attempted arrest for malpractice resulted in a fatal riot, died at the Iroquois county jail here Tuesday from loss of blood and exposure during the ride to Watseka. This makes four persons dead as a result of the riots.

The Hub's Great Growth.

Washington, Aug. 29.—Boston has a population of 560,892. The official figures of the census were finished Tuesday and given out at the census bureau and figure up the total stated. This shows a gain of 25.07 percent in the past 10 years. The census for 1890 was 448,477.

PLANS OF MANUFACTURERS.

Possible Wage Reduction and Continuation of Curtailment at Fall River.

Fall River, Mass., Aug. 29.—There is a well-defined rumor on the street that the selling committee of the Cotton Manufacturers' association has come to a decision respecting action to be recommended to the manufacturers in hope of removing part of the serious conditions of the cotton mill business.

As understood, the plan is to reduce wages, returning to the rate in force previous to Dec. 11, 1899. At that time a general advance of 10 percent was made. The price for weaving a cut of 45 yards of regular 28-inch, 64x64s, which is taken as the basis of wages, was advanced from 18 cents to 19.8 cents. It is now proposed to recommend a return to the 18 cents basis.

There is also under consideration a plan to continue the curtailment of production. The present curtailment agreement expires Sept. 17 next, and that date is probably the one when the reduction in wages and renewed curtailment will go into effect.

A member of the selling committee says that no definite action has as yet been taken by the committee, plans of action being still under discussion.

Kentucky Legislature In Session.

Frankfort, Ky., Aug. 29.—The Kentucky legislature convened in extra session Tuesday. Both houses adjourned after hearing Governor Beckham's brief message, which stated that the only purpose for which the session was called was to amend the state election law. The message stated that the law was a good one, but that party and factional prejudice had been engendered against it to such an extent that it was thought best to make changes before another election was held. Both sides admit that the vote on the repeal of the Goebel law will be close. It is the opinion that a fair election law in the form of an amendment to the Goebel law will be passed.

Matter Involves 140,000 Miners.

Hazelton, Pa., Aug. 29.—If the anthracite coal operators refuse to grant the demands of the United Mine Workers, as embodied in the reports of the scale and the resolutions committee, as presented and adopted at Tuesday's convention, by Sept. 8, a strike involving 140,000 miners will be declared. The convention applied to the national executive board to order a strike if no satisfactory, amicable agreement regarding wages, the powder question and other grievances is reached.

Middle-Roaders Are Scarce In Iowa.

Des Moines, Aug. 29.—The middle-of-the-road Populists state convention met here Tuesday with a small attendance and decided to remain in the middle of the road. No state ticket was named and the matter was left with the state central committee, who will have a ticket placed on the official ballot by petition, not enough votes being cast last year to permit the names going on the ticket otherwise.

Competition With English Coal.

London, Aug. 29.—Acoording to the manager of the Atlantic Transport line, the freight on coal from New York or Baltimore to London will be 1 guinea per ton, bringing the price to the level of the best English coal, but he says there is undoubtedly a market for American coal along the Mediterranean, where it could be placed from 10 to 12 shillings cheaper than English coal.

Ito Likely to Be Premier.

Yokohama, Aug. 29.—The probability of Marquis Ito's early accession to power, on the retirement of Premier Yamagata, with a strong party organization behind him, is daily increasing. It is felt on all sides that in the coming readjustment of Chinese affairs he is the one man to cope with the situation, his influence being almost as great in China as in his own country.

Want Balm For Being Clubbed.

New York, Aug. 29.—Seven claims for damages against the city have been filed by colored men who assert they were clubbed without cause by the police in the recent race riots. Six claims are for $15,000 each and the seventh for $25,000. The filing of them is the preliminary step to bringing action against the city in the supreme court.

A Mine Engineer's Sacrifice.

Leadville, Col., Aug. 29.—The Weldon mine, located just east of the city limits, was totally destroyed by fire last night. The fire started in the engine room, but the engineer remained at his post until nearly all of the men were hoisted from below. He was probably fatally burned. The loss is about $60,000.

No Warrant Was Issued.

Boston, Aug. 29.—John O. McDonald of Halifax, who was arrested in this city for the alleged embezzlement of $928 in Canada, has been released. It is said that the release was due to the fact that no warrant had been issued by the Halifax authorities, and that the arrest in Boston was illegal.

Serious Bicycle Accident.

Lowell, Mass., Aug. 29.—Miss Bertha Parkhurst of Chelmsford was knocked down by two bicyclists Tuesday evening as she emerged from a gateway in that town. She was rendered unconscious and fears are entertained of her recovery. One of the bicyclists had his nose broken.

He Robbed Mrs. Gould.

New York, Aug. 29.—Charles M. Blair, who stole Mrs. Edwin Gould's jewelry from her private safe in her apartments in the Gould mansion in Fifth avenue last May, was sentenced Tuesday to four years and two months' imprisonment.

Paid For His Stubbornness.

New Haven, Conn., Aug. 29.—For refusing to answer questions propounded by a census enumerator, Adam Sglats of New London had to pay a fine of $46 in the United States district court Tuesday.

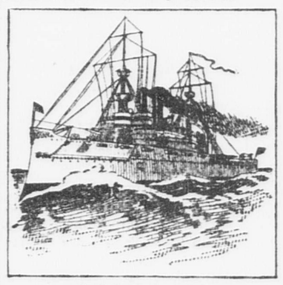

THE ALABAMA "ALL RIGHT."

Remarkable Performance of the Battleship on Her Trial Trip.

Can Do Seventeen Knots or Better Easily in an Hour.

The Contract Called for But Sixteen Knots--- Other Records.

Boston, Aug. 29.—The United States battleship Alabama made an average speed of 17 knots on her official speed trial Tuesday. While the figure was not quite as high as that made by another great battleship produced from the same builders' yard three years ago—the Iowa—it was notable from the fact that it gave an idea of the yet undeveloped power of this latest and greatest product of American shipbuilders.

BATTLESHIP ALABAMA.

The Alabama was built by the Cramps at Philadelphia, and while of the first class, she is unlike any of the earlier creations, both architecturally and as a fighting machine. Built under a contract that required at least an average speed of 16 knots an hour, she has been turned out to do 17 knots or better under conditions that will not be termed extraordinary, and as such she becomes, probably, the fastest of our line of battle craft.

A few months ago another ship of her class—but unlike her in very many respects, built by a rival shipbuilding firm at Newport News—was sent over the same course to meet the same requirements, and under almost identical conditions, the other ship being the Kearsarge. Aside from the desire of the builders of the Alabama to produce a craft that would suit the government, there was not a little anxiety that she might not beat the Kearsarge's figures made on Nov. 25 last.

The 17-knot record is not the highest for speed trials, but it is the highest for battleships since the bonus for extra speed has been abolished. The Iowa, when she left her builders' hands in 1897, was officially recorded at 17.04. Her speed trial was made under the very best possible conditions. The Massachusetts and Indiana, which had preceded her, earned premiums for the Cramps, but their speed did not equal that of the Iowa. Then, after a lapse of more than two years, the Kentucky on Sept. 24 and the Kearsarge two months later, came to the New England coast and under favorable, but not extraordinary conditions, made high figures of 16.81 and 16.89 knots respectively. Those figures have now been beaten, by a narrow margin, to be sure, but the Alabama, apparently, was not made to do but a little beyond her mean speed.

The trial throughout was a success in every particular. For nearly three legs of the outward run the boilers made steam so fast that the surplus was allowed to blow off. At the same time the men in both engine and stoke rooms suffered no inconvenience from lack of fresh air, and the temperatures were not high. The maximum revolutions of the engine reached was 118, and this figure was only for a half hour, the mean being much below this. The highest steam pressure was 180 pounds, or nine under the limit. The horsepower developed was supposed to be 11,500, although this figure, like those for the speed, will be officially given at Washington.

E. S. Cramp said that the run, in his opinion, in which many of the naval men aboard agreed, was not a forced trial, but a fair day's work, which, he claimed, can be equalled at any time under ordinary conditions. Moreover, he said that the trial was the most remarkable the country has seen.

The Alabama will be ready for delivery to the government in six weeks, when she will go into commission under Captain W. H. Brownson.

The trial was under direction of the board of inspection and survey, headed by Rear Admiral Rodgers.

YEARS PRESS THEM LOSELY.

Yet the Grand Army Veterans Made a Splendid Showing In their Annual Parade.

Chicago, Aug. 29.—The climax of the 34th annual encampment of the G. A. R. was reached Tuesday, when the thinning ranks passed in review before their leaders, and before probably 1,000,000 spectators, packed in almost solid masses along the four miles of the line of parade. It was, according to Commander-in-Chief Shaw, the greatest parade since that day in Washington, when the hundreds of thousands of veterans, the most powerful army on earth, marched in review to their final disbandment.

Probably 30,000 members of the army of veterans took part in the parade, and most of the time with ranks almost perfectly aligned, but occasionally faltering under the burden of the years, they filed past the reviewing stand, saluting as they marched by General Miles, Commander-in-Chief Shaw, General Sickles and the Spanish minister, Duke d'Arcos.

Weather conditions were almost ideal for the parade, wearisome enough at best for the silver-haired veterans. The line of march, too, was much shorter than ever before mapped out for the annual parade, but, notwithstanding this, here and there a veteran dropped out of the ranks.

One especially sad incident occurred to mar in a degree the glory of the parade, Charles Beckwith of Algonsea, Mich., dropping dead as the line was filing past the corner of Michigan avenue and Madison street. The parade was halted for a moment, the body of the veteran who had responded to his last call was tenderly removed and his comrades passed on.

Shortly after passing the reviewing stand the line of march disbanded and most of the veterans, tired with the hours of march, sought their hotels and lodging places. Commander-in-Chief Shaw remained standing until the last veteran had filed by.

The evening was given up entirely to affairs of a social character. In 26 different places in the down-town district reunions of states were held. This feature, the holding of reunions by states, had never been attempted before at the national encampments, and last night was the first trial of the experiment. It proved a great success.

To Prefer Charges Against Leary.

Honolulu, Aug. 21, via San Francisco, Aug. 29.—Governor Frank P. Portusak of Guam arrived here today on his way to Washington, via San Francisco, to prefer charges of mismanagement against ex-Governor Leary. Portusak says that Leary went so far as to forbid the ringing of church bells tolling at funerals and other customs very dear to the hearts of the natives.

McCusker and Cavill Matched.

Boston, Aug. 29.—James L. McCusker, champion swimmer of America, and Percy Cavill, the Australian champion, have signed articles for a series of matches to take place on the evening of Sept. 8 at Boston. Both men have posted $100 forfeit as a guarantee of appearance. They will swim five races in all, as follows: Quarter mile, half mile, mile, two miles and five miles.

Clothing Burned From Her Body.

Brockton, Mass., Aug. 29.—Mrs. Samuel Berman was probably fatally burned Tuesday by the explosion of gasolene which she was pouring into an oil stove. Her clothing taking fire she rushed into the street. A passerby wrapped her in a rug, extinguishing the flames, but not before her clothing had been entirely burned from her and her body also terribly burned.

Good Afternoon.

The editors who went to Gloucester Tuesday could tell some fish stories if they would.

One hundred years ago the population of Boston was not as large as that of Quincy today. Will Quincy have half a million population in 2000?

We are glad Boston has half a million population. She will feel better now probably. Could it have counted 15,000 more, so as to have passed St. Louis, it would have been out of reach of a ten-foot pole.

Drift of Opinion.

☞ It's a great thing to be a Vanderbilt and drive about the country in a coach, while all the big newspapers in the country wildly telegraph to their correspondents to send long stories about the trip. As an example of the deep interest that attaches to mere wealth, this recent example is the limit. —Brockton Enterprise.

☞ The scheme of having a "Home Week" in Massachusetts after the Maine and New Hampshire pattern, is being seriously agitated. A great many people have a "home week," 52 times in every year, but holidays are always in order in a busy age and in a hurrying word.—Beverly Times.

☞ Town Topics has a curious bit of politics. The editor reports that "at Newport the more ancient wealth of the country—the class constituting what passes for the aristocracy of the republic—as represented in the most jealously guarded resorts of fashion and refinement favors the election of Bryan. The Astors, the Belmonts, the Vanderbilts, the Lorillards, the Havemeyers, the Whitneys, the Stuyvesants, the Rutherfords, the Chanlers, the Goelets, the Gerrys, the Stevenses, the Van Alens, all have aligned themselves in opposition to Hanna and McKinley." It is more than curious and it makes us wonder whether Mr. Hearst will cease banging these "insolent representatives of plutocracy," and whether Mr. Bryan's orators will let up denunciation of "the barons of America." — Hartford Courant.

☞ An interesting point in considering the military operations in China is the unavoidable conviction that Japan welcomed the opportunity to assume a leading part not so much because of a longing to punish the Boxers as because of an earnest desire to give Europe a fair token of her ability and preparedness under the modern western system of defense and offense which she has been so industrious in developing. Whether at the gates of Tién Tsin, on the road to Pekin or before the walls of the capital, the Japanese were uniformly successful in whatever they undertook to do, and carried forward their plans of operation with undaunted courage and a skill which deeply impressed the commanders of the other forces. In addition, the naval demonstration of Japan constituted an object lesson that could not have been lost upon Russia, France and Germany—especially the first named, which will now think twice, no doubt, before inviting in the near future, a collision that was generally regarded as imminent before the Chinese outbreak so suddenly turned the current of international affairs.—New York Mail and Express.

CREDITABLE WORK.

Letter of School Committee to H. W. Lull, the Retiring Supt.

The regular monthly meeting of the School Committee was held Tuesday evening, Messrs. Porter, Hallowell, Peirce, Smith, Dion and Miss Adams being present.

The chairman read the following letter sent to Supt. Lull for the board:

Quincy, Aug. 7, 1900.

H. W. Lull, Esq., Superintendent of Schools, City of Quincy, Mass.

My dear Mr. Lull: I am directed by the School Committee of the City of Quincy to convey their regrets at the severance of your relations as Superintendent of Schools in the City of Quincy.

The faithful and conscientious manner in which you have performed your duties, for now nearly nine years in this arduous position, brings great credit to yourself.

We congratulate you on your promotion, and wish you every success in your new field of labor. You carry with you the regard and esteem of all who are now, or who have been members of the School Committee, during your term of office.

Allow me to add my personal testimony to your worth, and the high esteem in which I hold you.

Cordially yours,
Charles H. Porter,
Chairman School Committee.

INCREASE IN RENT.

A notice was received from Henry H. Faxon notifying the committee that after Oct. 1, the rent of the rooms of the Committee would be $25 per month, including heat. This is an increase of $4 per month.

It was voted to continue the use of the rooms.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

Miss Ida L. Pearl of the High school was granted a leave of absence during September and October on account of ill health.

A request that Miss Howell be permitted to attend the High school was granted.

OFFICER UPHELD.

Ward Fined Both for Drunk and Assault on Officer.

A case that has caused some talk at Wollaston was heard in the District court this morning, when James Ward was arraigned for drunkenness and for assault on Officer Goodhue.

The story told by Officer Goodhue was that on the night of Wednesday, Aug. 22, Ward came out from Boston on the train which reaches Wollaston at 8.45. That Ward went down the track into Woodbine street and the officer followed him. That Ward sat on Mr. Desmond's steps. Five minutes later the officer found him dozing and went up to him and told him he had better go home. At that Ward used vile names, and as he still refused to move the officer took hold of his coat. Ward said he would allow no one to arrest him, and began to fight. In the scrimmage the officer had his shin kicked, his helmet smashed and the skin knocked off his hands. The officer called upon a boy to put the twisters onto Ward's wrist. At that time he had Ward down and stood over him, while Ward continued his kicking. The officer then hit him in the back of the neck with a billy. The twisters made Ward give in and he was finally taken to the police station.

Several witnesses testified to having seen Ward on the night in question on the train and on his arrival at Wollaston and Quincy. These included Dr. Adams, who was called to the police station at the request of Ward. Dr. Adams said Ward was drunk.

Counsel for Ward in his argument claimed that the arrest was illegal, inasmuch as at the time of his arrest he was on private property. That he was not assaulted when doing a lawful duty. The court took a different view and imposed a fine on each count.

—The tax rate of Holbrook is $20. The valuation is $1,217,680.50, an increase of but $7,160. There are but 750 property taxpayers.

GLEANINGS.

Nearly half a million people bathe every year in Utah's Salt lake.

The more than 3,600 national banks of the United States hold $1,013,122 nickels and cents in their cash reserves.

Colored men caught on the streets of Port Tampa, Fla., after 10 o'clock at night without a pass signed by the mayor are sent to jail and fined.

Tashkend is a big city to find in the heart of Turkestan. It has a population of nearly 160,000, of whom perhaps one-fourth may be credited to the Russian quarter and the garrison.

A queer fact about the terrapin of Chesapeake bay is that those on the western shore grow much faster than those on the eastern. The theory is that the western water is less salt.

A novel and interesting sight at Lake Erie harbor is the mammoth car dumping machine in operation. With these machines cars of coal are lifted bodily, emptied into the hold of a vessel and replaced on the tracks in four minutes.

It is said that the little city of Orea, in Sweden, owns and operates a nursery that brings it an annual income of $150,000, a sum that pays all the expenses of the municipality, including free schools for the children and a free telephone system for the people.

The two leading agricultural societies of Great Britain, the Royal Agricultural and the Highland Agricultural, have amalgamated. They will establish a national agricultural examination board and will grant prizes and diplomas to farmers after examination.

The hottest mines in the world are the Comstock. On the lower levels the heat is so great that the men cannot work over 10 or 15 minutes at a time. Every known means of mitigating the heat has been tried in vain. Ice melts before it reaches the bottom of the shafts.

BEE BUZZES.

See now that every colony has a laying queen.

The apiary should always be kept neat and tidy.

If a case of robbing occurs, look at once for the queen.

The colony must be fed if you want to retain drones for queen rearing.

All queens that cannot fly are worthless and may be destroyed or put out of the way as soon as the fact is known.

Yucca brushes for removing bees from the comb are very convenient. They are of soft vegetable fiber and will not irritate the bees.

It should be remembered that although bees sometimes go as far as five or six miles in search of honey, two or three miles may be considered as the limit of profitable gathering.

So far as can be done, bees should be kept breeding until the 1st of September. Unless the season is very dry this can readily be done without extra care unless the queens are worthless.

Toward the close of the honey harvest it is usually not a good plan to keep on adding sections. By contracting the space the last sections will be more surely filled and more quickly capped.—St. Louis Republic.

INGALLS' EPIGRAMS.

The purification of politics is an iridescent dream.

The government is always the worst served of all employers.

The golden rule and the Decalogue have no place in an American political campaign.

Government is force. Politics is a battle for supremacy. Parties are the army. The object is success.

It is an error to suppose that to become a politician the citizen must cease to be a scholar or a gentleman.

Suffrage is not a right, but a privilege conferred by law, and its qualification or denial is the prerogative of the state.

The man who cannot take care of his own affairs has no just right to take care of the affairs of others. The pauper ought not to decide the rate of taxation upon incomes and property.

Manhood suffrage is the thing. There are plenty of men who are illiterate, yet good citizens, and lots of fellows who have money and can speak seven or eight languages who are scoundrels.

THE WRITERS.

Amelia E. Barr is the mother of 14 children, has written 32 books, prepared a professor for Princeton college, and at 63 years of age is a picture of superb vitality.

Count Leo Tolstoi's health is much improved, and instead of expecting death almost any day, as was the case with him last spring, his physicians now say he may live ten years to come.

According to Leslie Stephen in the "National Dictionary of Biography," Wordsworth as poet laureate wore the same coat to levees that Samuel Rogers had worn, and the coat passed subsequently to Tennyson when he became poet laureate.

Mrs. Flora Annie Steel, the Anglo-Indian authoress, who came into fame and renown a few years ago by means of her novel, "On the Face of the Waters," is said to be receiving the highest price for her literary work that has ever been paid to a woman author.

CHICAGO CUTLETS.

If Chicago continues to break its own hot weather records, the municipal motto will be changed from "I will" to "I wilt."—Denver Republican.

Chicago missionaries are preaching that we live on the inside of the earth. Chicago pretends to be on the inside of everything.—Indianapolis News.

"The Chicago river is flowing toward St. Louis without visible reluctance," remarks a Chicago paper. The river is probably delighted to get away from Chicago.—St. Louis Republic.

Chicago is trying to clean up for the G. A. R., and they have dug off enough to fill in a section of the lake. The prehistoric city of 1893 will soon be unearthed, it is thought.—Minneapolis Journal.

THE PARIS SHOW.

It is reported that the Paris exposition will be a great financial failure. This is to be expected. The exposition business is played out.—Columbus Journal.

The news that the French exposition is both an artistic and a financial failure will be read with equanimity by people who couldn't afford to go across to see it.—Boston Globe.

HERE AND THERE.

Local Brevities of the City of Presidents.

Cooler and cooler each day since Sunday.

Mr. Charles H. Johnson is sick with diphtheria.

Mr. Otis Cooke and family have returned from Canterbury, N. H.

Supt. Lull leaves tomorrow for his new position at Newport, R. I.

Driver Brown of the Central fire station is taking a two weeks' vacation.

Mayor Hall, who is confined to his home by a lame leg, is much improved.

Mrs. E. G. Hall and Miss Laura Hall retuned home this week from Wolfboro.

Miss Lizzie Earley of Brockton is visiting relatives and friends in Atlantic.

Miss Drew and Miss Mabel Drew arrived home this week from Bryantville.

William E. Sadlier and son George, are spending a week's vacation at Portland.

The law requires that all children entering the public schools shall be vaccinated.

Mrs. Mary Howes of Brockton is spending a few days with Mrs. Arthur Leslie Horton.

Joseph Clark of Walker street is spending the second week of his vacation at home.

Miss Lizzie Bailey of Dorchester is the guest of Miss Pearl Pattern of Wollaston Park.

A party of nine young ladies from Allston are enjoying a fortnight's vacation at Squantum.

Mr. C. F. Harper lost his mother during the school vacation. She died in Woonsocket, R. I.

Mrs. A. B. Cook and son of Webster street are spending the latter part of August in Sandwich.

Miss Katherine Lycett of Madison street, has returned from a visit with friends in Dorchester.

Mrs. Arthur C. Beale and daughters have returned from Canada where they have been spending the summer.

James Smith launched his new yawl on Saturday. Some of the ladies tied a large bunch of flowers at the bow.

The grounds of the Massachusetts Fields school are in fine condition, and the flowers beat any others in the city.

Mr. Abraham, of North street, lost a valuable cow Tuesday. The animal got into a meal barrel and ate too much.

The cake walk held at Fensmere hall, Houghs Neck, Tuesday night will be repeated Tuesday night next for a purse of $5.

Masters Harold Newcomb and Joseph Oliver of Quincy Neck, returned this morning from a trip to Yarmouth, Nova Scotia.

Misses Marguerite and Dolly Fallon of Cambridgeport, were guests of Mrs. M. W. Gerry of Old Colony street, Saturday and Sunday.

The annual outing of the Street and Water departments of the city will be held at Germantown on Saturday. There will be a clambake, and the usual sports.

It is an all day sale tomorrow at the residence of Walter P. Pinel on Chubbuck street. The property includes household goods, farm tools, cows, carriages, etc.

It is probable that the old High school on High School avenue, will be reopened to accommodate the overflow at the new building and the use of the two stores on Hancock street discontinued.

Jesse F. Curtis who recently proved that he had not forgotten his stewardship as a fireman with the W. M. French Hose Co. has received two poetic effusions over his recent achievement. They are not for publication, however.

Murmurings of disapproval are heard by manipulators of the rod at the spasmodic attempt of the authorities to enforce an obsolete law in regard to Sunday fishing. Many see no reason why they should be singled out for retribution any more than the bicycle riders, golf players, etc.

The Brockton Street Raiway Co., since taking the Quincy system, has abandoned the block system, by which the cars of that road made their switches, and the cars now meet at stated places, which the new management thinks is safer for the patrons of the road.—Enterprise.

Miss Eva M. Brown and Mr. Bertram E. Busteed of Boston, were married on Tuesday afternoon at the home of the bride on Spear street. Owing to the illness of Miss Brown and of the groom's mother, Mrs. Busteed, the wedding was solemnized very quietly by Rev. E. C. Butler, only Mrs. Brown and Mr. Henry H. Faxo being present. Friends sent beautiful flowers, among which was a huge bouquet of bride roses from Mr. Faxon.

HALF A MILLION.

But 7 of the 25 Boston Wards Larger Than Quincy.

Boston's population by the new census is 560,892, a gain of 63,972 in five years, and 112,415 in ten years. The percentage of increase from 1880 to 1890 was 23.60, and from 1890 to 1900 it was 25.07. The percentage of increase for the past decade was larger than in the cities of Philadelphia, Baltimore, San Francisco, Cincinnati, Washington, Minneapolis, St. Paul or Omaha.

The population by wards, with the increase in five years, is given below. Allowing Quincy 25,000 population but 7 of the 25 are larger than Quincy, and it is probable that a less number are larger, as Quincy may have a population of 26,000 or 27,000.

* Loss

Six of the Boston wards, it will be seen lost in population in the five years. The Dorchester district made over 42 per cent. of the entire gain, and the Brighton district over 31. Charlestown, the South End and South Boston are practically at a standstill and the Back Bay district actually lost 1,067 or 2.5 per cent.

To Keep Open House.

The spacious rooms of the North Quincy club will be open to members and their families after twelve o'clock Labor Day. In the afternoon whist and chess will prevail, and free use of the pool and billiard tables will be extended to the ladies for their especial use without charge, and in the evening there will be an informal dance. A large attendance is expected as this is but a fore runner of many other entertainments which are contemplated for the winter season. An urgent request is made to the ladies to attend the afternoon gathering, as a plan is to be formulated whereby the club rooms will be turned over to them for their exclusive use at least one afternoon of each week. This will give them an opportunity for a social gathering weekly and will undoubtedly be taken advantage of.

TODAY'S COURT.

William McLaughlin of Braintree was brought into court on a default warrant under the equitable processes, and paid a fine of $5.

Fred Scamel and John McKay were arraigned for drunkenness at Quincy. Cases continued until next Wednesday.

William Cross was fined $7 for drunkenness at Quincy.

The continued cases of James Ward for drunkenness and assault on Officer Goodhue were heard. He was fined $7 for drunkenness and $20 for assault on an officer. Appealed and was ordered to recognize in $400 bonds.

The continued cases of Matt Reiteler for assault on Officer Bradley, and of Michael Joepel for rescuing a prisoner from the officer, were heard; also the case of Sylvester Terrila, who was also arraigned for assault on Officer Bradley. Cases continued until Saturday for judgment.

The liquors seized from Natala Forsatti at Quincy were forfeited.

Mrs. E. A. Glover of Wollaston and daughter, Minnie, are visiting relatives in Foxboro and Sharon.

THIS WORLD IS ALL A FLEETING SHOW.

This world is all a fleeting show,
For man's illusion given;
The smiles of joy, the tears of woe,
Deceitful shine, deceitful flow,
There's nothing true but heaven!

And false the light on glory's plume,
As fading hues of even,
And love and hope and beauty's bloom
Are blossoms gathered for the tomb—
There's nothing bright but heaven!

Poor wanderers on a stormy day,
From wave to wave we're driven,
And fancy's flash and reason's ray
Serve but to light the troubled way;
There's nothing calm but heaven!

—Thomas Moore.

THE EGOIST.

The Story of a Phonograph.

Cecil Arthur Dovely could not understand why he made no progress with Mary Barclay. His position as the chief dispenser of pills and postage stamps in the biggest drug store of a country town had given him an exaggerated idea of his own importance. He was not a particularly bad looking young man, but was very conceited in his manner. His broad, high forehead was surmounted by his carrot colored hair brushed a la pompadour; his eyes a light blue, were lacking in strength and expression, and his dress was just a trifle too flashy for the station in life he had been called upon to fill. To crown all, he owned a horse and buggy—that charmed possession which in rural communities so enhances one's prestige with the eligible young ladies. Cecil, who was not a bad fellow at heart, had kept the girls of Rossville and their anxious mothers guessing for a long time, and the news that he had been offered a partnership in his employers' store did not lessen feminine interest in him. He used to ride around the circle of Rossville femininity and select whom he would to go "buggy riding" with him on a Sunday afternoon. There was one young lady in the town who resisted Dovely's wiles, or, rather, those of his horse and buggy, and the prospect of a partnership in a partnership, and she it was whom Cecil, with no other motive at first than perversity, determined to win.

One day he decided on a grand attack upon the fortress of Mary's heart. He wrote for permission to call on a certain evening, and received it. Thus encouraged, he awaited the event which would mark him victor or vanquished. He scarcely hoped for the former; he dreaded the latter. He sought to embellish his language with quotations from the poets and studied the most effective manner in which to exploit his many captivating qualities.

It is, therefore, needless to say that when he called on her he talked principally about himself. He was, however, quite puzzled at the sudden and energetic interest that Mary seemed to manifest in all that he said; but, encouraged by it, he soared into giddy heights of eloquent self exploitation. He wound up the whole monologue with a passionate avowal of his love for Mary and an almost tearful entreaty for her heart and hand in return. Mary was genuinely interested in Cecil, and, in consequence, he was the very last person in the world she would have suspect it. So she tried to simulate indifference by affecting a sort of platonic feeling for him. Such a regard, however, did not come up to Dovely's requirements, and when he objected to being side tracked from the main line of love to the siding of sisterly affection and demanded a direct response to his appeal Mary showed an inclination to temporize. In brief, she asked him to call upon her a week later, and if, after mature consideration, he were of the same mind, she might think the matter over seriously. Dovely protested that his present frame of mind was not the result of sudden impulse, but the full blown flower which she had planted in his bosom with the first glance of her eyes long ago. He vowed that the end of time would find his love unaltered and unalterable—all of which he had read in "How to Propose, or Every Man His Own Lovemaker." Mary, however, remained firm, and Dovely went back to his pills and plasters. It would be vain to describe the battles fought between hope and fear, exultation and despair, in the young drug clerk's brain during that week. He was sustained somewhat by his inordinate vanity, but beneath all lay the suspicion, ever so faint, perhaps, that Mary had been laughing at him. When poor Dovely pulled the bell handle of the Barclay house on the appointed night, he was so full of nervous uncertainty that his knees trembled and his heart seemed to smite his ribs in the very terror of doubt.

The door was opened by Mary, who received him with such a pleased look and cordial pressure of her soft, warm hand that his conceit, coward that it was, as soon as it believed all danger to be passed, mounted again to the most conspicuous heights and crowed more lustily than before. The magic of her glance transformed him from the suppliant to the prince, and he strutted across the hall to the drawing room and seated himself in the best chair, prepared to receive homage from the girl.

Mary expressed great joy at his kindness in calling and archly confessed that she had suffered not a little fear that something might detain him. These delicate compliments caused Cecil considerable chest expansion, and when Mary humbly begged to be excused for a few minutes while she attended her mother, who was ill, he granted her the brief respite with almost royal graciousness. When she had gone Cecil picked up a magazine and was complacently perusing its prosy and academic pages when he was startled by the sound of voices in the same room with himself. He looked about quickly and, seeing no one, experienced a sensation of fear. As the sounds proceeded Dovely sat in mute amazement. For a moment he suspected that he was going mad. He was superstitious, but ghosts, according to his way of thinking, always manifested themselves to the eyes rather than the ears and with shrouds rather than dialogues. There was something uncanny in the sounds, too, as if issuing from a metal casket. Dovely would have attempted an investigation, but very fear held him rooted to the chair. He could not escape, and he began to feel that he had been selected by some restless spirits as the custodian of their confidences. The sound of the voices at first seemed like an echo of something he had heard before, and this circumstance deepened his perplexity. The conversation seemed to be between a man and a woman. The man's tones were imperious, those of the woman half flattering, half conciliatory.

"You know men are such deceivers," the voice was saying. "You play with a woman's heart as a child does with a toy. Then you look for another that is newer to you, though perhaps not to some others, and another fellow, who perhaps has thrown aside and bruised the heart that you pick up, comes along and picks up the very heart that you have thrown aside."

A soft laugh of tolerant condescension followed this speech.

"Oh, that's the old story with women," replied the man, "you are all wrong; you don't understand man. Your feminine minds can't grasp the depth and breadth of his nature. I have tried often to make some women soar with me to loftier realms of thought, but I have never found one to sympathize with my poetic or artistic moods."

Here a soft little sigh, like a zephyr touching the maple leaves, stole across the room, and then the imperious tones resumed:

"I know women. I've seen a good deal of life. Didn't I live more than a year in New York?"

The perspiration stood out in beads on Dovely's forehead as he stared in the direction of the voices and clutched the arms of the chair in which he sat. It seemed like a nightmare. The echo was getting clearer and clearer. He hated the dreadful sounds, but felt that he must suffer the ordeal to the end. And memory told him that the end was yet a long way off and the path there to full of thorns of humiliation and shame for him. He began to feel like a disembodied spirit that stands beside its erstwhile prison and contemplates with horror the ravages that debauchery has wrought on its once beautiful form. But through the nightmare he was sustained by the sweet reflection that he was not irreclaimable and that this scourging was at worst only a severe lesson from which he would emerge a better man.

The imperious tones of the man and the conciliatory, even pleading, tones of the woman went on. With deep humiliation he followed the mysterious dialogue to the crowning point of his own shame. He could hear the soft, solicitous tones of the woman leading the man on to make a fool of himself. And he heard the man following with braggadocio and bombast right up to the very pitfall that had been prepared for him. The grandiloquent and preposterous phrases in which a proposal was next couched struck him as being so comically conventional that he would have laughed aloud had not the humiliating reflection of his own conduct covered him instead with shame. Then he heard a sweet voice asking him to think it over and then come back in a week, if he were still of the same mind. Even then he did not realize the truth. He wondered if he were not asleep and this an awful dream. The volume that he had been holding fell from his knee and startled him. He put his hand to his forehead and brushed the beads of perspiration away and said: "Thank God, it was a dream."

At that moment Mary entered the room and smilingly apologized for keeping him waiting. She drew a hassock over to him, and, seating herself, upon it and looking up in his eyes, said: "I'm awfully sorry I kept you waiting, Arthur; I know you must have been so lonely. But there"—she stopped suddenly and knitted her brows—"I really believe you have been asleep and dreaming. You look it, quite."

The poor young man took her hand in both his own and looked fixedly at her. "I don't know whether I've been asleep or not, but I certainly must have been dreaming—such a horrid dream"—and he passed his hand quickly over his eyes as if to wipe away the last traces of a nightmare. Then he took her hand again. "Mary," he said slowly, "you told me to come back tonight if I were still of the same mind as when I was here last. I have come to tell you that I am not of the same mind."

Mary looked surprised and would have spoken, but Dovely broke in quickly: "It is not that I don't love you as much as ever—aye, a great deal more than ever before—but I feel that I have been a fool; that I'm not worthy of you, and that it was a presumption for me to ask you to mary me. I believe that I can be a more modest and sensible man, and that I want you to give me the opportunity to prove it before giving me your answer."

Mary's answer was worthy of her brain and her heart:

"Arthur," she said, "what you have said proves that you are all right, and I'll take you on faith." Next morning the phonograph was sent back to town, it having succeeded in eliminating forever the capital "I" from the personality of Cecil Arthur Dovely, and the fun of it was that Cecil thought he did it himself.—Chicago Times-Herald.

IT is significant that in homes of wealth where the very best is demanded, Ivory Soap is used in the nursery. At the same time, in hundreds of families where economy decides the choice, Ivory Soap is selected. Thus its purity attracts the rich; its economy attracts the poor. High quality and low cost: is there any better combination?

A DIPLOMATIC BATTLE.

United States Anxiously Awaiting Showing of Hands by Powers.

Appear to Be Without Definite or Fixed Purpose as Yet.

The Disclaimers of Ulterior Motives Generally Accepted by the Administration.

Washington Aug. 29.—Three messages from General Chaffee were received Tuesday, and while they cast no direct light on the military situation they were inferentially important.

The general's statement that he needs no siege battery, taken in connection with the diversion of the First cavalry, which was bound for Taku to Manila, seems to make clear that there is no intention to enter into a prolonged campaign in China, such as would involve the use of heavy artillery or of reinforcements in the shape of men and horses.

At the same time it cannot be said that the government has shown any sign of a purpose to abandon any just claim it may have secured upon China, but it begins to appear that the battle of today is one of diplomacy rather than one of arms, and notwithstanding the various rumors that have filtered out from Chinese sources of heavy engagements between the international forces and the Boxers, the officials here are satisfied that no formidably organized resistance will be offered by the Chinese if the demands of the powers are limited to the principles laid down by the United States in its several notes.

After the cabinet meeting Tuesday it was announced that the government was in a waiting attitude regarding the Chinese situation. The lack of late advices from Pekin and the failure of the powers to show their hands as to future policy makes it necessary for this government to await developments.

The administration considers it of the greatest importance that in the negotiations for a settlement of the Chinese difficulty all the powers should act in unison and harmony, and its efforts are being directed to that end.

The powers, however, seem slow to declare themselves. Several replies have been received to the instructions sent to our ambassadors and ministers last week, asking them to sound the governments to which they are accredited on two propositions—first, the willingness of these governments to accept the sufficiency of Li Hung Chang's credentials to treat with the powers for a settlement; and, second, to ascertain, if possible, what the future policy of each power is to be. Regarding the latter inquiry the replies, thus far, have developed nothing. The powers appear to be watching each other without definite or fixed purpose as yet of their own.

With regard to the first inquiry, Great Britain and Russia are agreed that Earl Li's credentials are sufficient. Germany, however, takes a firm stand against the sufficiency of his credentials, and it is the only power, as yet, which has returned a flat-footed dissension.

The attitude of the United States is that his credentials appear authentic. They were promulgated by what appeared to be a genuine imperial edict, duly transmitted through the accredited Chinese minister, Mr. Wu, and the United States is willing to accept them at their face value—at least for the present.

The administration, from the advices it has received, does not credit the rumors that Russia, Japan and Germany intend to declare war against China, and it is willing to accept all disclaimers of ulterior purposes on the part of the powers. Just what would be done in case some of the powers began war for the purpose of territorial aggrandizement is not known, and the administration is not disposed to cross that bridge until it reaches it. But a member of the cabinet stated Tuesday that if any of the European powers entered upon such a program it probably would be reminded by the United States that it had agreed to the "open door" policy, by which all the powers are to be placed upon an equal footing, and that if territory were acquired under the agrement we would be entitled to the same privileges in the matter of trade, etc., as the conqueror.

The president and the cabinet are as much in the dark regarding the date when the dispatches of Minister Conger and General Chaffee left Pekin as is the general public. They can find no explanation for the fact that they have come through without Pekin dates, except that they evidently were sent by courier to Taku and that cablegrams are relayed 18 times after leaving the latter point. They may have been sent from Taku without Pekin date, or they may have lost the date en route. Internal evidence was found in late dispatches received from them that tended to demonstrate that some person or persons had been purposely delaying the messages coming from Pekin and Tientsin to Washington. It also is suspected that our messages may have been injuriously tampered with.

The cabinet came to the conclusion that if any Chinese persons have interfered with the dispatches the interference must have occurred on the wires between Chefoo and Shanghai, and it was determined to reopen direct communication by means of a war vessel. Either the New Orleans or the Princeton, now at Shaighai, will be sent at once to Chefoo, where the military cable system begins free from Chinese interference.

Officials Are Feeling Uneasy.

Akron, O., Aug. 29.—The city and county officials are deluged with anonymous letters, threatening them with death if they attempt to make arrests for the recent riots. Citizens have appealed to Judge Kohler to call a special session of the grand jury to investigate the matter. A guard of 12 men has been placed around the county jail to prevent any attempt to injure Sheriff Kelly or the county property.

CRUELTY AND NEGLECT

Said to Have Been Inflicted Upon a Sick Army Officer While Aboard a Transport.

Atlanta, Aug. 29.—Captain Frank Crenshaw, Twenty-ninth volunteer infantry, died here yesterday. Captain Crenshaw saw service in Cuba and the Philippines, and a wound received in the battle of Puttol eventually caused his death.

Captain Crenshaw, who arrived in Atlanta a week ago, made a statement to his father in which he charged outrageous treatment and neglect on board the transport Sherman, from Manila to San Francisco. The statement was to the effect that after the vessel left Manila and was on the high seas officers in the staterooms next to Captain Crenshaw's complained that he kept them awake by the sufferings from his wounds. He was taken from the stateroom and, paralyzed in the left side, and unable to lift his head, and almost unconscious, was placed in a berth down in the hold of the ship, near the engines, in the midst of the insane men who were confined there.

Captain Crenshaw said he was unable to hold himself in his berth and fell out three times while the ship was riding out storms in the China seas. He finally bribed a hospital steward with $25 to give him some attention. At San Francisco, Captain Crenshaw alleges that treatment was refused him, the surgeon in charge informing him that it was impossible because of limited assistance in the hospital. The wounded officer, accompanied by his uncle, then started for Atlanta, and an operation was performed here.

On the Diamond.

Another Victory For Stinson.

Boston, Aug. 29.—By the clever work of William Stinson a second victory was won over Albert Champion of Paris, and Charles Miller, the six-day plugger, by half a lap, in the 25-mile motor-paced race at Charles River park Tuesday evening. In the 22nd mile Stinson went by the Frenchman at a terrific pace, the lap being covered in 30 1-5 seconds, or at the rate of 1:30 3-5 for a mile, which is the fastest time ever made over the track by a bicycle rider. Stinson's time was 41:54¾.

South Carolina Politics.

Columbia, S. C., Aug. 29.—Democratic primaries for the nomination of a state ticket and a United States senator were held throughout South Carolina Tuesday. The main issue was dispensary against prohibition. The anti-dispensary forces followed James A. Hoyt for governor, while the other side was represented by Governor McSweeney and others. Tillman had no opposition for the senatorship.

Regarding Oleomargarine In Cuba.

Washington, Aug. 29.—By direction of the secretary of war, General Wood has issued an order relating to the use of oleomargarine in Cuba. It directs that all oleomargarine imported into the island shall have the word plainly marked, in plain Roman letters, and that it shall be continuously in and sold from packages so marked. No tax is placed upon oleomargarine going into Cuba.

Held In $5000 Sureties.

Greenfield, Mass., Aug. 29. — John Fritz, the alleged assailant of Jeremiah P. Morgan, a farmer 73 years old, was arraigned here Tuesday on the charge of assault with intent to commit murder. He pleaded not guilty and a hearing was set for Sept. 6. The sureties were placed at $5000, and not being forthcoming, Fritz was taken to the Franklin county jail.

Four Townships to Go Into Park.

Washington, Aug. 29.—The general land office has withdrawn four townships at the Shoshone falls and Blue lakes, in the Snake river region in southern Idaho, for a national park. The withdrawal of 25 townships was requested by the Idaho delegation in congress, but the forest superintendent for Idaho recommended that only four be withdrawn.

In Honor of Colonel Davis.

Washington, Aug. 29.—An order has been issued by Secretary Root, by direction of the president, naming the new military post to be built at the mouth of Nome river, Alaska, Fort Davis, in honor of the late Jefferson C. Davis, colonel of the Twenty-third infantry. He commanded the first troops ever stationed in Alaska.

Bryan Going to Illinois.

Lincoln, Neb. Aug. 29.—Mr. Bryan has decided definitely to leave Lincoln for Chicago next Friday evening. He will probably spend Saturday in Illinois, making speeches, going on to Chicago that evening. After making his Labor day speech in Chicago Monday, he probably will make other speeches in that vicinity.

Knocked Out by Sickness.

New York, Aug. 29.—The heavyweight fight between Peter Maher and Joe Choynski, which was to have taken place last night, had to be declared off on account of Choynski having an attack of stomach trouble. Choynski will be unable to meet Maher before the expiration of the Horton law.

Weather Conditions and Forecast.

Almanac, Thursday, Aug. 30.

Sun rises—5:07; sets, 6:22.

Moon sets—8:37 p. m.

High water—2:15 a. m.; 2:45 p. m.

Local rains and thunderstorms have occurred in western and southern states. Temperatures have generally fallen in these districts, and also in New England. Generally fair weather is indicated for New England. On the coast the winds will be light to fresh, north to east.

Backaches of Women are wearying beyond description and they indicate real trouble somewhere.

Efforts to bear the dull pain are heroic, but they do not overcome it and the backaches continue until the cause is removed.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetble Compound

does this more certainly than any other medicine. It has been doing it for thirty years. It is a woman's medicine for woman's ills. It has done much for the health of American women. Read the grateful letters from women constantly appearing in this paper.

Mrs. Pinkham counsels women free of charge. Her address is Lynn, Mass.

A DIPLOMATIC TANGLE.

United States Desirous of Knowing Exact Program of the Powers.

Varying Aspirations May Soon Come to a Focus.

Complication Summed Up by a Diplomat Engaged In Present Negotiations.

Washington, Aug. 30.—A special meeting of the cabinet Wednesday, lasting all day, and broken only by a short recess for luncheon, marked the intense interest the administration feels in the Chinese problem. It was the longest cabinet session of the present administration. The diplomatic and not the military phase of the situation in China was under consideration, and this accounted for the presence of Acting Secretary Adee, a very unusual happening at a cabinet meeting.

The fact that the military situation is admitted to be of secondary importance confirms the view that what is sought is an agreement among the powers for terminating the indefinite status of affairs in China. It is believed that the point has been reached where it is proper that there should be a clear expression of purpose on the part of the principal powers in order that the United States government may know how far it may go consistently in the execution of the common program. Most of the objects had in view by the president when he made answer to the Chinese government's appeal and began the campaign upon Pekin have been achieved. Two others remain to be secured, namely, the safeguarding of American interests for the future and some proper guarantee for indemnification for the expenses of recent operations and losses of American citizens.

Some plan by which these objects can be attained by the United States in common with similar objects by the other powers engaged in China is thought feasible. Incidental to this main purpose several phases of the problem are attracting special attention. Thus the sufficiency of Li Hung Chang's credentials as a peace envoy, or rather of the ability of the Emperor of China to accredit anyone thus, is a matter of international consideration. The United States not only must satisfy itself of Li's competency, but it must convey solid assurance on that point to convince some of the other powers, the purposes of which perhaps would not be best served by a speedy termination of hostilities in China.

It was the general understanding that the outcome of the cabinet meeting would be the adoption of a policy by the administration that would tend to simplify these issues and at least to bring to a focus the varying aspirations of the powers. If this cannot be done, then the question to be determined is whether or not the United States shall proceed further, hand in hand, with the allied forces. It is believed that this point is very near a decision, our determination depending upon the responses made by European nations to our inquiries.

One of the best-posted men of the diplomatic corps, who is actively engaged in present negotiations, sums up the international complication substantially as follows:

"The powers were in complete accord up to the time of the taking of Pekin. But with that accomplished, the more important question arose as to the future course of the powers in dealing with China, and on that there is not as yet any complete accord. Thus far it seems plain that the United States opposes the dismemberment of China, or any move towards territorial extension there, and in this position Russia and France seem to agree.

On the other hand, while there is nothing definite indicating territorial expansion, yet the exchanges have led to the belief that Germany, Great Britain and probably Japan, are not averse to a course which will bring about territorial divisions within the empire. It was supposed that Japan stood against any division of the empire, but the landing of Japanese troops at Amoy cannot be accounted for on the ground that a Japanese temple had been burned. So that it is the accepted view that Japan is at least making ready to be in a position to share in any division of territory which must come.

"The course of Russia in taking New Chwang cannot be viewed in the same light as the landing of troops at Amoy or Shanghai, as this was for the sole purpose of protecting Russia's railway line, and any ulterior territorial purposes have been disclaimed by Russia. So far as Great Britain's purposes are concerned, in the absence of any expressed declaration, the landing of troops at Shanghai it strong evidence that Great Britain wishes to control the Yang Tse valley, which is the garden of China. On the part of Germany the doubt as to her future course is due mainly to Count Waldersee's speeches since taking Pekin. These have indicated that he was going on an extended campaign, and that the fall of the Chinese capital was only the initial step in a comprehensive program requiring the presence of a large army. Just what this means is not clear, but it has at least created much surprise in Washington and some other capitals.

"The differences over Li Hung Chang's credentials are three-fold. One view, including that of the United States, is that the credentials are acceptable; another is that they have never been shown to carry complete authority, while the third view is that the original credentials were valid at the time given, but have since become invalid through the flight of the emperor and empress dowager and the complete collapse of the Chinese government. The question of credentials does not seem so difficult to deal with, and it probably will be solved to the satisfaction of all concerned, but it is not clear thus far that the powers can be brought into complete accord on a general policy for the future of China.

TRIAL OCCUPIED BUT A DAY.

Bresci Convicted of Murder of King Humbert and Sentenced to Life Imprisonment.

Milan, Aug. 30.—Anarchist Bresci, whose trial begun and ended Wednesday, was pronounced guilty and was sentenced to imprisonment for life.

GAETANO BRESCI.

With absolute indifference Bresci received the verdict, and was led away to his cell, where, henceforth, he will see no one and hear no one, not even his jailer. He gave the impression of an emissary capable of acting coolly, but incapable of conceiving the plan. Notwithstanding his statement, in the course of examination that he had had no relations with anarchists when in America, he admitted having received 500 lire at Genoa from Paterson.

Bresci declared he decided to kill King Humbert after the events in Milan and Sicily, "to avenge the misery of the people and my own." He added: "I acted without advice or accomplices."

Bresci escaped with life imprisonment, as that penalty is the most severe which can be imposed under the laws of Italy for murder, on which charge the anarchist was tried. It was at first believed Bresci would be tried on the charge of treason, in which case the penalty would have been death.

A Mysterious Case.

New York, Aug. 30.—There died in the jail at White Plains Wednesday a young man of good education and much refinement, who was arrested for a burglary in which he was caught redhanded a few days ago. He had given his name as John Hammond, and while in jail was visited by a beautiful young woman, who seemed to take a great interest in him. She sent him fruit daily. He died from morphine poisoning, and it is suspected the drug was smuggled into his cell in some oranges. The authorities now say that the young man's real name was Frank Sturgis, and that his home was in Boston.

Willing to Make Way For Others.

London, Aug. 30.—The Daily Telegraph prints an interview with Sir Thomas Lipton at Queenstown yesterday, in the course of which he said it was impossible that any fixture for an international race should be made as yet. He declared that he would name his new yacht Shamrock. He felt that he would certainly retire if another challenger should appear in the field. In that event he would give the services of the first Shamrock for trials.

Husband and Wife Buried Together.

New York, Aug. 30.—Mr. and Mrs. William Winters of Kearney, N. J., were buried side by side yesterday in Fairmount cemetery at Newark. Mrs. Winters died early Tuesday. Wednesday morning her husband fell or leaped from the second story of his house and was killed instantly. Mr. Winters was an uncle of Vice President Hobart and a veteran of the Civil war. Both he and his wife were 76 years old.

Has Heard No Complaint.

Washington, Aug. 30.—The war department has no information concerning the alleged ill treatment of Captain Crenshaw of Georgia, who died Tuesday, and whose relatives say that he did not receive proper care on the transport Sherman. A telegram received at the war department from Captain Crenshaw's father made no allusion to the alleged ill treatment of his son.

Mob Is After Him.

Birmingham, Ala., Aug. 30.—Luther Thompson, a negro, charged with horse stealing and attempt at criminal assault upon the person of Mrs. Maggie Williams, a white woman, has been arrested here, and is in imminent danger of being lynched at the hands of the people of Cedar Grove, where the last-named crime was committed.

REPUBLICAN DOCTRINE

Expounded at Gathering of Notable Men at a Chicago Banquet.

Dingley Bill the Cornerstone of National Prosperity.

The Financial Question and Civil Liberty Are Touched Upon by Senator Dolliver.

Chicago, Aug. 30.—Around the tables in the banquet hall of the Auditorium hotel last night were gathered prominent men from all parts of the country to attend the feast given by the Hamilton club of this city in their honor. The Hamilton club is a Republican organization, and its banquet was, after the menu, a banquet with politics the chief thing under discussion.

President Bangs of the club acted as toastmaster, and with him at the head table sat D. B. Henderson, speaker of the house of representatives, Senator Davis of Minnesota, Senator Dolliver of Iowa, Lieutenant General Miles and many other notable men.

President Bangs opened the speech making with a short address, at the end of which he introduced Speaker Henderson, who spoke briefly, as follows:

"Just before taking the train night before last to come to Chicago to have an all-round good time with my comrades of the Grand Army I received a telegram from the president of this club asking me to take the place of the president. I am not here for that purpose. No man in this republic can take the place of President McKinley. And, gentlemen, when the ballots are counted in November the patriotic and sensible people of this country will demonstrate to the world that no man will be permitted to take his place. The name of Hamilton suggests three thoughts that may be appropriate to 1900: first, a strong government; second, a just government; third, a protective government.

"These doctrines of Hamilton which I assume are supported by this club must be the text word of the hour. I want elected a man who not only preached those doctrines but, like McKinley, acted them from his heart, because I believe in those doctrines, and I urge the American people to support the men who believe in them. Therefore I cry out, 'Elect at the next election William McKinley and Theodore Roosevelt.'"

Senator Dolliver of Iowa, who delivered the principal speech of the evening, was greeted with prolonged cheers as he rose to respond to the toast: "Prosperity and Its Causes."

Senator Dolliver praised the Dingley tariff bill of 1896, which, he said, was passed "by the almost unanimous consent of the only nation for whose benefit it was framed—the United States of America," and continuing, he said:

"I count that great statute as the cornerstone of the national prosperity which followed close upon its enactment. In 1892 no other question was discussed. Today the Democratic party runs away from the tariff question, in which the wages and employment of every American citizen is involved, attempts to decoy us across the Pacific ocean and to hide its record and plans for the future in a network of cant and hypocrisy about the Declaration of Independence. The real field of this battle is here, and not on the other side of the world. We fight for the right of American labor, now everywhere employed for the comfort of the scattered homesteads.

"Hardly less important, and in the judgment of many, even more important as foundation of national prosperity, was the solemn determination of the American people recorded on the election day in 1896 to maintain the standard of value upon which all contracts of the people were drawn, and all their business transacted. Men may honestly differ as to the causes of national prosperity, but there is one thing absolutely beyond dispute, and that is, that the existing standard of value cannot be changed, or even put in serious jeopardy, without calling an instant halt in all investments of capital and all the enterprises of industry."

Senator Dolliver criticised the Democratic party for what he termed its attempt to "cover up the only sincere and settled conviction which it has, by pushing to the front a lot of cheap orations on the subject of civil liberty," and continuing, said:

"Senator Tillman was selected at Kansas City, on account of his voice, to read the Declaration of Independence, with its sublime precepts about the equality of men and the ultimate basis of human government. Until Mr. Bryan shall stand up somewhere before the American people, and in an audible tone of voice utter one word of manly disapproval of the crime against civil liberty, which, in the undisputed Democratic communities of the United States, has left 10,000,000 of people helpless and out cast before the law, I, for one, intend to treat his declaration on the subject of equal rights as unfit for the respect of the American people."

Senator Dolliver then eulogized President McKinley, and in conclusion, said: "Whatever danger lies in our path, however rough the road which we must travel, let us keep our faith strong in our country, and in our countrymen. Let us be sure that there is a guidance in the affairs of men, higher than our poor human wisdom, which will make the dawn of the approaching century radiant with the promise of civil liberty, not only for the helpless races, not only within our own borders, but also in the scattered millions throughout all our possessions in all the seas."

THE GRAND ARMY CONVENTION.

Date of Memorial Day Remains Unchanged. The Question of Pensions.

Chicago, Aug. 30.—The Grand Army convention opened at 10:30 o'clock yesterday, and from the start business was pushed with energy. The opening session was entirely of a social character, and was open to the public. The afternoon meeting was of an executive character.

When the convention met in the afternoon, the first thing taken up was the report of the pension committee. The committee in the outset went at length into the history of the work done by G. A. R. committees in obtaining from the last congress increases in certain classes of pensions. It then discussed the differences of opinion existing between the pension office and those members of the Grand Army who hold the opinion that the old soldiers have not received sufficient consideration. The report argued at length against the statements that have been made by the pension office, in reply to the original criticisms made by members of the Grand Army, but offered no suggestions as to a direct line of policy to be pursued.

The committee which had taken the annual message of Commander-in-Chief Shaw under consideration reported approval of all of his suggestions, with the exception of that relating to the change of the date of Memorial day from May 30 to the last Sunday in May. On this the committee reported adversely, and their report was adopted by the convention. An adjournment was then taken until today.

No opposition has developed to Judge Rassieur of St. Louis in his candidacy for the position of commander-in- chief, and it is practically certain that he will be elected on the first vote.

Plea For Flag of Populism.

Chicago, Aug. 30.—By order of the national committee of the People's party (middle-of-the-road) an address to the Populist voters of the United States has been issued, stating that the fusion movement was designed to destroy the People's party organization and to deliver the honest Populists of the country to the organized Democracy. The address concludes: "We have declared that the independent People's party shall continue to live free from disreputable alliance with the party of Jones and Croker on the one hand and the party of Hanna and Quay on the other. There is in the field this year a true Populist organization, officered by men who have been true to the principles and organization of the party at all times and who can be relied upon to keep the grand old flag of Populism flying in spite of the machinations of schemers and spoilsmen."

Cotton Mill Men's Interests.

Philadelphia, Aug. 30.—A committee of cotton mill owners, representing the Southern Cotton Spinners' association, arrived here Wednesday, their purpose being to consult with local members of the Yarn Manufacturer's association relative to the condition of the market. It is conceded that the reduction in the price of cotton is due to over-production, and methods looking to the removal of the condition were discussed.

Many Remedies Suggested.

Frankfort, Ky., Aug. 30.—In both houses of the legislature bills were introduced yesterday to repeal and to amend the Goebel election law. There are dozens of other similar bills to be introduced, but it is not likely that any measure will receive favorable consideration until after some election system has been agreed upon at the Democratic joint caucus of senators and representatives.

Fairbanks' Aspiration.

Kansas City, Aug. 30.—A special to The Star from Topeka says: It is the talk of Republicans circles here that Senator Fairbanks of Indiana is a candidate for president to succeed McKinley four years from now, and that his western trip next month is for no other purpose that to make acquaintances and to push his boom into view.

Distinguished Services Recognized.

Washington, Aug. 30.—There is no doubt that General Chaffee will be appointed brigadier general in the regular army upon the retirement of General Joseph Wheeler. General Wheeler will retire on Sept. 3. General Chaffee will continue to hold the rank of major general of volunteers while in command of the troops in China.

Bark Burned at Sea.

London, Aug. 30.—The British bark Primera, 597 tons, Captain Seman, which left London May 31 for Cape Cross, was burned Aug. 4, near latitude 13 S., longitude 28 W. One boat landed nine men on Ascension island. Another which left the bark with five men, is missing. Captain Seman is dead.

Attributed to Incendiaries.

Winnipeg, Man. Aug. 30.—A business block on Portage avenue was almost destroyed by fire, entailing aggregate losses of more than $50,000. Incendiaries are believed to have started the fire, and, owing to the frequency of fires in the city recently, there is talk of organizing a vigilance committee.

Passengers Shaken Up.

Boston, Aug. 30.—Several persons were somewhat bruised and shaken up by the derailing of a Boston Elevated electric car, which left the track on Huntington avenue Wednesday night and collided with an iron guy pole. The Elevated company had the injured taken to their homes in carriages.

Snub For the Mayor.

Boston, Aug. 30.—Mayor Hart will receive no invitation to review the Central Labor union parade, according to the result of the vote of the joint labor committee, at its meeting Wednesday evening. By a tie vote the committee refused to act, and thus the fight between the labor leaders and the executive department at the city hall remains unsettled.

Good Afternoon.

The death of Mrs. Mary McEttrick at Roxbury on Wednesday, recalls the contests of her son, Michael J. McEttrick for Congress in the Tenth district. Those were hot campaigns.

The Commonwealth continues to borrow money for park and highways at less than three per cent. This is a very low rate, but it would be much better if less of the taxpayers' money went for interest.

Some of the criminals of Boston may not have to hustle quite so fast to keep out of the clutches of the police now that Inspector Leggett has been appointed to supervise intelligence officers, but the inspector will find enough work in his new position.

The Boston Post makes a very poor estimate of the population of Quincy, when it places it at 20,915. Reference to the State census of 1895 would have shown a population of 20,712 a gain of 23 per cent., in five years. A similar per cent. of increase will give Quincy a population of 25,500 by the census of 1900 and we may go better.

That is a strong argument against the annexation of Quincy to Boston that the census returns show for some of the districts of Boston. The fashionable Back Bay, where city money has been expended lavishly, has only 41,417 population now against 42,484 five years ago. In 1895 Charlestown had 40,304 people, but only gained 348 in five years. The South End had a population of 61,738 in 1895, but now has only 63,006, and South Boston with 62,709 five years ago gained only 1,284. In the meantime the gain in Quincy was equal to the total gain of the Back Bay, South End, South Boston, Charlestown and East Boston combined or thirteen of the twenty-five Boston wards.

A change in the date of Memorial day from May 30 to a Sunday, is not necessary to retain interest in the hallowed associations of the day. It is the day of all days in Quincy to gather a crowd. Lot owners in the cemeteries are stimulated to put their lots in the best possible condition previous to Memorial day, and on the holiday thousands gather about the soldiers' monument to witness the ceremonies and hear the addresses relative to country and the heroes who went forth to battle to preserve the Union in the 60s. Some people devote a part of the day to sports and other pleasures as on Sundays they go to church and also to the beaches or for a trolley ride. There would be considerable objection to observing Memorial day on Sundays, on the part of the churches, whose wishes should be respected, as many now hold Sunday memorial services.

Drift of Opinion.

As the census is expected to increase several millions, it is probable that the membership in the House of Representatives will be increased. The House now numbers 357 members, each member representing 173,000 people. Basing the 1900 census at 78,000,000, the House would then number 450, each member representing 173,000 people. Such a large membership has caused some critics to say hard words about Congress. We do not think that 450 members of the national House is too large a membership for such a great nation as is ours. The people should be well represented, and 450 congressmen will be more of a popular representation than to keep the membership down because the "capital is so small." The British House of Commons consists of 670 members, the French chamber of deputies, 584, and the German reichstag 397, all representing smaller number of people than the national House. Congress should be distinctly representative of the people and every increase in our population should witness an increase in our law-making body—Lawrence American.

Cake Walks at the Fensmere—News and Personals.

The cake walk at the Fensmere dance hall Tuesday evening drew a large crowd, and ended with considerable excitement. Three couples participated in the walk and the judges awarded the cake to John Powers and Miss Frances Mooney. This did not suit the crowd, a large number of whom thought the cake should have been given James Grant and Miss Winnie Garbarino. The crowd protested and wanted a popular vote taken, but the judges were firm and John and Frances took the cake.

Many of the summer residents, especially those who have children of the school age, are packing up and getting ready to leave for home. Next week will be moving week.

The tide this week has been just right for afternoon bathing, and every afternoon hundreds of men, women and children take a dip.

The electric lights gave out Tuesday evening and for nearly an hour the beach was in darkness.

The beach continues to draw hundreds of transient visitors every day and on pleasant days few are the cars that do not come loaded. The store keepers, however, say that the crowds are not those who spend money, and that Sunday is the only day they get any trade.

Recent guests at the Fensmere have been: Mr. and Mrs. Freeman Hall of Brockton; J. H. Blanchard of Medford; J. Leihtenstein, L. Shrock of Boston; Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Austin of Brockton; George H. Wakefield of Campello; Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Bowman of Randolph, Me.; A. L. Thompson, E. Wright of Boston; Mr. Holland, E. Holland of Watertown, Miss Pitman, Miss Martha Denham, David Coburn, Miss Dimples Rigley, M. W. Woodman of Boston; Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Gleason of Holbrook; David Stewart, Alonzo L. Williams, Ella F. Williams of Hyde Park; William McCowachie of Toronto, Ont.; Mrs. P. Lurasche, Miss Brooks, F. S. Patch and B. J. Weeks of Quincy; Mrs. James Hurley of Randolph; Mrs. John Gilgan of Avon.

Burglar Caught.

George Williams who claims his residence as Brockton, was captured early this morning at Weymouth on the charge of breaking and entering the shoe manufactory of M. Sheehy & Co. and the larceny of goods valued at nearly $70. It was about 1 o'clock when Mrs. Hannah Sheehy, a neighbor, was aroused by a crash of a window, and looking out saw a light in the factory. She gave the alarm and saw a man hastily leave the factory with a bag over his shoulder. Searching parties were organized and after a time discovered the fellow in the woods. He was turned over to Officer Fitzgerald. When the fellow saw that the neighborhood had been aroused he dropped the bag which was found to contain a quantity of shoes, etc. Williams was arraigned at Quincy and held in $300 until Friday morning.

Military uniforms were not originally especially splendid. It was the Prussian army, and them Napoleon, who set the example of adorning the soldiers' dress all over with fur, gold lace and so on. The Napoleonic armies suffered from a perfect mania for showy trappings.

THE NEW CRUISER

Keel Laid for the Des-Moines This Week.

Will Cost the Government $1,065,000.

Contract Calls for Completion in Thirty Months.

The keel of the new United States cruiser Des Moines was laid Tuesday at the Quincy Point plant of the Fore River Engine Co. This therefore marks the beginning of an industry for Quincy which will be far reaching from now on business at this plant, which all citizens have watched grow from a waving field of green grass and corn to an immense business enterprise, will be rushing.

The laying of the keel of the Des Moines marks a new era. It will be the first war vessel ever built in Quincy. Quincy once had quite a reputation as a ship building town, many sailing vessels have been built and launched from Quincy Point. The last vessel of any size built there was in the early seventies. Since then most of the vessels built, have been yachts and small pleasure crafts, and in this line Quincy also has quite a reputation.

Just how many men the new industry will give employment to is hard to tell but is reported that when in full operation, if run with less than 3,000 hands, it will be at loss. Houses are already in demand, but none can be had near the works.

The Herald gives the followng description of the new cruiser:

The Des Moines will have a steel hull sheathed and coppered, a radical departure in the construction of cruisers in this country. Chief Constructor Hichborn of the naval construction board has for many years advocated the sheathing of the bottoms of steel ships, but has met with much opposition. Congress last year authorized the sheathing and coppering of all of the 12 ships which it ordered built during that session.

The Des Moines will be of about the same size as the Raleigh and Cincinnati, although models of those ships will be vastly improved upon in the new cruiser. She will be 292 feet water line, and her extreme length 308 feet 2 inches extreme breadth, 43 feet mean draught at trial displacement two-thirds coal, ammunition and stores, 15 feet 6 inches extreme draught fully loaded, 16 feet 8 inches trial displacement, 3,100 tons; full load displacement, 3,400 tons. There will be 470 tons of coal carried on the trial trip. The total bunker capacity will be not less than 700 tons.

The cruiser will have to make at least 16 1-2 knots on her trial trip. She will be propelled by four vertical inverted triple expansion engines, with an estimated horse-power of 4,500. Six water tube boilers will furnish the steam.

Her armament will be as follows: Main battery 10 five-inch, 50-calibre breech-loading rapid-fire guns. Auxiliary battery: Eight six-pounder rapid-fire guns, two one-pounder rapid-fire guns and four machine guns. The guns will be designed for smokeless powder and the five-inch guns will be more effective than the old style six-inch guns.

She will have a sail area of 6,000 square feet and her coal capacity will carry her at full speed about 2,600 miles. At the most economical rate of speed:—10 knots an hour—she will be able to steam 9,800 miles without recoaling. She will carry 250 rounds of ammunition for each five-inch gun and 500 rounds for each of the smaller guns.

All of the propelling machinery steering gear and magazines will be located below the water-tight decks. She will be rigged as a two-masted schooner, with signal yards on the foremast.

She will be equipped with two searchlights, an electric signalling system and a complete electric lighting plant. Her complement will be 27 officers, 238 seamen and 25 marines.

She will have a two-inch nickle steel protective deck, and will cost $1,065,000, and will be completed in 30 months

The M'f'rs Ends sale of D. E. Wadsworth continues with new bargains.

Miss Helen Richardson Hennigar of Safford street is visiting at East Carver.

Mrs. Benjamin J. Weeks and children returned today from West Wilton, N. H.

Tomorrow will be the last day of August and the last Friday in the month.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Smith of South Quincy, have moved to Meadow street Atlantic.

Miss Ethel Abbie Baker of Safford street is the guest of Miss Helen Cooper at Wrentham.

Master John G. Hutchinson of Dorchester is visiting his grandfather, Mr. E. E. Brown, of Wollaston.

Rev. E. N. Hardy has returned from New Hampshire. Mrs. Hardy is now in Western Massachusetts.

The Wollaston Unitarian church will reopen on Sunday. Rev. Frank W. Pratt enjoyed the vacation at Walpole, N. H.

The liquors fortfeited at the Quincy court Wednesday were seized from Catalico Coletti, not Natala Forsatti as reported.

Miss Annie V. Leary, formerly of Atlantic, passed away at her late home in Dorchester, Wednesday morning, after a lingering illness.

Mrs. Mary A. Perkins of Washington street, who had her arm broken a few weeks ago by a fall, is now seriously ill with pneumonia.

The registration dates for Quincy are advertised today. Ten opportunities are offered before the State election. Registration will close Oct. 17.

Little has been doing in the job printing line during July and August, but this week George W. Prescott & Sons are rushed with orders. All merchants will soon feel the stimulus of the fall trade.

W. Y. C. Open Race.

The annual open race of the Wollaston Yacht club will be held tomorrow, starting at 2.45 P. M. It will be sailed under the rules of the Yacht Racing Association of Massachusetts, and will count for per cent. in the Boston series.

The following classes have been provided for: Class D, 25-footers, prizes $10 and $5; classes S, I., T, and X, prizes $8 and $4.

The course will be a triangle in Quincy bay, twice round, a distance of eight miles.

The regatta committee are Messrs. W. D. Given, W. G. Curtis, A. T. Barstow, L. Lewis and W. J. Coombs. The judges will be Commodore J. A. Fenno, Dr. W. G. Curtis, Vice-Commodore A. E. Merrill and Messrs. C. W. Page and C. F. Marr.

Cheaper to Brockton.

The Brockton Enterprise says, The long looked for five-ceut fare between Brockton and Holbrook will go into effect Saturday, Sept. 1. This means a five-cent fare between Centre street, Brockton, and any part of Holbrook. As is the case on the Whitman line no transferes in Brockton will be given for the five-cent fare.

This now makes the cost from Centre street to the Nsponset bridge 20 cents for cash, or 18 cents if use is made of the eight-cent checks the Boston side of Braintree. It was formerly 25 cents for cash and 23 cents if the checks were used.

Chief Williams of the Columbia, Ga., police force has a dog named Fiddler who oftentimes does detective work for the force. He goes out with the night squad and hunts the alleys. One night last week he arrested a man who was drunk and started to drag him to police headquarters.

Madame Yale's
HAIR TONIC

Ladies and Gentlemen—It has gone on record that Madame Yale's Excelsior Hair Tonic is the first and only remedy known to chemical science found to be a genuine hair specific. It has an affinity for the human hair for nourishing and invigorating its entire structure. It is antiseptic in character, as well as stimulating; its action upon the scalp and hair is truly wonderful, inasmuch as it has never been known in a single instance to fail to cure scalp diseases and to create a luxuriant growth of healthy, beautiful hair. It stops hair falling within twenty-four hours and brings back the natural color to gray hair in nearly every instance. It is not a dye; it is not sticky or greasy; on the contrary it makes the hair soft, youthful, beautiful and glossy; keeps it in curl. It is a perfect hair dressing, and can be used by ladies, gentlemen or children as a daily toilet requisite. Its influence is delightfully soothing.

3 BOXES PULLED.

Two for a $1000 Fire on Robertson Street.—The Other False.

The fire department was kept busy last night answering alarms. Shortly after 12.30 the old building on Robertson street, formerly used by Haverhan & Sons as a stone shed, but at present by John McKenna as a stable, was discovered to be on fire. Two different persons gave alarms at about the same time. One ran to Box 48 at the corner of Willard and Robertson streets and the other to Box 58 at the corner of Robertson and Adams streets. Box 58 was pulled first at 12.40 but only one round came in correctly the balance of the alarm being jumbbled.

The department got the first box all right and responded. When they arrived the building was a mass of flames and little remained to be done other than to extinguish the burning embers. In the stable were two horses, a quantity of hay, harnesses and grain, all of which were destroyed. Chief Williams places the loss at $1,000, and thinks that the fire was the work of an incendiary.

The apparatus had not been back to their stations long, before another call came. This time it was an alarm from Box 171 which was sounded at 2.40, which proved to be false.

Officer Daveron reports that he discovered the fire when near the West Quincy depot, and that he ran to Box 48 and turned in the alarm. The officer says that Box 58 was not pulled.

What Russia Is Like.

In Russia everything is large and everything is loud. Moscow is like an immense village, and everything in it is built broad, not high, because there is so much space to cover. The public squares, unpaved and surrounded by a little rim of cobbles, are as big as meadows. The arcades and passages, with their cellars below, their shops above, their glass roofs, are so enormous that they could hold the Passage des Panoramas and the Burlington Arcade and the galleries at Milan without filling more than a corner of them.

Colors shriek and flame; the Muscovite eyes sees only by emphasis and by contrast; red is completed either by another red or by a bright blue. There are no shades, no reticences, no modulations. The restaurants are filled with the din of vast mechanical organs, with drums and cymbals; a great bell clashes against a chain on all the trams to clear the road; the music which one hears is a ferocity of brass.

The masons who build the houses build in top boots, red shirts and pink trousers; the houses are painted red or green or blue; the churches are like the temples of savage idols, tortured into every unnatural shape and colored with glaring color. Bare feet, osier sandals and legs swathed in rags pass to and fro among the top boots of the middle classes, the patent leather boots of the upper classes, like the inner savagery of a race still so near barbarism, made evident in that survival of the footgear of primitive races.—Saturday Review.

The Senate's Hole In the Wall.

When the nineteenth century was as yet only half grown, senators applied customarily for their toddies at the so called Hole In the Wall, a small circular room just off the postoffice of the upper house. The latter body, as will be remembered, then occupied what is now the chamber of the supreme court, and the postoffice was across the main corridor of the building on the same floor. When a wearer of the toga found himself in need of a "shifter," he had only to cross over to the mails department and pass through it to the little circular room aforesaid, which was about the size of a pantry.

The Hole In the Wall was the first senate restaurant, and the bill of fare for edibles was short, though to the point. There were ham, guaranteed to have been smoked for six months, a veritable sublimation of the pork product; likewise corned beef and bread and cheese, but very little else. They served, however, as an accompaniment for the fluids, and when the Hole was crowded, as was often the case, senators ate their sandwiches outside, in the postoffice.—Washington Post.

It seems from some recent observations that fish, like ships, take ballast on board. Before leaving shallow water cods are in the habit of taking a quantity of sand into their stomachs which is disposed of before migrating again from the deep sea.

NATURALIZATION.

Made Easier by Repeal of Part of Law of 1885.—Political Notes.

Section two of Chapter 345 of the Acts of the year 1885 relative to naturalization were amended by the recent Legislature by striking out the words, "but final action thereon shall be had only on stated days or during the regular terms of the court. Every application shall be entered upon the docket of the court and shall be filed at least 14 days before final action thereon," in the 3d, 4th, 5th, 6th and 7th lines and inserting in placee thereof the following:

Every application shall be entered upon the docket of the court and final action theron shall be had at any regular sitting of the court,—so as to read as follows:—Section 2. Final applications for naturalization in any court of the Commonwealth may be filed in the said courts in term time or vacation. Every application shall be entered upon the docket of the court, and final action thereon shall be had at any regular sitting of the court. Such application shall contain the name, age and occupation of the applicant, and the name of the street and number of the house in which he resides, and the names of the persons whom he intends to summon as witnesses at his final hearing, together with the number and street of the residences of such witnesses: provided, that in applications where the number and street as required aforesaid cannot be given, the place of residence shall be described with sufficient accuracy for identification.

Now that Hon. John H. Mack of North Adams declines to be Democratic candidate for Governor, the Hon. Thomas J. Gargan of Boston is mentioned.

Depot Carriage Men.

It is said that on the completion on the new Quincy depot another attempt may be made to restrain some of the drivers from soliciting passengers. This has recently been attempted in Lawrence. The Journal says: A novel case came up Wednesday afternoon before Judge Braley in the equity session of the Superior Court. It is that brought by the Boston and Maine Railroad against Michael Sullivan, Jeremiah T. Hennessey, George H. Manock and Daniel O'Leary, all of them licensed hackmen of Lawrence.

The railroad corporation desires to have the defendants restrained from soliciting passengers at its stations in Lawrence, and seeks injunctions for the purpose, claiming that the damages that might be given in a suit at law would be inadequate in so much as a jury would be likely to render the railroad company nominal amounts only. The railroad contends that the defendants are all respectable parties and are interferring with C. I. Williams, who has a contract with the Boston and Maine for carriage business at Lawrence.

It appeared at the hearing that the Board of Aldermen had refused to give Williams a license, while the defenants in the suit are all licensed cabmen and have been for a number of years.

Lawyer Charles A. De Courcey, representing the railroad, charged the Lawrence Aldermen with being false to their official duty, in refusing Mr. Williams a license. Lawyer J. P. Sweeney, counsel for the defence contended that as the railroad corporation had redress at law its remedy was in law and not in equity.

Judge Barley took the matter under advisement saying that his decision, whether the railroad was entitled to injunctions against the hackmen named, would not prejudice either side, when the case came up later for a hearing on its merits.

TODAY'S COURT.

Alex. C. McLellan was fined $5 for drunkenness at Quincy.

Geo. W. Williams was arranged for breaking and entering the shoe manufactory of M. Sheehy & Co. at Weymouth and the larcency of shoes, etc., valued at $64.50. Case continued until Friday.

No one is too young or too old to serve as soldiers in China when soldiers are needed. Children are taken from their toys, and old men, who, for years have been awaiting the messenger of death, are lined up in battle array with equal indifference. Everybody must fight when the dragon shows its teeth.

—In Spain after January 1, 1901, A. M. and P. M. will be abolished, and the hours will be numbered from one to twenty-four.

LINCOLN—In Holbrook, Aug. 28, Ephraim W. Lincoln, 83 years.

TAKING THE REINS.

Lord Derby, 2:1.4, is the fastest new trotter of the season.

Alcidalia, 2:10¼, is likely to take part in the trotting before racing ends.

The newcomer, Sy'n, 2:27, is the sixth performer for the great brood mare Tecora.

Walter Winans has had the cross of St. Stanislaus bestowed upon him by the czar of Russia.

Bob Ingersoll, 2:15, is a very promising California trotter. He is by Nutwood Wilkes, dam by Albert W.

James M. Pettit, the veteran driver of Philadelphia, now 78 years old, is reported to have lost the use of an eye.

The two fastest 3-year-olds of the year, Dreamer, 2:15½, and Mobel, 2:16¾, are both grandsons of Baron Wilkes.

The record to wagon over Belmont course, Philadelphia, was beaten Aug. 4 when Mr. Robert A. Smith drove Rob Roy in 2:16½.

The newcomer, Dartmore, 2:18¼, by Robert McGregor, is out of Chestnut Belle (dam of Mobel, 2:16¾, at 3 years), by Red Wilkes.

Todd, a yearling, by Bingen, dam Fanella, by Arion, is credited with trotting a quarter at Calais, Me., in 39¼ seconds without lifting his nose.

Prince Alert attracted much attention at Poughkeepsie, N. Y., the other day. He paced two exhibition miles, driven by Ben Walker, in 2:03¾, 2:03. These are the fastest miles ever timed on Hudson River Driving park.

Mr. Middlemay, by Marsh Murdock, who showed so much speed in races in 1898 without getting a mark and has been used in matinees recently, since gained a record of 2:16¾ at Chicago a few days ago.—Turf, Field and Farm.

THE DRESS MODEL.

The lace or chiffon scarfs look very feminine and pretty as a finish to afternoon gowns of muslin, veiling or foulard.

There will be many new styles, but nothing will disturb the vogue of the Eton and bolero effects during the fall season.

Of the making of new picturesque sleeves there seems to be no end this season. Special designs are constantly appearing on fancy waists, tea gowns, afternoon toilets, simple morning dresses, negligees and dainty little open fronted jackets.

The light weight faced cloths will be more than ever used for smart fall costumes. They will be seen in a handsome shade of grenat, in stylish dyes of brown and in silver, iris and the deep Russian blue that is so strikingly becoming t many women.

French tailors are making considerable use of some new weaves of English whipcord in silk and wool stripes, but very closely woven, to form a smooth surface that sheds dust. These are for smart costumes that will serve for traveling, shopping and walking suits throughout the autumn.

A plain linen collar, simply fastened with a neckpin, is seldom seen this season. Instead, one sees a folded and knotted taffeta ribbon, a lace barbe, a deftly drapery of net or mull on a firm silk or satin foundation, a pearl dog collar or velvet ribbon run through gold, jet or jeweled slides—anything chic or dainty to give a smart finishing touch.—New York Post.

PERT PERSONALS.

In face of the fact that Richard Harding Davis is preparing to tell us all about the South African war, young Mr. Lieutenant Winston Churchill is making arrangements for a lecture tour of the United States. This indicates either extreme stupidity or an entire lack of confidence in our Mr. Davis.—Buffalo Express.

AUTOMOBILE TWISTS.

The idiot who rocks the boat is finding a very lively rival in the inexperienced person who insists upon operating the automobile.—Washington Post.

The automobile will not be all that the public would like to have it until it can jump over pedestrians who have no chance to get out of its way.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

The automobilist whizzing along like the Empire State express may imagine that the man whom he scares off the road has no right there, but imagination won't pay fines in court.—Boston Journal.

The rich men of the country are finding out how many ways there are of getting pitched out of automobiles and so putting the manufacturers in the way of perfecting the machines before the middle classes can afford them.—Boston Globe.

RAILWAY TIES.

The railway from Tien-tsin to Peking a distance of about 70 miles, was the first constructed in China.

The latest summary of railroad mileage in the world shows a total of 466,848. Of this total North America furnishes 212,848 miles.

Another freak railroad scheme has been brought out in England, its principle being that the train constantly runs down hill. The track is built in sections with hydraulic or other power, so arranged that as soon as a train enters a section that end of the section is lifted up so as to make a gradient down which the train may roll to the next one.

NEW JERSEY.

It has been raining frogs and fishes in New Jersey. Last year's applejack acquires great potency along about this time.—Minneapolis Times.

Should a combination be effected in New Jersey of the Jersey mosquitoes, the Jersey trusts and the Jersey anarchists Jersey would certainly become a political issue.—Syracuse Post-Standard.

New Jersey has "cinched" her claim to being the curiosity shop of the United States by adding the anarchists to the trusts, the mosquitoes and the kissing bugs.—St. Louis Republic.

AIMS OF THE ZIONISTS.

Jews Anxious to Return to Plains of Palestine.

NO TUMULTUOUS RUSH DESIRED.

Dr. Max Nordau Says the Zionists Will Ask the Sultan For a Charter Granting Them a Large Tract of Waste Land—Picked Men Will Be Taken.

At the close of the great Zionist congress held in Paris Dr. Max Nordau, on being questioned by the New York Journal correspondent about its principal features, spoke as follows:

"The congress has been a grand success, if only as clearly defining the aims of Zionism. We Zionists want three things immediately. First, we want a charter from the sultan granting a large tract of land in Palestine on the lines, say, of the English Niger or Rhodesian company.

"There are enormous tracts of waste land in Palestine of no good to any one or anything except the jackals. At the present moment we want to acquire these for cultivation. The sultan's suzerainty would, of course, be undisputed, and we would pay him an annuity for allowing us to cultivate the land. We want the European powers to consent to be our guarantee with the sultan.

"The second thing we want to do is to organize the Jews who desire to quit the countries they now live in. In order to give our scheme a chance for success we must have methodical immigration, no tumultuous rush into Palestine. We cannot lead back at once all the Jews who are anxious to go back, but we want committees to whom we can say we will take 20 picked men, say 17 laborers, two blacksmiths and one artisan. We must pick our men, for if we took back the masses into an uncultivated barren country what would be the result? They would stand there open mouthed and asking for bread, and we would have no bread to give to them.

"We have no assurances from Jehovah that there will be manna, as there was in olden times, to feed the Jews in the wilderness. We have to deal with facts as practical men, so before we advocate or encourage general immigration we must prepare the ground. This we can only do by sending out a limited army of able workers. They would form a framework there which we hope and believe eventually would be filled.

"I am convinced the Jews are an agrarian people. They took to trade because, being hounded for nearly 2,000 years from country to country, they had no chance to settle down to agricultural pursuits. What were they to do? Not being fools and asses, they did as others did and traded. Can you blame them if, their brain having been quickened and whetted by centuries of trouble and opposition, they pursued their vocations more eagerly and energetically than others and were often more successful?

"No. The Jew has no special talent for trade. I pretend to know the history of commerce, and I cannot find a single instance where a Jew has struck out in a new line. Hundreds of developments have been made, but never once has the Jew struck out in a new line. He has followed where others led, and even then he has been slow to adopt innovations. The Jew is at heart an agriculturist still, as he was ages ago."

On the Future of China.

"Spare no man that wears a pigtail," he says. "An," he says, "me an the Garman Michael will smile on ye as ye kick the linin out iv the dhragon an plant on the walls iv Peking the banner," he says, "iv the cross an," he says, "the double cross," he says. "An if be chance ye shud pick up a little land be the way don't l'ave e'er a Frinchman or Rooshan take it fr'm ye, or ye'll feel me specyal delivery hand on the back iv yer neck in a way that'll do ye no kind iv good. Hock Garman Michael," he says, "hock me gran'father, hock the penny postage fist," he says, "hock mesilf," he says. An the Garman impror wint back to his bedroom f'r to worruk on the book he's goin to br-ring out nex' year to take the place iv the Bible.—Mr. Dooley in Harper's Weekly.

Shirt Waist Dance.

A shirt waist dance was given the other evening at the Plimhimmon, Ocean City, Md., near Elkton, which was participated in by many whose ways are pronounced correct. No gentleman was allowed on the floor unless he was coatless. Several who were in attendance attempted to participate in the dances with their coats on, but were promptly elected from the floor.

WILL CLAIM PENALTY.

But England Will Take No Part In the Government of China.

Boxers Reported as Being Attacked by the Peasantry.

Desecration of Foreign Graves of a Nature Too Revolting to Be Described.

London, Aug. 30.—Mr. Broderick, under secretary of state for foreign affairs, speaking last evening at Thorncombe, said the situation in China was considerably involved because there was no Chinese government with which to negotiate.

Mr. Broderick said the situation in China was considerably involved because there was no Chinese government with which to negotiate.

"Great Britain," continued the under secretary, "while prepared to support the loyal viceroys of south China who have stood aloof from this insurrection, and while prepared also to preserve British trade with China, will claim some penalty or indemnity for the damage wrought. Nevertheless we cannot undertake to govern China ourselves, or with the assistance of other powers."

Mr. Brodrick said he hoped it would not be supposed that the government was pusillanimous in this respect. Its object was to maintain British interests. It was quite ready to take its share of the white man's burden, but could not admit that the nature of that burden should be dictated to it by the yellow man.

Amid the growing difficulties of the Chinese imbroglio Mr. Broderick's emphatic declaration proves that the British government does not yet see any cause to depart from the line of policy originally decided upon, namely, to take no responsibility for the administration of China.

"Here," The Morning Post observes, "is where the difficulty of selecting a policy comes in. We cannot decamp and leave the powers to settle the matter between them."

Sir Chih Chen Lonfengluh, the Chinese minister in London, asserts that he is in constant communication with Li Hung Chang, who is still in Shanghai.

Dispatches received this morning bring no later Pekin news. A Shanghai telegram says that Li Hung Chang has sent a memorial begging the empress dowager to appoint Prince Ching, General Yung Lu and the Yang Tse viceroys as joint peacemakers with himself.

There are conflicting rumors of a great battle, in which 1500 Boxers were killed, including Prince Tuan.

The reform party, under Kang Yu Wei, is said to be actively preparing for rebellion.

It is reported from Hankow that 25 reformers have been executed, their heads being exposed.

The Taku correspondent of The Daily Telegraph, wiring Aug. 26, says that the country around Taku and Pekin is devastated, with the result that the Boxers are most unpopular and are being attacked by the peasantry. The Boxers who were moving north from Shan Tung are now returning hastily to their homes.

Belated dispatches and the stories of refugees arriving at Chefoo continue to describe the terrible conditions in Pekin. One of the worst incidents is the shocking desecration of the foreign cemetery outside the west wall. The details are too revolting to be described. Hundreds of bodies of Chinese are found in the streets of Pekin, supposed to be those of traitors to the cause of the Boxers.

The Shanghai correspondent of The Times says that a native official telegram from Pao Ting Fu announces the arrival of the court last Sunday at Tai Yuen Fu.

A correspondent at New Chwang says that the Russians at Hai Cheng are awaiting reinforcements, whose advance is delayed by the impassable conditions of the roads to Leao Yang and Mukden. Meanwhile the native population of the district is being treated with the utmost severity. Eye witnesses report an indiscriminate slaughter of non-combatants and the reduction of the country in the vicinity of Port Arthur to a state of utter desolation.

Yu, governor of the province of Shen Si, is reported to have invited the foreigners in the province to come to his protection. About Aug. 21, 50 accepted the invitation and all were massacred.

To Invade Republican Territory.

Chicago, Aug. 30.—W. J. Bryan will lead the fight of the Democrats himself in the central and eastern states. He will take command next week in Chicago and then will begin an invasion of Republican territory, for he has decided to stump Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Wisconsin, Michigan, Minnesota, New York, New Jersey, Maryland and West Virginia. This change of his plan is announced by Senator J. K. Jones, chairman of the Democratic national committee.

Comfort For Letter Carriers.

New York, Aug. 30.—Postmaster Mahony of Passaic, N. J., has issued an order which formally allows the Passaic letter carriers to wear shirt waists during the hot spell. They are especially forbidden to wear suspenders with the waists. They will not appear in their new uniforms until they can all secure waists as nearly alike as possible.

Head Crushed by Car Wheels.

Springfield, Mass., Aug. 30.—Lieutenant Fred A. Jenks of company K was severely injured Wednesday evening by falling from an electric car, while returning home from a clambake at Lookout Range. His head was crushed by the car wheels, and his recovery is doubtful.

Ended Life With Laudanum.

Philadelphia, Aug. 30.—Anthony J. McWilliams, a seaman widely known in the coastwise trade, committed suicide at a boarding house here by drinking laudanum. Despondency is supposed to have prompted the deed.

MANUFACTURERS ARE UNDECIDED

As to the Curtailment and Reduction of Wages at Fall River.

Fall River, Mass., Aug. 30.—The selling committee of the Manufacturers' association has not as yet reached a definite agreement as to what course they will pursue should present market conditions remain unchanged and the price of cotton and cloth maintain their present unsatisfactory ratio. From interviews with a number of local mill men it is learned that not a few of them are opposed to a reduction in wages. They believe in more conservative action, saying that the time to act upon the plan under consideration by the selling committee will not have come until after the present curtailment plan has expired on Sept. 17, and the effect which the shutdown may have upon the market noted at that time. It is generally recognized, however, that should the selling committee finally decide to urge further curtailment and a cutdown their plan would receive the endorsement of the Manufacturers' association.

Secretary Whitehead of the Weavers' union says: "Talk of reducing wages is premature after the good times of the past 12 months. The remedy for a depression in business is not a reduction in wages, but curtailment, and such curtailment should be made general throughout New England. If wages are reduced buyers will demand cloth cheaper and offset whatever advantages this might give manufacturers. We will always have periods of depression until the hours of labor are reduced. The output of the mills could be better regulated if the hours of labor were shorter. Manufacturers have before intimated a reduction in wages, but they have not always gone into effect. I believe this is one of the times it will not go into effect."

Serious Charges Against a Woman.

Burlington, Vt., Aug. 30.—Mrs. Ella M. Bagley is in jail in this city charged with obtaining money under false pretences, in collecting $88 from the Howard Relief society by means of a forged telegram. Mrs. Bagley is also held for forging the name of Ethel E. Campbell, whose bank book she secured and drew $340 from the Burlington Savings bank. The confessions of Mrs. Bagley point to Medar Isabelle of Concord, N. H., as the man who planned her acts, and officers are searching for him.

Prince Threatens to Abdicate.

London, Aug. 30.—As a result of the friction between Roumania and Bulgaria over the latter's delay in complying with the demand of the former for the suppression of the Macedonian revolutionary committee, the Bulgarian diplomatic agent at Bucharest has been recalled. It is asserted that Prince Ferdinand of Bulgaria has threatened to abdicate unless the quarrel with Roumania is amicably settled.

Still Popular With Sports.

New York, Aug. 30.—John L. Sullivan was given a rousing benefit in Madison Square Garden last night. The sum realized from the sale of tickets and subscriptions will be a large one. It will be held in trust by a committee who will invest the money and pay the interest to Sullivan. That the big fellow has lost none of his popularity was evidenced by the large attendance.

Thieving Letter Carrier Confesses.

Taunton, Mass., Aug. 30.—Arthur K White, a letter carrier of this city, was arrested Wednesday, charged with stealing letters and their contents. He confessed to the crime. His thefts date from June 1 of this year. An attempt to live beyond his means is supposed to have been the cause of his operations. White is unmarried, and lives with his parents.

Smallpox About Eradicated.

Pittsfield, N. H., Aug. 30.—Smallpox has probably been thoroughly cleaned out of town for the first time in three months. The last case was moved on Wednesday to the pest house, five miles out in the country. There are now at the pest house 14 patients. Up to the present time there have been 25 cases, all of a mild type.

Czar Said He Hated War.

London, Aug. 30.—Dr. Leyds' interview with Emperor Nicholas, says a dispatch to The Daily Mail from St. Petersburg, lasted barely five minutes. The czar said he was sorry that he could do nothing for the Transvaal, except to urge it to make peace, as he hated all war.

Did Nothing Regarding Race Riots.

New York, Aug. 30.—The August grand jury, which was dismissed Wednesday by Judge McMahon, handed in no indictments in the race riot occurrences which it has been investigating, and it did not even hand up a presentment in relation to it.

Speedy Ones to Race.

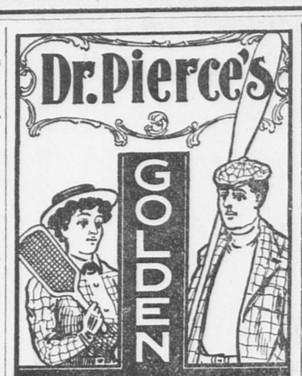

Boston, Aug. 30.—Harry Elkes, the world's champion middle-distance rider, arrived at the Charles River park direct from Paris Wednesday, and went right to work following pace and getting into trim for matches with Nelson.

Weather Conditions and Forecast.

Almanac, Friday, Aug. 31.
Sun rises—5:08; sets, 6:21.
Moon sets—9:14 p. m.
High water—3 a. m.; 3:15 p. m.

There has been little rain during the last 24 hours. The temperature is generally above the seasonal average. Local rains and thunderstorms are indicated for northern New England, fair in southern portions. On the coast light southerly winds will shift to westerly.

KID LOST HIS GUARD.

Corbett Began to Slug and a Scientific Fight Was Speedily Ended.

McCoy Completely Doubled Up In Fifth Round.

Contest Brought $18.000 to the Winner and $6000 to His Opponent.

New York, Aug. 31.—James J. Corbett last night settled the championship aspirations of Kid McCoy, the Hoosier boxer, who for some years past has been alternately challenging the holders of the title and claiming to be the best in the world. Corbett in five rounds demonstrated that McCoy was not in the list of really first-class heavyweights.

McCoy's work was a disappointment to nearly everyone. He looked to be in the pink of condition and apparently was, but the speed and skill of which so much has been said was not apparent. He was simpy outclassed. At every stage of the game Corbett's superiority was manifest.

In the opening round McCoy showed up to much better advantage than Corbett. McCoy seemed confident, though careful, while Corbett was nervous and ill at ease. McCoy started out with his usual coolness, but Corbett was fidgety. The entire round was taken up with the cleverest kind of feinting and sparring on McCoy's part, while Corbett's work left very little to be desired.

In the second round Corbett came up in better form, and his uneasy feeling had evidently left him. His fretfulness and nervousness had disappeared, and he gave an exhibition which could only be given by a man thoroughly posted in the innermost points of the scientific art of boxing. While not a blow was landed by either in the first round, the greater part of the second was equally as unfruitful of damage to either boxer. Corbett got to the head towards the latter end of the second round, and McCoy jabbed his provoking left to Corbett's face.

In the third they got to each other oftener, but it was in the fourth that Corbett began to take McCoy's measure. In the fifth and concluding round, Corbett forced McCoy into the former's corner, where the Kid kept blocking and sparring for an opening to get out. Corbett swung for the head, but McCoy ducked underneath it very cleverly and jumped to the center of the ring. Jim rushed him across the floor of the ring and by clever work forced McCoy back into the corner again, where he sent right and left to the Kid's head.

This was the beginning of McCoy's undoing. Corbett went to him, using both hands, swinging and stabbing and occasionally uppercutting with the left. McCoy's defense availed him little against this onslaught and Corbett soon had the Kid at his mercy. McCoy saw that he was no longer able to ward off the big fellow's blows, and he threw his arms across his face, holding his head down, in hopes of saving himself from a knockout punch.

Corbett relentlessly showered lefts and rights which straightened McCoy up, and then Jim swung a left which crashed into McCoy's body. McCoy doubled up, and in doing so held Corbett's left glove with his right arm. Corbett then drove McCoy away from him with a right over the heart, and, as the Kid went back staggering, Jim leaped after him, landing another left smash in the same spot, and the Kid dropped to the floor.

McCoy bravely tried to get up, but those three blows had taken all his strength away, and while he made frantic endeavors to get up, Referee Charles White counted off the ominous 10 seconds. By an almost superhuman effort McCoy stood up after he had been counted out, but he was dazed and the referee had to push him towards his corner, where his seconds took McCoy in hand.

The men battled for 60 percent of the gross receipts, which was to be divided 75 percent to the winner and 25 percent to the loser. It is estimated that there was about $50,000 in the house, so that Corbett will receive in the neighborhood

Serious Wrangle of Traders.

Winnipeg, Man., Aug. 31.—A half-breed has brought news of serious trouble in the Great Slave district, between American and Canadian traders. Fifteen Americans, it was charged, smuggled large quantities of supplies in, and were thus able to undersell the Canadians. Edmon traders sent a committee to notify the Americans to retire. The latter declined, and shooting followed. Finally the Americans fled to the timber. Mounted police have been sent to the scene.

Collided on a Curve.

Newton, Mass., Aug. 31.—Mrs. John Sweeney was badly injured and a number of other persons were severely shaken up in a rear-end collision between two electric cars in this city Thursday evening. There is a sharp curve where the accident occurred, at which a car had stopped to take on a passenger. At that moment an empty car rounded the curve at full speed, and crashed into the other car.

Fell Upon a Scythe.

Montpelier, Vt., Aug. 31.—Nathaniel Ennis of Middlesex fell upon a scythe which he was carrying home after a day's work in the hayfield, Thursday, and was so badly wounded that he bled to death.

GRAND ARMY BOYS ADJOURN.

Leo Rassieur Is Chosen Commander-In-Chief. Next Meeting at Denver.

Chicago, Aug. 31.—The 34th annual encampment of the G. A. R. came to a close Thursday with the choice of Denver for the national encampment of 1901, and the election of the following officers: Commander-in-Chief, Leo Rassieur, St. Louis; senior vice commander, E. C. Milliken, Portland, Me.; junior vice commander, Frank Seaman, Knoxville, Tenn.; surgeon general, John A. Wilkins, Delta, O.; chaplain-in-chief, Rev. A. Drahams, San Quentin, Cal.

The convention was called to order promptly at 9 o'clock by Commander-in-Chief Shaw. The committee appointed to consider the annual report of the commander-in-chief approved it with the exception of his recommendation of an effort to secure the change of the date of Memorial day from May 30 to the last Sunday in May. The report was adopted. The report of the committee on pensions was adopted. It contains a petition to congress to pass a bill providing for a court of appeals to act immediately on the thousands of pension applications now pending and over which the court of appeals shall have final jurisdiction.

When the delegates reconvened at 2:30 the report of the committee on resolutions in regard to the various auxiliary associations was taken up. On a substitute it was decided to limit the women's auxiliary societies, recognized by the G. A. R., to the Women's Alliance.

A resolution was adopted asking congress to make an appropriation for the purpose of creating a suitable monument at Washington to commemorate the services of the soldiers and sailors of the army and navy of the Civil war.

Besides the business meeting the day's program included a sham battle, in which the First and Second Illinois infantry, First Illinois cavalry and a battery of artillery engaged in mimic warfare through the groves and over the lawns of Washington park.

The following national officers were elected by the Woman's Relief corps for the ensuing year: President, Mrs. Mary L. Carr, Longmont, Col.; national senior vice president, Mrs. Belle M. Satterlee, St. Louis; junior vice president, Mrs. Abbie R. Flagg, Battle Creek, Mich.; treasurer, Mrs. Sarah E. Phillips, Syracuse.

Conditions In Samoan Islands.

Washington, Aug. 31.—Commander Tilley, commanding the United States naval station at Tutilla, Samoan islands, writes: "I am glad to report that everything connected with the new government is progressing in a most satisfactory manner in all the islands. The natives show much interest in the new methods of government, and they are striving to learn and to comply with my wishes. The general condition of the people could not be more satisfactory."

Was Weighted With Flatirons.

New York, Aug. 31.—The body of a man, found in the water at Fort Wadsworth, with flatirons attached to it, has been identified as that of James Rankin, an expert machinist, who had been employed in Brooklyn. There is no evidence to support the theory that Rankin met with foul play at the hands of strikers because he would not join in the strike at the shop where he was employed.

Charges Against Immigration Officers.

Washington, Aug. 31.—Commissioner General Powderly of the immigration bureau has forwarded to the barge office at New York charges against 10 employes of that office. The charges cover quite a range of misconduct and include the following: Receiving money for favors shown immigrants; cruelty to immigrants, and use of profane and abusive language to immigrants.

Direct Cable to Germany.

New York, Aug. 31.—Direct telegraphic communication between the United States and Germany was opened Thursday through the new German cable, in conjunction with the Commercial Cable company's system, from New York to Fayal and thence to Emden, Germany. Felicitous messages were exchanged between the German emperor and President McKinley.

TO WITHDRAW THE TROOPS.

The United States Agrees to the Plans of Russia.

A Desire to Speedily Rehabilitate the Chinese Government.

Japan Has Done Much To Clarify Situation By Withdrawing Forces From Amoy.

Washington, Aug. 31.—The Russian proposition to withdraw troops from Pekin has been acted upon, and the government of the United States is now waiting for responses to the notes which have been sent to our various representatives abroad for presentation to the powers. Judging by the rate of progress made in the preceding negotiations, several days and, perhaps, a week, may pass before all of these replies are received.

According to their formal expressions, all of the powers are agreed upon this one point—they do not desire to enter upon a formal war upon China. The United States government is trying to bring about this result. For the moment it finds itself side by side with Russia, whose earnestness cannot be questioned at this time. The object now in view is to bring about a situation in China that will admit of the beginning of negotations looking to the re-establishment of order and the cessation of hostilities, the insurance of protection to foreign life and property. After that the negotiations may touch upon other questions that remain to be settled. It it with this object that Russia has suggested the withdrawal from Pekin, in order that the Chinese government may resume the reins of power.

The United States government has been earnestly championing the cause of Li Hung Chang from a precisely similar motive, namely, a desire to speedily rehabilitate the Chinese government, in order that it may carry out its express desire to settle the difficulties which have arisen. This has been the object of the negotiations of the last few days, and the Russian note and the United States responses were but parts of the general plan.

In responding to the Russian note as it did, the United States government availed itself of the opportunity of directly inviting the remaining powers to express their desires in the matter of a settlement, or rather to indicate how, in their judgment, peace negotiations could be thus instituted. This note is calculated to secure a full disclosure of the intentions of the powers, if the inquiry is met by them in the frank spirit in which it was conceived by the United States government. The difficulty apprehended now in reaching a settlement lies in the intentional delay on the part of any power which is concealing its true purpose, and does not desire to avoid a formal war.

It appears that much confusion exists at Taku as to what actually has been decided upon respecting the treatment of Li Hung Chang should he arrive at that place en route to Pekin. The state department finds the replies so far received from Europe vague and unsatisfactory from the reason that the various governments appear to have different understandings as to the exact conditions at Taku. It can be stated that at present the question as to the acceptability of Earl Li as an envoy and his freedom from interference remain unsettled.

The advance of the Russian proposition may reduce the importance of the other questions, for, with the return of the Chinese government to Pekin, the smaller matters of the personalities of the envoys and the sufficiency of credentials could be speedily adjusted. Altogether the opinion among the members of the administration here is that the Russian move has made directly for an earlier settlement of the Chinese difficulties than seemed possible a few days ago.

So far no orders have been issued directing the return of the United States troops from China, or their removal from Pekin to Tientsin, or to any other point on the seacoast. It is still the policy of the United States to secure order in China. If there should appear in Pekin members of the Chinese government who were duly authorized to organize a government, and could do so, with the prospect of restoring order throughout the empire, it would be considered as a move on the part of China towards carrying out the demands of the United States. This government might then consider the advisability of withdrawing troops from the capital, especially if this action would tend toward the pacification of China.

The action of the Japanese government in withdrawing from Amoy the troops or marines which have aroused the suspicion of the European powers, has done much to clarify the situation. By this disclaimer of a purpose to seize Chinese territory, Japan has avoided entering a wedge which might result in the splitting up of the Chinese empire among the powers. It now remains for Russia to take similar action as to the Russian forces at New Chwang, and from the private intimations that have been conveyed to the state department, Russia has assured us that this occupation has been purely military and temporary. It was necessary, in view of the interruption of the Russian railroad in the upper peninsular, to seize upon New Chwang to supply by sea the Russian forces to the northward, but within their own territory.

WEAVERS' WAGES TO BE LOWERED.

Manufacturers Propose to Make New Scale on Basis of Eighteen Cents a Cut.

Fall River, Aug. 31.—The signatures of mill agents, representing about 1,000,000 spindles, or one-third of the corporations of the city, have already been affixed to an agreement being circulated among manufacturers in this city calling for a reduction of 11 1-9 percent, affecting all Fall River operatives.

The fact that such an agreement is in circulation is guarded with the utmost secrecy, but the statement made above is confirmed by treasures who have been approached for signatures and by others who have already signed the agreement.

The agreement, which it is proposed to put into effect on Sept. 17, the end of the present curtailment term, without reference to the effect which the shutdown may have at that time upon market conditions, calls for a reduction based upon present prices of weaving regular 64x64s. The rate now paid is 19.8 cents per cut and a reduction of 11 1-9 percent would make the new wage scale basis 18 cents per cut.

The causes for the secrecy observed in circulating the agreement lie in the fact that by making the plan public now stockholders who are opposed to a reduction at this period of the year might thwart the scheme of the selling committee, and that buyers might discount the effect of the reduction and insist upon a proportionate decrease in the print cloth quotation. The mill men who are pushing the plan for a reduction contend that an 18-cent basis is the only one on which mills in this city can be run profitably, except in times of extraordinary demand and high prices, such as were noted last fall.

Opponents of the plan claim that while there is no demand for goods, a reduction of wages cannot solve the market problem which confronts mill men. Curtailment of production is the only means of relieving the market and creating a demand. A movement is on foot to create a strong opinion among stockholders which may be able to avert the reduction agreement. Otherwise, according to present indications, wages will be placed on an 18-cent basis Sept. 17.

Officers of Knights of Pythias.

Detroit, Aug. 31.—Ogden H. Fethers of Janesville, Wis., was elected supreme chancellor of the Knights of Pythias. His opponent was the present supreme chancellor, Thomas G. Sample of Allegheny, Pa. For the office of supreme vice chancellor Tracy R. Bangs of Grand Forks, N. D., won by a majority of one. R. L. C. White of Nashville was re-elected supreme keeper of records and seals. Supreme Prelate Moulson of St. John was a candidate for re-election, but was defeated by C. F. Easly of Santa Fe, N. M. The successful candidate for supreme master of the exchequer was Thomas D. Mears of Wilmington, N. C. San Francisco was chosen for the next biennial K. P. gathering by a practically unanimous vote.

Where Coal Is Scarce.

Berlin, Aug. 31.—The coal syndicate, in reply to an inquiry of the Prussian railway authorities as to whether it would be possible to increase the coal deliveries 30 percent, said this could be done, but only at a considerably higher price for the extra amount.

Good Afternoon.

Brookline has a Hotel Wollaston. A good name for a suburb or a hotel.

The price of car rides might be a factor in apportioning the cost of the Metropolitan parks. Those cities which are in the free transfer district of Boston can ride to the Middlesex Fells or Revere beach reservation for five cents. These are the only reservations which are really accessible to the people. Although the Blue Hills reservation is partly in Quincy it is not so accessible as the Middlesex Fells and "Big Blue" can not be reached as quickly. The parks are worth more to Brookline, Cambridge, Somerville and Medford for this reason.

Although Hancock street is three miles long and runs through the business section of the city, it has but 26 hydrants. An average of over 600 feet apart does not give the best of fire protection.

Washington street has even poorer protection—only 11 for two miles, an average of nearly 1,000 feet apart. There is no hydrant between Hancock and Foster streets, none between Elm and Union streets, none between Union and Mill streets, and none between Mill and North streets. Other sections have even poorer protection.

Drift of Opinion.

☞It is claimed by some Biblical scholars that Noah was a Chinaman. If they succeed in establishing this point some other fellow will come along one of these fine days and prove that Noah belonged to the ancient society of Boxers.—Haverhill Gazette.

☞There is no reason to anticipate that the United States will become involved in the struggle of the powers for supremacy in China, but the longer our army remains on the scene, the more likelihood of its taking part in the game of grab that is supposed to be synonymous with civilization and a higher religion. The good sense of the administration which has been so admirably displayed in China should not be lacking at this juncture, when a false step, due to mistaken sentimentalism, will precipitate a prolonged war. Let the European powers play at their own game—the United States has enough business on hand just now and is not desirous of plunging into another war.—Jewish Messenger.

☞Boston is delighted with the result of the census, but the methods by which the cities higher up on the list have reached their present altitude reminds Bostonians that with a similar assistance, the Hub would hold more than a million. A circle, the circumference of which is 11 miles from the State House, would embrace 30 cities and towns. Their present population is 868,170 and if their increase proves to be as great as that of Boston, the figures will reach 1,073,304. But this is a dream of the far distant future, for Lynn is included in this greater Boston, and it will be a long time, probably, "as long as never," before our city will be a part of the Hub. With out any territorial enlargement, Boston has increased 25 per cent., in a decade, showing the great vitality of the metropolis. Mayor Hart says that Boston is the only city in the country that never had a boom or a setback. If she can maintain that record until another census she will move up well, and two decades will see her beyond the million mark.—Lynn Item.

—The public schools of Boston will not reopen until Wednesday, Sept. 11.

CAUCUS DATES.

The Republicans Select Tuesday, Sept. 25.

Representative Convention to Have 38.

Nominations May be Filed as Early as Sept. 15.

The Republican City Committee met on Thursday evening and arranged the preliminaries for the State election. The date selected for the caucuses for the choice of delegates is the second of the two designated by the State Committee—Tuesday, Sept. 25. The first date for filing nominations for the caucuses is Saturday, Sept. 15 and from that date until Wednesday, Sept. 19.

To all conventions except the Representative, the representation will be: Ward One, 4; Ward Two, 3; Ward Three, 4; Ward Four, 3; Ward Five, 4; Ward Six, 3.

To the Representative convention which will nominate two candidates for the Legislature, the representation will be larger, viz: Ward One, 8; Ward Two, 5; Ward Three, 8; Ward Four, 5; Ward Five, 8; and Ward Six, 4; a total of 38.

They request the same polling places as at the spring caucuses, the hour for opening varying from 6 to 7.30 P. M., but all closing at 9 P. M.

The Republican Representative convention will be held at the earliest date possible under the law,—Wednesday, Oct. 10, at 8 P. M.

Red Men Flourishing.

The session of the Great Sun Council of Massachusetts of the Improved Order of Red Men was held in Boston, Thursday. A special meeting of the Past Sachems Association was held Wednesday evening at which Great Sachem William A. Jordan of Wollaston presided. Forty-six new past sachems were received, making the attendance about 80.

After the dinner speeches were made by Great Sachem Jordan, Great Senior Sagamore Frank M. Collester, Great Junior Sagamore Preston Friend, Great Prophet Alfred E. Steele, Great Chief of Records Alexander Gilmore, Great Keeper of Wampum Chas. G. Warren. The record which has been made by the tribes in Massachusetts during the past year reflects great credit upon them and upon Great Sachem William A. Jordan, a member of Hodensaunee Tribe. His administration has been one of the most successful in the history of the order. When he was elected to the office in July 1899, there were 84 tribes in the State with a membership aggregating, 8599. July of this year there were an even 100 tribes and a membership of 9,638. A gain of 16 tribes and 1039 members is something remarkable in a State which had so many tribes before. Five tribes have been added since July 1.

As for the Degree of Pocahontas, there were 49 council, and 2,877 members when the year closed July 1. This represented a gain of 11 councils and 484 members during the year.

The chief officers installed Thursday afternoon were: Grand Sachem, Frank M. Collester of Winchendon; Grand Senior Sagamore, Preston Friend of Gloucester; Grand Junior Sagamore, Dr. Charles E. Bigelow of Leominster; Great Prophet, William A. Jordan of Wollaston; Great Chief of Records, Alexander Gilmour of Lynn.

Ernest V. Quist.

The funeral of Ernest V. Quist took place from the Swedish Baptist church, Campello, on Tuesday, at 2 o'clock. The church was filled with mourners who were present to pay the last honors to their departed friend. The casket reposed in a bed of flowers, the tributes of old friends. The pastor Rev. N. N. Morten, conducted the services, assisted by Rev. P. A. Englund of Quincy.

The services were inaugurated by a funeral march, rendered on the organ by Oscar Sandell. There was a scripture reading by Rev. Mr. Morten and Rev. Mr. Englund offered prayer. A favorite hymn of the deceased was sung by Mrs. Emma Swanson and Lena Johnson. The pastor touched upon the worth of Mr. Quist in the community, and gave especial prominence to his active religious life. The bearers were John Quist, Carl Ahlstrom, Edward Swanson and Andrew Lundin.

The floral tributes were: Pillow, from the wife; wreath, Mr. and Mrs. Linus Swanson and Mr. and Mrs. Carl G. Asker; standing cross, B. Y. P. U.; standing wreath, Mr. and Mrs. Topper and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Andrews; crescent, Mr. and Mrs. Sandell, and Mr. and Mrs. Swanson; wreath, Hilma Swanson; standing anchor, Sick Benefit society, basket, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Jacobson; star, Emil Linde and Miss Hannah Linde; sprays, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Birks, Mr. and Mrs. Halstrum, Mr. and Mrs. Bloomquist, Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Peterson, John Quist, Mr. N. N. Morten, George Steadman; Mr. and Mrs. L. O. Lundeborg, A. E. and Hilda Lundin, Fred Floren.

The deceased was born in Norrkoping, Sweden, 29 years age. He came to the United States in 1897, and had lived in Campello since that time. He followed the trade of paper hanger and painter. He was an active member of the Swedish Baptist church and was prominently connected with the Young People's union of the church, serving as its president for three years. He belonged to no order or secret society in Campello, but gave his attention entirely to his church.

A year ago last July he was married to Emelia Swanson of Quincy, and since that time lived at 109 Laureston street. About two months ago he was taken ill, and gradually declined. Two weeks ago he was taken to the hospital, where he died. Besides his wife he is survived by his father, who is in Sweden, and a brother.

Presented a Tea Service.

A party of Boston friends of Harold A. Harris, agent at the Norfolk Downs station, tendered Mr. and Mrs. Harris a reception Wednesday evening, the party came to Wollaston on an early evening train, where a barge was taken for Hingham. Returning from there, a stop was made at Mr. Harris' home on Hodges avenue, where a lunch was served and dancing enjoyed until a late hour. Before leaving, the party presented Mr. and Mrs. Harris with a solid silver tea service.

A curious bit of adaptation to circumstances may be seen among cattle of swamp lands along the Mississippi. From July to mid-September bloodsucking insects—mosquitoes, flies and gnats and so on—are so bad cattle are sometime in danger of their lives. So are people, unless they make smudges, that is to say, fires so thickly smouldered that they fill the air with clouds of smoke, and thus drive away the pests. The cattle soon learn the use and value of the smudges.

Steel rails are known to have a short life in tunnel and other places in to which the fumes from locomotives are discharged. This appears to be due to the conversion of the sulphur in coal into sulphuric acid and the subsequent chemical action of the acid upon the steel.

OFFICER'S MISTAKE.

Two Atlantic Young Men Arrested by Over Zealous Officer.

Liquor Officer Ferguson and Officer Holloran were riding through Hancock street, Thursday, on an electric car when they saw two young fellows with a large bag, standing near the Sacred Heart church. Officer Holloran knew the two as Fred Nelson and James Brinnon, both residing in Atlantic.

To his mind there was nothing suspicious about them. The liquor officer, however, thought different and after Officer Holloran had left the car, Officer Ferguson returned to the scene on the next car. The two men had not moved. In answer to his questions they said the bag contained old lead and wire which they had found in the cellar of Duggan's block and offered to go back and show him where they got it. This the officer would not do, but placed them under arrest and brought them to Quincy.

This morning when the case was called in court, the boys told their story which was supported by Thomas L. Stanton.

Mr. Stanton testified that he was the manager of Mr. Duggan's property and had charge of the drug store. He wanted the cellar cleaned out and told the young men they might have anything of no value in part payment for their work. The pieces of lead fountain and wire were no good, and that it was all right for them to take it.

Upon this the court discharged the defendants. Much trouble all around could have been saved had the officer returned to Duggan's block Thursday, as requested, by the defendants.

TODAY'S COURT.

John Lyons of Weymouth was arraigned for drunkenness. Case continued until Sept. 10.

Charles Landers was arraigned for threatening assault on Charles Cary at Quincy. Case continued until Saturday, and Landers was held in $500 until that time.

Fred Nelson and James Brinnon were arraigned for larceny of lead and copper wire from John A. Duggan at Quincy. They were found not guilty and discharged.

Caladdo Calitti was arraigned for violation of the liquor law at Quincy. Case continued until Saturday.

The continued cases of August Carlson, Edward Cassidy and James A. Hurley were called and they paid their fines.

The liquors seized from Ada E. Blackwell at Weymouth were forfeited.

The liquors seized from Bernard Burns at Quincy were forfeited.

The continued case of George W. Williams for breaking and entering the shoe manufactory of M. Sheehy & Co. at Weymouth, and the larceny therefrom valued at upwards of $75, was heard, and Williams was held in $1,000 for the grand jury.

Birds readily recognize pictures, and stories of their pecking at painted fruit may well be true, for they readily recognize the picture of another bird, and the little "love-bird" may be saved from moping when alone by placing the picture of a companion in the cage.

MANY CANDIDATES.

Quincy Democrats Not Backward in Running For Office.

A Quincy Democrat writes: So far as the congressional fight for the Democratic nomination is concerned, it will be a very warm one. However, up to the present time there is a movement under way among the politicians to induce voters to support Mr. Naphen the present repesentative at Washington, for renomination. But in this we find it is not to be very unanimous, other sections and wards claiming the right to contest Mr. Naphen's renomination and will do so. In Ward 17, Hon. Chas. I. Quirk; in Ward 15, Hon. Mr. Baldwin; in Milton, Mr. Charles F. M. Malley; and in Roxbury, Hon. Richard Sullivan are possible candidates of no small caliber. It is understood here that Mr. Naphen will not get more than one-third of the delegates and balance will go unpledged.

"There are three Democrats mentioned for the Senator.

Ward One has the call in furnishing two of these, i. e., George H. Wilson and Frederick W. Tirrell; the other is William F. Shea of Ward Four. For the House of Representatives John A. Duggan of Ward Six, William J. Sullivan of Ward Three, Stephen B. Little of Ward Four and William Sampson of Ward Two; are mentioned as possible candidates. For County Commissioner James H. Slade of Ward Two."

Political Calendar.

The Republican State Committee has issued its useful political calendar for the Massachusetts campaign of 1900, which with the omission of Boston dates is as follows:

July 22—Registration open in all cities and towns in the Commonwealth.

Sept. 24, 25—On one of these two dates the Republicans of every city and town must hold caucuses for choice of delegates to the State, congressional, councillor, senatorial and county conventions, and except as hereinafter provided, for delegates to representative conventions, and for nomination of candidates for the General Court.

Sept. 30—Last day for appointing election officers in cities.

Oct. 1,2—On one of these two dates, except in Boston, caucuses for choice of delegates to a Republican representative district convention or for nomination of candidates for the General Court may be held.

Oct.4—10 A. M.—Republican State convention in the Boston Theatre, Boston.

Oct. 6—Last day for holding conventions for nominating candidates to be voted for at large throughout the Commonwealth. Must be held before 5 P. M.

Oct. 6—7—Last day for designating polling places.

Oct. 7—Last day for registrars of voters in every city and town, except Boston, to post in each voting precinct preliminary alphabetical list of voters.

Oct. 8—Certificates of nomination of candidates to be voted for at large throughout the Commonwealth must be filed at the office of the secretary of the Commonwealth before 5 P. M.*

Oct. 10—Earliest day for holding Republican representative conventions.

Oct. 15—Last day for appointing election officers in towns.

Oct. 15 — Nomination papers for candidates to be voted for at large throughout the Commonwealth must be filed at the office of the Secretary of the Commonwealth before 5 P. M.*

Oct. 16—Last day for holding conventions for nominating candidates for State officers not voted for at large throughout the Commonwealth. Must be held before 5 P. M.

Oct. 16—Last day for petitioning for the appointment of supervisors of elections.

Oct. 17—Last day for registration in all cities. Upon this day every registry of voters must be kept open from 12 o'clock noon (in Boston from 9 A. M.), until 10 P. M.

Oct. 18—Certificates of nomination of candidates for State officers not voted for at large throughout the Commonwealth must be filed at the office of secretary of the Commonwealth before 5 P. M.*

Oct. 19—Nomination papers of candidates not voted for at large throughout the Commonwealth must be filed at the office of the secretary of the Commonwealth before 5 P. M.*

Oct. 23—Last day for filing complaint against incorrect and illegal registration in cities.

Oct. 27—Registration in towns closes at 10 P. M.

Nov. 1—Last day for filing vacancies among electon officers.

Nov. 2—Last day for filing complaint against incorrect and illegal registration in towns.

Nov. 6—State election.

Nov. 7—Registration reopens in all the cities and towns in the Commonwealth.

*Objections to or withdrawals from nominations must be made within the seventy-two hours succeeding five o'clock of the last day fixed for the filing of nomination papers for such offices.

Sugar In the Human System.

Sugar is a substance that dissolves easily and in considerable quantity in water. When in solution it easily passes through animal's membrane by osmosis, and so the question of its absorption seemed simple enough. The disease diabetes showed, however, that sugar might exist very plentifully in the blood and yet the nutrition of an individual suffer very much for the lack of it. Something else besides its mere presence in the system was necessary to secure its consumption by the tissues.

Bernard thought that the liver was active in the consumption of sugar and that disease of this organ caused diabetes. He therefore secured some of the blood going to the liver of a living animal and some of the blood that was just leaving it. To his surprise, the blood leaving the liver contained more sugar than that entering it.

After assuring himself that his observations were correct, he tried his experiments in different ways. He found that even in the blood leaving the liver of an animal that had been fed only on substances containing no sugar, sugar could be demonstrated. Even in a fasting animal the liver itself and the blood leaving it showed the presence of a form of sugar.

The only possible conclusion from this was that the liver was capable of manufacturing this form of sugar out of nonsugar containing material, or even from the blood of a fasting animal.—Catholic World.

Converting the Chinaman.

When I first met him the Greek archimandrite had been 40 years in Peking, and had never been anywhere else except for two caravan journeys to Russia. He was an elderly gentleman, with a smile like Benjamin Franklin's, and was famed at the Chinese capital for keeping the best wines and the best tobacco. He was a bachelor, and today I recall him when I try to fancy Epicurus in the body. He wore the Chinese pigtail and clothes to match, and people said he could give Chinese mandarins points on etiquette. He gave me, at least, many happy hours, for he talked with a frankness and facility rarely united in a Russian, least of all an archimandrite.

One day, for instance, I asked him bluntly how many converts he had made. He answered that he thought he had made one, but he did not wish to be taken as stating this positively. When I returned to China after an interval of 21 years, all my inquiries led me to respect the honesty of this Russian. He said, furthermore:

"I have been here 40 years, and perhaps I have converted one Chinaman. When missionaries tell you that they have done more than that, do not believe them."—Poultney Bigelow in North American Review.

A Circus Horse In Battle.

Colonel Charles Marshall, who was aid-de-camp to General Robert E. Lee and who went through the battles of the war with his chief, told the following amusing story of his experience with a new horse: His old horse had been shot from under him in the fight of the previous day, and he had taken possession of an animal that seemed to suit the work. In the battle a few hours later he was riding across a field in which there were numerous stumps.

Suddenly the performance opened. The guns roared and the air was filled with smoke and noise. Before Colonel Marshall knew what was happening the horse had his four feet on one of the stumps and was gayly dancing in a circle. In the mean time the firing was increasing, and the situation was anything but comfortable, but the horse kept on as if he were enjoying it.

"It was not until afterward," said Colonel Marshall, "that I found the horse had belonged to a circus and had been trained to do this act amid the firing of cannon."

The Track Foreman.

The track foreman actually accounts for a greater proportion of the railroad's expenditures than any other employee, because the greatest cost of railroading is in the roadbed, and its equipment and the expense of maintaining it. The track foreman is in fact an important employee, but about the only time a passenger ever sees his sunburned face is while he is being whisked by between stations at 60 miles an hour.—New York Sun.

The Neatest Town In the World.

Broek, in Holland, is far famed as the "neatest town in the world." This town is so fastidious that until a few years ago horses were not allowed in its streets for reasons of cleanliness, and the entire town is as scrupulously kept as a man-of-war. It is a village of 2,700 inhabitants, the main industry of which is the making of Edam cheeses. —Boston Transcript.

Pat's Services.

Clergyman—Pat, there's a hole in the roof of the church, and I am trying to collect money sufficient to repair it. Come, now, what will you contribute?

Pat—Me services, sor.

Clergyman—What do you mean, Pat? You are no carpenter.

Pat—No, but if it rains next Sunday, Ol'll sit over the hole.—Pearson's.

JINGLES AND JESTS.

Cheaper Than Bonnets.

"Were I as rich, my darling,
As Solomon of old,
Your dainty head should always wear
A crown of purest gold!"

And lightly laughed his darling
And answered in her glee,
"The latest thing in bonnets, love,
Is crown enough for me."

With frequent change of fashion
The fleeting seasons sped,
And the latest thing in bonnets
Was always on her head.

And he, poor, fond economist,
With many a patient smile,
Placed one by one her bonnet bills
Upon a separate file.

And one day at his figures
In the autumn of his life
He flung a few pathetic words
Of protest at his wife.

"Were I as wise, my darling,
As Solomon of old,
I should have bought you, long ago,
That crown of purest gold,

"For such a mode of ornament,
You really may depend,
Though seemingly extravagant,
Is cheaper in the end."

Why He Advertised.

Prospective Guest—Where are the golf links?

Proprietor of the One Horse Hotel—What are golf links, young man?

Prospective Guest—What are golf links? Doesn't your advertisement say "boating, bathing, fishing and golf?" And you don't know what golf links are!

Proprietor—Well, I put in the advertisement because I thought some folks'd like to play golf, an I had no objection to 'em doin it, but I thought they'd bring along whatever they needed for playin the game.—Brooklyn Life.

"One hundred and sixty-six"—
Thus far the answers to queries editor, sitting at the telephone, had proceeded, when the exchange editor threw up his hands and exclaimed:

"Merciful heavens!"

"One hundred and sixty-six central," resumed the other. "Hello! Is that"—

"Oh!" ejaculated the exchange editor, greatly relieved, "I thought you were looking at the thermometer."—Chicago Tribune.

Never Failing Rainmaker.

They watched the sky
For a sign of rain,
But all their watching
Was in vain.

The crops were scorched,
And the grass was brown
And dust six inches
Deep in town.

And when their hope
Was near worn out
A wise man brought them
A waterspout.

He coaxed the rain,
All damp and cool,
With a picnic for the Sunday school.

The Facts Coming Out.

"But," said a citizen of Kilkenny, when the original proposition was made to fasten the two cats together by the tails and hang them over a clothesline, "how long will it take them to kill each other?"

"That," replied the purveyor of the entertainment, shrugging his shoulders, "is only a question of tie 'em."—Chicago Tribune.

A Sad Case.

"I got cheated out of the best part of my vacation this year."

"What was the matter? Wouldn't they let you off as long as usual?"

"Oh, yes, I was away an extra week, but I had to go early in the summer, so I didn't have any chance to look forward to it."—Chicago Times-Herald.

The Charm of Novelty.

Familiar pleasures never seem
To gladden man's dull lot.
We slight the joys we have and dream
Of those that we have not.

If skies were always bright and blue
And days were always warm,
You'd pay your cash, and gladly, too,
To see a thunderstorm.

"If they do," he exclaimed hotly, "they must be pretty small."

And he pressed her still closer to her manly breast.—Philadelphia Record.

You've been laying Christians low;
When this job is finished, oh,
You'll be Li Ping Hanged!

DIRT CLEARANCE.

IT is a good plan for every bather to know something of the soap he uses. There is a well-founded objection to using a floor-cleaning soap upon the human body. Ivory Soap is the bather's soap. It costs more than common soaps, but the difference is in the ingredients and making. Why not treat yourself with a little respect. Is not the human skin with its marvellous delicacy entitled to pure soap? Ivory Soap—it floats.

He Obeyed.

Murat Halstead, the great journalist of wartimes, went to General William T. Sherman's headquarters once for the "latest news from the front." Halstead was armed with many fine introductory letters, but decided to rely mainly on one given him by Thomas Ewing, Sherman's brother-in-law. He found the general and presented Ewing's letter. The general opened it somewhat impatiently, read a few lines, folded it and said:

"Ah, you come from Ewing, and you desire to have 'all the latest news,' the 'next probable move' of our army, eh? Well, there's a train leaving this town for Cincinnati at 2 o'clock. Here, take this ticket, and step over there and get your dinner, and then get on that train."

"Well, but, General Sherman"— began the newspaper man. But Sherman waved him off.

"Go over and get a good dinner; we have plenty and always strive to treat our friends well. But be sure you don't miss that 2 o'clock train!" And Halstead wisely obeyed.

Department on a Car Platform.

He had studied all the rules of courtesy laid down for conductors and had profited by them. He did not intend to be caught napping.

"What car is this?" asked the sweet young thing.

He doffed his cap and gave her a Chesterfieldian bow.

"Madam," he said, "this is car No. 319."

"I mean," she explained, "what is its destination?"

"Madam," he answered with the same courtesy, "it affords me pleasure to be able to inform you that its destination is the car barn."—Chicago Post.

She Was Sensitive.

"Your face is like an open book," sighed Mr. Softleigh to Miss Gooph, accompanying the remark with what he thought was his most winning smile.

"If I had as big a mouth as yours I would not talk about other people's," sniffed the young lady as she flounced out of the room, thus teaching the young man to cling to the good old, unmistakable taffy talk when he desires to be complimentary.—Baltimore American.

THE RELIEF OF PEKIN

Graphically Described In a Dispatch From the Chinese Capital.

Foreigners Had Never Despaired of the Outcome.

Relievers and Relieved Had Undergone a Period of Great Suffering.

London, Aug. 31.—A copyrighted Associated Press dispatch from Pekin, dated Aug. 14, by post via Tientsin, says: A medal will be struck commemorating the siege of Pekin. It will bear the legend: "Men, not walls, make a city."

In the grounds of the British legation, where a handful of men withstood the millions of the Chinese capital for 56 days, a memorial celebration is in progress tonight in vindication of that principle. Missionaries are singing the doxology. Rockets are blazing. Soldiers and civilians of all nationalities are fraternizing. The women are applauding the sound of the cannon that are smashing the yellow roofs of the forbidden city.

The tired Sikhs are planting their tents on the lawn; and the American and Russian contingents are lighting camp fires along the stretch of turf extending beyond the Tartar wall. Through the ruins of the foreign settlement an eager, cosmopolitan crowd is jostling—Indians, Cossacks, legation ladies, diplomats, Americans from the Philippines and French disciplinarians from Saigon, who kept discreetly to the rear while the fighting was in progress, but came conspicuously to the front when looting began.

Only the Japanese, who have earned the first place, are absent. Resident foreigners welcome the luxury of walking about and immunity from bullets. The new comers are anxious to inspect the evidences of a historic defense. These barricades are, after all, the most wonderful sight in Pekin.

The tops of the American and British buildings were badly torn by the Chinese shells. The rest of the foreign settlement was almost demolished. Twenty-eight hundred shells fell there during the first three weeks of the bombardment, 400 in one day. Bucketsful of bullets were gathered in the grounds.

The reception which the survivors gave the army was worth the hardships the troops had undergone. The entrance was not spectacular. Sir Alfred Gaselee, with his staff, and a company of Sikhs waded up a bed of sewage into the canal under the Tartar city wall. The besieged removed the barricades, and when the gates swung inward and the British colors appeared there was a great continuous cheer on both sides.

An hour afterward General Chaffee, riding at the head of the Fourteenth United States infantry, marched to the Tartar wall. Although the Americans entered behind the last of the British forces, their reception was just as enthusiastic as if they had been first.

On entering the grounds of the British legation, the American troops stared in amazement and inquired if there was a lawn party in progress. They had expected to find the relieved in a worse condition than themselves, whereas, the contrast between the appearance of the rescued and the rescuers was surprisingly in favor of the former. British Minister MacDonald was shaven and dressed in immaculate tennis flannels. Mr. Conger was equally presentable. The assemblage of ladies was fresh and bright in summer clothing. Only a few civilians were carrying arms.

On the other hand the rescurers were haggered and rough-bearded. They dragged themselves along as if ready to drop, their khaki uniforms dripping with perspiration and black with mud. But a second glance showed that the rescued were pathetically pale and thin. They looked like a company of invalids. Every part of the enclosure testified to their tragic experiences. There was a plot of new graves, headed with wooden crosses, including the graves of five children. The second secretary's house was the hospital, and it was filled with wounded. French nuns ministered there at one time. All but four men of the Japanese contingent had been in the hospital wounded. There were several caves roofed with timbers, heaped over with earth, which served as bomb-proofs, but were seldom occupied.

The bravery of the women was noteworthy. They became so accustomed to fire that it was difficut to restrain them from walking about the grounds at all times.

The foreigners remarked that the relief had been long delayed, but they insisted that they had never despaired of the outcome. The Chinese are said to admit that they lost 2000 killed during the siege. The foreigners did not waste their ammunition, shooting only when a target was in evidence. The Chinese method, on the other hand, was a continuous heavy and indiscriminate fire. The enemy would advance to the barricades at night, creeping up with their arms filled with bricks, and in the morning the foreigners would find a new wall a few feet closer. Finally the barricades came so close that talking could be distinctly heard.

The last five days marching was the worst. It was a terrible strain. The thermometer kept near 100, and was some days above that figure. The country was deep with sand, and the route lay through shadeless fields of tall, thin corn. The Japanese possessed the greater endurance, and, being provided with the best transport, they made the pace. The Russians held second place most of the time. The Americans and English were pushed to the utmost to keep up.

Victims of Chinese Bullets.

San Francisco, Aug. 31.—The United States transport Thomas has arrived from the Orient with a large number of sick and wounded soldiers, marines and officers. Some of the men who are in the ship's hospital are from the battlefield at Tientsin.

REPUBLICANS OPEN CAMPAIGN.

Issues Discussed Before the Essex Club by Senators Fairbanks and Lodge.

Salem, Mass., Aug. 31.—The presidential campaign in this state as far as the Republicans are concerned was opened yesterday by the Essex club at its summer outing at Salem Willows. From far and near the politicians came, and over 300 of them sat down to dinner.

Senator Fairbanks of Indiana enumerated and compared the principles in the platforms of the two parties, and recited the history of the tariff law enacted during McKinley's administration, claiming that commerce had reached high-water mark during the past three years, and that even greater results were promised if McKinley is re-elected.

Mr. Lodge in his address said: "Mr. Bryan is the paramount example of what he represents. He is the candidate not of a party, as I look at it, but of an aggregation of political groups. The Democratic party in its search after a detached group has finally been swallowed by one of the groups. They went hunting after the Populists and the Populists captured them.

"Stop for one moment and make up in your own mind a cabinet for Mr. Bryan. Would he go for the leaders of the Democratic party whom we have known in the past? Not at all. They are more detested by the present Democratic-Populistic party than the Republicans themselves."

Concluding, Mr. Lodge said there was nothing to dread in the expansion policy of the present day. The American soldier would never uphold a Cesar; it was an insult to him to make such a charge, and the best interests of every citizen would be served by the re-election of William McKinley.

Congressmen Moody, Knox and Roberts made brief addresses upon the issues of the day, and urged earnest support of President McKinley.

Advises Business Men to Wake Up.

New York, Aug. 31.—The Republican club of the city of New York opened the national campaign with a reception to Senator Chauncey Depew, who returned from Europe Saturday last, after a few months' vacation. Senator Depew stated that while he believed President McKinley will be re-elected, he learns that there are no signs of enthusiasm manifested in the election of 1900, and that the business men of the country should be awake to the realization that the election of Bryan means their ruin, and that they should remember that the turtle can overtake the hare.

Won't Interfere In State Quarrel.

New York, Aug. 31.—Ex-Governor Stone, vice chairman of the Democratic national committee, reached this city last evening. He said he had come here to confer with the members of the subcommittee of the national Democratic committee and will open headquarters here. When asked if the national committee would take up the state quarrel he said: "We shall use our efforts to carry this state for Mr. Bryan. We will not interfere in local affairs."

Democrats Are Surprised.

Boston, Aug. 31.—Democratic politicians say they are surprised to learn that John H. Mack of North Adams, the candidate last year, will not allow the use of his name for the lieutenant governorship this fall. Mr. Mack has stated that his withdrawal is due solely to the demands of his practice, and that he will do all he can to aid in rolling up a large vote for Bryan in this state.

Report Lacks Confirmation.

New York, Aug. 31.—Senator Scott discredits a report which reached Republican headquarters to the effect that Arthur Sewall of Maine, Democratic vice presidential candidate in 1896, has declared for Mr. McKinley. Senator Scott wired to Mr. Manley for a confirmation of the report. No answer has been returned.

McSweeney In the Lead.

Columbia, S. C., Aug. 31.—On the returns from about 76,000 votes Governor McSweeney leads in the race for governor by about 3000 votes over James A. Hoyt, the Prohibitionist candidate. It is expected that all returns will be in tonight. Senator Tillman, with no opposition, returns to the United States senate.

Pugilistic Politicians.

Albany, Aug. 31.—Contesting delegations will go to the Democratic state convention from the first assembly district of Albany county, New York, at the convention of that district. A hand-to-hand conflict took place in which furniture was broken and the delegates roughly used.

Irish-American Union For Bryan.

New York, Aug. 31.—The Irish-American union was formed last night at a meeting of Irish-American Anti-Imperialists in this city. Patrick Egan was elected president. Mr. Egan said the new union will be "quasi independent," but in the present campaign will work for Bryan.

Accident'y Killed by Chum.

Worcester, Mass., Aug. 31.—Private Charles H. Burnham of Worcester was accidentally shot and killed by his chum, Private Beller, in Cuba. Word has come to his father giving the facts in the case. The men were cleaning a revolver, when it was accidentally discharged. Burnham was 25 years old.
